"The National Education Association is a political machine," says Upton Sinclair, "maintained by big business to do a certain job in the interests of big business." And this job is the safeguarding of the profits of these business men, and the assurance to them that the schools will continue to turn out a plentiful supply of cheap labor which will not have been stimulated to learn the truth about the profit system.

John J. Tigert, commissioner of education, appointed by Harding, who is directing "education week," said in an address in San Diego that "the increasing tendency to delve into economics and sociology in the public schools comes perilously close to radicalism." Tigert deplores allowing the teaching of truth because it is not capitalist propaganda.

It is 100 Per Cent.

"Only subjects that function in the industry or in good citizenship are taught," we learn in a report to the superintendents of the N. E. A. made last February, in describing a "model" school in Massachusetts. "It is relatively small initial expense in starting such a school. The Beverley industrial school is a part time, regular trade extension school for machinists made possible thru the co-operation of the United Shoe Machinery corporation. The boy is paid in proportion to his production—a whole-some encouragement to effort. The company accepts all perfect work produced. The graduates have to make no adjustments from school to industry.

"The school is distinctly a public school, controlled by a board of trustees. The presence of a representative of the co-operating company on the governing board has proven a very valuable asset. The public schools would do well to follow the lead of this school."

This is the "pioneer" work the National Education Association is doing, and this is the sort of propaganda that is to be spread broadcast on "education week." The schools, if the N. E. A. has its way, are to be diverted from the teaching of the truths of life.

Children Taught Contentment.

The children are to be taught how to be contented laborers for the manufacturers. The children are to be made docile slaves knowing only the mechanical movements necessary to the unskilled trades, and are at all times to uphold the capitalistic profit system, according to the "education week" propaganda.

BORAH SLATED FOR FOREIGN RELATIONS POST

Expected to Fight for Russian Recognition

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Senator Borah will become chairman of the senate foreign relations committee by right of seniority upon the passing of Chairman Lodge. Borah is the foremeost critic of Secretary Hughes' foreign policy as to Russia, Haiti, Nicaragua and China in the ranks of the republican party. His coming to power as head of the committee is a direct threat to Hughes' influence in the new administration.

Borah has kept quiet on the Russian issue during the ticklish period of his own campaign for re-election at the hands of the stampat republicans of Idaho. Now that he has been returned for another term by a big majority, he anticipates early resumption of his public agitation of the issue of recognition of Russia. His resolution of last winter, calling for recognition of the Soviet state, will be brought up in the foreign relations committee in December. It will have the backing of Hiram Johnson and of Henrick Shipstead.

It is evident that Borah will not be able to control his committee. At best he will be able to speak only as a minority leader of the majority party. But he will use the fact of his chairmanship to advantage in attempting to build up public opinion in favor of a sane foreign policy which will reduce the danger of another world war.

BRITISH LIBERAL LEADERS HOLD ON TO CORPSE

They Are Dead But Don't Know It

LONDON, Nov. 11.—Two former liberal premiers, David Lloyd George and H. H. Asquith—in speeches to their liberal supporters today declared the party "cannot be allowed to die even the its representation in parliament is small." They urged the liberals to forget past factional feuds and to present a united front to the enemy in the next election.

Premier Stanley Baldwin, head of the new tory government, returned from Chequers Court to begin a week of active ministerial work. A number of minor posts are to be filled and important questions of policy to be settled.

The cabinet is scheduled to hold its first formal meeting tomorrow, but it may be put off until Wednesday. Russian policy will be the first big issue to be settled.

Sell Railroad for Scrap

SPRINGFIELD, ILLS., Nov. 11.—The Chicago, Peoria and St. Louis Railroad, the largest railroad wholy within the state of Illinois, will be auctioned off for scrap here Nov. 20. The sale is being forced by the New York holders of $2,000,000 first mortgages.

GOVERNMENT SAYS CORN CROP THIS YEAR IS SMALLEST SINCE 1913

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—The American corn crop this year is 668,749,000 bushels short of the 1923 crop, and is the smallest the country has experienced since 1913, the department of agriculture announced today.

Translated into dollars and cents at the market price on October 15, the date on which the report was based, this represents a loss to the American farmers this year of $758,000,000.

The short crop prevails this year notwithstanding a slight increase in acreage.

Not only is the volume cut down, but there has also been a big drop in the quality of the crop, the department announced. Last year the quality was estimated at 79.4; but for 1924 the estimate is only 63.2.

"The corn crop," said the department, "is by a small margin the smallest crop since 1924 and substantially lower than the crops of the last four years, which have averaged over three billion bushels.

"Only 63.2 per cent of the crop is of merchantable quality. This is the lowest per cent of merchantability in the crop of 1924 since 1913 and with one exception."

Bank Shies at Rum Running.

LONDON, Nov. 11.—The Guaranty Trust company of New York today appealed to the courts for an injunction to prevent Sir Broderick Hartwell from issuing any circulars regarding his rum running enterprise which might make it appear that the bank approved his venture.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Ledge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

HUNGER AND NEED IN GERMANY IS DRIVING THOUSANDS TO SUICIDE

By A. L. CONRAD.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent

BERLIN.—In 1923 there were in Prussia 17,000 suicides; of which 1,245 were in Berlin. In the first 37 weeks of 1924 in Berlin 990 individuals killed themselves. The official statistics give as reasons, melancholy, incurable disease, insanity, remorse, shame, vexation, alcohol, passion, unhappy love affairs.

Suicides occur in every country. But the enormous number of suicides in Germany the last few years has been largely due to the fact that hunger and need have stared desperate persons in the face.

Perhaps the greatest number were members of the middle class deprived of their incomes during the inflation period, and unable to work, never having been trained or finding it impossible to obtain employment.

The papers which comment on the statistics admit these figures do not cover all the suicides in Berlin. Persons have been washed out to sea; others have "disappeared" and in many cases friends or relatives have given officials other causes than suicide.

Even in war men may feel that they have a chance. But in modern industrial and social and capitalist civilization chances are few and humans are desperate.

SUN-YAT-SEN IS DANGEROUS TO BRITISH RULERS

Therefore Vicious Campaign of Lies Begins

(Rosta News Service.)
(Special to the Daily Worker)

CANTON, Nov. 11.—Since Dr. Sun Yat-sen raised a vigorous protest against the threats of armed intervention by British naval forces in the internal affairs of China, the papers of Hongkong have been carrying on a vicious campaign against the Canton government and, particularly, against the Kuomingtang leader.

China Colony of England.

The Canton Gazette, in an editorial, puts the question squarely before the reader: "Why does imperialist England pursue President Sun and treat him in effect as if he were a Gandhi struggling for a liberated India or a Zaghlul Pasha fighting for an independent Egypt?" And the Gazette answers: "President Sun holds that China is no more than a semi-colony, if not worse, of England and her imperialist fellow-countries. That is the reality which emerges out of the corpus of England's 'opium' treaties and the protocols which imperialism has imposed on China. And so because China is a semi-colony of the predatory powers, an 'hgiator' like Sun Yat-sen must be suppressed, not, however, by imprisonment in an Indian goal or by banishment to a deadly climate, but by a campaign of lies in the English-written reptile press in Hongkong, Shanghai, Tientsin, and by threats of British naval bombardment on suitable occasions."

Sun Yat-sen Strikes Fear into England

The Gazette points out that by overthrowing the Manchus in China, Sun Yat-sen struck fear into the hearts of imperialist Britain regarding her most important possession, India, which might emulate the work of Chinese revolution. The Gazette emphatically concludes that a successful republic in China must react disastrously on British autocracy in India. Therefore, Sun Yat-sen, whose aim is to realize such a republic, is a danger to imperialist England.

Youngdahl's Victory in Minnesota Cheers Washington Comrades

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Two days after election day the English branch of Washington Local of the Workers Party met and arranged to continue the fight for the establishment of a Soviet government in the United States. The announcement of Comrade Youngahl's victory in Minnesota was accepted as an entering wedge in the fight and hope was expressed that this victorious comrade will come to Washington as a Communist congressman in two years hence.

The feature of the meeting was an address by Comrade Joseph Lapidus, who outlined his revolutionary activities in Russia and in this country. Comrade Lapidus explained that he had become the victim of anarchist propaganda ten years ago and told of his intellectual evolution and final acceptance of Communist doctrine. He pledged himself to devote his untiring efforts to the success of Workers Party aims in the future.

Plan Organization Drive

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Practical cooperation for the organization of the growing knitgoods industry has been arranged between the United Textile Workers' Union and the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union.

Have you heaved your brick?

LEGION MAKING ASS OF ITSELF, SAYS MEMBER

But It Is Dangerous Ass to Workers

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The American Legion is "making a perfect jackass of itself," declared a legionaire, A. A. Berle, Jr., member of the Willard Straight Post, of the legion's dictation of the militaristic, red-baiting program for American Education Week.

Berle spoke from the rostrum of the Community Church at a meeting called by the American Civil Liberties Union and the Teachers' Union to protest against the program which U. S. Commissioner of Education Tigert and the legion have jointly worked out together. The subjects selected for the guidance of American Education Week speakers thruout the country the week of Nov. 17-23 stress attacks on the red flag and Communism and minimize the educational subjects for which the week was supposedly arranged.

Keep Hands Off.

"No propaganda organization," Berle emphasized, "has the right to monkey with education at any time or any place."

Dr. Edward T. Devine, formerly member of the federal coal commission; Professor Robert Morss Lovett of the University of Chicago and Dr. Gilbert J. Raynor, principal of the Brooklyn commercial high school, were among the speakers who attacked the legion's preposterous conception of education.

"It will be a sorry day for us when our teachers are told what to say by the G. A. R. or the American Legion," cried Devine.

"If the legion wants to set about correcting a crime, let them turn their attention to Centralia, Wash., where seven members of the I. W. W. were convicted under duress for an alleged attack on legion paraders," said Robert Morss Lovett.

Pass Two Resolutions.

The audience unanimously passed two resolutions, one calling upon Commissioner Tigert to redraft his program, leaving out references to the red flag and the slogan "stamp out revolutionary radicalism," said to have been written by the legion.

Principal Raynor of the school where Glassberg taught told the audience that the charges against Glassberg were "absolute lies." The original evidence against him included reports of remarks said to have been made in the classroom, but which were grossly perverted, he said. The Liberties Union has prepared a record of the Glassberg case quoting, among other things, the remarks of Arthur S. Somers, chairman of the board which tried him, admitting that "our action was prompted more by passion and a desire to rid the school system of anybody who was not one hundred per cent American, according to existing standards."

Stole Communist Votes in Mining Centers of Illinois

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHRISTOPHER, Ill.—A few towns in southern Illinois show how the election judges massacred the votes for William Z. Foster. Unofficial returns show the following mining camps' vote: Valier, 63; Coello, 40; Christopher, 17; Zeigler, 31; DuQuoin, 39; and Dowell, 10.

Klan Judges Big Mitt

It will readily be seen that the smaller the mining camp the larger the Communist vote. This would be a strange phenomenon except that Communists understand that the K. K. K. election judges looked after the larger towns with special care.

In Christopher, for example, one family alone with several boys and their wives, cast as many votes as were allowed to be reported by the election judges—17. But there are unquestionably hundreds of Communist voters who voted at Zeigler for Foster.

Communist Ballots Spoiled

At Dowell, the ballots seemed strangely marked. Although the circle at the top of the Workers Party ticket was marked with a cross, in some mysterious manner the ballots so marked had most acquired a contradictory string of crosses in front of the whole list of electors for Coolidge!

It seems that the Communist voters did not follow the instruction of the DAILY WORKER in marking the cross in front of every name from top to bottom, but "voted it straight" by marking the circle at the top and letting the rest go. Some people, LaFollette for example, think that the workers can emancipate themselves by this voting game.

• • • •

162 Votes in Pa. County

POTTSVILLE, Pa.—Returns from all Schuylkill county show that Foster got 162 votes for president.

The New York Times is Impressed by the "Flood of Books" About Lenin

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the New York Times, Sunday, Nov. 9, arrives and it is interesting to note that the first page of its "Book Review Section" is given over to an estimate of the "flood of books" now being published in Soviet Russia about Nikolai Lenin.

Here is America's greatest capitalist daily newspaper, probably the most relentless of all the dollar's kept organs, in the war on the workers, admitting that the most important literature of the week, is the work of the biographers of the social revolution's mightiest leader, the stories of the life, the deeds and the achievements of the man who led the struggle that knocked away one of the big pillars supporting the social structure of capitalism.

Nothing worth while in the whole avalanche of literature that annually engulfs the United States during the fall months. No inspiring figures, anywhere over the entire earth, except in Soviet Russia, to urge pens to produce literature, written in one language, but reaching for life in every tongue.

So even the New York Times, traducer of the Russian Bolshevik Revolution, must confess the worth of the greatest event in history, that it so bitterly attacks, and do tribute to the memory of the man who has helped so much to pave the way for the abolition of the social system that it smugly idolizes and tenaciously defends.

• • • • •

Of course the Times must have its fling. It declares that an effort is being made to canonize Lenin in print. But the memory of Lenin needs no sanctifying touch. It will endure forever in the hearts and in the minds of the world's workers. The Times makes much of the claim that $1,000,000 has been set aside by the Soviet Government to help spread the writings about Lenin. If this is true, it may be added that no government printery ever turned out literature so anxiously received and eagerly absorbed by the masses of the people.

Parallel the situation in the United States. Tens of millions of dollars are spent annually, to be sure, upon the Government Printing Office in Washington. But there are 100,000,000 workers and farmers in the United States who have never heard of a printed sheet worth while emanating therefrom.

• • • • •

The Times' review of the Lenin biographies is written by Elias Tobenkin, who laid some claims to revolutionary ideals in his youth, but threw them all aside in his pursuit of a literary career under capitalism. Tobenkin knows how to taint his writings sufficiently to make them acceptable to capitalist publishers. But in learning that trick he put all of his revolutionary ideals on the shelf, where they have been allowed to rot and die. Yet Tobenkin's present effort is like revivifying a cherished but neglected memory—it reverberates a little with the spirit of his own youth.

First it takes a little of natural intution to delve thru six biographies, as Tobenkin claims to have done, and to draw out the kernels of living truth that he has found therein. For instance, he gives us this extract from one of the two volumes written by Em Yaroslavsky:

"What makes Lenin so universally revered in Russia is the fact that he had been able to combine within his person the qualities of a great leader with the simplicity of a common man. Lenin was kin in spirit and in soul to the most backward workingman, to the 'darkest' peasant. • • • Unusually simple he was in his manners, in his ways. When Lenin spoke about the needs of the people the illiterate peasant felt as if the speaker were taking the thought out of his, the peasant's, own mind, was taking the words from the tip of his own tongue."

• • • • •

Then there is the revealing extract from the biography by I. Stalin, entitled "Lenin and Leninism," which will soon appear serially in the DAILY WORKER, in addition to the biography by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red Trade Union International, now appearing in these columns. Stalin tells this story:

"I met Lenin for the first time in December, 1905, and he disappointed me in two ways. Several revolutionists in their writings had spoken of Lenin as a 'mountain eagle' and I expected to come face to face with a man of gigantic dimensions. Instead I beheld a very ordinary-looking man, below medium height. His conduct was even more ordinary than his physical appearance.

"Lenin was to make an address that evening and many of us younger revolutionists had come with beating hearts to see the great leader. In the hall we were constantly gazing toward the door, waiting for the speaker to sweep in majestically. When the time came to open the meeting, the chairman of the evening, who knew Lenin's habits well, began looking about in the corners of the hall. In one such corner he found Lenin absorbed in a discussion with several workmen. The 'hero' of the evening had come to the meeting ahead of his audience. He had come not only to impart information but also to imbibe it in conversation with the plain men about him."

No effort to put Lenin on a pedestal there. Just the plain story of oppressed labor's greatest spokesman, of whom even the New York Times admits, thru its writer Tobenkin, "The last thing he wished was to leave the ranks and step to the front."

• • • • •

The biographies reviewed are the "Life and Work of Lenin" and "A Leader of Peasants and Workers," both by Em Yaroslavsky; "About Lenin and Leninism" by I. Stalin; "On the Death of Lenin" by Gregory Zinoviev, president of the Communist International; "Vol. I. Lenin Collection" edited by L. B. Kamenev, and "About Vladimir Ilyitch" by his widow, N. Krupskaya. All of these books are being printed and circulated by the Russian Soviet Government. The Lenin Collection by Kamenev will run into many volumes. It is stated that Leon Trotsky, Soviet Commissar of War, is writing what will probably be the most comprehensive Lenin biography. One more extract. This from an estimate of Lenin by his widow who tells us:

"Vladimir Ilyitch loved people. He loved them passionately. In London, Paris, in Munich, in short, where ever we happened to be living he would follow the announcements in the newspapers of meetings, gatherings, picnics of working people and would spend much time in going to such places to see how the people in each country lived and what they thought. He had no patience with the comrades who sat in the cafes over a glass of tea and talked the same thing over without end."

• • • • •

This is Lenin, the outcast under the czardom, whose memory is revered and the details of whose life is becoming known even to the most isolated worker or peasant of the far-flung Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The inspiration of his life will in time rouse to action the oppressed of all the nations, to the uttermost corners of the earth.

SOUTH ILLINOIS HAILS RUSSIAN REVOLUTION

Miners Interested in Workers Party

The seventh victorious year of the Russian revolution was celebrated at rousing meetings in the southern Illinois coal belt and despite the tension of the klan menace and the depression brought on by the terribly severe unemployment good meetings were addressed by William F. Kruse at Christopher, Dowell and Zeigler, Ill.

At Christopher the meeting was held in the French Workers' Hall on Nov. 7. The revolutionary movement is badly divided here, many workers who before 1917 considered even the socialist party too radical for them have since developed an anti-political complex of the deepest maroon dye, and call themselves anarchists or syndicalists.

A goodly element however is organized in the English and Slavic Branches of the Workers Party and under the new shop nuclei system of organization they look forward to much more intense and better co-ordinated work, under the leadership of Arley Staples and Pete Allard.

At Dowell the meeting was held on Sunday afternoon, Nov. 9, in the Rex theater, and the size of the crowd was kept down somewhat by an intersectional football game between Marion and Dowell, in a field close by. "Hoof exercise is a whole lot easier for our fellow workers than head exercise," observed the local secretary, Gilbert Rogers.

Meeting Well Attended.

The meeting at Zeigler was postponed from 2 p. m. to 6:30, and a fine crowd assembled in Liberty Hall. In order to make the three meetings auto trips of over a hundred miles were necessary. The chairman, Henry Corbishley, who is president of the local Miners' Union and secretary of the local Workers Party, told of the battles in the union and elsewhere with the klan. It had been arranged that in case no speaker could be sent from the national office local talent would do what they could to fittingly celebrate the great revolutionary holiday. Despite the urging of the speaker, however, they gave up the whole evening to the main speech and a long list of very interesting questions on Russia, the revolution, and the tactics and principles of the Workers Party. In all three towns a growth of party membership and activity is confidently expected to result from these meetings.

Good Collections.

Good collections were taken for the benefit of the DAILY WORKER, Lenin buttons were sold, and DAILY WORKER and Workers Monthly also got a boost in local circulation. Party meetings were announced and those who had slumped in their activity promised to attend and resume their duties.

All three towns were enthused at the proposition of running the new Russian film, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik" and along with West Frankfort and other downstate Illinois camps the film will be run during the last week in November. Any other locals in that district desiring the picture at this time should communicate at once with the International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Employers Hire a Woman Dick to Aid Kill Minimum Wage

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 11.—Calling attention to the recent argument before the California supreme court over the constitutionality of the California minimum wage for women and minors, the women's bureau of the department of labor predicts a decision within 30 days.

Mrs. Edson, executive commissioner of the industrial welfare commission of the state reports that the plaintiff, Helen Gainor, suing to overthrow this minimum wage statute, was identified in the state's information as a typist in the employ of a detective agency at the time the suit was brought. She was trying to secure employment at $5 or $6 a week. Obviously her lawsuit was financed by the employers' organizations.

A brief in defense of the law was filed by the California Federation of Women's Clubs, the California League of Women Voters, the W. C. T. U. of northern and southern California, United Garment Workers' local 125 of Los Angeles, and Waitresses' union local 639 of Los Angeles.

On the basis of the decision of the federal supreme court nullifying the minimum wage law of the District of Columbia, the employers expect to kill the state minimum wage act in California.

SEARS-ROEBUCK YOUNG WORKERS ARE RESPONSIVE

Ask When the 'Young Worker' Will be on Sale

"When will the paper be here?" was the question asked by many of the young workers this morning at Sears, Roebuck & Co. as the members of the Young Workers League passed out a leaflet advertising the Young Worker for sale at the gates today.

Tonight 40 young workers will be on the line selling the special issue as the workers come out of the plant.

Use Roller Skates for Speed Up.

There are 93 mail order houses in the city of Chicago, of which Sears Roebuck & Co. and Motgomery Ward are the largest. In Sears, Roebuck & Co. alone there are about 15,000 people employed, most of them being young workers, and the majority of them girls. These young workers are paid the lowest wages of any of the youth in the city. In some mailing order houses the wages for girls are as low as $10.00 a week, and the best wage is around $18.00 a week. Boys of them receiving around $14.00 a week. The boys fare a little better getting on an average $2.00 a week more than the girls. In the smaller mail order houses the conditions are even worse than in the large ones. In Philipsborn's, a house that employs about 14,000 workers, the wages are about $12.00 for girls, and $14.00 for boys. Some of the workers have to use roller skates in their work.

Volunteers Take Notice.

"A Young Workers' League unit in each of the mail order houses" is the slogan of the Young Workers League. This week they are concentrating on Sears Roebuck & Co and Philipsborn's. The members of branches No. 1, 4, 5 and 6 are working on Sears Roebuck and branches No. 2 and 3 on Philipsborn's. The Young Worker will be sold in front of the factory every morning and evening. The volunteers at Sears are to be at the corner of Arthington and Kedzie at 4:30 p. m. and 7:30 a. m. to sell the Young Worker.

The volunteers at Philipsborn's are to be at Harrison and Paulina at the same time Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. Street meetings will be held at noon. All unemployed are asked to assist in these meetings. For information call State 7985, local office Young Workers' League. The pep with which the Young Workers have started this campaign promises a brilliant success.

Brooklyn to Launch Classes on Teachings of Marx and Lenin

BROOKLYN, N. Y., 11.—All the members of Williamsburg are ready, in addition to other activities, to betake themselves seriously to the task of securing a fundamental Communist education. The Educational Committee, responding to the need and desires of the members and sympathizers of Williamsburg, has decided to conduct three classes: Fundamentals of Marxism and Leninism, Social Forces in American History, and Elementary and Advanced English.

In order to launch this educational program, and to lay the basis for future gatherings for the exchange of Communist knowledge, a special educational meeting has been arranged for Friday, November 14, 8 p. m., at 61 Graham Ave., Brooklyn. Extremely important matters, of interest to all members and sympathizers, will be considered at this meeting. Comrade Juliet Stuart Poyntz and other prominent speakers active in the educational work of the party will address the gathering.

This campaign is the result of the realization that a knowledge of the teachings of Marx and Lenin must be the guide to the activities of the members in the everyday struggles of the workers; and that the effectiveness of our agitation depends upon a clear conception, on the part of the members, of the basic principles of Marxism and Leninism.

All Williamsburg members and sympathizers should set aside all appointments and come to this extraordinary important educational meeting.

River Seine Rises.

PARIS—The river Seine, in flood with the recent heavy rains, rose fifteen inches over night. It has not yet reached its expected maximum.

Secretary Wanted

Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.

J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, Local Chicago
MEMBERSHIP MEETING
Friday November 14
722 Blue Island Avenue
OLIVER CARLSON, speaker.

A review of our mail order house campaign will be made and our program of immediate action will be discussed.

TWO WORKERS ARE EXECUTED IN BARCELONA

Ibanez Continues to Give Out Interviews

PARIS, Nov. 11.—The Spanish military dictatorship executed two rebels as a sequel to the uprising of the Barcelona workers against the regime of Rivera and King Alfonso. Several anarchists are held pending sentence.

The Spanish intelligentsia led by Senor Ibanez deplored the Barcelona affair, presumably because it had a working class flavor. The Spanish ambassador in Paris absolved Ibanez from all blame for the Barcelona uprising tho deploring the writer's attacks on King Alfonso.

Ibanez purposes to introduce his pamphlets into Spain by the underground system and also has the intention of distributing anti-monarchial propaganda by airplane.

Primo de Rivera is said to have 150,000 troops in Spain and approximately 100,000 in Morocco.

CROWE-O'BANNION PACT

(Continued from Page 1.)

gunmen, strikes are broken and pickets are sent to the hospitals, while the uniformed gunmen of the employers also send pickets to the hospitals and to the jails. Only when a gangster kills a policeman, is the fury of the authorities aroused and even then the excitement dies down quickly.

Gunmen Aid Crowe.

Another reason. During election campaigns, the democratic and republican politicians use gunmen to intimidate voters. During the recent elections in Chicago, Dean O'Bannion, hitherto a democrat, deserted to the republicans, got his gunmen together and helped to elect State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe. It is reported that he even went so far as to kidnap some democratic opponents of Crowe and held them captive for several hours. With the aid of O'Bannion's gunmen State's Attorney Crowe carried several precincts usually democratic.

These facts may help to explain the immunity enjoyed by the professional killers in Chicago's underworld. No such immunity is enjoyed by the radical workers whose only crime is trying to organize and educate the working class for the overthrow of the system of society on which vermin like O'Bannion and Crowe flourish.

Drop Indictments.

That it is not at all impossible that O'Bannion and the other gangsters were under the protecting mantle of Robert E. Crowe in return for services rendered, may be learned from the fact, that the indictments drawn by the grand jury against Percy Coffin and Michael Faherty, high lights of the Lundin-Thompson machine during the Thompson administration, were nolle prossed by order of the states attorney, for "lack of prosecution."

This action was taken as a result of a pre-election agreement between Crowe and the Coffin machine. The deal was made when Coffin visited Crowe at the latter's residence prior to the elections. In return for the support of the Small-Lundin-Coffin machine in the so-called fearless foe of crime agreed to drop the indictments against the two men who were charged with getting away with millions in graft.

Had Strong Case.

The special prosecutor assigned to the case by Crowe, assured the states attorney that he had a strong case and could secure a verdict. Crowe simply said: "I am going to nolle prosse in the case."

Further evidence of the connecting link between the state and city government and the underworld is the discovery of a gigantic counterfeiting plot led by Ben Newmark, former chief investigator for the state attorney's office. Newmark and Mike Boyle rendered yeoman service in saving Small's neck in the long litigation by which the state's attorney for Illinois tried to make the governor give an accounting of the funds in his care during his term of office as state treasurer. The labor leader and Newmark were chased over several states by the police but were finally captured and sent to Joliet to serve sentences for contempt of court. They were later pardoned by Governor Small.

A long story could be written of collusion between the gangsters of the underworld and the state and city governments of Illinois.

It is reported that at a recent banquet given in honor of Dean O'Bannion at a Chicago hotel, several officials of the police department were present, and aided O'Bannion and the gangsters to consume the liberal quantities of booze, that brot cheer to the diners and joined in praising the worthy citizen whose rise from poverty to affluence set a good example to others.

O'Bannion left an estate worth at least one million dollars behind him.

'CENSURE' ROAD BUT PUT BLAME ON THE WORKERS

Verdict of the Coroner's Jury Hits Trainmen

The Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad was "severely censured," by the verdict of the coroner's jury which has been inquiring into the causes of the death of ten people in a trolley-train wreck ten days ago.

Altho a switchman, Mathew Gaskett, and two subordinate officials of the company, William Ingraham and William Barber were bound over to the grand jury for manslaughter, the railroad corporation itself was let off with a "severe censure."

Hit at Train Crew.

The coroner's jury laid the blame for the wreck directly to "the careless and improper-management of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad by the trainmen."

The jury declared the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad train crew "violated the city ordinances regulating the size of freight trains and the use of conspicuous lights with the full approval and authority of the superior officers of the railroad, some of whom admitted they did not know of these ordinances. No mention is made of these ordinances in the printed book of rules distributed to the train crews."

But altho the general manager of the railroad, John J. Gillick, admitted he did not know of these ordinances, Gillick was not held. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad was not embarassed by the "whitewashing committee," as the coroner's jury is called by reporters, any more than was necessary.

Denounce Incapacitated Worker.

The jury which called the aged, one-armed towerman, Brahe, at various times, a "drunkard" and a "moron," called Brahe both yesterday, stating he had "imbibed intoxicating liquor and is mentally subnormal and physically disabled."

The officials of the railroad who hired Brahe are censured by the jury, and legislation requiring mental and physical tests of towermen is recommended. There is no recommendation that the wages of towermen, from $50 to $60 a month, be raised to secure better efficiency.

The employes of the railroad are blamed and the directors and stockholders of the company are allowed to go free. "Such a collision could not have happened without negligence on the part of employes, either of the street car or the railroad," said the jury. They evaded the admitted fact that the management of the railroad has approved the violation of city ordinances in the running of their trains, and has paid towermen the lowest possible wages.

Against Track Elevation.

City Engineer John Ericson told the jury just before the verdict that it was not possible to elevate the railroad tracks over street crossings. The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad is thus spared by the city, the necessity of living up to another city ordinance.

Keep It in the Family.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11—The appointment of Theodore Douglas Robinson, nephew of the late President Roosevelt, as assistant secretary of the navy, was announced this afternoon by the White House.

Riff Object to French.

TANGIERS—Abdul Krim, chief of the rebellious Riff tribesmen, has declared the French occupation of the upper Worgha valley an unfriendly act, and an invasion of Riff rights.

A New Feature!

BEGINNING with Thursday's issue of the DAILY WORKER, we will add a new regular feature to our columns.

We will publish a column called "FACTS FOR WORKERS." We will present in plain, terse, simple form certain invaluable facts about politics, government, industry, the international labor movement, working conditions, the Communist International, and working and living conditions.

These facts and figures will be gathered from authoritative sources and presented in such a fashion as to be ready for immediate use by Workers Party speakers, organizers, active trade unionists, and workingmen generally interested in the revolutionary movement. All you have to do is to clip this series appearing in the DAILY WORKER and save them for your use.

Jay Lovestone, director of the Research Department of the Workers Party, will prepare this series.

The first one appearing in today's issue deals with the recognition of Soviet Russia.

FORGET ARMISTICE DAY

(Continued from Page 1.)

imperialism. Some fuss of hero-worshippers was made at the national cathedral where the guy is buried who was elected because he "kept us out of war" until after the 1916 election. But it was a rotten day all around—and the government slaves had to work.

• • •

Paris Gives Minute.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—Imperialist France spent one whole minute today thinking about the occasion of the armistice six years ago. President Doumergue was driven down to the "arch of triumph" under which rest the bones of France's "unknown soldier." There he took off his silk hat and held it reverently over his bulging stomach, registering sorrow at the only place he has any feelings.

The unknown soldier made no objection, tho it is a persistent rumor that it was a German soldier and not a "poilu" who was buried and homaged by France. The soldiers who were not yet dead were lined up along the Champs-Elysees, infantry, cavalry, artillery, marines and guards.

The supply of prospective "unknown soldiers" is reasonably plentiful. However, as French workers are growing increasingly radical, the government is pressing its program for forming an army of 600,000 black and yellow colonials to hold down the native French workers and the subject peoples in Africa and Asia.

• • •

Drain Gives Up Sigh.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind.—Altho James A. Drain, commander of the American Legion issued a stament here yesterday on Armistice day, nobody has been able to understand it.

Drain quite truthfully said "a sigh of relief went around the world" when the armistice was signed six years ago, he even said that killing was the "most abominable of all legalized business." But when he began to say what should be done about it he became incoherent.

Drain said that the day should be "dedicated to peace." It is suspected that he is becoming infected with pacifism in spite of the "Americanization program" spread over the country by the organization of which he is the national commander. Pacifists are very insidious.

As to the means of attaining world peace, Drain advocated "international justice." How this is to be obtained except by proletarian revolution he did not say. In fact upon this point he became as vague as an anarcho-syndicalist discussing revolution. He said "Justice must be automatic." A most amazing solution. Also he added that a world court must be erected, no one can see how that would be automatic, except in making war as it so far has done.

• • •

Puffs of Capitalist Press Bungle Effort To Inflate Chicago

Chicago didn't get very inflated with patriotism over Armistice day, in spite of the puffs given it by the capitalist press.

The board of trade took a day off and many of the brokers and bankers went duck hunting, practicing up their marksmanship for shooting strikers whenever Dawes gets his "Minute Men of the Open Shop" to working smoothly.

The brave soldier boys who were going to make a splurge at Ogden Park decided they would join the Chinese army which don't fight when it rains. Especially the high school boys of the R. O. T. C. were told by their mothers that they didn't raise their boys to get pneumonia.

Peddle Dunk in Factories.

Factory workers, who couldn't make the excuse of going out for lunch at noon, had to listen to a select line of militarist bunk over the radio. It was claimed that 800,000 workers were forced to listen to a speech by Major General George H. Harries. Many protests were made that no time off with pay was given and that all the patriotism was injected during noon hour when it didn't disturb the business.

At Marshall Field's all workers were required to stop for one minute, however, while a bugler blew "taps" and a large flag was unfurled. This is the first minute's rest many of the firm's clerks have been allowed to get this year. Altho the flag was unfurled the enthusiasm of the Marshall Field company did not reach the point of unfurling a raise in pay for the ex-soldiers working for the firm.

Active Picketing in Fifth Week of Strike at Flow-Meters Shop

The fifth week of the strike of the machinists at the Flow-Meters machine shops saw active picketing effectively keeping the potential scabs at a distance. The machinists have been endeavoring to get the toolmakers out to join the other machinists, but so far the toolmakers, dissatisfied and restless, have remained at work. The superintendent of the Flow-Meters plant, evidently perceiving there was no immediate prospect of starting work without giving in to the strikers, has departed on a vacation.

CARLSON TELLS FORUM OF YOUTH LIFE IN RUSSIA

Youth is Taught to Sing While Learning

The Open Forum of the Workers Party, held every Sunday night at the lodge room in the Ashland Auditorium, Van Buren and Ashland, is meeting with marked success.

On Sunday night a good crowd became enthusiastic at the speech of Victor Carlson upon the lives of the working class youth in Russia.

Carlson told how the Soviet schools do not dragoon children into accepting without question anything at all, least of all the forms of their own government. In America the children must accept the idea that all government forms are fixed, final and perfect. In Russia, children are taught to look critically upon their government, to understand that it is a part of all social processes and subject to change.

A Red Army Kid Orderly.

"Even the kiddies in Russia," said Carlson, "take more interest in politics than adults in America. I was interviewing a little chap in a uniform and with a gun strapped on him half as big as he was. He told me he had been with the Red Army as an orderly for four years, after getting away from the white guard who had killed his daddy. He asked me about the Workers Party and finally told me he thot we didn't have a good party as it hadn't overthrown the capitalists yet.

"He told me that as the fronts were liquidated, what Russia needs is good Communist managers for industry now, instead of so many soldiers, so he was going to school. He had his arms full of books on political science. And he was about 12 years old, a typical product of revolutionary children in Russia."

The Work Schools' Function.

The Young Communist League of Russia has 840,000 members, Carlson said, and is trying for a 1,500,000 next year. It is much larger than the Communist Party. Educational programs of the Soviet government are always submitted to the Young Communist League before final passage. The league has much administrative power over everything concerning the young people.

In Russia, says Carlson, a new form of school, the "work school," is developed. It combines theory with practice and it is even more effective in wiping out the division line between manual and mental labor. There is coming to be no barrier between them in Russia. Production is understood as a social effort. Individualism flourishes best in the comprehensiveness of communal thinking.

No Child Labor in Russia.

Under sixteen, labor is not allowed. Even between sixteen and eighteen only rarely. Then only six hours a day, part of which must be educational study. But all time is paid. Communal farms are springing up everywhere, largely conducted by young Communists, teaching modern methods to the backward peasant masses. Communist youth do the educational work in the armed forces. 70,000 are in the Red Army, teaching the peasant soldiers to be capable workers as well as giving them political training.

Y. W. L. Take Notice.

The Communist youth helps to maintain the high spirit of the workers generally when they are weary from the strain demanded of them by the struggle in its hardest days. They help to hearten the tired and cheer the discouraged. They are not afraid to sing. Indeed they are always singing.

The league, like the party in Russia, is based upon the job. It is a political organization functioning in the factories. All difference between worker and intellectual is being dissolved by making the two combined in case and every worker capable of absorbing and developing knowledge, said Carlson. His speech aroused great interest and many questions and speeches from the floor.

He Knew How to Win

BALTIMORE, Nov. 11. — Colonel John Phipp Hill, who was re-elected to congress by the greatest majority in the November 4, elections in Maryland, was brought to trial on charges of violating the Volstead act.

Adolph Fischer

By an error of omission the name of Adolph Fischer, one of the Haymarket martyrs of 1887, was left out of the front page story yesterday telling of that tragedy and what it meant to labor. Fischer accompanied Parsons, Spies and Engels to the scaffold and was murdered by the hangman of Cook county as were they.

I. W. W. CONVENTION OVER

(Continued from Page 1.)

written by Fritz Kater of the Berlin International.

Facts Disprove Wellinder.

While Wellinder's report was being read, saying that "the industrial field is the only ground where both classes meet," news arrived from Seattle that Sheriff Tipp Conn of Skagit county and a large force of armed deputies had deported 300 I. W. W. striking construction workers from Concrete, Washington, and that three companies of militia under Major Thom were held in readiness to answer any call from Lieut. Headlee on the strike scene at Concrete.

"Revolutionary" Like Gary.

Wellinder's endeavor to put a revolutionary front on a reformist organization was clear when he said that the I. W. W. is revolutionary insofar as it "takes cognizance" of the revolutionary changes that have taken place on the industrial field and "conducts its activity in conformity to those changes." The steel trust or the boss who is on the lookout for new machinery better to exploit the workers, or even the Y. W. C. A. might be "revolutionary" according to this definition.

In this respect Wellinder opened the door wide for class collaboration, in fact he accented it by implying that the working class and the employing class have something in common by negatively stating that "There is no common ground upon which the employing class and the working class can meet and do meet except in the industries." Some delegates intimated that this was a queer way to interpret the first clause of the preamble.

Why a Convention?

The anarchist veneer became rather thin when he stated that "by the term direct action we emphasize our opposition to any and all forms of delegated power, whether it be to politicians or to labor leaders who likewise proclaim themselves representatives of labor" and so on. If this is Wellinder's real opinion it is strange why he grabbed all the delegated power he could get, to come with his trunk to Chicago and sat in a convention of "delegated power."

Perfectly Good Natured War.

Wellinder asserted that "the class war is a grim reality." However, he said, "When we advocate the carrying on of a class war directly at the point of production and by the workers themselves, we by no means infer that this is to take the form of a violent encounter." When the wobblies deported from Concrete threaten to go back they merely want to return and tell Sheriff Thom and Lieut. Headlee that they mean no harm and have come back only to discuss the price of snuff and agree that the Communists are obstinate and violent people.

"Don't Want to Rule Society."

"The I. W. W.," said Wellinder, "has no intention whatever to become a ruling power in society." This is exactly the philosophy of a craft union labor faker and could well have been uttered by Gompers. It is an acceptance of capitalism. That this view is a confused outlook is, however, shown by his later statement that "the ultimate aim of the I. W. W. is to abolish all class society." How a subject class which accepts capitalism and does not struggle for power as a ruling class can accomplish the abolition of classes or anything else is a syndicalist mystery.

Millenium Here Now—?

"The I. W. W.," asserted Wellinder, "hates nobody, capitalist or employe. But we do hate and abhor the present system." If the wobblies at Concrete and Natron Cutoff only sing, "Oh, I love the boss, he's a good friend of mine" enough, the scabs, sheriffs, troops and bosses will all join and go out to capture the elusive "system."

As a part of the conversion of Wellinder to christianity, he said that "The time of violent revelutions is something of the past." Just what facts he had in mind is hard to guess. Certainly the Communists would like to have Wellinder point out the particular spot on this earth where a revolution has been accomplished by brotherly love at the point of production or elsewhere. Perhaps on some other planet of this or other solar systems Wellinder's plan may work. However, as the whole convention was confused, after Mann had sharply criticized Wellinder's report the whole matter was referred to the next G. E. B.—which is to bury it.

Upon nominations for general secretary-treasurer, the highest vote was given to Ed. Delaney, J. I. Turner and Arthur Coleman, in the order named.

Calles is Back Home.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 11.—President-elect Calles returned to the capital today after a trip to the United States and Europe.

COMMUNISTS CELEBRATE VICTORY OF SOVIETS IN SPITE OF FASCISTI

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Nov. 11.—In spite of the decree prohibiting all political meetings and demonstrations, enthusiastic meetings and parades in honor of Soviet Russia were held in almost every city of Italy on the Seventh Anniversary of Soviet Russia.

In Palermo and in Catahia, thousands of workers marched thru the streets, carrying the red flag and singing "The International."

With the end of Mussolini's rule a matter of a few months at most, the Fascist officials are deserting the premier as rats desert a sinking ship. Both Luigi Federzani, minister of the interior in the cabinet, and General Di Giorgio, minister of war, handed in their resignations yesterday. Hundreds of minor officials have done likewise.

Unita, daily organ of the Communist Party of Italy, which was brought to trial by Aldo Finzi for its exposure of the graft and corruption in government circles, has been acquitted. Not only were the facts printed in the paper undeniable truth, but officials feared the fury of the workers if the paper were suppressed.

G. Invernizzi, editor of Avanti, organ of the Maximalists, was given a jail sentence of one year on charges brought by Finzi.

Northside English Branch to Discuss Shop Nuclei Monday

Shop nuclei organization, or the Workers Party organized in the shops, factories and mills, will be discussed at the open meeting of the North Side English branch next Monday night, 8 o'clock, November 17, at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted St. Comrade Martin Abern, secretary of the Workers Party, Local Chicago, will be the speaker. Shop nuclei are the burning necessity for the Workers Party for the carrying on of the daily struggle and for the goal of Communism. Our party has commenced to reorganize on the shop nuclei basis. It is necessary. To find out why, be sure to attend the meeting Monday night, and bring your friends.

Fighting in Brazil.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PORTO ALLEGRE, Brazil — The state forces were victorious in a battle with revolutionaries in western Rio Grande Do Sul, according to announcement of the government today.

The International Workers' Aid

helps wives and children of imprisoned workers.

There Are 383,200 Workers Imprisoned In Europe

In Germany	7,000
Italy	8,000
Spain	23,000
Belgium	2,300
Lithuania	200
Latvia	500
Finland	1,200
Poland	12,000
Hungary	70,000
India	253,000
Roumania	3,000
Jugo-Slavia	3,000

Will You Help Them?

We send legal and material assistance and we print the true facts about White Terror.

OUR AIM

To give aid to all needy workers and class war victims of the laboring masses without conditions, without political discrimination, whenever and wherever the existence of a working class is menaced by natural or economic catastrophe or by political oppression.

International Workers' Aid,
19 So. Lincoln Street,
Chicago, Ill.

Enclosed is my contribution to aid the needy workers of .....

their wives and children, and to help print more true facts about White Terror victims.

Name.....

Address.....

City.....

State.....

INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' AID

WORKERS COLLEGE HEARS KRUSE AND HERSTEIN DEBATE

Four-cornered Speech is Turned into Debate

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WAUKEGAN, Ill., Nov. 11.—Failure of republican and democratic representatives to show up transformed what was to have been a four-cornered speech making contest into debate on "Communism vs. Progressivism," with William F. Kruse representing the Workers Party and Lillian Herstein defending LaFollettism. The debate was held under the auspices of the Workers' College of Waukegan (Ill.), and the president of the Lake County Central Labor Union, Mr. O. L. Stanley, made an excellent chairman. Mr. Stanley is also Lake County Organizer of the A. F. of L. and local leader of the LaFollette forces.

Kruse Speaks First.

After several excellent musical numbers and introductionary remarks concerning the college and its plans, Kruse was introduced as the first speaker. He stated that there would be many things concerning the evils of the present capitalist system which the other speaker would be in complete agreement—altho this did not hold true of all of the 157 varities of LaFollettelites that might have been sent to defend the progressive position Each of the old parties based their appeal for support on the glories of the past—Coolidge upon Lincoln, Davis upon Jefferson and Jackson and now LaFollette upon "1776." In so doing they really cited epochs of class struggle in which class power at the time did pass from one dominant group to another. The Communists looked to the past only for its lessons, their epoch was in the present, their proposed class power by the workers was a program not for 1776 but for 1924 and 5 and 6 and as long as was necessary until the struggle would be won.

Bob for "Interest" and Profit

Conditions under which workers live under capitalism were cited—unemployment, child labor, bankrupted farmers, oppressed subject peoples, war, and imperialism. These things were inherent in capitalism, which Coolidge and Davis openly and admittedly supported. He then read from LaFollette's speeches and campaign material showing the Wisconsin senator to favor both "interest" and a "good round profit" and therefore in favor of the system that produced them and their attendant evils.

LaFollette's remedy against these abuses was the busting of the trusts, a program as impossible as it was undesirable, and one which Harding and Daugherty had used more than the progressives who advocated it. In actual practice LaFollettism sought to "regulate" the trusts—and watched them get fat on the treatment. The Communists recognized in the trust a highly organized finance machine, the finest thing in the world for those who owned it—the remedy lay not in smashing the machine but in achieving working class ownership thereof.

Progressivism in Practise

Kruse then went into the actual achievements of progressivism during twenty years of power in Wisconsin showing by statistics and friendly admission that most of the capitalist evils: low wages, long hours, child labor, smashing unions, and the use of state force against the workers through courts and militia, were actually worse in "progressive" Wisconsin than in reactionary strongholds. He analyzed the function of the state and pointed out that anyone who believed in capitalism was certain to use all powers of the capitalist state in defense of the present system. The case of sugar strikers on the Hawaiian plantations of Rudolph Spreckles, an ardent LaFollette backer, was cited—"Can you imagine Bob being so ungrateful to his friend and financial backer as to remove the troops sent by Coolidge to break that strike? Never! Bob is above all things loyal to his friends—and to his class."

LaFollette's Service to Master Class.

Conditions were ripe for this year for the formation of a labor party. Heavy unemployment, a farm crisis, and an exceptionally rotten oil-graft scandal that hit both old parties. Instead of helping organize this party, LaFollette had been the one man to do the will of the master class in preventing the organization of a class party. He had done more, wherever there were such parties in existence he tried to put them out of business, and even labor leader representation on his executive committee, two out of eleven (to say nothing of rank and file representation), was no greater than either Coolidge or Davis could boast of. He was all things to all people, republican in Illinois, democrat in Montana, socialist in California—and pro-capitalist-system everywhere.

Those elements that looked to this wierd conglomeration of his support to crystallize into a class labor party after the election were chasing rainbows. Parties are organized on the basis of class interests and for an immediate fight—this gamut that runs from Vanderlip to Gompers to Hillquit could not lay the basis for a class party if they would and would not if they could. The Communist call to the workers to organize for class power, expressed in a Workers' Republic, the only slogan of interest to the workers in this campaign.

Lili Tells Some Good Ones

Miss Herstein opened her speech by saying that as long as "poor old Bob" had been blamed for everything that ever happened in Wisconsin, he should have been charged with responsibility for the flu epidemic as well. She sought to brush away the facts and figures cited on living conditions there by a pair of funny stories on percentages and averages.

"Suppose there are mistakes in Bob's record," she said, "the only reason why there are none in Fosh's is because he has no record. It's easy for a political infant to have a clean slate."

Hillquit Gets His

The Communists' aims were all right but their technique was all wrong. They didn't understand American psychology. Their tactics were all right for Russia but not here. American workers were militant, to be sure, but they were not radical. They would just as soon shoot one another in a Klan outrage as in a battle against scabs. They re-elect Gompers year after year, if they do that what chance is there for a revolution? Or revolutionary spirit? We must take more cognizance of "national psychology"—a worker comes over from Europe, works a while, belongs to the union, then becomes a boss and one of the bitterest fighters against the workers. She took a crack at Morris Hillquit, an ardent LaFollette fan, by using him as a horrible example of rotten "psychology," no working class instincts, he charges a labor union $5,000 for a single case!

She wanted a labor party, tried to get it with socialists, but they were good for nothing except baiting "reds." Tried to get it with Communists—that broke up, blame was 50-50. Now trying to get it with LaFollette. Try anything once, for Roosevelt in 1912, Wilson 1916, Christensen 1920, now for Bob. Cannot organize a labor party under Communist influence because workers are too well satisfied. Have not suffered enough. LaFollette was against war and Wheeler was brave enough to defend Dunne. Anyway, don't vote for Coolidge or Davis.

Kruse in Rebuttal.

Kruse in rebuttal evened the score on funny stories by telling one that explained the function of the funny story as an answer to fact and figure. The Wisconsin conditions were exposed to show the failure of "progressivism" in practise, not to condemn a man. LaFollette voted against war with Germany, but for every appropriation bill that made the war possible. Furthermore in 1898 he was a rabid imperialist favoring the seizure of the Philippines as a wedge to the Asiatic market. Would LaFollette oppose a war with Japan over the Chinese market?

Wheeler stood by "my friend, Bill Dunne," perhaps, but he also stands by his friend, Senator Walsh, who wrote the Montana criminal syndicalist law. Friendship is a weak reed when opposed to class interest. The Communists would have accepted LaFollette as the candidate of a labor party, if it is true, but only on a labor platform, under labor control. "American psychology" was piffle used by reactionaries to divide the workers, a good slogan for Coolidge and the Klan. To talk to American "Labor" you must speak a hundred different languages and "Communism" sounds the same in all. As to trying anything once, Miss Herstein had not taken just one sample of political "dope" she had taken the whole catalog and was in the market for more. Now it was LaFollettelism, admittedly not a labor party, but "for just this once something just as good." Rebuttal was wound up with another story that carried a sharp sting and left the audience rocking with laughter.

Miss Herstein Becomes Serious.

In her final rebuttal, Miss Herstein used no more stories. Communists theorize too much, they know books but she knew the workers and they weren't Communists. Foster was a good economic organizer, but the stigma of being a Communist kept him out of the work he was best fitted to do. Maybe LaFollette was an imperialist in 1898, that was long ago. Where was Foster then? Maybe not even born yet. There was a big difference in national psychology, even in members of one race. Take German Jews and Russian Jews; the former, thanks to their education, soon became rich while the latter became sweatshop slaves. Communists were right when they tried to hammer away at the need for class consciousness, class action, class party—but workers were too well satisfied. Anyway no worker should vote for Coolidge or Davis.

COMRADE LICHACHEV IS DEAD

By M. A. SKROMNY.

THE newspapers just received from Russia brought the sad news: Comrade Vasily Lichachev died at Kislovodsk.

COMRADE VASILY LICHACHEV

Who was Comrade Lichachev?

To the old timers in the Russian colony in the United States he was well-known, altho he stayed in this country only a few years.

Escapes Exile in Siberia.

Way back in 1910 after spending years in the different jails of the czar's government, Comrade "Vlas" as he was known in the revolutionary movement in Russia, was exiled to Siberia. He did not stay there very long. Together with another comrade he escaped, walking many miles to the Chinese border. Making their way thru Japan they finally arrived in this country in 1912. But the guardians at the gates suspected them being "anarchists" and they were held up by the immigration officials. The Russian colony took up the matter and after a stiff fight they were finally admitted.

Comrade Vlas at once became active in the revolutionary movement. He was broke, without a cent, but he made his way, mostly on foot, from Seattle to Chicago. It took him about a year to reach Chicago, speaking at every point he touched. Here he worked as a window washer on Milwaukee Ave., as a janitor on Division St., etc. He joined the Russian federation of the socialist party and went around the country delivering lectures, organizing new branches, etc. Later on he became a member of the editorial board of the Russian daily, Novy Mir.

Returns to Russia With Trotsky.

He did not stay on this job very long, for as soon as the revolution broke out in Russia he left this country together with Comrade Trotsky, who was then editor of the Novy Mir. In Russia he joined the fight against the Kerensky government and actively participated in the October revolution which brought about the creation of the Soviet government. Since then he held different responsible positions in the government and in the party.

Delegations from many unions, from the Moscow Soviet, the government institutions, etc., met the body when it arrived in Moscow from Kislovodsk. The funeral was held on October 26 in Moscow.

His memory was honored by the workers of Russia and will be honored by the Russian workers in this country.

S. P. and I. W. W. at Red 7th Meet in Mo. Ask Many Questions

(Special to the Daily Worker)

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 11.—Our Red Seventh of November was a success. The crowd followed the speaker closely and greatly enjoyed the comic relief given by the questioners.

An old socialist derelict—who resolutely refused to buy any literature—wildly asked who dares say the S. P. and the Second International are not r-r-revolutionary?

A man who has trumpeted the I.W.W. slogans for many years—and gone to jail for them too—rose to say: "The bosses know their stuff. When they fight LaFollette, does that not prove that he is for a better society for the poor?"

This fellow worker has been circulating "liberal" petitions at a penny a signature and it seems his political views went with the sale.

Court Upholds Anti-Klan Law.

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 11.—The Walker law, aimed at the Ku Klux Klan by the state legislature, is constitutional, according to a decision handed down today by Justice Charles A. Pooley in supreme court. The law requires filing of membership of secret societies with state officials.

Must Prepare for Next War.

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Officials of the New York stock exchange said today that the exchange would not close Armistice Day, Tuesday, November 11, unless Governor Smith proclaimed it a legal holiday.

MINERS SUFFER WHILE LEADERS LIVE AT EASE

Illinois Coal Diggers in Dire Necessity

By TOM PARRY.

The miners of this vicinity are today living in a dark and dismal world. In the days of chattel slavery the white slave owner used to hire a white taskmaster to drive the black slave to his task. With the advent of capitalism this becomes unnecessary.

Under the system whereby a few men own the tools of production, that is, the hoisting engines, the rails, the pit cars, etc., which we miners have to use before we can earn our daily bread, all these tool owners have to do is to blow a whistle that he is willing to allow us to use his tools in return for profits, and we freemen (?) would run to the mines. But alas, of late this has changed.

The writer lives in the midst of a vast coal field. Two years ago I could arise from my bed at 5:30 in the morning and hear the whistles of nine different mines calling the miners to work; to wit: West mine in Virden, North mine in Virden, Lefton mine in Auburn, Old mine in Auburn, Thayer mine, Panther Creek mine, South mine in Auburn, Divernon mine and Pawnee mine.

Six of Nine Whistles Silent.

Today only three of the whistles blow, which are North mine in Virden, South mine in Auburn and Panther Creek mine. The other six stand motionless. But what of the thousands of miners who answered the whistles of these six motionless mines two years ago? Are they motionless? No, for that would mean death. They are leaving the mining camps in the early hours of the morning looking for jobs. Some get odd jobs, others get jobs building hard roads. The going wage is 38c per hour.

The Vain Search for Work.

The majority of them tramp back to the camps footsore and heartbroken, back to their wives and families who are laden with debt, back to the same families who two years ago listened to these whistles calling their sons and husbands to work and regarded it is music to their ears. Today they sit in despair, listening for their husbands and sons coming up the walk, hoping to hear them say, "At last I have a job."

How it Happens.

Why all this misery for the working class? Things were not always this way nor always will be. We live in a world of change and a great change has come to the mining industry and this is the way it came about. In 1916 previous to America entering the world war, there were less than six thousand coal mines in America.

In no doing there were practically no thousand extra mines opened up in America, for statistics show that when the armistice was signed, we had eleven thousand coal mines in America. The moment the armistice was signed, the British coal operators were successful in reducing the British coal miners back to pre-war wages after a bitter struggle.

Naturally British coal operators took back the foreign market from the American coal operators, which left the American coal industry fifty per cent over developed, based upon eight-hour hoist.

The Convention Fight.

I was one of a very few of the delegates at the last miners' International Convention, who worked and voted against the present miners' contract. At every opportunity in that Convention, Hindmarsh, Watt, Thompson, Tumulty and myself, all of whom voiced our sentiment against this present agreement, which means a three year contract with only work for half our membership, also pointing out that if we demanded a six-hour day and had to throw all of our membership into the fight for a few months, it would be much better than putting one-half of our membership out of the industry for all time to come.

Officials Knife Demands.

In the last miners' convention the membership expressed themselves in no uncertain terms as to what our organization's future policy should be when they sent hundreds of resolutions demanding a shorter work day. But was that the policy adopted? Oh, no! A policy just the reverse was adopted when the scale committee, composed absolutely of officers and not one miner, recommended that we do not even ask for a shorter work day but that we ask for the same old contract for three years, in spite of the fact that not one resolution, not one man from the pits ever asked for the same old contract, including the eight-hour day.

Surely this program of misleadership in the miners' organization has brought upon us a time that tries workers' souls. Also a time has just passed by that should have tried our brain. The time is here again when we must think for ourselves. If we do not we will be completely lost. We, the men in the mines, must control our own organization and not a few autocrats who call themselves officers.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Wednesday, Nov. 12.

Enlarged Executive Council, 8 p. m., 166 W. Washington St.

Cz.-Slov. Cicero, 57th Ave. and 22nd Pl., Cicero, Ill.

Czecho-Slovak No. 3, Vojt Naprastek School, 3560 South Homan Ave.

Cz.-Slov. No. 1, Spravedlnost, 1825 S. Loomis St.,

Thursday, Nov. 15.

Mid City English, Emmet Memorial Hall, Ogden and Taylor Ave. William F. Dunne speaking on "Executive Committee C. I. Report."

Lithuanian No. 2, 1900 S. Union avenue.

Cz.-Slovak No. Berwyn, Sokol Oak Park, Roosevelt and Union Ave.

11th Ward Italian, 2439 S. Oakley Boulevard.

Scandinavian Lake View, 3206 N. Wilton Ave.,

Scandinavian West Side, cor. Cicero and Superior St.

Scandinavian Karl Marx, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Friday, Nov. 14.

Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 61st St.

Lettish Branch, 4359 Thomas St.

* * *

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.

Friday, Nov. 13.

General membership meeting, 722 Blue Island Ave. Review of factory campaigns, etc. Oliver Carlson, speaker.

Danish Army and Navy to be Used Against Workers

COPENHAGEN, Nov. 11.—The announcement that Denmark intends to disarm and cease building war vessels which has caused much comment in the capitalist press recently, is declared by Communists to be a typical bague of nations bluff.

Neither the army nor the navy of this small country has ever been much of a menace of world peace, and the fact that both the army and the navy are now to be used for "police" purpose means merely that they have been taken over by the Danish capitalists to be used against the Danish workers. Meanwhile the government dock yards are seeking everywhere to obtain orders to build submarines and war vessels for other countries.

Cleveland Comrades Who Like to Dance Better Take Notice

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Big coming dance to be held by the Jewpreparations are under way for the ish branch of the Workers Party and the Young Workers League Saturday evening December 30, at the Knights of Phythias Temple at 706 E. 105th street, near St. Clair.

All sympathetic organizations in Cleveland are asked to keep that date open.

Watch for further announcements!

BRITISH BOSSES STEAL INVENTOR'S SAFETY SYSTEM

Plans Kept One Week Then Thrown Out

(Special to the Daily Worker)

GLACE BAY, Nova Scotia, Nov. 11.—An inventor, John Pogorly of Montreal is apparently the victim of the usual corporation methods used against men of mechanical genius. The British Empire Steel Corp., exploiter of labor in coal mines and steel mills, invited him to come from Montreal to demonstrate his mine safety system and other devices. He was guaranteed all his expenses and compensation for any information.

Pogorly arrived at the offices of the corporation and immediately consulted the various heads. The officials brought all persuasive powers to bear on the inventor to get him to leave his plans with them for a week. He refused. However after much ado he consented to leave them for a few hours. Being a foreigner he was not accustomed to the strategy of the company officials, and after many trips to the company office he was not given his plans until two days later.

Pogorly alleges that the company had ample time to copy his plans. The company declares that the safety system cannot be applied to Nova Scotia mines, and they will have nothing more to do with the inventor. They will not even pay his expenses as guaranteed him.

Pogorly has been advised from Ottawa that if his safey system is proved of value to human life then government pressure can be brought to bear on mining companies refusing to instal such systems.

YOU CAN'T KID ME.

You may kid others
You may even kid yourself
But YOU CAN'T KID ME.
If you don't go to STUDY CLASS
You are lacking as a Communist.
Why are you against Capitalism?
By going to STUDY CLASS you can learn
How the workers are exploited.
A Party STUDY CLASS is held every Wednesday,
At 2613 Hirsch Boulevard
Subject: Elementary Marxian Economics."
Teacher—Earl R. Browder, Member C. E. C. of the Workers Party
And Editor of the Workers' Monthly.
It's not too late to join now.
Come tonight, Wednesday.
YOU CAN'T KID ME—(The studious kid.)

Jury Probes Poison Gasoline

ELIZABETH, N. J.—A grand jury is investigating the deaths of five workers employed by the tetrasthyl lead plant of the Standard Oil Co. at Bayway. Supreme court Justice Kalisch said if the company had not warned the workers of the dangers of lead poisoning in the work, then the company failed in the discharge of its duties." Thirty other workers are still ill from the effects of poisning.

In Memory of our Teacher

THE MARK OF A LENINIST

This bronze, art medallion button of Nicolai Lenin—one inch in size—and of beautiful design—you will want for yourself and as a gift for your friends.

If you don't already own one of these life-lasting medallion buttons—by all means

BUY IT FROM THE DAILY WORKER AGENT IN YOUR CITY!

50 Cents Each

Add 5 cents for postage if you wish to have it by mail

From _____

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

Enclosed find $..... for ..... Lenin Buttons.

Name: .....

Street: .....

City: ..... State: .....

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, NOV. 15

1. The British Elections.....By T. H. Wintingham, Associate Editor of "Workers' Weekly"
2. The Red Soldiers' Manual—First Installment.....By Leon Trotsky
3. Sound the Alarm—An Analysis of the Election Results.....By Alexander Bittelman
4. American Intervention in Europe.....By I. Stalin, Secretary Russian Communist Party
5. Keeping Them Young and Red.....By Max Shachtman, Editor, "Young Worker"
6. Anatole France, the Comrade.....By Charles Rappaport
7. Problems Facing the American Federation of Labor Convention.....By J. W. Johnstone
8. How Much?.....By Robert E. Dunbar

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

On the News Stands Now!

The November First issue of the great, new Labor journal

The Workers Monthly

Combining the Liberator, Labor Herald and Soviet Russia Pictorial

Edited by Earl R. Bowder.

This new leader in the field of American Labor magazines begins in this issue the first installment of a classic of Communist literature

"The History of the Russian Communist Party"
By Gregory Zinoviev

Other noted contributors including William Z. Foster, C. E. Ruthenberg, Molesaye Olgin, William F. Dunne, James P. Cannon, Alexander Bittelman and others.

International Events--Photographs--Cartoons

Single Copy 25 Cents
Subscription: $2.00 a Year $1.25 Six Months

Official Organ of the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League

USE THIS BLANK

THE WORKERS MONTHLY
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

For the enclosed $..... send me THE WORKERS MONTHLY for.....months.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

CITY ..... STATE.....

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

PHILADELPHIA TEXTILE BARONS ARE ORGANIZED

Have Organized First Class Spy System

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 11.—The value of organization for the employers was brought out in a report of the four year activity of the Philadelphia Textile Manufacturers' Association, prepared by William J. Wall, of the Nicetown Dye Works. Five hundred and thirty textile mills have been served by the association and employment records for 132,000 workers have been accumulated and placed on file for reference of manufacturers without cost.

This data on the 132,000 workers gives the duration of their stay on each job and their general record. It furnishes a valuable guide to the labor manager seeking a labor personell which will give the largest production at least cost. The list also classifies the workers according to trade, ranging from common labor to the technical force.

Nearly all the Philadelphia textile manufacturers operate on the open shop basis. Members are enthusiastic in acclaiming the value of the labor record service furnished by the association. In the last fiscal year 48 more textile manufacturers joined the body and the total gain in membership in the last four years is 351 per cent.

Philadelphia unionists say that blacklisting of their fellows has proceeded more effectively since the bosses organized.

Web Pressmen Negotiate raise

DETROIT.—Under the recently negotiated scale the organized web pressmen of Detroit will receive $44 a week, an increase of $3. After one year an additional $1 a week is given. The man in charge of the press will get $50 a week. Apprentices will get the highest scale in the country, $4 a day for the first apprentice year, $5 a day for second and third and $6 a day for fourth and fifth years, when they will become fullfledged journeymen entitled to the regular union scale.

Parisian Suburbs Under Water.

PARIS, Nov. 11.—A number of suburbs were inundated today by floods in the Seine and Marien rivers. Both rivers are out of their banks, having risen a foot and a half in 24 hours.

NEARLY TWO SCORE WORKERS HURT IN EXPLOSION AT GLUE FACTORY

LONG ISLAND CITY, N. Y., Nov. 11.—Five workers are seriously injured and 30 hurt from the explosion of volatile liquids in the mixing room of the U-Glu Manufacturing company, makers of rubber cement. A two-story brick building with concrete extension was wrecked by the blast and the adjoining factory of the Liquidmeter company, manufacturers of liquid level gauges, was damaged. Spontaneous combustion was the cause of the explosion according to Hollis I. Sloman, owner of the glue factory, and police and fire department investigators agreed.

CHANGE FOR BETTER SEEN IN NEW BUDGET FOR SOVIET UNION

Before the revolution the financial year in Russia coincided with the calendar year. In 1922 this was altered. In an agrarian country such as Russia, the condition of the whole national economy and of the state finances depends for the greater part upon the result of the harvest. For this reason the financial year in the Soviet Union is now reckoned from the first of October to the following first of October. By this time it is possible as a rule to gain an idea of the agricultural and economic prospects for the approaching year. There is now being published in the press the trial budget of the Soviet Union for 1924-25. The total amount of this budget compared with those preceding is as follows:

1922	1,000 million roubles
1922-23	1,388 million roubles
1923-24	1,850 million roubles
1924-25	2,050 million roubles

Avoids Paper Money.

The budget for 1924-25 differs from all previous budgets in Soviet Russia in that it is the first budget which avoids the issue of paper money. The preceding budgets (since 1914) could only cover the greater part of their expenditure by the issue of paper money.

Amount of the emissions for budget purposes:

	Million rubles	Percentage of the total budget
1921-22	350	43.7
1922-23	387	41.5
1923-24	185	15.6

Year	Taxes	Income from state property and state undertakings (In million roubles)
1921—22	450	——
1922—23	405	57
1923—24	423	153
1924—25	832	203

Deficit Reduced One-third.

Two years ago the deficit comprises almost half of the total budgets; in the present financial year 1923-24 it has been reduced to one-third and in the coming year 1924-25 it will only amount to one-sixth. If the budget were to include the profits from traffic and transport, the deficit would be still less. The deficit still existing is chiefly covered by the state credit operations. In the year 1923-24 these operations brought in 222 million roubles. For the year 1924-25 it is intended to repay the second loan (40 million roubles), an 8 per cent gold guarantee loan, which constitutes an investment for reserve capital of the state undertakings (30 million roubles), and a peasants' loan (50 million roubles).

The budget for 1924-25 will not include the income of 80 million roubles which the state will receive by the minting of silver and copper coins.

Gains Made Without Outside Help

This is undoubtedly a great success, the more so because all the efforts aiming at the restoration of the finances of the Soviet Union have been carried on without any help or support from abroad. It was possible to achieve this, thanks to the general economic revival which has taken place thruout the country. The rapid restoration of all branches of national economy resulted in a considerable increase of the state revenue, and not merely a relative but an absolute reduction of the budget deficit.

The credit side of the budget to the Soviet Union in the last few years shows the following picture:

	Total of the regular income	Deficit	Relation of deficit to total budget in percentage
1921—22	450	251	41.7
1922—23	462	272	39.8
1923—24	727	407	24.8
1924—25	1035	200	16.2

Reckoning the budget on the basis of the present rate of income we arrive at the following figures:

Year	National Income (Milliards pre-war rubles)	State budget	Relation of Budget to Income in Percentage
1913	16.4	3.25	19.8
1923-24	8.0	1.25	15.6
1924-25	8.5	1.4	18.8

Expenditures on Education Increased.

In comparison with 1913 the income of the Soviet of the Soviet Union is 50—52 per cent, while the state budget only 38—40 per cent. The present budget is, therefore smaller than the pre-war time budgets.

In the approaching year 1924-25 the extraordinary expenses will be reduced from 223 million to 172 million roubles, whilst the ordinary income will show an increase from 962 to 1,063 million roubles. In comparison with the previous year the expenditure of the People's Commissariat for Education and of the People's Commissariat for Agriculture on the one hand, and the sums granted to the treasury for the minting of coins on the other hand, show an increase. It is important to note that in the budget for 1924-25 there is no subsidy for transport and traffic, as this branch of state economy has become solvent.

The budget of the Soviet Union therefore affords a splendid proof of the utility and the success of the money reform, as well as of the recovery of our entire economy.

Jobs and Wages Go Down Together in LaFollette's State

MADISON, Wis.—Slight employment gains reported by a majority of Wisconsin manufacturing industries for the August-September period were more than counterbalanced by a heavy seasonal employment drop in the food products industry, according to the state industrial commission. Employment in factories in the state fell off 1.2 per cent between Aug. 15 and Sept. 15 reaching a level of 7.7 per cent below September 1923.

Compared with a year ago decreases in employment were indicated by industries as follows: stone, brick, tile etc. 1.9 per cent; metal products 16.7 per cent; leather 15.7 per cent; paper 7 per cent; textiles 12.4 per cent foods 2.3 per cent; highway construction 6 per cent and railroad construction 8.3 per cent. Industries showing employment gains are wood products 2.7 per cent, rubber products 21.8 per cent, light and power 22.9 per cent printing 3.7 per cent, building 3.9 per cent.

Average weekly earnings in manufacturing industry amounted to $23.93 in September 1924, a decrease of 1.4 per cent from September 1923.

'SCHOOL SYSTEM IS LIE FACTORY' —CIVIL LIBERTIES

Children Coached in Art of Misrepresentation

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—Charging that Principal Gilbert J. Raynor, of the Brooklyn commercial high school, had carefully coached the pupils who were witnesses against Benjamin Glassberg, the history teacher who was dismissed during the war for remarks which the spies in the New York school system considered "un-American," the American Civil Liberties Union has arranged a meeting of protest at the Community church. It was indicated that American Legion interference with education would be roundly scored.

Said Lenin Was German Spy.

Among remarks for which Glassberg was suspended without pay was the statement that he did not think Lenin and Trotsky German spies, that accurate information about the Bolsheviki was being witheld, and that there was plenty of evidence to prove that the Bolsheviki were not such cut-throats as is usually represented by the capitalist press.

That the evidence given by members of the class against Glassburg was the result of careful coaching on the part of Raynor has been known for a long time. From Upton Sinclair, who has made a careful study of the spy system as it is practiced in the public school, has come the following description of how the boys in his history class were prepared for the trial. It is a description that none of the school authorities connected with the case have ever dared to question:

Boys Told to Lie.

"The principal summoned before him, one at a time, two Jewish boys and ten Gentile boys, and questioned them as to what had happened in the class, trying to get them to say the worst possible things against Mr. Glassberg. A stenographer was present and took down what the boys said; then, according to the testimony of one of the boys, 'a most eager opponent of Mr. Glassberg, the principal made an arrangement of little bits of what the boys had said, and made it into a statement. The boys were summoned several times—for a period of eight weeks this coaching and rehashing of the charges went on, and meantime Mr. Glassberg was suspended without pay, and could not get a copy of the charges to which he was legally entitled.

Un-American to Tell the Truth.

"The statement, when finally prepared, was an obvious perversion of everything which even the most hostile of the boys alleged. This was at a time when the principal news out of Soviet Russia was "the nationalization of women", and here was a teacher, questioned by his students, and telling them the plain and obvious truth. . . . . Also, a number of the boys told how the principal had attempted to intimidate them before they went upon the witness stand. To quote one case: 'Do you know, boys, that Mr. Glassberg was charged with conduct unbecoming a teacher; therefore it means that you boys who are going to testify for Mr. Glassberg are UN-AMERICAN.'"

It has since been discovered that the official record cards of students who testified in favor of Mr. Glassberg were marked with such phrases as "Glassberg witness," "testified for Glassberg."

The Liberties Union and other groups are trying to force the reinstatement of Glassberg in the schools.

Raze Town, Won't Build

CONCRETE CITY, Pa.—The model town of Concrete City, built by the Glen Alden Coal Co. to house 40 families of its employes, is to be razed to the ground. The company was ordered by the Pennsylvania health department to install sewers in its model settlement and rather than do so it is scraping the houses. They are of concrete and were rented by the company to miners at $10 a month. The tenants have been notified to vacate Dec. 1.

Dinner Pail Epics

I see sum tempers melt like wax because they print the income tax. A lotta millionaires is cussing and rich old maids is surely fussing. They say it is a rank intrusion into society's exclusion. They think we hadn't otto know how much they got piled up in dough, and say it makes their blood to fizz to have folks know about their bin.

To let the common people know how much an income rich dubs show casts over them as great a pall as seeing jumpers at a ball. It's quite as bad, upon my soul, as drinking from a finger bowl.

They fear the next step's gonna be that folks will holler for to see how such vast wealth is really got, on which they pay the tax or not. They fear that folks will be concerned to know how much of it they earned, gave sum return for what they got and didn't just grab off a lot by squeezing them what really work, like brigands get it with a dirk—just didn't fog some oil or coal, like barons used to levy toll.

This printing income tax, methinks, will breed Red thoughts inside sum ginks. There's lots and lots of folks I've seed who never take the time to read of profit, interest and rent by which large sums grow from 1 cent, by which if your soul's hard enuf you can pile up a wad of stuff. Sum ginks must have an illustration of economics in this nation. Talk theory to 'em and you've missed; but they can read a political list, which show big incomes go to shirkers who live upon a gank of workers.

Now really, it ain't hard to see why rich denounce publicity. They don't want folks to know a lot of how they got it, what they've got. Tell their affairs to Dick and Harry! Why they'd feel nipped where hair is chary.

WALTHAM WATCH WORKERS READY FOR ORGANIZATION

Most of Them Are Unskilled Workers

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 11.—The valiant fight of the Waltham watch workers, who are in their twelfth week of striking, is undoubtedly the first wedge of organization into the ranks of unorganized unskilled watch workers, Joseph Eisenberg, general secretary-treasurer of the International Jewelry Workers' Union, believes. The Waltham Watchmakers Protective Association formed by the striking workers has applied for admittance to the Jewelry Workers' Union and will be given a charter as soon as necessary obligations are met, Eisenberg says.

Unskilled Workers

"We call the workers in the watch factories unskilled," Eisenberg asserts, "because most of them know only one little process in the manufacture of watches or clocks. Most of our union watchmakers are highly skilled workers who are employed in the custom manufacture and in repair of watches, craftsmen who know every part of the business. Workers in the Howard, Elgin, Hamilton, Illinois and other big watchmaking factories are not organized and the Waltham fight will have a big effect on the attempt to get all watch workers organized." Watch factories, Eisenberg points out, are in small towns where cheap labor may more readily be obtained.

Organizers from the American Federation of Labor and from the Jewelry International union assisted in organizing the Waltham workers, Eisenberg states. He says that they went into the factory over a year ago when the Kidder Peabody company of Boston took over the Waltham company and started the wage-cut policy and speeding-up workers.

Blame Fog For Wreck.

BARBERTON, Ohio, Nov. 11.—Eight persons were hurt, two seriously, in a wreck today when two street cars on the Akron-Wadsworth line collided head on at Johnson's corners. Traction officials say the accident occurred as a result of the heavy fog. Fronts of both cars were badly damaged and the motorman, L. E. Whelson and Miller Walter were seriously injured.

Your Union Meeting

Second Wednesday, Nov. 12, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
	Blacksmiths' District Council, 119 S. Throop St.
1	Boiler Makers, Monroe and Racine.
10	Carpenters, 12 Garfield Blvd.
21	Carpenters, Western and Lexington.
242	Carpenters, 5443 S. Ashland Ave.
1693	Carpenters, 505 S. State St.
1784	Carpenters, 1638 N. Halsted St.
	H. Fehling, Rec. Sec'y., 2253 Grace St. Irving 7597.
1922	Carpenters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
2507	Carpenters, 1581 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.
181	Cooks, 8901 Escanaba Ave.
160	Hod Carriers, 1352 W. Division St.
562	Hod Carriers, 810 W. Harrison St.
4	Jewelry Workers, 19 W. Adams St.
104	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren Street.
	Marine Cooks, 587 N. Clark St.
126	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
524	Machinists, 735 S. Dicrborn St.
375	Maintenance of Way, 426 W. 63rd Street.
54	Painters, Sherman & Main Sts., Evanston, Ill.
5	Plasterers, 910 W. Monroe St.
	Railway Carmen Dist. Council, 5445 S. Ashland Ave.
497	Railway Carmen, 5444 Wentworth Ave.
1340	Railway Carmen, 5445 Ashland Ave.
219	Railway Trainmen, 426 W. 63rd St.,
11	Roofers, 777 W. Adams St.
83	Sheet Metal, 714 W. Harrison St.
485	Sheet Metal, 5324 S. Halsted St.
753	Teamsters, 179 W. Washington St.
759	Teamsters (Meat), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
769	Teamsters (Bone), 8959 S. Halsted Street.
13046	Tuckpointers, 810 W. Harrison St.
924	Tunnel and Subway Workers, 914 W. Harrison St.

Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Klan Celebrates Victory.

LAPORTE, Ind., Nov. 11—Klansmen of Laporte county marched in a parade last night to celebrate the election of Ed Jackson as governor and the defeat of the anti-Klan candidates in the local campaign. The greatest Klan demonstration in history of the organization in Indiana is planned for tomorrow at South Bend, where 10,000 men are expected to participate in a parade.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO—

CALL FOR THORO ORGANIZATION OF PA. CIGARMAKERS

Unions Are at Critical Stage in East

By JOHN GOMEZ

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 11—The situation among the workers engaged in the cigar industry in the state of Pennsylvania has reached its lowest possible point. The industry is undergoing a rapid transformation from hand work to machine work. And this transformation is taking place at a time when the workers are almost completely unorganized.

The few unions now in existence are so weak and impotent that the average worker can hardly see the advantage of belonging, especially when the dues are high and the wages in the union shops are as low as in the non-union shops. The average worker can hardly be convinced that under the existing appalling conditions these unions, weak as they are, are better than no union at all.

Must Begin at Once.

No one can deny the fact that there is an urgent need for an intensive campaign to organize the cigar industry, especially in Pennsylvania. If we are to avoid complete annihilation. We must bear in mind that while workers remain completely unorganized the manufacturers are well organized and prepared for a serious fight with their employees. They can easily break a strike if it takes place in one factory or even in one city by filling their orders in the nearby towns which are also unorganized. It was because of this fact that all feeble attempts in the past to organize local unions failed. In order to assure success the campaign must be conducted simultaneously thruout the state and in a systematic way.

Up to International.

This can not be achieved by a few individual workers or by individual local unions. The only body that is in a position to conduct a successful organization campaign is the International. It is up to all militants belonging to the Cigar Makers' Union to begin a serious campaign to compel their International Union to seriously consider the situation in Pennsylvania and to begin an energetic organization campaign thruout the state.

The conditions for organization are very favorable. The cigar workers will gladly rally around the International Union if it really makes a serious effort to organize the unorganized in the cigar industry in Pennsylvania.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A NEW AND POPULAR COSTUME 4917-4628. The Tunic Blouse is Fashion's favorite this season. It is smartly illustrated in this model showing Pattern 4917 together with Bodice Skirt 4628. The Blouse may be of figured silk, of alpaca or wool crepe. The Skirt of contrasting or self material. Velvet and satin could be combined or faille, silk and alpaca.

The Blouse is cut in 7 sizes: 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bustmeasure. 3¾ yards of 40 inch material will be required for a 38 inch size. The Bodice Skirt is cut in 4 Sizes: Small, 34-36; Medium, 38-40; Large, 42-44; Extra Large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A Medium size requires 4¼ yards of 40 inch material. If bodice is made of lining or other contrasting material 1½ yard 32 inches wide is required. The width of the Skirt at foot, with plaits extended is 2¾ yards.

TWO separate Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of Ten cents FOR EACH pattern in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A NEAT LITTLE FROCK FOR MOTHER'S GIRL.

4941. Challie or wool rep would be nice for this model. It is also attractive for the new Scotch plaids now in vogue or for velveteen and flannel. The dress may be finished with the sleeve in wrist length, or short as in the small view.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 4, 6, 8 and 10 years. A 6-year size made with long sleeves requires 2⅛ yards of 40 inch material. If collar and cuffs are made of contrasting material they will require ¼ yard. If made with short sleeves 1⅞ yards will be required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

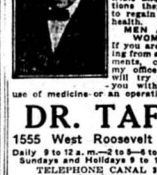
Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: THE DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
446 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1521 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

How to Be Healthy



For many years people have been suffering from various sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial, after a series of trials and operations they failed to regain their health.

MEN AND WOMEN

If you is suffering from any ailments, come in my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.

DR. TAFT
1555 West Roosevelt Road
Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.
TELEPHONE CANAL 3469

Come Over!
At any time during the day or evening if you have an hour to spare—come over and volunteer your help to enable us to get out a heap of mailing, inserting and other odd jobs on the campaign to increase the circulation of the DAILY WORKER and the WORKERS MONTHLY. We are very busy and have loads of work —help us out—come over!
Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8867 Central 4945-4947

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL } Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1922, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Singapore

When the British labor party government was allowed to assume office in order to pull some chestnuts out of the fire for the British ruling class, among the projects inherited by it from its predecessor in power was a plan to build a powerful naval base at Singapore. This project was dropped by the MacDonald government, tho, in order to mollify tory opinion it gave orders for the building of several new cruisers and carried out extensive bombing excursions in India, Egypt and Mesopotamia.

The Singapore project is directed against Japan, and for the protection of British interests in the Pacific. The jingoes of Australia and New Zealand are for it, which is an added reason why the extreme right wing of British imperialism should be willing to spend over $100,000,000 on the Singapore base. It may keep the Antipodean colonies closer to Threadneedle's apron strings.

Writers who take most things for granted assumed that the serious blow to Japanese naval power by the great earthquake was responsible for the temporary shelving of the Singapore base. This is nonsense. Japan is not the only power besides Britain with interests in the Pacific. The United States is intensely interested in that part of the world, and it should not be forgotten that Britain and the United States are watching each other's moves with no platonic interest, knowing quite well, that some day, unless the unforseen happens, the rival navies of the two great powers will battle for the supremacy of the seas.

Today Britain is building the Singapore base with an eye on Japan, but tomorrow it may be used against the United States.

While the rulers of both empires, the American and the British, profess the most benevolent intentions toward each other; while they shake hands, they also hold daggers.

After all the peaceful pretensions of the capitalist nations it is quite clear to any thinking worker that there cannot be any peace until the capitalist system is overthrown, the world over.

Lodge Goes

Senator Lodge of Massachusetts, the symbol of blackest reaction in the republican party, has died. His passing reminds the political observer of the almost axiomatic statement that the old guard may die but never surrenders.

The death of the senior senator from Massachusetts comes at a momentous period in the life of the republican party. Six months ago all but the last count had been called on the republican eagle that was considered down and out because her talons were sticky with oil. The conspicious of yesterday were temporarily given a back seat, at least in so far as the public limelight was concerned. So-called new, in reality only nationally unknown political blood, was injected into the bird of prey. Then the eagle's stomach was stuffed with gold. Soon the bird of prey began to soar high. Aided by certain transitory economic conditions and by the incompetency and weakness of its opposition, the republicans swept the field in the last election.

The exit of Lodge, one of the stalwarts of the old guard, comes at a moment when the managerial transformation, on the surface only of course, of the republican party is complete. The death of the Massachusetts senator in fact removes the last of the influential old timers in the innermost reactionary councils of the republican party.

We have no desire to insult the memory of the dead. But the dead do not appear to us as the subjects of fetish-worshipping. Senator Lodge was the blackest type of capitalist reactionary to the very marrow of his bones. Reputed as a statesman of the first order, he was in fact the most cultured ignoramus in the senate. This is certainly an unenviable position. Lodge has always loyally served the most crass and unblushing exploiting group in the country. There is not a white spot on his pitch black record in Washington. He was a sworn enemy of the workers.

Young Workers and Unionism

One of the leading programs of Gompers has been to make a noise about "child labor." It would have been much more logical to organize the youth and young workers than merely to protest their existence and sputter around the various legislative bodies and beg the national congress for prohibitory laws. While all workers must support laws against child labor, such laws are no solution of the problem which must be treated more fundamentally by the labor movement.

The place for labor to legislate is in its union halls and on the job. The coming convention of the A. F. of L. at El Paso has much to do if only it will confront real problems seriously and make an honest effort to organize the young workers of this country, some 3,000,000 of whom slave in the industries.

The young workers do not want to scab. They are underpaid and used to undercut the adult and organized workers only because the American unions so far have paid not the least heed to their organization and left them to the mercy of the bosses and the patriotic scab-breeding agencies which inculcate in them a hostility towards unionism as a principle. The adult workers are paying bitterly for this inexcusable negligence in organizing their boy and girl fellow workers.

It remains to be seen what the 42nd convention of the A. F. of L. will do about the problem of youth labor which daily becomes more pressing. The T. U. E. L. has issued a program of demands for young workers that the A. F. of L. will have to consider seriously or stand convicted of the most utter negligence of the interests of its own members.

These demands are that the A. F. of L. shall fight for equal pay for equal work to stop the danger of competition between youth and adults; a six-hour day and a five-day week for the young workers; abolition of overtime and night work for young workers; a minimum wage beginning at subsistence and going up; the closing of dangerous work to young workers and the establishment by the unions of apprentice schools.

These and the elimination from the union rules of all limitations of age for entrance to unions and lower dues and initiation fees to permit all low wage young workers to join the unions—these measures together with an aggressive organization campaign by the A. F. of L. would do much for the young workers and even more for the labor movement as a whole. These plans of the T. U. E. L. must be fought for by all militants in all unions. Pressure must be put upon Gompers to enforce action.

War Talk Multiplies

A perusal of many of our leading dailies indicates an increase in the talk of the liklihood of the next war being fought in the Pacific. The conflict between American and Japanese capitalist interests in the Far East has long been considered a menace to world peace.

United States Rear-Admiral Fiske chose the Church of the Heavenly Rest in New York City in which to deliver one of the rankest and one of the frankest jingoistic addresses that has yet been made by our increasingly voluble militarists and navalists. The peace-loving admiral warned the country that America is becoming effeminate while its enemies, principly Germany, Soviet Russia and Japan, are becoming stronger and stronger. The admiral pictured these nations as being envious of America's great wealth.

But Admiral Fiske did say one great truth in his excited address, when he declared: "They realise that we have obtained it largely by means of war." The sea-fighter was referring to those whom he termed enemies of the United States. That is indisputable. From the very moment that the Pilgrim Fathers landed on Plymouth Rock to the days in which Mellon and Hughes accidentally spent their vacation in London, the development of American capitalism took a course of war, fraudulent treaties, chicanery.

American capitalism is today what it is because of its prowess in war. Texas was seized by force of arms from Mexico. Much of the western territory was secured thru gun-powder and whiskey from the Indians. Our colonial empire was born at the point of the bayonet and now rests on potential and altogether too often brutal force and violence. The encroachments being made by Yankee investors in the Far East, in Latin America, in Europe, in Africa and the Near East are fully supported by the fullest possible military, naval, aerial and financial strength of our exploiters.

The American militarists are now in the stage of the German Junkers on the eve of the last war. They are preparing the "public mind" for big things. And the only big things these watchdogs of American imperialism know are wars in which the lives of the workers and farming masses are wantonly squandered.

Perhaps It Is a Wise Custom

The news ticker carries a story from Kansas City which is worth an editorial, whether the story is true or not. Kansas City has not the reputation that made George Washington a good bogeyman to scare imaginative children. But that makes no difference. The end justifies the means and a sprighly yarn of doubtful authenticity is good for our purpose.

He goes. A rich Chinaman has his tonsils removed by a surgeon whose business it is to carve up as much of the human anatomy as his clients' pocketbook and patience will allow. The Chinaman may have smoked a bum cigarette and had an irritation in his throat. The doctor came, saw and cut out the Chinaman's tonsils.

Now, it happens that there is an old Chinese legend which says that Chinamen who depart from this earth minus portions of their anatomies will spend all eternity hunting for the missing parts. Being rather inclined to leading quiet lives on this earth, Chinamen do not relish the idea of an indefinite tramp after such a trifle as a pair of tonsils in their imaginary next world.

The mutilated Chinaman, after he got over the effects of the anaesthetic, hurried to the doctor and demanded—not his money—but his tonsils back. The doctor being a resourceful person was not in the least flabbergasted. He picked up a woman who had not already been de-tonsilized, expropriated that part of her anatomy, and brought her tonsils to his Chinese client in a neat little bottle.

It seems a surgeon can cut his way thru anything, even a Chinese legend.

AS WE SEE IT - - By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1.)

some awkward questions about his open alliance with Mussolini. He might be asked to take up his bed and walk after the fashion of the miracle-working Jesus. Spain is also straining at the leash and the liberal elements who are expected to lead the revolution against Primo de Rivera are anti-clerical. In the event of the Pope's monarchist and Fascisti allies getting the heavy end of the stick, America would be about the only country that could afford to keep His Holiness in the pomp he is accustomed to.

• • •

CHARLES SOLOMON, a prominent member of the socialist party in New York, bears unwilling testimony to the truth of the stories carried in the DAILY WORKER regarding the deal between the Hillquit socialists and Tammany Hall, to knife Norman Thomas and vote for Al Smith. Thomas was an accommodating fellow and took all the dirt the socialists wanted to throw at him. He ran 20,000 votes behind Solomon, who is practically unknown as a state figure, while Thomas is a public character and a publicity hound to boot. The socialists split the ticket for Al, declares Solomon, and insinuates that between him and Thomas there was not much to argue about. Personally, Al is a less nauseating hypocrite than Thomas, but if the socialists have gone so far that they feel comfortable in the embrace of Tammany Hall, it is mighty hard for them to sink any lower. Yet their resourcefulness must not be underestimated.

• • •

THE New York Central Trades and Labor Council, at its last meeting, took a night off and indulged in an orgy of socialist baiting. The socialists like nothing better than to see the Communists getting booted out of the unions and out of the presence of respectable labor fakers. They were the trusted stoolpigeons of the C. P. P. A. in ferreting out stray Communists from central bodies to the C. P. P. A. convention. Now they are at the receiving end of the mud guns of the old Gompersian labor fakers

• • •

WHAT a trimming they received in New York, with poor Leftkovitz, of the Teachers' Union, the Greenwich Village farmer-laborite rapping like a spaniel in defense of his LaFollette sins. The Central Trades Council, it seems, endorsed Al Smith. Leftkowitz, being a rather literate fellow, drew up the endorsement. Then he turned around and supported Norman Thomas. The officials of the Central Council denounced him as a double crosser and declared that one good reason for their flop on the LaFollette endorsement was the action of the socialists in trying to get their man Thomas over by treachery and fraud. The socialists went half way with Al, but the Tammany labor leaders are whole-hoggers.

• • •

THE socialists said, that deceit was only practiced by the Communists but the old Tammany leaders were not so easily fooled so they spent the night hurling insults at the poor S. P.ites. Figuratively speaking, Leftkowitz looked like the mudguard of a Ford on a slushy day as he left the meeting. One year before the New York Call went out of business, Charles Erwin, managing editor, spent most of his time conferring with the officials of the Central Trades Council, in an attempt to get that body behind the Call. They finally got behind it but so far that they could not be seen with the aid of a powerful telescope. They endorsed the Call in that half-hearted fashion and the poor thing died. Doctor Norman Thomas came along with a $100,000 pulmotor and revived it, but after it took his medicine for a month it passed in its checks and not even Thomas' Christ could now bring it back to life.

• • •

MUSSOLINI'S power is on the wane. The war veterans organizations are now out for his neck. Garibaldi, descendant of the noted italian nationalist revolutionary, was challenged to a duel by a Mussolini understrapper. But Garibaldi would rather try his sword on Benito's hide. Benito is tough but not impenetrable. It is not likely that Garibaldi will be successful in tempting Mussolini to take a chance on getting some steel deposited in his anatomy. But he is lucky if he escapes a leaden tenant in his upper story at the rate things are going there.

• • •

MUSSOLINI promised to make Italy prosperous and contented. But he is a dismal failure. While the dictatorship of the proletariat in Russia is forging ahead, bring health and happiness to the workers and peasants, the blackshirt dictatorship is up against an economic stone wall. Mussolini put up the telephone system for sale at auction. But owing to the threatened chaos, the American telephone company withdrew its bid. Before long the American writers who previously extolled the Italian cutthroat as a man of destiny, will be quick to find many serious flaws in his character to explain his failure, but careful to attribute it to personal frailty rather than to the impossibility of reviving a system that is doomed to death by history, and the revolutionary working class movement led by the Communists.

Letters from Our Readers

What Simmons Sees.

To the DAILY WORKER—Colonel Roscoe Conklin Simmons, the Uncle Tom, me-to-boss, hat-in-hand, self styled Negro leader, and chief Negro boot-licking capitalist lackey, has constantly filled his weekly clumn in The Defender, with anti-red, and anti-bolshevik slush.

The reds are people who advocate removing ills or maladies by doing away with the cause or causes of same.

The reds advocate abolishing wars, race riots, unemployment, poverty, prostitution, prejudices, by doing away with capitalism, which causes and keeps in existence these evils.

Simmons is a menial prostitute, and he and his ilk will have to do useful and necessary work when the reds come into power. That is why Simmons misrepresents the aims and objects of the reds to Negro workers, because this journalistic harlot dreads going to work.

According to all of the newspapers last week, the largest Negro church in this country, located in Chicago, was put to flames by 100 per cent American klansmen.

According to the Daily News of Oct. 22, 100 per cent Americans bombed a white woman's home because she had sold same to a Negro. Of course this yellow harlot, Simmons, is too busy selling favors to the capitalists, to take notice of these minor occurences.—Gordon W. Owens, Chicago.

For German Workers' Relief.

To the DAILY WORKER—Just received your letter with $2.50 worth of stamps for sale in behalf of the struggling working masses of Germany. But in the face of the overcrowded work market I find it difficult to dispose of them. Besides the condition of working people I am acquainted with have, like me, only seasonal work, i. e., harvesting the different crops in the summer which this year is harder on us because we are crowded by other out-of workers, who in former years did not follow this line of occupation, and winter times there is little or nothing to do.

But such as could contribute their mite have no international working class solidarity feeling—at least as far as I have experienced in country districts.

I am familiar with happenings in Germany and the danger for the rest of the workers of the world in case of their being subdued, so I hasten to send you five dollars, little enough as a contribution to the German workers' relief.—E. S., California.

LaFolletteism and Communism.

To the DAILY WORKER: Intentionally or (in rare cases) unintentionally, the capitalist press assumes the mistaken idea that LaFolletteism, socialism (of the socialist party) and communism are one and the same thing, that the aim of any of them is to educate the masses and to prepare them for the overthrow of the present state of society and to place the Red flag on the capitol building at Washington.

They take for granted that the opposite of republicanism is LaFollettism, and at times place socialism or Communism in that role. Allow us to differ with them by questioning their declaration that the LaFollette raves about the kept press, he is given as much publicity as Coolidge or Davis. Is it not obvious that LaFollette is not a real menace to capitalism or he would not be permitted to talk so freely in the press? Are the view-points of William Z. Foster, Communist leader and exponent of a new order given a hundredth part of that space and are they given as truthfully?

Socialist Party Betrayal.

Since the socialist party has betrayed the working class by giving up the fight for the establishment of a workers' and farmers' government and have surrendered themselves to the whims of LaFollette by consenting to his program, we may safely say that these two groups aim at the same goal. Now what is that goal? Read their program and you find not even a whisper of advocacy for a change of the present system of society in which a few money lords exploit the masses.

Government regulation of railroads is not Communism, nor is the abolishment of monopoly in industry even progressivism. We have government ownership of mails under capitalism, then why not government regulation of railroads under the profit system? To do away with monopoly in industry is a step backward not forward. The recent merger of two great railroad systems into the Nickel Plate is only another sign of the inability of legislation to stop the advance of the inevitable capitalistic trend toward the gathering of the means of production and distribution into the hands of fewer and fewer people.

Wants No Change.

The LaFollettes want no change in the present system of society, they merely want to make it less polluted. They uphold the system that exploits labor for a profit, the system that breeds money lust instead of good will among men, the system that hatches wars for the control of world markets like the murderfest of the late world war. The LaFollettes would doctor up the ills and try to alleviate the suffering of the people under capitalism, but they do not aim at a permanent cure by abolishing the root of the disease, the profit system.

A victory for LaFollette would still be a victory for capitalism, would still mean a continuation of the present system of labor, of commodity production for profit instead of for use, of the ownership of the means of production and distribution by a few. If it came to question of permitting an overlord to look after the people or whether the people should do it themselves, the LaFollettes would still maintain that it is better to be dependent rather than independent.

Wall Street Has Reason

LaFollette is being denounced by Wall Street thru its mouthpieces the republican and democratic parties for the simple reason that he is the agent of the small capitalists and middle class who are also wringing profits from the sweat and blood of the workers. Big business wants it all for itself, wants to monopolize industry so that it alone gets all the loot. And little business is fighting, thru the independent political group headed by LaFollette, to keep its hands in the money bag too, therefore they are against monopoly. The wolves are only fighting among themselves.

Fortunately, there are some who see thru this fog of criminal and dis tructive misrepresentation and come out openly on the political and industrial field for the overthrow of the corrupt and already decaying capitalist system. These people are united under the banner of the Workers (Communist) Party.—A. B.

Not According to Hoyle.

Editor, The DAILY WORKER—Farmers are sorely pressed to resort to every conceivable method to eke out an existence in the more remote places here. At Ashmoor, an outlying country post office, it is reported that excessive carrying charges were overcome by friendly agreement in which their local postmaster sells a dollar's worth of stamps for twenty-five cents in all cases where the stamps are used in the shipping of cream by parcel post. This may not be strictly according to hoyle, but the practice seems to work alright, since the postmaster is paid on a basis of the amount of postage cancellation.—A. B., Fort Benton, Mont.

The following letter comes from a comrade 76 years young, who has stood the acid test of a class conscious revolutionist the she has seen many fall by the wayside.—Editor's Note.

Keep On, Because We Are Right.

To the DAILY WORKER:—Enclosed find $2 for the Worker's Monthly. I also want to tell you how much I appreciate the great work you are doing on the DAILY WORKER. I am truly sorry it is not in my power to do more. But money is indeed very scarce now.

It seems as if the LaFollette flurry has brot the people's mental condition to about the same level that it was at the time of the war-crazy six years ago, and I am afraid it will have to run its course like any other fever. The thing to do is to keep working for the cause and not get discouraged, because we know we are in the right.

Reformist Casualties.

It just about took my breath away when I read the article by Kate O'Hare in the September Vanguard, in which she tells us that LaFollette is the man of the hour, another Lincoln sent by God to deliver the American people from evil. Oh, we have to stand a good deal with our Debs, Russells, Ghents, Creels and Hillquits. It is in times like these that we remember that there was a time when Lenin and Trotsky stood alone when men of lesser strength failed them.

When I left Minnesota, I came to what I think may be called the very heart of the ranch country in Montana and it is pathetic to see the conditions prevailing here. I have seen several big ranches with good buildings and thousands of dollars worth of machinery lying around rotting and places deserted because it does not pay to keep them going.

Homesteaders and Bankers Go Broke.

Then again there were many homesteads taken, cabins were built and the homesteader stayed a few years until he got his deed on the land. He then borrowed money from the banks to pay his mortgage on the homestead. But conditions instead of improving, were getting worse. There was no money to pay taxes and interest and so both the homesteader and banker went into bankruptcy. I have seen a great number of these deserted homes.

The people that are left here slave so hard they have neither time nor energy to study conditions and learn the causes for what has happened to them. They are easy prey for the LaFollette illusion. They look to him to give them back their property. But if good times don't come with LaFollette, what then?

Mrs. Ingeborg Monsen.

Negro Workers Like "Daily"

To the DAILY WORKER:—Many copies of the DAILY WORKER are being distributed daily to the industrial workers. Everyone who sees a copy once is willing to have it again and the sale of the paper is increasing rapidly. Especially do we find this among the Negroes here. They snatch up the DAILY WORKER as soon as it arrives.

C. C. Micley and A. Barbat, Roumanian Communists have set up a newsstand on the corner of Penn and Washington Sts and they also distribute the paper to the homes in the evening.

Indiana Harbor is a town with about 10,000 industrial workers. We have a big task before us to awaken these workers who have been sleeping in profound ignorance all their lives. They can see nothing but their dinner pail and even around that they build the capitalist philosophy of saving their pennies and becoming rich and their children the potential presidents of the United States.

But by our organized campaign of spreading the truth thru our daily paper we are rapidly reaching many of these workers. Ted Hader, Indiana Harbor, Ind.

To The DAILY WORKER:—

I have recently noticed that you have a few columns in the DAILY WORKER devoted to the views on different topics of your readers. I wish to submit a few of my thoughts pertaining to Chicago schools.

I am a second year student in one of Chicago High Schools and this fall have found school a bore. We have four major subjects and the teachers each seem to think that they are the only ones who give us home work. In this way they fill us up with so much so-called knowledge that as a result of this we know very little of our studies. Many pupils get disgusted with these methods and often skip classes. (Which they cannot be blamed for doing). We sometimes have so much homework that we are kept busy till eleven o'clock at night. Then when we get to school, they teach us that a sound body makes a sound mine. They seem to think that the measly amount of exercise we receive at school is enough for us I am sure that our Russian Comrades are treated better than, we.

Yours for real schools,
Fred H Hornberg.

What is Efficiency?

To the DAILY WORKER: Quotes from the proposed program of the United States Bureau of education for American Education Week. "What is this thing men call Bolshevism? It is the revolt of the inefficient resenting the prosperity of the efficient."

And I ask, "What is this thing efficiency? Does it consist of robbery and oppression?"

Methinks no class of people can be called wholly inefficient if they have enough force and courage to revolt. It is an evil time indeed that finds a people so cowed that they will make no effort towards freedom.

Let us honor revolt. He who would be free must himself strike the blow or remain in chains. Is peace so sweet that it should be purchased with the price of chains and slavery?
—Fred Cobb, Marianna, Fa.

Another Political Cadaver

The socialist party of Wisconsin is dead. It is a sinking political cadaver slowly awaiting scavengers to take away its decomposing body. Its leaders having betrayed the principles of its founders are awaiting the highest bidder and the first opportunity to desert the collapsed movement.

After the St. Paul convention when the promising proletarian movement was stabbed in the back by the middle class politicians under the leadership and with connivance of the socialist party politicians, the Milwaukee Leader glorying in its treacherous murder proclaimed the St. Paul meet as a political cadaver. Little did they realize at the time that they were signing their own death warrant and that the repugnant term will stigmatize their own movement.

The socialist party is still running some of its candidates on its ticket but Berger is getting desperate. In criticizing one of the opponents Berger states that it is a very unpleasant duty to criticize the progressives and he is sorry to say the things he does. "It would be impossible for the socialist party to give up its identity until a new party is formed," he says. This is an open bid for an unholy alliance and a bid for the sale of the socialist party to the reactionaries of the republican camp. Today every one is conscious of the betrayal. Even rebellious candidate for governor, Quick, is silent. There seems to be no issue between the candidates for governor and the republican and socialist party ticket. Both are LaFollette progressives. Oh yes! there is a difference; socialists claim to be honest. "We are the only dependable progressives" they say.

A political cadaver indeed!

YALE UNIVERSITY
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. II. No. 202. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 13, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

WAR'S MUTILATED DEMAND BREAD

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

IN the death of Dean O'Bannion, State's Attorney Crowe has lost one of his best henchmen. O'Bannion kept a florist shop as a side line and carried on a general business in murder, burglary and bootlegging. He used to be a democrat but in the last election he turned over his very efficient forces to Robert E. Crowe and helped the latter win the election. The notorious Dean set up his florist shop in front of a cathedral. No doubt there was an undertaker's parlor handy and perhaps a saloon.

* * *

INDEED, it would not be surprising to learn that O'Bannion was also financially interested in the undertaking business. His own personal business was heavy, and gunmen are not finicky over bills. His flower business waxed prosperous catering to the underworld trade. When the brother of "Scarface" Brown was killed, there were so many wreaths of flowers on his coffin where he was being waked that the mourners could barely enter the room where the body rested awaiting burial.

* * *

THE gunmen are usually very religious. Outstanding citizens, including several priests, attended the funeral of gunman Brown. Masses were said for his soul and the christian God was asked to make things easy for him on the other side. A capitalist clergyman cannot understand why a capitalist God cannot be as lenient to gangsters as the capitalist law is.

* * *

THE men who killed O'Bannion are not doing any worrying. Perhaps Crowe might get after them because they killed his friend. But others will take O'Bannion's place and the democratic politicians who are sore on Dean because he went over to the enemy will see that the avengers will not wear the hempen collar. O'Bannion is expected to have a very "decent" funeral. Gunmen, priests, police, politicians, judges, capitalists—sometimes they quarrel but they belong in the same cesspool.

* * *

W. N. DOAK is vice-president of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. He was a Coolidge supporter in the election campaign. His political guide is William Lee, head of the trainmen. A Youngstown reader of the DAILY WORKER mailed us a little booklet issued and distributed by the committee on public relations of the eastern railroads. It consists of a diatribe against the public ownership of public utilities, chiefly railroads, by the worthy Doak.

* * *

THIS scabby labor faker got this stuff off his chest in a radio speech, the expenses of which were undoubtedly paid by the railroads. Doak said that public ownership was bad for the interests of the "public," that the "proposed plan of nationalization of industries will tend to create a class government, foster a class domination and encourage a class hatred. The governed have always had faith in our form of government and this faith must be continued if our free institutions are to survive. Federalization of industries will shake that faith."

* * *

IT is not necessary to show up the fallacy of this hokum. It is plainly directed by the ruling class and to argue with a notorious stool pigeon and scab like Doak would be to insult the intelligence of our readers. Suffice it to say that during the railroad strike of 1920, not alone did Doak scab, but he organized scab employment agencies. There are degrees of infamy even among labor fakers, and the scabby Doak is among the lowest of the low.

* * *

WHILE gunmen and robbers hold open house in Chicago even New York has its thrills. Every once in a

(Continued on Page 2.)

Labor Government Defeated.

MELBOURNE, Nov. 12.—The labor government of the state of Victoria was defeated today on a confidence vote.

Communist Attacks Mussolini

CHARGE FASCISTI ARE MURDERERS OF MATTEOTTI

Mussolini Is Facing a Growing Opposition

(Special to the Daily Worker)

ROME, Italy, Nov. 12.—On every hand is heard the prophesy of the downfall of Benito Mussolini and the probable supplanting of Fascist rule by a dictatorship of the military, backed by varied elements among the bourgeoisie dissatisfied with the Fascist rule and supported by the war veterans' organization, which is seething with discontent and which out-numbers the Fascist black shirts.

When the chamber of deputies convened today, Communist Deputy Repossi violently attacked the Fascist majority, declaring it guilty of the murder of Matteotti.

The Bourgeois Boycott.

The section of big capitalists and much of the petty bourgeoisie which were injured by the policy of Fascismo in trading off monopoly rights to some capitalists and in filling government offices with incompetent grafters, are making the most of the Fascist assaults on crippled war veterans of recent date and the smoldering anger over the assassination of Matteotti.

This opposition is being expressed by the refusal of the parliamentary deputies to sit in the chamber of deputies. Many national figures, such as Giolitti, liberal leader, started this boycott and when the chamber convened at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, 105 of the opposition bloc remained absent. Prominent members of the Fascist party are resigning every day. Mussolini is on the defensive.

Communist Party Gaining.

Against both bourgeois elements the Communist Party of Italy is fighting valiantly and winning large sections of the workers. The party has had to lead an illegal existence under the Fascist regime of murder and terrorism, but it succeeded in spite of that in placing 19 members in the chamber of deputies.

The party so far has refused to withdraw its deputies from the chamber as it has as little interest in supporting the bourgeois opposition as it has in Fascism, and it remains in the chamber to challenge Mussolini face to face and better to arouse the working masses than by withdrawal and silence. It is the policy of the Communists not to withdraw from parliament until conditions are ripe for the armed struggle for proletarian power.

Labor Unions Slowly Change.

The confederation of labor is in the hands of the reformist leaders. Nevertheless, great blocks of unionists are being won over to revolutionary programs advocated by the adherents of the Red International of Labor Unions. All thru northern Italy the chambers of labor are going over to the control of Communists. If Mussolini falls, the Communists will grow overnight into a force nearly strong enough to begin the final struggle.

Gore for Agricultural Secretary.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—President Coolidge has virtually decided on the appointment of Howard M. Gore as secretary of agriculture to serve until March 4, when he will become governor of West Virginia. Gore was appointed acting secretary of the agricultural department following the death of Secretary Wallace.

Are You Going to the Open Forum Sunday Night?

TAXICAB DRIVERS GO ON STRIKE FOR WAGES AT KANSAS CITY, MO.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Nov. 12.—Taxicab drivers in Kansas City carried out their threat today to strike. More than 200 of them, according to E. R. Linderman, secretary of the Drivers' Union, walked out. About 250 drivers are employed by the Yellow Taxicab company.

Drivers of other companies may be affected, union leaders said.

The men demand 20 cents an hour for a 10-hour day and 42½ cents for overtime. After a year's service they ask 32 cents. They now are on a commission basis recently installed. There are approximately 100 employed by one company which threaten to go out during the day.

BIG BIZ BACKS MC ANDREW WAR IN THE SCHOOLS

Board Backs Down in Fight for Teachers

Chicago's big business board of education has at last definitely decided to stand one hundred per cent behind Superintendent McAndrew in his fight on the militant teachers of Chicago's schools.

At the regular meeting of the board yesterday afternoon, McAndrew's request that principals have full authority to call meetings of the teachers' councils was granted.

Board Yields Last Inch.

In taking this action, the school board has yielded the last inch in such fight as a few of its members have been disposed to make in behalf of the teachers and the councils in which they have for years found an opportunity to express their ideas.

At first refusing to coerce the superintendent to comply with the accepted rules of the board and to call the councils together, they next proceeded to allow him to change the rules in such a way that the councils were completely abolished unless he should see fit to resurrect them. And now it has placed in his hands the right to make a few men and women the controlling factors in these councils.

Supt. is Lackey of Bankers.

In this way, in the short space of a few months, the councils from being instruments of the rank and file teachers, have become instruments of the superintendent of schools, who is admittedly the lackey of the bankers and brokers on the school board.

The promises held out to working class mothers and fathers, and to the teachers interested in the children of these parents, that elaborate plans are under consideration for the construction of new buildings in which to house the large number of students who are now accommodated only by crowding, have no basis in any action taken by the board so far.

The matter of building was quietly ignored by the board, and trustees indicated that the matter will probably continue to be ignored.

Moderwell to Resign.

There is little hope that the resignation of Charles M. Moderwell, president of the board, will bring a brighter outlook for the teachers.

Moderwell, who has consistently opposed measures advocated by teachers has found it advisable to quit—probably in order to keep a firmer grip on his non-union coal mines in West Virginia. But any hopes that may have raised that Mayor Dever—to whom Margaret Haley of the Teachers' Federation has looked long and vainly for help—will take this opportunity to appoint a trustee favorable to the teachers, has been shattered by Dever's "regrets" at Moderwell's resignation.

Oil Steamer Aground.

LONDON — The English-American oil company's steamer Cheyenne went ashore off the Firth of Forth, but was towed off today without large damage.

'YOUNG WORKER' SPECIAL GETS BIG GREETING

Sells Like Hot Cakes at Mail Order Houses

By AL SCHAAP

(Organizer, Y. W. L. of Chicago)

The campaign of the Young Workers League of Chicago in the mail order industry is now well under way.

Despite the heavy rain and cold weather yesterday, more than 40 members of the Young Workers League and Junior Section were at the gates of Sears, Roebuck & Co. and at Phillipsborn's selling the special mail order house edition of the "Young Worker."

Big Demand for "Young Worker."

At Sears, Roebuck and company and at Phillipsborn's more than 1,800 copies of the "Young Worker" were sold. This was the first day that the paper was put on sale.

Arrangements have been completed whereby the paper will be sold every morning and evening before the young workers enter and leave the giant mail order house.

Young Workers Greet Official Organ

In less than an hour, 1,800 copies of the "Young Worker" were sold at Sears, Roebuck. Some of the young workers bought a quantity of papers so that they could give them to the more timid workers in the shop. One young comrade sold 200 copies of the paper all alone. The young girls that work in the plant showed great interest in the paper. This is a very encouraging sign because in the mail order industry it is the women that are exploited the hardest. It is due to the diligent and efficient distribution of the leaflets during the last two days which had aroused the workers to demand the "Young Worker."

Many employes questioned whether there would be further sales of the paper and whether the campaign would be continued. They were assured that the Y. W. L. will carry on this campaign until a fighting unit of the league was established in every plant of the mail order industry in Chicago.

Bosses and House Detectives Scared

As a result of the leaflets which an

(Continued on page 3)

N. Y. ITALIAN WORKERS RAISE RED FLAG OVER FASCIST HEADQUARTERS

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Two hundred Italian workers stormed their way into the Fascist headquarters on Fourteenth street last night, tore down the Fascist flag, and hoisted a red banner. All of the workers were singing the Red Flag.

The demonstration was a protest against the brutalities of the Mussolini dictatorship in Italy, and especially against the whole-hearted support which the American government is giving the Fascist regime.

None of the workers were arrested. The police, believing that the Communist education spread among the Italian workers thru the columns of Il Lavoratore, the organ of the Italian workers thru the colkers Party, may have been responsible for the outbreak of protest, formed themselves and went to the local office of the paper here. They found no one, but expressed their determination to "get" the editors.

'WORK AT HOME' FRAUD HITS THE SHUT-INS AND CRIPPLES EAGER TO EARN

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 12— With Glenn D. Freyer, of Fort Wayne, and Kenneth Hackley, of Earl Park, Ind., in the hands of federal officers charged with using the mails to defraud, government agents continued today an investigation of alleged "work at home" swindles which, it was believed would result in the arrest of others who preyed on women, cripples and shut-ins, eager to earn money.

Alexander G. Cavins, assistant United States district attorney, said the state was flooded with fraudulent schemes advertised in magazines and periodicals and that many persons had been cheated out of large sums of money.

JOHN SCHEDEL, OUT ON BAIL, JOINS FAMILY

Labor Defense Council Wins Another Fight

John Schedel is with his wife and family again. He has been released from prison under a bond of $500, raised thru the efforts of the Labor Defense Council, 166 W. Washington St., Chicago, which is trying to save him from re-deportation and jail.

Immediately on being released, Schedel boarded a train for Fort Wayne, Ind., where his family has been living for years.

Happy Reunion Results.

There was a happy reunion, with many warm embraces of husband and wife, and father and children—and this time there were no heavysoled "dicks" from the department of justice to break up the festivities, as was the case in the Mattman Hotel in Chicago, where Schedel, deported to Germany in 1920 as a member of the Communist Party of America, was summarily arrested after having made his way back to this country so that he could be with his suffering wife and children. He now faces redeportation to Germany, preceded by a possible five years in an American prison cell.

Letters are coming into the Labor Defense Council from all over the country from persons interested in the Schedel case. In Fort Wayne, Indiana are being circulated among the local citizenry, calling for dismissal of all charges against Schedel. Moreover, a number of influential people have interested themselves in the case, among them Clarence Darrow, Roger Baldwin of the American Civil Liberties Union, and James H. McGill of Indiana. Perhaps this will be the starting point for a mighty campaign to put an end, once and for all, to political deportations in America.

Gets Job Back.

From now until the final disposition of his case, Comrade Schedel is going to work to suport his family, which had such a hard time of it while he was away.

He is a piano polisher by trade and his former employer in Fort Wayne has offered to take him back. Friends in Chicago have also volunteered to secure work for him in case he prefers to remain here.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

ILLINOIS MINERS, ATTENTION!

In the next three issues of our Polish Communist Weekly, articles detailing the treachery of Frank Farrington, president of the United Mine Workers' Union of District 12, will appear. The articles will be based on the series written by Comrade Thomas J. O'Flaherty for the DAILY WORKER. As there are thousands of Polish miners in District 12, we urge our comrades, readers and sympathizers to send in orders for bundles and distribute them among the Polish miners. The price of the paper is 5 cents a copy and can be obtained in bundle orders at 2½ cents a copy.

Rush your orders to "Trybuna Robotnicza," 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Comrades act at once! Send in your orders and remittance.

SILK BOSSES START NEW WAR ON EMPLOYES

Try to Steal Back Strike Gains

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 12.—The silk manufacturers are starting a concerted drive against gains made by the Associated Silk Workers after a long and bitter struggle in which the Trade Union Educational League and the members of the Workers Party took a militant part in aiding the union to force settlement from 174 mills.

Out of these 174 mills, eleven have gone back to the old conditions, and indications are that they are being supported by others in an effort to steal back gradually all the gains the workers have won.

At a special meeting of the strike committee Tuesday night, plans were formulated to call out all weavers in another general strike and the following statement was issued:

Strike Committee Statement.

"After the long struggle in which we have engaged, during which time many settlements were made, we now find the workers in the broadsilk industry are again confronted with a concerted move on the part of a number of manufacturers to take from us the gains we have made.

"At a meeting of a certain clique of silk manufacturers held Monday night a plan was set on foot to start a drive against conditions we have gained.

Will Fight Back.

"The condition will not be tolerated by the Associated Silk Workers, and after thoroly discussing the situation, we declare that further trouble is imminent. Another strike looms as the result of the arrogance of this irreconcilable group of manufacturers.

"We emphatically assert that those who have settled with this union must live up to their agreements, otherwise they will find themselves confronted with a wholesale shut-down of the industry.

Drastic Action Promised.

"All delegates, shop committee men and chairmen are instructed to meet tomorrow (Wednesday) night at union headquarters for the purpose of discussing plans to take drastic action against this menace.

"We fought for 14 weeks to establish decent conditions in this industry. We have received loyal support from organized labor thruout the country and we do not purpose to permit a few greedy manufacturers to triumph in their efforts to take from us the fruits of our victory."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

MARXISM IN PRACTICE

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The second chapter is entitled "Marxism in Practice."

* * *

LENIN was a Marxian dialectician. There are many people that know Marx very well but are incapable of deriving the political lessons of conclusions implied in theory. In this respect Lenin was totally different. He has taken the Marxian theory and methods and applied them in the practice of life. And with the help of his acute analytical mind he interpreted events in their dialectical development. Lenin was one of the foremost experts in the economic and philosophical theories of Marx. But as already said, he was not primarily a theoretician—but a practical Marxian and a political dialectician. The Hegelian dialectics which Marx had developed to its highest point were completely mastered by Lenin. He never reasoned abstractly. He despised pure rationalizing. He hated the free sway of "pure reasoning." He fought against philosophic charlatanism and always proved in action that the truth is concrete.

Just as Marx was maneuvering with the general factors of economic life, so was Lenin maneuvering with the concrete forces of the class struggle. In the colorful kaleidoscope of social relations and from the complexities of the everyday events of modern life he always managed to hit upon the fundamental and most important tendencies. He was never deceived by appearances. He was a man called upon to tread new paths. Always pursuing his own way, capable by means of his dialectics not only to explain but constantly to drive history forward, Lenin was a dialectician in politics and a Marxist in action. That is, he knew exactly how to make history in as masterly a fashion as Marx explained it.

* * *

Tomorrow—"Identity with a Class."

EX-SOLDIERS IN FRANCE PROTEST; CARRY RED FLAG

Demonstrate Before the Herriot Residence

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PARIS, France, Nov. 12.—Carrying red flags, the ragged and starving crippled ex-soldiers organized into the body calling itself "The Mutilated," accompanied with their poverty-stricken families, paraded Paris on the afternoon of Armistice Day and visited the residence of Premier Herriot to demand relief from starvation and increase of their miserable pensions to offset the high cost of living.

When groups of sentimental bourgeois tried to march alongside the war cripples, these desperate wrecks of French imperialism spat upon them and in many cases attacked them with crutches and canes.

Herriot, receiving a delegation, which protested that no man let alone a family, could live on the 35 a week the cripples get, made a speech on the necessity of maintaining the franc on the international exchange.

SCHURMAN GIVES COOLIDGE VIEWS ON CHINESE WAR

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Dr. Jacob Gould Schurman, American minister to China, who is in the United States on leave held a conference at the White House today with President Coolidge at which the situation now reigning in China was discussed.

* * *

U. S. Warship Busy.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 12.—The U. S. S. Penguin, late tonight rushed to Nanking from here following radio advices that troop transports of Wu Pei Fu, former Chinese military dictator which left Chefoo this morning, had passed the mouth of the Yangtze river and were due to arrive at Nanking tomorrow.

A Tien Tsin dispatch late today said Feng Yu Hsiang, whose coup resulted in the downfall of Wu, had fled from Tien Tsin because of the menacing attitude of Chang Tso Lin's troops, who are now spreading out over Chihli and Shantung provinces, driving southward unopposed.

Sentence Negro to Hang.

Lawrence Washington, Negro, this afternoon was sentenced to be hanged December 12 for the murder of Munzio Mascolino during a holdup of Mascolino's confectionary store at Evanston, Sept. 16.

FIX UP BATTLESHIPS FOR NEXT WAR AS ARMISTICE DAY CELEBRATION

WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.—Following a conference today with President Coolidge, Senator Hale, republican, of Maine, chairman of the senate naval affairs committee, announced that at the opening of congress he would urge immediate consideration of his bill authorizing the construction of eight new cruisers and the conversion of six old coal burning battleship to oil burners.

This legislation was passed by both houses last spring, but final action was held up thru a parliamentary tangle.

RAILROAD TO BLAME FOR BIG WRECK TRAGEDY

Big Fellows Escape; Small Fry Punished

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad company was found guilty by a coroner's jury of causing the death of ten people by running trains in violation of city ordinances and state laws. But a switchman and two petty officials of the company were held for manslaughter, and the real culprits, the directors of the railroad who determine the road's policy, escaped.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, which is still violating many city ordinances in operating trains, is connected with the railroad trust thru interlocking directorates with the other leading railroads.

The Real Culprits.

Here is a list of those responsible for the wreck which killed ten people. They are directors of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad, who in their mad scramble for profits, pay low wages and neglect to install safety devices:

Who Is Who?

J. Ogden Armour, the meat packer, who fights unionism in the packing houses and on the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad;

Mortimer N. Buckner, also director of the Foreign Banking Assn., the Interboro Rapid Transit Co. of New York, the New York Trust Co., and many other banking and industrial corporations;

J. J. Fisher, also director of the New York Trust Co. and other corporations;

Donald G. Geddes, also director of the Western Union Telegraph Co., Edison Co., Consolidated Gas Co., and 17 other corporations;

W. B. S. Griswold, also director of the Lima Locomotive Works, Remington Arms Co., Canon Reliance Coal Co., Union Oil Co., American Splint Co., Mechanics and Metals National Bank, and six other corporations;

Edward S. Harkness, also director of the Big Four, Michigan Central, New York Central, Southern Pacific and West Shore railroads, and of the, Atlantic Insulated Wire ana Cable Co.;

George G. Mason, also director of the Erie Railroad and the Southern Utilities corporation;

Samuel McRoberts, also director of American Ice Co., American Sugar Refining Co., Consolidated Coal Co., Kansas City Southern Railway Co., Rail Joint Co. and numerous other corporations.

Washington Miners Reelect.

SEATTLE—Union coal miners of District 10, Washington state, reelected their present officers for another terms of two years in the first member balloting. Martin Fizik again heads the district as president. He is regarded as an adherent of International President John L. Lewis and supported Calvin Coolidge in the political campaign.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

PATERSON STRIKERS RELIEF CONFERENCE SUNDAY IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The New York Relief Committee for the Paterson silk strikers have issued the following call for a conference on Sunday, Nov. 16, at 10 a. m., at Astoria Hall, 64 East 4th street to prepare for a tag day for the strikers on Saturday and Sunday, Nov. 22 and 23.

"In the 14 weeks of strike and privation our brothers and comrades in Paterson have shown their valor and worth to the labor movement. Every worker must get behind this strike until it is won.

"Send a delegate to the conference on Nov. 16. If your organization does not meet before that day, the secretary should write or come personally, or else designate a delegate himself.

"Don't fail the Paterson strikers now!"

Building Bolsheviks—the D. W. B. U.

"IMMIGRANT" DAVIS, SECRETARY OF LABOR, WANTS TO CLOSE GATES OF NATION TO ALL IMMIGRANTS

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—"Complete selective system" of immigration is the program Secretary of Labor James J. Davis stated that he favored in his radio address over station WEAF, New York.

"I would see to it that only those aliens who can qualify for a place in our national economic, social and political life and who are needed in our our national development should be admitted," Secretary Davis continued. He said that restricting immigration from only certain countries was like closing the front door and leaving the back door open.

"I would provide a system of education in Americanism which would give every alien an opportunity to learn the English language and something of American history, traditions, ideals and institutions," Davis asserted after saying that "today we offer the alien in America little or no help along the road to making him a real American." Davis declared that he "would enlist the cooperation of every civic and fraternal organization and would reach the alien thru schools and churches" instead of leaving the alien "practically on his own resources from the time he leaves the port of entry." Davis said that he would finance his plan by a fee charged against each alien, that "the foreign born in America are ready to pay their own way."

Davis mentioned that he himself was alien and that the third generation of children in the community where he spent his youth still speak the 30 languages of its grandfathers and retains old customs and ideas. He stated that he believed that congress should during the coming winter take steps to provide means for preventing the separation of families thru the operation of the (immigration) law."

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

while the papers discover a "crime wave." It may be that news happens to be breaking badly. They jump on Mayor Hylan and his chief of police, Enright. The latter usually denies there is a crime wave and immediately afterwards publishes a "dead line." The latest dead line runs from Third to Seventh avenue and from Fourth to Sixtieth streets. Inside this area crooks had better watch out or they may get plucked if they want to engage in their regular line of business the rest of the city should be wide enough for them.

• • •

THE writer was once given an insight into how things are done in New York City, with the consent of the police. It happens that on some occasion a leader in some walk of life may find the presence of some other person embarrassing. The quickest way out of the embarrassment is to apply effective pressure on the anatomy of his rival. This is usually accomplished with the aid of a black jack or in extreme cases with a gat. When the executioner decides where he intends doing the job, the next order of business is to inform the police officer who has charge of that section of the city, of his intentions. By agreement a "zero hour" is set during which the police on that beat are blind, figuratively speaking.

• • •

AS a rule the police stipulate that no unseemly noise is indulged in. They believe in quiet effective work. Unless a gat is absolutely necessary, other instruments more deadly but less boisterous are suggested. "The officers are quite reasonable," declared my informant, "but unless they get co-operation you can't blame them for being peevish." The inability of police to arrest first class crooks is notorious. Take the case of Nicky Arenstein a few years ago. He got away with millions and was hunted by the police for months.

• • •

IT was reported that he used to shoot crap on the front steps of the police headquarters in New York out of a spirit of pure devilment. Finally, he got tired eluding the police, so he selected the day on which the New York police show off with a parade to drive down Fifth avenue at the head of the procession. Even at that he had to walk into police headquarters and insist on being arrested. After the newspapers get a certain number of headlines out of the "crime wave" the police chief gets his share of publicity and the crooks are properly shaken down and everything returns to normal again. Such is law in a capitalist city.

CANADA IS A COLONY OF THE UNITED STATES

Wall Street Is Investing Heavily in Industry

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press Industrial Editor.)

Steady detachment of Canada from the British empire and its annexation to the empire of American finance is revealed in a review of U. S. investment in Canada issued by the department of commerce under the direction of Herbert Hoover. Canada's vast wealth of natural resources is going to pay a huge annual tribute to the financial lords of America.

"Economically and socially," says the department, "Canada may be considered as a northern extension of the United States and our trade with Canada is in many respects more like domestic trade than our foreign trade with other countries. The movement of industrial raw materials from Canada to the United States and the return flow of a miscellaneous assortment of partly or wholly manufactured goods is not unlike a similar flow between the west and south and the more industrialized northeastern part of the United States."

Increase Investments.

U. S. capital in Canada, the department shows, has increased from $420,000,000 in 1915, to at least $2,425,000,000 in 1922 or nearly six-fold. In the same period British capital in Canada has remained very nearly stationary amounting to $1,860,000,000 in 1915 and to $1,980,000,000 in 1922.

The United States in recent years has largely replaced Great Britain as Canada's banker. In the eight years just preceding the war 73.5 per cent of all Canada's borrowings were from Great Britain and 9 per cent from the United States. In the eight years ending with 1922 only 2 per cent of Canada's borrowing came from Great Britain and 33 per cent from the United States.

The principal items of American and British investment in Canada at the beginning of 1924 are shown by the department:

Canadian Investments	Owned in U. S.	In Britain
Federal, prov. and municipal	$701,000,000	$454,000,000
General industries	540,000,000	145,000,000
Railways	370,000,000	745,000,000
Forests, paper, saw-mills	325,000,000	60,000,000
Mining	235,000,000	100,000,000
Public utility, services	135,000,000	15,000,000
Land, etc.	50,000,000	100,000,000
Banking and Insurance	35,000,000	30,000,000
Mortgages	25,000,000	85,000,000
Fisheries	4,000,000	3,000,000

Various Industries.

Canadian industries in which American capital plays an important role together with the percentage of their securities held in the United States in 1920 are listed, meat packing 41 per cent, steel furnaces and rolling mills 41 per cent, copper 52 per cent, agricultural implements 39 per cent, foundries and machine shops 40 per cent, electrical apparatus 45 per cent, drugs and chemicals 52 per cent, patent medicines 79 per cent, automobile 69 per cent, paint and varnish 50 per cent, artificial abrasives 45 per cent, refined petroleum 53 per cent, car construction 60 per cent and condensed milk 40 per cent.

Such figures show how capital from the United States has fastened its tentacles upon the basic industries of Canada. The control by American financiers is greater than the figures indicate for the bulk of the remaining securities are held in Canada, to a large extent under the influence of New York finance. American investors have largely increased their holdings since 1920. The nickel and asbestos production of Canada and many timber products are now controlled by Americans.

This is just one phase of the rounding out of the American empire process quietly below the surface. Eventually it will come to the surface in wars which will involve millions of workers.

Hiscough Stops Trial.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Because the official court reporter suffered a severe attack of hiccoughs the court martial of Captain Herold A. Barnes, of Oneida, New York, charged with the misappropriation of $1,300 from the commissary department at Fort Meyer, Virginia, was forced to adjourn yesterday.

Bronx Dance Saturday Night

New York Comrades who wish to spend an enjoyable evening should attend the entertainment and dance given by the newly organized Bronx English No. 2 Branch on November 15, 1924, at Workers Hall, 1247 Boston Road, Bronx, N. Y.

LABORERS IN CAL'S VINEYARD PICKING PLUMS

Harvest Rich But the Pickers Are Many

By LAURENCE TODD.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Nothing is too wild, nothing too grotesque when judged by ordinary standards, to be the basis for serious speculation as to how President Coolidge will distribute the spoils of his victory at the polls. Whether one goes to the White House offices, the state department corridors, the offices of senators and cabinet members or the lobby of any Washington theatre, he hears the new cabinet in process of formation and the new committees of the house and senate being revised.

While conservative newspapers are now begging Coolidge and his advisers to avoid an arrogant attitude of reaction, the hard-faced politicians from the state headquarters are flocking to town to demand jobs. If they don't get jobs there will be trouble.

Wyoming, normally reactionary, came near falling out of the Coolidge column this year. Yet Frank Mondell, defeated two years ago in the senate race in that desert state, is considered likely to get a cabinet place. He presided at the Cleveland convention. If he is not made secretary of agriculture he may become secretary of the interior—thereby giving Coolidge a joke on the conservationists who have asked that Secretary Work be thrown out. Work was a faithful pupil of Fall, but Mondell, if he gets the chance, won't hesitate to give away power sites in Yellowstone Park.

Harry Daugherty's friends deny that he will come back into the cabinet. They say he is making $250,000 a year right now, as a corporation lawyer. The nature of the business and the amount of taxes avoided by his clients is not given.

Young Roosevelt is to be cared for —probably by the navy or war secretaryship. Charles Beecher Warren of the beet sugar trust, who had charge of the platform-writing at the Coolidge convention last June, is mentioned as a rival to Col. George Harvey and Herbert Hoover for the secretaryship of state, in case Hughes can be persuaded that his duty to his family requires that he resume the practice of law. Hughes will say nothing just now, but the chances are that he will quit in March. If Harvey becomes his successor, Warren will be offered another cabinet post or the London embassy.

Herbert Hoover is a problem. Like Winston Churchill in Great Britain, he is a source of worry to the party to which he declares his allegiance. Coolidge would be glad to keep him as secretary of commerce, but would not welcome him to the state department. Neither would he want Hoover to return to private business. Why? Because Hoover still thinks himself a possible nominee for the presidency. Coolidge wants to keep that nomination in his own control—the control of Andy Mellon and Frank Stearns. Hoover as head of the cabinet would be able to use all the publicity machinery of his office to make himself an overtowering figure within the party. He would eclipse the Mellon-Stearns-Coolidge crowd in the public eye. And if he went back to private life, he would be free to organize his campaign in disregard of the wishes of the administration.

It is true that the politicians in the Coolidge party were in despair six months ago. They thought the democrats would win, hands down. Remembering that, they do not feel that Hoover is an immediate peril. But they are cautious men, and want to avoid any bad chances.

Chairman Butler will presumably be appointed to the senate as the temporary successor to Lodge, upon the latter's death. Gillett, coming into the senate at the request of Coolidge, will share the disposal of Massachusetts patronage. But Butler will control republican funds generally fall to the national chairman of the winning party. In return for favors, he will be given influential places on senate committees. A drive will be started to put the Mellon tax reduction scheme thru congress this winter. It will fail, and President Coolidge will distribute federal jobs and salaries afterward with the applicants' attitude on this issue clearly in mind.

Scoffing progressives watch the procession of job hunters as it enters the White House grounds, and predicts a smash in 1926. They trust Dawes and Mellon and the Coolidge crowd to pull down the pillars of their political house upon themselves within these next two years.

Technical Aid Moves.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—The Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia has moved its headquarters to 799 Broadway, Room 402.

Half-Billion Capital of the Greater 'Bread Trust' Opens New Monoply Era

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, we are assured that the re-election of Cal Coolidge means a greater centralization in industry. The great trusts, the powerful "open shop" interests, are planning to consolidate their power more than ever. In the words of the New York Times, "Not only has there been an enormous volume of speculative buying in Wall Street. Company mergers on a large scale are planned or nearly completed."

• • • •

It is with these preliminaries that the announcement is made of the $500,000,000 merger in bakeries. The widely heralded "Bread Trust," the Ward Baking Company, becomes only the nucleus of this new and greater monopoly.

• • • •

One expects big trusts in steel, coal, oil and transportation. But here is a daily necessity, that not many years ago was turned out almost exclusively in the home, the production of which is now capitalized at half the huge sum that started off America's first billionaire corporation—the United States Steel Corporation.

• • • •

No word has been heard from the LaFollette camp, with its "Back to '76" slogan, urging the return of the days when mothers baked their bread in the open fireplaces of log cabins. The LaFollette campaign, in its infancy last summer, started an "exposure stunt" against "The Bread Trust." But now that the campaign days are over, even this expose can sleep. Attacks on trusts are supposed to be good vote-getters. But after the ballots are counted, they are usually put on the shelf for safekeeping.

• • • •

The new $500,000,000 bread merger is to be known as the Continental Baking Corporation. Its launching has been announced by George G. Barber, secretary-treasurer of the United Bakeries Corporation, which already operates 39 bakeries in 32 cities. Its profits on its "Certified Bread" this past year were $4,000,000 on sales amounting to $40,000,000.

The other interested concerns, outside of the Ward Baking Company, are the General Baking Company, the American Baking Company, Cushman Sons, the Fleischman Company and the Grennan Company. Each of these has developed out of the merging of many smaller concerns.

• • • •

This amalgamation of capitalist interests means a more difficult struggle for the workers in the food industry. It is the boast of the Ward concern, for instance, that its bread is produced, "untouched by human hands." This means that machinery has been so perfected, even in the production of bread, that the use of human labor has been reduced to a minimum. It is the Ward outfit that has been most active in seeking to establish the "open shop" in all of its plants. It has waged many bitter wars against the organized bakery workers, establishing the worst sweating systems in its plants.

Greater consolidation in the bread industry, as in every other industry, means that wealth and power falls into fewer and fewer hands. This means greater riches for the oligarchy of great wealth, but a more bitter struggle for existence on the part of the working masses.

The New York Times, anticipating this condition, sends out a warning to the great rich of the capitalist class it represents. It says:

"Perhaps most important of all would be the social effects of a period of immense money making, with ably ostentation in the use and display of the newly created wealth. Never before was the social fabric so closely knit. What is done in one part of it is instantly known in another.

"KNOWLEDGE OF THE WAYS OF SIR GORGEOUS MIDAS IN HIS PALACE QUICKLY PENETRATES TO TENEMENTS AND SLUMS. Hence it is of higher importance than ever for the leaders in great industrial and financial matters to pay a close regard to the methods, in which they are about making money, and especially to the style in which they are seen of all men to be spending it."

• • • •

The advice of the Times to the rich is not to make less money, but to be careful how they use it. It tells them to endow "noble charities," and other such palliatives, that the ruling class has always been subsidizing as an antidote to "the embittering of class feeling."

• • • •

It was the New York Times, in its days of greatest prosperity, that aped the new rich of "Fifth Avenue" by building a towering palace of its own at 42nd St. and Seventh Ave., in the heart of the nation's metropolis, and calling the surroundings, "Times Square," nightly the mad bedlam of "the spenders."

It was the New York Times that remained silent when Ward, Jr., the son of the "Bread Trust" czar, murdered a sailor, but was never brought to trial for the crime. The Times did not raise its voice against the murder of a worker, lured into the navy, slain by the dissolute son of one of the nation's bread magnates.

• • • •

The Times' scheme of great riches and a little charity won't work. The new consolidations of great capital forces the workers to amalgamate their organizations as a natural sequence. This will result in a more intelligent waging of the class fight of the workers against their employers, that will not be satisfied with libraries, art galleries, universities and other knick-knacks that the rich dole out, but that the poor never have an opportunity to enjoy.

• • • •

Sam Gompers and all his crowd, in the approaching convention of the American Federation of Labor, at El Paso, Texas, may rail at "Amalgamation" as a Communist slogan. They may fight it. They may vote it down. But the great masses of workers will be forced to accept and carry out the amalgamation policies of the Communists, not only in the bread industry, but in every other industry, as a weapon of self-defense. They will be compelled to adopt other Communist policies in the offensive struggle against capitalism; for the final victory of the whole working class.

BOSSES OPEN BIG WAR FOR CHILD LABOR

Cardinal O'Connell is Gang Leader

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Flushed with triumph at its success in Massachusetts, where the child labor amendment was rejected by 696,119 against 247,221 votes in the referendum on Nov. 4, the national committee for rejection of the 20th amendment has blossomed out in fine headquarters in the Union Trust building in Washington.

It is just three floors above the headquarters of the National Association of Manufacturers, which is one of its chief backers. Secretary Keogh, in charge, was formerly associate editor of the open shop propaganda magazine, American Industries.

Keogh admits that ratification of the amendment is possible so long as any state legislature wants to reverse a previous rejection by that state. His organization will continue to gather funds and carry on a comfortably salaried lobby against the measure so long as the business world cares to keep up its fight against ratification. While the anti-ratification game is good, the country will be plastered with leaflets, pamphlets and letters, urging that parents rise in their might and stamp out this "Bolshevik" attempt to make their children "chattels of the state."

Fat Bishop Lines Up.

Among their circulars are the ones used in Massachusetts, signed by Cardinal O'Connell, Herbert Parker, the legal adviser of Coolidge in the police strike affair, President Stratton of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Herbert Myrich, farm journal publisher, and President Lowell of Harvard university. Then there is a heavy pamphlet by James A. Emery, general counsel for the manufacturers, urging the defeat of this "politically revolutionary" amendment, and a front-page article from the Ohio State Grange Monthly.

Keogh admits that the whole business organization of the country is not lining up against this amendment because of the profit derived from employment of a few children. What they see in it, he says, is a most dangerous precedent for further encroachments upon the property rights of individuals. If congress is to be empowered to regulate or prohibit, at some future date, the industrial employment of boys and girls up to 18 years of age, another amendment can be brought in that will permit congress to dispose of the affairs of adults of all ages. This is revolutionary, because it strikes at the right to work and the right to employ. The next amendment would probably be more revolutionary. The time has come to call a halt on easy changes in the constitution!

Young Workers' League.

Emery, in his attack on the amendment, says that Mrs. Florence Kelley was the directing influence in "the form and management" of the measure in congress, and that she is a "socialist leader of marked distinction." Moreover, the Young Workers' League of America, which has Communist affiliations, has declared for "abolition of wage slavery for all young workers up to 18 years of age"—proving that the measure is a Moscow proposition. Finally, he quotes Sen. King of Utah as declaring that "every Bolshevik, every extreme Communist and socialist in the United States is back of this measure."

On that showing by Emery, the new lobby expects to get a big collection of campaign funds, and to carry on an anti-red campaign for a long time to come.

Start Trial of Four, Including Fahy, in Big Post Office Robbery

Four of the nine men charged with complicity in the $3,000,000 Rondout mail robbery went on trial here today in federal court after Brent Glassock, alleged leader, and Joe and Jesse Newton had suddenly switched their pleas to guilty, throwing themselves on the mercy of the court.

James J. Barbour, counsel for Herbert Holiday, another defendant, failing to obtain a severance for his client, indicated Holiday also would plead guilty if the government would quash some of the counts of the indictment against him to eliminate the possibility of his being sentenced to 162 years in jail. The others who went on trial were: William J. Fahy, former ace of the postoffice inspection department; William Murra and Walter McComb.

Hunt Counterfeiters.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 11—United States government operatives are searching today for more members of the "big ring" who are alleged to have counterfeited United States war saving certificates and tried to circulate them over the country.

NOTORIOUS BRITISH STOOLPIGEON ARRIVES IN THE UNITED STATES

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—Captain Francis McCullagh, former British military spy in Russia, an anti-Soviet propagandist for the New York Herald and other papers which used his Warsaw dispatches, has arrived in America to sell his wares from the lecture platform. The inspired sleuth announced to reporters, as he stepped off the gang plank of the Saxonia that they could take it from him that the "Zinoviev" letter which raised such a ruction in the British elections was genuine and not the fake that is currently reported. McCullagh said he had inside information, which he would not reveal. McCullagh's Warsaw dispatches of the trials of Russian prelates who opposed the government were denounced as false by reputable correspondents who were present at the trials.

U. S. BUREAU OF EDUCATION IS BRAZENLY CO-OPERATING WITH 'OPEN SHOP' WAR ON SCHOOLS

By KARL REEVE
(Third Article)

Calvin Coolidge and his commissioner of education, in promoting education week, Nov. 17-24, have entered into the conspiracy of the manufacturers to make the schools of this country recruiting grounds for industrial wage slaves.

The bureau of education of the department of the interior is already flooding the country with leaflets urging the establishment of the schools on the basis of "more production."

This propaganda aims at the perpetuation of the capitalist system and the use of the schools entirely in the interests of the business men and industrial exploiters.

Issue "The Broadside"

The bureau of education has sent thruout the entire country a sheet called "The Broadside," boosting education week and appealing for the continuation of the present profit system. A statement by President Coolidge in this leaflet sounds the keynot for using the schools as a means of teaching increased production. "It is impossible to conceivé that there should be any increase in agricultural products, in the production of manufactures, or any other increase in our material wealth thru ignorance," says Coolidge's statement. "The reaction to using the resources of the country to develop the brains of the country thru education has always been greatly to stimulate and increase the power of the people to produce."

Then Coolidge, who made the same statement in an address to the 1924 convention to the National Education Association, pleads for the upholding of the present profit system. "Our popular government could only be predicated on popular education," says Strikebreaker Cal. "For all changes which our people may desire, for all grievances which they may suffer, the ballot box furnishes a complete method and remedy." Cal neglects to add that it required a little something more than the ballot box to establish our "glorious democracy."

Out to "Fight Communism"

"The Broadside," the first gun which has been fired to "fight Communism" during education week, urges the slogan, in bold type, that "Education produces wealth. It will be good business to change the 3,000,000 illiterates into literates."

Even the teaching of housework is to be put on a business basis from now on, we learn from the "education week" propaganda. "Scientific training for the home is one of the striking expansions of American education," the "Broadside" tells us. "Business recognizes that the home economist is an indispensable asset because she can furnish the scientific information, good judgement, and knowledge of household utilities needed for the billboard and advertising columns. She represents the home in business.

"The home economist in business can disseminate directly to the twenty-two million homes of our country the underlying principle of satisfaction for value received which contributes to the peace of mind, which is so essetial to the ultimate goal of education—namely better citizenship." In other words, education week is meant to teach the American people that they cannot be good citizens unless they are contented with their lot, and until they are willing to accept the idea of the profit system on which business is now run as the only possible course.

"School Life" Helps.

The "Education Week Broadside," however, goes deeper with its propaganda. We are not only to be contented with our small salaries, but we are supposed to worship the hard labor we perform to obtain that small salary. We are to salute the flag as a symbol of hard work in return for little money, and we are to smile while doing it and say we like it. If we don't smile, it will displease the American Legion, which, we are told by the bureau of education, "is one of the principal promoters of education week."

"An essential part of the education of our youth," the "Broadside" continues, 'is to impress upon them the fact that nothing can be acquired in his world without labor and that the very necessaries and comforts of life must be procured by earnest and regular exertion."

The department of the interior, thru the bureau of education has made the October issue of "Social Life" a special "education week number." Here, too, the keynote of obedience to the rules of the open shoppers is sounded. The leading editorial admonishes, "Businessmen should remember that popular education is the best possible stimulus to business." And now that "popular education" is controlled by the manufacturers who preach industrial wage slavery under the guise of "education week," the statement in School Life would appear to be true.

EIGHT ELKS DIE WITH SCORE ILL AFTER SPREE ON SOME HARD CIDER

BEDFORD, Va., Nov. 12.—Eight men have died and from fifteen to twenty others are so seriously ill that more deaths are feared as a result of drinking cider at the Elks' National Home near here. All the dead and those ill are residents of this home.

Chester Tucker, Lima, Ohio.
Joseph A. Kinney, Marion, Ind.
Alvin Spaulding, Loveland, Colo.
Thomas F. Madigan, Long Island City, N. Y.
George Slade, Saginaw, Mich.
C. S. Whitney, Omaha, Nebraska.
Frank O'Connor, Dallas, Texas.
C. S. Allen, Portland, Ore.

All the physicians in Bedford went to the home, and in addition a call for aid was sent to Lynchburg. Several physicians from that city rushed here to try to save the lives of those made ill.

Omaha Celebrates 7th Anniversary Of Soviet Russia

OMAHA, Nebr., Nov. 12. — The seventh anniversary of the Russian revolution was celebrated here successfully with a program of speaking and entertainment.

A dance given by little Miss Soref was especially good. This little miss, in Russian costume, executed the difficult steps of a Russian ballet dance with grace and precision. She responded to the applause with a Dutch dance in costume. A humorous reading in Yiddish by Mr. Morgenstern made a hit with the audience.

The speaker of the evening was W. E. Browder of Kansas City. He made a logical and convincing speech on the Russian struggle and achievements and also dealt with the European countries and the betrayal of the workers by the reformers, socialists, and social democrats. The speaker devoted much of his talk to the founding and building up of the DAILY WORKER.

David Coutts acted as chairman. Quite a few Lenin buttons were sold, the collection was good, and literature sales satisfactory.

Olive Oil for Sale.

MADRID—Olive oil manufacturers of Spain, in convention here, have decided on a campaign to improve foreign commercial relations, chiefly with America, with a view to augmenting export trade.

PHILADELPHIA, NOTICE!

SCOTT NEARING

will deliver a series of six lectures at the Progressive Library of West Philadelphia

4035 W. Girard Avenue

Every Friday Evening

(except Nov. 21) beginning with Friday, Nov. 14

Following is the most interesting schedule arranged:

Nov. 14—France's Struggle for Supremacy.
Nov. 28—Crushing Germany.
Dec. 5—Crumbling of the British Empire.
Dec. 12—American Imperialism at Work.
Dec. 19—Russia's Reconstruction.
Dec. 26—Can Imperialism Rebuild Civilization?

'YOUNG WORKER' SPECIAL

(Continued from Page 1.)

nounced the coming sale of the "Young Worker" the bosses and house detectives were out very early to get a copy. The workers inside the factory were warned not to buy a copy of the "dangerous anarchist sheet." When two house detectives appeared to purchase their copy they inquired as to the nature of the paper, asking if it was an anarchist paper. They were promptly informed that the "Young Worker" was a young Communist paper which was conducting a thoro investigation of the Sears, Roebuck plant. Fearing that the paper contained other than mental bombs they ran under cover and in their excitement forgot to buy their copy.

The young workers had no fear in purchasing their copies, going out directly under the noses of the bosses who looked on with a sour face.

Big Job Ahead.

The success met thus far in the campaign has far exceeded the anticipation of the comrades. It is expected from now on that greater and greater response will be forthcoming due to the enthusiasm displayed. On the very first day that the papers were put on sale 1,800 out of the 15,000 copies printed have been sold.

This means that with the same splendid cooperation on the part of the members of the Y. W. that all the papers will be placed into the hands of the young workers employed in the mail order industry.

Next week three other mail order houses will be tackled by the members of the Young Workers' League in their drive. They are Montgomery Ward & company, Butler Brothers and the Chicago Mail Order House.

Conditions Bad There Also.

Conditions under which the young workers in Montgomery Ward and company, Butler Brothers and the Chicago Mail Order House, have to work are even worse than the slave driving conditions in Sears, Roebuck and company.

The program for the rest of the week is as follows:

Sears, Roebuck and Company

Thursday and Friday at 7:30 a. m. and at 4:30 p. m. volunteers of branches 1, 4, 5 and 6 report at Armitage (900 S.) and Kedzie (3200 W.) to sell the "Young Worker" and collect names and addresses of the interested young workers.

Philipsborn's.

Thursday and Friday at 7:30 a. m. and at 4:30 p.m. volunteers of branches 2 and 3 report at Harrison (600 S.) and Paulina (1700 W.) to sell the "Young Worker" and collect names and addresses of interested young workers.

All Is Not Quiet in Baldwin Camp of British Capitalism

LONDON, Nov. 12.— Pulling and hauling between the forces within the tory party started today as Premier Stanley Baldwin's newly-formed cabinet got together in its first meeting.

There will be ample opportunity for these forces to express themselves before the new foreign policy is a matter of record, as present plans provide for a meeting of parliament, December 8, with adjournment at once until the middle of February.

Swanson—Not Schwandt.

In Monday's issue the report of the vote taken in the I. W. W. convention upon the report of the grievance committee to absolve Vern Smith, I. W. W. editor, from charges brought against him by Claude Erwin, the names of three delegates given as voting against Smith were Leonard, Murray and Schwandt. We are glad to say that Emil Schwandt did not vote as reported. Because of the similarity of names heard upon roll call, "Swanson" was mistaken for "Schwandt." Elmer Swanson and not Emil Schwandt voted against Vern Smith, and for pacifism.

Davis Sure to Resign.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Secretary of Labor James G. Davis is the only member of the cabinet who has indicated to President Coolidge his intention to resign on March 4, it was announced officially at the White House today. Davis is now enroute to South America to make an investigation of immigration problems.

Editor Turns Down Duel.

ROME—Senor Vettori, editor of Giornale D'Italia, has refused the fascist leader, Farinaccia's challenge to a duel, growing out of the fascisti-legionaires' clash, on the grounds that one "accustomed to the violence of speech and writing could not require moderation from others."

Baldwin Picks One Woman.

LONDON—Ministerial appointments effective today included that of the Duchess of Atholl as parliamentary secretary to the board of education. She was the only woman in the list of appointments made public by the Baldwin ministry.

Russian Lecture.

A lecture on the Third International will be given next Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Soviet School, 902 W. Division St. Speaker: N. Jadwanski. Admission free. The lecture will be in the Russian language.

O'BANNION MAY GO TO HELL, SAYS ROMAN CHURCH

Refuses Last Rites to Noted Gunman

The burial rites of the catholic church today were denied Dean O'Bannion, the gangster and killer who was killed Monday in his florist shop by three gunmen.

O'Bannion was a catholic and tho the action of the church is not unprecedented, it is unusual. Bootleggers, gangsters, and other gentlemen of easy virtue have had their funerals graced by the high dignitaries of the catholic church, in the past.

No Holy Water For Dean

Why was the exception made in the case of O'Bannion? Quite likely for the reason that the O'Bannion murder has excited more than ordinary interest and that the dead gangster's activities in recent elections when he supported Robert E. Crowe, brought him considerable enmity in democratic circles, which are much closer to the church than the republican side of the capitalist machine.

The police continue to weave fine theories about the cause of his death. Circumstantial evidence now strongly points to his recent political activities in behalf of State's Attorney Crowe as a strong clue. Crowe is strangely silent on the matter and the Chicago Daily News and Tribune, that appeared to be getting ready to open fire on the state's attorney have again drawn in their horns.

Knew Too Much

Many people are of the opinion that O'Bannion knew too much and that his continued presence on this planet as an animated chunk of protoplasm, was not conducive to sound sleep and quiet nerves.

News came from Denver, Colorado, that O'Bannion made heavy purchases of light artillery there recently. It is said that he got the firearms where the gunmen of the mining companies used to equip themselves for their wars on the union miners.

It is said that one of O'Bannion's companions in Denver was Louis Alttria, who carried cards bearing his name as president of Local No. 23, of the Chicago Janitors' Union.

Crowe Shields Criminals.

That State's Attorney Crowe is in direct connection with the underworld characters involved in the O'Bannion shooting and is shielding favored criminals, was charged by a well-known politician who was defeated by Crowe's party in the recent election.

"There is no doubt that State's Attorney Crowe has direct connections with the underworld, not only with the beer runners, bootleggers, and hijackers, but with the gamblers and keepers of vice dens," said this prominent lawyer and politician to the DAILY WORKER.

"For example, look at how the recent crime cases and shootings involving well known gun men and murderers have been handled. It is evident that some political power has been shielding these underworld characters. One of the state's attorney's investigators told me himself that he was sent out to gather up witnesses and facts to aid Hirschie Miller in his case. The way the Hirschie Miller case was handled was an outrage," the lawyer concluded. "If a private lawyer sold out his clients the way State's Attorney Crowe has been selling out the public, the lawyer would be dropped from the bar and chased from the country."

Police are still making half-hearted attempts to intercept the killer of the underworld king O'Bannion! They admit that in all his life O'Bannion spent only twelve months in jail and that was before he committed his numerous murders and became a respected millionaire criminal under political protection.

Jury Meets Nov. 25.

An investigation of underworld operations, which may flood the alleged wholesale rum and beer running activities throughout the nation with the spotlight of publicity, was forecast here today when a coroner's jury, empanelled to give judgement in the killing of Dean O'Bannion met briefly, formally opened the inquest, and then adjourned until Nov. 25.

The continuance was requested by officials "to allow more time for investigation."

The only witness called was Charles O'Bannion, father of the millionaire gangster, and his testimony was only routine identification.

Mexican Presidency no Joke.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 12.—Gen. Calles, officially declared president of Mexico by the electoral college, will take office Dec. 1, under difficult conditions. The chamber of deputies is divided into small cliques. Tho they all call themselves Callistas (that is supporters of the new president) many of them are in the chamber to fight for the reactionary interests of the church and the landed gentry.

BORAH URGES RECOGNITION OF RUSSIA IN SPEECH TO WOMEN

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 12.—Recognition of Soviet Russia was urged by Senator William E. Borah in a speech here before the annual banquet of the state council of republican women.

Borah urged recognition by the United States not because he approved of the Soviet form of government, but because "it is necessary to settle the Russian problem if we are to settle European affairs."

Borah is in line to head the senate foreign relations committee at the next session of congress owing to the death of Senator Lodge. "The Russian problem must be taken up," Borah said. "Recognition of Soviet Russia is a necessary step toward the economic rehabilitation of Europe."

No Effort Made to Arrest Workers Held for Trolley Crash

The three employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad who were bound over to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter, were still at liberty yesterday afternoon.

The coroner's office at the city hall issued mittimus for the arrest of William Ingraham, William Barber and Mathew Gaskett after the inquest adjourned Monday. The orders for the arrest of the three railroaders, who are charged with responsibility for the trolley-train wreck which killed ten people, are in the hands of the Hudson Ave. police.

The Hudson Ave. police station had made no effort to arrest these men yesterday afternoon, but told the DAILY WORKER they might be taken into custody "later in the day." They will be admitted to bail immediately, it is thought.

Try to Compromise Strike of Railroad Workers in Austria

VIENNA, Austria. — The general strikes of railroad workers reached a turning point when the president of the state railway lines went before representatives of the workers and offered a compromise.

The strike is not to be called off until the men vote to approve the agreement on Wednesday. The trains are still tied up. But if the compromise is approved Chancellor Seipel and his cabinet, who resigned at the beginning of the strike, is expected to return to "power."

Newmark, Charged With Counterfeiting, Let Off on Easy Bail

Ben Newmark, assistant state fire marshall, one of 70 named in warrants charging counterfeiting of liberty bonds and savings certificates, today was released under $5,000 bonds when arraigned before a United States commissioner here. Hearing was set for Nov. 20.

All's Quiet at South Bend.

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The male and female morons who make up the rank and file of the Ku Klux Klan, paraded 2,000 strong thru the catholic town of South Bend on Sunday. After the South Bend citizens had stared at them and they had stared back, the klansmen went back to their homes in other towns apparently disappointed in there being no occasion for a lynching.

Plenty of Potatoes.

WAKEFIELD, Mass., Nov. 12.— A bumper potato crop is reported by the crop reporting service of the local office of the department of agriculture today in Maine, New England and the country at large. The crop for the United States estimated at 454,119,000 bushels, which is even larger than the big crops of 1921 and 1922.

Fanatic Raids Churches.

PARIS, Ill., Nov. 12.—Vandals broke into the Presbyterian church of this city and damaged the large pipe organ to such an extent that an expert was called to repair the broken pipes. It become known today. Loss will be heavy. The vandalism is supposed to be the act of a religious fanatic and raids on other churches are feared.

Demand Naturalization.

NEW YORK, Nov. 12.—New York offices of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners announces that non-citizens becoming members of the organization must perfect their naturalization within five years or be dropped from the union, by decision of the intenational union.

Plan Radio as War Weapon.

The extensive use of radio in the private homes was being heralded as a factor in national defense here today as a result of yesterday's troop mobilization by radio as an armistice day stunt.

TWO DEGREES BELOW ZERO AT WINNIPEG IS GOOD START FOR WINTER

WINNIPEG, Manitoba, Nov. 12— At seven o'clock this morning Old Man Winter made a raid on Winnipeg thermometers and sent them scuttling for cover two points below the zero mark. At about noon the mercury had climbed back to zero and hovering around that point despite a cold wind from the North-east.

POWERFUL AMERICAN BUSINESS INTERESTS SEEKING CONCESSION

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 12.—Powerful American business interests are besieging Soviet Russia for concessions, and recognition of Soviet Russia seems nearer, Georges Chicherin, minister of foreign affairs, declared today.

"The United States needs manganese from Georgia and the Harriman interests are already negotiating with the Soviet government for concessions there," Chicherin added.

Chicherin characterized Secretary of State Hughes as "a man filled with piety for private property and hate for the Soviet government." He added that he had heard Hughes might resign, which would be followed by negotiations between the two countries. "This would be an important move for both countries," said Chicherin.

Emma Goldman Now Wants to Return to Capitalist U. S. A.

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Like a dog returning to its vomit, Emma Goldman, world famous birth control revolutionist of anarchist persuasion, is begging the capitalist government of Coolidge the strikebreaker to let her come back to live off the American labor movement.

Emma is now in London, after having resided for some time in a luxurious hotel apartment in the wealthy district of Berlin among her boon companions the moneyed white guard refugees from Russia.

The department of labor, acting supposedly upon her application for forgiveness, has refused to let Emma return. Probably Secretary Davis is of the opinion that worse counter-revolutionary characters than Coolidge's cabinet are not wanted here to compete with Silent Cal's gang.

Wisconsin Bank in Trouble.

WONEWOC, Wis., Nov. 12.— A check up on the funds of the Citizens' State bank here was in progress today following the arrest of E. N. Hanselik, president, and the closing of the institution by the state banking department, when a shortage of approximately $35,000 was found. Hanselik is being held under $2,000 bonds.

No Tax Reduction.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—The administration does not think it advisable to urge tax reduction legislation at the approaching short session of congress, Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced today following a conference with President Coolidge. Mellon said the question of holding an extraordinary session of congress after March 4 had not been considered.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

INVENTOR OFFERS HIS DEATH RAY TO CALVIN COOLIDGE FOR $250,000

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12.—Edwin R. Scott, San Francisco inventor, announced today following a conference with President Coolidge that he had offered his "death ray" to the president for $250,000.

Scott declared his invention was similar in many respects to the artificial thunderbolt which Steinmetz produced several years ago. His "death ray," Scott said, will kill at one and one-half miles.

Flow-Meters Bosses Refuse to Confer with Machinists

The Flow-Meters corporation has refused to confer with the striking machinists who are about to enter the sixth week of their strike against a drastic wage cut, J. J. Uhlman, business agent of the International Association of Machinists, told the DAILY WORKER yesterday.

Benjamin Marshman, the "government conciliator" who has built up a reputation for trying to settle strikes on the companies' terms, has conferred with Spitzglass, the general manager of the Flow-Meters factory. Marshman says that Spitzglass is "a good fellow who is fair to the workers." The manager, however, had been active in trying to hire scabs and has refused so far to recognize the machinists' union.

The picket line continues firm, and only a few scabs are at work, these being incompetent. But little work is being produced in the Flow-Meters machine shop.

Rhode Island and Massachusetts Cast Votes for Communism

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 12— In Rhode Island the presidential count gives Foster 234. For governor the Communist candidate, Theihbert, received 234 votes.

In Lawrence, Massachusetts, the returns show that the Workers Party received votes as follows: Foster for president, 133; Ballam for governor, 131, for lieutenant governor, E. R. Stevens, 370; Albert Addle, for treasurer, 494; for auditor, James J. Lacey, 612; for attorney general, Harry C. Kanter, 661; and for senator, Antonitte F. Kosikow, 465 votes.

In New Bedford, Massachusetts, the workers party got 672 votes out of the 3,087 cast. At New Britain, Conn., the Workers Party received 85 votes.

End of Wild Days After Election on N. Y. Stock Market

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 12.—The post-election boom in the stock market in which a ton of bulls cleaned up on enthusiastic investors, ended with a bang yesterday when a number of the more active stocks which had led the market stopped climbing and began to fall from 1 to 3 points.

This is the same way the brokers gathered in the coin when the English election served up the tories at the rise to power of Baldwin, the reactionary. History may repeat itself, but the lambs come bleating in for the shearing and what are the poor brokers to do?

Want Big Damages.

JOLIET, Ill., Nov. 12.—Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold jr., sons of millionaire exploiters of labor, who are serving a life term in the Joliet penitentiary for murder, were made defendants in a $100,000 damage suit yesterday. Charles Reum, taxi driver, charges the two rich youths kidnapped and mutilated him on the night of November 21, 1923.

Something for After Election.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12— A veritable Pandora's box of surprises may be opened by the treasury which the government will start soon after election to determine the legality or illegality of newspaper publication of income taxes. This was admitted today by government officials who are still divided on the legal phase of the matter.

Crossing Takes Another Victim.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 12— With the death of Fredia Holden, 8-year old Negro school girl, the total number of victims in the crash of a Baltimore & Ohio train and a school bus filled with Negro children, reached four today. Five others were seriously injured.

Strike Ties Up Berlin Subway.

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 12— Traffic on the Berlin underground railways stopped today when the employes went on strike in consequence of a wage dispute.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

TEMPERANCE FANATIC PROMISES NOT TO SELL ANY MORE BOOZE, AFTER SHE GETS OUT OF JAIL

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MACHIAS, Maine, Nov. 11.—"I'll never do it again. I'll never sell another drop of liquor as long as I live."

With head bowed and tears streaming down her face Mrs. Laura Patten, temperance worker, and prominent in social circles, made this declaration today as she began her sentence of two months in jail for selling liquor.

"The disgrace is terrible. What will my children think? What will become of them while I am away? What must my friends think of me?" she continued.

"I never realized it would come to this. It seemed so easy and the risk so slight, but I learned my lesson. I'm thru with that business forever."

Mrs. Patten, characterized by the district attorney of Portland as the "most masterful of the two" was sentenced to two months and her husband, Lorenzo, to six months in jail.

It is understood that Mrs. Patten has made a complete confession to the authorities of the part she and others took in the Washington rum conspiracy. With this as a basis the authorities are expected to push conspiracy charges against several of the men sentenced on minor charges.

BAD CONDITIONS OF ANTHRACITE COAL DIGGERS

Reactionary Leaders in League with Bosses

By A. BIMBA.

The anthracite miners are well organized into the United Mine Workers of America. There are three districts, 1, 7 and 9, having a membership of approximately 150,000.

This rather large group of organized workers is composed mostly of foreigners. Their organization is controlled absolutely by labor fakers and traitors.

Recently I had the opportunity of speaking at ten or eleven mass meetings in District No. 9. I spoke with many miners as to their conditions in the mines and also in the union. I found that in those places where there are Communists who can speak English and who are interested in the organization, the situation is not so appalling.

The miners are very receptive to the progressive thought and action and if there are one or two active comrades, they are always ready to follow their leadership and fight not only the coal barons, but also their misleaders and labor fakers.

Hold No Meetings.

But in many places where there are no Communists and the locals are controlled by the followers of the reactionary machine, the situation is absolutely unbearable. The locals hold no meetings. The dues are being collected in the mines by the officers of the locals. And these officers have a very close understanding with the bosses and always work in the best places and make good wages. The members have to buy their jobs from their bosses either paying directly in cash or treating them with "moonshine." In other places the bosses are united with the saloon keepers and bootleggers. So, if you want to get a job, you have to get it thru the saloon keepers. And after you do get it, you must be good to the saloon keepers and the bosses. That means, you must spend your wages with them.

Just As Crooked.

Such bribery and corruption is tolerated by the local unions. Higher officials are also not interested in what is going on in the local unions because they themselves are in alliance with the coal barons.

It is up to the progressive and class conscious miners to remedy this situation. It is a mighty hard job, of course, but it must be done. The times of progress and revolution are very numerous and powerful. They are composed of the mine owners and the union leaders who are contented with things as they are. They do not want a change for the better because that would mean losing their well-paid jobs.

The Workers Party of America must pay more attention to the miners. There is a very fertile field for Communist work. There is a possibility of organizing party branches in many localities. Just a few days ago a Lithuanian branch of the Workers Party was organized in Shenandoah, Pa. It is composed of very good and active comrades. Some of them can speak English well and would be more than glad to help the party organization to exploit the English field for Communist activities.

Afraid of Communists.

The union misleaders are very much afraid of Communists. They are simply trembling as before the approaching lava of an active volcano. You can almost feel that fear on their part, if you happen to hear them talk or attend a meeting where they are present. I had the opportunity of being present at one of the sessions of the convention of District No. 9. That was on October 29, in Shenandoah, Pa. Oct. 29 was a holiday for the miners. They were celebrating the death of their former president, John Mitchell. On that day the convention had only one session, before noon. It was devoted entirely to speeches. And Mr. Golden, the president of District No. 9 was to make a speech eulogizing the dead president.

Mr. Golden spoke. He started with great praise for John Mitchell, telling the delegates how good, honest, sincere, holy and etc., was John Mitchell. He spoke no longer than a few minutes about John Mitchell and then dropped his subject and started to attack the Communists. It seemed so out of place to mix up a dead man with living and active Communists, but Mr. Golden went on with his tirade. He told his audience that Comrade Myerscough is in Minersville, Pottsville, Mahoney City and Shenandoah hunting and trying to organize Communist branches. Of course, Comrade Myerscough is sent here by "Moscow" and the miners should have nothing to do with him.

Threatened The Miners.

Mr. Golden warned the delegates not to admit Communists into their local union under the pain of severe punishment, if they disregard this "holy" instructions. The poor members of the United Mine Workers of America must again obligate themselves to Mr. Golden and promise not to do anything that would in any way injure his fat salary or nice and warm place. Especially now when the convention is about ready to vote to raise the salaries of their officials by 10 per cent. (At the next session the salaries were raised.)

Mr. Golden spoke ten times longer about the Communists and Comrade Myerscough than about his "saint" Mitchell, tho it was understood by every one that his speech will be devoted entirely to the dead man. At the end of his tirade against the Communists, Mr. Golden remembered his subject and abruptly finished as follows:

May Be In Hell?

"God gave us John Mitchell, some mother had borne him and I hope that he is in heaven!" You see, the Communists mixed up poor Mr. Golden's head and, therefore, he forgot where John Mitchell now really is. He was not sure that he is in heaven. He only hopes that he is there. There was no Billy Sunday to explain to Golden the real location of his dead leader.

Listening to Golden's speech I really felt sorry for him. He is so afraid that the Communists will come along and arouse the miners against their fake leaders.

In Memory of our Teacher

THE MARK OF A LENINIST

This bronze, art medallion button of Nicolai Lenin—one inch in size—and of beautiful design—you will want for yourself and as a gift for your friends.

If you don't already own one of these life-lasting medallion buttons—by all means

BUY IT FROM THE DAILY WORKER AGENT IN YOUR CITY!

50 Cents Each

Add 5 cents for postage if you wish to have it by mail

From .....

THE DAILY WORKER

1113. W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

Enclosed find $..... for ..... Lenin Buttons.

Name: .....

Street: .....

City: ..... State: .....

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, Local Chicago

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Friday November 14

722 Blue Island Avenue

OLIVER CARLSON, speaker.

A review of our mail order house campaign will be made and our program of immediate action will be discussed.

LEGION AND KU KLUX HOODLUMS ATTACK MEETING

United Front of Fascisti at Chester, Pa.

By HARRY M. WINITSKY.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CHESTER, Pa., Nov. 12.—I arrived at Chester, Pa., at the Library Hall at 8 p. m. and found the hall jammed with over 400 people.

I was immediately informed by the local comrades in charge that the mayor of Chester had tried to prevent the meeting.

He notified the committee that the legion and the K. K. K. had threatened to break up the meeting and he could not prevent it. The committee further informed me that when they came to the hall at 7:30 p. m. to open it they found it packed by the K. K. K. and that only about 25 workers had succeeded in getting into the hall. The rest were kept out by these hoodlums.

Poor Deluded Tools.

Comrade Yusim, from Philadelphia, opened the meeting and introduced a Ukranian speaker who spoke for 10 minutes and then a Lithuanian speaker also spoke for 10 minutes. Then the chairman introduced me. After I had spoken for about 15 minutes at a given signal the entire gang arose from their seats and began to raise a commotion threatening to lynch the speaker and break up the meeting.

A crowd of these ruffians started for the platform but a half dozen police barred their way. They then began to argue with the chief of police whose name is Vance and demanded that I be arrested and that the meeting be broken up. This the chief of police refused to do. I again started to speak but the gang raised so much noise that it was absolutely impossible to continue. Groups in the crowd were yelling get a rope, lets tar and feather these damned Bolsheviks and such other sweet remarks.

Workers Stand by Speaker.

During all this excitement about 25 workers remained in their seats. I appealed to them to support the Workers' Party and they responded with a collection of $13.85. We sold out all the literature and 50 copies of the DAILY WORKER.

When the chairman and the two other speakers and I tried to leave the hall we found a mob of about 300 to 400 waiting outside ready for action. The chief of police tried to break them up but they refused to budge. He then ordered his police to make a passage way for us. We were surrounded by the police and escorted to the station, in the meantime the crowd became larger and larger and made a number of attempts to attack us, but we were surrounded by the chief of police, six detectives and about a dozen uniformed men.

Thirsty for Blood.

On the way to the station the chief of police informed me that the chamber of commerce, the American Legion, the local business men the K. K. K. and other organizations and individuals had threatened to tar and feather the speakers if they were allowed to talk. The mayor of Chester and the police chief had tried to prevail on us to give up the meeting but we refused stating that we had the right and that we would hold the meeting. When we got to the station the crowd was still there and the police chief and a group of detectives were compelled to go with us on the train to Philadelphia in order to prevent an attack on us by the hoodlums.

One hundred per cent Americanism is now vindicated in Chester, Pa. and the K. K. K. and the American Legion gangsters and thugs have succeeded in proving their loyalty to Coolidge the strikebreaker, and the Teapot Dome officialdom. I informed the chief of police that we would soon hold another meeting there and he warned us not to try it as the next time the K. K. K. would attack him and his police as well and take us away from the police and that we would then be at the mercy of the crowd.

COMRADES AND BRANCHES, settle for October 12 Foster-Gitlow election campaign meeting and November 7 celebration tickets. Local needs money to cover expenses of these affairs.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS

IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES

INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.

NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.

529 So. Dearborn Street

Phone Wabash 6680

CHICAGO

MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

NOTICE—All Party and League members in the I. L. G. W. U. Attend meeting at Room 303, 166 W. Washington St., Thursday, Nov. 13, 8 p. m.

* * *

Party members in Carpenters' Locals attend meeting at 722 Blue Island Ave., Sunday, Nov. 16, 10 a. m. Very important.

* * *

Thursday, Nov. 13.

Mid City English, Emmet Memorial Hall, Ogden and Taylor Ave. William F. Dunne speaking on "Executive Committee C. I. Report."

Lithuanian No. 2, 1900 S. Union avenue.

Cz.-Slovak No. Berwyn, Sokol Oak Park, Roosevelt and Union Ave.

11th Ward Italian, 2439 S. Oakley Boulevard.

Scandinavian Lake View, 3206 N. Wilton Ave.

Scandinavian West Side, cor. Cicero and Superior St.

Scandinavian Karl Marx, 3733 Hirsch Blvd.

Friday, Nov. 14.

Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 61st St.

Lettish Branch, 4359 Thomas St.

N. Y. Party Activities

City Central Committee Delegates Notice.

The City Central Committee will meet Friday, Nov. 14, at 208 East 12th street, Room 2. The meeting was postponed from Friday, Nov. 7, on account of the celebration of the Russian revolution.

Important reports will be given of the campaign, our industrial work, and the activities of the Young Workers' League.

All delegates are urged to be present. A roll call will be taken and branches notified of non-attendance of delegates. The meeting will open promptly at 8:30.

Novy Mir Concert and Ball Promises Big Time to All

NEW YORK, Nov. 12—A grand concert and ball will be held on Saturday, Nov. 15 at Harlem Casino, 116th St. and Lenox Ave., for the benefit of Novy Mir the Russian Communist daily.

This affair which is being given for a very worthy cause promises such splendid entertainment that all who attend will be prompted by the desire to take in the very fine concert and meet all their friends as well as to help the best paper in the Russian language in this country.

Dancing All Night.

There will be a lively orchestra and dancing will last until the next morning so no one will go away with the feeling that he has not had a well rounded out and all round good time.

The artists taking part in the concert are well know to music lovers in New York City. Eugenia Arganova, lyric-dramatic soprano, will render several selections. There will also be such well known artists as Prof. Peter Mereblum, violinist, Peter Faber, baritone, John Fraser, violin cellist, G. Kukil, String Quintet, New York State Symphony Orchestra.

New Shenandoah Helps.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 12—The airship Shenandoah, which passed near San Diego yesterday enroute to the Seattle, started its northward flight after the landing of the ZR-3. The United States navy is working up sentiment for navy day, and as soon as excitement in the most recent crossing of the German ship had died down a little, the Shenandoah went into action again, so as to keep the public interested in the navy until navy day.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

"The American Boom Is at an End . . ."

Says Prof. E. Varga in his "The Decline of Capitalism," a pamphlet just received from Europe. Also: "Will not the militaristic-imperialist policy of Poincare gain the upper hand, which fact would lead to a new catastrophe of the mark, since the Rentenmark, an artificial creation, would by no means be able to withstand such a blow?" A most timely pamphlet 25c

From the 4th to the 5th World Congress.

Report of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, covering 45 different sections, including U. S., Canada, Mexico, Argentine, etc. It briefly summarizes the activities of the Executive Committee and its various sections. The United Front, the Trade Unions, Agrarian Questions, etc. A year book of the C. I. Single copy 25c

In lots of ten or more 15 cents. Order while the supply lasts.

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

TALLENTIRE IN DEBATE HITS AT LA FOLLETTEISM

Seattle Labor College Hears Communist

By AARON FISHLERMAN.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SEATTLE, Wash., Nov. 12—In a spirited debate last night between Norman H. Tallentire, Communist district organizer of the Workers Party of America, and U. G. Moore, representing LaFollette and the progressive party, held under the auspices of the Seattle Labor College, on the subject, "Communist vs. Progressive Candidates," the Communist speaker, in a most capable manner, presented the Communist position and unmasked and shattered LaFolletteism. It was the first time during this election campaign that an opportunity presented itself and made it possible for the Communist Party in this district to meet the LaFollette forces face to face. Each side was given twenty minutes to state its position, and ten minutes for rebuttal.

Gives History of Communism.

In opening the debate, Comrade Tallentire stated that Communism is not a new philosophy insofar as it was enunciated seventy five years ago by Karl Marx and Frederick Engels in the Communist Manifesto printed in 1848, and that it is a science based upon the materialist conception of history and the theory of the class struggle. "This philosophy," stated the speaker, "is a cosmic philosophy, dealing with all written history and is frequently misunderstood and misinterpreted even by its friends."

LaFollette and MacDonald.

In comparing political parties of the present day, Tallentire stated that the LaFollette party in America, just the same as the labor party in Great Britain, the social-democratic party of Germany, and the Herriot party in France, has no permanent solution for the problems of the working class. In referring to LaFollette's attempt to dominate personally American labor politics, Tallentire quoted an article written by R. D. Cramer, editor of the Minneapolis Labor Review, previous to the St. Paul convention last July, the convention called for the purpose of launching a labor party was subjected to a vicious attack by LaFollette himself. "This convention," said Cramer, "is not called to crown a king, but is called for the purpose of launching an independent political party of labor."

The speaker dealt at length upon the political party of the workers which the Communists advocate and stated, if the workers are to win, they must have a real labor party of their own controlled absolutely by the rank and file of the working class and rooted in the economic organizations of the industrial workers and working farmers. Referring to, and comparing the Communist and progressive presidential candidates—William Z. Foster and Robert Marion LaFollette—the speaker emphasized the fact that Foster is a worker, who has devoted all his life to the cause of the working class, while the latter has been and still is a republican politician, representing the wealthy farmers and the small business interests.

LaFollette Role in Labor Party.

The speaker charged that LaFollette was largely responsible for killing the attempt to form a real farmer-labor party in America by his attack upon the St. Paul convention. He further stated that among the supporters of LaFollette and Wheeler are several multi-millionaires, such as Rudolph Spreckels, the California "sugar king," and Frank Vanderlip, one time president of the National City Bank of New York; also by labor leaders of the type of Samuel Gompers and William H. Johnston, who have consistently fough against any real formation of a labor party for many years.

Worst Open Shops in Milwaukee.

Moore, stating his position in a mild, quiet manner, laid stress upon the good qualities of LaFollette, the individual, and also upon two main planks of the LaFollette platform—national ownership of railroads and prevention of war by referendum vote. In rebuttal, the Communist speaker showed the utter fallacy of both proposals and the poor record of LaFollette in Wisconsin, where the worst open shop conditions to be found in any part of the country obtain in Milwaukee, the metropolis of the state where LaFollette reigns supreme in state politics.

Brookhart Vote Is Slipping in Canvass Of Election Ballots

DES MOINES, Iowa, Nov. 12—The lead of Senator S. W. Brookhart over his opponent, Dan F. Steck, is being reduced by returns from the county election boards which started an official canvass of the votes yesterday. Brookhart has lost about 300 votes so far in 58 out of 99 counties in Iowa. Almost every county has made a change from its original count. But no explanation is made as to why they couldn't have been correct at first. As it stands, Brookhart leads Steck by only 743 votes.

RUSSIAN RECOGNITION ISSUE HAS FORCED NEW JUGO-SLAV ELECTION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

VIENNA, Austria, Nov. 12.—Police prevented an attempted demonstration of Communist sympathizers in Belgrade, who favored continued friendly relations on the part of Jugo-Slavia with the Russian Soviet government.

The Jugo-Slav parliament has been dissolved and pending a new election Nikola Pashitch and Marko Trinkovitch have been designated by King Alexander to run the government.

The influence of the peasant leader Stephan Raditch, is increasing, and the conservative element is fearful of great gains of the radicals in the coming elections. Raditch, a Croatian, was recently refused an audience with the king because of differences over relations with Russia. Raditch favors friendly relations with the Soviet government, pointing out that Chicherin has offered Jugo-Slavia Russia's moral and material support.

Athletic Games of Workers' Sport Clubs A Great Success

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 12.—Over fifty athletes, speaking half a dozen languages, took part in the Workers' Sport Alliance International Athletic Carnival in College Point. The following clubs were represented: A. C. Kamraterno; A. C. Vess; A. C. Toverit, Hungarian Workers' Athletic Club; Jugo-Slav Workers' Club; A. C. Kanaskoura, and the Czecho-Slovak Workers' Gymnastic Federation of New York.

The following were among the first ones in the events:

Shot Put (12 lb)

1. M. Elo, A. C. Toverit, 12.21 metres.
2. H. Sjoman, A. C. Toverit, 11.10 metres.
3. V. Furu, A. C. Kamraterno, 11.80 metres.

Running Broad Jump.

1. O. Suominan, A. C. Vess, 5.58 metres.
2. J. Paasi, A. C. Vess, 5.57 metres.
3. L. Wax, A. C. Vess, 5.29 metres.

200-Metre Run

1. L. Wax, 26.1 sec.
2. J. Paasi, 26.7 sec.
3. W. Williams, A. C. Vess, 26.8 sec.

Javelin Throw

1. V. Furu, A. C. Kamraterno, 41.25 metres.
2. F. Alshved, A. C. Kamraterno, 29.86 metres.
3. M. Elo, 28.87 metres.

800-Metre Run

1. J. Paasi, 2 min. 22.5 sec.
2. W. Williams, 2 min. 26.8 sec.
3. H. Backlund, A. C. Kamraterno, 2 min. 24 sec.

Running High Jump

1. W. Isohio, A. C. Vess, 1.56 metres
2. O. Suomisen, 1.50 metres.
3. W. Backlund, A. C. Kamraterno, 1.45 metres.

2-Mile Run

1. J. Paasi, 11 min. 24.2 sec.
2. W. Relander, A. C. Vess, 11 min. 25.9 sec.
3. Salminen, A. C. Toverit, 11 min. 45.6 sec.

200-Metres Relay

1. A. C. Vess, 2 min. 15.5 sec.
2. A. C. Toverit, 2 min. 19.9 sec.
3. A. C. Kamraterno, 2 min. 24.6 sec.

Soccer Ball

A. C. Kamraterno vs. Hungarian Workers Athletic Club; H. W. A. C. won 2 to 1.

WOMEN'S EVENTS:

100-Metre Dash

1. Kathry Lundy, A. C. Toverit, 15.2 sec.
2. Lena Sodderman, A. C. Kanaskoura, 15.4 sec.
3. Aili Keinanen, A. C. Vess, 15.8 sec.

Shot Put (8 lb)

1. Aino Wax, A. C. Vess, 7.62 metres.
2. Aili Keinanen, 6.95 metres.
3. Anna Koklinen, A. C. Toverit, 6.86 metres.

Running High Jump

1. Kathry Lundy, 1.25 metres.
2. Aino Wax, 1.15 metres.
3. Lena Sodderman, 1.05 metres.

EVENTS FOR BOYS UNDER 18:

100-Metre Dash.

1. Paul Ahola, A. C. Toverit, 14.2 sec.
2. John Woodland, A. C. Kanaskoura, 14.9
3. Elmer Soderman, A. C. Kanaskoura, 16.1 sec.

Running High Jump.

1. Paul Ahola, 1.35 metres.
2. John Woodland, 1.20 metres.
3. Elmer Soderman, 1.15 metres.

Comrades interested in the work of the Workers' Sport Alliance write for information to Emil Tolkka, Secretary 628 E. 13th St., New York City.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

I. W. W. DELEGATES STILL FIGHTING AGAINST POLITICS

Again Stress No Alliance with Political Party

Sweeping amendments to the constitution of the I. W. W. promised in the early sessions of the convention now meeting at Emmet Memorial Hall, have not been forthcoming. The I. W. W. convention here rejected all plans to establish a clearing house system to replace the present form of general administration, and has ruled that dues remain at 50 cents instead of the proposed raise of dues to one dollar a month.

Discovery Long In Coming.

After several plans involving a general clearing house were discussed at great length, Delegate Speed declared, "There is not a damn one of us here that knows anything about a clearing house." The convention then tabled all plans so far presented for the clearing house method of organization, the only dissenting votes being those of Leonard and Swanson, 310 delegates.

Delegate Henrickson of the construction workers, spoke in favor of an article in the constitution prohibiting any person from representing the I. W. W. without credentials. Henderickson said he had heard "I. W. W. members shout 'Hurrah for the Workers Party'," and that such practices should be stopped.

"Crucify Him!"

The convention embodied in its constitution a section refusing any alliance with a political party, and another section declaring that "no organizer shall advocate a political party platform." Wellnder favored this on the grounds that Hall, who was on the I. W. W. payroll in Seattle, was at the same time running for sheriff on the farmer-labor party ticket.

Australia Feels It Is Not Bound by the Treaty with Russia

(By The Federated Press)

MELBOURNE, Australia, Nov. 12—Australian interests are in no way affected by the treaty signed between the governments of Britain and Soviet Russia. This announcement was made in the Australian federal parliament by the prime minister, Mr. Bruce, who said:

"The subject matter of the treaty is confined practically and entirely to questions at issue between Britain and Russia, and the interests of Australian nationals are not affected by the arrangements that have at present been entered into.

"In view of this fact the Australian federal government, while having been informed thruout the negotiations of the treaty of the steps that were being taken, has felt that this is a question for the determination of the government of Britain, as only that government is concerned with the questions at issue."

Come Over!

At any time during the day or evening if you have an hour to spare—come over and volunteer your help to enable us to get out a heap of mailing, inserting and other odd jobs on the campaign to increase the circulation of the DAILY WORKER and the WORKERS MONTHLY. We are very busy and have loads of work—help us out—come over!

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, NOV. 15

1. The British Elections..... Associate Editor of "Workers' Weekly"
2. The Red Soldiers' Manuel—First Installment..... By Leon Trotsky
3. Sound the Alarm—An Analysis of the Election Results..... By Alexander Bittelman
4. Campaigning for Communism..... By William Z. Foster
5. Keeping Them Young and Red..... By Max Shachtman Editor, "Young Worker"
6. Anatole France, the Comrade..... By Charles Rappaport
7. Problems Facing the American Federation of Labor Convention..... By J. W. Johnstone
8. How Much?..... By Robert E. Dunbar

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

FARRINGTON IS SCUTTLING THE MINERS' UNION

Treasury Exhausted in Paying "Back Salaries"

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 12.—The last published quarterly report of the secretary-treasurer of District No. 12 (Illinois), United Mine Workers, showed they took in for dues, fines, assessments and so forth $255,699.09 and expended in the same period $355,074.19, in other words the report (swindle sheet) indicated they run behind $99,375.10 for the 91 days in that quarter or an average of approximately $1000 a day for the period including Sundays.

At this rate the Illinois miners' treasury will not last as long as the three year agreement. Nor was this money spent for strikes.

Of the above amount there was spent $81,100 for relief and aid and the balance for salaries and alleged expenses of the officers, attorneys, stool pigeons, wrecking crews and so forth. One of the stool pigeons was the former mayor of Zeigler, Bill Horgan, who is alleged to have stolen the vote for Farrington for a number of years and finally lost his graft at Zeigler and had to be taken care of by Farrington to keep him quiet as he could tell some wonderful stories. No one knows what Hogan's duties are except to boost for Farrington and help get the votes on election day and have Workers Party members run out of Zeigler if they chirp against Farrington or his machine.

Faking Accounts.

During the strike of 1922 the official family of Illinois made a pretense of donating their salaries during the strike. Some of them charged up the amount to "telegrams while traveling" and in other ways made up for the loss and now they are sneaking it out of the treasury as "back salaries." Some did it boldly while others are taking it out so that it won't appear before election time but they are all grabbing as they realize the bird is about plucked and they are getting it while the getting is good. Of the alleged "balance on hand" only a part of it is real money but much it it is only paper and cannot be realized on.

During the last strike the money collected for strike purposes for years was not available for strike purposes but had been stolen or squandered in salaries and padded expense accounts and the officials borrowed some two hundred thousand dollars in order to pay out five dollars per member for a five month strike or at the rate of one dollar per month. Some benefits. This was the strike that Farrington tried to break by forcing a separate wage agreement at a reduction in wages and actually had the executive board support his position but there was such a storm raised that he was forced to back up on the matter and allow the miners to win the strike despite his promise to the operators to give them a substantial reduction in wages and a settlement in June.

Has Willing Tools.

Farrington now boasts that he received 232 nominations in the recent primary but fails to show where they were received. A good pencil and some willing tools can work wonders in an election in the Miners' Union. One can comb the mining centers of Illinois and outside of those on the payroll scarcely a miner will admit that he ever voted for Farrington either in the primary or at election time, in fact, Farrington himself admits that he does not need votes to be elected as he brazenly states "I don't give a god damn whether you fellows vote for me or not, I'll be your next president anyway." A clear cut admission that he does not depend on votes to retain his power.

In the now famous "Herrin" case where civil war broke out between the scabs and union miners and a number on both sides were killed Farrington had given permission to the Lester company to do work during the strike. Protests were made to him against his blundering order to permit this mine to strip coal but to no avail. It has been alleged that he was well paid for this piece of treachery but after giving the permission and the deaths occurred he then made a pretense of getting behind the Herrin miners with millions of dollars none of which has been accounted for to this time and not likely will be so long as he remains in his present stolen position.

Nothing for Unemployed.

Farington's officialdom has cost the Illinois miners millions of dollars but not a cent is available for those out of work and starving. 192 mines out of 397 are shut down and winter is staring them in the face. Children are barefoot and without the necessary clothing to go to school and yet Farrington charges up an average of seven dollars a day for hotel and takes the money out of the treasury while the men who pay his salary do not make this amount even when at work. Another term of Farrington and the once proud organization of Illinois, the boast of the organized labor movement will be but a sad memory.

Secretary Wanted

Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.

J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A SIMPLE ONE-PIECE APRON

A SIMPLE, PLEASING MODEL

4933. Wool mixtures, plaid suiting, and wash materials are good for this style. The sleeve may be in wrist length, or short as in the small view.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10 year size requires 2¼ yards of 32-inch material if made with long sleeves. If made with short sleeves 2¼ yards will be required. For collar of contrasting material ¼ yard is required.

4912. Striped seersucker or percale would be very good for this model. Drill, muslin and cretonne are also pleasing and serviceable.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: Small, 34-36; medium, 38-40; large, 42-44; extra large, 46-48 inches bust measure. A midium size requires 2¾ yards of 36-inch material. This model is cut without underarm seams.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN PURCHASERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

WORKER SUES STEEL TRUST ROAD

HIBBING, Minn., Nov. 12.—Too busy piling up exorbitant profits to inspect the brakes properly the Duluth, Missabe & Northern railway is defendant in a $25,000 suit by a mine loader for loss of his left leg. Peter Pengff suffered the accident, resulting in amputation, when the railroad's freight car passed over his leg after brakes did not act properly. The charge is negligence.

The Duluth, Missabe & Northern road is a steel trust subsidiary. It has paid amazing dividends to the steel trust for many years. Its 1922 dividend was 75 per cent. The same was paid in 1921 and 1920, or over $3,000,000 a year clear in paid dividends on its $4,112,800 stock.

Women's Groups Are Rallying to Help of Paterson Strikers

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 12.—The Women's Committee of the Workers Party and the United Council of Working Women are very active in collecting money for the Paterson strikers. In this work Councils No. 7 and 1 of Harlem; Hungarian Council No. 2, the Yorkville Council, the Finnish, Esthonian and Jewish comrades of the Workers Party have all taken active part.

Bronx Women Joining

On Wednesday, Nov. 12, at 8 p. m., Councils No. 8 and 5 will have a joint meeting at 1347 Boston Road, Bronx. A joint committee of the W. C. W. P. and I. C. W. W. will be organized to help the Paterson strikers. Bronx women must come to this meeting.

The collection for Paterson strikers to date follows:

Councils No. 7 and 1—Harlem

Celia Mitgang, 152 E. 106th St., N. Y.
List No. 2829	$14.10
Kate Fabricant, 292 E. 97th St., N. Y., List No. 2861	2.40
Open Air Meetings Collections
Mad. Ave. & 106th St., Sept. 27	11.00
110th St. & Park Ave., 112th St. & Park Ave., 103rd St. & 2nd Ave., Oct. 2, 4 and 6	23.35
Councils No. 8, Bronx—Open Air Meetings
Washington Ave. & Claremont Pk., Sept. 27	10.00
Hungarian Council No. 2.
M. Kertesz, 350 E. 81st St., N. Y., List No. 2880	3.65
Emma Farber, 246 E. 65th St., N. Y., List No. 2880	1.50
List No. 2881	3.25
List No. 2882	2.20
List No. 2883	2.45
List No. 2884	4.65
Kate Gilling, 46 Greenwich Ave., N. Y. List No. 2835	7.35
List No. 2842	13.82
D. Milgran, List No. 2891	5.10
Helena Toukala, Finnish Harlem Br. W. P. 130 E. 64th St., N. Y.
List No. 2877	$17.05
List No. 2844	10.80
List No. 2849	6.85
Hilja Knokkoner, List No. 2844	2.00
Emma Linkkoner, List No. 2844	9.74
Anna Wilson, List No. 2846	4.85
Anna Wiskari, 15 W. 126 St., N. Y., List No. 2851	6.85
J. Noble, Esthonian Harlem Br. 17 E. 107th St., N. Y.
List No. 2901	8.00
List No. 2878	11.00
Rose Nevin, L. C. U. C. W. W., L. C. No. 4, 200 E. 127 St., N. Y.
List No. 2923	5.10
List No. 2929	2.25
List No. 2938	12.35
List No. 2932	5.70
Collection Open Air Meeting	1.47
Hungarian L. C. No. 2,
S. Hasky, 410 E. 85th St., N. Y. List No. 2809	6.75
List No. 2895	2.50
List No. 2891	6.10
C. C. C. Workers Party, 1134 Prov. Ave. No. 8, Pittsburgh, Pa.	5.00
N. S. Englin Br. W. P., Pittsburgh, Pa.	5.00
Ss. Slavic Br. W. P., Pittsburgh, Pa.	10.00
F. Pillat, 330 E. 79th St., N. Y., List No. 2896	18.00
G. Hasky, 410 E. 85th St., N. Y. List No. 2893	4.30
H. Rosenberger, 233 E. 80th St., N. Y., List No. 2900	5.05
Councils No. 7 and 1 Harlem
T. Steinberg, 700 W. 112 St., N. Y., List No. 2832	4.25
Mrs. Sternin, 69 E. 109 St., N. Y., and Mrs Slabodkin, 65 E. 102 St., N. Y. List No. 2843	2.50
List No. 2825	2.75
List No. 2827	2.50
Sarah Cherin, 11 E. 113 St., N. Y. List No. 2831	5.00
Collection on Open Air Meeting	2.55
Sarah Singer, W. C. W. P., 1642 Anthony Ave., List No. 2939	9.25
C. Milgran, H. C. No. 2, 350 E. 81 St., N. Y., List No. 2890	6.85
Szanto, H. C. No. 2, 346 E. 65th St., N. Y., List No. 2886	5.10
Irma Fulop, H. C. No. 2, 346 E. 65 St., N. Y., List No. 2885	2.50
Murik Alexs, 801 Ave. B, Galveston, Texas, Money Order	10.00
Total Amount	$345.70

The total amount was turned over to the Workers Party Relief Committee for the Paterson strikers, Nov. 7, 1924.

E. W. RIECK LUNCH ROOMS

Seven Places

62 W. Van Buren 42 W. Harrison
169 N. Clark 118 S. Clark
66 W. Washington 167 N. State
234 S. Halsted

PHONES, HARRISON 8616-7
Specialties: E. W. Rieck Boston Baked Beans and Brown Bread
Fine Soups and Fresh Made Coffee
Commissary and Bakery:
1613 Fulton Pl. Phone West 2549

AMALGAMATION CRYING NEED IN TEXTILE INDUSTRY

Workers Divided While Bosses Soak Them

By ART SHIELDS.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

NEW YORK.—Six rival unions are dividing the forces of the textile workers who wish to resist the wage reductions scheduled to come now that Coolidge and Dawes are safely elected. This lack of labor solidarity is generally regarded as the greatest asset of the open shop cotton and woolen manufacturers in New England and the southern states.

The great majority of the textile workers are outside any union. The division of the remainder into competing organizations makes common resistance enormously difficult.

Competing Unions.

If New England is again the scene of big textile strikes this winter a situation may develop similar to the great 1922 strikes when the United Textile Workers led the fight at Manchester, N. H., the Blackstone valley in Rhode Island and some smaller localities; with the Amalgamated Textile Workers prominent in the Pawtuxet valley of Rhode Island and the One Big Union and the United Textile Workers at Lawrence.

There were divisions of effort with some mutual recriminations among the striking unions and one of the largest unions, the American Federation of Textile Operatives, which controlled at Fall River and New Bedford stayed on the job with mills working overtime, tho furnishing some financial assistance to the struck localities.

The Leading Union.

The United Textile Workers is the leading union in the field in numbers and in support it can get from the American Federation of Labor. It is the only union with a membership in the southern states, tho its strength is very limited there.

Second in membership strength is the American Federation of Textile Operatives. This union has a few thousand members in Fall River and New Bedford. It has some strength in Salem, Mass., and in some smaller towns in Massachusetts and Connecticut. It is a very conservative organization but has taken a step towards unity by forming a loose link with several independent local unions in New England and Philadelphia and sits with them in annual conventions.

The Amalgamated Textile Workers' union has an active local in the Pawtuxet valley, Rhode Island and a scattering of members outside. It started out with a bang during the 1919 Lawrence strike. Later it lost its hold in Lawrence to the One Big Union. Should a big textile strike come this winter it expects to take the leadership in its Pawtuxet valley field again.

The One Big Union is not maintaining an office in Lawrence at present tho some members remain. The Industrial Workers of the World, who led the successful Lawrence strike of 1912 and some dramatic battles in other textile towns 10 and 12 years ago, are also lacking in New England organization today, their activity being limited to occasional meetings. Another independent industrial union, the Amalgamated Textile Workers' Council, claims 1,500 members in Rhode Island and Massachusetts and conducted a small strike in Middleboro, Mass., this fall.

It is safe to say that in no other industry is unionized labor so divided as in the field of cotton and wool. On the other hand the manufacturers are consolidating, both north and south.

Belgian Miners' 18th Week of Strike.

BRUSSELS, Nov. 12—The Belgian miners' strike, now in its 18th week in the Borinage basin, is assuming a revolutionary character. Mounted police fired into the masses of strikers early in October, but fired blank cartridges. In Quaregnon the streets have been barricaded, barbed wire and broken glass planted, street cars stopped, and in various districts moving picture shows were interrupted at the demand of the strikers. The workers demand adequate wages, shorter hours, and the overthrow of the Dawes' plan.

ANOTHER CENTRALIA WITNESS IN REPUDIATION OF TRIAL TESTIMONY

(By Defense News Service)

CENTRALIA, Wash., Nov. 12.—Elsie Hornbeck Sherlie, star witness for the prosecution in the trial of the industrial Workers of the World defendants following the Armistice Day tragedy here five years ago, has just come forward with an affidavit in which she declares that she never intended to identify Eugene Barnett positively as the man with a gun whom she saw in a window of the Avalon hotel where three parading American Legionaires were shot on November 11, 1919.

Her testimony was the deciding factor which brought about the conviction of Barnett, who with six of his fellow-unionists, is serving 25 to 40 years in prison.

Simultaneously with the Sherlie statement came another affidavit from Samuel Johnson, one of the jurors who convicted the I. W. W. defendants. Johnson declares the seven prisoners in Walla Walla penitentiary ought to be liberated; that he and his fellow-jurors, in finding the defendants guilty of second degree murder, understood that the penalty for that crime would be five to fifteen years; and that a commutation of sentences for the seven would be in keeping with the plea for leniency signed by the whole jury, which was ignored by Judge John M. Wilson.

Eugene Barnett, coal miner, was alleged to have shot Lieutenant Grimm from a window in the Avalon hotel. Mrs. Sherlie, then Elsie Hornback, bookkeeper in a garage across the street, saw a man with a gun in the hotel window at the height of the excitement. On the witness stand she expressed the opinion that Barnett had the same general appearance as the man with the gun—and, at one point, in answer to a question put by the defense, she did say yes, that in her opinion Barnett was that man.

But, she now declares: "It was never my intention to say on the witness stand that Eugene Barnett positively was the man with the gun whom I saw in the Avalon window.

Y. W. L. Branch OF Coal Miners Reports Progress

(Special to the Daily Worker)

DILLONVILLE, Ohio, Nov. 12—It is appropriate at this time when the Young Workers League has launched a national campaign in the mining industry to hear the report of one of the branches of the Y. W. L. located down in Dillonville, Ohio. This branch was organized exactly a year ago and is composed overwhelmingly of coal miners. These young workers know what it is to crawl thru the bowels of the earth in a most hazardous occupation where thousands are killed yearly. These young miners organized a branch of the Young Workers League and altho they are located away from the large industrial centers they have been one of the most active units in Ohio.

Active in Unions.

The report of the last year covers their various activities in every field. Every member of the branch who is eligible to union membership must belong to the union.

Preparations are being made to reorganize the branch definitely on the basis of shop nuclei in accordance with the national decisions.

Establish Live Junior Group.

This branch was also reponsible for establishing another Y. W. L. branch of miners in Bradley, Ohio. A live Junior movement under the direction of Comrade Kobylak has also been established. During the past year many contributions to various drives, totalling $15.00 have been given. These donations included the DAILY WORKER, $15.00, Y. W. L. national office $60.00, Labor Defense Council $45.00, Int. Workers' Aid $60.00, W. P. of Ohio $40.00, I. W. W. Defense $20.00, Farmer Labor campaign $25.00 and the Foster campaign $100.00.

This shows a good record of activity. In addition to the above many propaganda meetings with various comrades from Chicago and Cleveland have also been held.

Probe Revenue Bureau.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 12—The senate investigation of the bureau of internal revenue, including the enforcement of the prohibition law, will be resumed on November 19, it was announced this afternoon. Senator James Couzens, republican, of Michigan, will be in charge of the inquiry.

Your Union Meeting

Second Thursday, Nov. 13, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
5	Brick and Clay, A. O. U. W. Hall, Dolton, Ill.
13	Carpenters, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
62	Carpenters, 6416 S. Halsted St.
181	Carpenters, 1440 Emma St.
434	Carpenters, South Chicago, 11037 Michigan Ave.
504	Carpenters, Ogden and Kedzie.
115	Engineers, 3921 Houston Ave.
16324	Federal Labor Union, 2130 N. Robey
499	Firemen and Enginemen, Springfield and North Aves.
340	Hod Carriers, Harrison and Green
18	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
2	Marble Polishers, 810 W. Harrison
17329	Nurses, 771 Gilpin Ave.
	Painters' District Council, 1446 W. Adams St.
371	Painters, Dutt's Hall, Chicago Heights.
26	Paper Rulers, 49 E. Van Buren St., 3 p. m.
17301	Park Employes, 810 W. Harrison
774	Railway Clerks, 55th and Blackstone.
1269	Railway Clerks, 2124 S. Halsted St.
1344	Railway Clerks, Harrison and Green Sts.
877	Railway Trainmen, 64th & University, 8:15 p. m.
120	Signalmen, 1256 W. Washington St.
745	Teamsters, 9206 Houston Ave.

(Note—Unless otherwise all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

SICK AND DEATH BENEFIT SOCIETIES

MEETING TONIGHT.

German-Hungarian—631 Willow St. John Freifogel, Sec'y, 3741 Seminary Ave.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

Cleveland Workers Shivering in Front of the Factory Gates

CLEVELAND, Nov. 12. — Jobless Ohioans, many of whom probably voted for Coolidge and prosperity, are shivering before factory gates as winter approaches, awaiting the burst of industrial activity promised by the republican party.

Only one of every three men seeking jobs in Cleveland employment offices was successful. Seven thousand were turned away during election week, despite the unusual amount of street work which the local republican administration found needed in the month preceding the national election day. Dozens of busy Cleveland thoroughfares were suddenly torn to pieces as beneficiaries of ward bosses were given jobs. When these thousands end their labors in early November, an acute unemployment problem is foreseen.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 25 Years.
846 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

TIGHTEN KNOT ON RAILROAD LABOR'S NECK

Labor Fakers Continue to Sit Pretty

By CARL HAESSLER.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

As soon as the reactionary election landslide was safely recorded with its implied indorsement of the Esch-Cummins transportation act, U. S. district judge, James Wilkerson—the Daugherty rail injunction judge—twisted another knot in the attempt to hogtie railroad labor. If sustained, Wilkerson can imprison for contempt without jury trial.

Called to Obey.

Appealed to some time ago by the rail labor board Wilkerson ruled on Nov. 6, two days after the election, that railroad union representatives must obey the board's summons to testify or become liable to court action.

The case immediately in question was the western railroads and the engine service brotherhoods. Negotiations on wage and working rules had gone on intermittently when the roads suddenly took the case to the board. The unions refused to appear before the board, preferring direct conference with the roads and charging that the board had shown itself deeply prejudiced against the workers in its decisions.

Autocratic Powers.

The brotherhoods will appeal the court's decision because its reactionary and usurpatory character is a most dangerous menace to union labor. If Wilkerson gets higher court backing he can order any unionist involved in a wage case to appear before the board in Chicago whether the man lives in Maine or California. If the rail worker refuses he is liable to sentence by Wilkerson for contempt of court. That means a jail sentence if Wilkerson feels like it. And the recent supreme court decision providing a jury trial will not protect the workers because this offense will not be a crime.

Other signs of the railroad-government offensive against rail labor are not lacking. For example, The Survey, a New York social welfare magazine, carries a page ad by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. with an attack on railroad unions. The insurance company, which is heavily interested in railroad securities, paints a scare-picture of what will happen to babies and invalids when railroaders strike and the milk supply is interrupted.

The Old Bogey.

"But our railroads have sometimes been hampered," reads the neatly dressed-up ad in The Survey, "and in October of 1921 they were threatened with a complete stoppage. At that time the authorities of the district of New York with 8,000,000 people to care for were at their wit's end. The flour would be exhausted in a month, the fresh meat in a week. The fresh milk so essential for babies and invalids would be gone in a day and storage was out of the question."

MURINE
For YOUR EYES
Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. H. S., 9 E. Ohio St., Chicago

YOU'RE IN FOR ONE H—LL OF A BIG TIME
at the
ENTERTAINMENT AND DANCE
of the Bronx English Branch No. 2, Workers Party
SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1924
at WORKERS' HALL, 1347 Boston Road, Bronx, New York
ADMISSION 50 CENTS, Incl. Hat Check.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:		By mail (in Chicago only)!
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$3.00...3 months
$3.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL } Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE }
MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

That Coroner's Jury

The whitewash brush has been generously used in fixing the blame for the wreck of a street car by a Milwaukee Railroad company freight train at North avenue two weeks ago and the resulting death of ten people.

The railroad company hires for altogether too little wages men to do its switching. It requires them to perform much work at top speed. It compels them, if they want to hold their jobs, to take a chance with their own lives and the lives of others. Why, then, is it surprising that the risk some of them took caused the wreck and the loss of human lives?

In holding a poor switchman and a pair of petty clerks who were unfortunate in being in direct charge of the freight train, for manslaughter, the coroner's jury is shielding and whitewashing the real criminals, the higher officers of the Milwaukee railroad company admitted by the jury itself to be responsible for the wreck. Why not hold the higher officials, the directors of the railroad for manslaughter?

The question is easily answered. The directors of the Milwaukee railroad are among the leading capitalist parasites of the nation. It is enough to mention one, J. Ogden Armour, emperor of the beef and pork business. Others are Mortimer N. Buckner, a financier with international connections, Donald G. Geddes, of the Western Union Telegraph, the Edison company and other corporations, W. E. S. Griswold, of a half dozen corporations, including the Remington Arms Co. Then there are Ed. Harkness of many other railroad directorships, Sam McRoberts of the sugar trust, and many others. Why not hold these multi-millionaires for manslaughter?

The reason is clear. The jury is a jury of capitalists. Therefore let capitalists, directors of the Milwaukee, responsible for the death of ten people, go scot free. But hold some obscure slave who is driven to break rules in order to hold his job. Such is the whitewash. It would end if the railroad men in this country had one fighting industrial union and when they are asked to violate rules of safety to hold their jobs, strike solidly. Or if workers are victimized while directors are white-washed to tie up the railroads until working class justice were done.

The First Assault

It appears as if the first assault of the reaction in the next congressional sessions will be on the tax question. There is still some doubt in the minds of political observers whether the Coolidge clique will attempt an immediate frontal attack on the tax problem in behalf of those interests that invested so heavily in bringing about the republican victory. Some believe that the administration will delay this effort until the new congress meets and then steam-roller a revitalized Mellon tax scheme thru a special session.

It is apparently certain, however, that the biggest employing class interests will brook no delay in getting rid of the limited publicity measure attached to the last tax bill passed by the democratic-LaFollette coalition. We may definitely look for a strong effort being made to repeal this section of the present income tax law. We can safely look forward to an abject democratic-LaFollette surrender to the black old guard of the Coolidge administration on this matter. There is considerable truth in the statement that the democrats and the so-called progressives have been substantially "sobered" by the stinging defeat administered them in the last elections. In plain English, this means that they have been driven back into helplessness before the advocates of unadulterated normalcy.

At no time have we looked upon the very limited publicity of the income tax law as being at all adequate or of positive help to the working masses. Yet it is interesting to note the tremendous hostility that the employing class always manages to generate to any legislative enaction which is not grossly conducive to the enhancement of their class interests. It would be useless for any one to expect thorough and complete tax publicity from a government and a press owned and controlled by the very class of exploiters that is seeking to dodge taxation.

To us the whole question of repealing the tax publicity law serves only as a barometer of the extent to which and the readiness with which the strongest section of our employing class is ready to launch its offensive against the working class. The swiftness with which the capitalists are acting to cash in on their victory ought to be a lesson to the workers in preparing to throw back their mortal enemies, the open-shoppers and bosses.

Get a member for the Workers Party and a new subscription for the DAILY WORKER.

McAndrew's Schools Policy

The superintendent of Chicago's public schools is trying the same economy stunt on the wealthy tax dodgers of Chicago that Calvin Coolidge so successfully tried on the national plutocrats.

In this city of millionaires and multi-millionaires, teachers are overworked and underpaid and the classes are already so large that the children would be better off by staying at home and getting "educated" by radio or attending a mass meeting. There cannot be any effort made to give individual attention to the pupils under those conditions.

The superintendent has a plan for reducing expenses that would be quite laughable but for the fact that the welfare of the workers' children is involved. He finds that too much money is spent on lunches for the children and that the bill for pencils must be reduced.

Yet this same economy hound is backing up a scheme to build $170,000,000 worth of schools in ten years, on a seventeen million a year schedule. If the city cannot afford to raise enough money to provide pencils for school work; if it must retrench on the cost of lunches for the children, how or where can it find the money for this big building scheme?

The answer is that McAndrew was imported from New York by the business interests to put over the junior high school system. Under this system robots will be turned out, trained to produce surplus values for the bosses. For this function in life a higher education is not only useless but dangerous to the bosses. The capitalists are willing to spend money on robot factories, but not on real educational institutions.

It is regrettable that the leaders of the Teachers' Federation do not make a real fight against McAndrew and his backers on the main issues and not make the interests of the teachers and the workers' children the football of capitalist politics. Margaret Haley, business agent of the Teachers' Federation, is an old and well disciplined politician. Under the tutelage of such arch reactionaries as Victor Olander and Oscar Nelson, she has evaded a fight on issues that would arouse class feeling, but made of the fight with the school board a personal matter between herself and McAndrew, who is but a tool of the big business interests.

Under such reactionarys and fossilized leadership, neither the interests of the teachers nor the interests of the school children will be served. The fight must be waged as part of the struggle of the workers against the bosses. Only in this way can McAndrew and his starvation plan for the teachers and the children of the working class be defeated. The present policy of riding with the hounds and running with the hare, followed by Margaret Haley, can only lead to defeat.

Internationalism and Labor Unions

Recent dispatches from eastern financial centers tell that a group of international figures comprising financial and industrial experts of capitalist economy are invited by the International Chamber of Commerce to meet soon and attempt to write another plan to make the Dawes plan workable. There are many significant things to say about this move, but the one outstanding fact is that capital is closely organized on an international scale.

While the American Chamber of Commerce is affiliated solidly with the International Chamber of Commerce, taking a leading and militant part, the American labor movement as a whole is completely isolated from world labor. The A. F. of L. even withdrew its previous weak connections with the timid reformist International Federation of Trade Unions of Amsterdam on the astonishing excuse that it was "too revolutionary."

Today, with American labor faced with the threat of the competitive struggle between low cost commodities produced by enslaved German labor under the Dawes plan and commodities produced by American workers, the A. F. of L. faces the problem of international connections to fight the wage cuts the bosses are planning. It is well known that the employers are awaiting with glee the beginning of another "open shop" drive.

Only the militant left wing in the A. F. of L. have any program to offset this danger. The Trade Union Educational League has sponsored a resolution which will come before the El Paso convention of the A. F. of L. when it meets next week. This resolution points out that the need of international affiliation is increasingly vital if the A. F. of L. expects to survive the attacks against it.

The T. U. E. L., however, does not stop with merely pointing out the need of affiliation. It shows that the only international of action, the only world body of unionists which leads the struggle of the workers against capitalism in all its forms is the Red International of Labor Unions, and it advocates the affiliation of the A. F. of L. to the Red International.

It is further pointed out by the T. U. E. L. resolution, that the A. F. of L. should not only affiliate with the R. I. L. U., but should aid thru its executive council the negotiations now going on between the Amsterdam International and the Red International of Labor Unions in order that complete and all embracing unity of all labor unions in the world into one international of class struggle should be evolved. The A. F. of L. convention has this task before it. How will it discharge this duty to labor?

One of the local labor hating papers wise cracks that: "The only thing turning Red these days are the October leaves."

Not so good. The DAILY WORKER is very much RED and the increasing circulation proves it 18 read.

That "Straight" Socialist Vote in New York

By ALEXANDER TRACHTENBERG.

THE socialist party headquarters in East Harlem bore the following legend during the campaign: Vote a straight socialist ticket—Vote for LaFollette for president; Wheeler for vice-president, LaGuardia for congressman.

The voters of Harlem, an old socialist stronghold, were invited to vote straight socialist by voting for an independent republican for president, for an independent democrat for vice-president, for another independent republican for congressman. "As you will sow, so will you reap," says an ancient proverb, which still holds good in politics. On Wednesday the S. P. leaders read the following returns:

Total vote for LaFollette in New York on progressive and socialist tickets—156,957.

Total votes for LaFollette on the socialist ticket—149,333.

Total vote for Thomas, S. P. candidate for governor, on same ticket 48,137.

The big question is: What happened to the that "straight" 100,000 socialist votes?

The answer is: They went straight to Al Smith, who needed them badly to win over Franklin D. Roosevelt.

The New York Evening Post characterized the wholesale socialist defections to the candidate in the following fashion: "The Rev. Norman Thomas, socialist-progressive candidate who was expected to cut into the democratic total, made no more difference in the result than if he had been running in Alaska."

Having said A, the S. P. leaders should have known that their loosely held voters will follow by saying B. The socialist leaders asked their voters to support a "progressive" republican for president and the voters improved upon their leaders by voting also for a "progressive" democrat for governor. This may be following instructions with a vengeance, but the fault lies with the leaders and not with their followers. The latter, at least, were consistent, even if they failed to vote intelligently.

It was expected that LaFollette would run ahead of the socialist candidate for governor. But those who selected to vote for LaFollette on the socialist ticket in preference of the progressive, represent the normal socialist voters and they were expected to vote for the S. P. candidates. The element of them who were led to believe by their leaders, all good S. P. members, that they may expect some favors from Governor Smith, and the East Side pushcart peddlers also habitual socialist voters who really depend on favors from Tammany politicians whenever they come in conflict with the law (licenses, etc.) are responsible for that difference of 100,000 votes.

The "straight" socialist vote looks not only crooked when the LaFollette and Thomas' votes on the S. P. ticket are compared. Thomas ran behind every other candidate on his own state ticket. The following is a comparison between the votes received by Thomas as candidate for governor and Waldman as candidate for attorney.

N. Y. Counties	Thomas	Waldman
New York	15,897	31,206
Kings	18,002	31,987
Bronx	11,593	21,863
Queens	2,386	4,207
Richmond	259	437
	48,137	89,712

Why should Waldman receive almost twice as many "socialist" votes than his running-mate Thomas? Evil minds might suggest that a very interesting statement published prominently in the socialist weekly, "New Leader" helped Waldman to outdistance the head (sic) of the ticket. Replying to an invitation of a lawyers' committee to vote for Davis, and particularly against LaFollette who was attacking the courts, Waldman wrote among other things: "In my judgment, far from attacking the courts, or being dangerous to the country, the program of the third party movement, led by LaFollette and Wheeler would strengthen popular confidence in the courts." It seems that the San Francisco millionaire banker and sugar king and the socialist Waldman have agreed, that, to preserve the existing order, LaFollette and his party must be put in control of this country. Shades of Ben Hanford! Verily, the lawyers and the preachers have managed to strip the S. P. of everything socialist and anti-capitalist it ever espoused.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Will You Send The Daily Worker to Jail?

THE DAILY WORKER follows our comrades to jail. Every known political prisoner in the United States and in many parts of the world is on the subscription list of the DAILY WORKER. If there is one that isn't—we want to know about it.

Sometime ago the DAILY WORKER was paid for these subscriptions—or filled them free of charge. Today the subscriptions are beginning to expire.

And we wonder if you who read this will help pay for them. The DAILY WORKER has a difficult task to sustain itself—and an even more difficult one to grow. All labor papers have this to contend with and a Communist paper gets an extra dose. You can aid—you will want to when you read this letter of the sacrifices the men behind the bars make to receive the DAILY WORKER. For obvious reasons we omit names and place:

"Your card notifying me of the expiration date of the DAILY WORKER duly received. In reply to this, here are the facts. I am employed in the 'Duck Mill' turning out cloth for mail bags and earn on an average of 33 cents a day. The rules regarding this widow's mite is that one quarter of the month's earnings can be spent for tobacco and a few other articles of special sanction. It further stipulates that the remaining three quarters can be sent to certain relatives or else deposited. Here is where the rub comes in. I planned on sending a check to my mother and instructing her to forward the same to your office for a year's subscription of the DAILY WORKER, the WORKERS MONTHLY and the COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL. But the dear old lady is incurably religious and attributes my irreligion to just such journals as the DAILY WORKER. She will sanction anything in the reading line from Genesis to Revelations, but nix on the stuff. I am twenty-eight years old, by the way, but it is a trivial factor to her. It is next to impossible to compromise this situation, so I am forced to depend on another relative who can qualify on the official rule. This arrangement will interfere with a prompt renewal of the sub on the ninth, but I assure you it will reach your office at the earliest date possible.

"Fraternally, ——"

Every week we receive a few such requests. We want to make them all happy. Send in your contribution and you will help in such cases as this one in another prison which was visited by comrade Massey of Kansas City who writes us in part:

"He says that the DAILY WORKER gets an awful reading, as twenty or more read it. . . .

"We'll take the matter up with comrades and see if I can't get enough nickles and dimes to insure that — — — gets the paper for some time."

These men should have the DAILY WORKER. We would like to send it to them and will have to if you don't sent in their subscription. We need the money—maybe you don't as badly. Will you—or will we?

Steel Trust Loafers Cash In -

By LELAND OLDS
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

HOW would you like to get full-time pay with a bonus thrown in when you only put in half your normal week? You'd tell them to quit kidding, that sort of luck don't come to workers.

But that is just what the last quarter's profits of U. S. Steel mean to the wealthy owners. Those profits of $30,218,415 piled up during 3 months when operations were about 50 per cent of capacity show, as clearly as figures can, that capital and labor have little in common in a system organized for the profiteer. Following a period in which unemployment and part-time severely reduced the wages of steel workers, Gary and his directors voted not only the regular dividend but also a continuation of the extra dividend begun in 1923.

Profits made by the owners of the corporation in the first 9 months of the year reached a total of $122,174,899 which financial papers refer to as eminently satisfactory. It means $10.19 a share for the owners of common stock. A glance at the following list shows how certain stockholders must smack their lips:

Profits for 9 months to leading owners of U. S. Steel

George F. Baker	$596,500
L. C. Phipps	359,000
M. S. Milliken	116,000
C. S. Mott	163,000
Frank R. Bacon	105,000
L. H. Cutter	176,000
G. H. Singer	101,600
E. A. Rolfs	127,000
J. A. Roebling	81,300
C. D. Barney	91,400
G. Doyen	76,200
W. H. Crocker	61,200
A. M. Anderson	61,000
L. F. Rader	50,950

The 9 month profits on large blocks of steel stock held by leading brokerage firms must have been about as follows. Harriman & Co. $311,000, J. W. Davis & Co. $542,000; Post & Flagg $474,000; Harris, Winthrop & Co. $251,000; C. I. Hudson & Co. $348,000.

Calvin Coolidge's modest 50 shares brought him $596 or fully half the amount considered necessary to support the family of a laborer in the steel mills and over twice the $250 he demanded from the war veterans for a speech at the dedication of a war memorial in Bridgeport, Conn.

These profits piling up for persons who never turn a hand in the production of iron and steel tend to increase the precariousness of the real work ers chance to earn a living. A large part of the profits goes into machinery which under private capitalism tends to displace labor, making possible satisfactory profits with 50 per cent operation.

The Wall Street Journal says, "Ten years ago a showing like this on 50 per cent operations would have been an impossibility. Small at that time could not have gone through a quarter without showing a deficit of many millions. Its ability at the present time to show a surplus of over $18,000,000 for dividents is due entirely to enlarged production, increased working capital and increased efficiency in general over the last decade."

Thus the profits of the last 10 years have freed the owners from anxiety about whether the plants operate part time or full-time. Although furnishing only half the employment they could afford to labor they find profits "eminently satisfactory." The surplus produced by workers under the private profit system is apparently turned directly against labor's welfare instead of going to shorter hours and a higher standard of living.

MUSIC • LITERATURE • DRAMA

New Pamphlet on Lenin.

By all workers whose eyes look toward Moscow as the capitol and headquarters of the world revolution, it is admitted that of all the men, living or dead, who have stood at the head of the proletarian struggle, Lenin is the one who is by far the greatest.

There is now available in a brief pamphlet, entitled "Lenin—The Great Strategist of Class War," the outstanding features of his life and teachings. This is a new pamphlet, but recently translated from Russian by Alexander Bittelman, and printed by the Trade Union Educational League in an attractive red stiff paper cover with an excellent drawing of Lenin speaking.

The author is known around the world as an intimate associate of Lenin in all the struggles of the old Bolsheviks. This is A. Losovsky, now general secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions, and of his work Comrade Bittelman, in his introduction, says if asked to tell in a few words the most pronounced feature of the pamphlet, he would say: "It is a desire to extract from the experiences of Lenin's life as many lessons as is humanly possible for the advancement of the class struggle and for the promotion of the proletarian victory thruout the world."

It is this experience of Lenin, then, which is available in a 48-page pamphlet that sells for only 15c. It is expected that every worker who looks toward Communism, will provide himself at the great meetings celebrating the birth of the Russian Revolution on November 7, with a copy of this important work on the greatest working class leader of all history.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

Recognizing the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics:

	Country	Date
1.	Esthonia	February 2, 1920
2.	Lithuania	July 12, 1920
3.	Latvia	August 11, 1920
4.	Finland	October 14, 1920
5.	Persia	February 26, 1921
6.	Afghanistan	February 28, 1921
7.	Turkey	March 16, 1921
8.	Poland	March 18, 1921
9.	Germany	April 16, 1922 (Treaty signed)
10.	Great Britain	February 1, 1924
11.	Italy	February 7, 1924
12.	Norway	February 13, 1924
13.	Austria	February 20, 1924
14.	Greece	March 8, 1924
15.	Sweden	March 15, 1924
16.	China	May 31, 1924
17.	Denmark	June 18, 1924
18.	Mexico	August 24, 1924
19.	Hungary	September 18, 1924
20.	France	October 26, 1924

In addition to the above, Mongolia established full diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia on Nov. 5, 1921. Czecho-Slovakia signed a temporary treaty with Soviet Russia on July 5, 1922. Negotiations are now going on which will undoubtedly terminate in the Soviet government being accorded unconditional recognition. Japan is also concluding its negotiations with the Soviet republics with a view of establishing full diplomatic relations.

Shows Russia Reads.

MOSCOW.—There were in all 18,608 different publications issued thruout the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics in 1923, including books and the periodical press (reviews, newspapers—counting, naturally, each journal, daily or other, as but one publication for the entire year under review). This figure compares most favorably with the 10,127 publications issued on 1922, thus showing an increase of 90 per cent over the previous year.

It is interesting to note that the corresponding figure for 1917 was but 13,174 publications, so that in the cultural development Soviet Russia surpassed the last pre-revolutionary year altho the latter was richer materially. If the comparison be drawn still further and the year 1921 be taken, the increase will be seen to be 500 per cent, as the number of publications in that year was but 4,529.

As regards the contents of the 1923 literature, more than 41 per cent of all last year's publications was devoted to social science, fine literature (fiction, arts, etc.), accounted for about 16 per cent, apllied sciences, 15 per cent, precise sciences over 9 per cent, etc.

Moscow is, naturally, the largest publishing center, 5,040 publications (slightly less than 30 per cent of all the Union), having appeared there in 1923. Leningrad follows with 2,293 publications.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

'MAMMON ART' BY UPTON SINCLAIR TAKES SHOT AT ARTISTS FOR THE DOLLAR.

PASADENA, Cal.—Having muckraked religion, journalism and education in recent studies, Upton Sinclair now pays his respects to the poets, dramatists, novelists, sculptors, painters and composers in his newest book, Mammonart. The manuscript is finished and goes to press for publication in January.

"I am calling it Mammonart," says Sinclair, "meaning art which is subsidized and paid for by the ruling classes. I turn the pockets of our artists and writers inside out, beginning with Homer and the Bible writers, asking them where they got it and what they did for their paymasters. I believe this is the most important task of all, because cultural ideas lie at the base of all other activities."

The book is published by the author at $2 cloth or $1 paper. Sinclair's address is Pasadena, Cal.

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

YALE UNIVERSITY NOV 22 1924 LIBRARY

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. II. No. 203. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 14, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

BALDWIN RECOGNIZES SOVIETS

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

REPORTS from London state that Ramsay MacDonald is to be shipped to the South Sea islands for a holiday. As he does not speak Spanish the temptation to make foolish speeches will not be so keen as in England and as he is not good eating, it is possible that he may escape the gastronomic attentions of the cannibals if there are any left in that part of the world. Ramsay may need a rest but not more so than the British labor party. It has suffered a good deal from the muddling of its right wing leaders and from none more than MacDonald.

* * *

MACDONALD'S proposed exile is really a punishment for his bungling of the "Zinoviev letter." The premier's desire to out-Herod Herod in serving the British ruling class, drove him to accept the tory plot as a genuine act of the Communist International. Had he denounced the forgery, right off the reel as a genuine labor premier would do, on general principles, the forgery would prove a boomerang and would injure the tories who hatched it.

* * *

THE DAILY WORKER pointed out when the plot was sprung that MacDonald played into the hands of labor's enemies and that as a result of his clumsy handling of the matter, his leadership would be challenged. This has happened. In a recent issue of the London Daily Herald, the premier is taken to task for allowing the tories to frighten the electorate with such a crude concoction.

* * *

COMMENTING on the many scares worked up by the reactionaries to frighten the voters it says: "Of these the masterpiece was the forged Communist letter. That would have done little harm if it had been denounced at once as a forgery. Had Mr. MacDonald made his Monday afternoon speech on Sunday morning its effect would have been countered." The Daily Herald is under the direction of the Trade Union Congress and voices the sentiments of that body's controlling faction. The decision to give MacDonald a vacation may mean that one of the trade union faction will take his place. This cannot be considered an improvement, as those mentioned for the position are even more to the right than the former premier. It means simply that the trade union faction of the labor party will take the reins.

* * *

THE DAILY HERALD is peeved because the British Communists insist on existing and giving the respectable labor leaders a bad name. We must reason with the Communists, argues the Herald, and persuade them to "drop their notion that a few obscure people could somehow spell-bind this country and hold it down by force. If there had been no Communist Party here the red plot imbecility would never have been invented . . ." This is interesting but not convincing. Perhaps the Daily Herald is not aware that a few people are now holding the country down by force, and they are not Communists.

* * *

THERE is no doubt but the British Communist Party "pedantic" and "unrealistic" tho it may look in the eyes of certain "diplomatic" revolutionists, is a thorn in the side of the British ruling class and a cause for worry to the right wing labor leaders. But even if the Communist Party decided to betray the working class movement and liquidate, would that mean the end of tory and liberal attacks on the working class movement in Britain? Of course not. The capitalist class can always dig up bogeys

(Continued on page 6)

CROWE SILENT ON DEATH OF POLITICAL PAL

O'Bannion and Crowe Got Rich Together

If the slayers of Dean O'Bannion have not confessed, the police have. And it is a confession of importance.

The newspapers that told of high police officials attending the banquet given by the underworld to O'Bannion in the Webster Hotel, are singing very low these days. It appears they are not willing to lift the lid of the cesspool.

Crowe Is Silent.

State's Attorney Crowe, who is usually vocal, when an opportunity to get his name in the papers presents itself is as silent as a clam over the shooting of his political ally, O'Bannion. Perhaps Crowe's connection with O'Bannion, politically may have something to do with the silence of the newspapers. Crowe is one of the most powerful political fighters in Cook county. In fact, it is no exaggeration to say that he is the most powerful.

All the capitalist newspapers are friendly to Crowe. If they were not they would jump at the opening offered when it was discovered that O'Bannion was one of Crowe's most efficient workers on election day. Was the connection between O'Bannion and Crowe and Crowe and the underworld confined to politics?

Well Paying Business.

It is well-known that O'Bannion became a millionaire within a few years, conducting a business that was in violation of the law. That he violated the law under the cloak of immunity is very obvious. The state's attorney, chief law enforcement officer in Cook county was O'Bannion's dear friend. Why should the criminal worry?

We have not the figures on O'Bannion's income tax payment. But we know what Crowe paid. He paid a tax on an $82,000 income. His salary is tax exempt. Four years ago Crowe was so poor that he could not pay his party assessments. How did he manage to dig up an income of $82,000 in four years?

Crowe's brother-in-law, Larry Cunneo, a fruit dealer, paid a tax of $5,000 on an income of $45,000. Why does a noted gunman by the name of Anerieno frequent Cunneo's fruit store? The gunman is known to be a pal of Cunneo.

But Bunch of Crooks.

Prominent city politicians laugh cynically when asked about the steps taken to run down the slayers of O'Bannion. "Nothing will be done," they say. Of course, they do not want to be quoted. If Diogenes went looking for an honest man around the city and county headquarters of the local government, he would lose his lamp inside of one-quarter of an hour. Some capitalist officials would steal it.

A well-known lawyer told how Crowe had his investigators out collecting witnesses for the defense of Dean O'Bannion when he shot Hirshie Miller in front of the LaSalle street theater. "Crowe is elected for four years," declared the attorney. "What does he care? If a private lawyer sold out his clients the way Crowe does the public, he would be chased out of the county," he added.

The connection between the gunmen, the underworld and the state county and city officialdom is well-known. They work hand in hand.

DEMAND GOMPERS TAKE ACTION FOR THE RELEASE OF RANGEL AND CLINE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 13.—The opening of the American Federation of Labor convention here gives rise to hope that Gompers will take some action to back up his formal request to the state of Texas for the release of Jesus Rangel, Charles Cline and three other Mexican revolutionists who by the intrigues of the overthrown Diaz government have been imprisoned at Hunstville penitentiary for more than a decade.

Mexican Libertarians.

The regime of Diaz was known as the most infamous tyranny. It crushed all opposition and sold the Mexican resources to foreign capitalists and land-holders. Captain Rangel was a revolutionary exile, trying from north of the Rio Grande to aid the fight against the oppressor of Mexican workers and peasants. He rallied many around him and sent expeditions into Mexico.

Charles Cline, a sympathetic union man, became interested and aided Rangel in an expedition which was intercepted near the border by a sheriff's posse among whom was a deputy named Ortiz, a spy of Diaz. Ortiz was killed, and Rangel, Cline and their companions sentenced to 99 years in prison.

Will Sam See "Ma" Ferguson?

It is expected that the new "governess," "Ma" Ferguson, will be am-

(Continued on Page 5.)

Mexican Labor Head Shot

BUTLER, TEXTILE CZAR, GETS SEAT IN U. S. SENATE

Coolidge Manager to Take Lodge's Place

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—William Morgan Butler, chairman of the national republican committee and multi-millionaire textile magnate, has been appointed by Governor William Channing Cox to take the place of the late Senator Lodge in the United States senate.

Mr. Butler was the manager of the republican campaign and raised the huge slush fund running into millions of dollars which were employed to put over the Coolidge-Dawes victory.

He Speaks For "Silent Cal."

Mr. Butler will undoubtedly be the chief spokesman of the Coolidge administration in the sixty-eighth and sixty-ninth congresses. He will take his place in the senate on December 1, and upon the retirement of the defeated democratic senator, David I. Walsh, Butler will become the senior senator from Massachusetts and enjoy all the Washington rights and privileges accordingly. This appointment was made as a result of a deal between the White House and the Bay State capitol.

The selection of Mr. Butler is in line with the Coolidge policies of surrounding himself with political bootleggers. When Coolidge was made president by the death of Harding, he picked Harry Slemp for his personal secretary. This was taken by all political observers as a notice to the country and the republican party that Coolidge was planning to leave nothing undone to have himself returned to the White House. Slemp is notorious as a political pawnbroker and has been exposed in many crooked deals, in which post offices were sold.

Pupil of Murray Crane.

Mr. Butler was a class mate of Coolidge in Murray Crane's school of New England politics. This school of politics is notorious for its corruption and gutter practices. Mr. Butler is the president and director of a half-dozen textile mills running about ten thousand looms and nearly five hundred thousand spindles. In addition to that Mr. Butler is also heavily interested in other manufacturing and banking corporations.

Indicted in Wreck Admitted to Bail; Barber Is Missing

Mathew Gaskett and William Ingraham, employes of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, who were bound over to the grand jury for manslaughter, were admitted to bail yesterday.

The coroner's jury sitting on the trolley-train wreck which killed ten people on the corner of Kingsbury St. and North Ave., recommended that these men be taken into custody. William Barber has not been arrested yet, as it is understood he is away on a hunting trip and cannot be found.

Stone Has Heard of Big Bread Merger But Is Taking No Action

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—Attorney General Stone has refused to take definite action on the recent merger of all the large baking interests of the country into a gigantic monopoly. Stone says he is aware of the merger but he will do nothing. When told of the anti-trust laws, Stone said they will be "protected."

Wife Murderer to Hang.

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind., Nov. 13—Harry Diamond, 33, Gary, Indiana wife murderer, sat in the death cell of the Indiana state prison here today counting the minutes until eternity. He will die some time between midnight tonight and daybreak tomorrow. No one except prison officials will witness the execution.

PROGRESSIVE COAL MINERS IN BIG ELECTION DRIVE IN PENNSYLVANIA

By GEORGE PAPCUN.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHARLEROI, Pa., Nov. 13.—The progressive miners' committee announces that beginning next Sunday and continuing until election a widespread agitation on behalf of the progressive slate will be carried out.

Mass meetings are being arranged all over the district at which candidates will speak, and present the progressive platform to the membership.

A mass meeting is announced for next Sunday, Nov. 16 at Italian Hall, Charleroi, 3 p. m. Speakers are William A. Guiler, candidate for district president; Ralph Bernabe, candidate for board member of sub-district No. 3; and Pat H. Toohey, candidate for auditor.

All miners should attend this meeting, for Guiler and Toohey are able speakers and will certainly make plain to the membership the evils existing in the Miners' Union today.

Evidently scared by the showing of the militant left wingers the machine is trying by hook or crook to keep the militants off the ballot. Their latest trick it their attempt to expel Pat H. Toohey and John Gresko, militant young officers of Local 1724. The hearing before the district board took place Monday and at this writing the board is still "deliberating" if they shall expel Toohey and Gresko or not.

Indications from the second sub-district are that James Douglas, the progressive candidate, will sweep the sub-district. Douglas, a well known young official of Local 2125 has been endorsed by practically every local in the sub-district.

GOMPERS' PAL ADMITS DRIVE FOR WAGE CUTS

O'Connell, Pensioner of Machinists, Confesses

(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 13.—James O'Connell, president of the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor and pensioned ex-president of the International Association of Machinists, prophesied a drive on wages yesterday to the metal trades delegates here to attend the convention of the A. F. of L. which opens on Nov. 17.

Has No Remedy.

O'Connell said that this winter would see the opening of vicious campaign by the employers against the wage standards of the workers. He suggested no remedy and made not the slightest reference to the amalgamation of all metal trades unions into a powerful industrial union, which is advocated by T. U. E. L. groups in the industry.

At the Machinist's convention during September at Detroit O'Connell made a speech saying that he, being an old pensioner, had nothing to do but to go around and make the speeches that the officials of the union told him to make.

Building Trades Internal War.

The Building Trades department of the A. F. of L., comprising the sixteen crafts affiliated to the A. F. of L. through its department, has demanded the suspension of the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners from the A. F. of L. by action taken in the department's convention being held here prior to the opening of the A. F. of L. convention.

The complaint against the carpenters is a grievance of years standing and illustrates the need for amalgamation of all building trades unions into a union embracing all workers in the industry as proposed by the Trade Union Educational League.

Unions Fight Each Other.

The jurisdictional squabble over which the present action arose was a conflict between the carpenters and the sheet metal workers over which should do certain construction work. When the arbitration commission which took up the conflict decided in favor of the sheet metal workers, the carpenters withdrew from the Building Trades department, although retaining affiliation to the A. F. of L. direct.

By the action taken by the Building Trades department, the executive council of the A. F. of L. will be called upon to suspend the whole carpenters' union of 350,000 members from affiliation with the A. F. of L. It is expected that the officials of the carpenters' union will resist this demand in the A. F. of L. convention. President Hutcheson of the carpenters supported Coolidge in the election, contrary to the wish of the Gompers' machine.

Sam Explores Political Woods.

Gompers, full of reaction and vim despite his 74 years has arrived in El Paso and after "settling" all the major problems of labor on the industrial field, is turning attention to the new political horizon.

A series of executive meetings is beginning at which a special report is to be formulated embodying the council's recommendations upon possible relations between the A. F. of L. and any new party movement which some see springing from the recent campaign. The report will not be made public until it is presented at the convention next Tuesday.

BORAH DEMANDS SPECIAL SESSION OF U. S. CONGRESS

Expected to Drive for Russian Recognition

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—It is believed that Senator Borah, who will replace the late Senator Lodge as chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, is pressing for recognition of Soviet Russia by the American government.

This belief springs from a conference Borah had yesterday at the White House where it is known he advised an early call for a special session of the congress.

"E Pluribus Unum."

Senator Borah insists that a special session be called before the next regular session in 1925, as agricultural problems, the Coolidge proposal of a world court and "any number of other questions" were in need of immediate consideration.

The short session of congress which is now approaching, he said, would have little time for anything but routine business of government appropriations.

Negro Sentenced to Hang Makes Complaint Against White Justice

A complaint that he was sentenced yesterday to hang by Chief Justice Jacob H. Hopkins "because of his color" while Loeb and Leopold, also killers, were spared, perhaps because of their money" was made today by Lawrence Washington from his cell in the county jail.

Washington pleaded guilty to the fatal shooting of Nuzio Mascolino, an Evanston candy store owner, in an attempted holdup September 14.

"I didn't get a square deal," the condemned man said today. "If I had taken a jury trial I'd have probably gone free. But I pleaded guilty and saved the state lots of time and money and expected mercy. Instead I got to hang.

"I think it is a case of race prejudice. When two white boys, Loeb and Leopold, pleaded guilty to murder they get life. The worst I figured I would get was the same. Maybe the Loeb and Leopold money saved them. I haven't any money."

WOUND MORONES IN GUN BATTLE DURING DEBATE

General Starts Shooting in Mexican Congress

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 13.—Luis Morones, known as "the Gompers of Mexico," was mortally wounded in a general revolver battle which took place in the Chamber of Deputies Wednesday night.

Charges Fraud—Shooting Begins.

The fight began when Morones, a member of the chamber, was challenged by General Sanchez, temporarily presiding over the chamber, to prove his charges of fraud. Morones retorted that he would give his opponents "satisfaction," and moved to draw his gun.

Revolvers sprang from pocket to hand all over the chamber, and firing became general with deputies hiding behind seats and pillars while exchanging pot shots at their political enemies.

Rifles Enter Parliament.

So fierce and extended was the battle that it spread from the chamber to the corridors and thence to the street. Only the intercession of mounted police with rifles ended the firing.

When the smoke had cleared away, Morones was found upon the floor with a bullet under his heart, while Deputy Guerre also had little chance of recovery.

Political Effect.

The effect of Morones' death upon the administration of President-elect Calles is bound to be important whichever way it may affect affairs for good or ill. Morones exercised great power over Calles by reason of his control over the C. R. O. M. (the Mexican Federation of Labor) and it is possible that Calles may suffer by loss of this support, or that the federation may give its support to Calles without Morones' intermediation.

It is known that Morones, a wily and unscrupulous man who has arose to his present high station as general secretary-treasurer of the C. R. O. M. and political leader by the help of Carranza, has been charging Calles highly for his support. Calles may feel relieved of a boss in this respect, but he may suffer if he faces reactionary opposition without the aid of the designing but capable Morones.

Morgan-Dawes Plan Creates Chaos in the Trade of Europe

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The Dawes plan has held up the trade treaties between France and Germany, and between France and Belgium, it is reported here. The French and German governments had been negotiating a commercial treaty, but they have found it impossible to reconcile the stipulations of the treaty whith the provisions of the Dawes plan.

The Belgians modified their tariff in such a way that the French objected, and the Franco-Belgium treaty is also held up.

Some Chili!

ALEXANDRIA, Ind.—Eleven fatalities and 36 other victims is the doll of chili soup at the home of Alonzo Hughes here. The casualties included 41 chickens, 11 or which died after having eaten the soup which the family threw out when it made them ill. Six members of the family are recovering from ptomaine poisoning caused by the soup.

BRITISH TORY RULE AGAINST POLICY CHANGE

Another Blow Dealt to U. S. Reactionists

(Special to the Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 13.—Official announcement was made yesterday by the new cabinet of the conservative Premier Baldwin, that the British government is not considering the revocation of the recognition of the Russian Soviet government effected by the labor cabinet of Ramsay MacDonald.

A Challenge to America.

This is a blow to the bitter-enders in England such as Lord Curzon and Churchill, and is a challenge to the American government to suppress the fanatic Hughes and race with Britain for Russian trade. Growing unemployment in both countries makes this a matter for serious consideration. Britain understands this.

A Soviet Triumph.

The forged "Zinoviev letter" is now frankly admitted to be not only a forgery, but to have been used as a political trick by the tories in leading Ramsay MacDonald into a trap. By his anxiety to prove himself an enemy of Bolshevism, he seized upon the forgery and gave the conservatives the opening they had planned to wreck his regime.

The announcement of the Baldwin government that recognition is not to be revoked constitutes an overwhelming victory for Soviet diplomacy just as it is a blow to all the enemies of the Russian workers who hoped for their isolation and perhaps for war upon them.

MC KEESPORT MAYOR TRIES TO STOP MEETINGS

Even Dances Held by Workers Under Ban

(Special to the Daily Worker)

McKEESPORT, Pa., Nov. 13.—The mayor and city authorities of this town have been closing all workers' meetings and entertainments here in a high handed manner.

Even dances, when given by workers' organizations, are broken up. Recently a dance was arranged by workers in the interests of securing the release of Sacco and Vanzetti.

The mayor, however, would not allow the affair to take place.

Last week Earl Browder was scheduled as a speaker for the Workers' Party, the hall was hired, and all arrangements were made. At the last minute the hall was closed to them. Last year the Friends of Soviet Russia tried to give a moving picture show and had deposited $50.00 on a theater. At the last moment the hall was closed and the $50.00 has not yet been refunded.

The Workers' Party members here are arranging to hold a meeting which will be a test case, and will be taken into court if necessary.

Pole Gets Nobel Prize.

STOCKHOLM, Nov. 13—The Nobel prize for the outstanding contribution to literature in the last year has been awarded to the Polish author, Vladislad Reymonts for a peasant epic.

ILLINOIS MINERS, ATTENTION!

In the next three issues of our Polish Communist Weekly, articles detailing the treachery of Frank Farrington, president of the United Mine Workers' Union of District 12, will appear. The articles will be based on the series written by Comrade Thomas J. O'Flaherty for the DAILY WORKER. As there are thousands of Polish miners in District 12, we urge our comrades, readers and sympathizers to send in orders for bundles and distribute them among the Polish miners. The price of the paper is 5 cents a copy and can be obtained in bundle orders at 2½ cents a copy.

Rush your orders to "Trybuna Robotnicza," 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Comrades act at once! Send in your orders and remittances.

LEWIS GANG WAR ON MILITANTS IN PITTSBURGH

Frame Up Charges on Local Officials

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 13.—An attack on the progressives in the United Mine Workers of America has begun in this district by the John L. Lewis gang making charges against Local 1724, of Canonsburg, and summoning the local president, and Pat Toohey, secretary, to answer charges as officers personally responsible for a supposed "illegal" local meeting, and for fostering a "dual movement."

Last Saturday three board members and several of the old guard "organizers" visited Canonsburg and went about trying to find members of the local who would say there was no legal meeting held on the date—one was held in all legal form and candidates regularly nominated for district offices.

Financial Secretary Sells Out.

They bought off the financial secretary so say that no meeting was held that night, but many witnesses were against him to prove that at least three officials of the local had told him of the meeting several days before it was held.

Monday, at the district office, a hearing was held. The charges were preferred by an organizer named Dobbins, quoting "information received." Toohey refused to answer questions until told the name of the informant. It was then learned this was the financial secretary of the local.

When the hearing started it was clear that the "illegal meeting" charge was only a ruse. The inquisition lasted two hours and hinged around the accused officials' membership and dues. The mine has not worked for over a year, and according to the audit, the financial secretary had sent no tax to the district, but had applied for remission for the whole local, altho many members kept on paying dues.

Began quoted Section 18, Article 40, of the district constitution, stating that members are responsible for whatever befalls the local. Toohey exhibited receipts for his dues, but the Inquisitors refused to look at them and said they would decide soon.

Seek to Take Charter.

Local 1724 has a membership which is radical and many militants of the district belong to it. Pat Toohey and Andy Harmison are candidates for union offices on the progressive slate and the officials of District 5 figure that if they can get something on the local they can get rid of trouble.

However, the miners of District 5 are not going to allow the official gang to put Local 1724 or the militant members out of the U. M. W. of A. Members of the union are determined not to let the militants be separated, and all rebel elements are joined in the effort to avoid giving any excuse for official disruption.

COMRADES AND BRANCHES, settle for October 12 Foster-Gitlow election campaign meeting and November 7 celebration tickets. Local needs money to cover expenses of these affairs.

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR WOULD BE DOING SOMETHING IF IT COULD SHOW SIMILAR GAINS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—A federation of more than 47,000 members has been formed by the workers in naval arsenals of Japan. The General Federation of Japanese Labor has increased its membership and the number of its branches thruout the country this year, and has entered into friendly relations with the big unions, such as the General Federation of Workers in Government Undertakings, the Japanese Seamen's Union and the Japan Farmers' Union. A total gain of 40,900 in membership in the first five months of 1924 is reported.

COOLIDGE CABINET MEMBERS FAIL TO ACCEPT INVITATION TO SOVIET CELEBRATION AT WASHINGTON, D. C.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C.—(By Mail.)—Hundreds of workers filled the Play House for the anniversary of the Russian Soviet revolution.

In opening the meeting, Chairman O'Hara MacIntosh remarked: "When it was publicly announced that the Russian revolution would be celebrated in Washington we reserved seats in this hall for the members of the Coolidge cabinet. But the statesmen have disappointed us; apparently they are not yet aware that the Russian revolution was the most momentous event in the entire history of the human race.

May Wake Up Some Day.

"They will yet learn, if they live long enough, that the consequences of that revolution will reach America, for the uprising of the Russian workers marked the beginning of the end of the capitalist system of exploitation."

Comrade C. E. Ruthenberg, national executive secretary of the Workers Party, was frequently applauded as he outlined the age-old fight of oppressed peoples against their oppressors. Tracing this struggle from the time at which written records of human efforts were first made, up to modern, complex, industrial nations, Comrade Ruthenberg declared that the Russian people were the first to achieve success in permanently eliminating from their society a parasite class.

Comrade Ruthenberg described the efforts of 75 years in which Communists have advocated the adoption of the theories of Karl Marx, and of their failure to those theories. The speaker cited the success of the proletarian Soviet government in Russia as proof of the soundness of Communist principles. He showed how the establishment of the Communist International has already prevented wars, thru the refusal of the workers in several countries to engage in war against Soviet Russia. Thru the branches of the Communist International in 51 countries the workers of the world are at last actually uniting. In England and in Italy especially, the workers rebelled against the attempt of their imperialist rulers to drive those countries into open warfare against Russia. Even in America the workers in Philadelphia refused to load powder into vessels to be shipped abroad to be used against the Workers' Republic.

Altho an admission charge of 25 cents had already been collected Comrade Ruthenberg successfully appealed to the audience for funds with which to continue publication of the DAILY WORKER, and this effort netted $35.55.

Asks for Party Members.

Continuing, the speaker requested the sympathizers in the audience to affiliate themselves with the local branch of the Workers Party. Several of those present responded to this suggestion by asking for application cards.

The musical program was heartily appreciated by the audience. Miss Silvia Altman, and her brother Julius, rendered piano and violin selections most cleverly and were vigorously applauded. They responded by playing additional numbers.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE,
Local Chicago
MEMBERSHIP MEETING
Friday November 14
722 Blue Island Avenue
OLIVER CARLSON, speaker.

A review of our mail order house campaign will be made and our program of immediate action will be discussed.

Have Free Transfer Cards for Capmakers And United Hatters

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Free transfer working cards have been arranged for between the United Hatters of North America and the Cloth Hat and Cap Makers' Union by a jurisdictional agreement. This free transfer system marks a great step towards harmony between these two unions. The agreement specifies that the hatters are to have jurisdiction over men's fur, felt, wool, straw or Panama hats —trimmers and operators of the same —and over all the factories making entirely and exclusively women's and children's fur, felt, wool, hand-blocked velvet, Panama and body hats. The Cloth and Cap Makers are to have jurisdiction over men's, women's and children's cloth hats and caps and ladies' headgear made of cloth fabrics, straw combinations, varieties and novelties.

But the agreement recognizes that the work of the two unions is so closely related that hatters who wish to work in the millinery trades during the busy season may do so legitimately and the cloth hat and cap makers may work in hatters' shops, under certain conditions. The free transfer cards will end irritating jurisdictional troubles.

Capitalism Blinds Workers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—Seventy-five per cent of the workers in the garment trades of New York have defective eyesight, tho the average for the workers in all industries is only 60 per cent, Dr. James W. Smith of the New York Post Graduate Hospital revealed to the convention of the Illuminating Engineering Society. The excessive weakness of the garment workers' eyes is explained by the poorly lighted work rooms which generally prevailed until the trades were organized, leaders of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the International Ladies' Garment Workers declare.

Berlin Carpet Workers Strike.

BERLIN, Nov. 13.—The 200 workers in a carpet factory in Berlin are on strike. Their hours were increased from 45 to 54 a week without additional pay. Men and women in this factory have been working 45 hours weekly for a weekly wage of 5, 10 and 15 marks (1 mark, 25c).

Clevelanders Dance Thanksgiving

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 13.—All members and friends of the Workers Party must reserve Thanksgiving Eve., Nov. 26, for the big dance given by Local Cleveland Workers Party, at Talmud Torah Hall, 2491 East 55th St. A proficient union orchestra will furnish the music, and there will be free favors. Admission 35 cents.

CALIFORNIA ELECTION OFFICIALS FAIL TO COUNT THE COMMUNIST VOTES

By JACK CARNEY.
(Special to the DAILY WORKER.)

SAN FRANSISCO, Nov. 13.—The counting of the votes in the recent elections found the write-in votes of the Communists and sympathizers completely ignored. One election inspecter informed a prominent election official that he had not counted the write-in votes, the official replied, "You would be a damn fool if you did." So Communist votes were not counted.

This is another example of the boasted democracy that we enjoy here in California.

IDENTITY WITH A CLASS

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The third chapter is entitled "Identity with a Class."

* * *

LENIN joined the labor movement at its very dawn. The first spontaneous outbreaks of the class struggle in the '80s reverberated thru Russia with a resounding echo. The adherents of Marxism movement thrust itself upon the beginnings of the Industrial development of Russia, drawing into its ranks many elements of the radical intelligentsia. The first generation of revolutionary intellectuals (Plechanov, Vera Zassulitsch, and Deutsch) founded the group of "Liberation of Labor" which is the predecessor of the Russian social-democratic party and of the Russian Communist Party. Lenin belonged to the second generation of Marxians. Together with many others he joined the labor movement, but while the others were merely passers-by, utilizing it for their own purpose, Lenin remained and led the movement until his very end.

Lenin understood from the very outset the power of the new class. In his very first writings he discusses this matter and says: "The working class is the bearer of the revolution." The working class stands in the foreground and everything which hampers its development, which demoralizes its ranks, which stands in the way of its historical development, must be destroyed and removed. To say at that period that the working class was the bearer of the revolution meant to determine its historic role as against the conceptions of the old socialist school of the "Narodniki."

Lenin completely identified himself with the working class and became its spokesman. He knew as nobody else did how to keep away from the working class and from the then-developing working class party all alien elements. At present it is taken for course, to see which of those elements were really alien to the labor movement. But to have known this 25 or 30 years ago was much more difficult. At that time there were no material advantages to be derived by people accepting the Marxian theory. On the contrary, they had to bring sacrifices, suffer persecutions, etc. Nevertheless, some of these Marxians were nothing more than dangerous to the labor movement. Chief among these was Peter Struve, formerly a social-democrat and later on a leader of the left wing of the liberal movement, still later a member of the constitutional democratic party, and at present a monarchist. One required a sharp theoretical mind, and an extraordinary instinct, to detect in the Marxian phraseology of the first work of Peter Struve the real weak spots.

Lenin possessed the ability to guard the working class theoretically and practically against the intrusion of alien elements. He also knew how to relieve the labor movement of those of them who succeeded in getting into it. Lenin knew the working class, he had faith in it, he grasped its historical importance and therefore understood how to maintain the integrity of the labor movement.

* * *

Tomorrow—"Building the Russian Party."

BANKERS' TOOL IN NICARAGUA APPEALS TO U. S.

Chamorro Lost Election Wants Hughes' Aid

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Emiliano Chamorro, former dictator and recently defeated reactionary candidate for the presidency of Nicaragua, has appealed to the Washington government and the conservative press of the United States to prevent the inauguration in January of the administration of President-elect Salorzano.

Chamorro claims that President Martinez, who favored the progressive candidate, terrorized the conservative voters and arrested 33 of them on the eve of the election. He further charges that Martinez refusal to have Americans watch the polls was due to unwillingness to permit a fair decision.

Hughes Is Discreet.

Secretary Hughes refuses to comment on Chamorro's complaint, which is made public as a cablegram which eluded the censorship" of Martinez. But Hughes declines to say that the formal pledge made by him in October, 1923, of removal of the American marines from Nicaragua by January, 1925, will be carried out. That pledge contained in a letter from the American minister to the Nicaraguan foreign minister, was in these words: "Therefore my government instructs me to inform your excellency that upon the installation in January, 1925, of the government coming into office as the result of the elections to be held in October, 1924, it will feel that there is no further reason to maintain a legation guard at Managua and the American marines will accordingly be withdrawn at that time."

Beat Bankers' Party.

Since October, 1923, the progressives have found a way to defeat Chamorro's party, which stands for North American banker control of the revenues, bank and other functions of sovereignty in the republic. Hughes does not say that he will keep his promise. He indicates that there is "confusion" in discussion of the matter.

Canuto Vargas, secretary of the Pan-American Federation of Labor, just returned from Nicaragua, found upon his arrival there that the local press contained accounts of a drunken joyride, two night earlier, by a truckload of American marines. They drove around Managua, shouting "Viva Chamorro!"

The 33 Chamorristas who were arrested, The Federated Press is informed, were aristocrats who had defied the law by carrying arms while attending political meetings. The mobilization of 3,000 guards, five to each polling place, was ordered by President Martinez to "prevent violence by the Chamorristas, who were in full control of the election machinery. Some 200 "campaign workers" for Chamorro assembled at one time during the canvass, to demand of their employer the payment of 25 cents per day which he had promised them. This was supposed to be the nucleus of the military force he was to raise in an attempted revolt when the election went against him. Martinez stopped this movement after the election by notifying the ex-dictator that he should consider himself a prisoner in Managua.

Company Takes Bread From Employes to Give to Visitors

By A. W. HARRIET.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 13—Thousands of loaves of bread were given away to the people of this city at the opening of the Holland Bread company which is a camouflage name for the notorious open shop Wage Baking company. The new plant is located at Summit and Elm streets.

This modern equipped plant which covers nearly a city block will employ very few skilled bakers. Women and young workers, boys and girls, will be used in the up-to-date method of speed-up work.

As soon as the new building was completed the company laid off more than half the bakers. These men will either leave town to seek now employment or join the army of unemployed here as there is no need for bakers in Toledo.

Oppose Tax Publicity.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13—The first attempt here to prevent the publication of income tax returns by the government was made today by Gorham Hubbard, of Boston, in the district supreme court here. Hubbard asked the court to enjoin Secretary of the Treasury Mellon and other officials from opening his return to the public on the ground that publication would be illegal and detrimental to him.

Next Big Naval Display of U. S. Imperialism to Be Held in the Pacific

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, plans are afoot for another air feat for the U. S. Naval forces. The dirigible, Shenandoah, is to make the flight from California to Honolulu, two thousand miles across the Pacific Ocean.

* * * *

Only yesterday the kept press was informing the nation that the military clique at Washington didn't know what to do with the Shenandoah and the Z-R 3. They were just two white elephants on the nation's hands. Helpless jingoes! No war! Nothing to do!

It is difficult to tell exactly what object this propaganda had in view. But the nation has not been kept in suspense very long. Those in command of the American killing machine, for the triumph of American imperialism, have found good use for the Shenandoah The Z-R 3 will also be kept busy.

* * * *

The flight of the Shenandoah to Hawaii will be but a small part of the impressive naval maneuvers planned for the Pacific next year Those who must be impressed by the power of the American fleet are the Japs, and no doubt also the Chinese. They must be shown the power of the far-reaching naval arm of Wall Street.

The effort to impress the world with the globe-girdling stunt of the American fliers was considered a great success.

Then came the flight of the ZR-3 across the Atlantic that so jolted the British and the French, especially the latter, that a loud demand was raised to prevent the building of additional German airships; not even for sale to the United States.

Now the Shenandoah must do its stunt; to show the Orient how closely the mainland of the United States is connected with its outpost in the Pacific.

* * * *

But there are also to be flying boats, capable of carrying at least five persons from California to Honolulu. Specifications for this new device are already in the hands of Morgan's navy department in Washington. This flying boat will have a speed of more than one hundred miles an hour; to carry death to the enemy.

* * * *

Thus every effort is being made to turn the Pacific Ocean into "Morgan's Lake." Its name will have to be changed since it will no longer be "the peaceful sea," but the scene of the next great world war.

* * * *

American imperialism is preparing for this war. Japanese imperialism is doing the same. The workers of both nations will be called upon to fight and murder each other for the stock exchanges of New York and Tokyo.

* * * *

The war will be fought if the workers of these two countries do not unite in the struggle to overthrow the imperialisms of both countries.

Only the Soviet United States stretching its hand of comradeship across the Pacific to a Soviet Japan can stop the next imperialist war that threatens to redden the waters of the Pacific with workers' blood.

In this crisis it is only the Communists who struggle to bring peace and comradeship to the workers of Japan and the United States, in place of agony and death under continued capitalist rule.

Glenn Young Gloats Over Victories of The Ku Klux Klan

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 13—S. Glenn Young, Ku Klux gangster, gloated over the recent klan victories in Herrin and Williamson counties in an interview here today. Young is here visiting his brother. His wife will enter the Mayo Brothers' hospital at Rochester, Minn., where she will undergo an operation for the restoration of the sight of her eyes, blinded when her husband engaged in a shooting escapade near Belvidere, Illinois, some weeks ago.

M. Olgin to Speak at Young Workers League Bazaar in New York

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The Young Workers League of District No. 2, New York, has arranged a bazaar, entertainment and ball to take place at the Harlem Casino, Sunday, Nov. 16 Comrade Olgin, recently returned from Soviet Russia, will speak, bringing a message from the Communist youth of Russia to the Communist youth of America. Education week, which the president and the American Legion have proclaimed for Nov. 17 to 24, will be attacked.

Organize Needle Trades.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—One hundred fifty thousand leaflets were distributed at the dors of New York shops by several hundred volunteers from the International Ladies' Garment Workers' in an afternoon drive which inaugurates a campaign to organize the miscellaneous needle trades crafts.

German Capitalist Here.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—One of the rulers of Germany is visiting the United States. His name is Hans Thyssen of the Thyssen Iron & Steel Works, Mulheim, with 50,000 workers. He is not getting so much publicity as Ludendorf would get but he is a vastly more powerful person in the German capitalist system.

MINISTERS QUIT FREE SPEECH FIGHT WHEN JUDGE ATTACKS UNION

By MAUD McCREERY
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

LOS ANGELES.—Judge Benjamin F. Bledsoe, superpatriot, has launched a broadside against the American Civil Liberties Union which has resulted in the resignation of two ministers of the gospel from the union on the one hand and a strengthening of the forces on the other. The southern California branch of the union has for the past year and a half fought for free speech. It has held regular Sunday night meetings.

The public denunciation of the free speech body came from the judge right after he had cancelled an announced engagement to address one of its regular meetings. Many are wondering if he had those learned of the practice of those attending the lectures to take advantage of the forum privileges and make it lively for any speaker opposing civil liberties.

Revere, Mass. to Celebrate.

REVERE, Mass., Nov. 13—John J. Ballam will be the principal speaker at our celebration of the seventh anniversary of the Russian revolution which will be held on Sunday, Nov. 16 at 3 p. m. at Eagle's Hall, Revere. The Russian chorus will participate and there will be other musical numbers. Every comrade in Revere be there and bring your friends to hear of the progress made by the government that belongs to the workers.

Percy Ward to Debate on Sunday.

A debate which promises to be entertaining will be the one to take place at the Garrick Theater on Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, Nov. 16, on the subject, "Are the Advanced Races of Mankind Going Backward?" between Percy Ward, lecturer of the National Industrial University Society, in the affirmative and Prof. Frederick Starr in the negative. Tickets can be secured in advance from the McGee Book Shop at 185 W. Washington St.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

CO-OPERATIVE CONGRESS ENDS ITS SESSIONS

All Speakers Optimistic About Future

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 13.—The fourth co-operative congress ended its three day sessions with a dinner at the Co-operative Cafeteria at which the spirit of optimism ruled.

Reports of the congress showed that all of the leading co-operative movements were riding the industrial depression well and Dr. James P. Warbasse and other speakers declared that 1925 would find the co-operative movement as a whole in a much better position.

Two men from the far northwest did most of the speaking, A. E. Goss, Headmaster of the Washington State Grange and Eskel Ronn, Manager of the Co-operative Central Exchange, a wholesale organization whose annual business of more than $625,000 is done among the Finnish Co-operators of the Northwest. Goss, the Grange leader, talked on "Farmers and the Co-operative Movement" and asserted that the farmers were showing a genius for getting together on economic issues.

Business of Millions

Some idea of the importance of the co-operative movement in America is given by the fact that the annual business of the 333 co-operative societies affiliated with the Co-operative League, which called the congress, is about $13,000,000. These 333 societies have an approximate membership of 50,000. Only 150 societies took part in the congress, however, many of the others conserving the costs of a delegate. The total number of co-operative societies in America is about 2,500, but the stronger consumers' societies are affiliated with the league.

Decision of the congress to appoint a health committee to work hand in hand with the Workers' Health Bureau, a co-operative organization backed by many labor unions, is of special interest because of the fight the Workers' Health Bureau is putting up against "looney gas" and numerous other poisonous materials which workers are unnecessarily endangered by. The Workers' Health Bureau took an active part in the congress, reporting on its constructive achievements, among which are pending legislation and the incorporation of health clauses in trade agreements.

Relations With Unions

Patronage of co-operative banks was urgently recommended. One of these banks, affiliated with the league, the Commonwealth Mutual Savings Bank of Milwaukee, has a membership of 2,100.

Resolutions passed endorsed the effort to reconstruct the federal farm loan act to make it more co-operative and allow stockholders to control their own property; provided for more co-operative education, with a national organizer whose duties would be to assist district leagues in co-operative educational movements.

Closer relation with the trade unions will be stressed during the coming year. Eighteen labor organizations had fraternal delegates at the congress.

Civil Liberties Union Plans Attack On Goose-Step Colleges

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.—The American Civil Liberties Union is setting forth to restore free speech in the colleges and universities of America. Twelve prominent educators have been organized into a committee on academic freedom to resist interference by college authorities with the right of students to hear radical speakers.

"There have been many such cases of interference in the last few years," says the committee's initial statement, "but each has been handled locally, without the backing of a national organization."

War on laws forbidding the teaching of evolution, pacifism, and on school rules interfering with freedom of opinion of teachers and pupils outside the class room will be declared by the committee.

Professor Clarence R. Skinner, Tuft's College, Mass., heads the committee. Others are Paul Blanshard, New York City; Professor Felix Frankfurter, Harvard; David Starr Jordan, Stanford University; Rev. John Hayes Holmes; Thorstein Veblen; S. B. Breckenridge, University of Chicago; Dr. Henry Linville, president of the Teachers' Union, New York City; A. J. Muste, Brookwood College, Katonah; Vida D. Scudder, Wellesley College, Mass.; Norman Thomas, New York City; George P. West, Sausalito, California.

Bazaar Conference to Meet.

Delegates wanted from all Party and League branches at meeting Saturday, Nov. 15, 3:30 p. m., 722 Blue Island Ave.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

EDUCATION WEEK TIME FOR BIG BUSINESS TO URGE JUSTIFICATION FOR ITS CONTROL OF SCHOOLS

By KARL REEVE
(Fourth Article)

The three capitalist organizations which are backing "education week"—the United States government, the American Legion and the National Education Association—are spreading propaganda trying to justify the control of the public schools by big business.

For many years the exploiters of labor have controlled the minds of the children attending public schools, and they are using education week to spread false definitions of education so that the workers will think the lying propaganda taught in the schools by the employers is real education.

Foreigners to the Truth.

The profiteers controlling the schools have shown by the propaganda already distributed for "education week" that their definition of education has nothing to do with teaching the truth.

For example, the bureau of education has issued an article for "education week" advising the teachers how to teach history. They do not say "teach the true facts of history." They advise a glorification of the profit system now prevailing in the United States. "Back of every project in history should be our ultimate purpose," say the article issued to the teachers by J. J. Tigert, commissioner of education, "to instill into the minds of our pupils the great principles of democracy upon which our republic rests. Where in the annals of another country might be found a record so convincing with which to teach the principles of our democracy?

"Compare Puritan ascetisism to Indian barbarism, show all the homely virtues intensified in a land of wanton practices."

Show Colonists Cheaters.

Tigert's article does not mention how the colonists of Bucks county, Pennsylvania, stole the whole county away from the Indians by means of trickery. This occurred after the death of William Penn. The Indians agreed to sell all the land that a white man could walk around in a day, in return for a few trinkets. But the white men broke faith with the Indians, imported the fastest marathon runners, who ran in relays for twenty-four hours, on trails that the white men blazed beforehand. This is the authentic history of the origin of Bucks county—one of the richest dairy farming counties in the country. But Tigert would prefer to keep the cheating, browbeating practices of the colonists out of our "glorious" early history. The founding of Bucks county was re-enacted many hundreds of times by the colonists in stealing the Indians' land from under them.

But Tigert says: "Show how much better our morals were than the Indians. The school children will learn to sing our national hymns, to recite our national odes, and to salute our flag with a reverent and contrite heart. THE TEACHERS WILL REALIZE THAT THEY MUST SOW THE SEEDS OF PARTIOTISM IN THE EARLY YEARS."

Pick Their Bones Clean.

The big business interests who are promoting education week are trying to "cash in" on the school children. The bones of our children are to be picked clean, and every extra dollar that can be wrung from the workers thru control of the schools is regarded as fair game. The American Book company and Ginn and company, which exert a great influence over the National Education Association, are frankly using our educational system as a means of increasing profits. They have induced the National Education Association to have the histories of the public schools revised, with the double purpose of perverting history to meet the needs of the profit system, and of selling the public schools a new set of books.

Booksellers Very Much Interested.

The Publishers Weekly for Nov. 1, 1924, reveals the reason why the booksellers are interested in the educational system. "This year, since education week occurs the week after children's book week, an opportunity is offered booksellers to co-operate," says the Publishers Weekly. "There will be quite an amount of publicity given to the week this year which the booksellers will do well to further. DURING THIS WEEK THE BOOKSELLERS WILL HAVE EVERY OPPORTUNITY TO TIE UP HIS BUSINESS WITH THE SUBJECT OF EDUCATION."

The children of our public schools are to go thru the rigamarole of flag worship, are to be taught that education is a matter of adjusting themselves contentedly to the profit system, and the truth about our industrial system is to be suppressed. All this so that those who control our educational system can gather in larger profits.

TORPEDO RETURNS TO HIT DESTROYER THAT SEND IT ON ITS WAY

SAN DIEGO, Cal., Nov. 13—Struck by one of her own torpedoes when the gyroscope developed some trouble, the torpedo destroyer, Paul Hamilton, received a damaged propellor during target practice off this point late yesterday, it was learned today from Commander Harry Bogusch, secretary to Admiral Frank Schofield, comanded of the destroyer squadron of the battle fleet. According to Commander Bogusch, the torpedo from the Paul Hamilton made what is called a "curved run," that is, after being fired it circled in the water and came back toward the ship.

Liberation of Class War Prisoners First Rail Strike Demand

(By Defense News Service.)

NATRON CUTOFF, Ore.—Liberation of all class-war prisoners, including the Centralia defendants and those convicted under criminal syndicalism laws in Washington and California, is first among the demands of hundreds of workers who have struck on the big construction project of the Southern Pacific railway here.

Three thousand men have been employed on this job, which is spread out for miles high up in the mountains. One by one the camps are being closed in response to a general strike call. The workers are going on the picket line in sleet and rain, and amid snow four feet deep.

Working and living conditions here have been intolerable. Demands of the strikers include clean beds; beds free; both ways to job on company time; bath houses and wash houses, no California products to be used; eight hour day unless human lives are endangered; all men injured to be taken to hospital at once; minimum wages $4.50 for eight hours; minimum for underground work $5.00.

Young Workers League Plans Concert and Ball On Saturday, Nov. 22

The Young Workers League orchestra, which has made such a hit at the November 7 celebration, is practicing every day on its new scores for the grand concert and ball which is being arranged by the Young Workers League, Local Chicago, to raise funds to carry on its campaign in the mail order houses.

This concert and ball will be held at the Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., on Saturday, November 22. Everybody is invited and should attend to make this concert and ball a huge success for the league.

Crazy—or Sane?

SOME comrades in Chicago have been going from store to store, asking for things. They have been getting nut sets, socks, hams, boxes of apples, neckties, clocks, razors, shoes, towels, teapots, kitchen ware, baby dresses, pipes, beads, books, slippers, lamps, etc.

Comrade Bekiesh got donations from over 60 stores and shops.

The women of the Czecho-Slovak branches have sold two or three hundred dollar's worth of tickets, and collected enuf stuff to set up a most attractive booth at the bazaar.

Bazaar, that's it—that's what all the bustle is all about. The bazaar and dance, Nov. 26-30, at Folket's Hus, 2733 Hirsch Blvd., for the benefit of the DAILY WORKER and Labor Defense Council.

The committee arranging it wants to know if there are a few hundred others sane enuf to know that a few hours spent going from store to store, and among neighbors and shop mates, getting donations and selling tickets, will mean many hundreds of dollars for the DAILY and the Defense.

Chicago comrades of the Party and League are called upon to show what they can do to load the booths with wares, and get crowds to the bazaar.

All donations should be sent to Room 307, 166 W. Washington street or brot to Folket's Hus, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Maryland Jury Hits Volstead Law in Verdict for Hill

BALTIMORE, Md., Nov. 13.—After 20 hours' deliberation, the jury in the case of Congressman John Philip Hill, on trial in United States district court here on charges of violating the Volstead law, brot in a verdict of not guilty on all six counts of the indictment.

Haggard and drawn after 20 hours' deliberation, the jurymen who were charged by Judge Morris E. Soper to determine whether or not wine and cider, admittedly manufactured by Congressman John Philip Hill was "intoxicating in fact," filed out at 10 o'clock today and exonerated the anti-Volsteadist on all six counts of the indictment charging him with violating the dry law. The announcement which was received by a crowd that extended to the corridors was greeted with an outburst of enthusiasm.

YOUNGEST SOVIET REPUBLIC ROUSES CAPITALIST FEAR

Moldavia Under Workers Menaces Roumania

By M. A. SKROMNY.

The youngest Socialist Soviet Republic is that of Moldavia. It is composed of that part of Bessarabia which Roumania has not been able to grab, altho it tried hard.

At the last congress of the all-Ukrainian Soviets, in accord with the general policy of the Soviet government, national autonomy was granted to Moldavia, and a Moldavian Socialist Soviet Republic was proclaimed.

The new republic has a population of about 450,000. One-half of the population is composed of Moldavians, the rest being divided into national minorities, such as Ukrainians, Russians, Jews and Bulgarians. It is bordered on the West by Roupmania and on the East by Ukrainia.

Brings Fear to Robbers.

The formation of the new republic brot fear into the hearts of the Roumanian robbers, and hope to the hearts of the unwilling subjects of the Roumanian king in Bessarabia. The capitalist press in Roumania, and its friends abroad are fretting with foam at their mouths.

The Adeverul, the most influential capitalist paper in Roumania, views with great alarm the formation of the new republic. "It is a threat to Roumania," cries the capitalist mouthpiece. "It is an attempt to annex Bessarabia to this new republic, but just the opposite may happen," threatens this sheet.

The Chicago Daily Tribune in a cable from Vienna reports that "the Roumanian military authorities have the situation well in hand and are watching closely for any signs of activity across the Dniester which might indicate Soviet attacks."

After seven big Bessarabian villages such as Tatarbunary, Nikolaievka etc., have been destroyed by artillery fire, and hundreds of peasants have been massacred by the Roumanian military authorities, they may at least temporarily be able to "watch the other side."

Workers Watching.

But the workers and peasants of Bessarabia are also "watching the other side," where there is no king, no pomieschik (rich land owner), and where one may use his own language even in government institutions.

After the numerous insurrections in Bessarabia the Roumanian authorities prohibited the use of the Russian language even in the streets. As it was already reported in the DAILY WORKER out of the ten newspapers printed in Bessarabia in the Russian language nine have been closed by the government. Russian schools have also ben closed. At the same time leaders of the labor unions are being arrested and deported.

Like Revolutionary Torchlight.

Under such conditions it is a question how long the military authorities will have the situation well in hand.

As a revolutionary torchlight stands the new Moldavian Socialist Soviet Republic on the other side of the Dniester showing the way to attention to the many different nationalities who are suffering under the terrible oppression of the kings' Roumanian government.

The Usual Investigation.

BRAZIL, Ind., Nov. 13—Investigation of the fatal crash of an automobile and a westbound limited Terre Haute, Indianapolis and Eastern traction car here Wednesday when four men in the automobile were killed was started today by the coroner.

Increase Broadcasting Power.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—In accordance with recommendations of the recent national radio conference, the department of commerce today authorized the Willard Storage Battery company to increase the power of its broadcasting station at Cleveland, Ohio to 1500 watts.

A. F. OF L. FACES VOTE PROBLEM OF THE FUTURE

Question of Third Party Comes Up at El Paso

The future attitude of organized labor on the formation of a third party and the question of whether or not to continue the policy of being "non-partisan" are expected to be among the principal subjects discussed at the convention of the American Federation of Labor to convene in El Paso, Nov. 17.

Gompers Vs. Lewis.

Samuel Gompers, whose machine was not unanimous in joining the La Follette movement during the presidential election, is expected to come to grips with John L. Lewis, who is said to be slated for next secretary of labor in the Coolidge cabinet because he supported the republicans. Gompers will also try to chastise a majority of the executive board of the New York Trades and Labor Council who refused to throw their support from John W. Davis to LaFollette at Gompers' request.

Gompers said while in Chicago this week that LaFollette's four million votes were satisfactory to him. Gompers pointed to the LaFollette movement's power by claiming it had defeated Davis for president. Whether Gompers flops back into the democratic camp, on the side of Strikebreaker Berry of the Pressmen's Union, or whether he joins with William M. Johnston, president of the Machinists' Union and remains in the "progressive" ranks will be seen at the El Paso convention.

Strong Coolidge Crowd.

There will also be a strong Coolidge delegation at the convention headed by John L. Lewis and William L. Hutcheson, president of the Carpenters' Union. In addition to Hutcheson, the other delegates from the carpenters and joiners are George W. Walker of Chicago, president of Local Union 58, Alexander Keifo of New York, Frank Duffy of Indianapolis, and Harry Swartzer of Cleveland.

Delegates from the International Association of Machinists, in addition to William Johnston, include James Murray of Schenectady, William Larkin of Bridgeport, George Marshall of Atlanta, Ga., and C. M. Good of Altoona, Pa.

Gompers, who is expected to be re-elected by his reactionary machine wants the convention to end by Nov. 27, as he has agreed to go to Mexico City to attend the inauguration of President-elect Calles on Nov. 30.

Roger Baldwin Here Friday.

Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Libertics Union of New York, will be in Chicago Friday. He will speak at a dinner arranged for him by the New Liberal Club at 617 Rush street on Friday evening, Nov. 14 and his subject will be "The Elections and Civil Liberty." Dinner is one dollar and begins at 6:15. Speaking begins at 7:45.

New Coal Company.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 13—The Ernest Coal Mining company of Marion was incorporated here today for $200,000 to open and operate mines for coal mining by C. L. Haydon, William H. Warder, R. R. Mitchell.

More Than They Expected.

Diamonds and jewelry valued at $20,000 were obtained, probably unwittingly, here today by thieves who stole a sedan owned by Fred A. Pistorius, jewelry salesman. Pistorius had left the jewel case in the car while he went in to see a customer.

CANNON CLASS STARTS STUDY OF PARTY HISTORY

Other Classes Going in Full Swing

With the opening of the class in the "History of the Communist Movement in America," conducted by James P. Cannon, head of the National Educational Department of the Workers Party, the fall program of Workers Party classes gets into full swing. Comrade Cannon's class meets for its second session on Tuesday evening, November 18, at 8 o'clock, in the Technical School, 1902 W. Division street.

Workers Party members or sympathizers who attended Comrade Cannon's lectures last year, know their value. The class this year is doubly important because of the fact that the material which Comrade Cannon will make use of is not available to the average worker in any other form. Tuition fee for the entire course of 12 lectures is $1.50.

The other classes now in progress under Workers Party auspices are: "Elementary Marxian Economics," Earl R. Browder, instructor; "Advanced Marxism," Max Bedacht, instructor; "Imperialism," Manuel Gomez, instructor; English for foreign-born workers Andrew Shelley, instructor.

For New Members!

All members of the Workers Party who have joined durfng the past three months are expected to attend the second of Comrade Harrison George's lectures on the "Elements of Communism and the Program of the Workers Party," which will be held next Tuesday evening, 8 o'clock, at 722 Blue Island Ave. The first of the series of three lectures was held last Tuesday. New members cannot play their proper part in the party work unless they have at least an elementary grounding in the fundamentals of our policy.

• • • •

Membership Meeting Nov. 20.

A membership meeting of Local Chicago, Workers Party, has been called for Thursday, November 20, 1924, 8 p. m., at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted street. At this meeting there will be a review of the election campaign of the Workers Party in Chicago and future tasks of the party will be outlined. Further, the matter of organizing the Workers (Communist) Party at the place of work on the basis of shop nuclei, will be put forward.

Every member of the party and league is vitally concerned with the work and tasks before our party and must understand them properly if he is to carry out his duty well as a Communist. All efforts should be made to be present. All other meetings for that evening are called off.

The order of business at the membership meeting November 20 will be:

1. Review of the election campaign in Chicago and future tasks of the party.

2. Shop nuclei.

Meeting starts promptly at 8 p. m. Be on time!

Workers Party, Local Chicago,
Martin Abern, Secretary.

Smugglers Make Rich Haul

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—That New York was used as a base by smugglers who operated on a gigantic scale and flooded the country with high priced jewelry on which not a cent of duty ever was paid, was learned today when custom service agents announced that they had seized identified gems worth $250,000 in a half a dozen parts of the country.

Building Bolsheviks—the D. W. B. U.

MONEY COLLECTED IN U. S. FOR GREEK REFUGEES IS USED TO BOLSTER UP CAUSE OF ROYALISTS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—The Hellenic information bureau here is trying to flim-flam the workers into contributing money for the Greek refugees who were expelled from Turkey, which money is spent for royalist propaganda after it arrives in Greece.

The Atlantis, Greek royalist paper published in New York, and the Nationale Herald, social-democratic petty bourgeois Greek paper published in New York, collected over $200,000 from the Greek workers in America. This money was misdirected and was spent in Greece for royalist and social-democratic propaganda against the Communists.

The Communist Party of Greece has raised the slogan, "Give the factories to the workers and the land to the peasants." Many refugees are aiding the fight of the Greek Communists for all power to the workers, and the relief agencies are not aiding the refugees. The royalists and social-democrats are fighting the working class of Greece and are trying to keep capitalism in power there. The social-democrats have declared they prefer the rule of the royalists to the rule of the working class.

Henry Morgenthau borrowed six million pounds from the league of nations for the refugees, but this money is also being spent to fight the working class of Greece.

Many Roads in Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 13—With 911.5 miles of road just added to the state highway system, Director John H. Williams announced today the total length of the state system is now 5,059.5 miles, reaching every county and important city and town in the state.

Vote in Rock Island County

MOLINE, Ill.—Rock Island county vote counted for the Workers Party was as follows:

For Foster, 65; for Engdahl, 62; for Dunne, 53; for John Watt, lieutenant governor, 59; for secretary of state, Moritz J. Loeb, 54; for attorney general, David J. Hentail, 55; for the two representatives at large, Robert Minor, 58, and E. B. Hewlett, 56.

Garrick Theatre
CHICAGO

This Sunday Afternoon
NOVEMBER 16th
TWO-THIRTY O'CLOCK
Doors Open at 2:00

THE EVENT OF THE SEASON!

GREAT PUBLIC DEBATE BETWEEN PROFESSOR

Frederick Starr
Formerly of the University of Chicago, and Mr.

Percy Ward
The Eminent Rationalist Orator

On the Question:

"Are the Advanced Races of Mankind Going Backward?"

Mr. Ward: "Yes" Prof. Starr: "No"

WHY IS A BAZAAR?

The great Chicago bazaar to be held the last week of November is for the benefit of THE DAILY WORKER and the LABOR DEFENSE COUNCIL, both of which greatly need thousands of dollars in order to function at full strength.

DAILY WORKER-LABOR DEFENSE

BAZAAR

at FOLKETS HUS, 2733 Hirsch Blvd. NOV. 26-30

Auspices, Workers Party, Local Chicago

Make Donations---Get Donations of all sorts of articles, or money
Report all or send all donations to Room 307—166 W. Washington Street, Chicago, Ill.

MILITARY DICTATORSHIP IN SPAIN WARS ON REVOLUTIONARY WORKERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 13.—The military dictatorship of General Primo de Rivera over the Spanish nation is using the opportunity given it by the bourgeois republican plots agains his regime, to carry even further his attack upon revolutionary labor organizations.

Upon the "discovery" of four obviously planted bombs in a public park at Barcelona, five men suspected of radical labor activities were arrested.

Palmer Raids With Spanish Sauce.

Republican forces are suspected of shipping in five cases of hand grenades which were held up at Rheims. Two Spaniards were arrested. In Madrid three men were arrested upon evidence alleged to have been discovered in documents seized by the police.

Plots Thicken.

Police claim to have frustrated a plot by anarchists to attack Figueras Prison to release Pedro Matteo, the man who killed President Dato at Barcelona. However, nobody is reported to have been arrested in this case.

Internal War in Egan Gang Develops in Trial for Robbery

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 13.—Thomas Saatkamp, former milk wagon driver, like Ray Renard, former Egan gangster, today turned against those he aided in the $54,130 mail robbery at Staunton, Illinois, on May 26, 1923, and testified against William P. (Dinty) Colbeck, leader of the Egan gang and eight others on trial in federal court here charged with conspiricity in the robbery. After Saatkamp had testified, the government rested its case.

Still the "Silent Cal"

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—President Coolidge does not plan to make any speeches on his visit to Chicago on December 4, it was learned at the White House. An effort will be made to have the visit informal and devoid of ceremony.

Mass Meeting at Cincinnati, O., for Russian Recognition

(Special to The Daily Worker.)

CINCINNATI, Ohio, Nov. 13—A resolution demanding that "imediate steps be taken by the government of the United States towards the recognition of the workers' and peasants' government of Soviet Russia," was unanimously passed by a mass meeting in the Labor Temple here on Nov. 11.

The resolution declares:

"Whereas: The present government of Russia has endured for seven years and is today considered the most stable government in Europe; and

"Whereas: It has been recognized by all the leading nations of the world including England and just recently France; and

"Whereas: Recognition by the United States sooner or later is a foregone conclusion:

"Therefore Be It Resolved: That this meeting, composed of citizens of the city of Cincinnati, is of the opinion that no further time should be wasted, and that immediate steps be taken by the government of the United States, thru its secretary of state, towards the recognition of the Workers' and Peasants' Republic of Russia, and

Be It Further Resolved: That a copy of this resolution be sent to the president of the United States, to the secretary of state and to Senator Wm. E. Borah; also to each of the Cincinnati papers and to the DAILY WORKER of Chicago.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

COMMUNISTS IN UNIVERSITY OF TOKIO IN JAPAN

Propaganda Reaches into High Schools

By WAKICHI ASARI.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 13.—The Communists are doing good work in the Tokyo Imperial University Settlement here.

In 1923 I entered the faculty of law of the Tokyo Imperial University, where I found a circle of sincere and serious students calling themselves "Shinjinkwai" (New Men's Society), who were devoted to Communism.

I have been taking part in the work of this society, which now has about 50 members. We earnestly occupy ourselves with propaganda of the social sciences among the students.

Students Are Propagandists.

The students carry on Communist propaganda not only in the university, but in the 21 high schools all over the land. Only the social sciences can open the eyes of the intellectuals, and make them see what role they play towards labor and capital, and in particular, how miserable their future is under capitalism. In short, it is only the social sciences that can separate the students from the camp of capital.

We have been spreading propaganda also among the laboring masses. About half of us attend the five labor schools run by the General Federation of Labor of Japan whose president is Bunji Suzuki and act as tutors. But we were not satisfied with these schools—we wanted our own. And we have it now—the Tokyo Imperial University Settlement, which was built this year from money we ourselves collected by running moving picture shows for two and one half months. We made $2,500 from the moving picture venture. We also drew a map of the quakes and fires of the last year, showing the directions which the fires took and where the most damage was done.

Raise Money for School.

It was a scientific work, and deserves preservation as a good source for the study of both quakes and as a city plan of Tokyo. The maps were printed in the Tokyo Nichinichi Shimbun and the Osaka Mainichi Shimbun. We earned $1,500 more in this way.

Timbers for the settlement house were given us by the faculty of agriculture gratis for our merits (don't laugh please, it was only for the sake of tactics) at the time of the catastrophy of September 1 last year.

Thus at last the funds were collected and the house was built. Our aim is the same as that of the Plebs League in England. We also "can promise to be candid but not impartial," only we are not now permitted publicly to declare it because of conditions in Japan.

The proletarian revolution in Japan may be very far off, but it is a historically unavoidable fact, and a scientifically promised fact. Even Japan cannot make an exception. We all will do as much as we can for the cause of Marxism hand in hand with you in America.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Party members in Carpenters' Locals attend meeting at 722 Blue Island Ave., Sunday, Nov. 16, 10 a. m. Very important.

* * *

Friday, Nov. 14.

Scandinavian South Chicago, 641 E. 81st St.

Lettish Branch, 4359 Thomas St.

"Survived!" Russian Picture to Be Shown In Cleveland Sunday

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 13.—The famous Russian-Jewish picture, "Survived," will be shown Sunday afternoon and evening, Nov. 16, at the Carpenters' Hall, 2226 East 55th St. (formerly the Eagle's Hall.)

This film will prove of extreme interest to all friends of Soviet Russia, as well as to those who appreciate a high grade of motion picture art.

The showing is under the auspices of the Jewish Branch, Workers Party, and the proceeds are for the benefit of orphan homes in Russia. Admission 50 cents.

Brookart Lead Dwindling.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 13 — With the official count in from seventy-five of Iowa's 99 counties, Senator Smith W. Brookart's lead over his democrat opponent in the United States senatorial race, Dan F. Steck was steadily dwindling, and this morning stood at 606. This was a gain of more than 400 votes for Steck since the starting of the official canvass.

HUGHES SHOULD PONDER SUCESS OF SOVIET TRADE

Dealings with Denmark Very Successful

MOSCOW—(By Mail.)—The Soviet trade delegation in Denmark has now been in existence for about a year, during which time it has succeeded is restoring most of the trading relations between Russia and Denmark that existed before the revolution.

The delegation is now well organized, and has established export, import, transport and financial departments as well as a special grain department.

Denmark now takes third place in respect to grain imports from the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and first place with regard to the import of oil cakes. During the last year a total of 18 million poods of Soviet grain forage products were sold in Denmark. During the same period the delegation chartered 50 Danish ships and purchased Danish manufactures to a value of three million gold roubles.

The main articles of import from Denmark consisted of equipment for dairies and oil pressing factories, and spare parts for cold storage and cement works machinery.

In addition, important trading operations were carried out apart from the trade delegation, namely, the import into Denmark of Siberian butter and the import into the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics of Danish tractors.

In practically all cases, the trading operations between the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics and Denmark proceeded smoothly.

New York Comrades Attention.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13—All Workers' Party members are invited to attend the celebration of the Seventh Anniversary of the Russian revolution to be held by the Greek branch here, Saturday, Nov. 15. Rebecca Grecht will be the principal speaker in English, and there will be Greek speakers.

The celebration will be held at 345 West 39th street at 8:30 p. m. Saturday.

THE POWER COLUMN

Twice every week—this column uncovers to your view the motive power behind the DAILY WORKER. Here for the interest and inspiration of every reader—and especially the DAILY WORKER agents and committees—are tried and proven suggestions and accomplishments to drive the DAILY WORKER to further conquests.

Here is POWER—the power of brain and effort of men and women of the working class who not only believe—but ACT!

The First Ladies' Auxiliary of the Bricklayers' Union!

Until today the DAILY WORKER Bricklayers' Union was a man's (a good man's!) organization. "Them days are gone forever." Today the working class woman has decided she can do as much to build the labor movement as a man can—and she is doing it. For those who may take this as a brag of an ardent feminist we print this letter from Comrade Mrs. C. Walewitch of Minneapolis which is self-explanatory:

Dear Comrades: The Ladies' Auxiliary of the Workmen's Circle of the City of Minneapolis is very glad that the DAILY WORKER Bricklayers' Union was organized during the last subscription drive for the DAILY WORKER.

We decided to begin to organize the Ladies' Auxiliary of this "union" and enclosed you will find $5.00 as our "membership dues."

We hope that many other ladies' organizations will follow our start and make the Ladies' Auxiliary of the DAILY WORKER Bricklayers' Union just as strong as the union itself.

Wishing you the best of success, I remain,

Fraternally yours,

MRS. C. WALEWITCH, Secretary.

This in itself is a considerable accomplishment. But it is not all that this energetic group of working class women has done. Read this additional note of their activities:

"One week ago, on Sunday, November 2, the Ladies' Auxiliary of the Workmen's Circle had a flower day for the benefit of the Paterson striking workers.

"The sale of these flowers amounted to $55.35, which was sent thru the Jewish Daily Freiheit.

"This is the second contribution forwarded by this organization. The first one was only for $16.50, but we hope that in the future we will be able to exceed our last gift."

* * * *

Here is a group of women whose activities speak for themselves—very loudly. They go to the aid of their class where the struggle is sharpest at the moment—but at the same time they do not overlook the constructive building of the labor movement by building the best weapon it has for the everyday struggle—The DAILY WORKER.

We have sent a stack of "bricks" to the first Ladies' Auxiliary of the DAILY WORKER Bricklayers' Union. We predict (if they are persistent as one woman we know) immediate additional growth of the DAILY WORKER, for which we will have to thank this active group of comrades. And we look—anxiously—to other groups of ladies' organizations to act on the suggestion of the FIRST Ladies' Auxiliary—and go and do likewise.

Many individual ladies, good comrades and active workers, can always be found among

The Builders of the Labor Movement

who have sent in NEW subscriptions to the DAILY WORKER on Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

The number by their name indicates more than one subscription.

CHICAGO, ILL.—Frank Martin (2).
SPRINGFIELD, ILL.—V. Vidor (2). He's in every week!
BOSTON, MASS.—E. R. Stevens (2).
CAMBRIDGE, MASS.—Irene Riegnell.
CHELSEA, MASS.—I. Cooperstein (2).
FINDLAY, MASS.—Elsie Pultur. An active builder!
DETROIT, MICH.—J. Koslow.
GRAND RAPIDS, MICH.—Herman Herbst.
KANSAS CITY, MO.—Nelson Sorenson (2). You will hear a lot of this builder!
ST. LOUIS, MO.—H. Stoltz (2).
BUTTE, MONT.—Victor Gatty.
OMAHA, NEB.—J. Batt (2); A. A. Pakiser.
NEWARK, N. J.—Freema Beck (2).
NEW YORK, N. Y.—Codkin, English Harlem, (3); I. Glass, Brooklyn; Frank Miller (2); Sylvan Pollock, Bronx English No. 1; Schwartz, Jewish Harlem; L. E. Katterfeld (14).
ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Chas. Stoltz.
BONETRAILL, N. D.—Andrew Omholt (2)
FARGO, N. D.—Alfred Knutson (2).
CLEVELAND, O.—Elma Heinrich.
WADSWORTH, O.—Andy Dimdroff.
ASTORIA, ORE.—Pacific Development Society.
PORTLAND, ORE.—Carl Gobbins (2).
ELIZABETH, PA.—Marshall Marraccini.
PITTSBURGH, PA.—P. T. Vlachos.

* * * *

We Grow Some More!

The fact that approximately 2,500 NEW subscribers have been added to our list since October 4 and that bundle orders have grown in leaps and bounds proves the possibilities of DAILY WORKER POWER. There has been no let-up in the growth of this great working class weapon. There cannot—there must not be a let-up in it. Further plans for an even more cohesive effort to "Build the DAILY WORKER" have been born. We will soon announce them and the DAILY WORKER will be headed for POWER that its infancy—a very lusty infancy it was!—has not allowed. Today it is becoming better, bigger—and you can speed its growth. HAVE YOU SENT IN THAT NEW SUB?

JAPS RAISE CHINESE QUESTION IN WORLD OPIUM CONFERENCE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GENEVA, Nov. 13.—The Japanese delegate to the international opium conference, now under way here, caused a sensation at this afternoon's session when he introduced a resolution providing that there be no interference in China's internal affairs.

The delegates immediately started a heated discussion. Great Britain's representative moved that the session be suspended.

The Japanese delegate, in explaining his resolution said his government has special reasons for such action, which could not be explained at the present time.

REVERE, MASS.

7th Anniversary Celebration

SUNDAY, NOVEMBER 16, 8 P. M.

EAGLES' HALL, REVERE

JOHN J. BALLAM WILL SPEAK.

Music by Russian Chorus.

Post Cards in Colors

Something New and Different.

Use them for your regular correspondence. Have a set for your album.

No. 1—Lenin, directing the revolution
No. 2—Lenin, when 18 years old
No. 3—The Red Flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics
No. 4—The Russian state seal and emblem
No. 5—Trotsky, commander of the Soviet Red Army

ONE CARD 5 CENTS

In lots of 10 or more, 2c per card. 1½ in lots of 100 or more.

Send money order, check or postage to

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

!
betrayed

Their first conversation betrayed the fact that she was not fastidious

AT a distance she had appeared unusually neat, immaculate. But upon their first face-to-face meeting he discovered that her teeth were not clean. And he soon lost interest.

So many people overlook this one matter of fastidiousness. And do so in spite of the fact that in conversation the teeth are the one most noticeable thing about you.

Notice today how you, yourself, watch another person's teeth when he or she is talking. If the teeth are not well kept they at once become a liability.

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. At last our chemists have discovered a polishing ingredient that really cleans without scratching the enamel - a difficult problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE
TOOTH PASTE
Large Tube—25 cents

The International Workers' Aid

helps wives and children of imprisoned workers.

There Are 383,200 Workers Imprisoned In Europe

In Germany	7,000
Italy	8,000
Spain	23,000
Belgium	2,300
Lithuania	200
Latvia	500
Finland	1,200
Poland	12,000
Hungary	70,000
India	253,000
Roumania	3,000
Jugo-Slavia	3,000

Will You Help Them?

We send legal and material assistance and we print the true facts about White Terror.

OUR AIM

To give aid to all needy workers and class war victims of the laboring masses without conditions, without political discrimination, whenever and wherever the existence of a working class is menaced by natural or economic catastrophe or by political oppression.

International Workers' Aid,
19 So. Lincoln Street,
Chicago, Ill.

Enclosed is my contribution to aid the needy workers of .....

their wives and children, and to help print more true facts about White Terror victims.

Name.....
Address.....
City.....
State.....

INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' AID

Dr. S. ZIMMERMAN
DENTIST
MY NEW LOCATION
Special Prices to Workers

X-Ray — Gas Given
ESTABLISHED 12 YEARS.
My Examination is Free
My Prices Are Reasonable
My Work is Guaranteed
Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

There's a Difference

Some workers are not well informed on the latest developments in the world of Labor—or on the theory of the Labor movement.

Other workers have the information at hand daily.

Before

After

The Brick Makes the Difference

Heave It Back to

THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd.
Chicago, Ill.

RATES
$6.00 a year $3.50-6 months $2.00 3 months
In CHICAGO-$8.00 a year $4.50 6 months $2.50 3 months

THE NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO BUILD
THE DAILY WORKER

NAME _____
STREET _____
CITY _____ STATE _____

SENT IN

Come Over!

At any time during the day or evening if you have an hour to spare—come over and volunteer your help to enable us to get out a heap of mailing, inserting and other odd jobs on the campaign to increase the circulation of the DAILY WORKER and the WORKERS MONTHLY. We are very busy and have loads of work—help us out—come over!

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE
The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section
SATURDAY, NOV. 15

1. The British Elections.....By T. H. Wintingham
Associate Editor of "Workers' Weekly"
2. The Red Soldiers' Manual—First Installment.....By Leon Trotsky
3. Sound the Alarm—An Analysis of the Election Results.....By Alexander Bittelman
4. Campaigning for Communism.....By William Z. Foster
5. Keeping Them Young and Red.....By Max Shachtman
Editor, "Young Worker"
6. Anatole France, the Comrade.....By Charles Rappaport
7. Problems Facing the American Federation of Labor Convention.....By J. W. Johnstone
8. How Much?.....By Robert E. Dunbar

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

POLLS BATTLE WAGED IN IRISH FREE STATE

Splitting Policy in the Unions Continues

DUBLIN, Nov. 13.—The political situation in Ireland is usually in a state of ferment and this is one of the usual times. Five parliamentary vacancies are being filled and the republicans are contesting them.

Anti-British hymns of hate, once the stock-in-trade of the republicans, are now going out of fashion and some of their speakers are even complimenting those soldiers who fought to save "Catholic Belgium." Flanders' poppies are sold in Dublin as well as in London.

The republicans contested the elections in Northern Ireland and put up candidates against the labor party. They make it quite clear that they have nothing in common with labor.

Praising the Fascisti.

Their so-called envoy to Paris, writes letters boosting Mussolini and the reactionary catholic church elements in France.

The Free State government has granted an amnesty to all bourgeois republicans held as a result of activities during and since the civil war, between the Free State forces and the anti-treatyites.

Eamon DeValera, the republican leader, is now in jail in Belfast, where he went despite warning by the Ulster government that he would be arrested. He was treated with considerable courtesy however and will not be severely incommoded by his jail term.

Larkin Dodges Ulster.

Jim Larkin recently spoke in a border town. He states that he would not go into Ulster just now as he "had too many friends there" meaning enemies of course. His brother Peter however had more temerity but not much luck in his attempt to organize a branch of the Workers' Union of Ireland out of the Belfast Dockers' section of the Irish Transport and General Workers' Union. The members decided their problems could not be solved by splitting their organization.

Billingsgate Flourishes.

On the whole the labor movement in Ireland is at a very low level, without any indication of a turn for the better. The policy of the Red International of Trade Unions is more honored in the breach than in the observance, and since the Communist Party was liquidated, there is no Communist propaganda being put out. On the contrary, the bitter factional fight between Larkin and his rivals has degenerated into the kind of billingsgate that became classic when Daniel O'Connell carried on his famous barging match with Biddy Moriarty.

What is needed in Ireland is the building up of a left wing in the Transport Union under Communist leadership, the same kind of work that the British Minority Movement is accomplishing in England and the Trade Union Educational League in the United States.

Canadian Pacific Wins First Round in Privilege War

By JOHN ROBUR.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

OTTAWA, Can.—A big fight is just starting here over railway freight rates and the special privileges of the Canadian Pacific railroad, the great privately-owned railway company of Canada.

In 1897 this company made an agreement to charge certain rates on grain eastward and on iron, agricultural machinery, fruit, and some other articles going to the prairies.

Now it is trying to get out of this agreement and has won the first round. The retort of the middle west is that, if the low rates are to go, so must some of the special privileges of the road.

These low rates were in force from 1898 until 1917. Then, owing to the high war costs of railway operation, as well as of everything else, they were suspended. They came back in fall in July, 1924. The railways, both the government lines and C. P. R., endeavored to have parliament further suspend the low rates but failed. The C. P. R. then put them in force only at points served by its lines in 1897. This created what were admitted to be "economic discriminations." The case was argued before the railway commission, which held that the agreement fixing the rates was not binding and so the low rates go by the board.

Appeals have come to the dominion government. There will also be appeals to the courts. Eventually the issue must come up in parliament.

YOUNG WORKERS BUY THOUSANDS OF YOUTH ORGAN

Special "Mail Order" Edition Goes Well

Over three thousand copies of the mail order house edition of the "Young Worker" have been sold to date by members of the Young Workers League.

The Young Workers League, in their campaign to organize shop nuclei in the mail order houses of Chicago, will sell fifteen thousand copies of the "Young Worker."

Groups of young employes of Sears, Roebuck and company gathered at the numerous gates to the plant yesterday and bought the "Young Worker" from the Young Workers League newsies. Many of them asked league members when a union will be organized in the plant. They signified their willingness to join whenever a union is formed.

Numerous conferences have been held by the bosses who yesterday issued definite instructions to all their department heads that any employe caught reading the "Young Worker" is to be discharged immediately. The "Young Worker" describes the true conditions of the mail order house workers and shows the low wages paid by Sears, Roebuck and company, where frightful working conditions prevail. Young lads work in this factory as long as ten hours a day and receive under $15.00 a week in wages.

The entire force of Sears' Roebuck is demoralized, the employes being restive and discontented. The police have been called in by the management, which is trying to drive the Young Workers League newsies away by force and intimidation. The police, however, altho they declare they are anxious to help the Sears, Roebuck management, there is no specific law making the selling of newspapers on the streets illegal.

Moving pictures of the campaign at the Sears, Roebuck gates will be taken today, if the weather permits. The Young Workers League members co-operating in the drive have already secured many names and addresses and will use them to form a Y. W. L. shop nucleus at the Sears, Roebuck company.

Sears, Roebuck.

Friday at 4:30 p. m., volunteers of branches 1, 4, 5 and 6 report at Arthington (900 S.) and Kedzie (3000 W.) to sell the Young Worker" and collect names and addresses of the interested young workers.

Phillipsborn's.

Friday at 4:30 p. m., volunteers of branches 2 and 3 report at Harrison (600 S.) and Paulina (1700 W.) to sell the "Young Worker" and collect names and addresses of interested young workers.

Probe "Zinoviev Letter" Some More

LONDON, Eng., Nov. 13.—The Baldwin cabinet has appointed a committee from the membership to reinvestigate the alleged letter from Gregory Zinoviev calling for increased activities on the part of the British Communists, according to statements in some newspapers.

These reports say that the ministers agreed that the matter could not remain in the indefinite position in which it was left by the MacDonald government, and they decided that it was necessary to establish whether the letter was genuine or a forgery in order to reply to the Russian Soviet government's demand for an apology.

It is believed the committee's report will be ready for submission to the cabinet at the next meeting, probably early next week.

Push Fight For Glassberg.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13.— Dr. Henry Linville, president of the New York Teachers' Union, has asked the board of education to investigate the remarks of Gilbert J. Raynor, principal of Commercial High, Brooklyn, relative to the case of Benjamin Glassberg, teacher ousted from Raynor's school in 1919 because of his alleged unorthodoxy on the war. Raynor said that the charge of the American Civil Liberties Union that he coached students to testify against Glassberg was "a 100 per cent lie."

O'Bannion Feud Victim.

Gangland's guns barked for the first time today in reprisal for the killing of Dean O'Bannion. The victim was William Shields, 32, shot down in a South Side restaurant by Joseph Carville, underworld character, his breakfast companion.

THE HAGUE.—The Dutch general election to be held early in 1925 will probably turn on the question of disarmament.

Your Union Meeting

SECOND FRIDAY, NOV. 14, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
237	Bakers and Confectioners, 3420 W. Roosevelt Road.
122	Blacksmiths, 64th and S. Ashland Ave.
429	Boiler Makers, 105th and Ave. M.
434	Boiler Makers, 55th and Halsted.
633	Boiler Makers, 62d and Halsted. Building Trades Council, 180 W. Washington St.
	Carpenters' District Council, 505 S. State St.
2200	Carpenters, 4339 S. Halsted St.
14286	Commercial Portrait Artists, 19 W. Adams St.
9	Electricians, 2901 W. Monroe St.
134	Electricians, 19 W. Adams St.
685	Engineers (Loc.), Madison and Sacramento.
845	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
674	Firemen and Enginemen, 5428 Wentworth Ave.
45	Fur Workers.
17137	Gardeners and Florists, Village Hall, Morton Grove.
21	Garmers Workers, 175 W. Washington St., 6 p. m.
84	Glass Workers, Emily and Marshfield.
118	Hod Carriers, 1850 Sherman St., Evanston.
7	Janitors, 166 W. Washington St.
	Ladies' Garment Workers, Joint Board, 325 W. Van Buren St.
113	Lithographers, 639 S. Ashland Blvd.
193	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
492	Machinists, 1212 S. Ashland Blvd.
782	Machinists, 551h and Halsted Sts.
174	Machinists, S. E. cor. Lexington and Western.
1225	Machinists, 554 Fl. and Halsted.
6	Maintainers, 119 S. Throop St.
637	Painters, School and Sheffield Ave.
27	Pattern Makers, 119 S. Throop St.
5	Photo-Engravers, 814 W. Harrison St., 6:30 p. m.
310	Plasterers, 189 W. Washington St.
563	Plumbers, 5212 S. Halsted St.
612	Plumbers, 9251 S. Chicago Ave.
297	Railway Carmen, 52th and Halsted
158	Railway Carmen, Blue Island, Ill.
1207	Railway Carmen, 52d and Roney.
863	Railway Clerks, 3 S. Clinton St.
6857	Rope Riggers, 5508 Milwaukee Ave.
2	Teachers (Men), 315 Plymouth Ct., 7:30 p. m.
	Telegraphers, O. R. T. Cort Club, Atlantic Hotel.
111	Upholsterers, 159 N. State St.
201	Watchmen (Stock Yards), 3749 S. Halsted St., 9 a. m.

Local 269, A. F. W.—Meets every 2nd Friday, 1564 No. Robey.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Gitlow to Speak at Philadelphia Forum On Sunday, Nov. 16

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 13.—The Workers' Party Open Forum begins here Sunday evening, Nov. 16, with an address by Benjamin Gitlow, Communist candidate for vice president in the recent election campaign. Gitlow will speak on "Lessons of the Election Campaign."

The Workers' Party Open Forum will hold a series of lectures on economic subjects every Sunday night in Grand Fraternity Hall, 1628 Arch St. The first four lectures are announced as follows: Sunday, Nov. 16, Benjamin Gitlow; Sunday, Nov. 23, William Weinstone of New York on "British Government vs. Soviet Government;" Sunday, Nov. 30, Jay Lovestone on "American Imperialism and the Dawes Plan;" Sunday, Dec. 7, Harry W. Wicks on "Unemployment, Its Cause and Cure."

Demand Gompers Take Action for Release of Rangel and Cline

(Continued from Page 1.)

enable to argument for release, as Pat Neff, her predecessor, was bitterly opposed. As the Mexican Federation of Labor, the Pan-American Federation and the A. F. of L. have all previously requested the release of Rangel, Cline and his companions, it is felt that if Gompers while in Texas makes vigorous protests at any further imprisonment, these men will be released.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
446 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 5th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

Secretary Wanted

Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.

J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

LONGWORTH AND MADDEN OUT FOR THE SPEAKERSHIP

Alice Roosevelt Supports Her Husband

By LAURENCE TODD.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Between Martin P. Madden of Chicago and Nick and Alice Longworth of Cincinnati, is being fought out the dominant issue before the members of the newly elected house—the issue as to whether Madden or Nick shall be speaker of the house. One might almost say that it is a question of Madden or Nick-and-Alice, for the Roosevelt family is right in the forefront of the battle.

Madden is old and hard and wealthy. He had a successful career as one of the "grey wolves" of the Chicago city council long ago, and by reason of his economical use of his earnings and investments during 18 years in congress, he is now safe and respected as befits the national spokesman for the first ward.

Madden Was Lucky.

Longworth was born rich, became the protege of Boss Cox, who controlled the vote of the Cincinnati tenderloin, and came to congress two years earlier than Madden. He has lost only one term since. In 1906 he married Alice, the daughter of President Roosevelt. Since then he has been considered in the light of a son-in-law, or as the husband of the most astute and tireless woman politician in the capital. But he has come up by force of seniority in the house machine until now he and Madden are on equal terms in the speakership contest.

Maddenites say that the republican party, which T. R. tried to destroy in 1912, has heaped enough honors on his children and their relations. Young Ted has been a member of the New York legislature, assistant secretary of the navy, and candidate for governor of New York. Now Coolidge is trying to find room for him in the cabinet, just because the Roosevelts have to be cared for as a national obligation. And Coolidge has also taken on Douglas Robinson, first cousin of Ted and Mrs. Longworth, for an assistant secretaryship. In Chicago's first ward they say this is enough; Nick and Alice should wait until a self-helped alderman has had a chance.

Nick is Safer.

Longworth's point out that Nick is a safer man than Madden from the party standpoint. He never has refused to take orders from higher up, and his charges have been reasonable. He is socially entertaining, and Mrs. Longworth as the wife of a speaker would create a real social tone in the new administration. It needs one.

Moreover, Nick plays the fiddle. Charley Dawes plays the fiddle. With Dawes fiddling in the presiding officer's chair in the senate, and Nick striking up a lively rosined jig from the white marble platform in the house, the party can find an appropriate slogan—"Let Rome Burn!"

Bondsmen for Glenn Young May Have to Shell Out the Cash

HERRIN, Ill., Nov. 13.—Bondsmen in a number of cases against S. Glenn Young, klan raider, $43,000 of whose bonds were ordered forfeited in the Herrin city court, by Judge E. N. Bowen, when Young failed to show up for trial on numerous charges growing out of the February rioting here, were being notified today to appear in court Monday and show cause why the forfeited bonds should not be paid.

Monday is the opening day of the November term of the city court.

Young and his wife were reported today to be visiting Young's brother at Cedar Rapids, Iowa, enroute to Rochester, Minnesota, where Mrs. Young will submit to an eye operation.

MacDonald Coming Here.

LONDON, England, Nov. 13.—Ramsay MacDonald will come to America to secure solace from American capitalists for his recent defeat in England, it is reported here. He declares he is in need of a holiday.

Notes on Various Labor Activities From Australia

SYDNEY, New South Wales, Nov 13.—Barbers in New South Wales are urging trade unionists not to come to barber shops Saturday afternoons. This labor boycott is expected to compel master barbers to close the shop at Saturday noon. New South Wales is the only Australian state where shops are open Saturday afternoons.

Silver and Lead Miners.

The Workers' Industrial Union at Broken Hill, covering workers engaged in the silver and lead mines there, is the only union in Australia that can claim a 100 per cent membership. Every worker in the mines is a member of the union, which is run on industrial lines.

Coal Miners Want 7-Hour Day.

Coal miners thruout Australia are demanding a 7-hour, bank to bank working day, and a minimum weekly wage of $26.40. The employers refuse to consider it. The coal tribunal has decided to hear the claim.

The cokeworkers section of the Miners' Federation has made a similar claim in all coke-making industries thruout Australia.

Labor Legislation.

The Western Australian labor government is inaugurating legislation for a 44-hour week in all industries, a minimum wage based on a 5-member family instead of a 4-member family as at present, industrial councils on which the workers will have representation to settle industrial disputes, and a better system of apprenticeships.

Unemployment.

Fifty-four per cent of the trade unions in New South Wales report had or subnormal conditions of employment. In the manufacturing group, leather, clothing, iron trades, food supply, woodworkers show the largest unemployment. The textile industry is below normal. Teamsters, chauffeurs and longshoremen report severe unemployment.

Deadlock in Mellon Schemes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.—Deadlock on tax shifting legislation proposed by Secretary Mellon is assured for the winter session of congress. After March the administration will decide as to whether a special session of the new congress, to carry out the Mellon scheme of un-taxing the biggest private incomes, shall be called.

CHILD DROWNS WHILE MOTHER IS WORKING IN THE COTTON MILL

(Special to the Daily Worker)

COLUMBIA, S. C.—A mother forced by poverty to work in the southern textile mills, is mourning the death of her child. Three-year-old Leroy Brantley of Columbia was drowned in the Congaree river while his mother toiled in in the cotton mill. Left at home with an older cousin, he wandered to the river. He was pulled out dead some distance down the stream.

Hundreds of children in southern mill villages are left at home alone while their parents work from 10 to 12 hours in the mills.

Lawyers, For, Against Doheny, Big Oil Thief Begin Their Arguments

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 13.—Beginning a review of the evidence by which the government hoped to prove it was fraud and conspiracy in the making of the naval oil reserve leases and contracts granted the Edward L. Doheny interests, Owen J. Roberts, associate government counsel, opened before federal Judge Paul J. McCormick today, the argument of attorneys marking the final chapter of the lease cancellation suit.

Roberts was to be followed late today by Frank J. Hogan, chief defense counsel, in the opening argument for the Doheny side of the case.

French Internal Loan Has the Herriot Govt. And Morgan on Edge

PARIS, France, Nov. 13.—The Herriot government is trembling lest the internal loan offered today will not reach the minimum subscription of $200,000,000 required to cover last year's deficit. If it fails, the prospect of Morgan floating a loan in America and another larger loan in Europe, will fall with it. In such case, the French franc will collapse and far-reaching political consequences ensue.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

POPULAR FOR SLENDER FIGURES

4934. The Tunic is this season's most attractive feature. In this style it is shown in blouse effect, with yoke and vest portions. Black satin and embroidery are here combined. Crepe would also be pleasing with the satin. Or the blouse could be of figured or striped silk, with vest and skirt of satin.

The pattern is cut in 3 sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18-year size requires 5 yards of 40-inch plain material and ⅝ yard of contrasting material if made as illustrated. If the concealed part of the skirt is made of lining, 3¾ yards of 40-in material will be required, with 1¾ yard of 36-inch lining, and ⅝ yard of contrasting material. The width of the skirt at the foot is 1½ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A GOOD MODEL FOR A SCHOOL DRESS.

4937. This will be very pleasing in the new striped flannels, and also in serge, jersey and wool repp. The sleeves may be short or, in wrist length in bishop style. The collar has tie ends, to be slipped through slashes in the front of the dress.

This Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. A 10 year size requires 3 yards of 40 inch material. For vestee, collar and cuffs of contrasting material, as shown in the large view, ¾ yard 40 inches wide, or ¼ yard 64 inches wide is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address, The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

In Memory of our Teacher

THE MARK OF A LENINIST

This bronze, art medallion button of Nicolai Lenin—one inch in size—and of beautiful design—you will want for yourself and as a gift for your friends.

If you don't already own one of these life-lasting medallion buttons—by all means

BUY IT FROM THE DAILY WORKER AGENT IN YOUR CITY!

50 Cents Each

Add 5 cents for postage if you wish to have it by mail

From .....

THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

Enclosed find $..... for ..... Lenin Buttons.

Name: .....

Street: .....

City: ..... State: .....

THE DAILY WORKER.

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year — $3.50—6 months — $2.00—3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year — $4.50—6 months — $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE,
MORITZ J. LOEB, Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

A Successful Fiasco

After the labor movement under the leadership of Gompers and company has been defeated by its own disintegrative factors, by large masses of unionists being more swayed by the "Coolidge or Chaos" slogan than by any labor propaganda, by groups of labor bureaucrats not even venturing as far as supporting the petty bourgeois LaFollette but clinging to the old parties of big capital—after all this, the news letter of the A. F. of L. has the immaculate nerve to come out with the following barefaced lie:

"Labor's campaign was marked by complete harmony, solidarity and enthusiasm. There was no discord or internal dissension in the ranks of labor."

Evidently Mr. Gompers did not read the news dispatches telling of the New York City Central Labor Council representing, more or less, the 700,000 members of the A. F. of L. in that city, going over to Davis and Tammany Hall on the eve of election. Nor has he heard of Major Berry and his formation at Washington a few weeks before election of a committee of labor bureaucrats both republican and democratic joined in opposition to Gompers' "non-partisan" endorsement of LaFollette. Nor has Mr. Gompers ever heard of John L. Lewis, who sat upon Coolidge's "board of campaign strategy" and who sent Mother Jones to get her picture taken with Silent Cal. Probably Mr. Gompers will hear of these things at El Paso, but as yet he is completely uninformed.

It is with no joy we report that Mr. Gompers lies about the part of labor in the campaign. We would have been pleased if we could have seen the labor movement really break with the old parties even if it meant, for the time being, following the LaFollette illusion. Our complaint is that it did not happen. Instead, the labor bureaucrats split in every direction, following their own oatsbag, each after all he could get from any old political group.

That labor—the rank and file—was not aroused and inspired to make the break from traditional reactionary political lines, is chargeable directly and personally to the fossilized leadership of Gompers and all his kind. They have proven that they can inspire nobody, enthuse nobody, influence nobody. They are completely bankrupt in ideology and are successful only in making an utter mess of everything they touch.

Their Hopes Soar High

There is a tremendous outpouring of satisfaction in the circles of big business with the decisive Coolidge-Dawes victory. No doubt this is an accurate barometer of "the confidence" of the stock market in the reactionary capitalist regime. Millions of shares are now being sold on the New York stock exchange.

The question arises: "Is this 'confidence' based on any positive economic changes?" Our answer is: "No!" The mere fact that railway, industrial stocks and other shares are turned over in large quantities on the New York exchange does not add to the favorable conditions necessary for a long-time favorable economic trend. Speculation tends to be rife when there is an underlying expectation bordering on certainty that the incoming administration will be aggressively helpful to the biggest business interests. In fact, this form of expressing confidence may even be a very costly one and bring about certain dire economic effects.

The underlying business conditions have not undergone any fundamental change as a result of the elections. The advance in railway stocks is due as much to the new tendency towards mergers and consolidations as to the feeling of freedom from hostile legislation. The rise in the stock markets has not removed or basically altered those economic forces which in reality shape the development of business.

The indisputable fact remains that the "revival" in American agriculture is only temporary. It arises out of a transitory favorable stage in the world market in which there is temporarily a shortage of certain crops and staples. It does not arise out of a more favorable relationship between agriculture as a whole compared with industry. More than that. The much vaunted increased farm purchasing power is not bringing about the much hoped and equally expected increase in the demand for commodities. Because of seasonal influences the composite economic movement tends to be upward, but the rate is slow and especially far from definite.

The hopes of our ruling class are soaring high. The basic economic conditions in which such hopes must be rooted to be sound are far from favorable at this time.

For a General Labor Congress

It is certain that, despite the temporary upward swing in production, the United States is entering upon a crisis. American imperialism which, in Europe, is striving successfully for dominance over both German and allied powers, is certain not to allow, if it can help it, the labor movement of America to retain even its present weak strength and poor morale. An open shop drive against American unionism is the complement to the enslavement of German workers under the Dawes plan.

American imperialism, unchastened by defeat, looks with lusting eyes upon Asia, and in the existing turmoil is deeply involved in intrigue, the furnishing of arms and, if need be, of soldiers taken from the ranks of American labor. America is openly preparing war with Japan. And meanwhile she subjugates with forced loans or simple might the Latin peoples of South and Central America.

To oppose these imperialist designs, American labor has nothing but the weakest of organizations, and these are divided from and disinterested in one another. To add to this, the labor bureaucracy has practically given up the strike and either gone openly into class collaboration in industry, or has taken to bourgeois politics to avoid the task of actual struggle.

All can now see how bankrupt is the labor bureaucracy of all ideological unity. While Lewis clung to Coolidge and Major Berry stuck to Davis, the great mass of workers remained inert and unaffected, even by Gompers' lame effort to get them to support LaFollette. It is clear if the workers' interests are to be protected more vital and far-reaching means must be used.

If all the little scattered regiments of labor could be gathered into one mighty army, the designs of American capitalist imperialism upon the standards of American labor would surely be defeated. It is the duty of the 44th annual convention of the A. F. of L., opening next week at El Paso, to summon such an army together.

If not only those unions of the A. F. of L., but also the independent unions, the city central bodies, the district councils, the co-operatives, the shop delegates from unorganized factories elected by general shop meetings, and the political parties of labor were all called into a general labor congress, a real power would be born.

The first duty of this new power should be the rallying of the whole working class to struggle against war threats, wage cuts and the open shop. It could demand and enforce the demand for nationalization of industry, the withdrawal of armed forces from foreign soil, the establishment in very shop and factory thruout the land of shop committees representing all workers engaged to control production and regulate employment. Such a congress could lay the basis for amalgamation of the craft unions into powerful industrial unions and could bring the unorganized by the millions into such unions.

These things and the election by such a congress of councils of action to organize and direct local and district councils of action in the co-ordination and strengthening of labor's combative powers, could be initiated by the A. F. of L. convention taking the lead. If it does not, it will prove traitor to its duty.

Useless and Ineffective

The Women's International League for Peace and Freedom has protested to the Federal Bureau of Education against its becoming an organic part of the various patriotic efforts to be made during the Constitution Week.

Mrs. Hull, the head of this pacifist body, in making her complaint rails against the educational program because it savors of "the propaganda of suspicion, prejudice and hate." This is typical of the moral outbursts that greet the militarist efforts. This is typical of the pacifist outrage that always spends itself in quick time and never translates itself into vigorous action.

We have no moral or any other mysterious objections to the campaigns launched by the capitalist hundred percenters. We object to the so-called "Educational Week" and other poisonous propaganda schemes of the exploiters of the working and farming masses simply on class grounds. We see in all such campaigns only efforts of the bosses to perpetuate their system based on the rights and privileges of the exploitation of the overwhelming majority of the country. These grounds, our grounds of protest, are based on the facts of life—the facts of the hardship faced and experienced by the mill and farm hands in their daily work.

We have no illusions about the government of the United States or any of its subdivisions being anything but prejudiced against those who earn their livelihood thru working for the owners of industry. We expect no fairness from a government which is of, by, and for the bosses.

It is because of this realistic attitude of the Communists that their efforts against employing class rule, against the aggression of the exploiters, tends to materialize into concrete, practical effective campaigns. This is the reason why Communist opposition to the employing class dictatorship, in its varied manifestations, meets with such hostility from the ruling class in every captalist country. That is also the reason why the pacifist criticism based on hypothetical, abstract virtues that totally disregard the class relationships in society are usually worthless tho occasionally well-meaning. Herein lies the greatest need for the Communist campaign against "Education Week" and all other frauds of the capitalist dictatorship in the United States.

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1.)

to scare the workers. If the labor party leaders took the offensive instead of adopting an apologetic attitude toward the enemy, the attacks of the tories would rebound off them like a rubber ball from a rock.

* * *

THE ingratitude of the capitalists knows no bounds. After the British labor leaders prostituted themselves to put over the Dawes plan in an effort to give the rotten system a new lease of life, they find themselves out in the cold. After refusing the Communists membership in the labor party, the right wing leaders are given the gate. The British ruling class treated MacDonald and his gang as Gompers was treated by the republican and democratic parties after several decades of loyalty to their interests. But the British Communist Party will not submerge itself in the British labor party and lose its identity in order to remove the makings of a handy bogey man any more that the Workers (Communist) Party of America will lose itself in a "progressive" party under any name. The only revolutionary party in the world today is the Communist International. Its different sections are alone in their respective countries in carrying the banner of working class revolt.

* * *

IT is reported that Calvin Coolidge is waiting a favorable opportunity to call another world arms conference. This means more trouble and more war. Peace conferences under capitalism are ruses employed to deceive the enemy. But all the capitalist nations are equally suspicious so they come to these peace conferences, mentally armed to the teeth. The famed Harding-Hughes conference for scrapping naval junk was one of the biggest hoaxes ever put over on the working class of this or any other country. Since that conference the race of death has increased and the nations that participated in it, no longer talk peace but openly prepare for war.

* * *

THE United States is preparing for wars with Japan and England. Japan is liable to be tackled first as it is the easiest nut to crack. Then John Bull will get his. The more American diplomats praise the Anglo-Saxon breed and talk of the "bonds that unite the two nations of one family" the nearer we are to a first-class slaughter feast in which the loving family will test out its carving instruments on each other. Capitalism knows no ideals but profit making. The capitalists of America showered kindness without end on the German crown prince when he was in this country some ten years before the world war broke out. Alice Roosevelt, now Mrs. Longworth, kissed the Hohenzollern prince publicly, and no doubt American society was as generous to him as it was to the Prince of Wales during the latter's visit. Yet the American capitalists had no compunction in sending the Kaiser to Holland to saw wood a few years later.

* * *

"I PERSONALLY favor entering covenants for the purpose of outlawing aggressive wars by any practical means," declared Calvin Coolidge in a recent address. What nation admits being the aggressor in war? The hypocrisy of the peaceful pretensions of the United States is apparent. Never were greater efforts made to arouse the jingo spirit and this propaganda is carried on by the war department and its unofficial agencies like the American Legion, the National Security League, the American Defense Society and the official bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor. Peace would be desirable to the capitalist system as a whole. War is bad for capitalism. But there cannot be any peace under capitalism, and there is no honest effort being made for peace by any capitalist nation of the capitalist league of nations. The class war against capitalism is the only road to peace. This may seem harsh to the ears of pacifists but it can't be helped.

* * *

THE Austrian strike is settled and and the catholic premier is back on the job again. The workers were granted an increase in wages. In Berlin the street car and subway employes struck and the gas workers threaten to quit. When everything seems to be quieted down, trouble pops up again. Poincare of France thanks the German socialists for putting the Dawes plan across. No more damaging evidence of the perfidy of German socialists could be brought against them than this testimony of the notorious French Fascist.

* * *

CHRISTMAS time is coming and hundreds of workers are imprisoned in the bastilles of the United States. It is a real pleasure to know that The DAILY WORKER has the largest prison circulation of any daily paper in the country. The class war prisoners of, all affiliations read it avidly. Thanks to the generosity of our readers, many of those brave fighters against capitalism are able to follow the working class movement thru the columns of The DAILY WORKER. The Workers Monthly shares in popularity with the Daily. Any of our readers who wish to bring a little needed cheer into the dreary lives of the victims of ruling class brutality, are invited to subscribe to The DAILY WORKER and the Workers Monthly for some comrade in prison. It will be a deed that will bring as much joy to the giver as to the receiver.

* * *

THE Ku Klux Klan seems to be changing its color. A news item informs us a group of Klansmen marched into a Negro methodist church in Long Island, New York, and presented the church with $200.00 in gold. The Klan spokesman declared that the order was not against the Negroes, but against the mixing of black and white blood. It looks like the old story of "when the devil was sick, the devil a saint would be; when the devil was well the devil a saint was he." The Klan is sick and is playing saint.

* * *

TWO sons of wealthy plutes have started to work in an Albany, New York, department store, "at the bottom." They have just returned from European trips. No doubt, in after life when they stop fooling and decide to live on their father's millions, "who's who" will describe them as self-made men. They had no trouble in getting jobs either.

* * *

THE Medical Association takes a heavy wallop at Bernard MacFadden, millionaire publisher of "health" and "sex" magazines. The association brands MacFadden as a faker. While the noted physical culturist denounces drugs he receives revenue from the drug business by advertising patent medicines in his magazines. MacFadden's stuff is not all rotten, but that he is a monumental faker, can be seen from reading any one of his publications. Capitalism is a corrupting influence. It lays its withering hand on every profession. Only when the workers rule and the profit system is abolished can the human race make a real beginning to solve the problem of health and poverty and bring universal happiness to the people on this planet.

* * *

BUT while MacFadden is a clever faker, it is not likely that he does as much harm as those ostrich-like medical men who are living in the past and treat new discoveries in the art of healing with contempt and hostility.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

Number of persons ten years of age and over engaged in gainful occupations in the United States according to the 1920 census:

Occupation	Number	Per cent of Total
Manufacturing and mechanical industries	12,818,524	30.8
Agricultural, forestry and animal husbandry	10,953,158	26.3
Trade	4,242,979	10.2
Domestic and personal service	3,404,892	8.2
Clerical occupations	3,126,541	7.5
Transportation	3,063,582	7.4
Professional service	2,143,889	5.2
Extraction of minerals	1,090,223	2.6
Public Service (not elsewhere classified)	770,460	1.9
Total gainfully employed	41,614,248

Total number of women gainfully employed..... 8,549,511
Total number of farm laborers working out..... 2,055,276
Decrease in number gainfully employed in agriculture, forestry and husbandry from 1910 to 1920.. 1,705,924
Increase in number gainfully employed in manufacturing and mechanical industries, extraction of minerals, transportation and clerical occupations 4,130,497

A Little Matter of History

By P. B. COWDERY.

The World, socialist party organ of Oakland, Cal., for twenty years, is no more. (Incidentally, a new paper, The Labor World, has been established in San Francisco. Evidently five years of treachery to the World's previous good name has become too apparent and has made a new paper and location advisable.) The World would have been a Communist paper since 1919, had it not at that time been "saved" by a handful of "socialists" in collision with the legal authorities. Cameron King, lawyer, Alexander Horr, "labor" editor, and H. Slikerman, lawyer, and a few others took a copy of the World, as published then (Nov., 1919) and copied all advertisements and other standing matter. This, with such other material as suited them, made up their first issue of the World. This was printed by Horr in his newspaper plant at Stockton. An affidavit of ownership in the name of the socialist party was filed in the Oakland post office.

Local Oakland, for fifteen years publisher of the World, had just recently changed by vote of 10 to 1 from socialist to Communist. Owing to the affidavit mentioned above and a counter-affidavit filed by the Communists, both the Communist edition and the King-Horr edition were denied second-class privilege. All mail was detained in the post office.

Begin With Clean Slate.

This situation resulted following the raiding of the World office and the arrest of eleven Communist leaders charged with criminal syndicalism. The World with all of its fifteen years of prestige and power was badly needed to defend and give publicity in the defense cases which dragged on for years and finally have been beaten. Rather than go into court and defend their title to the paper and all the advantages its reputation would confer, the Communists relinquish all rights such a majority should have given them and started a new movement and new papers from the ground up.

The facts are these:

The Workers (Communist) Party of today is the actual successor of all that was socialist of the socialist party. To them belonged the fundamental organization they had built, under whatever name, and with it the World.

The socialist party of today is a new it usurped the World and the organ-party masquerading under that name. ization. Those of the old guard still in the party are either deceived or never were socialists except in name.

The socialist party, following 1919, started with the name and everything except socialism (Communism) itself. Now this party has lost all except the name.

The Communists started with nothing, not even a name, but are now heir to all that was ever socialist (Communist) under any name.

Revolution Not Planned.

Revolution is the only escape, the open door from war, murder, suicide, starvation and misery. The Communists welcome revolution as the final great liberating force. They expect it only when, by contrast with the miseries of capitalism, the masses will welcome and bring it. It is becoming a matter of common knowledge that revolution is the natural gateway and only possible way of escape from capitalism. Humanity can pass that gate when by suffering and experience it gets to it—not before.

The World has been saying for five years, while it has been subsisting upon and living upon its good reputation established by others during the previous fifteen years:

Communists foment revolution. Revolution is unnecessary. Take no chance on getting arrested. Socialists are evolutionists, not revolutionists. Government is not based on force. Workers can acquire government by the ballot. Promised reform is a step toward the workers' freedom.

Communism Very Different.

Illusions, deceptions, sophistries, lies—one and all, and everything based upon such a position. Socialist and Communist as names for political parties parted company in 1919 in this country and have had nothing in common since that time, altho socialism and Communism mean the same thing. The socialist party is a creature of capitalism, by capture, and the Workers (Communist) Party is the creature of Communism, having been created by the workers out of struggle and necessity. In this way it happens that some who think themselves and call themselves socialist are really Communist. Many a good Communist is supporting the bogus "socialist" party, who is deceived as to its purpose.

The passing of the World with all its five years of sophistry and deception is to be welcomed.

Some Wrong Views.

Yes, the World and "socialist party" were "saved." Thousands of dollars were collected for the "World Press," and all those five years the "comrades," the "socialists," have been deceived. They are those who won't read because "they already know" and those who will "always vote all right anyhow." Those knowing comrades helped take the paper away from comrades who spent fifteen years building it up and making it effective and helped to give it to tricksters who had always previously fought it, but now seized it and used it against its builders when arrested. And many good comrades who have remained "loyal" to the World and the "old party," do not yet know what has happened.

And what happened to the World and to the comrades of Oakland during this period, happened to the comrades of every where from Moscow to Podunk. In this little experience lies the evidence that revolution, not evolution is the order of the day in the struggle for the new society.

MUSIC - LITERATURE - DRAMA

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

THE RITE OF SPRING," the masterpiece of Igor Stravinski, was played by the Chicago Symphony orchestra on the fourth program of the season last Friday and Saturday. "Le Sacre du Printemps," as it is called in the score, is a long ballet, having for its subject the celebration of the spring festival as it was done in pagan Russia. There are a number of dances, the sacrificial victim is chosen, is blessed, and the work closes with the dance of the sacrifice. Given without the stage action as it was at Orchestra Hall, there was a necessity for the unfolding of the story as the music went on. This was done by means of a series of cards that were exposed at the back of the stage.

It seems the popular notion that to appreciate Stravinski one must first be a little unbalanced mentally, and secondly must have studied him and other contemporary composers inside and out for years on end. This is foolishness. Stravinski writes in what is known as an "tonal" scale. That is, the relation of the tones in the scale he uses is not fixed, as it is in Beethoven or Wagner. Sometimes Stravinski writes polytonally, which means that he uses several keys at once. His work can be analyzed melodically, harmonically or contrapuntally. In short, Stravinski does just what he pleases. And he is a very great artist as a result.

"Le Sacre du Printemps" uses one of the largest orchestras ever assembled at Orchestra Hall. It totals around 105 men. Stravinski calls for eight horns, two bass clarinets, two English horns, and such unusual instruments as the bass trumpet and bass flute.

He has a part for a second contrabassoon, but it seems as if the Symphony has the only contrabassoonist in captivity hereabouts, since the second contrabassoon part had to be played on a contra bass clarinet.

As a result of the boldness and novelty of his musical ideas and of the colossal size of his mechanism, Stravinski's "Sacre du Printemps" suggests, when heard minus the dancing it was written for, a ceremony conducted by an entire nation in the depths of a forest of monstrous proportions. Nothing smaller suffices. It is one of the most thrilling and exciting, and at the same time emotionally satisfying works the writer has ever heard. Mr. Stock ought to give it again.

Madame Marie Leschititsky, widow of the famous piano teacher, was soloist. She played the first piano concerto of Liszt, otherwise known as the Hungarian fantasia. Madame Leschititsky is a pianiste of the Amazon type, and succeed well with the big Hungarian melodies used in the concerto.

Mozart's overture to "The Magic Flute," and the second Beeethoven symphony opened the program.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

Russian Lecture.

A lecture on the Third International will be given next Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Soviet School, 1902 W. Division St. Speaker: N. Radwanski. Admission free. The lecture will be in the Russian language.

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 21 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

5 CENTS Including Saturday Magazine Section. On all other days, Three Cents per Copy.

Vol. II. No. 204. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 15, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 5 Cents

BLOODY FASCIST RULE NEARS END

Coolidge Gives Support to Red-Baiting Week

AS WE SEE IT
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

REAR Admiral Bradley A Fiske, is running around the country deploring the alleged feminization of the United States. In other countries, says the admiral, toddling infants are collecting money for airships and battleships. Evidently, the admiral has not read the Chicago papers recently, else he would not be guilty of making such a serious charge against the manhood of the United States. Every capitalist sheet in this city looks like the official organ of a morgue. If bloodletting is an indication of masculinity, then, the bloodhungry admiral can recruit all the "Americans," he wants from the Tandy city. Murder seems to be the favorite sport around here.

* * *

THE trouble with us, says the admiral, is that we are getting too fond of luxury. If this continues, the American people will not be able to fight for their manifest national destiny." How much "Scotch" the retired sea dog had in his stomach when he fumed about his favorite subject, i. e. murder, we do not know, but to prove that he was not so drunk that he did not know what he was talking about, he delivered himself of the following truism: "that the connection between religion and patriotism has ever been recognized." Precisely, worthy admiral, religion, crime, patriotism, fraud, have always maintained a very close relationship and are interdependent.

* * *

THE Milwaukee Leader, Victor Berger's mouthorgan, cannot forgive the workers and peasants of Russia for making a success of their revolution. The fact that Soviet Russia has compelled the capitalist governments of the world to recognize her power means nothing to the foaming-at-the-mouth scribblers who pose as editors on the Leader. There would be many more Soviet Republics in the world today but for the treachery of the yellow socialists of Europe whose end the Leader is holding up here as best it can.

* * *

THE DAILY WORKER had a hunch that before long some patriotic American society for the defense of capitalism would move to break down the barriers against Emma Goldman's entrance to this country. Emma lived like a queen here, until some extra zealous saphead in the immigration department shipped her out as a dangerous proposition. As a matter of fact, she is a very willing supporter of the capitalist system. She did

(Continued on Page 6.)

Insull and Bankers Ignore City Council On Traction Matter

The city council, the poor relation of the city government, was ignored by Samuel Insull and his bankers when they failed to appear before the transportation committee and discuss municipally owned traction lines. Insull, Henry Blair, president of the Chicago surface lines, and Leonard Busby, president of the Chicago city railways company, were notified by the city council to appear Monday.

Alderman Arthur Albert declared that ordinances compelling the interchange of transfers between motor busses and traction lines are being prepared for presentation at the next city council meeting.

HEAD OF CITY DETECTIVES WAS GUNMEN GUEST

Police Lieutenants Help Honor O'Bannion

Unless chief of detectives Michael Hughes runs down the murderers of Dean O'Bannion, the latter's friends will feel that they extended their generosity to the wrong man.

The detective chief was one of the prominent police officers who attended the banquet in honor of O'Bannion given recently at the Webster Hotel. It appears that one of the prominent guests there besides O'Bannion was the local leader of the Motion Picture Operators' Union.

The business agent of the movie operators is always a valuable asset to the capitalist politicians. With the business agent properly "influenced," the pictures of the favored politicians can be flashed on the screens, and their opponents must depend on billposters.

Had Political Ambitions.

Dean O'Bannion wanted to become a political figure. It meant moving up another step on the underworld ladder. So he got his men to the top in the movie men's union. Hence the banquet.

Mayor Dever got another spasm of moral indignation when he heard that his chief of detectives was an honored guest at the banquet and that several police lieutenants participated in the pretty ceremony of presenting the notorious murderer, O'Bannion, with a diamond studded watch. The mayor called on Morgan Collins, and Collins called on Hughes, with the result that the latter framed a neat little alibi.

Hughes declared that he went to the banquet because he was informed that several other big politicians would be there, but when he discovered that he was among a small army of murderers he took to his heels. But according to reliable information Hughes did not depart so hurriedly.

No Double Standard.

Anyhow, why is it a crime for Hughes to attend a banquet in honor of Dean O'Bannion's twenty-fifth murder, and not a crime for Mayor Dever, Robert E. Crowe, Morgan A. Collins, Francis X. Busch, and several judges to act as honorary pallbearers at the funeral of Michael Merlo, leader of the Italian gunmen, who are suspected of having laid O'Bannon low?

Perhaps our city officials may soon begin telling on each other. Merlo was head of the Ulone Sicilians, and tho not an official political figure, he was able to herd a considerable Italian vote into the democratic fold, and therefore the politicians did him honor. It was O'Bannion's sudden decision to shoo this vote into the republican corral and particularly into the Robert E. Crowe enclosure that is considered the most probable motive for his murder.

No Surprise.

In view of the relationship between the capitalist politicians, the judges, the state's attorney and the police, is it surprising that Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes should simply shrug his shoulders and declare it

(Continued on Page 2.)

INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' AID DONATES $1,000 TO THE SACCO-VANZETTI FUND, MOSCOW CABLES

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 14.—The headquarters of the International Workers' Aid has contributed $1,000 for the defense of Nicola Sacco and Bartholomeo Vanzetti, labor leaders who are threatened with death by the capitalist courts of Massachusetts.

"The world proletariat must raise its voice in defense of the unfortunates whom the American executioner—the employing class—again drags toward the electric chair," the proclamation of the International Workers' Aid states.

Sacco is now being held at Dedham jail, Massachusetts, and Vanzetti is in jail in Charlestown. Their only crime was in aiding the working class in strikes in Massachusetts. Their cases are now before the Massachusetts supreme court on a bill of exceptions which will probably not be passed on before March, 1925. Meanwhile Sacco and Vanzetti are held in prison for their offense against the exploiters of labor.

WITHHOLD DECISION IN TRIAL OF PROGRESSIVE COAL MINERS IN PITTSBURGH DISTRICT ELECTION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 14.—The board of the United Mine Workers of America officials, who have been trying to frame up on Local No. 1724 in order to get rid of the progressive miners' candidates by lifting the charter, has not yet rendered its decision," altho the "trial" in which President Gresko and Secretary Pat H. Toohey were summoned took place last Monday at the district office.

Local No. 1724 is a radical local, and for years the officials have refused to come anywhere near the local. For example, if there was a case requiring business between the district officials and the local, the district officials always settled the matter over the telephone.

Don't Like Progressive Candidates.

This year, when Local 1724 nominated a list of progressive candidates for the district offices, the officials were over anxious to get something on the candidates or on the local so that either or both could be penalized and the progressive opposition outlawed by decree—their decree.

The mine has not been worked for over a year, and last January a traveling auditor examined the local's books and gave them a clean bill. On October 24 the books were audited again while the pit was still shut down. The charges against the local filed by Organizer Dobbins were dated Nov. 3. Thus the frameup arrangement is seen.

"A Snooping Committee.

Several board members and organizers descended upon Canonsburg and buttonholed all the members they could get hold of, trying to get them to say that the local meeting, at which the progressive candidates were nominated, was not held at all—that the nominations were made at some alleged "illegal" meeting without the knowledge of the membership.

Almost everyone, fortunately, was either at the meeting or knew it was held in regular form. But the officials evidently had been working with one of their own kind in the local, and this fellow, the financial secretary, stated that he was not at the meeting and knew nothing of a meeting. This character furnished the officials an excuse upon which to base charges, received from them to be based upon "information received."

Official Stool Pigeon a Liar.

On Monday President Gresko and Secretary Toohey accompanied by about half the membership of Local 1724, went to Pittsburgh for "trial" in the district office. These members came to testify that the meeting at which nominations were made had been attended by them and had been regularly called. Toohey had posted notices five days before the meeting and witnesses were on hand to prove that the financial secretary had been notified, and that in addition one notice had been posted on the telephone pole in front of this informer's house.

There were in the "trial" room seven board members, Fagan, Harget and Patton, president, secretary and vice-president, and several organizers and auditors. When they saw the cloud of witnesses, they evidently decided not to ask much about the alleged "illegal" meeting, but questioned Toohey for two hours about his membership, when he paid his dues, when he last worked, etc.

Financial Sec'y. Laid Frame-Up.

Toohey showed receipts that during the four months he worked in the summer, he paid his dues. Fagan looked at the report of the auditor which stated that the local financial secretary had paid no tax to the district during the year, yet had applied for exoneration for the whole local while there were quite a few members paying dues which he did not enter in the records of the local.

These members all have receipts for their dues paid to the financial secretary. But Fagan hauled out the constitution and began like a lawyer to argue that the members of locals are responsible for anything which may befall their local, as though the members were to blame for the frameup the reactionaries' man, the financial secretary, had put over on the miners.

Like Duncan MacDonald Case.

This case is a parallel to that of Duncan MacDonald of the Illinois district, and the fact that the progressives present indicates that there is a drive on to repress every sign of opposition by the progressive miners against the Lewis machine and the reactionary district officials.

It is clear that this persecution is to keep two candidates of the progressives

(Continued on next page.)

U. S.-JAPANESE AIR ARMAMENT RACE SPEEDS UP

Big Struggle for the Control of China

(Special to the Daily Worker)

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 14.—Interesting developments here and in foreign countries mirror the fact that Japanese and American imperialisms are jockeying against each other for control of China, which has been the victim of both in the recent civil war but in which Japan now holds the dominating position.

The action of the Japanese delegates on the assembly of the League of Nations presenting, as they did Thursday, a motion for the league's consideration which stated that the league opposed any "intervention in Chia," is considered as one of the most astute moves of Japan in the game of imperialist rivelry so far this year.

The Hypocrits Perform.

The sanctimonious assembly which wished to make some speeches on the opium traffic to impress the christians, was thrown into furor by the Japanese delegate, Sugimura, offering the opinion that China was a great nation which would suppress the opium trade without outside "assistance"—such assistance being offered by the Englishman, Campbell, who "represented" India in the assembly. England, it must be remembered, forced the opium business upon China.

Sugimura followed this by the motion that there should be "no intervention in China." This was withdrawn, however, after some turmoil, and the assembly was compelled to adopt no resolutions at all on the matter of opium in China.

Japan Sitting Pretty.

The fact that since the Peking government was seized from Wu Pei Fu by the "christian general" Feng and Chang Tso-lin, both backed by Japanese capital and arms, Japan has been in a dominant position—all this makes the action at Geneva an amusing but grave indication of the forces aligning themselves for a great war in the Pacific.

The protest made by the American and British at the ousting from his palace of the Manchu boy emperor is scoffed at in Japan and the effort of Britain to manufacture a "popular uprising" in defense of this relic of feudalism has only amused Japanese diplomats.

Japan to Build Planes.

The finance department yesterday approved a military aviation program calling for ¥6,000,000 expenditure. But this leaves the jingoes here dissatisfied as they point out that the speech of Admiral Fiske of the United States, made recently in America, is an open threat of war against Japan and a deliberate attempt to incite American opinion against Japan by false statements. Fiske said that Japan has a great supply of battle planes, when the fact is she is much poorer than either America or England.

Another disquieting feature is the open threat made by America upon Japan by the announced determination of building naval maneuvers in the Pacific Ocean next year between Hawaii and the Philippines. This announcement has furnished the Japanese militarists with the strongest argument for an intensive preparation to defend Japan and Japanese interests in China against American aggression.

CAUTIOUS CAL BACKS TIGERT AND THE LEGION

Proclamation Issued for Education Week

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—President Coolidge today issued his formal proclamation, designating the period from Nov. 17 to Nov. 26 as "American Education Week."

President Coolidge has thus officially endorsed the "red-baiting," militaristic tactics of J. J. Tigert, his commissioner of education.

Coolidge, by his proclamation, formally turns the schools of America over to the American Legion, allowing them to let loose their militaristic and labor-hating venom on the defenseless school children.

American Legion Scheme.

American education week is being handled by the American Legion, the National Security League, the National Education Association, and the United States bureau of education. The DAILY WORKER will continue to expose "education week" in the next issue of the DAILY WORKER, and will present the official program of the Workers' Party and the Young Workers' League toward the manufacturers' propaganda, which Coolidge has indorsed.

J. J. Tigert, who was appointed in charge of the U. S. bureau of education by the late President Harding because Harding liked Tigert's snappy stories, told in the little green house on K street, has long been a rabid upholder of anti-unionism. Tigert said in one of his speeches, "The increasing tendencies of the public schools to delve into economics and sociology comes perilously close to being radicalism. There is altogether too much preaching of these damnable doctrines of Bolshevism, anarchy Communism, and socialism in this country today.

Urges "Ship or Shoot!"

"If I had it in my power I would not only imprison but would expatriate all advocates of these dangerous un-American doctrines. I would even execute every one of them and do it joyfully."

Tigert, who is in control of the public schools under the Coolidge administration, thus describes the teaching the science of political economy.

THIRD PARTY ISSUE FACES THE A. F. OF L.

Prepare Report for El Paso Convention

(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 14.—A report setting forth the American Federation of Labor's political policy, which it is expected will deal specifically with the permanent third party proposed by Senator Robert M. LaFollette, was being drawn up here this afternoon at the first meeting of the federation's executive council. The report will be submitted Monday at the first session of the federation's convention.

Open announcement that endorsement of the third party will be contested has been made by James O'Connell, president of the Metal Trades department, who in his annual address declared he was not convinced it would be wise for the Federation to offer support to the movement.

The metal trades group, holding its meetings prior to the general convention, elected these officers: President, George F. Herrick, Lafayette, Ind.;

(Continued on Page 2.)

'YOUNG WORKER' IS AN AID TO ORGANIZATION DRIVE AT SEARS' PLANT

Several hundred copies of the Young Worker were sold yesterday at the gates of the Sears Roebuck plant by Young Workers' League members who are conducting a campaign to expose working conditions in the mail order houses.

Many of the young workers in the Sears Roebuck plant have given their names to the Young Workers' League newsies conducting the campaign, and have urged the formation of a union in the plant.

A pamphlet describing conditions in the mail order houses of the country is now being prepared by the League, and will be sold at the gates for five cents. The pamphlet to be sold to workers in the National Biscuit company, called "Who Makes, Who Owns Nabisco," is now off the press and will soon be sold to the Young Workers in the National Biscuit factory.

Volunteers are wanted to help sell the DAILY WORKER Monday to employes of the mail order houses. All who can possibly aid the Young Workers' League in this work are asked to come to the corner of Kedzie (3200 West) and Arthington (900 South) on Monday at 4:30 p. m. A special story will spear in Monday's paper describing mail order conditions in Chicago.

LABOR EDITOR ARRESTED FOR WRITING POEM

Verses Urged Workers to Overthrow Capitalism

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 14.—Failing to get action against the Countess Karolyi, Mr. S. Stanwood Menken, head of the National Security League, procured the arrest of John Lassen, editor of "Uj Elore," Hungarian Communist daily newspaper in New York on a charge of sending unmailable literature thru the mail.

Menken had originally asserted, without foundation, that there was a connection between "Uj Elore," and the countess and in the red expert's probing of the paper a poem was found in the issue of Oct. 5 last, written by Lassen and entitled "To Arms, to Arms."

It has a swing similar to the Marseilles and calls on the workers to capture and destroy capitalism, citing Coolidge, Horthy, the Hungarian tyrant and other rulers as objectives of the proletarian attack.

Released On Bail

Two post office inspectors made the arrest. Three other warrants were issued for other employes of the paper but two were quashed. George Tritter, business manager surrendered himself and was freed on $1,000 bail, by Federal Commissioner Hitchcock. His case will be dropped, it is expected. Lassen is out on $2,500 bail. He assumes full responsibility for having, written, and proof read the poem himself.

Attorney Joseph Brodsky is defending Lassen. The language used in the poem is that of poetic symbolism, the defense declares, the name of Coolidge having been used to typify the system for which he stands. A five year sentence and 5,000 fine is the maximum under the postal law.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

MUSSOLINI NOW SEES WORKERS' POWER GROWING

Expect Dictatorship's End Within Few Days

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Nov. 14.—The bloody rule of the Fascisti is drawing near its close. The workers are springing to arms, Fascist supporters are leaving the ranks of the Mussolini government by the hundreds.

There is only one question to be settled: Will power pass from the hands of the Fascist government, the open enemy of the workers, into the hands of the socialists or the liberals, the secret allies of the oppressors, or will the workers and peasants themselves overthrow the entire system and establish a government of their own?

Whatever the outcome, one thing is certain—the end of the Mussolini government is now a matter of days. In a last desperate effort to stem the tide of revolt, Fascist police are making wholesale arrests of Communists and of the left-wing labor leaders. That these efforts are unavailing is proved by the huge mass meetings and demonstrations of workers taking place in every city.

A small band of Communists at Mesagne are ready to resist armed forces sent to destroy them in vengeance for their raids on Fascist headquarters.

Deputies Giolitti, Salandra and Orlando, up to now three of the staunchest supporters of the Fascist regime, have joined the opposition. Over half of the deputies have boycotted the parliament. Newspapers known as Fascist or near-Fascist organs are facing about and printing furious denunciations of the government. Another Fascist deputy, Cosenza, has met his death.

Premier Mussolini is at last silent. After all his boasting that the opposition could do nothing to prevent his continued rule, that he would "crush any attempt at revolt as he would crush a handful of dead leaves," he finds himself speechless before the storm of fury that the past few weeks have witnessed.

* * *

May Grant Reforms.

ROME, Italy.—In an effort to forestall the rising discontent with his reactionary dictatorship, Mussolini is preparing to make gestures by granting insignificant reforms, among which is a promise of administrative votes for women which he is going to submit to the reconvened parliament which is being boycotted by many of his former bourgeois and military supporters. He previously opposed all suffrage most bitterly.

* * *

The above cable showing the popular feeling against Mussolini is corroborated by the following story received from the DAILY WORKER correspondent at Milan, Italy, dated October 28, and sent by mail:

Today is being celebrated by the organized and armed White Guards of Italy, the Fascisti, in commemoration of the march on Rome and the seizure of power by the renegade socialist, Mussolini.

Knowing there would be some excitement of some kind, I went to the Duomo, the center of town, and found it fairly full of people who were waiting for a parade. Shortly before twelve it started, headed by the Fascist militia, armed to the teeth and packing quantities of medals and ribbons, these latter being reserved more for the officers than the men.

Fat Fascist Officers

About half the men were ribbons, which designated service in the late

(Continued on next page.)

2,000 WORKING CLASS FAMILIES MADE HOMELESS IN JERSEY CITY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

JERSEY CITY, Nov. 14.—Fire, which raged thru five city blocks, destroying factories and tenements, injuring fifty and making 2,000 families homeless, was brought under control this afternoon after firemen had fought desperately for almost six hours to save the entire downtown industrial sec-

COOLIDGE VOTE MILLIONS LESS THAN HARDING

Figures Show Calvin's Strength Exaggerated

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Revised and virtually complete figures on the presidential election of 1924 today destroyed some of the popular illusions that were held by political observers prior to the vote of Nov. 4.

The popular vote, as now compiled, falls considerably short of the estimated 30,000,000 mark and will barely exceed the 26,000,000 mark established in the Harding-Cox fight four years ago.

These figures show that, despite the strenuous efforts to get out the vote, there are still millions of "vote slackers," in addition to those denied the vote.

Official returns from all states are still lacking, but the vote has been sufficiently tabulated to reveal some interesting facts anent the election of 1924, which will be studied and pored over by the political historian of the future.

Davis Beat Cox—Downward.

James M. Cox, generally hailed as the "worst beaten" candidate in democratic history, will have to yield to John W. Davis, despite the fact that President Coolidge ran considerably behind Harding. Davis carried one more state than Cox did, twelve against eleven, but he ran more than a million votes behind Cox in the popular vote.

Unofficial but fairly accurate totals for the 1924 election are: Coolidge, 14,100,000; Davis 8,000,000; La Follette 4,800,000.

The vote for minority tickets such as Workers (Communist) Party, prohibition, single tax, labor, American, etc., will be necessary to bring the 1924 popular vote ahead of the 1920 figures.

On this basis of virtually complete tabulation it is shown that President Coolidge ran ahead of Harding in 17 states, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Illinois, Indiana, Kansas, Maine, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Hampshire, New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Vermont, Rhode Island, Wyoming, Florida and South Carolina.

Ran Behind Harding

Coolidge ran behind Harding in 31 states, Arizona, Delaware, Georgia, Idaho, Iowa, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Montana, Nebraska, Nevada, New York, North Dakota, Ohio, Oklahoma, Oregon, South Dakota, Tennessee, Texas, Utah, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Alabama, Arkansas, North Carolina, Virginia, New Mexico.

Davis ran ahead of Cox in 19 states, Georgia, Illinois, Iowa, Massachusetts, Michigan, Mississippi, Nebraska, New Jersey, New York, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, Texas, Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia and Utah.

Davis Behind Cox

Davis ran behind Cox in 29 states, Arizona, California, Colorado, Connecticut, Delaware, Idaho, Indiana, Kansas, Kentucky, Louisiana, Maryland, Maine, Minnesota, Missouri, Montana, Nevada, New Hampshire, North Dakota, Ohio, Oregon, Pennsylvania, South Dakota, Tennessee, Vermont, Washington, West Virginia, Wisconsin, Wyoming and New Mexico.

LaFollette ran ahead of Coolidge in only one state: Wisconsin.

He ran ahead of Davis in 11 states, California, Idaho, Minnesota, Montana, Nevada, North Dakota, Oregon, South Dakota, Washington, Wisconsin and Wyoming.

In most of these states, the combined total for LaFollette and Davis exceeded the Coolidge vote.

LaFollette Cut Into Davis

There are many indications that LaFollette cut far more deeply into Davis than into Coolidge. This is particularly true of the border states and the western states.

Grant No Clemency.

TOKIO—Clemency was today regarded as unlikely in the case of Daisuke Namba, sentenced to die for an attempt on the life of Crown Prince Hirohito. His execution will probably be carried out next Tuesday.

ALMOST COMPLETE FIGURES OF RECENT ELECTIONS ARE ISSUED; COMMUNIST TOTALS NOT GIVEN

The following table, based on virtually complete, altho unofficial returns, tells the story of the recent elections. This tabulation omits the minority parties. The national office of the Workers (Communist) Party is gathering its own returns from the various states.

State	Coolidge	Davis	LaFollette	Harding	Cox
Alabama	70,000	170,000	11,000	74,000	163,000
Arizona	25,000	21,000	14,000	37,000	30,000
Arkansas	49,000	116,000	18,000	71,000	107,000
California	706,000	104,000	415,000	624,000	229,000
Colorado	200,000	80,000	55,000	173,000	105,000
Connecticut	256,000	109,000	38,000	229,000	121,000
Delaware	52,000	33,000	5,000	53,000	40,000
Florida	47,000	105,000	11,000	48,000	90,000
Georgia	28,000	112,000	10,000	44,000	107,000
Idaho	34,000	12,000	26,000	89,000	46,000
Illinois	1,440,000	578,000	416,000	1,420,000	534,000
Indiana	690,000	495,000	65,000	700,000	510,000
Iowa	525,000	271,000	153,000	635,000	227,000
Kansas	385,000	148,000	92,000	369,000	185,000
Kentucky	388,000	365,000	35,000	452,000	456,000
Louisiana	17,000	53,000	4,000	38,000	87,000
Maine	138,000	55,000	11,000	136,000	58,000
Maryland	161,000	146,000	45,000	236,000	180,000
Massachusetts	701,000	280,000	142,000	681,000	275,000
Michigan	865,000	242,000	151,000	762,000	233,000
Minnesota	408,000	84,000	327,000	519,000	143,000
Mississippi	7,000	84,000	3,000	12,000	89,000
Missouri	675,000	500,000	83,000	727,000	574,000
Montana	70,000	31,000	55,000	109,000	57,000
Nebraska	205,000	132,000	96,000	247,000	119,000
Nevada	10,000	5,000	9,000	16,000	9,000
New Hampshire	100,000	57,000	8,000	95,000	62,000
New Jersey	673,000	295,000	111,000	611,000	258,000
New Mexico	39,000	37,000	7,000	97,000	46,000
New York	1,800,000	950,000	460,000	1,871,000	780,000
North Carolina	200,000	325,000	15,000	232,000	305,000
North Dakota	95,000	13,000	90,000	160,000	37,000
Ohio	1,150,000	470,000	346,000	1,180,000	780,000
Oklahoma	182,000	216,000	25,000	243,000	215,000
Oregon	122,000	57,000	58,000	143,000	80,000
Pennsylvania	1,300,000	385,000	265,000	1,218,000	500,000
Rhode Island	125,000	77,000	7,000	107,000	55,000
South Carolina	3,000	66,000	1,000	64,000	2,800
South Dakota	88,000	23,000	63,000	110,000	35,000
Tennessee	108,000	34,000	10,000	219,000	206,000
Texas	76,000	342,000	22,000	114,000	283,000
Utah	83,000	60,000	31,000	81,000	59,000
Vermont	80,000	16,000	5,000	68,000	20,000
Virginia	70,000	155,000	13,000	87,000	141,000
Washington	175,000	35,000	118,000	233,000	84,000
West Virginia	202,000	169,000	3,000	280,000	220,000
Wisconsin	264,000	60,000	366,000	498,000	113,000
Wyoming	40,000	13,000	25,000	35,000	17,000

BIG FIRE IS STILL RAGING IN JERSEY CITY

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 14. — With fireboats playing streams of water on freight and coal yards of the Lehigh Valley railroad, endangered by fire and with help speeding to the city from half a dozen other municipalities, firemen of Jersey City fought with desperation this afternoon to check a conflagration which, after three hours, still raged beyond control to the north, east, and south threatening the entire downtown industrial district.

Hundreds Homeless.

Damage done by the blaze has gone far into the millions, fire department officials said. Hundreds are homeless are virtually penniless. The frame dwellings in which they lived, with all their effects, were destroyed.

Thirty persons, most of them firemen, were in hospitals. Five great factories and warehouses were ravaged by flames and fear was expressed that the fire might spread to the great plant of Colgate & company, occupying two city blocks.

Reports that looters were active in deserted homes caused issuance of an order by chief of police, Richard T. Battersby, to "shoot to kill."

Flame Tipped Acid.

A terrific explosion in the saltpetre refinery of Battele & Renwick, started the fire. Police said they believed the factory workers escaped without injury.

A series of explosions which splattered flame tipped acids far and wide shook the lower part of the city, felled firemen and drove crowds back for hundreds of feet.

Flames, attaining great height leaped across street intersections at three points while buildings in two square blocks burned fiercely, setting ablaze structures directly opposite. The Saltpetre Works, the Richards Chemical company plant, the Hoppe Paper Box factory, the American Sugar Refining works and huge warehouses owned by Colgate and the Sugar company were among the buildings destroyed.

Have you heaved your brick?

MOLDAVIAN SOVIET REPUBLIC BORN WITHIN THE SOVIET FEDERATION

By ANISE.

MOSCOW.—(By Mail.)—The organization of an autonomous Moldavian state within the Soviet Federation was confirmed on Oct. 11 by the Ukrainian central executive committee, from whose territory the new state is formed. It lies not far from Odessa along the borders of Bessarabia, and will be given full autonomous rights.

This is expected to cause considerable comment on the other side of the border, for the greater part of the Moldavian people are in Bessarabia under the rule of Roumania, which is suppressing all national expression with military force. The difference of treatment accorded by Roumania and by the Soviet Republic cannot but strengthen the pro-Soviet feelings of the smaller nationalities scattered along the Russian border.

Head of Chicago Detectives Was Guest of Gunmen

(Continued from Page 1.)

impossible to make any headway in running down the clews to the murder? The police department has plenty of stoolpigeons in the ranks of the gunmen. It is safe to say that nothing happens in the underworld unknown to the police. It is not too much to say that many things happen in the underworld that are made to happen by the police. The close relationship existing between Dean O'Bannion, State's Attorney Crowe and the police is proof of this.

Not so long ago Lieutenant Michael Grady, so-called "ace" of the detective bureau, was indicted with O'Bannion on charge of stealing booze from a government warehouse. According to statements of prohibition officers, Grady and a squad of detectives led O'Bannion's hijacking caravan and were prepared to shoot it out with any darned U. S. government prohibition agents that might happen along.

Grady was suspended as a result of this escapade, but the Hearst papers made such a vigorous fight for him that Mayor Dever and his chief of police were forced to reinstate him pending trial on the booze stealing charge with O'Bannion.

The gunmen are not doing any worrying about the police. As The DAILY WORKER already pointed out, the latter are useful to the employers during strikes and elections. There is no record of a gunman going to the gallows for murder. Robert E. Crowe does not make a grandstand play in the cases of gangsters, indicted for murder as he made in the Loeb-Leopold case. Why? It is almost unnecessary to answer. His political relations with O'Bannion, who, according to Chief of Police Collins, committed twenty-five murders, tell the tale.

Gunman Is Buried.

O'Bannion was buried today. Thousands of dollars worth of flowers accompanied him to his grave. Hundreds of gunmen were there. The police were supposed to arrest gangsters carrying guns. But the O'Bannion's successor, Alterie, of the Janitors' Union, was surrounded by men with bulging pockets, there were no arrests.

Those who remember the energy displayed by the Chicago police during the strike of the Ladies' Garment Workers last spring in arresting pickets, may be surprised at their present inability to even get hold of a clew in the O'Bannion case. It is more than likely that many of the gunmen who helped to break the garment workers' strike are mixed up in this murder and neither Crowe nor the city police officials have any intention of "getting" them. The gunmen know too much.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

BLOODY FASCIST RULE IN ITALY IS NEARING END

(Continued from page 1)

trouble with Austria and also proved that Italy has her scissorsbills as well as the U. S. The officers were easily distinguished from the men both by their uniforms and their weight. Most of them carried the extra poundage in front of them. In other words they were typical bourgeois business men.

The rank and file of the militia appeared to be recruited from the same element as our strikebreakers and gunmen of the U. S. They were hard-faced, tough-looking individuals who appeared ready for anything provided they were well paid for it and the risks weren't too great.

Following the militia came the young fellows of the movement, mostly kids around eighteen or under, who obviously showed their pleasure in belonging to an organization of cutthroats, a sort of modern way of playing pirate in a more realistic manner. Of course, they tried to look as ferocious as possible.

No Applause for Musso.

There was no applause as they passed and the whole atmosphere was one of a funeral rather than a celebration. After the parade the Fascist assembled in the piazza in front of the cathedral. In a very few minutes an automobile plowed its way through the crowd making the people jump for their lives and pulled up at the foot of the steps leading to the cathedral.

Out stepped Mussolini in a black shirt and about two pounds of medals on his manly breast, mounted the cathedral steps and made a short speech in which he lauded his accomplices for the gentle manner in which they had saved the borgeoisie from the terrible Bolsheviks and the workers from getting an extra crust of bread a day. He then got down and was kissed by a number of his compatriots after which he made his escape.

Ominously Silent People.

There was cheering and waving of guns but the Milanese who were in the crowd took no part in it but remained, what seemed to me, rather ominously silent. An American who witnessed the same celebration last year said that this was in direct contrast to the way the crowd received the heroes then. The turning point was the murder of Matteotti and although he (Mussolini) may hang on to power another year or two, he and his organization are losing popularity day by day. However, he saved the hide of the bourgeoisie for a time and has therefore performed his mission.

Third Party Issue Is Facing El Paso A. F. of L. Convention

(Continued from Page 1.)

A. M. Huddell, Chelsea, Mass., steam engineers; William J. McEarley, Cleveland, lathers; John J. Hynes, Washington, sheet metal workers; James P. Noonan, Washington, electrical workers; E. J. Given, Chicago, plasterers; secretary-treasurer, William J. Tracy, U. S. department of labor.

In a statement today Gompers declared that labor fared "almost phenomenally well" in the general elections. "In the face of the Coolidge landslide there were elected to the new house of representatives more members having labor's indorsement than are to be found in the present house."

That this means absolutely nothing can be seen from a survey of the activities of "union card" congressmen in previous houses, elected with the indorsement of "labor" on the democratic or republican ticket. It is a certain sign of the continued Gompersian asininity and attempts to befuddle and mislead the workers that he has the nerve to say that labor fared "almost phenomenally well," despite the tremendous Coolidge landslide, a guarantee of a black reactionary rule against the workers of America for the next four years.

The senile old faker adds insult to injury when he further states that the new congress "is not likely to pass any measure greatly detrimental to the interests of the workers." A statement of this sort made in the face of the appointment of Coolidge's manager, William M. Buler, to fill the place of the deceased blackguard, Lodge, is either to be classified as bopeless ignorance or knavishness. In the case of the doddering old man of the sea, it is probably the latter.

Membership meeting, Workers Party, Local Chicago, Thursday, Nov. 20, 1924, 8 p. m., at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted St.

Order of business:

1. Review of election campaign in Chicago and future tasks.
2. Shop nuclei.

All other meetings cancelled. Meeting starts promptly at 8 p. m. Party and league comrades, be on time!

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Saturday Evening Post Takes Up Arms Against Recognition of Russia

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the Chicago Tribune vehemently declares that "there must be no weakening in our policy under President Coolidge," on the question of Russian recognition.

This is only part of the tremendous outburst occasioned by the fact that even the Baldwin tory government in Great Britain, haven of counter-revolutionary anti-Bolsheviks of every stripe, has been forced to announce that it will not change the policy of the deposed Labor Government in recognizing Soviet Russia.

* * *

There were plenty of the die-hards in Great Britain, especially in the tory party. There are more of them, even in the United States trying to stave off inevitable assent to the fact that Soviet Rule in Russia is impregnable. England has its Curzons and Churchills. The United States has its Hughes, its Hoovers and its Gomperses.

* * *

But while the Tribune wails that, "We do contend that they (the Russians) will make more petty mischief than recognition is likely to be worth in trade," another powerful organ of American capitalism, the Saturday Evening Post, bases its opposition on entirely different grounds.

It uses up considerable space in the Nov. 15 issue of its two and a half million circulation, raising a cry against "The War on Capital" in Soviet Russia; a war that it claims is beginning to permeate American institutions.

* * *

The article ends with an appeal for those pillars of American capitalism—"free endeavor" and "initiative." It pleads, in the best style of the Russian emigres, those who supported the czardom and plot for its return, that capitalism be restored in Russia. The big cause of the hysteria is the admission that Soviet Rule, even under the New Economic Policy, instituted under the leadership of Nikolai Lenin, has been driving hard against the private profiteers in Russia, the Nepman, tending towards their complete extermination.

* * *

Cyrus H. K. Curtis is president of the Curtis Publishing Co., that publishes the Saturday Evening Post.

Curtis was among those called to Washington before the Borah committee investigating campaign funds. Curtis admitted he was working for the re-election of Coolidge, and that he had contributed toward the Coolidge $4,000,000 campaign fund. This is the Curtis who fears Bolshevism in Russia, because he feels that it will inspire the workers to establish their own Soviet Rule in this country, that it will mean the end of capitalism.

* * *

The Saturday Evening Post levels its strongest attack against the Russian co-operatives, especially the All-Russian Union of Consumers' Societies. It sighs because of the efforts of the Russian co-operative movement to wipe out the little shopkeepers. Here are its own words:

"Thruout Russia, in trains, street cars, on walls and in windows, you see posters aimed at the elimination of private enterprises. Here is one of the choicest injunctions:

"'The co-operative store does not rob you in measure or weight. It sells without cheating.'

"A second reads like this:

"'Buy everything in the co-operative store and nothing in private shops.'

"A third, which contains the usual capitalization of propaganda opportunity, is as follows:

"'The Fascisti have plundered the workers' co-operatives of Bulgaria, Italy and Germany. The Revolutionary proletariat establishes its co-operation—their weapon in the struggle with the world bourgeoisie.'

"Still another reads:

"'All that we require while NEP rules is a co-operation which in extent and depth comprises the Russian people.'"

* * *

Therefore the Saturday Evening Post laments.

Because the workers and peasants of Soviet Russia are striving to build their own co-operative system.

Evidently this sheet wants us to infer that it is in favor of robbery in measure and weight; that it wants the workers to do all their purchasing from bandit capitalists: that it approves of the burning and destruction of the workers' co-operatives in countries still under capitalist rule: that this is its wish with the hoped for return of czarism in Russia; that it objects to the masses of the Russian workers and peasants determining their own destiny.

* * *

The Saturday Evening Post sheds copious tears because during the first six months of 1924, the applications for private shop licenses, in Moscow alone, decreased by 8,000; proof conclusive that co-operation in the struggle towards Communism, is winning out over the last vestiges of the "free endeavor" and "initiative" of which the upholders of capitalism so proudly boast.

* * *

Intelligent workers and farmers in the United States, who are struggling to build their own co-operative movement, within the capitalist shell, even in this country, will not be influenced by the capitalist class arguments of the Saturday Evening Post.

Neither will they be frightened by the Tribune's bogey of "Bolshevik Propaganda." American workers and farmers want to know the truth about what is going on in Soviet Russia. In time they will not only be content to have the United States recognize Soviet Russia, but they will be joining the struggle in this country for a Soviet Government of their own.

Withhold Decision in Trial of Coal Miner Progressives

(Continued from Page 1.)

give ticket off the ballot and oust the progressives from the local if possible by revoking the charter and keeping the progressives out when it is reorganized.

Members Must Stick.

If the officials can get rid of Harmison, progressive candidate opposing O'Leary for International board member, and Pat Toohey, who is running for auditor on the progressive slate they hope to provoke the progressive elements and radical miners into hasty and ill-advised action and wild talk of secession.

If the officials can provoke the men to this folly, they hope to be able to hold this against the progressives afterward. But the progressive leaders are actively opposing and movement which will furnish ammunition to the reactionary machine against the miners' only hope—a solid and powerful progressive miners' movement fighting as one body thruout the whole U. M. W. of A.

Russian Lecture Tomorrow.

A lecture on the Third International will be given this Sunday afternoon, at 2:30 o'clock, at the Soviet School 1902 W. Division St. Speaker: N. Radwanski. Admission free. The lecture will be in the Russian language.

TORY CABINET PROBING ITS OWN 'RED' PLOT

Ramsay MacDonald Is Shown Up in 'Matt' Role

(Special to the Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 14.—The foreign office has qualified its assertion that the question of revocation of trade agreements with Soviet Russia was not under consideration, by saying that if the cabinet inquiry of the "Zinoviev note" warranted, the whole question of relations would be taken up.

Zinoviev's Counter Charge.

The foreign office statement intimated that recognition and allied questions might come under cabinet scrutiny if no substantiation were found for the charges of Gregory Zinoviev, president of the Communist International, that his alleged note to British Communists was a forgery.

This forged note was the means whereby a British spy in Moscow was caught by the Soviet cheka, according to reports. This spy had obtained access to important documents and photographed them. As nothing in them, however, warranted disturbance in the relations between England and the Soviet government, the plan was laid by the cheka whereby the spy, then under suspicion, would be proven a spy by what the British government did after he had photographed a letter, supposed by him to be genuine, which the cheka planted for him and which contained imaginary plots directed against Britain supposedly by Zinoviev.

Tories Used Trick on Ramsay.

As the tories, under Ramsay MacDonald, the "labor" premier, controlled the admiralty and army departments of the British government and were in charge of all the technical work even in the foreign office, when the photograph of the forged letter reached Great Britain, it was copied and secretly given to the conservative newspaper, the Daily Mail and leaders of the conservative party.

As the cheka in Moscow had put into the forged and planted note the amusing suggestion "to the British Communists" that Ramsay MacDonald was a good fellow and, being premier, was in a position to aid in overthrowing the English government, the conservatives waited until the eve of election day. Then the slick tories in the foreign office persuaded MacDonald that he could use a big hit by publishing the thing, together with a sharp note to the Soviet government, and thus show that he, Ramsay, was standing for no foolishness from the Bolsheviks.

Ramsay Reniged Too Late.

As the conservative party had planned, the effect of the publication of the forgery damaged MacDonald in the eyes of the unschooled British people, and the conservatives did everything possible to connect MacDanad with Bolshevism and frighten the nervous electors. Altho MacDonald reniged at a late hour and said he thought the note a forgery, it was too late and the election went against him.

Paregoric for Public.

The statement made previously that the conservative cabinet would not consider revocation of the recognition of Soviet Russia has been seen to be politically unwise in the consideration of the tory leaders. It is that, and the present qualification issued to soothe the nerves of the public which does not understand the trick put over by the Baldwin conservatives upon MacDonald and the labor party regime.

The British government recognized Soviet Russia for business reasons, not because of affection for Bolshevism, and the same reasons argue against any revocation. English statecraft is equal to the occasion, and will probably manage to escape from Zinoviev's charges by laying all the blame on Ramsay MacDonald without breaking off profitable relations with Russia.

EDUCATIONAL MEETING.

The Douglas Park English Branch will hold an open meeting this Monday, Nov. 17, 1924.

William F. Dunne, who headed the Workers' Party delegation, will report to us on the fifth World's Congress of the Communist International. A record crowd is expected.

Come early and bring your friends along. We all want to know what took place on the other side, this is a splendid chance for us to learn.

This meeting will take place at 3322 Douglas Blvd. at 8:15.

Bankers Take Up Traction Issue.

Bankers representing the security holders of Chicago's traction lines, and who are expected to decide today whether or not the city will be able to buy and consolidate the surface and elevated systems. The bankers will give a written verdict on the Schwartz certificates, with which the city hopes to buy the traction lines, and will decide whether they will be acceptable in lieu of cash.

PROFIT TEST APPLIED TO THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS BY BIG BIZ, DAILY WORKER EXPOSE SHOWS

By KARL REEVE.
(Fifth Article.)

The sole test of the educational system, according to the "education week" propaganda issued by the American Legion, is "What financial returns do the public schools system bring to the business man?"

The schools, under the control of the bureau of education, the American Legion and the National Education Association, are no longer institutions to teach the children the truth. They are adjuncts of the capitalist state, which is the servant of the employing class.

The schools, controlled by these agencies of the large corporations, are business institutions, used for grinding out wage slaves and making the profits of the business men larger.

Consider the leading article in the American Legion Weekly for November 14, 1924. "If you're in a community of real Americans, you'll find that your schools are delivering larger returns on the money invested than any financial, mercantile or industrial corporation in the nation, bigger than the Standard Oil or Ford Motor. The public school education is the basis of industrial and commercial prosperity."

We are asked by this "education week" propaganda to wipe out illiteracy not for the good of the children involved, but to increase the circulation of the capitalist dope sheets. "How many newspapers and magazines would be sold in a nation of illiterate people?" asks the official organ of the American Legion. "The public schools create desires which keep our industries running, our stores crowded with customers and our banks with depositors. Instruction in art, music and home economics are creating demands which insure the prosperity of thousands of merchants."

Protests Pour In.

Protests against the deliverance of the public schools system of the country into the hands of the rabid militarists of the American Legion by J. J. Tigert, commissioner of education in the Coolidge cabinet, have been pouring in to the bureau of education. Tigert has given the American Legion power to feed the school children militaristic propaganda during "education week" and semi-radical organizations are objecting.

Dr. Frederick Lynch, editor of Christian Work declares, "People become Communists not because they hate this country but because to their mind this is the best way to help it. Thirty million people and more died of militarism during the last ten years. Extreme pacifism, which the bureau of education denounces along with the Communists in its education week program, could scarcely prove more fatal to human life. And we doubt if Communists would destroy more than two hundred billion dollars worth of property in a decade.

"The bureau of education starts Tuesday's program with a discussion of the red flag, which they seem to think means just about what our national battle flags have meant—death, destruction, poverty, starvation, disease, anarchy and dictatorship."

Legionnaires Are Thugs.

"In planning American Education Week, the bureau writes, 'local and national officers of the American Legion should be consulted freely.' Dr. Lynch continues, "Who made the American Legion the source par excellence of patriotism? The men who lynched in Centralia and murdered unoffending citizens there—even the victims bore the name Industrial Workers of the World—the men who by their legion in place after place have tried to break down the guarantees of freedom for which our fathers shed their blood. Have these men such a preeminent claim to 'education' that a government bureau should recommend them as virtually the sole source of public instruction? Let the bureau of education at least quit patrioteering and playing politics."

Support Withdrawn.

Even the Young Women's Christian Association, which sold out to the employers who thrust America into the world war, have shied at the obvious attempt of the bureau of education to militarize the public schools. The Y. W. C. A. took a prominent part in the two previous government "education" campaigns, but even their hardened stomachs sickened at the nauseating "red scare" propaganda, and they have withdrawn the support of their 600,000 members. Mabel Cratty, general secretary of the Y. W. C. A. explained that, "the national board has felt that it necessary to decline the invitation to participate this year because of certain elements in the announced program which seemed to be inconsistent with the position of the board in regard to world peace and international co-operation."

Disagrees with Gompers.

James H. Maurer, president of the Pennsylvania state federation of labor, in spite of the fact that the Gompers' machine is supporting education week, has denounced the education week program.

"The legion propaganda program will not only tend to stultify the brain but act as a smoke screen to becloud just grievances and the shortcomings of misfit public officials," Maurer has declared.

The Teachers' Union of New York has also enlisted in the fight on "education week" propaganda.

SHOW CHILDREN IN SOVIET SCHOOLS ARE SELF-GOVERNING

The school children of Soviet Russia are self-governing and self reliant. They are taught that their greatest duty is to preserve and aid their workers' and farmers' government. After the Bolshevik revolution all textbooks permeated with imeprialist and capitalist propaganda, such as the American schools teach, were thrown on the scrap heap.

The next article by Karl Reeve exposing "education week," which is anti-red week aimed by the Coolidge administration against the Communists, will contrast American schools with the educational system of Soviet Russia. Reeve's articles exposing the capitalist and militarist control of "education week" will be printed daily in next week's issues of the DAILY WORKER.

ANDREW SPISAK IS DEPORTED BY U.S. AUTHORITIES

Held on Ellis Island for Seventeen Months

By ROSE BARON.

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Andrew Spisak, subject of Austria, was deported to Jugo-Slavia, October 24, 1924. He was kept a prisoner on Ellis Island for 17 months. Did not know that he is being deported until the last minute. Was not given a chance to communicate with the Labor Defense Council or his lawyer. He was sent away penniless and without any warm clothes. Comrade Spisak is an Austrian citizen born in Rosonovec, Austria-Hungary, August 20, 1886.

He arrived in the United States Aug. 24, 1904, and has been a resident of the U. S. since that time. The 24th of April, 1921, he was arrested at North Braddock, Pa., for distributing literature alleged to have been of a seditious nature. The 15th of September, 1921, a hearing was held before an immigration inspector, and the secretary of labor issued a warrant that Spisak be deported. On December 19, 1921, Comrade Spisak was brought to Ellis Island to be deported, where he was kept a prisoner, deprived of life, liberty and property, without due process of law.

In the latter part of October, 1922, a writ of habeas corpus was issued and the department of labor consented to release Spisak on his own recognizance and he was so released on November, 1922. Since that time he was employed in Pittsburgh, Pa., and has not done anything to justify his rearrest, nor was he informed of any warrant of arrest issued against him, nor did he have any hearing before any inspector or otherwise, but on June 21, 1923, taken out of his place of employment and brought again to Ellis Island for deportation.

Other cases are constantly coming up. The work of defense is vital and urgent. Comrades, we must have plenty of funds to defend our prisoners and deportees. Send in contributions to the Labor Defense Council, which is defending class war prisoners in America. The headquarters of the New York division is at 208 East 12th Street, New York.

BARUCH, BANKER, FEEDS, CHEERS LABOR OFFICIALS

And That is How They Remembered Armistice

NEW YORK, Nov. 14.—Outside of the Building Trades Council of New York City and vicinity, labor did not officially participate in armistice day programs. The building tradesmen held a special meeting at 10 o'clock in St. Mark's Place. Most of the other workers of the city had no holiday from the routine daily tasks, except in a few offices.

The Association of the War Industries Board, however, held its biennial meeting at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel to discuss economic and commercial problems that the so-called peace after the war brought.

Hugh Frayne, general organizer of the American Federation of Labor, is listed as a director of the association, which is headed by financier Bernard M. Baruch, former chief of war industries board. Representatives of practically all of the biggest corporations in the country are members or directors of the association.

The session of the association was private, tho the general subject of discussion was known to be concerned with the further coordination and organization of industries for national service during war, following the theme of mobilization day. In the evening, Bernard Baruch entertained the association members at the Ziegfeld Follies.

The gayer note of the Follies and the Victory balls, led by the American Legion's great dance at the Waldorf-Astoria, predominated in armistice day celebrations generally in the city.

There was less of remembering the fallen soldiers, except by the Women's Peace Society, which distributed dodgers giving statistics of the cost of war in lives and money. "Was it a war to end war? Did we make the world safe for democracy? Have you more freedom than you had before the war?" and similar questions were answered on the leaflets by an emphatic "NO!"

The antidote to war offered by the Women's Peace Society on the dodger is writing to the president and senators "saying that you want war made illegal," no money for preparedness and free trade as preventitive of war.

All Records Broken in Anniversary Meet at Milwaukee, Wis.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 14.—The disgust with which the Berger-LaFollette fusion has filled even the workers of Milwaukee is strikingly shown in the record-breaking attendance of the Workers' Party celebration of the anniversary of the Russian revolution. So noteworthy was the success of the meeting that the capitalist dailies gave front page space to it next day.

It was a celebration worthy of the day it commemorated. Four speakers, among the best in their respective fields, roused the audience to the heights of enthusiasm. J. Louis Engdahl, Editor of The DAILY WORKER, was the principal English speaker, while Max Bedacht spoke in German. Youth was properly represented in Max Shachtman of the Young Workers' League, and little Thelma Kahn for the junior section of the Y. W. L.

The concert program was one of the richest ever heard anywhere. Five singing societies and a group of young Russian dancers entertained the audience. There were the German Socialist Liedertafel, German Socialist Maennerchor, Freiheit Jewish Singing Society, Russian Dramatic Club Choir and International Children's Choir.

The height of the appropriate program furnished by a one-reel motion picture film showing the "Life of Nicolai Lenin." Pictures showing his agitation before the establishment of the Soviet government, of his appearance at congresses, his illness, and finally his burial and the continuation of his work by the enthusiastic "Young Pioneers," who now call themselves "Leninist," the counterpart of our own Y. W. L. Juniors.

The meeting was well advertised. A special leaflet was addressed to those attending the big Teachers' convention, inviting them to learn about the Russian educational system at this meeting. Many attended.

New spirit and enthusiasm fills the members in this one-time stronghold of social-patriotic reaction. It has proven that the mass of the workers are not irretrievably sunken in the opportunist swamp to which they have been brot by their hitherto respected misleaders. Onward to victory.

Plan New World Flights.

AMSTERDAM—Three new Fokker airplanes have been shipped to Portugal for an attempted round the world flight. Senor Cabral will command the flight.

LARGEST NUMBER OF BRITISH WORKERS TOIL THE 48-HOUR WEEK

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14.—Hours of labor in Great Britain during 1923 have been reported by the British Trades Union Congress to the International Labor Office, whose Washington bureau announces them as follows:

Hours per week	No. of workers
40	24,500
42	800,500
44	305,687
46	8,500
46½	11,590
47	964,224
48	1,409,613

These figures apply to the normal working week recognized in industries in which members of the trade unions were employed.

Tenants Get Sore When Rent is Raised After Coolidge's Victory

WASHINGTON, Nov. 14. — Five hundred tenants of the Clifton Terrace apartment building, Fourteenth street, N. W., formed a Soviet, held a meeting in the hall of the elegant apartment building over the protest of the landlord, and appointed a committee of twelve to do business with Joseph Lowe, the manager of the building.

Officers of the Tenants' League appeared by invitation and addressed the hallway meeting. The tenants are angered at the letters they received immediately after Coolidge's re-election raising their rents. Hundreds of tenants thruout the city received similar notices following Coolidge's re-election.

Mr. O. A. Reed, who presided at the tenants' meeting, declared: "I do not intend to pay any increased rent. It is impossible to get the management to make repairs on our apartments."

Mrs. Margaret Hopkins Worrell, another tenant, said: "If we all stand together they can't do a thing. They have raised our rent this time 37½ per cent." The officers of the Tenants' League urged the passage by congress of a permanent rent law.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Furnishings
LADIES' MEN'S INFANTS'
Trade Where Your Money Buys the Most
Martin's
651 West North Avenue
East of Halsted St.

Dust Proof Slip Covers to protect Your Furniture

Call or Phone.
Illinois Slip Cover Co.
Not Inc.
Warwick Bldg., 551 E. 47th St., Chicago
Telephone Atlantic 0601
Estimates cheerfully given everywhere

Secretary Wanted
Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.
J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.

KOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
Dept. 50, Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

BOOKS FOR THINKERS
SCIENCE, LITERATURE ECONOMICS, HISTORY.
Any Book in Print at Once.
Jimmie Higgins Book Shop
127 University Place
NEW YORK CITY
A Workers Party Book Shop

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

How to Be Healthy

For many years people have been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial. After several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.
MEN AND WOMEN
If you are suffering from any ailments, come to my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.
DR. TAFT
1555 West Roosevelt Road
Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.
TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

Dr. S. ZIMMERMAN DENTIST
2252 N. CALIFORNIA AVE. Phone ARMITAGE 2460
MY NEW LOCATION
Special Prices to Workers

X-Ray — Gas Given
ESTABLISHED 12 YEARS.
My Examination is Free
My Prices are Reasonable
My Work is Guaranteed
Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

Madison Pharmacy
INC.
BETTER DRUGS
Light Luncheon Served
1154 Madison Street, Corner Ann
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Four Phones Chicago

Telephone Monroe 2254
Genova Restaurant
ITALIAN-AMERICAN
1238 Madison Street
N. E. Cor. Elizabeth St.
Spaghetti and Ravioli Our Specialty
Special Arrangements for Parties on Short Notice

COMRADES AND BRANCHES, settle for October 12 Foster-Gitlow election campaign meeting and November 7 celebration tickets. Local needs money to cover expenses of these affairs.

The International Workers' Aid
helps wives and children of imprisoned workers.

There are 383,200 Workers Imprisoned In Europe

In Germany	7,000
Italy	8,000
Spain	23,000
Belgium	2,300
Lithuania	200
Latvia	500
Finland	1,200
Poland	12,000
Hungary	70,000
India	253,000
Roumania	3,000
Jugo-Slavia	3,000

Will You Help Them?
We send legal and material assistance and we print the true facts about White Terror.

OUR AIM
To give aid to all needy workers and class war victims of the laboring masses without conditions, without political discrimination, whenever and wherever the existence of a working class is menaced by natural or economic catastrophe or by political oppression.

International Workers' Aid,
19 So. Lincoln Street,
Chicago, Ill.
Enclosed is my contribution to aid the needy workers of ..... their wives and children, and to help print more true facts about White Terror victims.
Name.....
Address.....
City.....
State.....

INTERNATIONAL WORKERS' AID

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

On the News Stands Now!
The November First issue of the great, new Labor Journal
The Workers Monthly
Combining the Liberator, Labor Herald and Soviet Russia Pictorial
Edited by Earl R. Bowder.
This new leader in the field of American Labor magazines begins in this issue the first installment of a classic of Communist literature
"The History of the Russian Communist Party"
By Gregory Zinoviev
Other noted contributors including William Z. Foster, C. E. Ruthenberg, Moissaye Olgin, William F. Dunne, James P. Cannon, Alexander Bittelman, and others.
International Events—Photographs—Cartoons
Single Copy 25 Cents
Subscription: $2.00 a Year $1.25 Six Months
Official Organ of the
Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League
USE THIS BLANK
THE WORKERS MONTHLY
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois
For the enclosed $..... send me THE WORKERS MONTHLY for.....months.
NAME .....
ADDRESS .....
CITY ..... STATE.....

In Memory of our Teacher

THE MARK OF A LENINIST
This bronze, art medallion button of Nicolai Lenin—one inch in size—and of beautiful design—you will want for yourself and as a gift for your friends.
If you don't already own one of these life-lasting medallion buttons—by all means
BUY IT FROM THE DAILY WORKER AGENT IN YOUR CITY!
50 Cents Each
Add 5 cents for postage if you wish to have it by mail
From
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois
Enclosed find $..... for ..... Lenin Buttons.
Name: .....
Street: .....
City: ..... State: .....

MASQUERADE BALL and DANCE
Given by American Lithuanian Workers' Literary Society, 1st District
Sunday Evening, November 16, Starts 6:30 p. m.
Tickets in advance 50 cents; at the door 65 cents.
At the
LITHUANIAN LIBERTY HALL
14th St. and 49th Ct., Cicero, Ill.
GOOD UNION MUSIC
ALL ARE WELCOME COMMITTEE

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4713)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

	By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$2.00...3 months
	By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE, MORITZ J. LOEB ... Editors
... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Does the A. F. of L. Recognize Facts?

Just as the delegates are gathering at El Paso for the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor, dispatches state that the conservative Baldwin government of Great Britain does not at all consider revoking the recognition already granted to the Soviet government by the previous regime of MacDonald.

At the same moment Senator Borah, now to take Lodge's place as chairman of the foreign relations committee, announces himself as favoring recognition of Soviet Russia and goes to the White House to talk confidentially to President Coolidge. France, the most obdurate enemy of the Soviets has just granted full recognition. These are facts, discomforting perhaps to Secretary Hughes and Mr. Gompers, but, none the less, facts.

With these and other countries Soviet Russia, no longer the starved and ragged object of scorn and attack, but the strong, healthy and rebuilding nation of workers and peasants, is willing for mutual advantage to trade. The Soviet Republic needs vast quantities of machinery, medicines and any number of things. English labor, which compelled the recognition of Soviet Russia by Britain not only hoped to strenthen the feeling of solidarity between English and Russian workers by this means, but helped to relieve unemployment in England by heavy production for the Russian market.

Unemployment is becoming a swiftly increasing menace in America. It is possible that with all the European governments which are foes of Soviet Russia being compelled to recognize facts and adjust their hatreds to the necessity of trade, the United States government will also fall in line. If Senator Borah's actions mean anything Mr. Hughes will suffer a change of heart or yield the department of state to someone not so venomous.

With the army of the jobless in America threatening to grow to unprecedented numbers even with the temporary boom in some industries it behooves the A. F. of L. convention to consider seriously if it is going any longer to make itself the tool of rabid anti-Bolshevism to the extent of denying facts and taking a hostile stand toward the first Workers' Republic. If the 44th convention of the A. F. of L. has the slightest consideration for the interests of its members it will adopt the following resolution endorsed by the T. U. E. L. favoring the recognition of Soviet Russia and instructing its officers to exert all efforts to that end. If the A. F. of L. can see no ethics involved, it ought at least to see its material interest.

THE RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, The Russian Soviet Government has withstood, for a period of seven years, all attacks launched against it from enemies within its own boundaries as well as from a world of outside governments, hostile to it and for some time carrying on armed onslaughts, demonstrating by its successful resistance that it has the support of the Russian workers and farmers; and

WHEREAS, Many European and other governments have established diplomatic and commercial relations with the Russian government that have proved beneficial to the workers of all such countries, and are also enabling the Russian workers to secure the foodstuffs, medicines, machinery, and other commodities from the world market so vitally needed in their great work of reconstruction; and

WHEREAS, The government of Great Britain, responding to the demands of the British labor movement, have just concluded a treaty with Soviet Russia, which treaty the British labor movement is preparing to fight to protect and put into effect, because it knows that only in this way can the interests of the working class be protected; and

WHEREAS, The present administration at Washington, by thus far failing to give recognition to Soviet Russia, has greatly injured that country as well as our own; therefore, be it

RESOLVED, That the American Federation of Labor, assembled in its Forty-fourth Annual Convention, in the name of solidarity with the first Workers' Republic, declares itself in favor of recognition of Soviet Russia, for the establishment of full diplomatic and commercial relations, and directs its officials to exert all possible efforts in order that this recognition shall be given by the government of the United States.

New Wave of Struggle in Europe

That a new wave of working class militancy is rising in Europe seems probable. The news of struggles engaged in by the workers of European nations is always garbled and made almost impossible to understand by the capitalist press but enough can be gathered from recent dispatches to indicate a tremendous wave of strikes and revolutionary uprisings that disturb the plans of capitalist reaction.

In Italy Fascism is cracking. It is torn by internal dissension, the liberal democrats are attacking it in parliament and best of all large sections of the workers are no longer deterred from open resistance by its threats of terror.

In Spain an attempt has been made by a heroic band of revolutionists to overthrow the Rivera dictatorship. With characteristic complacency, that petted darling of the intelligentsia, Vincente Blasco Ibanez, the novelist, has denounced the movement of the workers who acted while he talked.

In Austria a general strike of the railway workers, long enslaved by the league of nations and their own capitalists, came near to forcing the downfall of the government.

In Germany the Berlin transport workers have tied up the subways of the second largest city in continental Europe.

In England the vacillation and cowardice of that typical middle class representative MacDonald has aroused the organized workers and his leadership of the labor party is threatened.

In every one of these stirring events which are but surface indications of a deep-seated and growing resentment of the European working class against the tyrannies of capitalism, the Communists are active and in most instances are the revolutionary leaven that enlivens the mass.

Capitalist reaction and working class revolt go hand in hand. The defeat of the MacDonald government, the sweeping victory of Coolidge and American imperialism which he represented, in the recent election, are all connected inseperably with the necessity for the enforcement of the Dawes plan for world capitalism. All of the events cited show that European labor is not going to surrender without a fight and is added evidence of the fact that capitalist stability depends largely upon the submission of the working class.

The Grand Dukes Use Looney Gas

The lotus eaters, the betel-nut chewers, the cocaine sniffers and all the other dope-friends from those who live on hash-heesh to those who dream dreams after lighting a pill of opium have fallen behind Grand Duke Cyril of Russia. Note that we say "of" not "in" Russia. Cyril is a wise plug and hasn't been in Russia for some time.

But Cyril has ambitions and like little Alice he wandered around in wonderland a while, during the period when the great imperialist powers were paying white hopes high wages for bumping up against the red bear and trying to get his hide. Last September his vanity could no longer brook frustration. His superiority complex was bursting for expression. So—in Berlin—he proclaimed himself "Emperor of all Russia."

True, he had competition. The dignified old dowager empress, Maria Feodorovna, ruffled up, surveyed the situation thru a lorgenette, and—in Berlin—declared Cyril was an imposter and an impudent upstart, and remarked that the crown of Nicholas the defunct, was hers, even if she couldn't get it.

In fact the fun waxed fast and furious. Cyril called upon all the other grand dukes of Russia—in Berlin—to recognize his claim. Russia—in Berlin—was at the point of civil war.

Now Cyril, terming himself "His Majesty, Cyril I," has broken out in a new spasm and convoked a "crown council" of all grand dukes who have recognized him, and has appointed one of them "his majesty's representative" and generously alloted two advisors, one for military and another for civil affairs.

The trouble with all this emperor of Russia business is that the "his majesty" doesn't dare get any closer to Russia than the Berlin beer halls. It will be interesting to see what becomes of Cyril and his empire, now that it seems pretty well known that the palace he would like to occupy is the meeting place of the Communist International, and if he wants to press his pants he should learn to use a flat-iron as he can hardly hope to press them on the throne of Nicholas.

No Surrender in Paterson

When the history of labor struggles in the United States is written, there will be at least one chapter devoted to the Paterson silk workers.

The courage and endurance shown by these workers in the fight that is still in progress, and in which the workers have met with some signal successes in spite of the combined efforts of the mill owners and police, is one of the marvels of the present period, marked as it is by the almost complete surrender of the majority of the unions under the leadership of an officialdom that has long ago lost what militancy it ever possessed.

The Paterson workers are now confronted with a new problem that probably presages a renewal of the fight in mills that have made peace with the strikers. Recent dispatches tell of a meeting of mill owners at which plans were made to break down the working conditions agreed to by them and by reason of which strikers returned to work.

The strike committee of the Associated Silk Workers has acted promptly in the new situation and, in a statement calling a special meeting of shop committeemen, has announced that the workers will be called out of every mill that violates the recent agreement. The statement refers to the support received from other sections of the working class and this again is a remarkable feature of the strike that has encouraged the Paterson workers to continue the struggle. The Workers Party strike relief committee alone has turned over something like $5,000 to the Paterson workers and has been a big factor in keeping up the morale of the strikers.

The resistance of the Paterson silk workers has undoubtedly done much to halt the wage cuts in other sections of the textile industry, and if the necessity for a new struggle develops the support of the strike would receive a new impetus.

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1.)

not like Soviet Russia because the workers who were in control did not have any use for parasites like Goldman. She did not feel as comfortable as she did in the luxurious hotels in the United States, so she got out and the workers did not shed any tears at her departure.

* * *

THIS counter revolutionary stool-pigeon is now in England speaking under capitalist auspices against the government of the Russian workers and peasants. She admitted that the United States government suggested that she return to America under certain conditions. No doubt political prostitute is making a hard bargain and when she gets her terms, she will be glad to get inside the Statue of Liberty and compete with all the other finks of capitalism in making war on Soviet Russia.

* * *

IT is no accident that her public appearance in London and the lengthy excerpts from her speech cabled to the American press coincided with the revival of the movement for recognition of Soviet Russia inititiated by Senator Borah, now occupying the important position of chairman of the committee on foreign relations. Every capitalist sewer pipe here and abroad will from now on be pouring filth thru the columns of the capitalist press on the Russian Soviet government. But it will not work. The United States will follow in the footsteps of France and recognize a government it cannot overthrow.

* * *

APROPOS the "Zinoviev letter" which the tories put over on MacDonald in the recent elections, a former correspondent of the London Times, in a letter to the London Daily Herald, tells how White Guard Russians in Berlin, Riga and other propaganda centers make a specialty of providing newspaper correspondents with cleverly forged documents alledged to be by Zinoviev, Trotsky and other Russian leaders. Most of the newspapermen accept these forged documents without any effort to verify their authenticity. The White Guardists do not earn any money for them, being employed by capitalist groups and wealthy czarists who have still some hope left of returning to their former state of luxury and idleness in Russia. But a seat of honor on the point of a sharp bayonet is liable to be the portion if they ever get so "hopped" they decide to break thru the border.

* * *

MILLERAND, former president of France who was given the bum's rush when Herriot won the elections is trying to sneak back into the limelight again. Millerand is a former socialist, but is now the champion of the Roman catholic church and extreme reaction. In replying to Millerand's defense of the church Herriot declared that "the doors of all churches and schools should be shut to priests and ministers of religion. The church was never anything else than a political instrument in the hands of a political party."

* * *

CAPITALIST papers do not fear that Branting, the socialist premier of Sweden will give the capitalist system a severe jolt. One of our Chicago allies commenting on his return to power, declared that the socialists of Europe, showed a sweet reasonableness toward the owning class. Only in Russia, it moaned, were things turned upside down. That's about the size of it. Socialists are very "reasonable" with the capitalists.

* * *

THE work of the Irish Boundary Commission is at a standstill. It may be necessary to pass another law in the house of commons to remedy the situation. Under pressure from the armed action of the Irish republicans from 1916, when James Connolly organized the revolt, until 1921, the British government was forced to make a concession in the shape of the Irish Free State. But Ireland was cut in two and a bitter fight has continued ever since over boundary delimitation. The tories have a majority now in the house of commons and they will stand by their Ulster friends.

THE Republic of San Marino, has hung out its shingle, making it known to all and sundry that it is in the business dispensing honors to worthy people who have the cash. This relieves the fear of American men of wealth but doubtful lineage, who looked with alarm on the fading fortunes of Europe's oldest monarchies. San Marino is small but willing. The British empire gives honors in return for automobiles and gifts to the political parties, but San Marino does it for a meal ticket. Soon our Chicago bootleggers, sluggers and gunmen will be sporting the Order of Saint Agatha if they feel so inclined.

* * *

AN alleged United States consul was killed in Teheran, Persia. The dignity of Morgan's Empire was hurt, so Charles Evans Hughes insisted on Persia executing several Persians in retaliation, and on the payment to the United States of a considerable sum of money for the expense of sending a warship to Persia for the purpose of bringing back the consul's body. Now, that the necessary number of victims is offered as a sacrifice to Morgan's injured dignity, his secretary of state becomes magnanimous and offers to settle the question by donating the sum for the money to the education of Persian children. Which prompts us to ask the question: Is the Standard Oil company after Persian oil fields?

Red Aid International Helped 18,000

(I. W. A. Press Service)

WHILE the Red Aid International has been busy raising funds with which to give legal and material aid to the 383,200 imprisoned workers and peasants of capitalist Europe, the socialists of Germany and other adherent of the 2nd International have been busy attacking Soviet Russia for incarcerating 1,000 counter revolutionists, who worked for the overthrow of the first Workers' and Peasants' Republic. From January 1 to April 15, 1924, the Red Aid International conducted in Germany alone 8,448 lawsuits. By the end of Aug. 1924 it had assisted 18,000 people.

Upon demands from representatives of the Red Aid International, investigations of prison life in capitalist countries were made. These conditions were contrasted with conditions of counter-revolutionary prisoners in Silesia and the facts are as follows:

In German prisons where the socialists are loudest in their denunciation of Soviet Russia, beating and tortures invented by beastly minds are the order of the day.

In Zelle prison for example it was found upon investigation that prisoners are kept in punishment cells without lavatories. In another kind of punishment cell same prison, the victim has a 10-pound iron pole tied to him from the waist line to hands and is kept in this fashion for THREE WEEKS. In Rensburg prison the incarcerated are permitted to see their relatives only once in three months. In the Gleivits prison (Silesia) there are 40 workers imprisoned because they belonged to the local union. They are under charge of "high treason." They were savagely beaten because they went on a hunger strike. In the fortress of Lukach prisoners are beaten with the butt ends of rifles and wounded by bayonets for protesting against the putrid food.

Many of those arrested against whom there were no definite charges have been abused before trial. The Dusseldorf court confirmed this story. Mrs. Petrovskaya was arrested the night of November 19, 1923 with a 13-months baby in her care. She was taken to the police station and because they had nothing against her she was beaten with rubber whips then hit on the head and stomach with the butt end of rifles. They got nothing out of her or on her and she was finally released.

Comrade Fischer and Bach were arrested on no charge. In an effort to get them to "confess" something which they had not done, they were pulled by the hair, kicked and beaten till blood flowed. As late as June 1924 Comrade Gard was arrested in Neubrandenburg. The guard who had him in charge claimed he tried to escape. When he refused to divulge his name and make "confessions" he was wounded, beaten, till he died. But he did not divulge any information. The socialists in the Reichstag have nothing to say against such treatment of workers by a capitalist government in which they have a part. But the 2nd International to which they belong finds it necessary to spend time and energy attacking Soviet Russia because it has 1,500 counter-revolutionists in prison, who organized for the overthrow of the workers' government. And how are these 1,500 treated? Let us compare the facts

These prisoners consists of monarchists, four white guard generals, social democrats, social revolutionaries and scores of anarchists, such as took part in the Moscow explosion of 1919 when seven leading Communists lost their lives and many were wounded. This explosion was organized by anarchists during Denekin's advance on Moscow. But the 2nd International considers them heroes and attacks Soviet Russia for not letting them lose to help organize another such attempt. They would rather see Denikin succeed. These prisoners are kept in the Susdalsk and Solovetsk concentration camps.

From letters addressed to their families we find what the conditions of these camps are. These letters are writen by Danilin, social-democrat, Dorozhkov, social-democrat Chalkin, social-revolutionary Block, social-democrat, Svetitsky, Krasnianska and others. The climate in the camps is dry and healthy. The rooms are spacious and light and do not look like prison cells. Catering is satisfactory. Meat is given twice a day. Tea, sugar and cigarettes are served. Each prisoner gets in addition pin-money of 43 kopecks daily. Letters may be sent every week.

The well-known menshevik Rostov and B. Vassiliev, member of the central committee of the party proposed to the rest of the prisoners once to organize a political demonstration, the majority of them refused to participate, and the Georgian group of menshevik replied "If in answer to our hunger strike the Soviet government were to consent to have an investigation and inspection made, even the ultra anti-Soviet commission of European socialists would declare that although the Soviet system and Soviet justice are bad, the regime in the Susdalsk prisons is satisfactory."

In spite of these facts, however, the socialists everywhere are concentrating now upon attacks on the fact that Soviet Russia has prisoners, and at the same time they are helping both actively and silently the existing capitalist governments to abuse and kill workers and peasants who fight for the interests of the working class.

The Red Aid International is raising funds to help the prisoners of European capitalist countries, and their families. Its agency in America is the International Workers' Aid of Chicago.

BUILDING THE RUSSIAN PARTY

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The fourth chapter is entitled "Building the Russian Party."

* * *

THE working class will win, but only in the event that it succeeds in creating a strongly united organization which is ideologically homogeneous. The working class cannot be victorious without uniting the best, the most class conscious and revolutionary elements. Hence the role of the party as the guiding force of the revolution. The party is not identified with the working class, but is its natural leader. The party leads the masses only inasmuch as it is organically united with the working class reacting to its everyday life. Without a party the working class cannot make a single step. Without a party the revolution is an empty phrase.

Theoretically this truth was recognized even by Lenin's predecessors, but it was he alone who understood how to translate into practice these theoretical propositions. The history of the Russian social-democracy and of the Russian Communist Party is organically bound up with the activities of Lenin. He was the organizer of the party, the editor of a whole generation of party workers and leaders, beginning with the time of underground groups up till the moment when the working class assumed power in the largest country in the world. It was because he understood that the working class cannot live without a party that he devoted his greatest attention to he building up of such a party.

It would be difficult to find another man in the history of parties whose life and activity was so intimately interwoven with the party as was Lenin's with the Russian Communist Party. He was its theoretician, its man of action, agitator, propagandist, organizer, and leader. He was soldier and general, teacher and pupil, but never did he get the idea that: "The party, this is I," as his opponents used to reproach him. He realized that the power and greatness of the party depends upon its organic connections with the masses, its collaboration with the creative and progressive elements of the working class.

One can say without exaggeration that the Russian Communist Party has the creation of his spirit, the work of his hands. Such a party could be created by one who is perfectly clear as to what are the mutual relations between the party and the class. Lenin's slogan was: "The party above all." Why? Because the party is the vanguard of the working class, and as such must know not only how to march forward but, if need be, to go against the spontaneous movements among the workers and at decisive moments powerfully to assume the offensive. The party is the organized consciousness of the class, a fact which distinguishes it from the unorganized elemental movements of the workers.

* * *

Monday—"The Enemy of Reformism."

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

How We Live and Work

Editors note:—This paper is printed for the workers, poor farmers and those who work and sweat under the present system of society. It is a paper of the workers, by the workers and for the workers. We want to reach every corner of this country where labor is being exploited for private gains, for profit. We want the workers and farmers all over the country to read the DAILY WORKER. In order to make it more interesting and be able better to reflect the life of the wide laboring masses, WE WANT OUR READERS TO WRITE TO US. This new department "HOW WE LIVE AND WORK" will appear as often as there will be sufficient letters from our readers about the life and working conditions under which our masses struggle. Try to make this department interesting and instructive. Tell us how the workers in other sections of the country. Try to make them short and to the point.

Today we print the first letter about the life of the harbor workers.

* * *

THE LIFE OF HARBOR WORKERS

To the DAILY WORKER:—As you have asked the workers to give something of their lives so that DAILY WORKER readers may understand that other workers are subject to the same conditions, I will write about the harbor worker's life.

My husband is a barge captain in the employ of the New York Central R. R. We are compelled to live on the barges with the whole family if my husband wants the job.

The living quarters on barges are two small rooms. Some barges have medium size cabins, others are so small they are like cells in a prison. Some have cabins on deck, others are underneath the deck and are so terribly damp that all smells musty.

I lived in one of these dark dungeons for ten months and my health was so bad that T. B. was not far away. I can name a boat where a family of eight children was living under these conditions until the father died and they had to leave.

In another family living on the barges were five children. One child was drowned and the father died of consumption.

Sometimes they work the boats at night, and that means no sleep for us, with ships and derricks, and men shouting and cursing. I will leave to your imagination how we feel about it.

The working hours for the men are really without end. You are always supposed to be on the job when wanted, which may be any hour of the day or night. You work a 24-hour shift. People never realize the nerve-wrecking life it is for a woman and the unhealthy and dangerous life for children.—Theresa Smith.

His Majesty, the American Voter

IT was November the 4th, the day on which the American citizens went thru the pantomime of political democracy and ratified the Wall Street choice of a president.

I was walking down a street in one of Chicago's semi-residential, semi-manufacturing districts. It was close to one o'clock. As I passed a restaurant, the door swung open and a man hurrying out, bumped into me. He was a middle aged man dressed in rough working clothes. Scarcely taking the time to mutter "beg pardon" he strode down the walk ahead of me. Half way down the block he turned in at a polling place, stopping however to accept all the campaign literature, which the poll watchers were handing out. As I came up to the polling place I stopped and glanced inside. The man was standing by the election judges evidently having his registration looked up. This done he was handed a ballot and motioned to a seat. Voting seemed to be a matter of great pride with him for he held his head high and carried himself officiously. He took his seat next to three other men who also were waiting to vote. There were three voting booths in the place and all were occupied. Several minutes passed. The polling booths were emptied and re-occupied and only the object of my curiousity and gaze was left. With pride and self importance written on his face he waited. Suddenly a siren whistle from a nearby factory rent the air. The waiting voter jumped simultaneously with it. His expression of pride and self importance vanished to be replaced by one of agitation, alarm and irresolution. For a few seconds he hesitated, then cast his precious ballot back on the table whence it had come and dashed for the door. Coming out on the sidewalk he nearly upset me as he negotiated a steep right turn in the direction of the factory and broke into an undignified lope.

"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses." —Karl Marx.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT
THE DAILY WORKER

SECOND SECTION
This magazine supplement will appear every Saturday in The Daily Worker.

NOVEMBER 15, 1924.

Sound the Alarm - -

An Analysis of the Election Results

By Alexander Bittelman

OPEN-SHOPPER DAWES and Strikebreaker Coolidge will manage the affairs of the country for another four years. What does it mean for the workers and poor farmers of America? Increased aggression for the working class as a whole and a smashing campaign of reaction to destroy the organized labor movement.

Comrades and fellow workers! You must have no illusions as to the kind of a deal that you are going to get now from American capitalism. If you felt the months and years as preceding the last election as mere aggression, you should expect in the coming months a regular orgy of oppression. If the past stands out in your mind as a period of capitalist reaction, you should now tune your mind to a regular triumph of "open shop" and strikebreaking. Because this is the beastly thing that American capitalism has again foisted upon you in a more open and defiant manner.

A Challenge to the Workers.

The victory of Coolidge and Dawes is a challenge of defiance to every red blooded, militant and self-respecting worker. It serves notice on the labor movement in unmistakable terms either to be "good" and "nice" or else to get on its hind legs and—fight.

Which do you want to happen? Which way do you, as a class, stand to benefit more? That is your problem. And you mustn't be too slow in solving it, either. Your enemies will not wait at your pleasure. They are all prepared, all set for the opportune moment to deliver the striking blow. Are you going to prepare?

The statement on the election results published by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party on Nov. 7 shows the way. It points to the only possible solution of the working class problems today. It is more organization, more concentration of labor's forces on the economic and political field for real struggle against the capitalists—against Open-shopper Dawes and Strikebreaker Coolidge—under the leadership of and in alliance with the Workers (Communist) Party.

Class Struggle Under the Lead of a Revolutionary Party—The Only Possible Road.

The so-called "wise," the disillusioned, and the weak will, no doubt, say: No. The above is not the solution. Why? Because the Workers (Communist) Party is not yet strong enough, not yet popular enough to be able to mobilize the masses for an immediate and successful struggle against capitalist reaction. These professional pessimists and black-seers will probably point to the small Communist vote in the elections, a vote, by the way, which the capitalist government will never take the trouble of counting.

And the ignorant and backward will also say: No. Why? Because the Workers (Communist) Party is too "Red," too radical, too impossible to be the leader in practical, result-producing fights.

To which we reply: Bunk. If the above were true, then the American working class would do well to immediately disband all its organizations and make up its mind that it is going to be crushed. Because there is no other organized labor group in America, outside of the Workers Party, that has any constructive program at all to expose capitalist reaction immediately, effectively and practically.

And again. If it were true that the Communists and their party were so much "impossible" that the masses will not turn to them for leadership even in the hour of bitter need and in the absence of any other leadership, then. . . . Well, then the only thing the American labor movement could do would be to form immediately one general universal grave digging association, and begin digging one fraternal grave for the entire working class.

Why do I say that? Here are my reasons. In order to be willing and capable of leading a real struggle against a government of open shoppers and strikebreakers, one must be ready to hurt capitalism and to give the capitalists a good run for their money. The Workers (Communist) Party, precisely because it is a revolutionary party, because it is out to destroy capitalism altogether, is ready and willing to engage in every good working class fight against the bosses. This is my first reason.

And here is my second one. Gompers and LaFollette and the socialists are all in favor of the present order of things and will, therefore, do nothing—absolutely nothing— which may endanger or even disturb in any way the rule of the capitalists. Which means that none of the official and "accepted" leadership of labor will do a darn thing to organize the workers for effective, practical struggles.

Now, the question is: Will the workers and poor farmers be compelled to get on their hindlegs and fight? We say: Yes. Dawes and Coolidge will take care of that.

Will the "accepted" and so-called moderate leadership be willing to lead this fight? We say: No, and we challenge anyone to deny it.

Then, what's the conclusion? The masses will fight, and will welcome honest and sincere leadership from whatever source it comes. If the Communists and their Workers Party realize their opportunity and prepare themselves for the job, they'll get it. What the Communists have got to do now and immediately is to clarify in their minds the true meaning of the United Front tactics, reaffirmed and elucidated by the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, and get down to work in the ranks (from below) of the working class.

Meaning of Election Figures.

The father and son of "open shops" and strikebreaking received over six teen million votes. Without further analysis of this figure one can safely say that a good portion of this vote is made up of the well-to-do farmers, the rich middle classes of the cities and the petty-bourgeoisie generally.

What does this fact prove? It proves that the petty-bourgeoisie, in the cities and on the farms, accepted the leadership of big capital, represented by Coolidge and Dawes, and rejected its own leadership, represented by the LaFollette movement.

It is hardly necessary for me to go here into proving that the LaFollette movement is objectively a movement of the petty bourgeoisie. This is true in the same sense in which the Communist Party is objectively the only party of the working class, but not as yet in the minds of the working masses, that is, not yet subjectively. The same is true of the LaFollette movement which is objectively a movement of the petty-bourgeoisie but not yet so in the minds of the petty-bourgeois masses. These latter are still accepting the lead of big capital as seen by the Coolidge vote.

Why? There were three main reasons for it. First, the slight revival in industry and agriculture, which resulted partly from favorable changes in the world market and partly from artificial manipulations by big capital for election purposes. This slight revival somewhat pacified the petty-bourgeoisie. It began to hesitate about wishing serious governmental changes. Second, the terroristic campaign of the republican party, conducted practically by the entire press, that if it is not Coolidge it will be "chaos," the election will be thrown into congress, which the petty-bourgeoisie understood as a threat by big capital to shut down industry and generally demoralize the economics of the country if Coolidge was not elected. Third, the fear that LaFollette is a little "too radical," to be a practical leader in the game of making profits.

The above mentioned three reasons, coupled with big capital's unlimited campaign funds and its control of practically all avenues of publicity and information, have partly convinced and partly terrorized the petty-bourgeoisie to vote for Coolidge and reject, for the present, at least, their own natural leader, LaFollette.

A good portion of Coolidge's vote is made up also of workers. Which is not surprising, of course, considering the political backwardness of large sections of labor, it being lorded over by such leaders as the Tammany Hall labor fakers, and its fear of hard times were the election to be thrown in congress. Terror of big capital, political ignorance and Gompersian leadership combined to give a strikebreaking government a large section of labor's vote.

The democratic party, whose candidate received nearly eight million votes, is still a national political party. The expectations that this party would be reduced by the elections to a sectional political group of the South alone have proved false. Davis carried most of the southern states and in addition received more than one-fifth of the total vote in the industrial centers of the east and middle west. In all these centers Davis ran second, his vote there being made up mainly of the petty-bourgeoisie and of workers.

Political thought is now speculating on the probable future of the democratic party. William G. McAdoo is again raising the banner of "liberalism" in the democratic party. Gompers is drifting back to the idea of making the democratic party the real "progressive" party for organized labor to support.

What will eventually happen to the democratic party is hard to tell. One thing is certain, that as long as the "solid" south remains one of the bases of the democratic party no substantial changes should be expected. However, future developments, the coming crisis and the sharpening class struggle, may very well split the democratic party, the south going eventually to the republicans while the democratic organization of the east and middle west, and as much as there still remains in the northwest, may join with the LaFollette movement in the formation of a new "Progressive" party.

Now, as to LaFollette's vote. This will be scanned very carefully and anxiously by every political party in the country. He received about five million votes. What does this vote indicate?

First, we find that LaFollette ran second in California and in practically the entire agrarian northwest, altogether nine states.

State	Coolidge	LaFollette	Davis	LaFollette %
California	727000	424,000	100,000	33.4
Idaho	52,963	37,896	17,558	34.9
Iowa	506,042	253,459	152,864	27.7
Minnesota	606,932	216,289	41,992	40.+
Montana	50,633	45,374	24,470	38.—
Nevada	10,000	9,600	5,400	33.4
North Dakota	63,864	46,543	9,034	38.+
South Dakota	87,847	62,388	22,679	40.—
Wyoming	36,760	21,000	12,250	30
	1,841,183	1,142,401	392,547	33.5

Study the above table and notice that in the agrarian northwest LaFollette polled 33.5 per cent. more

(Continued on Page 8.)

GERMAN ELECTIONS

President Ebert: "We are all ready for the elections. Go ahead."

Anatole France the Comrade

By CHARLES RAPPAPORT.

For the last ten years I was in close contact with him, and I can say with assurance that he considered himself a Communist. He only deplored that the progress of our ideas was altogether too slow and that he would not live to see the social upheaval.

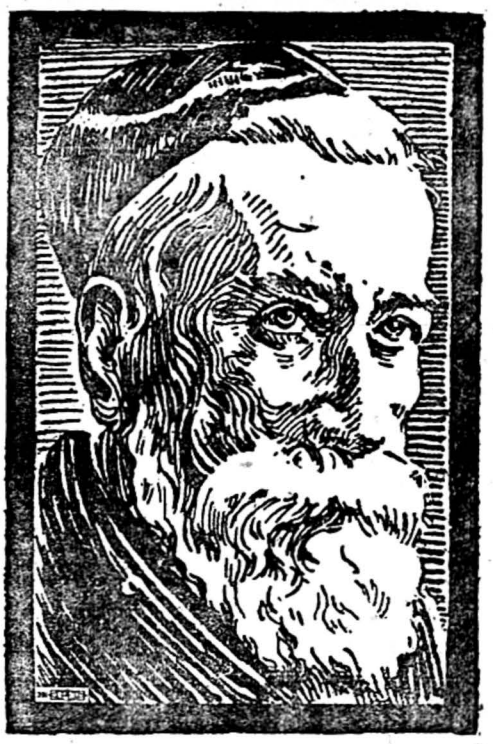
When I left the congress in Tours, at which the split with the "war socialists" had been finally consummated, France congratulated me on the success of true socialism, now called Communism. Then I said: "Give us some sign, so that we may be able to boast openly that you are with us."

"What shall I do?"

Since during the past few years he had been very niggardly of his writing, I suggested to the master that he make public thru the columns of "Humanite" his views of the Communist Party. He consented. "Humanite" was fortunate enough to be able to publish on its first page a notice of the membership of Anatole France, together with his picture. The press of the world took notice. France was an eager reader of "Humanite." He took out his party membership card in Tours.

What was probably his last article was published in "Humanite." He gave enthusiastic praise to the book written by his friend, Michael Corday, in which this gifted author laid bare with a relentless hand the capitalist basis of the war.

When they called upon him for a donation for the benefit of science in Russia, he suspected in this request an attack on the Communist regime. And this great man, whose extraordinary gifts were always at the service of every great cause, refuse this time to give a donation. He himself explained to me the ground for his unusual refusal.



"I did not want to make an attack on the only anti-imperialist government," he said. In 1922, he wrote a personal letter to Lenin, in which he spoke of Lenin as the "greatest living statesman."

I could quote from letters written to me, which would prove that France was a Communist. But to what purpose? Let people read his books carefully. They are just one long cutting satire directed against the money rule, against blood-stained capitalism. His book "L'Ile des Pengouins" is particularly noteworthy in this respect. He stigmatizes bourgeois democracy, bourgeois parliamentarism, which are directed by the money powers. We can compile from his books a brilliant volume of sound Communist propaganda.

The bourgeoisie made no mistake when it decried the gifted author, who flayed them unmercifully in their nakedness, as a "destroyer," an "overthrower."

Yes, Anatole France, along with Jaures, was one of the greatest revolutionists of our time, even if these two men were not always in accord with us on questions of tactics. France hated the black reaction and believed —tho not always—that the left wing is in a position to strike a fierce blow at rampant reaction.

As a close observer, France also knew our weaknesses. He advocated a united front of all working class groups, without interference in the particular nature of our party tactics. It is true that France lived outside of our everyday struggle. But he never failed to do us a service, or to strike a blow for our cause. We could mention countless elections in which he supported Communist candidates.

As a gifted observer, France was convinced that capitalist society was nearing its end. In the working class he saw the bearers of the future.

Who Fights White Terror?

By ROSE KARSNER

WHITE TERROR stalks triumphantly through the governmental chambers of European parliaments. He carries the double-edged sword of capitalism in one hand and the cajoling club of social-democracy in the other. From his bestial lips come the phrases "freedom of press; freedom of conscience; freedom of organization; constitutional guarantees; justice." All the while he resorts to the most brutal methods conceivable of intimidating and terrorizing all fighters against the existing order of capitalism. This he accomplishes with the passive and active assistance of social ists and social-democrats in parliaments and other adherents of the Second International in liberal parties and labor organizations. At the same time the Red Aid International uses all its organizational forces to fight White Terror.

What form does White Terror take? Tearing the tongue out of the head, the arm of its socket, the limb from the body. Burning the eyes out with cigarettes or piercing them with sharp-pointed metal. Suspending men by an arm and leg until they become unconscious. Outraging women, starving and killing children. Shooting and drowning. Imprisoning in foul and filthy cells unfit for animal habitation. Raiding homes and burning entire villages. Breaking up presses and prohibiting workers' organizations. All this in behalf of capitalism, against the workers and peasants, and with the aid of the Second International which instead directs its wrath against the first Workers' and Peasants' Republic.

These are not mere statements. They are facts. Let us look at some of them.

Germany for example. Germany, the country that boasts of its culture. Germany, where the socialists are strongest and where they have a say in the government which parades as a friend of the workers. Germany where the most prominent spokesmen of the Second International are loudest in their abuse of Soviet Russia because it does not free the counter-revolutionary prisoners.

What form does White Terror take in Germany? Let's see.

In Zelle prison, for instance, it was found upon investigation that prisoners are kept in punishment cells without lavatories. In this prison they have another kind of punishment cell where the victim has a ten pound iron pole tied to him from the waist line to the hands and is kept in this fashion for THREE WEEKS.

In the Rensburg prison the incarcerated are permitted to see their relatives only ONCE IN THREE MONTHS.

In the Gelivitis Prison (Silesia) forty workers who are imprisoned because they belonged to a local trade union were savagely beaten because they went on a hunger strike. They are charged with "high treason."

In the fortress of Lukach prisoners were beaten with the butt ends of rifles and wounded by bayonets for protesting against putrid food.

In the prison of Sonnenbourg prisoners who asked for water when it was not left by the night watchman were told "Why don't you spit in each other's throats if you are thirsty?"

In the prison of Schwerin two prisoners committed suicide because they could no longer bear the torture. Reich died in the prison of Ulm as a result of the treatment meted out to him and Agagemeinster died in the fortress of Niederschoenfeld.

It is interesting to note here that many of these prisons, the courts that sentenced these men and the police that took them in charge are under the administration of social-democrats. The same social-democrats who are so righteously indignant at Soviet Russia.

Not all who are arrested in Germany are sentenced to prison. Many of them are set free for "lack of evidence." But before they are set free they are subjected to all possible beastly treatment.

The Dusseldorf court for instance, confirmed the following story:

Mrs. Petrovskaya was arrested the night of November 19, 1923 with a thirteen month baby in her charge. She was taken to the police station. When it was found that there were no charges against her she was beaten with rubber whips and hit on the head and in the stomach with the butt ends of rifles in an effort to get a "confession" out of her. They did not succeed and finally released her.

Comrades Fischer and Bach were arrested in a similar manner — no charge. In an effort to get them to "confess" they were pulled by the hair, kicked, trampled under foot and beaten until blood flowed.

As late as June 1924 comrade Garl was arrested in Neubrandenburg. The policeman who brought him in claimed that the prisoner tried to escape. He was kicked and beaten for that then they began to get a "confession" out of him. He refused to tell his name or divulge any information. He was bayonetted, beaten some more, wounded, kicked and generally abused until he died. But he gave NO INFORMATION.

And what have the German socialists and social-democrats to say about these facts? NOTHING! They acquiesce by their silence in this brutal treatment of workers and peasants who protest against conditions. And in many places their trusted men actually help in this work.

Do the social-democrat members of the reichstag send up a protest? Does the socialist party send up a protest? Does the Second International send up a protest?

No! Instead they get up righteous indignation at the imprisoned counter-revolutionaries in Soviet Russia. They try to befuddle the minds of the workers. They cover their own guilt by attacking Soviet Russia. They are silent about the brutalities committed upon workers and working farmers by the capitalists and shout loudly about the imprisoned in Soviet Russia. They indentify themselves with and justify the crimes committed by White Terrorists and protest from the housetops against Soviet Russia. They help in breaking up of labor organizations in capitalist countries where the workers and peasants are fighting for a decent standard of living, higher wages, the eight-hour day and their right to organize, and protect the counter-revolutionaries in Soviet Russia who organized and plotted with Denikin; Kolchak, Lloyd George, Clemenceau, Mussolini and the like for the overthrow of the first Workers' and Peasants' Republic.

They fight AGAINST THE 380,200 workers and farmers in capitalist prisons and they fight IN BEHALF of the 1,500 counter-revolutionaries in Soviet Russia prisons. And what are the conditions under which these 1,500 prisoners are kept in Soviet Russia? Contrast them with those of Germany where the social-democrats are part of the government which hounds and imprisons workers and peasants.

Most of these counter-revolutionary prisoners are kept in the Suzdalsk and Solovetsk concentration camps. From letters written by them to their families we find out how they are treated. These letters are written by such prisoners as Danilin, social-democrat; Dorozhkov, social-democrat; Chalkin, social-revolutionary; Block, social-democrat; Svetitsky, Krasnianskya, and many other anarchists, etc.

The climate in these camps is dry and healthy. The rooms in which the prisoners are kept are spacious and light and are devoid of the atmosphere of the prison cell. Meat is given twice daily. Tea, sugar and cigarettes are served. In addition to this, each prisoner gets 43 kopecks daily for spending money. Letters are permitted each week. Not once in three months as in Germany.

To illustrate how these prisoners react to the treatment accorded them by the Soviet government we quote the following incident.

(Continued on page 7)

Keeping Them Young and Red -

By Max Shachtman

NOTE:—This is the first of a series of three articles to be published in the magazine section on the Communist children's movement. In the two articles to follow, Comrade Shachtman will write on The Group Leader, Teacher of the Future, and The New Relations Between Old and Young.—Editor.

HOW many of the adult Communists in this country know of the existence of an organized movement of revolutionary working class children, numbering almost 5,000, formed into regular units, school fractions, city central committees, and having their own national organ?

Of those few that are aware of this movement, I am willing to wager that an even smaller percentage have come into closer contact with it than having listened to one of these Communist children recite a revolutionary poem at a mass meeting to the tune of murmured: "How sweet! How cute!"

And yet the formation, activity and education of these 5,000 members of the junior groups of the Young Workers' League is one of the most interesting examples of Communist pedagogy and organization, a completion of the revolutionary principle that the workers are exploited, in one form or another, from their childhood; that it is, therefore, imperative that they be organized and trained for the struggles of the day and the morrow.

Train Wage Slaves.

The keen bourgeoisie, unlike its predecessors, has realized almost from the beginning of its rule, the importance of gaining the youth, for its own purposes, of course. Besides the steady flow of poison it administers to the children in the public schools, it has conscientiously subsidized organizations like the Boy and Girl Scouts, numerous young people's religious leagues, and social and sport clubs. The purpose of the sum total of these institutions has been to make efficient wage slaves out of the workers' children, to believe firmly in the eternity of that which is, and to have a holy horror and hatred towards any radical movement. Based on the old Jesuit principle of controlling the education of a child up to a certain age, the success of the bourgeoisie has been capped with a big measure of success.

Socialists always recognized the necessity of counteracting the influence of capitalist education upon proletarian children, and various ways and means were devised to accomplish this. The problem that then confronted them was: Is is possible to make the child class conscious without at the same time depriving him of the joyful innocence of youth?

Socialist "Sunday Schools" Fail.

The fact that this "joyful innocence of youth" was being taken from the children by every hour of class room teaching was not considered; and the good old social-democrats forthwith cut the Gordian knot with the establishment of socialist Sunday schools, which neither made the children rebels nor kept them youthful. It did, however, leave them in joyful innocence of the class struggle.

The adult leader of the school would discipline the children as sternly as the average old hatchet face in the public school. The curriculum consisted either of painfully "simplified" discourses on theoretical subjects or else of lectures on the brotherhood of man, peace on earth and the horrors of class strife. In the Sunday schools the child was never made a rebel. He left it with a vague feeling of the necessity of brotherhood and an admonition on the wisdom of joining the socialist party when he came of age. They were never told to—

" . . . stick a mental pin in this—
"The warfare of the classes isn't honey or molasses;
"And you'll need a sharper weapon than a kiss!"

The training of the children in the young Communist groups is based on an entirely different principle. The junior groups are not intended to give the workers' children a "liberal" education, with a so-called broad-minded, tolerant view of things. Not at all. They are formed for the purpose of making working class, revolutionary fighters out of the children, teaching them to regard all things from the point of view of the working class. The aim of the Communist children's groups is to make the proletarian child a participant in the class struggle! Not merely one who understands what the class struggle is all about, not one who can repeat a few well-learned revolutionary phrases, but one who forms as definite and important a part of the working class children as the adult Communist does among the adult workers.

The achievement of this state of affairs is no mean task. It requires more of the group leader than it does of the child.

Communist Leadership.

In the simplest manner does the leader of a junior group train the children in the elements of the class struggle. By taking the children thru the proletarian and bourgeois districts of a city, by skillful questioning of the children on their impressions of the contrast, there is instilled in the children the knowledge of the existence of classes.

Not only is the child given an understanding of the fact that the class struggle exists, but in that understanding is embodied the principle that the child himself must participate in the struggle. This does not mean that his participation shall be limited to aiding in strikes, lockouts, demonstrations, political campaigns, and other activities of the adult workers; it means also that the child shall be a fighter for his class where it affects him directly: in the school.

In the school the child is made a receptacle into which is regularly dumped bourgeois refuse. Be it mathematics or history, it is the ruling class viewpoint that is rammed into the minds of the children. In the higher grades, the study of history, "current events" and "civics" in particular is the occasion for the vilest attacks and misinformation about the labor and revolutionary movement. The mildest reformers, if they are alive, are painted the deepest black and pointed to as horrible examples of evils to be shunned; if the reformer happens to be dead, and his ideas already embodied in the status quo, his "constructive" side is emphasized and his more revolutionary outlook is depreciated, excused, perverted or ignored.

The School Struggle.

It is the struggle against this bourgeois miseducation that the Communist children groups carry on. Sometimes this struggle takes on the relatively mild form of distributing their official paper. At other times, when the movement is sufficiently strong and the grievances are felt more than usual, the activity of the red children ranges from interpolations to the teacher in the class room, to the calling of school strikes.

To the bourgeois heroes and jingoes like Roosevelt, the children oppose working class or revolutionary heroes like Joe Hill or John Reed, John Brown or Jacob Leisler. To the anti-labor teachings of the instructor with regard to strikers, Communists, jingoism, and the like, the children oppose their verbal and written protests, open up discussions and ask questions that serve to enlighten the children and confound the teacher. Where teachers are expelled for their sympathy to the workers, the children conduct an agitation for reinstatement. In the numerous instances where children are subjected to the brutal tyranny of corporal punishment, the children are shown how to carry on a mass struggle for its abolition, for the establishment of children's councils for the regulation of discipline.

Learn Thru Struggle.

In all of these activities, which bring the child into conflict with some institution of capitalist society, the child is educated in the spirit of an active soldier in the army of the workers, fighting in the class struggle. Thru this personal participation in the fight, the child learns more of the sway of the dictatorship of the bourgeoisie, of the existence of classes, of the necessity of revolutionary organization—than he would in a hundred lectures. In the Communist children's groups, the working class child prepares himself for the sharper struggles, first in the Communist youth organization and finally in the Communist Party.

In struggle there is life and youth. It is in the struggle that the children are enabled to become revolutionists without foregoing their "youth." Their minds are not stultified with a hard and fast dogma; they are not burdened with the necessity of repeating high-sounding revolutionary phrases; they are not cramped or hampered by the existence of their older leader, who, far from imposing himself or his discipline upon them, far from being their obvious instructor, seeks as much as possible to obliterate himself from any prominence, to permit the children to work out their own reactions to the phenomena of the class struggle, to educate themselves to the ideal of service to their class under capitalism and to the community under Communism.

For Service to Working Class.

Their very games, while chosen and composed for the purpose of strengthening the class solidarity and ideas of the children, are used to give free play to the combination of reality and imagination that keeps the spirit of youth in the class struggle. In these games, in their dramatics and socials, the aim is always to remove the mental servitude imposed upon them in school, to free them from the choking influence of discipline and the obliteration of the individual child in favor of the manufacture of goslings; to inculcate in the child the essence of free childhood: service to his class in order that he may be able to serve the community; the emancipation of humanity in order to accomplish the emancipation of the individual; work, play and study in the spirit of the struggle!

THE RED SOLDIER'S MANUAL

By L. Trotsky

Aims and Structure of the Red Army

1. The Red Army is an armed force intended for the defense of the interests of the toilers against the assaults and violence on the part of the oppressors and exploiters. The Red Army will continue to exist as long as there remain in the world monarchies or bourgeois republics. Only the final victory of the toilers of Europe and then of the entire world will forever secure peace among the nations and will make unnecesary the existence of armies of any kind.

2. The Red Army is composed of workers and working peasants who do not exploit the labor of others. Bourgeois, nepmen, rich peasants as well as corrupted elements from among the workers are not admitted into the ranks of the Red Army. In order that the Red Army may preserve under all circumstances its unshakable devotion to the cause of the working class it must remain an unalloyed part of the working class.

3. The bourgeois elements of military age are called only into the non-combatant service and remain unarmed all the time. In a Soviet Republic the privilege of carrying arms belongs to the toilers only. The exploiters have no access to arms, so that they may not take possession of them and with the aid of foreign exploiters again subjugate the workers and peasants.

4. The principal aim of the Red Army is to secure the independence and freedom of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, to safeguard them against all possible encroachments of the outside capitalist world, so that the workers and peasants may remain undisturbed in the pursuit of their peaceful occupations and in their work of building up a socialist society. The ideas of conquest and of enslavement of other nations are alien to the Soviet government. The Soviet government is striving to preserve peace by all possible means.

5. All the bourgeois classes and their governments, monarchist as well as republican are hostile to the first government of workers and peasants who have overthrown their oppressors and have taken away from them the means of oppression. During the first years of the revolution the bourgeois of the entire world has supported with money, munitions and armies the Russian White Guards, i. e. the armed bands of the Russian landlords and capitalists. Only the heroic struggle of the Red Army has prevented the world bourgeoisie from stifling the Workers' Republic. During a period of six years the leading capitalist governments persistently refused to recognize the Soviet Republic in the hope of overthrowing it. Only the stability and perseverance of the Workers' and Peasants' Republic and of its army, and also the support of the revolutionary workers of the entire world, have compelled the bourgeoisie of several countries to recognize our government and to enter into economic and diplomatic relations with us.

6. However, even after they recognized us the hostility of the exploiters to the Workers' and Peasants' Republic did not cease nor weaken, but assumed other, more subtle forms. At the first opportunity the bourgeoisie will again make attempts to attack us. The working class of the capitalist countries, being unarmed, may not be able with its own forces to prevent the bourgeoisie from attacking us. We must therefore be prepared with armed force to assist the workers of the entire world in their struggle against the rapacious, bloody intentions of the bourgeoisie. There is no higher task in the history of mankind than that which fate has assigned to the first workers' and peasants' army, the champion of the cause of the oppressed.

Military Technique and Militant Morale

7. Capitalism is creating all the time new implements of destruction, more perfected, more cruel machines for killing. In order not to fall again into serfdom, in order not to become a colony, the Union of Soviets must continually improve its armaments. The growth of industry, especially of war industry, the development of transportation are the most important factors in the strength of the Red Army.

8. Alongside with the development of the old branches of military technique and with the constant perfection of firearms, the foremost place in modern warfare is occupied by military aviation and war chemistry. Side by side with the development of high explosives, poisonous gases are gaining greater and greater importance. The Soviet government, with the friendly co-operation of the workers, is doing and will also in the future do its best to make the Red Army an effective means of defense by perfecting the technical equipment of the army, developing a strong air fleet and encouraging the invention of powerful war chemicals.

9. However, military technique alone is not the only deciding factor in war. War machines, just as machines in industry require men for their operation. The capitalist countries have a superior technique, because they are richer. However, after the experience of the late imperialist war which left the laboring masses of all countries destitute and disillusioned, the bourgeoisie of those countries can no longer be certain of the loyalty of the soldiers drafted

(Continued on next page.)

Problems Facing the A. F. of L. Convention

By J. W. JOHNSTONE

THE working class of America is facing a critical situation. More than 2,000,000 of workers are unemployed. In the textile and mining industries large numbers of workers are on the verge of starvation, and all indications point to the conclusion that this winter will see conditions becoming worse, with the army of unemployed greatly increased. The election of Coolidge and Dawes has consolidated the capitalist dictatorship, which feels that it now has a free hand for carrying out its purposes of reducing the standards of the workers. The "open shop" drive, begun in 1921 but temporarily halted on account of the building boom and other industrial and political factors, will now be carried on with greater vigor. This is the situation that confronts the convention of the American Federation of Labor when it meets Monday, Nov. 17, at El Paso, Texas. What will the convention do to solve the burning problems that arise for the workers out of this critical situation?

The "open shop" drive of 1921-22 lowered the general standard of living of the working class, destroyed some unions completely, and demoralized the labor movement to a great extent. The next "open shop" drive, now being prepared, will aim at the complete destruction of the labor movement. The aim of the American capitalist class is to destroy all possibilities of resistance by the working class at home, that it may have a free hand not only in America, but particularly in carrying out its imperialistic program of world domination abroad.

Officials Ignore New Dangers

The capitalists interpret the election results as an endorsement of such an "open shop" drive against the labor movement. The result will be increased exploitation, lengthening of hours, lowering of wages, decrease in the standard of living, and "bad times" for the workers in every way. The unemployed workers may soon be given "employment" in the army and navy because there also follows from the election and the general economic conditions an intensive drive of American imperialism for the more complete subjugation of South and Central America, the conquest of the far eastern markets, and the control of European industry and labor thru the Dawes plan—all of which is heading the United States directly towards the central position in a new world war. The working class of America, and especially the unemployed workers, will be told soon to protect their "liberties" by fighting for the defense and extension of the wealth of Morgan and Rockefeller.

What can we expect the convention of the A. F. of L. to do in meeting these problems? The Trade Union Educational League approaches the delegates to this gathering with many misgivings. In the past, conventions of the A. F. of L. have stood solidily in the path of progress, blocking every effort of the militant rank and file members to strengthen the economic and political position of the labor movement. Industrially, the conventions of the past have stood for division and perpetuation of the old status of pure and simple craft unionism, which is responsible for the sorry condition of the trade unions today. Politically they have adhered to the organizations that represent the program of and are dominated by the worst enemies of the working class, the big capitalists and their petty-bourgeois hangers-on.

That this convention will be of the same order, is indicated by the course of events since the Portland convention of one year ago, and particularly by the events of recent weeks. That the official leadership is determined to steer just as reactionary a course as ever is shown by their recent approval of the so-called "Educational Week", organized by the blackest labor hating forces in America, and the principal aims of which is to bombard the workers, particularly the youth, with "anti-red" (which means anti-labor) propaganda. This "Education Week" is designed to educate the working youth of America to the task of strike breaking, yet it is given the blessings of Gompers and his lieutenants. It would be Utopian to expect a convention that is dominated by such an officialdom to take any progressive or radical stand or any of the burning issues now before the workers.

But however reactionary the officials who control the A. F. of L. convention, it is still necessary—even more than ever necessary—that the vital issues of the workers shall be raised in El Paso sharply and clearly. Not because we expect that these officials will ever tread the paths of militant action in the class struggle, but because by speaking to the convention we speak to the broad masses of the membership who still accept the "leaders", placing beside their half-heartedness in the struggle against capitalism the contrasting militant program of the left wing. The masses in the trade unions must be made to see and understand the difference between the program of class collaboration, which means surrender to the bosses and defeat for the labor movement, advocated by the trade union officials, as against the program of class struggle, which means to consolidate the power of the working class for fighting against the bosses, advocated by the Trade Union Educational League and the Communists.

A Year of Betrayal.

The Portland convention of the A. F. of L. last year marked the definite establishment of "systematic surrender" as the policy of the big officials. Major Geo. L. Berry, fresh from breaking the strike of newspaper pressmen in New York City, was greeted by the gathering as a conquering hero. The official pronunciamento on policy, under the high-sounding title of "industrial democracy", proclaimed the abandonment of struggle against the employing class. The seal was placed upon the surrender by the expulsion of Wm. F. Dunne, Communist delegate from the Silver Bow (Montana) Trades and Labor Assembly.

In the year that has elapsed since that time the officialdom have, more openly than ever, abandoned the class struggle. Every activity entered into by the labor bureaucrats has been towards the development of various schemes of class collaboration. The killing of the labor party, labor banks so-called, B. & O. plans, discriminations and expulsions against the left wing, selling out of strikes under cover of "arbitration awards," and countless other acts of treachery, and of union with the enemy class, have marked this period.

A united front with the bureaucrats of the labor movement for struggle against capitalist exploitation is an impossible thing, because they have accepted the capitalist system as final and to be protected at all costs, even against the labor movement. Any pretence of struggle organized upon such a basis is doomed to defeat and betrayal, because it is a basis of assumed common interest between workers and capitalists, between exploited and exploiters, between the victims and the robbers—a common interest which does not exist. The problem of working-class solidarity, the building of a united front of labor, can, therefore, not come from the top. It must come up from the bottom. This must be accomplished by uniting the lower units of organized labor for the common struggle. One of the principal means to this will have to be the formation of shop and factory councils in which the organized and unorganized workers come together and jointly act for their common protection thus eventually bringing the unorganized workers into the general labor movement.

Prior to the capitalist offensive of 1921-22, the labor movement had been on the upgrade. It had reached its highest peak in membership and achievement. It had been moving forward for some time. The morale of the membership was good, it had confidence in its own strength. In spite of its lack of class consciousness and the inherent weakness of its craft form of organization, it was in comparatively good shape to do battle. Even the unorganized workers were in a fighting mood, as shown by such incidents as the strike of the Fayette County (Pa.) miners in 1922 during the general coal strike.

The army was deserted, however by its officers. John L. Lewis betrayed the miners when they were on the point of a great victory; he abandoned the splendid opportunity also to organize the unorganized sections of the industry. The railroad union officials gave up the national agreement without a struggle, and, retreating from point to point, were finally forced by an outraged rank and file to call a strike which, first sabotaged by the leaders, finally crumbled under the infamous Daugherty injunction. On a smaller scale the same experience was gone thru in other industries.

This organized betrayal by the leaders aided the attack of the capitalists materially. The destruction of labor organizations and the wage slashes that followed, resulted in a demoralization of the entire labor movement from which it is suffering today. The unions are weaker now in every way than they were in 1920. But the employers have been strengthening themselves, and preparing for a new "open shop" attack upon labor.

Side-Tracking the Protest

Millions of workers were growing restless and discontented with the course of affairs. One manifestation of this was the growing weight and volume of the demand for a farmer-labor party. In this the Communists and the Trade Union Educational League were playing a leading part. Gompers and his official family saw a great danger to their domination in this movement. This was undoubtedly one of the major reasons that brought Gompers finally and unwillingly to the support of the LaFollette movement in the presidential campaign, risking a split in his official machine. This action was forced, on the one hand by the pressure of the rank and file demanding a new policy, and on the other by the cynical repudiation of all pretence of consideration for labor by the two major parties of capitalism.

Gompers, the C.P.P.A., and their allies, were able to divert the threatening farmer-labor party movement into the LaFollette stream. Now, after the election, the LaFollette movement stands without its expected victories—but this does not mean the defeat of LaFollettism which, on the political field, corresponds with the latest fads of class collaboration machinery in industry. Millions of workers voted for LaFollette—more than were counted—in spite of the fact that LaFollette "forgot" to give even lip-service to the cause of labor in his campaign. LaFollette is accepted by large numbers of the confused workers as their spokesman.

Great masses of workers are still, however, under the domination of the old capitalist parties, as shown by the big vote of Coolidge and Dawes. The working class is still at a very low political level. Large numbers of working class votes were gathered for the strikebreaking puppet of Wall Street, Coolidge, and the exponent of the "open shop" and Fascism, Dawes, thru the crude terrorization symbolized in the slogan of "Coolidge or Chaos", with the threat of closed factories and unemployment should the candidates of America imperialism not be elected.

A Struggle for Spoils.

But LaFollettism defeated is more dangerous to the labor movement than LaFollettism victorious at the polls. The latter event would have disillusioned masses of workers and prepared them for the inevitable step to class action. In defeat the middle-class politicians will be more radical with their phrases and in condemnation of big capital, thus confirming their hold upon the confused workers. At the same time the sense of defeat, where victory was expected by many, will cause a reaction away from all political activities, strengthening syndicalist and indifferentist tendencies. Confusion reigns in the ranks of the labor movement on the question of political action. Reaction has won in the swallowing up of the labor party movement.

What we will witness in El Paso on the political question will be a wild scramble of the bureaucrats for political merchandise to sell to their masters. One group—and a strong one—

(Continued on next page.)

Unfurling Banner of Soviet Republic in China.

RED SOLDIER'S MANUAL

(Continued from Page 3.)

from among the workers and peasants. The great advantage of the Red Army consists in the fact that its soldiers are defending their own government, their own mills and factories, their own land. Between the Soviet government, Soviet diplomacy, the commanding staff of the army and the mass of Red soldiers there can be no conflict of interests. This fact assures the Red Army a high quality of military morale for the inevitable battles of the future.

10. The immediate aim of war is to overthrow the enemy by physical force, to crush him, to undermine his organization, to destroy his force, to break his spirit and render him unable to fight. The outcome of war is decided in battle. Armies exist not for military reviews, parades, exercises in military games, but for actual strife. Drills, reviews and maneuvers are important only inasmuch as they prepare the army for battle.

All other conditions being equal the war will be shorter and more victorious, the more there is in the army determination, and the higher its aggressive spirit. There may be in war periods of suspense, periods of rest and retreat, but all such tactics are only preparatory measures caused by a particular situation. The final victory, however, belongs to the army which is able to take the offensive, to attack and to deal a decisive, smashing blow.

The Red Army as well as the entire country of workers and peasants wishes to preserve peace, but should the Red Army be compelled to fight, it will fight like one single soul, devotedly and [illegible] technically, the final victory will be ours.

Campaigning For Communism

By Wm. Z. Foster

(EDITOR'S NOTE:—In his next article, Comrade Foster will point out some of the organizational lessons to be learned from the campaign.)

I.

In the presidential campaign just closed it was my fortune to travel approximately 18,000 miles, visiting fifty big industrial centers in thirty-two states, and speaking to over 50,000 workers in mass meetings. I talked to miners in Ohio, steel workers in Pennsylvania, clothing workers in New York, textile and shoe workers in New England, lumber and migratory workers in Washington, in fact, I talked to every important section of the working class in the great centers in which they toil and are robbed by the employers. During such an extended trip one gathers many impressions. Only a few of these can be registered in the brief space at my disposal.

The most interesting and instructive phase of the trip was to watch our party go into action in this, its first national election campaign. For it to get under way in full vigor serious obstacles had to be overcome. It was not such a simple task as might be imagined. Ever since the organization of the Workers Party, the truth has been pounded into the membership that it is the duty of Communists to participate in mass movements of the workers. This propaganda, which had been accompanied by our active campaign for the formation of a farmer-labor party, for amalgamation, etc., had struck home. Consequently, when our party, just on the eve of the election, cut loose from the skeleton national farmer-labor party and set up a presidential ticket of its own, it was difficult for the membership to readjust itself to the new situation. Something of a crisis developed. It was evident everywhere.

There were the masses undoubtedly going with the LaFollette movement, at least great sections of them that were advanced enough to break away from the two old parties. Our membership displayed a strong instinct, if I may so describe it, to go with them. This was due not only to our propagation of the necessity for participation in mass movements of the workers, but also to the enormous pressure that was brought to bear upon our comrades in the unions and elsewhere. It was a great test of the intelligence and discipline of our party membership that they were able to understand so quickly that the LaFollette mass movement was not one that they could participate in. As the campaign progressed one could sense everywhere the growing confidence of our membership. The feeling of isolation, of nakedness in the political struggle, gradually disappeared and gave way to a militant defense of our own party, as against the treacherous arguments of the LaFollette movement. When the campaign ended, our party had fully established itself and was making a struggle that did credit to it.

The great strength of the LaFollette sweep was also a marked characteristic of the first stages of the campaign. Counting the million or so votes that were certainly stolen from him, LaFollette probably ran up a total of at least 5,500,000. Undoubtedly most of this came from trade unionists and others of the more advanced sections of the workers and poor farmers. In my travels I came into contact with great numbers of these. They had LaFolletteitis badly. To a remarkable degree they looked upon LaFollette as the great champion who was going to solve all their problems for them. It was not that they were familiar especially with the LaFollette program, but the movement had developed into a sort of crusade for them. The pressure of exploitation had been so great for so many years, and the opportunities for organized opposition to it so few, that they rushed pell-mell and blindly into the LaFollette movement.

Everywhere the socialist movement collapsed before the LaFollette drive. Men, who a few years ago called themselves socialists and revolutionists, not only defended the LaFollette candidacy on the basis that it would lead to a mass labor party, but they openly and militantly defended all the planks in LaFollette's program, completely abandoning every conception of the class struggle. In many places I met anarchists wearing big LaFollette buttons and loudly touting his cause. Forgetting their anti-parliamentarianism, they were dragged along with the mass. The I. W. W. was also considerably afflicted, many of its members being avowed LaFolletteites. As for the trade union bureaucrats, most of them, at least of the minor types, looked upon the LaFollette movement as a godsend. It seemed a broad white way to the pie-counter. The Gompers' political policy has been such a failure that few of them have been able to work their way to political office. But when the LaFollette movement came storming along, with even conservative leaders like Wm. H. Johnstone claiming that it would poll 20,000,000 votes, they saw at last the longed-for political jobs within their grasp.

Up till the last three weeks of the campaign the LaFollette movement kept gaining momentum. After that, it went into evident decline. This was to be seen by the lowered morale of the trade unionists whom one encountered. The great capitalist propaganda machine was getting into action and getting real results. Not only did the great newspapers carry on their "red" scare effectively, but the bosses on the job openly told the workers that if they didn't vote for Coolidge they would soon find themselves among the unemployed. At many of my meetings workers told me they were informed that if LaFollette was elected they should not come back to work after election. The result of this was a crumpling of the LaFollette movement. The action of the Central Labor Union of New York, in cutting loose from LaFollette and declaring for Davis just on the eve of the election, was a symptom of what was going on among the masses generally. They were being scared away from LaFollette en masse.

In the campaign it was made strikingly evident the wisdom of the change of party policy in cutting loose from the national farmer-labor party and the placing of candidates of our own in the field.

At many places where I talked I asked the comrades to try to visualize what would have been the situation had we gone ahead and made the campaign under the banner of the farmer-labor party. Almost unanimously they were appalled at the thought. It would have meant that we would have had in our meetings just about the same people that we did have. The difference would have been that in the one case we would have had to defend farmer-labor candidates and a farmer-labor program. The result would have been demoralization and confusion, which would have amounted to a first class disaster to our party. As it was, we were able to present Communist candidates upon a straight Communist program. We introduced the Workers Party formally to the masses as a factor in the political struggle.

The campaign was a striking justification of the policy of the Communist International to participate in election struggles. It was evident everywhere that the masses were in a thinking mood and it was a splendid opportunity to present our program to them. Besides the capitalist dictatorship was considerably less rigorous with regard to free speech than at any other period. All over the country I, in common with our other speakers, was able to present our program and to advocate the adoption of Soviets and the proletarian dictatorship without serious interference from the authorities. Besides, our party gained much invaluable political experience. This was sadly needed in many localities. In my judgment the New York district showed the greatest responsiveness in exploiting the situation to the advantage of Communism. The two big mass meetings I addressed there, which together comprised about 6,000 people, were an inspiration. Those leftist elements in our party who still believe that participation in election struggles is not profitable for Communist Parties, would do well to study the lessons of the campaign just ended.

If the campaign was a justification of the party policy of severing its connections with the farmer-labor party and running candidates of its own, it was also a striking justification of the correctness of the decision of the Communist International that there should be no "third party alliance." This justification was because of the almost complete absorption of the farmer-labor party movement by the LaFollette movement. In the famous controversy over the "third party alliance" both sides were wrong in that they overestimated the strength of the farmer-labor movement. The anti-third partyites took the position that there was sufficient definite farmer-labor party sentiment in the country to make practical the running of a farmer-labor party in the campaign with its own candidates. The other group held that the only way the farmer-labor movement could be preserved was thru the proposed alliance. But both were wrong. The sweep of the LaFollette movement shrivelled the tender plant of farmer-labor party movement like a hot blast from the desert. Not even the proposed "third ment. If the alliance had been made, party alliance" could have held enough of it together to make it a mass move the practical effect of it would have been to saddle a dead farmer-labor party upon the back of the Workers Party. We would have been in pretty much the same situation in that respect as we were after the St. Paul convention. I am forced to this conclusion after seeing, during my trip, the sad wreckage of the budding farmer-labor parties by the LaFollette movement. They were simply knocked dead everywhere. The Comintern was right in its decision.

This campaign was an historical event. It was the opening round in a long and desperate struggle against the hard center of world capitalism. In this fight it was my privilege to be the standard bearer of the Communist movement, to lead the attack against the great fortress of the international capitalist class. This was the supreme honor of my life. This campaign was just the merest skirmish, a faint indication of the tremendous battles that are yet to come, a forerunner of the time when the organized millions of the proletariat will strike to earth the capitalist system and establish the dictatorship of the proletariat.

(To be continued.)

Problems Facing the A. F. of L. Convention

(Continued from Page 4.)

adheres to the democratic party, and will have Major George L. Berry, strikebreaking head of the Pressmen's Union, as spokesman. Another, tools of the republican party, will rally behind John L. Lewis, president of the Miners' Union, and W. L. Hutcheson, of the Carpenters. A third, the railroad shop unions associated in the C. P. P. A. with independent unions, headed by Wm. H. Johnston, will seek to adapt the LaFollette movement to the non-partisan idea. Gompers will try to ride all three hourses, defending the independent candidacy of LaFollette this year while keeping himself free for any kind of political alliance that may seem expedient in the future, and openly bidding for reentry into the democratic fold.

The Left Wing Stands Firm.

Into this mess of political trading, corruption, and middle class illusions, it will be the task of the left wing militants, the T. U. E. L. adherents and the Communists, to bring the message of clear-cut working class action on the political as well as the industrial field. Against the LaFollette illusion, which means the control of the workers politically by their class enemies, we must bring the conception of a party of the working class, fighting against the capitalists and all their hangers-on—which means a revolutionary party, the Workers (Communist) Party of America.

The political and industrial proposals of the left wing present a practical and comprehensive program of class struggle, to be placed against the whole program of class collaboration of the labor officialdom. This includes the demands for amalgamation of the craft unions into powerful industrial unions; formation of a solid network of shop and factory committees by all workers in each industry; organization of the unorganized; equality of all races in the labor movement; nationalization of the basic industries with workers' control and operation; struggle against wage cuts and lengthening of hours; organization of unemployed councils, and struggle for relief of the unemployed; against Fascism, the Ku Klux Klan and the American Legion, and against "education week"; against deportation of workers, against syndicalism laws, and for the release of all labor prisoners; unconditional recognition of Soviet Russia; struggle against American imperialism and the converting of the Pan-American Federation of Labor from an instrument of the U. S. department of state into an organ of working class struggle for freedom from Morgan's imperialism; for national and international unity, affiliation to the Red International of Labor Unions and support of the world unity movement initiated by it; for the class struggle and the formation of a revolutionary mass party of the working class.

The program of the Trade Union Educational League is a practical program, laying down the necessary basis for any effective struggle by the workers against the exploitation of capitalism. The working class will rally to such a program, in the degree that the "open shop" aggressions of the employers force them to fight—and in the degree that the militants themselves make the workers familiar with the program. In order to put such a program into effect, the workers must also learn that it requires struggle against the labor officials, against the bureaucrats who, holding the offices of the labor movement, at the same time are the greatest defenders of the capitalist system—more zealous even than the capitalists themselves. The slogan must be: "Away with the bureaucratic leaders," "Abandon the class-collaboration policy," "Enter the fight upon the basis of the class struggle and under revolutionary leadership."

COME AND FIND OUT

THOSE who missed last Sunday's Open Forum, which is held every Sunday night in the lodge room at the Ashland Auditorium, Van Buren street and Ashland boulevard, will never know what they were deprived of by not coming to hear Oliver Carlson lecture on the life of young folks in Soviet Russia.

But as there is no way of making amends for the past except by future behavior, it is expected that everybody will be there tomorrow night at 8 o'clock, to listen to Earl R. Browder, editor of the Workers' Monthly and members of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, who will speak on "The Meaning of the Election Returns."

With the whole labor movement in confusion and demoralization, the A. F. of L. divided in its support to two old capitalist parties and the LaFollette "progressives," reaction triumphant in the election of Coolidge and an industrial crisis threatening along with the open shop to reduce the workers to new low standards, the problem of what to do is of immediate and vital importance. The struggle must go on. But how? Come to hear Browder Sunday night and find out.

Workers Party Educational Department

Conducted by James P. Cannon, Educational Director

"Without a Revolutionary Theory a Revolutionary Movement Is Impossible."

Developing the Party Educational Work

THE propaganda theses of the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, which have been published in this department during the past three weeks, have had a noticeable and wholesome influence on the party. The results are already to be observed in the greatly increased interest in the party program for systematic educational work. It is to be hoped that every active member of the party will thoroly familiarize himself with these propaganda theses, since they constitute a clear guide for the whole of our educational activities. The more thoroly the contents of these theses are assimilated by the party, the more certain will it be that our educational work will start off on the right track and that its fundamental importance for the health and growth of the party will be recognized.

A firm grasp on revolutionary theory, without which a revolutionary party is impossible, is not a gift which will fall to us from heaven. The propaganda theses of the Fifth Congress lay great stress on the fact that party members can acquire theoretical knowledge only thru the process of deliberate and systematic study, which has to be combined with the practical activities and struggles of the party. To this end it lays it down as a prerequisite that special organs must be established in the party for the supervision and conduct of educational activity, and for the maintenance of it in a uniform manner. The periodical printing of theoretical literature, the establishment of party schools and classes, the arrangement of lectures and discussions on theoretical questions—these are the means whereby the teachings of the theses can be realized in life.

In line with the directions of the theses, a special Educational Department has been established within the Central Executive Committee, and the same procedure is being followed in the party down to the basic units. The Educational Departments of the branches, locals, and district organizations, organically connected with the Educational Department of the Central Executive Committee, and guided and directed by it, constitute the apparatus for the development of Communist education in the party ranks. By means of this apparatus, our educational work is already beginning to move forward with a mighty drive.

System and Central Direction.

Educational work up till the present time has been of a fragmentary and sporadic character. Now, for the first time, it is being systematized and centrally directed as the Comintern thesis requires it to be. This step was necessary not only to secure the stimulation and development of the work, but also—what is of equal importance—to guarantee that it will all bear a uniform stamp. We must not play fast and loose with the term, "education." What we want is not a loose and general assortment of classes dealing with any subject which may happen to be labelled "workers' education," but systematic instruction of the party members in the revolutionary teachings of Marx and Lenin. Our educational apparatus from top to bottom is designed for this purpose.

While all of our instruction must be of a uniform character from an ideological standpoint, it is obvious that the classes cannot all be cut according to one pattern. On the contrary, the educational apparatus of the party must have sufficient flexibility to adapt itself to special needs and requirements of localities and districts, and to the varying degrees of theoretical and political understanding of the various strata of the party members. It must also take into account the resources of the party and the limited number of comrades capable of leading and directing theoretical work and it must establish a variegated series of classes, designed to serve the needs of comrades needing instructions in elementary principles, as well as those who already possess a knowledge of Communist fundamentals and who require a further and higher development of this knowledge.

To this end, the educational department of the party has already worked out a comprehensive and flexible program of work, which is already being put into actual practice. An explanation of this program will undoubtedly be of interest. In this article, the broad outlines of the program as a whole will be dealt with. Other articles, which will follow in this department, will explain each item of it, in detail and at length, in order that the comrades affected may have a complete understanding of the aims of the Central Executive Committee Educational Department in respect to that phase of the work which they are carrying out.

Our Educational Program.

1. Publication of Theoretical Works. One item in the program provides for the periodical publication of theoretical literature with the aim of gradually building up, as rapidly as our resources permit, an extensive Library of Communism in America. The Central Executive Committee has already approved and ordered the publication of the following books: (1) Theses and Resolutions of the Second Congress of the Communist International." This volume contain the fundamental theses of the Comintern adopted at the Second Congress, dealing with the questions of Trade Unionism, Parliamentarism, the Role of the Communist Party, the National and Colonial Question, the Statutes of the Communist International, Fundamental Tasks of the Communist International, Conditions of Admission (the 21 points), Conditions for the Formation of Soviets, and the Agrarian Question. (2) "Leninism," by I Stalin, secretary of the Russian Communist Party, one of the oldest collaborators of Lenin and one of the foremost leaders of the Comintern (3) "The Selected Works of Lenin." This will consist of a number of volumes containing the most important writings of Comrade Lenin and giving a complete outline of his teachings. They have already been printed under this title in Russia and are now in organized on a permanent basis and have fairly comprehensive curricula, process of translation for publication in America.

2. Party schools in the larger cities. In New York, Chicago and Boston, Party Schools are being established which are to give systematic courses of study thruout the year. They are with a number of instructors. Such schools will undoubtedly grow into powerful institutions for stabilizing the party and giving it a uniform ideology. Only in the larger cities which have a number of leading comrades capable of successfully teaching classes, is it possible to develop schools of this character at the present time.

3. Self-Instruction Classes in the "ABC of Communism." A whole net work of local self-instruction classes of an elementary nature, using Bukharin's "ABC of Communism" as a text, are now in the process of organization. In order to facilitate this essential development and to make it possible for groups of comrades who have no experienced teachers to successfully conduct the classes, the Educational Department of the Central Executive Committee has prepared a special supplementary pamphlet as a guide, and with the general direction and advice of the Educational Department of the Central Executive Committee, it will be possible for inexperienced comrades to make a successful start in acquiring the necessary theoretical knowledge.

It is our aim to eventually establish such a class in each city in the country where the party has an organization. We will not reach this goal all at once, but the response already received has exceeded all expectations and is, in itself, a sure indication of the widespread ambition prevailing amongst the comrades to arm themselves with a knowledge of the fundamental theory of the movement. The present indications are that at least forty or fifty such local self-instruction classes will be in full swing in the near future. This is a promising beginning indeed and will undoubtedly lead to greater achievements. By the time these classes finish their elementary studies, plans will be completed and outlines provided to guide them to more extensive study.

4. Study Class Circuits in the Districts. The Circuit System of Study Class work, conducted by a professional teacher, which was successfully developed in the Chicago district last fall and winter is now being organized in two separate districts of the party. In the Ohio and Philadelphia districts the necessary organization plans are nearing completion. Instructors have been assigned by the Central Executive Committee and the circuits will be in operation in the very near future.

Under the circuit system, a traveling instructor covers five different cities in the district, conducting a class one night each week in each different city for eleven weeks. These classes are based on the lecture-question method and are calculated to give the students a general outline of Communist principles and tactics and to prepare them for wider study.

In order to stimulate the interest of the party members in the educational work and to give a general lead to it, the Educational Department of the General Executive Committee will conduct a weekly department in the DAILY WORKER Magazine. In this department the progress of the educational work will be reported and commented on. Practical advice and suggestions to the comrades engaged in educational work will be given, and the problems which confront the active comrades in the course of their work will be dealt with. A large number of comrades active in educational and theoretical work will contribute to this department from time to time.

The subect of next week's article will be "How to Organize and Conduct a Self-Instruction Class in the ABC of Communism."

DAWES ASSUMING CHARGE

Misery for the Workers—More Profits for the Rich.

"The American Boom Is at an End . . ."

Says Prof. E. Varga in his "The Decline of Capitalism," a pamphlet just received from Europe. Also: "Will not the militaristic-imperialist policy of Poincare gain the upper hand, which fact would lead to a new catastrophe of the mark, since the Rentenmark, an artificial creation, would by no means be able to withstand such a blow?" A most timely pamphlet 25c

From the 4th to the 5th World Congress.

Report of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, covering 45 different sections, including U. S., Canada, Mexico, Argentine, etc. It briefly summarizes the activities of the Executive Committee and its various sections. The United Front, the Trade Unions, Agrarian Questions, etc. A year book of the C. I. Single copy 25c

In lots of ten or more 15 cents.

Order while the supply lasts.

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE!

All Party and League Branches and the Foster-Gitlow Conference please turn in all money collected for the election campaign.

Workers Party,
Local Chicago

HOW MUCH? - -

By Robin E. Dunbar

IN bourgeois society everything is measured by how much it fetches. Man's honor, woman's virtue, genius, love, the family affections and relationships, home and mother, the parental blessings, the graces of childhood, the prattlings of babyhood—all are put on the scale and valued in dollars and cents. Human life itself is merely a matter of "How Much?" and it is bought and sold like any other merchantable commodity, as is daily witnessed in the purchase of dare devil stunt performers in the movies, who give their lives in the end for a price. Babies are bought and sold and given away, and it is all accepted by the pillars of bourgeois society as part of the day's work. Murder is a matter of purchase and sale, and can be made the subject of play, as seen in the Franks' case where it was indulged in just for the thrill, and the murderers bought themselves off with the hiring of a high priced lawyer. No one is silly enough to expect they will long be confined behind prison bars. What is money for, if it isn't to buy the boys out?

All this is pot to be wondered at. Capital is the booty stolen from labor; and booty is ever a pirate in action. The signers of our Declaration smuggled in tea, liquors and slaves; and when caught bought off the courts or bulldozed them into silence. The older bourgeoisie may have been an agent of civilization, but that day has past. Now no one believes it means well for us. It has become so corrupt it is rotten—every root and branch. Bourgeois art, science music, government, religion, journalism and politics all poisoned with hypocrisy. Let all healthful play stop and not even a hymn be sung, without an eye to profit. With sensational success follows the rapid fire clean-up. All get busy and exploit the thing to the limit, so as to make as much out of it as they can while the getting is good. This was the case with "Damaged Goods"; "Under Fire"; "Birth of a Nation"; "Lightnin'"; and will be the case with "What Price Glory?" and all other bourgeois pieces of drama, art, literature or what not. How much? is the question. What will it pay? What do we get out of war? Ask Doheny, Fall, Sinclair Daugherty, Jess Smith, Burns, et al. They are not only the exemplars of bourgeois opinion, they are the reflectors and the manufacturers of bourgeois morality and esthetics. What they praise and esteem is what the whole bourgeois world must praise and esteem, be it the latest oil field boot-legging joint, Wall Street, bomb explosion fairy tale, labor injunction peg show, moving picture, or rustic melodrama. They are the public, they and their pimps, prostitutes and panders of press, pulpit, stage and rostrum. They are the ones who make the world safe for plutocracy—they and their bankers, lawyers, merchants, chiefs, etc.

Where property is king, life is slave. When a bourgeois dies the question is not "What good did he do for humanity?" but "How much did he leave to his heirs and mistresses?"

Take sport. Take baseball. If the magnates meet and decide it is more profitable for Washington to win the pennant than for New York, that is well and good. It is so ordered and no one has a right to complain. But should the hired players try to interfere with the plans of their masters that is treason, fraud, bribery, and foul crime. How much? is not a question for slaves to discuss; it is only fit for the masters to bother about such important matters. The slaves should accept what the masters dole out to them without question. They must carry the message to Garcia for a crust and a kick. Have not all the courts decided again and again that the matter of "How Much?" is none of labor's business? The going wage is what labor must accept, when there is a job open. If no job is to be had, there is the river, the gas jet, or the pistol from the pawn shop by which to solve the equation. Death is the bourne for which workers should thank their masters, who have been so kind as to allow us that exit from our woes.

Death without fuss is the boon we are permitted as our share of life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. Then we hear them grumble because they have to provide us a grave instead of a ditch full of lime. That is why they like war so much better than peace; not only do they make more money, then, but they get rid of us so much easier. War is indeed a great blessing to the rich; it inflates their pocket-books, their stomachs and satisfies their thirst for our blood; besides it stocks up the market with war widows, who can be had for a song then. War not only makes the world safer for plutocracy, it makes it cheaper besides. Then there are the spoils! Look at how much they will take out of the workers of Germany, thanks to the Dawes graft! China is next! The millions of cheap laborers there are a toothsome morsel to Morgan and his pals. If only Soviet Russia weren't quite so near! How much they could swallow up at one gulp! Japan isn't considered at all. To crush that imperialist country would be child's play for our renowned pacifists, who are again building all sorts of craft, weapons, armaments, gas bombers, and flying ships in the interests of peace and world harmony.

The most successful dips are those who throw their victims off the scent by crying, "Look out for pickpockets!" The greatest bourgeois statesmen are those who can mobilize the largest forces for war while prating of peace. The masters ask themselves, How much can we get out of a fight? and if they decide the profits justify the attempt they tell their office boys to get busy and declare war at once. The office boys get out and shriek how "we" are being attacked by "our" enemies and immediately start dropping gas bombs on noncombattants, and thus carry out orders. They begin slaughter that ends only with the total exhaustion of one of the parties to the affray; rather of the workers on one side. For war as we know, is never fought by those who declare it. War is for the master by the workers. Death is the only reward of the warriors; dollars, of the masters. A dollar a day while able to fire a gun and a ditch full of lime when not is the pay of the worker; and a dollar a year AND side money with board and keep and nursing for the patriots who sit at the capitol sacrificing themselves and their mistresses in the service of their country, while the war lasts; that is the pay of these who declare it.

How much? . . . millions . . . and then some. Ask Forbes or any other of our public spirited rotarians.

Comrades, the question is now which road will you follow? Will you ask at every turn. How much . . . is there in it for my master? or How many of my own class members can I convert to my cause? How many can I turn away from supporting the bourgeoisie? How many can I enlist in the proletarian army with the Communists? For I know it is human life vs. profits; humanity against wealth; and I stand for humanity.

WHO FIGHTS THE WHITE TERROR?

(Continued from Page 2.)

The well known menshevik party member Rostov and B. Vassiliev, member of the central committee of the party, proposed once to the rest of the prisoners to organize a political demonstration against the regime. The majority of the prisoners refused to participate, and the group of Georgian mensheviks replied thus:

"If in answer to our hunger strike the Soviet government were to have an investigation and inspection made, even the ultra-anti-Soviet commission of European socialists would declare that altho the Soviet system and Soviet justice is bad, the regime in the Suzdalsk prison is satisfactory."

So the Georgian mensheviks felt they could not get away with it and therefore considered it bad tactics to protest.

And who are these 1,500 prisoners?

They consist of monarchists, four White Guard generals, social democrats, social-revolutionaries and anarchists. Such as took part in the Moscow explosion of 1919 when seven prominent Communists lost their lives and scores were seriously wounded. This explosion was organized by anarchists during Denikin's march on Moscow.

But the Second International and its adherents considers these 1,500 "heroes" and attacks the Soviet government for not letting them "free." At the same time they say nothing against the imprisonment of the 380,200 workers and peasants in capitalist countries.

The Second International and its adherents treacherously mask under the cloak of "freedom for workers" in Soviet Russia because they want to hide their own perfidy to the workers and peasants in capitalist countries where 380,200 militants are imprisoned under unbearable conditions.

The leaders of the Second International want to smoke-screen the real issue so as to be able to continue to pose as a friend of the workers and working farmers. They sit in parliaments and help passively and actively in wholesale arrests and brutalities, while their henchmen shout loudly "freedom of workers" in Soviet Russia. They try to befuddle the minds of their followers so they won't see how these Second Internationalists are aiding and abetting capitalism in its prosecution of the working class. They raise not a finger against the imprisonment of the 380,200 class war victims of capitalism, but they raise a whole hand against the few counter revolutionaries imprisoned in Soviet Russia. They do nothing to fight against the White Terror which is fast spreading over capitalist Europe, because it is against their own interests. Instead they vent their righteous indignation at Soviet Russia.

The Red Aid International which is a non-party organization is the only workers' organization which is fighting White Terror in Europe. It gives legal aid to the prisoners and material assistance to their wives and children. It grew out of a desire on the part of the workers and peasants of Soviet Russia to help the class war victims in capitalist countries. It has already helped 18,000 people and conducted in Germany alone 8,448 lawsuits between January 1 and April 1, 1924. It has now agencies in all the important countries which it controls strictly from its international office. In the United States the International Workers' Aid has undertaken to raise funds for this purpose.

The International Workers' Aid is conducting a campaign at present for the raising of $100,000. Send for their collection lists and literature to 19 South Lincoln St., Chicago.

Long live the Red Aid International.
Long live the fighting proletariat.
Long live the spirit of Rosa Luxemburg and Karl Liebknecht!

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

The Walden Book Shop

307 Plymouth Court

(Between State and Dearborn Just South of Jackson)

CHICAGO

Learn the International Language IDO

16-page pamphlet, giving outline of language, showing its superiority over Esperanto, etc., sent free.

The Workers Ido Federation
Room 5, 805 James St., N. S.
PITTSBURGH, PA.

LEARN ESPERANTO
The International Language
The following booklets are received free:
Esperanto for All, grammar and vocabulary.
Esperanto and its Critics, by Prof. Collinson.
525 7th St., Rockford, Ill.
WORKERS' ESPERANTO ASSN.,

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

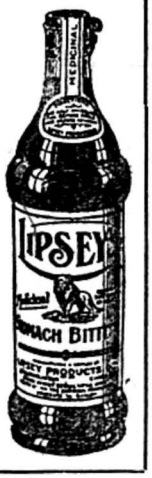
THE WORLD'S GREATEST TONIC for lowered vitality

makes your blood tingle with joy the minute you taste it. Take a wine glass full of

LIPSEY'S

BITTERS

before meals and note the improvement of your health in a few days. Order a bottle by coupon below.



LIPSEY PRODUCTS CO., Dept. 21,
1123 Foster Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen:
Send me in plain wrapper, one (1) large bottle of LIPSEY'S BITTERS. I will pay postman $1.85 on arrival. If I am not satisfied after trying a few glasses, I may return unused portion and you will refund my money.
Name _____
Street and No. _____
R. F. D. No. _____ Box. _____
Town _____ State _____

Money Back Guarantee

The Alignment of Revolutionary Women in the Class Struggle

By JEANNETTE D. PEARL

Generally speaking the broad masses of women may be classified as a part of the unskilled labor supply of the country. As unskilled laborers, the difficulty of organizing women becomes at once apparent. Of the four million workers in trade unions, only a quarter of a million are women. The A. F. of L. calculates the organizational strength of women at 5 per cent, to demonstrate how difficult is the task of organizing women. This calculation of the A. F. of L. is no doubt brought into evidence to conceal its own guilt in having sabotaged the unionizing of women. As unskilled workers the A. F. of L. practically made no attempt to organize women while such of the skilled women that sought membership in the A. F. of L. were excluded from many of the unions as competitors, threatening the job trust of the A. F. of L.

The discrimination against women is not a matter of sex as is contended by the feminists, but is based on economic grounds, the source of practically all discriminations. The increasing number of women entering industry, their attempt at organization, make them a factor that must be reckoned with, industrially as well as politically.

Women are organizable. There are over eight million women (of all classes) organized in social and civic clubs thruout the country. In the last presidential election, the eligible voting women, voted to the extent of 43 per cent.

The calculation that the organizational strength of women in trade unions is but 5 per cent is incomplete. Since women constitute but one fourth of the working population, the 5 per cent should be multiplied by four. Male workers are organized in proportion to men employed to the extent of 11 per cent, women to the extent of 2.5 per cent. The organizational strength of working women compared with working men may be taken as 20 per cent.

The number of working women organized in trade unions is not a constant factor. Two thirds of women in industry, according to the women's bureau at Washington, are continually leaving industry because of marriage. That proportion may also be assumed for organized women, so that the constant factor for organized women is roughly 100,000 with 150,000 as a perpetual fluctuating figure. But even the 100,000 is not altogether a constant factor, because psychologically working women in the main regard their work as a temporary condition.

The apparent temporary character of women's employment, her comparative newness to industry, her lack of skill, together with the peculiarities arising out of her maternal functions and duties, have all materially contributed in checking the class solidarity of women.

To draw working women into the class struggle, the peculiarities arising out of sex differences (that does not mean sex inferiority) together with the social and political inequalities must be carefully studied. An apparatus should be created to consider the entire woman's problem in its relation to the class struggle, with the view of establishing closer contact with the broad masses of working women, to develope their social and revolutionary psychology and to draw the class conscious women into our party.

The Women's Bureau should be made up of comrades in sympathy with the work. The secretary of the bureau should sit at the executive sessions of the C. E. C., or a member of the C. E. C. should be in the bureau. All woman's work should be under the jurisdiction of the Women's Bureau subject to the approval of the C. E. C. The functions of the bureau should be to study conditions peculiar to women's activity, to carry on work of education, agitation and organization among the broad masses of women and to equip Communist women for that task—a proper psychological approach. The women's work is not to make for the organization of a women's political party.

Every branch should have a women's committee, reports on women's work should be rendered at all branch meetings and all other subdivisions of the party. At every party conference and convention women's work should be on the agenda of the day. In our national program of action, an eighth division should provide for woman's work.

The duties of the women's committee of the branches should be to study the local conditions of the district as they effect women and to make plans how to best serve the revolutionary movement thru the local conditions prevailing at any given time. The study should include industrial conditions incident to sex differences and discriminations, social and political inequalities, problems effecting housewives and mothers, the public school system as it effects the children of the working class, etc. All women of the branch must be mobilized for women's work.

Women Communists should penetrate all working women's organizations, openly join as members of the W. P. and act as standard bearers, tactfully portraying the Communist viewpoint, bringing the principles of the W. P. to the attention of an ever increasing number of women and so create sympathy and confidence in our party and its leadership.

In every strike, our women must be ready at a moment's notice to organize relief committees among strikers' wives and sympathisers and support the strike thru the W. P.

Women W. P. members must systematically engage in the industrial work and strive to draw industrial women into the union and shop nuclei. Women of little social contact respond more freely when approached by members of their own sex.

Working class housewives represent a constant factor in society and deserve serious consideration. Entirely ignored by the A. F. of L., greatly influenced by the church, they are the conservative props of things as they are. They not only exert a retarding influence upon their husbands, they also exert a most reactionary influence upon their children. We must rescue the children, thru an approach to the housewives and mothers.

The housewives' problems center around prices. That interest should be linked up with the organizational posibilities inherent in co-operatives and civic clubs. There exist in many trade unions women's auxiliary organizations, composed of workers' wives. These in reality are social clubs but these clubs should be given labor and political impulses. The T. U. E. L. ought to take it upon itself how best to organize such women's auxiliaries for the purpose of the class struggle.

Any plan regarding women's work must necessarily be in the nature of an experiment. A real working plan can only grow out of our experience with work among women. We must not study women as a sex but rather as a subdivision of a sex. Each grouping should be separately studied in order to adopt a more effective approach.

General agitation thruout our press should be started in the interest of woman's work. Our literature must be built up on an intensive study of the women's problems in relation to Communism, out of which will follow methods best adapted for the drawing of women into the revolutionary ranks.

SOUND THE ALARM

(Continued from Page 1.)

than one-third, of the total vote. Also that in a few of these states LaFollette was on the verge of victory. It is practically certain that had the petty-bourgeoisie, whom he represents, voted for him, he would have carried most of those states. Which establishes the fact that the LaFollette movement is at present the practical political leader of the poor farmers of the agrarian northwest.

Then read the following table which gives the comparative vote and LaFollette's percentage in the industrial cities of the east and middle west:

State	Coolidge	Davis	LaFollette	Total	LaFollette's %
Connecticut	244,878	109,788	37,830	390,255	9.7
Illinois	1,450,000	560,000	336,000	2,346,000	14.3
Indiana	761,720	632,451	66,769	1,360,940	4.9
Massachusetts	698,725	276,535	140,309	1,115,569	12.5
Michigan	770,315	125,510	100,785	996,610	10.+
New Jersey	622,596	280,711	99,123	1,002,430	9.8
New York	1,807,787	964,801	464,888	3,217,475	14.+
Ohio	1,069,967	458,335	352,279	1,570,581	18.—
Pennsylvania	1,261,194	355,128	239,153	1,855,475	12.—
Rhode Island	125,335	76,782	7,856	209,753	3.+
	8,812,267	3,710,041	1,814,781	14,387,089	10.2

LaFollette's average vote in these states is 10.2 per cent. In New York and Illinois it was over 14 per cent, and in Ohio it was 18 per cent. What does it prove? It proves that large sections of labor in the industrial centers accept at present the political leadership of the objectively petty-bourgeois LaFollette movement.

The switch in labor's ranks from the old capitalist parties is seen more clearly when we compare the vote for Debs in 1920 with the vote of LaFollette in 1924 cast in the industrial centers.

Read the table:

State	Debs	LaFollette
Illinois	74,747	336,000
Indiana	24,703	68,769
Ohio	57,147	332,279
Pennsylvania	70,021	239,153
New Jersey	27,317	99,123
New York	203,201	454,588
Connecticut	10,350	37,830
Massachusetts	32,267	140,309
Total	499,653	1,769,160

Almost four times as many workers voted for LaFollette in 1924 than for Debs in 1920. The breakaway movement among the workers from the old capitalist parties and in the direction of a movement which the masses believe to be more their own is very definite. Putting together the conclusions from each of these tables, we are justified in saying: That the LaFollette movement, objectively a movement of the petty-bourgeoisie, was not supported in the elections in any large measure by the petty-bourgeoisie, but by the workers of the east and middle west and by the poor farmers of the northwest.

Altho the achievements of the LaFollette groups fall far short of their expectations, yet the movement will undoubtedly continue towards further crystallization into a definite party. It will continue as an alliance between the ideologists of the petty-bourgeoisie and labor bureaucracy and will be recognized and supported for some time to come by large sections of labor and poor farmers. What we had in America until practically the beginning of July as a farmer-labor movement was completely swallowed up by the LaFollette-socialist-Gompers alliance.

The Workers Party and its Tasks.

I reserve a fuller treatment for a further article. Here the following must be pointed out. The Workers (Communist) Party succeeded in the election campaign in bringing its message of class struggle and Communism to wide masses of workers. Our party established itself for the first time in its existence, as the only party of working class struggle, as the only uncompromising enemy of capitalism. By our election campaign we have prepared the ground and ourselves for the leading role in the class struggle which we are bound to assume.

This must be followed up with a concrete program of action based upon the everyday struggles of the workers, in the spirit of the United Front tactics of the Communist International. Our main line of action must be:

A United Front between the toiling masses and the Workers (Communist) Party for everyday struggle against the strikebreaking government and against the LaFollette petty-bourgeoisie ideology in the labor movement.

Forward to the struggle!

MEET YOUR FRIENDS
at
Russian Co-operative RESTAURANT No. 2
We Serve to our Patrons the Best Meals, Prepared from the Fresh Products, in European Style, at Moderate Prices.
760 MILWAUKEE AVE.
Phone Monroe 1239.

George E. Pashas
COZY LUNCH
2426 Lincoln Avenue
One-half block from Imperial Hall
CHICAGO

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5129

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947

EDUCATE YOURSELF FOR THE STRUGGLE
THE WORKERS PARTY
OPEN FORUM
(Lecture, Questions and Discussion)
Every Sunday Night at 8 o'clock, Season 1924-25
SUNDAY, NOV. 16—EARL R. BROWDER
Editor of the Workers Monthly, and member of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, will speak on What the Election Returns Mean to the Workers
In the Lodge Room
Ashland Auditorium, Ashland Ave. and Van Buren St.
Take Metropolitan "L" to Marshfield Sta., or surface lines on Van Buren
Single admission 25c
Tickets good for any three admissions, 50c

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 22 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Vol. II. No. 205. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. MONDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

FIGHT COOLIDGE ATTACK ON LABOR

Expose Big Mail Order Houses

AS WE SEE IT
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE farmer-labor party is dead. Long live the Wage Earners' League! This may be the slogan of the former leaders of the farmer-labor party of Cook county who dug up a fake league with which to cloak their betrayal of the workers, when they scuttled the farmer-labor party, and swallowed Sam Gompers' political vomit. In the latest issue of the Federation News, a colorless sheet, that has succeeded the New Majority, even succeeded in being flabbier, the Wage Earners' League boasts of its accomplishments in the recent election.

* * *

OF course it must insist that it is worth something else the politicians may be chary about shelling out the coin. So the Wage Earners' League boasts of having elected Len Small and his ticket. The honor really belongs to Calvin Coolidge and Hell and Maria Dawes, who also supported Small much more effectively than the Wage Earners' League. If this election has proven anything it is that the voters pay little attention to the endorsements of the labor fakers. Their use to the capitalists today consists chiefly in their role as strike-breakers and class collaborationists.

* * *

THE Wage Earners' League claims to represent 175,000 wage earners in Chicago. That is a big figure and no doubt the capitalist politicians when making up the next election budget will consider how much the owners of so many votes are worth in American currency. The above aggregation did not make any boast of electing Robert E. Crowe. Dean O'Hanlon carried off some of the honors for getting Crowe returned. The league attacked Crowe, tho it supported Small who was on Crowe's ticket. Queer kettle of fish. What a fine stew these skates have gotten the workers into!

* * *

THE NEWS LEADER of Richmond, Va., takes up its editorial typewriter and comes clicking valiantly to the defense of one Marie Feodorovna, former dowager empress of Russia and mother of Nicholas. The former queen is now eating eggs and butter in Denmark, and some of the Danish workers find her presence everything but conducive to their mental equanimity. They would prefer to have her in Mount Vesuvius, but Premier Stauning, who fortunately for the old queen, happens to be a good socialist took the old dowager to his bosom, figuratively of course, and gave her the keys to the country.

* * *

THE Richmond editor admired old Marie for many good qualities but what he seemed to prize her most for was her habit of undressing before going to bed, while in the Crimea, dodging the Red Army. If this is true, the southern gentleman cannot be blamed over much for having a kindly feeling toward her, as cleanliness was not a virtue widely observed by the czarists, and the fact that Feodorovna was a shining example to the contrary may have excited his regard. The Russian workers do not care particularly where

(Continued on Page 6.)

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Workers Party, Local Chicago
THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 8 P. M.
IMPERIAL HALL
2409 N. Halsted Street.

AGENDA:

1. Review of Election Campaign and Future Tasks of the Party.
2. Shop Nuclei.

All branch meetings called off for that night. All party and league members be there on time, 8 p. m. sharp.

WORKER FIRED FOR READING 'YOUNG WORKER'

Sears-Roebuck Toilers Warned by Bosses

Drastic action by the mail order bosses at Sears-Roebuck's and Philipsborn's failed to prevent the young workers in these plants from reading the articles on conditions in the mail order houses printed in the special mail order house edition of the Young Worker.

Saturday a young worker at Sears-Roebuck's was laid off for bringing a copy of the Young Worker to his department.

Not only did the Sears-Roebuck bosses go so far as to fire a young worker for reading the paper, but all the department heads told the young workers in their departments that they could not read the Young Worker.

Defeat Organized Opposition.

That these attempts of the bosses fail is mainly due to the fact that the Young Workers League members are so well organized for the sale of the Young Worker at Sears-Roebuck and Philipsborn.

The proof of this is the fact that the Young Workers League has already succeeded in selling 4,000 copies of the special mail order house edition at Sears-Roebuck and Montgomery Ward, despite the organized opposition of the bosses since the first day's sales.

At Philpsborn the bosses were waiting at the doors the first morning after the the Young Worker had been on sale, speaking to the young workers as they came in and watching them carefully. In some of the departments the foremen scared the young girls to such an extent that when approached by a member of the league they were even afraid to talk about the Young Worker.

Wants to See His Picture.

One boss at Sears-Roebuck, when he read the leaflet advertising the fact that the Young Worker would be on sale the next day, gave one of the young workers two hours off to go and get him a copy in advance. He said: "I bet they'll have my picture in it."

At both Sears-Roebuck and Philipsborn, the officers of the company held meetings the first morning after the sale and plans for getting together to prevent sales of the Young Worker at both plants were considered, but were turned down because the bosses were afraid that any attempt to stop the large number of well organized league members from selling the paper outside the plant would raise such a rumpus that it would have a bad effect upon the employes.

Keep Up the Work.

Despite the fact that everybody is being watched very carefully, the Young Workers League members inside of the plants continue to carry on their activities and are in a good position to establish strong functioning nuclei in both these mail order houses. It is significant that despite the activities of the mail order houses the first day after the sale of the Young Worker, an even larger number were sold the second night.

The Young Workers League will continue to sell the Young Worker at Philipsborn and Sears-Roebuck despite the opposition of the bosses.

Membership Gets Report.

The meeting hall was well packed with members of the Young Workers League, at its last membership meeting, Nov. 14, at which Comrade Oliver

(Continued on page 6)

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. The first comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK Constitution Day

Monday, Nov. 17.—"The Constitution—the Bulwark of Democracy and Happiness."

1. Life, liberty, justice, security and opportunity.
2. How our constitution guarantees these rights.
3. Revolutionists, Communists and extreme pacifists are a menace to these guarantees.
4. One Constitution, one Union, one Flag, one History.

SLOGANS.

Ballots, not bullets.
Master the English language.
Visit the schools today.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS Constitution Day

Monday, Nov. 17.—"The U. C. Constitution—the Bulwark of Capitalist Rule and Working Class Misery."

1. Constitutions merely ratify in a formal way the power enjoyed by the ruling class.
2. The U. S. Constitution was made by the capitalists to insure their control of the wealth of the nation and to insure their domination over the working masses.
3. The Communist aim to overthrow the rule of the capitalists and to establish such a form of government as will place the powers of state in the hands of the majority of the population, that is, the workers and poor farmers.
4. A Workers' and Farmers' Government, international solidarity of the oppressed of all nations, the working class against the capitalist class.

SLOGANS.

The workers must have their own party.
The Workers (Communist) Party is the party of the workers.
The Young Workers (Communist) League is the revolutionary organization of the working class youth.
Join the Workers Party!
Join the Young Workers League!

Labor Heads Meet Today at El Paso

PATCH UP TRUCE AT CONVENTION OF THE A. F. OF L.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 16.—That some pre-convention private meeting of the opposing factions within the American Federation of Labor, which went in different directions during the elections, has taken place and a truce been patched up between the republicans, Lewis and Hutcheson, the democrat, Major Berry, and Gompers, the "endorser" of LaFollette, is indicated by the statement made public that a declaration of the executive council in one of the early sessions will recommend "strict adherence to the policy of non-partisan political activity."

Fight Over Soviet Russia.

While the meeting is controlled by the reactionary labor fakers, a large bloc is reported to be determined to

(Continued on Page 2.)

DIPLOMATIC DOVE-COTE OF WORLD'S IMPERIALISTS IN SWITZERLAND IS TORN BY IMPERIALIST RIVALRIES

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GENEVA, Switzerland, Nov. 16.—The attempt by British imperialists to cover their quarrel with Japan over control of China with a highly moral cloak of opposition to the opium trade, just as American imperialism is attempting to cover its rivalry in China with Japanese imperialism with a mantle of righteousness concerning immigration laws, has thrown the diplomatic dove-cote of the league of nations into an angry flutter and nearly ended in a free-for-all fight between the "peacemakers."

An Englishman named Campbell, acting as delegate from India, has previously introduced a resolution condemning China for loose handling of the opium trade. As everyone knew that this resolution, if passed, would give England a very respectable reason for armed intervention in China really to rescue British commercial and industrial interests from the at present victorious control of Japan in China, the Japanese delegate, Sugimura, amended the resolution by a motion that all nations should declare thru this resolution that there must be no intervention in China.

English Hypocrisy Exposed.

After a hot exchange of hostilities between British and Japanese delegates, the conference decided that it could not take any action at all.

(Continued on Page 2.)

Johnstone at El Paso for the Daily Worker

THE DAILY WORKER announces that its own special correspondent, J. W. Johnstone, is at the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opening today at El Paso, Texas, and will give the readers of the DAILY WORKER the story of the convention day by day in special dispatches.

Comrade Johnstone is a writer of brevity and power, and possesses a wide knowledge of the persons and policies of the labor movement, having extensive personal experience on an international scale. He is best known as the Secretary of the Stockyards Labor Council in Chicago. He was delegate from America to the Second World Congress of the Red International of Labor Unions and is now the Assistant Secretary of the Trade Union Educational League.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER may look forward to the articles of Comrade Johnstone as a faithful portrayal of the events and their significance now occurring at the A. F. of L. convention.

CHICAGO LABOR PROTESTS PLOT OF MILITARISTS

Under the Camouflage of Education Week

The Chicago Federation of Labor went on record yesterday as being opposed to the so-called Education Week hatched by the American Legion under the direction of the capitalists and their government.

This action was taken on the point of adjournment, despite efforts of John Fitzpatrick to leave action in the matter at the discretion of the schools committe of the Federation.

M. Halushka, of the Men Teachers' Federation, moved that the schools committee be instructed to protest against Education Week as an anti-labor and militarist scheme. Surprise was expressed that the schools committee had not taken any action on the question.

Tried to Dodge Action.

Fitzpatrick would leave the matter in the hands of the committee, but Halushka insisted on his motion being put, it having been seconded by Arne Swabeck, delegate from the Painters. The motion carried unanimously.

The employes at Gold's restaurant are on strike, it was announced and an injunction prohibiting the picketing of

(Continued on Page 2.)

WORKERS PARTY MOBILIZES ALL ITS STRENGTH TO EXPOSE FRAUD OF 'AMERICAN EDUCATION WEEK'

By KARL REEVE

The Workers Party has enlisted its entire organization to fight the anti-workingclass propaganda being fed to the public school children this week.

The Communists are condemning "American Education Week" as an obvious attempt of the employers to crush labor.

Encouraged by the election of their candidates—Coolidge and Dawes—the open shoppers, large employers and Wall Street bankers are everywhere reducing wages, lengthening hours and trying to break up unions. Coolidge has given the American Legion militarists and the open shoppers a free hand during "Education Week" to pollute the public schools with lies about the profit system.

Fight this New Attack.

All sections of the Workers Party are mobilized to fight this newest attack on the American working class. The junior sections of the Young Workers League have enlisted all their members in the effort to expose "education week" as a fight on the Communists, champions of the working class. The Workers Party and the Young Workers League has issued a statement showing the control of the public schools by the capitalists.

The program of the Workers Party calls for a fight to a finish on the enemies of labor who are this week using the schools to tighten their grip on the workers.

Leaflets Are Distributed.

Thousands of leaflets bearing the headline, "Soviets vs. the American Constitution," have been distributed thruout the country by the Workers Party and the Young Workers League. These leaflets, approved by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, declare;

"President Coolidge, by proclamation, has set aside the week from Nov. 17 to 23 as American Education Week. The purpose of Coolidge's anti-red week is to implant in the minds of the children of the nation the lie that the American constitution insures: 'life, liberty, justice, security and opportunity,' and that 'revolutionists, Communists, and extreme pacifists are a menace to these guarantees.'

"The Communists accept Coolidge's challenge. They declare that the American constitution is a document written to protect the interests of the propertied classes as a weapon against the working class. They declare that Coolidge's open, brazen use of the public schools to carry on propaganda in the interest of the capitalists is the best evidence of the character of the government of the United States. That it is a capitalist dictatorship which exists to protect and maintain the right of the capitalists to make enormous profits out of the labor of the workers and farmers of the United States."

Juniors Hold Mass Meetings.

The program of action of the junior section of the Young Workers League to fight the anti-red propaganda, includes mass meetings of juniors introducing "education week" and instructing the juniors in regard to carrying the Communist program to the school children during this week.

Bulletins are to be posted at all schools advertising the junior group program and exposing "education week." Leaflets are to be distributed announcing mass meetings of school children Tuesday night. These mass meetings will be held in various parts of the city to accomodate the different school zones.

Junior group members are to make speeches at the meetings on the "Junior Groups," telling why they were organized and why the juniors are fighting against "education week," and why all school children should join in this fight. The Young Comrade will be sold by all junior group sections.

Junior Speakers' Class.

The Junior Speakers' Class with Pete Herd as instructor, meets every Wednesday evening at 7 p. m., at 1111 N. LaSalle street.

BROOKLYN MEETING TUESDAY NIGHT IN ANTI-RED WEEK WAR

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 16.—Benjamin Gitlow will be the principal speaker at a mass meeting to be held Tuesday night in Brooklyn to protest against the use of the schools this week to fight labor. H. Zam, Rebecca Grecht, K. Rudmin and Lily Lore will also speak at this protest meeting. The Young Workers League is holding mass meetings in Philadelphia, Baltimore and many other cities thruout the country.

* *

Agitation in Chicago.

The junior section of the Young Workers League in Chicago has prepared its own outline to counteract the program of the bureau of education. The outline of the junior section for today, Constitution Day, appears in another column.

The junior section will continually hammer on the demand that the teachers and educators must control education rather than the manufacturers. They will demand workers' control of industry, and teach their groups the truth about the profit system and the Communists during "Education Week."

ENGLISH-FRENCH CLASH WITH U. S. ABOUT GERMANY

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Nov. 16.—The first vital clash over the control of Germany has broken out between the English and French on one side and the representative of J. P. Morgan's American imperialism, Seymour Parker Gilbert, on the other.

This reveals as true the Communist analysis that the Dawes plan is fundamentally conceived to give Morgan complete domination over Europe, and will fail to bring peace or reconstruction because of the violent conflicts engendered between the signatory nations, even while they are protesting their faith in it and asserting complete harmony.

High-Jacking a Nation.

Prior to the adoption of the Dawes' plan, the British, French, Belgians and others, passed in common a series of "recovery acts" loading upon Germany the duty of collecting 26 per cent of the purchase price of all imports into Germany and turning it over to the nations claiming reparations.

The principle of this control of Germany by the European allies is now attacked by Morgan's dictator, S. Parker Gilbert, who, in a letter to the German finance minister, notified that official that beginning in December he

(Continued on Page 2.)

"EDUCATION WEEK" MASS MEETING, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Tuesday Night, Nov. 18, Workers Hall, 1319 Grand St. (near Havemeyer)

Speakers: BENJAMIN GITLOW, H. ZAM, REBECCA GRECHT, K. RUDMIN — LILY LORE, Chairman

FASCIST ENVOY TO WASHINGTON IS WITHDRAWN

Bitter Labor Hater Is Slated to Succeed Him

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Prince Gelasio Gaetani, whom the Mussolini government sent here two years ago to conduct Fascist work in the United States, paid his respects to Calvin Coolidge today preparatory to "retiring" from his office.

It is well understood that Gaetani is being recalled from the country by the Mussolini government for his failure to co-operate with the republican administration in taking violent measures against the work of Italian Communists in America. With the election of Dawes and his "minute men," the Fascist government has felt called upon to make a reappointment in order to keep step with its friends in America.

Was Willing Enough.

That Gaetani has proved himself "tame" in his anti-labor activities has been due to no lack of desire on his part, but rather to his cowardliness. The prince's decorations for "bravery" during the war are a standing joke in army circles. During all the years of the war, he never approached the front, but directed bombing operations from comfortable quarters several miles behind the lines.

Anti-Labor Ambassador.

Gaetani's successor has not been shosen, but the spirits of Agostino De Biasi, editor of the monthly Fascist organ of New York, are said to have been soaring ever since the announcement of a change in ambassadors was made. De Biasi has been one of the bitterest opponents of working class activity in the country. His writings have been directed, particularly, against the Italian Federation of the Workers Party, because of its signal triumphs during the past year.

An article in a recent number of the Carroccio, entitled, "Fascist Harakiri," De Biasi bewailed the ability of the Italian workers here to establish a daily newspaper, Il Lavoratore, which he spoke of as a portent that the beginning of the end was drawing near for Mussolini if he did not place more "responsible" persons in office.

DIPLOMATIC DOVE COTE DISTURBED

(Continued from page 1)

Saturday the quarrel again broke out, China charged that if the great powers wanted to reduce opium smoking in the Far East they could do it without continually insulting China.

Great Britain, it was claimed, had made no move to suppress the opium trade in any of her colonies. India is encouraged to grow and export as well as use opium. In Hongkong the English government actually makes opium itself and sells it. In Sandakan, Malaysia, the opium parlors are numerous and apparently encouraged to make the Malays contented with their lot. In Egypt the peddlers of cocaine hawk it on the streets and at it used openly and without hindrance from English authority.

Japan Defends China's Stand

English corporations are making millions in the traffic. The English government gets part of its funds from the taxes laid upon it. Japan took up the defense of China and insisted that countries which export opium should recognize the import certificates issued by other nations.

Sir Malcolm Delevingne, speaking for England, revealed that there had been some secert negotiations concerning the export and transshipment of opium going on between Japan and England, and he said he is astonished that Japan should raise the question here, implying that the conference was merely talking to hoodwink the peoples of the world, while the real agreement was expected to go on secretly.

The Japanese delegate replied that Japan had broken off the negotiations, preferring to bring matters to a head openly in the league conference. So much excitement ensued that it looked as if the meeting would break up in a row. Sir Malcolm got nasty and began to talk about "a certain country," where big officials were arrested for complicity in an opium scandal.

Sugimura jumped up and declared that he knew what country was meant by the innuendo, but that the guilty officials have been properly punished, whereas he knew of many cases and could produce evidence of crimes committed by officials of other governments in the opium trade, but that it was rotten politics and he wouldn't do it. Campbell, the "Indian" delegate, spoke up for England and said that Japan had "made a threat." The conference broke up without any decision.

• • •

TIENTSIN, China.—American and British interests are doing all in their power to stimulate a break between the captor of Peking, Feng Yuhsiang, and Chang Tso-lin, now arriving here for the conference which is supposed to settle the future lineup of China.

Strong indications that Sun Yat Sen will be agreed upon by both Fang and Chang as the president of China, disturb the British-American interests and diplomats. These are trying to persuade Feng to oppose Chang and Sun and re-join the defeated Wu Pei Fu who under American and British guidance and aid, is trying to raise his forces in Central China to attack the holders of Peking.

CANNON HAS CLASS ON COMMUNIST HISTORY ON TUESDAY EVENINGS

Do you know where the present Workers Party came from? The long struggle of a handful of militants in the labor movement to establish a political party in America? The development of this party thru a dozen different periods during the years before and after the war?

Do you know the reasons for the decline of the socialist party? How the Communists met, worked, talked, spread their propaganda while they were driven "underground"? How they finally came out into the open?

These are the things discussed by party members every Tuesday night in the class conducted by James P. Cannon, member of the Central Executive Committee of the party. Altho the last session was an important and very informative one, there is still time to join. Come to 1902 W. Division street this Tuesday, promptly at 8 o'clock.

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION STARTS TODAY

All to Stick for Old Non-Partisan Policy

(Continued from Page 1.)

put the recognition of Soviet Russia to roll call vote.

It is conjectured that if the American state department has changed its mind and considers recognition, that the labor fakers who take their foreign policy from the government have been tipped off to justify such a course. American business is determined that all advantage shall not be lost to England and France.

Building Trades Quarrel.

In the Building Trades department convention, held prior to the A. F. of L. convention, the motion was passed demanding that the A. F. of L. revoke the charter of the Carpenters and Joiners.

Secretary W. J. Spencer, in his report said: "Unfortunately, the Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, thru the inactivity of the A. F. of L., is permitted to ignore constitutional law and procedure by refusing to reaffiliate with the Building Trades department.

"The dissent of the organization strikes the only discordant note. Because of its lack of affiliation, jurisdiction of sister organizations is invaded, needless and unwarranted strikes called, co-operation and unity stifled, and, worst of all, new life and force given to the deadly injunction process. This too, after the expenditure of on combined efforts and treasure to eliminate it as a means of subduing the activities of organized labor."

Jurisdiction and Union Scabs.

The Journeymen Stone Cutters are at war with the Granite Cutters over the ruling of the national boards of jurisdictional awards that the dressing, altering and finishing of artificial stone, is the work of the stone cutters, except when the hardness of texture of such artificial stone requires the use of granite cutter's tools for proper dressing, altering and finishing. Then only is it the work of granite cutters. M. W. Mitchell of the Stone Cutters charged that President Sam Squibb of the Granite Cutters had put 32 union granite cutters to scab in New Haven, on a struck job.

The Building Trades department gave its decision to the Stone Cutters and novice was given that suspension of the Granite Cutters will follow trespass of the decision of the board of guards. No mention was made of the union scabbery in the decision.

Some Fine Mess.

The conflict between the department and the state building trades department of California is crippling the fight in that state against the open shop. The state department is issuing charters to city Trades Councils, contrary to and in competition with the national Building Trades department.

A fund of $100 was asked to help defray legal expenses in the open shop fight going on in California. Bowen of the bricklayers spoke up and said that "We should first find out if the state department is with us. If we help them now we might be giving them ammunition to fight us with."

Lewis Goes to El Paso.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 16.—That John L. Lewis is going to the American Federation of Labor to swing the big stick over Gompers is freely prophesied here despite the denials given at the U. M. W. of A. headquarters.

A Delegate Goes Forth to War.

At the miners' union offices the disclaimer is made that Lewis is going to El Paso as a contender for the presidency of the A. F. of L. against Samuel Gompers. "Lewis is going strictly as a delegate and not as a candidate for president of the organization," say the men in headquarters.

It is not so certain, however, that Lewis is going to stop his opposition to Gompers. In fact, reports are current that Lewis, even tho he does not run for the presidency of the A. F. of L. himself—in expectation that he will soon be appointed secretary of labor by Coolidge, whom he supported in the campaign—he will, none the less, fight Gompers and try to install a man of his own group in the chair of Gompers, perhaps William Green now on the executive council of the A. F. of L. as its third vice-president.

John L. Plays Indian.

At the headquarters of the U. M. W of A. here, it was admitted with some cautious smiles, that while they knew nothing of Lewis having any intention of opposing the re-election of Gompers, there had been "some agitation among certain labor groups" to favor Lewis as Sammy's successor.

But it all simmers down to the fact that Lewis, as a supporter of Coolidge, has his nife out for Gompers' scalp, whether he will hand the trophy over to another or not. The only thing that may prevent the conflict is a surrender by Gompers upon a compromise to keep the appearance of peace.

ENGLISH-FRENCH CLASH WITH U. S. ABOUT GERMANY

Reveals Analysis of the Communists As Correct

(Continued from page 1)

will take over the administration of all moneys involved in the British, French, Belgian and other "recovery acts." In effect this letter of the "agent general" dictator is an opening shot in the attack by Morgan upon the principle of England and France following their own policies without submitting themselves to the leadership of Wall Street imperialism.

Morgan's Man Starts Offensive.

Therefore, Gilbert's letter questions the fidelity of Britain, France and other nations passing laws in their own countries placing their own taxes on German exports as well as imports, and collecting their own reparations in that or in similar ways. This is the first battle between Morgan's agent and the old guard politicians of Europe and it is meeting a hot counter-offensive at Paris and London.

The negotiations between France and Germany over trade agreements were recently broken off by Herriot's agent insisting that the French have a perfect right to collect reparations themselves thru this 26 per cent tax, the German agent holding out that it should be turned over to the Dawes' plan dictator. The French hold that this 26 per cent tax is their own affair, having nothing to do with the Dawes' plan, and a protest against Gilbert's interpretation in his letter to the German finance minister, is being drawn up in Paris for dispatch to Gilbert.

Gets Allies All Balled Up.

At the same time the English foreign office announced that it "discredited reports" from Berlin that Gilbert had ruled against recovery acts. England maintains that the Dawes' plan provides for the British recovery act. With France insisting that the two are separate and have nothing to do with each other, and the British affirming that their particular act is "provided for" in the Dawes' plan, the diplomacy of J. P. Morgan has the leading nations of Europe contradicting each other and in a turmoil.

Chicago Labor Protests Plot of Militarists

(Continued from Page 1.)

the restaurant will be held today in Judge Foell's court.

When a delegate tried to adjourn the meeting without allowing action to be taken against Education Week, Lillian Herstein arose and said she is chairman of the school committee and had not been notified about the action of the last Federation meeting.

Miss Herstein pointed out that unless action was taken at once it would be too late. "I am away stumping for LaFollette and did not know that the letter asking us to co-operate with Education Week was referred to the schools committee." Miss Herstein agreed with Halushka that Education Week is a cheap American Legion propaganda.

The action of the convention is a repudiation of Samuel Gompers's policy toward the Legion and the public schools. Gompers has been writing articles in the American Federationist boosting Education Week.

Chicago Juniors Will Tell the Truth About Reds All This Week

A mass meeting of the junior sections of the Young Workers League of Chicago was held yesterday afternoon at Imperial Hall to definitely organize the activities of the junior groups in the schools during Education Week.

The meeting was attended by over 250 school children between the ages of 9 and 14, and a splendid spirit was displayed by the enthusiastic young sters in preparing to spread the truth about the "Reds."

The activities decided upon were the holding of mass meetings for school children ouside the junior groups all during this week. They will distribute posters for display thruout the city and they will distribute leaflets to the children. Street meetings in front of the schools will be held at recess time and be addressed by the children themselves.

Each of the junior grups will meet every night to formulate the activities for the next day. These will be reported every day in the DAILY WORKER.

Industrial Class by John Williamson Concludes Session

The concluding session of the Industrial Class, which has been concluded by the Young Workers' League under the supervision of Comrade John Williamson, will be held this evening at 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

This class has lasted over a period of two months and took up all the various phases of shop nuclei work. It has dealt with the old territorial form of organization at the beginning but has dealt in great detail with the functioning of a nucleus and the work, both internal and external that it must conduct.

Tonight will be a review on the entire course and all members are urged to attend the class tonight at 8:15 p. m.

New York Photographers' Meeting.

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—The Trade Union Educational League of New York City has called a mass meeting Monday night for all workers engaged in the photographic trade. It is to be held at Bryant Hall, 723 Sixth avenue, between 41st and 42nd streets at 8 p. m. All photographers of all branches are invited.

MAYOR PRAISES MC ANDREW'S SCHOOL POLICIES

Next President of School Board Must Support Him

The Chicago Teachers' Federation was given a slap in the face yesterday by Mayor Dever, who deliberately issued a statement praising Superintendent McAndrew's work on the school board immediately after the blow McAndrew hit at the federation by abolishing teachers' councils.

President Must Support McAndrew

Mayor Dever, whose duty it is to appoint a new president on the school board when Moderwell leaves Feb. 1, said he will take particular pains to secure someone whose work will be in line with the policies of Supt. McAndrew. He then proceeded to inform us that it was Moderwell whom he had to thank for securing McAndrew on the school board and it was due to Moderwell's influence that the board backed up McAndrew's recommendations.

Dever and McAndrew in Same Caucus

The teachers' councils, which the federation has won only after a bitter struggle, was wiped out with one stroke of McAndrew's pen which war backed by big business and their lackeys.

Perhaps this will teach the Chicago Teachers' Federation that it is a tremendous waste of their valuable time to bother with Mayor Dever or for that matter anyone whose interests are on the other side of the fight. Mayor Dever admits he belongs to McAndrew's caucus.

Keep Councils in Their Hearts.

At the last meeting of the Teachers' Federation, Margaret Haley told the teachers that even if they lost the councils they could still keep them in their hearts. When the next attack on the teachers comes and salaries are reduced, perhaps they can console themselves then too by keeping their salaries in their hearts.

One of the teachers told the DAILY WORKER the McAndrew regularly makes his rounds in the class rooms to drop little notes on the desk of the teachers who have been marked for dismissal for showing too much spunk. These notes inform the teacher that it would be advisable for her to take a permanent leave of absence.

The Teachers' Federation will hold a mass meeting of protest soon. The date has not yet been set. A committee was appointed to invite Mayor Dever to attend this meeting.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

A. F. of L. Convention at El Paso to Aid Drift Into Communist Ranks in U.S.

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, another annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opens its sessions; this time at El Paso, Texas.

The closing days of last week saw the gatherings of the various A. F. of L. departments, with the usual jurisdictional disputes occupying the center of attention. Open war was sought against the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners in what is an age-old dispute.

• • •

It is very evident, on the eve of the convention's opening, that the only flicker of life in the gathering will manifest itself in the discussion of the recent elections. But it is also quite evident that the overwhelming decision will be against the organization of a so-called "third party."

There is little doubt that this will be Compers' method of retreat, in order to gag the opposition that might come from John L. Lewis, the president of the United Mine Workers of America, who was so enthusiastic in his support of the "Strikebreaker" Coolidge, and may get a job as Secretary of Labor as a result, and "Major" George L. Berry, the president of the International Printing Pressmen's Union, who was equally energetic on behalf of the presidential candidacy of Morgan's lawyer, John Wallstreet Davis, on the democratic ticket.

• • • •

Gompers has already claimed that the LaFollette showing was a great victory. Not as big as he had hoped, but he was "not disappointed by the result."

The most detailed statement issued by Gompers on the results of the last election was given out in Chicago on his way to El Paso. He did not denounce the democratic party; nor did he urge a "third party."

To be sure he criticized the Madison Square Garden convention of the democratic party, charging that the platform adopted was "threadbare, impotent, and failed to grasp the industrial, political and sociological situation with any material difference from the republican platform." But he did not attack the donkey party.

• • • •

Gompers evidently has in mind that there will be other national conventions of the democratic party. The Gompers' eye to the future was at work in the New York switch from LaFollette to Tammany Hall's candidates, Davis and "Al" Smith. The best evidence that Gompers had his finger in the New York jump from LaFollette to Davis, is found in the claim of Tammany Hall's labor clique that they were advised by Washington (headquarters of the A. F. of L.) to proceed as the local situation warrants.

• • • •

Gompers will hail the LaFollette vote as a victory for his policy of working thru the old parties. He will cry against the organization of any "third party" because of the growing reaction. He will no doubt cite the ousting of British labor rule as a warning to go slow. In the face of a crisis the first word, in this as in all other A. F. of L. conventions, is "caution." This word is worshipped to such an extent that it results in complete inaction. When Compers raises the "Go Slow!" sign at El Paso, it will mean a "Stop!" to all efforts so far as the A. F. of L. officialdom is concerned in the efforts to organize any third party movement.

• • • •

There are no indications that LaFollette will have any message for the A. F. of L. convention. No mention has been made of any invitation to LaFollette to come to El Paso and address the delegates of the organization that endorsed him, thru its executive council, for president. In fact, the tendency seems to be to keep LaFollette completely out of the picture.

LaFollette is spending the time on his farm in Wisconsin. No word, or indication of any kind, comes from the Wisconsin senator, that he is pushing any plans for a "third party." LaFollette says nothing in reply to the managers of the Coolidge "steam roller" that they are going to run LaFollette and all his followers out of the republican party. They claim the beginning is to be made by depriving these self-styled "progressives" of all the "party favors" they have enjoyed by remaining within the republican fold.

It is urged that if the LaFollette elements have any intentions of building a "third party," their first move would be to reject such favored places they have enjoyed under the republican regime, first of Harding and now of Coolidge.

Thru the many years he has been in the U. S. senate, LaFollette has risen to powerful committee positions. He is chairman of the committee on manufactures, and ranks high on the finance and interstate commerce committees. But this is only as a republican; as a member of the party of "Strikebreaker" Coolidge. And up to the present time LaFollette has shown no indication that he intends relinquishing any of these positions, by severing his connections with the republican party in favor of the building an opposition middle class party. The same holds true for all his followers in congress, members of both the senate and the house of representatives.

• • • •

Thus the isolated position of the four millions who voted for LaFollette reveals itself more and more, from day to day. Compers, in the organized labor movement, makes no move against these millions dropping back into the two old parties. In fact he favors it. LaFollette issues no call to hold these millions together, even in a middle class "third party."

The alliance of the labor bureaucracy with the political spokesmen of little business has resulted in another betrayal of workers and poor farmers, deluded by the slogan, "Get something now."

With the opening of the A. F. of L. convention, it is well for the workers and poor farmers to watch Compers, at El Paso, and LaFollette, in Wisconsin. They will learn that no forward move can come from either of these. They will wage no effective fight against the capitalists.

The workers and poor farmers must realize that on every political as well as industrial issue the call for the class fight against capitalism comes from the Communists; that there is no short cut to the social revolution; that the victory of the oppressed will only come thru the complete abolition of capitalism. The developments at El Paso must enhance the prestige of the Workers (Communist) Party in the eyes of the workers and farmers, since it will further dispel the illusion that blinded them in the recent national elections; that caused them to follow—to the number of four millions—in the wake of Compers and LaFollette. Only the Communist program points the way to the successful struggle against capitalism in the present, as in all crises under capitalism.

JUNIORS HAVE OWN STAND FOR ANTI-RED WEEK

Present Communist Program in Schools

Today the junior group leaders of the Young Workers League will teach their classes the following program of the Workers Party for "Education Week."

The children will present these programs to the teachers when called on to discuss "education" in the schools this week.

The junior group section will present the Communist program in the public schools and will demand that this program take the place of the Coolidge anti-red program prepared by the American Legion.

CONSTITUTION DAY.

Monday, November 17—The U. S. Constitution; The Bulwark of Capitalist Rule and Working Class Misery.

(The constitution is a document written by the rising capitalist class who wished to enslave the American workers so as to increase their own wealth, instead of that of the king of England.)

1. Life, liberty, justice, security, and opportunity, are for children of the capitalists.

a. Thousands of children labor in the factories of this country. The Research Children's Bureau pamphlet, issued by U. S. Department of Labor states that over 1000 children, from 6 to 10 years old work in Michigan beet fields from nine to fourteen, and more, hours per day. Over 2,000 children, 10 to 14, work in Pennsylvania mines.

b. Liberty of workers consists of keeping their mouths shut or going to jail. 3,500 Communists were jailed in 1920 for having ideals about working class freedom.

c. Justice consists of sending innocent workers to the gallows on framed up charges for crimes which they never committed. (Effort to hang Tom Mooney, Sacco-Vanzetti.)

d. There is no security so far as jobs for workers are concerned. (Present unemployment, 2½ million workers out of work.)

e. Opportunity to search streets for work. Opportunity of giving lives in a war so that the capitalist may make still more profits than they made before.

2. Constitution guarantees these rights, but the capitalists do away with them in practice.

a. Freedom of speech is continually being violated. Communists are being arrested for speaking about their ideals.

b. Freedom of the press is allowed only for papers owned by the capitalists. (During the war papers giving the viewpoint of the workers were suppressed.)

c. Freedom of assemblage is also ignored by the bosses. In the Paterson silk strike, at present going on, peaceful meetings of the strikers and their sympathizers are not permitted within city limits.

3. Revolutionists—Communists aim to overthrow the rule of the bosses, in order to establish a government controlled by the workers and poor farmers.

a. Workers and farmers produce all the wealth.

b. Workers and farmers should control distribution, etc., of such wealth.

4. A workers' and farmers' government, one international union of the workers of all nations, one flag for the workers of all nations.

Slogans: NO BULLETS AGAINST STRIKING WORKMEN!

NO BULLETS AGAINST OPPRESSED PEOPLES OF AMERICA'S COLONIES! (Cuba, Haiti, Philippines.)

Brownsville to See 'Beauty and Bolshevik' At the Labor Lyceum

Nov. 21 and 22 at the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, Brooklyn, N. Y., "The Beauty and the Bolshevik," the well-known Russian film will be shown for the first time in this section. In addition to this film, the 3-reel picture, "Russia in Overalls" a graphic picturization of Russia industrial development will also be shown. A special musical program has been arranged for. Admission will be 35c.

"From Death to Life" Will Be Shown in Toledo on Nov. 18

TOLEDO, Ohio, Nov. 16.—The picture, "From Death to Life" will make its first appearance in Toledo, at the Orient Theater, Bancroft and Franklin, November 18, from 7 to 9, and from 9 to 11 P. M. This picture has been shown in different cities of the United States and has been a great success. The picture is given by the Jewish Workers' Relief Committee of Toledo. E. Katlen, General Secretary, 2306 Vermont Ave.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

MEXICAN PEONS HOLDING POWER WITH RIFLE AID

Every Display of Power Gets More Crumbs

By SCOTT NEARING.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 16.—The loaded rifle keeps the Mexican rulers from monkeying with the scanty liberties of the peasant.

"This realistic view of the basis of freedom was given to me by an agrarian agitator who is working thru central Mexico, encouraging the land workers to resist the big landowners, the catholic church and the encroaching government.

Watching Calles.

"There will be no revolution this year in Mexico," my informant insisted, "unless President Calles goes back on his agrarian program. The land workers are more numerous than all other workers combined, and they can bring sufficient pressure to bear on any government to cause its defeat. How will they bring pressure to bear? Thru their rifles.

"At the beginning, under Diaz, not only was the land concentrated in the hands of a few big landlords, but the peons were kept in debt and ignorance and were little better than slaves. Church and state united to crush and curse them.

"The revolution changed all that. Under Diaz, only the army had guns. Now the peasants have them, and they know how to use them as well as the army does."

"Do you mean," I asked, "that the liberty of the Mexican peasant depends on the possession of a rifle?"

Win More Crumbs.

"Just that," answered the agitator. "It is their only defense. Those who live in power in Mexico City know very well that if they desert the cause of the peasants, there will be another uprising, and for my part, I welcome it. Every time the peasants have really showed their power, the government has thrown them a few more crumbs. So we are telling them to keep all they have, and bide their time till they can get more.

"There are two classes of peasants. First, the serfs from the great estates. When we say to them: Take the land, they point in the direction of the church and reply: 'Me no dare! Me no like be thief!'

"But the second class is very different: the Indians who were never merged in the great estates, but who retained a part or all of their tribal lands until very recent times. The church and state have never made any great impression on them, and where they took possession of the land in these last 10 years, they have improved it and will fight to retain it."

I asked about the power of the political leaders and of the army.

"Both are greatly weakened. The last revolution showed how little the army can be depended upon. And the only thing that saved the government in that revolution was the workers and peasants."

Our talk drifted to Russia. And I asked whether the Mexican people had been terrified by the name Soviet.

Know Struggle for Bread

My friend said: "Only the few who read. The masses are illiterate. They live their simple, semi-communist village life and know nothing of the affairs of the great world. But one thing they do know—the village commune and the village struggle for bread and peace. Do you realize that today, in Mexico, the land worker receives from 20 to 40 centavos per day, with an average of about 30 centavos? (2 centavos, 1c). As he learns to want more things, he will be forced to take the land and work it in co-operative village groups. That is what we are trying to teach them: get the land and work it in common."

"Do you receive a welcome from the peasants?"

Peasants Wretchedly Poor.

"For the most part I do. I am not a member of any organization, and I go from village to village, supporting myself as best I can. Most of the villagers are wretchedly poor, but they are glad to give me a bed, a meal and directions for reaching those who are sympathetic in the next village."

"Does the government approve of the work you are doing?"

"Approve?" he exclaimed, "If I am caught, I will be sent to jail or shot in the village square. No, even the I. W. W. in your country are treated better than we are here by the authorities."

So I withhold his name, and simply record his opinions.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

New York Readers, Attention!

WANTED—
FURNISHED ROOM

Couple, no children. Party members desire furnished room and kitchen or use of kitchen. Offers with price to N. Jager, 232 E. 12th St., New York City.

WORKERS THRUOUT RUSSIA DEMAND LIBERATION OF REVOLUTIONISTS HELD IN PRISONS OF CAPITALISM

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW Nov. 16.—Protest meetings have been held thruout the United States of Soviet Russia against the white terror of the bourgeoisie and the hypocrisy of the Second International.

These meetings have been held in answer to a manifesto sent out by the executive committee of the International Red Aid. Every meeting of International Red Aid members demand the liberation of the captives of capitalism.

Call Issued by Moscow I. R. A.

The Moscow organization of the I. R. A. at a tremendous protest meeting issued a call to the executive committee to send the following proposal to the leaders of the Second International:

"The I. R. A. is willing to petition our workers' and peasants' government of Soviets to exchange revolutionaries incarcerated in prisons of western Europe and other countries for the counter-revolutionaries—white guards, social revolutionaries and mensheviks kept under supervision in the U. S. S. R. for anti-Soviet activities.

"We urge the workers and peasants of the world to unite to set free those who are imprisoned by capitalists.

"DOWN WITH WHITE TERROR! WE DEMAND THE LIBERATION OF ALL CAPTIVES OF CAPITALISM!

"WORKERS OF THE WORLD, UNITE!"

Newspapers Employ Most Printers, Says Report of I. T. U.

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 16.—The International Typographical Union, according to figures brought down to October, 1924, by Vice President W. R. Trotter, has 67,036 members and 727 local unions. Of these 28,728 are employed on newspapers, 26,209 in job and commercial plants and 658 in combination news and job plants. Pensioners, sick, unemployed and those not working at the trade account for 9,519, those with traveling cards for 1,100. The 822 remaining belong to 47 unions that failed to make detailed reports, including the German-American local in Indianapolis, the headquarters of the international.

Of the 13,626 reported as night workers, 11,537 are employed by newspapers. The full 48-hour week is worked on newspapers by 12,873 union members, or 45 per cent; 8,266 work 48 hours and the rest work from 45 hours up to 47½ hours; 722 work less than 42 hours.

The highest newspaper day scale reported is $65 for a 36-hour week enjoyed by New York Hebrew Union No. 83. The highest English-language newspaper day scale is $58.05 for a 45-hour week by Chicago Union No. 16, immediately followed by New York No. 6 with $58 for a 45-hour week.

Governor Hartley of Washington Is Not Sympathetic to I. W. W.

EVERETT, Wash., Nov. 16.—The incoming governor of Washington state, Roland H. Hartley, wealthy Everett lumberman, is not expected to give much time to consideration of the amnesty plea for the Centralia lumberjacks serving 25 to 40 years in Walla Walla for the death of American Legion rioters who assaulted the I. W. W. hall Armistice day in 1919.

"I believe in raids on Wobbly halls, if we can't get rid of the Wobblies any other way. They are a menace to civilization," says Gov.-elect Hartley.

Six jurors in the Centralia case have since sworn that they were intimidated into voting conviction for the eight labor men. A seventh has sworn that he and the rest of the jury in recommending leniency expected only a five year sentence (which has now been served) and several key witnesses have gone back on their testimony that procured conviction.

Grand Opera in the Factories.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—The grand opera of Moscow, in order to carry out its aim as an educational organization under a workers' republic, has organized an extensive program of concerts and pageants thruout the regional theaters, and also in workmen's clubs in the larger factories.

'WELFARE' WORK WORKS WELL FOR THE EMPLOYERS

Building Churches Is Strike Antidote

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—Welfare work in a company town is a worthy charitable enterprise that deserves the recognition and encouragement of the federal government, says an opinion rendered by the U. S. Board of Tax Appeals in the case of the Poinsett Mills, a cotton mill concern at Greenville, S. C. Hence the company is granted an allowable deduction of $1,006 from its taxable income because it enlarged the church it owns and runs as part of its company town.

Judges Landson, Littleton, Smith and Graupner give the federal blessing to this particular device for checking labor discontent and unionism, after stating that the company engages in welfare work in its own mill village "for the benefit of its employes and also for the resultant benefit to the corporation."

In its findings the court says: "The president and general manager of the corporation testified that experience had demonstrated that it must make available a place of worship for the employes in order to keep them contented and prevent a large labor turnover." A welfare worker was employed by the company to act in connection with the church, which is part of the plant.

Welfare Work for the Boss

"The general acceptance of welfare work among employes," the court finds, "on the part of manufacturing, mining and lumbering concerns, as a means of reducing labor turnover and eliminating industrial strife, is something of which this board must take judicial notice. We believe that the federal government should be the last to fail to recognize the elements and value of welfare and social work among industrial organizations and that it should do everything to encourage the betterment and contentment of those who labor in industrial communities, such as the mill village of this taxpayer.

"It is our opinion that a contribution made under the conditions presented by the testimony in this particular case is one which may well be considered as 'ordinary and necessary' expense of the particular business of the taxpayer."

To Dodge Taxes.

This decision will permit the Rockefellers, the Pennsylvania railroad, the non-union coal operators in West Virginia and Kentucky, and great numbers of other anti-labor corporations to escape taxation of large amounts of property which they use under the guise of welfare to keep unions out of their plants.

Bandits Do Good Day's Work Then Sprint to Safety

Richmond, Ind., Nov. 16.—Two bandits, one masked, held up and robbed the Union Trust company of Hagerstown, Ind., early today, and escaped. They were last seen fleeing through Losantville, 10 miles south.

Crooks Lack Solidarity.

Springfield, Ill., Nov. 16.—A requisition for the return of Charles Ridenour from El Paso, Texas, to Chicago where he is wanted on a grand larceny charge, was issued by Governor Small today.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

WHITE GUARDS ON CHINA ROAD GET THE CAN

Ivanoff Now Head of Joint Rail Board

(Special to the Daily Worker)

HARBIN, Manchuria, Nov. 16.—The new general manager of the Chinese Eastern railway, A. N. Ivanoff, appointed by the new joint board of directors composed of Chinese and Soviet officials, has arrived here and taken over the offices of the lines.

Mr. Ivanoff informed the assembled staff of higher officials that by order of the directors, Messrs. Ostroumoff, Offenberg, Mikhailoff and Oblosky, the white guard Russians previously in control of the line, were dismissed.

White Guard Bosses Pinched.

In a short speech Mr. Ivanoff pointed out that the arrest of Ostroumoff, Gendatti and Mikhailoff were made by way of exception, and that no representations were to be applied to the personnel.

"As you know, in the Soviet government, there exists the principle of leaving free initiative to all the workers. This principle I will uphold on the railway, giving everyone the chance of using all his abilities. Therefore no one need fear as to his future. However, we certainly cannot allow that there be left such officials on the line as are openly hostile to the Soviet power. These will have to leave the service."

Yankee Banks Hold Sack.

The taking over of the Chinese Eastern railway by joint Soviet and Chinese officials is a blow at American capital and a farcical end of Woodrow Wilson's private war carried on against the Soviets at the expense of untold millions of dollars.

On account of the French loans to the czar, France grabbed all the Russian holdings in the railway as soon as the Bolsheviks seized power in Russia. During the time the Soviet power was unable to consolidate itself in Siberia, France turned over large stock holdings in the line to a firm of large New York bankers who took it for granted that the Soviets would never be powerful enough to assert their right to Russian interests in the line. These bankers now are holding the sack.

Wilson's War Didn't Work.

These barefaced steals were aided by Woodrow Wilson when he sent troops into Siberia to aid the counter-revolution under Kolchak. Troops were moved over the Chinese Eastern railway, and with this as an excuse Wilson used his war powers to spend tens of millions of dollars in equipment, replacement and the services of high-priced American railroad experts, Stephens among others, who remained for years to bring the line into first-class shape for the benefit of the American banking firm. This continued long after the mutiny and withdrawal of American troops.

The line is now, sure enough, in first class condition, altho it may be considerably disappointing to the New York bankers to know that it is controlled absolutely by a board jointly formed of Soviet officials and Chinese who do not take orders from the American state department.

The flag of the Chinese Eastern railway is now one-half composed of the Chinese flag and the other half the red flag of the Soviet republic.

Grabski's Rule in Poland May Blow up in Cabinet Crisis

WARSAW, Poland, Nov. 16.—Poland's government is on the rocks again, three cabinet members having resigned. Premier Grabski is almost at the end of his resources and is desperately endeavoring to fill the places of the ministries of the interior, of labor and of justice with central and radical party members.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

"EVERY MAN TO HIS POST!" IS SLOGAN OF RAILWAY UNION ON SOVIET-CONTROLLED RAILROAD

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HARBIN, Manchuria.—(By Mail)—The following manifesto was sent by wire to all the railwaymen of the Chinese Eastern railway by the C. E. R. workers' committee:

"Comrades! Railwaymen!

"The true master of the Chinese Eastern railway has, in the persons of the Republic of China and the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics, entered into possession of his rights.

"With the coming of the true owners of the railway, all members of the railwaymen's union and members of one great labor army ought to strain all efforts at their posts and do their work thoroly.

"Comrades! At this transition period, the railwaymen's union calls upon you to get closer to the production of the Chinese Eastern Railway and its economic interests, to work with the utmost energy and initiative and not to listen to any provocative talk or rumors, wherever they may come from.

"Your union is keenly watching all the changes that are occurring on the line and will always let you know about them in good time.

"The Chinese Eastern Railwaymen's Union feels certain that the fundamental interests of toilers on the Chinese Eastern Railway will be safeguarded—of which a close rally to the banner of one sole Productive Railwaymen's Union is to be a pledge.

"Get close to production!

"Every man to his post!"

The above appeal was sent over the signatures of chairman of the Chinese Eastern Railwaymen's Union Varganoff and Secretary Jibroff and is dated October 4, 1924, at Harbin.

BABE IS BORN AS BIG FIRE DESTROYS HOMES OF WORKERS

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Nov. 16.—While flames roared across a street intersection and thrust angrily through windows from which the panes had vanished, Mrs. Helen McCann gave birth to a baby boy today.

An ambulance doctor, alternately watching the woman and the progress of the fire, stood at her side. At a signal from him, police carried the woman and child to the street. Later, at the City hospital, Mrs. McCann's condition was reported as satisfactory.

Ten minutes after the woman and child had been taken out, the building collapsed.

SILK STRIKERS WILL SING AT PHILA. CONCERT

Stop Picketing One Day to Sing for Victory

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16.—A concert comprising very excellent entertainment will be held here for the benefit of the Paterson silk strikers on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 8 p. m., at the Lulu Temple at Broad and Spring Garden streets. This concert will be held under the auspices of two branches of the Workmen's Circle.

An interesting feature of the concert will be the Paterson Workmen's Chorus of 100 persons and the Paterson Mandolin Orchestra of 40 persons. These societies are composed of strikers. They will leave the picket lines for a day to "prove to the workers of Philadelphia that they can sing as well as they can fight."

From the Battle Front

Songs of battle and victory as well as the softer notes of classical and folklore will be the program of the evening.

Philadelphia workers have shown a true spirit of helpfulness in the Paterson strike. They cannot fail to realize that a victory in Paterson means a victory for the workers here as well, since this is a textile center. Over $700 was collected thru the Workers Party relief committee here beside the many hundred dollars sent to the strikers directly.

A large crowd will turn out to give their support to the strikers. The tickets sell at $1.00, which is very low for this excellent concert but we want to make it possible for every worker to be there.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

POSTAL SLEUTH IS PAINTED AS VAMP'S VICTIM

U. S. Hard on Small Fry; Big Crooks Get By

Chicago, Nov. 16.—The picture of a modern Delilah betraying a Sampson into the hands of bandits and then delivering him into the hands of the government he had deceived was drawn around William J. Fahy, former postal inspector, here today, as taking of testimony was started in the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery in which Fahy and others are defendants.

State's Witnesses.

The woman in the case will be one of the government's witnesses in its fight to show Fahy's implication not only in the Rondout robbery, but in other big postoffice department thefts. The government will attempt to show that Fahy became enamored of her almost at first sight, that he neglected his work and his home to escort her to cabarets and that finally, at her repeated urgings, his faithfulness to his position wavered and he sought further favor in her eyes by giving her the "inside" information necessary to stage important robberies.

It was when the woman's husband was caught in the net of the Rondout cleanup that she went to the government and betrayed Fahy, the government will contend. Her husband now is held as a material witness, government prosecutors say.

Brookhart Still Has Lead.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 16.—With official returns from 94 of Iowa's 99 counties canvassed, Senator Smith W. Brookhart today maintained a lead of 620 votes over his democratic opponent, Dan F. Steck, in the senatorial contest. Brookhart leaders declared that the slight gain made by Steck would be more than wiped out by the official returns from Polk county, where it is claimed that approximately fifty votes will be found for the junior senator.

Jury Has Egan Case.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 16.—After a trial lasting all week, the case of William P. (Dinty) Colbeck, leader of the Egan gang in St. Louis, and eight others charged with complicity in the $54,130 mail robbery at Staunton, Ill., on May 26, 1923, went to the jury in federal court here at noon today.

THE CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE of the Junior Section of the Y. W. L. of A., District Two New York City, having listened to the report of the activities of the Foster Junior Group, wishes to congratulate the Foster Junior Group for the splendid way it has carried on its Communist work in general and particularly in the W. P. campaign in helping the Y. W. L. in its activities.

We are certain that the praise we thus extend to the Foster Group will serve as a spur for that group to do better and for other groups to equal its record.

LONG LIVE THE COMMUNIST CHILDREN'S MOVEMENT OF THE WORLD!

A copy of this resolution is to be sent to the Freiheit, the Young Worker, the Young Comrade, the DAILY WORKER, the Group Leaders Committee, the Brownsville Section Committee Y. W. L., the D. E. C. Y. W. L. and the Foster Junior Group.

CITY CENTRAL COMMITTEE,
Junior Section Y. W. L.
Morris Spector, City Organizer.
Martin Gross
Harry Eisenman, for the Resolution Committee.
Esther Gross, Secretary.

Juniors! Wake up! Send in your news to the Children's Column of the DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

How to Be Healthy

For many years people have been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have consulted doctors who gave them medicines for a trial. After several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.

MEN AND WOMEN

You are suffering from any ailments, come to our office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.

DR. TAFT
1555 West Roosevelt Road
Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.
TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

There's a Difference

Before

Some workers are not well informed on the latest developments in the world of Labor—or on the theory of the Labor movement.

Other workers have the information at hand daily.

The Brick Makes the Difference

Heave It Back to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd.
Chicago, Ill.

After

RATES
$6.00 a year $3.50—6 months $2.00 3 months
In CHICAGO—$8.00 a year $4.50 6 months $2.50 3 months

THE NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO BUILD
THE DAILY WORKER

NAME _____

STREET _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

SEND IT

GOMEZ OPENS NEW CLASS IN MARXIAN THEORY

Lecture Course Will Take in District

With the introductory lecture, entitled "The Elements of Marxian Theory," Comrade Manuel Gomez began the circuit school conducted by District 8, in a course in Leninism, at the first class held in Milwaukee, Wis., last Friday. Twenty students had enrolled in advance and more are expected to join.

This circuit school has been established to help fill the great need and the demand for education within the revolutionary movement. Since last year's season it has been enlarged to include the city of Springfield, Ill.

From this introductory lecture the students received a comprehensive view of the basis of the whole course as well as the first touch of the Leninist interpretation of Marxian dynamics. It was well received and particularly apparent that Comrade Gomez has made a careful and thoro study of his subject.

Enrollments are now taking place in other cities for the District Circuit School which will be held in Milwaukee, Wis., every Friday; Springfield, Ill., Saturday; Chicago, Sunday morning; Gary, Ind., Tuesday, and Kenosha, Wis., Thursday. The course covers eleven lessons; the tuition fee is $2.00, and any interested worker, regardless of party affiliation may participate.

The whole course in Leninism covers the following lessons:

1. Introductory—The Elements of Marxian Theory. Dealing principally with the dynamics of Marxism—dialectic materialism, the class struggle, etc.

2. From the Diluted "Marxism" of the Second International to the Revolutionary Doctrine of Lenin. Distortion of Marx's teachings during period of parliamentarism and stabilization of capitalism. The world war, Leninism, the Marxism of the present revolutionary epoch; the Marxism of revolutionary action.

3. The State and Revolution. Theory of the state; the state and revolution; deviations due to lack of understanding of the nature and function of the state; Germany, I. W. W., etc.

4. Imperialism, the Final Stage of Capitalism. Economics of imperialism; present view of the world; American imperialism; catastrophic climax of imperialism.

5. The Vanguard of the Proletariat. Role of a revolutionary political party; what kind of a party; complete severance from opportunism; mobile, disciplined and democratic centralism; the Russian Communist Party; the Communist International.

6. Significance of the Trade Union Movement. Unions, the proletarian mass organizations of the class struggle; role of the trade unions before, during and after the revolution; task of Communists in the trade unions.

7. Workers and Farmers. The farmers as allies of the struggle; necessity of linking up the farmers' movement against big capital with the proletarian revolution.

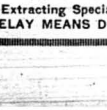
8. The Expoited Colonial Peoples. Importance and necessity of linking up wars for national liberation with the proletarian revolution; historical and economic forces on which the Communist colonial program is based; the colonies in modern world economy.

9. Theory and Practice of the Proletarian Dictatorship. Marx on the Paris Commune; former vague ideas of the revolutionary machinery; the capitalist state and the workers' state; historical appearance of the Soviets as the form of the state; the period of transition to Communism; the party in the dictatorship; lessons of the Russian revolution.

10. Strategy and Tactics of Communism. Lenin's theory; "One Step Forward, etc."; "left sickness"; need for complete severance from opportunists; the United Front; Lenin's practice; Brest peace, etc.

11. Leninism and the American Movement. The United States government and the revolution; the American empire and its problems; the American Workers Party, etc.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Dr. S. ZIMMERMAN
DENTIST
[illegible]
MY NEW LOCATION
Special Prices to Workers


X-Ray — Gas Given
ESTABLISHED 12 YEARS.
My Examination Is Free
My Prices Are Reasonable
My Work Is Guaranteed
Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

Statement in Regard to Party Policies and the National Party Convention

By the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party of America.

LAST WEEK there was published in the party press, a statement on the election results signed by the Central Executive Committee of the party. This statement was approved of by the Central Executive Committee. Comrades Ruthenberg, Lovestone, Bedacht, Engdahl and Gitlow disagreed with the conclusions of the majority of the committee and submitted a separate statement on the election results. This statement is published herewith.

The Central Executive Committee will hold a full meeting of the committee on November 21 and 22 and at this meeting theses on the political situation in the United States and the tasks of the party will be considered by the Central Executive Committee. These theses will be published in the party press immediately after the sessions of the committee, and the committee has decided unanimously to open discussion on these theses immediately after their publication both in the party press and the party branches.

The Central Executive Committee states further to the membership that an application has been made to the Communist International for permission to hold a convention of the party during the month of January. The call for the convention with all details will be published as soon as the approval of the Communist International has been secured.

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA
Wm. Z. Foster, Chairman.
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary.

Statement on the Results of the Elections.

Submitted by C. E. Ruthenberg, Jay Lovestone, Max Bedacht, J. Louis Engdahl and Benjamin Gitlow.

THE capitalist dictatorship has seated itself more firmly in the saddle thru the election of Coolidge and Dawes. The election results are a triumph for the big capitalists of the United States, who see before them four years of unlimited power at Washington.

While the capitalist dictatorship has won a great victory, the Workers Party has made gains thru the election, strengthening itself, widening its influence and prestige, thru its campaign for support by the workers of revolutionary Communist principles.

The victory for Coolidge and Dawes was won by bringing into play all the power of the capitalist class to influence and terrorize the voters of all classes. They cry that the constitution, which protected the property rights of the owning class, big and little, was in danger, was used to mobilize the strength of all the property owners. The workers, on the other hand, were frightened into the belief that hard times and the more bitter suffering was in store for them if they did not re-elect Coolidge.

Reveals Fraud of Capitalist Democracy.

The slight improvement in the situation in industry resulting from the seasonal fluctuation, to which was added such additional improvement as the capitalists were able to bring about thru manipulation, together with the slight improvement in the agriculture situation brought about by a temporarily favorable world market, to which again was added the manipulation of the capitalists, aided the capitalist dictatorship in winning the support of a large number of rebellious farmers and makes effective its cry of the "prosperity" slogan among wage workers.

The election stands out most strikingly as illustrating the fraudulent character of capitalist democracy. The declining influence which enabled the dictatorship of big capital to rally to its support a big majority of the voters, even of the wage workers and poor farmers, was its control of the wealth of the country and thru it the control of the means of publicity and propaganda. The capitalist dictatorship behind Coolidge and Dawes could throw in many millions to mislead the voters that it was "Coolidge or Chaos."

It had the power of the overwhelming majority of the newspapers, the moving picture theatres, the radio, the billboards, leaflets, etc., at its command. So long as this situation exists the formal democracy of being permitted to vote every two years (elected to all intents of voters), is nothing but a fraud and a sham. While entering into the election campaigns for the purpose of propaganda and mobilization of the workers for the political struggle, the Communists have ever pointed out that the cards are stacked against the workers being able to use the machinery of the capitalist government to gain power. The experiences with the methods of capitalist dictatorship during this election campaign amply proves the correctness of the Communists' exposure of the fraudulent character of the capitalist democracy.

The Defeat of LaFolletteism.

Unquestionably the election result is a defeat for the LaFollette-progressive movement. Its glowing expectations of carrying enough states to deadlock the election have not been realized. The number of votes it has received falls far below the prophecies of its organizers. A number of its most prominent leaders have gone down to defeat and it is doubtful whether it will continue to hold the balance of power it has had in congress.

This severe set-back of the middle class revolt against capital is partially accounted for by the improvement in agriculture which cut away part of its support, but also by the fact that its middle class supporters were terrorized by the bogey of the danger to the owning classes in LaFollette proposals regarding the constitution which the big capitalists raised, and deserted the movement.

But most of all the defeat of the LaFollette movement can be attributed to its own character. Like all movements of the middle class, its was hesitating, vacillating, and unclear. Its part was to fight the rule of the big capitalists while protecting capitalism. It had no aggressive, ringing slogans to mobilize the workers in its support. The working masses, rather than take any chances in voting for a movement which offered nothing very definite stuck with the capitalist dictatorship which promised them prosperity.

The defeat of the progressive movement will very likely be seized upon by Gompers to try to lead those workers who supported it back to the old parties. We may even expect that some of the ex-republican and ex-democratic politicians who took the leadership of the progressive movement to scurry back to their mother parties.

The workers and poorer farmers must not permit the defeat of the LaFollette-progressive movement and the desertion of Gompers and the leaders of this movement to turn them back into the old parties or to create an anti-political attitude in their minds. The road for the workers who want to fight the capitalists lies not back into the old parties, but forward out of the LaFollette-progressive party into a class party of workers which will make an aggressive, working class fight against the capitalists.

The Coming Attacks Upon Labor.

The overwhelming victory which the capitalist dictatorship has won in electing Coolidge and Dawes — Coolidge, the strikebreaker, and Dawes, the open shop head of the Minute Men of the Constitution, will encourage the capitalists to open a new offensive against labor. We may expect soon to see the capitalists again striking out in an effort to destroy the unions, and thus to open the way for wage reductions, lengthening the hours of labor and intensifying the exploitation of the workers.

Labor's experience in the struggles against similar efforts of the capitalists during the period since the war, in which they openly and brutally used the governmental power against labor which they again triumphantly wield thru Coolidge and Dawes, turned the effort of the most conscious among the workers toward organizing labor's power for independent political action. This movement which expressed itself in the struggle to create a farmer-labor party was, during this campaign poisoned and diverted from its path by the LaFollette-progressive movement. With the development of the new bitter struggles which will come out of the capitalist offensive under the Coolidge-Dawes regime, we may look forward to the movement being set on new life.

In such struggle as will grow out of a new offensive against labor by the capitalists the LaFollette-progressive movement will not and cannot fight the battles of labor. The petty bourgeoisie is always on the side of the capitalists when it comes to a straight out fight of property owners and profit makers against wage earners. The new struggle will therefore create the situation in which the most conscious and militant workers can be torn away from the LaFollette-progressive movement and mobilized for a class party of labor.

The Role of the Workers Party.

The Workers Party comes out of the election campaign a stronger and more powerful force in the working class movement. It does not estimate its strength by the number of votes it receives under a capitalistic democracy it knows, that capitalist democracy will cheat it of votes wherever it can, and that it is just the workers, who because of their bitter exploitation and oppression under the capitalist system first rally to the Communist standard, who are most often disfranchised.

The victory which the capitalist dictatorship won in triumphantly electing its henchmen, Coolidge and Dawes, shows that the struggle of the workers against the capitalist exploiters must have as its leader a revolutionary class party—a Communist Party. It is only thru a party with a program of action against capitalism, such as the Workers Party stands upon, that the workers can mobilize their power and win this struggle.

The strengthening of the Workers Party and the development into a mass Communist Party leading the struggles of the working class is therefore the most important task before the working class of this country. The Workers Party calls upon all militant, conscious, revolutionary workers to join it in realizing this aim by joining the Workers Party.

The Workers Party has consistently fought to create a united front of the workers and poor farmers, both on the industrial and political field. On the industrial field it has urged and worked for the amalgamation of the trade unions into powerful industrial unions. On the political field it has endeavored to create a united front of the industrial workers and poorer farmers under the slogan "For a Class Farmer-Labor Party."

The Workers Party declares that the decisive victory of the capitalist dictatorship in the election makes more necessary than ever a united front struggle of the workers and poorer farmers to prevent the Coolidge-Dawes regime from completely crushing the workers in the industries and upon the land. It calls upon the industrial workers to take immediate steps to mobilize their power for resistance to wage cuts and lengthening of hours in the factories, shops, and mines, by immediate steps for the amalgamation of the trade unions and the creation of powerful fighting industrial unions and organising of the unemployed.

The capitalist victory has given the capitalist dictatorship increased control of the governmental powers which it will throw into the struggle against the workers. This makes more necessary than ever a united front political struggle of the workers and poorer farmers. The Workers Party calls upon both the industrial workers and poorer farmers to join in the creation of a united front politically under the leadership of the Workers Party by uniting under the slogan "For a Class Farmer-Labor Party."

The Workers Party will, more than ever before, give its strength to the work of mobilizing the workers for the united front political and industrial struggle against the capitalists. Its aim will be thru such united front struggles to united with it in common struggles those workers who realize the necessity of a class fight against capitalism, thus bringing these workers into contact with and under the influence of Communist leadership and thus preparing them for entry into the mass revolutionary party of the workers—the Workers (Communist) Party.

To the Workers Party the victory of reaction and its threat of attacks upon the working class are the signal for more determined struggle. The whole working class and poorer farmers must make the same response and join with it in building the mass Communist Party which will wrest victory from capitalist reaction in the United States.

Disciplined Members Rejoin Party

SOME time ago, the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party was obliged to expel forty-two members of the Russian Branch No. 2, of New York City, for conduct unbecoming to Communists. A number of the members in this group have since seen the incorrectness of their attitude from a Communist standpoint, and have declared their willingness to repudiate their former position and to again become members of the party.

The statement of this group addressed to District Organizer of District No. 2 reads as follows:

Dear Comrades:

"We, the group of the expelled members of the New York Second Russian Branch of the W. P. of A., having been informed of your decision in connection with our appeal for reinstatement as party members, consider it our Communist duty to accept all the demands which are included in your decision, as we understand that every Communist must be punished for violation of party discipline, and, that it is never too late to correct a mistake. We hereby make the following declaration to all members of the Russian Section of the W. P. of A.:

"Comrades, you all know that a few months ago 42 members of the Second Russian Branch in New York were expelled from the party. The cause of it was our resolution introduced last year at the Russian District Convention of District No. 2. This resolution thru party channels reached the C. E. C. of the party.

"The C. E. C. having analyzed this resolution found that the part of it demanding reorganization of higher administrative organs and institutions of the party, and in favor of homogenous elements—is anti-Communistic, and demanded that the resolution be called off as such.

"In spite of this decision of the party, 42 members of the branch voted against calling it off, which action resulted in our expulsion.

"The initiators of this resolution—Wysotzky, Perepelkin and Zubovich, were trying to justify their action by declaring that resolution was only a tactical step intended to reach the broad masses of non-partisan Russian workers, and had the C. E. C. known about it, they would not have expelled us.

"But when the secretary of the party, Comrade Ruthenberg, issued an announcement officially in the name of the C. E. C. Wysotzky, Perepelkin and Zubovich could not go any further.

"Our group then divided into two factions. One faction demanded that an appeal be sent to the C. E. C. and the other faction under the leadership of Wysotzky, Perepelkin and Zubovich insisted upon immediate formation of a new organization.

"At one of the meetings Mr. Perepelkin burst into a hot speech stating that there is a universal apathy toward the party, and that it is necessary to crush the old order of things within the party and create something new. He said that he did not care under what banner he would work as long as it helps him to attain his final aim.

"We then realized where these 'Communists'—Wysotzky, Perepelkin, and Zubovich are leading us to, and decided to break with them.

"We realize now our mistake and appeal to the party to reinstate us. We understand that the duty of every Communist is to work within his party, and that no other organization, no matter how revolutionary it is, can perform the work that our party, the W. P. of A. does.

"We now realize that the initiators of the resolution which resulted in our expulsion from the party was nothing else but a clever trick intended to demoralize and undermine our organization."

The statement is signed by M. Nowikoff, Adam Pukatch, S. Trechanuk, J. Garbus and F. Folmarkam.

The District Executive Committee of District No. 2 is allowed to reinstate these comrades, however, requiring a probationary period during which they are not allowed to hold any official party position.

WORKERS SCHOOL OPENS SEASON IN NEW YORK OFFERING PROGRAM OF INTENSIVE EDUCATIONAL WORK

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 16.—The Workers' School, the educational institution of the Workers Party in District No. 2, will open its season Dec. 1. The purpose of the school is to make workers effective, militants in the struggle against capitalism.

To this end the school offers a party training course, a trade union training course, and several general courses aiming to equip party members and trade unionists with an understanding of the philosophy of Marx and Lenin, its practical realization in the Communist International, and the history and problems of the labor movement.

The party training course, intended for party members only, offers four classes. The students in each class will be selected from names submitted by party branches. The classes are as follows:

1. Elements of Communism; instructor, W. W. Weinstone. Class will meet every Thursday, beginning December 4.

2. Marxism; instructor, Dr. J. Mindel. Class will meet every Friday, beginning December 5.

3. American Economic and Social Development; instructor, Alexander Bittelman. Class will meet every Monday, beginning Dec. 15.

4. International Communist Movement; History and Tactics; instructor, W. W. Weipstone. Class will meet every Tuesday, beginning December 9.

The trade union training course consists of study classes for trade union members. It aims to train a group of union militants for more efficient service in the T. U. E. L. and the labor movement. The classes are as follows:

1. The American Trade Union Movement; instructor, Solon DeLeon. Class will meet every Wednesday, beginning December 3.

2. The World Trade Union Movement; instructor to be announced.

3. Problems of Labor in Various Industries; Symposium by active workers in the industries.

In addition to these special training courses, the Workers' School offers the following general courses:

1. Current Events; instructor, Ludwig Lore. Class will meet every Friday, beginning December 12.

2. Public Speaking; instructor, Carl Brodsky. Class will meet every Tuesday, beginning December 2.

3. Elementary English; instructor, E. B. Jacobson. Class will meet every Monday, beginning Dec. 1.

Educational centers, under the supervision of the Workers Party, have been opened in various parts of the city. These centers will be organized and conducted by the sections of the Workers Party thru the section and branch educational committees. Classes will be given in the A. B. C. of Communism, American Labor History, English. They are open to all workers. These centers are located as follows:

Harlem Center—64 East 104th St., New York City.

Bronx Center—1347 Boston Road, Brownsville Center—1844 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn.

Williamsburg Center—61 Graham Ave., Brooklyn.

Registration for all courses at the Workers' School and the section educational centers have already started. Party members and trade union militants should enroll now, as the number of students in each class will be limited. For registration and information apply at the Workers' School headquarters, 208 East 12th street, Room 1.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Monday, Nov. 17.

Douglas Park English, 2323 Douglas Blvd. William F. Dunne on "Report of E. C. of the C. I."

North Side English, 2609 N. Halsted St. Shop Nuclei. Martin Abern.

19th Ward Italian, 1102 S. Loomis St.

Tuesday, Nov. 18.

Roumanian Branch, 2254 Clybourn avenue.

Wednesday, Nov. 19.

City Central Committee, 732 Blue Isle, 8 p. m. All delegates attend. Visitors invited.

Cicero Italian, Circolo Giovanile Hall, 14th St. between 51st and 50th Ct.

Italian Terra Cotta, 2475 Clybourn Ave., 3rd floor.

Englewood English, 1414 S. Halsted St.

Ch.-Slovak No. 1, 2544 S. Komensky Ave.

Ch.-Slovak, Women's No. 1, 1825 S. Loomis St.

Douglas Park Jewish, Liberty Club House, 3420 W. Roosevelt Road.

Thursday, Nov. 20.

Membership meeting, Workers Party, Local Chicago. Final report of election campaign and discussion of shop nuclei. At Imperial Hall 2409 N. Halsted St. Meetings of all branches are off.

Friday, Nov. 21.

Polish North Side, 1902 W. Division street.

Lithuanian No. 2, 3142 S. Halsted St.

Greek Branch, 722 Blue Island Ave.

Saturday, Nov. 22.

Concert and ball, Workers School, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard, 8 p. m. Benefit of city organization.

Bronx.

DISTRICT No. 8, ASKS NATIONAL CONVENTION AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

The attached resolution was adopted by the District Executive Committee No 8, Workers Party, at its meeting held Saturday, Nov. 15:

Resolution for Party Convention.

WHEREAS, the election campaign is now over and the Workers Party is faced with the necessity of presenting its policy and program of action in line with the adjustments required by the changed political situation, and

WHEREAS, it is essential thereto that the party membership shall have a full opportunity to discuss these matters and to arrive at mature decision in national convention, therefore be it

RESOLVED, that the District Executive Committee of District No. 8, Workers Party, calls upon the Central Executive Committee to take the necessary measures for a national convention at the earliest moment physically possible in accordance with the constitutional requirements.

Signed: Arne Swabeck,
District Organizer.

French Complete Evacuation.

PARIS, Nov. 16.—Final evacuation of that portion of the Ruhr basin which was unoccupied prior to Jan. 11, 1923, will take place during the night of Nov. 17, Le Temps announced today.

Membership Meeting in New York

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 16.—A general membership meeting of the entire New York district will be held in the Stuyvesant Casino Monday night, Nov. 17, to discuss the organizational benefits to be derived from the election campaign. The order of business will be started with the district organizers' report, to be followed by presentation of a program of action which the members will be asked to discuss. Charles Krumbein, district organizer, will report on organization work in the New York district.

Post-Election Problems of the Workers Party

A Statement by the National Executive Committee of the Young Workers League of America.

The overwhelming victory of the forces of reaction in the recent presidential elections indicate that big capital is firmly entrenched; that it still holds and molds the opinion of the masses by means of its press, its movies, its thousand and one instruments of misinformation. The slogan of "Coolidge or Chaos" served as a threat to the millions of workers and farmers in the United States—and rather than be faced with a threatened chaos they voted to keep Wall Street in power.

The LaFolette movement suffered a tremendous setback. The policies of its leaders in the course of the campaign had been one of trimming more and more to get the ear of the small businessmen. The labor party movement, swallowed up as it was in this larger conglomeration representing (or attempting to represent) the interests of conflicting social groupings, has lost the force and momentum. Above all it is tied up with the petty bourgeois LaFolette not only organizationally but ideologically in the minds of practically all working class elements who favored a labor party last year.

In view of the above facts, the National Executive Committee of the Young Workers League declares that the tasks before the Workers Party in the immediate future cannot be one of attempting to revive either the labor party slogan or to organize a labor party, but that it must consist in a campaign of bringing the Workers Party to the fore as the one party which speaks for and acts in the interests of the exploited workers and farmers of America.

United front efforts must be followed out consistently, but these must come from below. A thousand burning questions of the day are to be found in all parts of the country around which the Workers Party can crystallize militant action and sentiment. (Formation of unemployment councils, shop committee, general labor councils, etc.) A proper struggle around these issues is the logical method of developing the united front tactic, and offers a rich field to our party in winning added recruits and increased support.

The Young Workers League in the past has always taken an active lead in the problems of the Workers Party. In the future we expect our membership to take even more interest in the tasks and problems of the party. Therefore, the N. E. C. calls upon the membership of the Y. W. L. to throw its wholehearted support to the policy as enunciated by the C. E. C. of the party in a statement issued in the November 7 issue of the DAILY WORKER entitled, "The Results of the Election." It says: "Our chief task in the immediate future is not the building of such a farmer-labor party, but the strengthening and developing of the Workers Party to the end that itself may be the practical leaders of the masses and as the only party that represents the working class interests and fights for them... Rally around the Workers Party more than ever before. We must build the Workers Party of America!" To this we add that the N. E. C. gives its complete endorsement.

Forward to a mass Young Communist League in the United States!

Forward to a mass Workers (Communist) Party, champion leader in the struggles of the American working class against imperialist exploitation and wage slavery!

Signed: Nat'l Executive Committee, Young Workers League of America.
John Williamson, Nat'l Sec'y.

Discussion on Shop Nuclei Tonight.

Shop nuclei organization or the Workers Party organized in the shops will the topic for discussion at the open meeting of the North Side English Branch tonight at 8 p. m., at Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted St. Martin Abern will lead off the discussion with a talk on the reorganization of the party branches on the shop nuclei basis which will be followed by a general discussion and questions. The meeting will start at 8 sharp. Be on time.

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

WORKERS WANT PEACE BUT MUST FIGHT FOR IT

Capitalist Imperialism is Tough Bird

By W. FRANCIS AHERN
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

MELBOURNE, Australia.—No articles or songs extolling wars, battles, or heroes of past wars are to be printed in the school books or papers of Victoria. The education (labor) minister says he is determined to put an end to militarist propaganda in the schools and has issued the order for that purpose.

The minister for education of the labor government of Queensland has also issued instructions to exclude from school books and papers in that state all articles or songs on war subjects. The minister, in ordering the change said:

"I am going to exclude from the school books anything likely to inflame the minds of youths with ambition for war. I intend to explain to the children the causes of war and the capitalist influences that bring it about. That, to my mind, will tend towards wiping out war. Too much hypocrisy and jingoism is displayed at present, and not enough sincerity by those called upon to give advice with regard to Australia's welfare."

The workers of New Zealand held anti-war meetings thruout that country on anti-war Sunday. The following motion, copies of which are to be sent to the prime ministers of New Zealand and Britain, were carried at all meetings:

"We, the workers of New Zealand, send fraternal greetings to similar gatherings being held thruout the world to express abhorrence of war and militarism; join with them in declaring it to be the duty of all workers and governments to strive for universal disarmament."

The New Zealand labor party demands repeal of the military service act and the defense act of New Zealand, and repeal of all provisions in the war regulations act and its amendments that interfere with civil and industrial liberties.

Cal Picks His Farmers

WASHINGTON, Nov. 16.—William M. Jardine, president of the Kansas Agricultural College, today was named as a member of President Coolidge's agricultural commission. The commission will hold its first meeting here next week.

GREEK WORKERS FLOCK TO SEE WORKERS IN "BLACK AND WHITE"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 16.—When the Communists say "It must be done," they mean it. That was proven by the great skill that the Dramatic Club of the Greek Branch of the Workers Party has shown in presenting at Terrace Garden the literary whip against the present day family conventionalities, "The White and the Black," when it not only aroused the enthusiasm of the audience, mostly comprised of workers, but also made many of the members of the bourgeoisie, that were present to see that drama, to admit that the presentation was a success, notwithstanding their predictions that this drama, particularly difficult in presentation even by the best professional actors, was doomed by them to failure, if played by amateur artists.

Comrade George Arvanitis spoke in the Greek language and brot the message of Communism to the Greek workers that were present. He put extra stress on the importance that the press is playing in general and made a hot appeal to the audience to support our Greek weekly "Empros," the only Greek paper that is speaking in the interests of the working class. Prolonged applause covered the last words of Comrade Arvanitis.

An enthusiastic address was delivered by Comrade Juliet Stuart Poynts, educational director of District No. 2 of the Workers Party. She spoke in English and made the vast hall of Terrace Garden shake from the applause of the Greek workers.

The Greek Dramatic Club is arranging to present the drama at Newark, N. J., at an entertainment which the local Greek branch is organizing.

Plea for Sacco-Vanzetti.

CLEVELAND, Nov. 16.—"The Evidence Doesn't Count" is the title of a leading article in the November Locomotive Engineers Journal reviewing the last acts of the tragedy which will lead Nicola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti to the electric chair for a crime they never committed. The author is Art Shields, New York bureau manager for the Federated Press and for several months in charge of publicity for the Sacco-Vanzetti defense.

The article is the first to appear in any large American labor magazine since the two Italian-American workmen were finally refused a new trial by Judge Thayer and presents a powerful plea for the innocence of these martyrs to anti-alien hysteria.

An editorial condemning Gov. Hart of Washington for continuing to imprison the eight lumberjacks convicted in the aftermath of the Centralia Armistice day tragedy of 1919, also appears in the current Journal.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

LABOR MOVIE NOTES

Workers Party Bazaars Use Films.

Two big bazaars run by the Workers Party organizations are using the motion picture as a sure means of drawing crowds night after night.

In Milwaukee, Wis., "Russia and Germany—A Tale of Two Republics," is being shown on Nov. 27. In New York a bazaar for the benefit of the new Finnish headquarters on 125th St., will show "Russia and Germany" and "Polikushka" on alternate nights, Nov. 22 to 28.

Other organizations desiring similar arrangements can get in touch with the International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

Paterson Strike in the Movies.

Tremendous enthusiasm was shown by the silk strikers of Paterson, N. J., at a motion picture benefit show recently held in their city by the International Workers' Aid. They were especially excited over seeing pictures of their own strike—of their picket lines, their leaders, themselves on the screen. The pictures were shown in connection with "The Beauty and the Bolsherik."

The strike scenes were presented as a special "Film Extra" of The DAILY WORKER, the first labor paper in the world to get out a motion picture edition on an important labor news event. The Paterson silk strike reel can be rented for showing anywhere in the country.

"Bob" Meeting Hurts Relief Film.

A last minute political meeting at which Dudley Field Malone was the speaker, hurt the success of the International Workers' Aid picture, "Russia and Germany" at the Berkeley, Cal., high school recently. Notwithstanding this competition, the show turned in a profit of $50.00. Over a third of the crowd were university students for whom the attraction of this labor film was greater than that of the reformist spieler.

St. Paul Liberals Praise "Polikushka."

The "liberal" group at St. Paul, Minn., which backs the art gallery, museus, extension course, etc., express high praise for the "wonderful film," Polikushka, which they rented from the International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill. From the Twin Cities the pictures went to Providence, R. I., where it will show at the Gaiety Theater, on Nov. 19.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A MODEL FOR SLENDERIZING LINES

4928. This is a splendid style for stout figures. The panel is a new feature. It may be omitted. Figured crepe and satin are here combined. Failie and silk alpaca would also be attractive. The dress may be finished without the panel and collar and may have the sleeve in shapel outline or close fitting as in the small views.

This Pattern is cut in 7 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 4¾ yards of 40 inch material, if made of one material, and with panel and revers collar. If made as illustrated in the large view it will require ⅝ yard of figured material, cut crosswise, and 4 yards of plain material. If panel is omitted ⅝ yard less is required. The width of the skirt at the foot is 1¾ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A "LITTLE GIRLS'" FROCK.

4918. Taffeta or crepe de chine with lace or ribbon trimming and lace edging on sleeves and neck would be very pleasing for this style. It is also good for wash materials or for wool crepe and voile.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. A 6-year size requires 2 yards of 32-inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: THE DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1617 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

CANADIAN LABOR ACT GOES TO HIGHEST COURT IN ENGLAND THIS MONTH

OTTAWA, Can.—A case which closely affects the labor situation thruout Canada, has been set down for hearing by the privy council in England in November. The point is the constitutionality of the Lemieux act, officially known as the industrial disputes investigation act. This law provides for compulsory investigation of all labor disputes in mines on railways and in all public utilities. When introduced 17 years ago, the law was opposed by the unions, but has latterly met with favor among them, particularly among the railway organizations.

The present issue arose out of a dispute between the Toronto hydro-electric commission nad some of its employes. Minister of labor Murdock, granted a board under the act, and the commission refused to recognize it on the ground that the act does not apply to provincial or municipal utilities. The trial judge said the act was unconstitutional, but a higher court reversed that decision. The hydro-electric commission has taken the case to the privy council, the last court of appeal in the British Empire.

Fight Speed-Up System.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 16.—Seventy weavers and loom fixers have walked out of the New Bedford Spinning company mill in a strige authorized by the textile council of the American Federation of Textile Operatives against a new speed up system. Weavers objected to a new order requiring them to tend 12 looms each of a new 52-inch style and loom fixers protest against tending 32 looms each. The company is affiliated with the larger American Cotton Fabric corporation.

Voters Kill Compensation Act.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 16.—The Missouri workmen's compensation act, an initiative proposal, was beaten in the November referendum by more than 200,000 votes. Missouri remains the only industrial state in the union without a compensation law.

MILL WORKERS ARE PRESENTED WITH WAGE CUTS

Bosses Show Confidence in Cal's Election

(By The Federated Press)

MANCHESTER, N. H., Nov. 16.—Amoskeag Manufacturing company has posted the 10 per cent wage cut which had been forced upon its cotton and worsted mills' employees before election thru the company union but not previously put into effect. The action of the company is taken here as indicative of its satisfaction in the retaining of the Coolidge regime and continuance of reaction in politics and industry.

B. B. and R. Knight company, part of the American Woolen company's trust, and the Manville-Jenckes company, both operating numerous mills in Rhode Island, led the wage-slashing against textile operatives by cuts put into effect before election. The textile magnates' candidate for senate, Jesse Metcalfe, also rose in on the Coolidge landslide.

Gigantic Concern.

Amoskeag claims to be the largest cotton and worsted producing concern in the United States, at least the largest in one spot. It has both sides of the Merrimac river lined for two miles with its redbrick mills. The Knight brothers' and Manville-Jenckes mills are also large producers and the action of these three concerns with their numerous subsidiaries is assumed to mean general wage cuts by other textile mills of New England.

About 5,000 workers in the mechanical, worsted and cotton sections of Amoskeag are immediately affected by the wage cuts. Over 9,000 other workers of the mills have been unemployed and are expecting the lower wages to enable more of them to get poor jobs in the mills again. The 5,000 workers have been on a three and four day week basis most of the time for the last year.

Organization Needed.

Workers who formerly were members of textile unions or still carry cards are not hopeful of the present situation altho there is some indication that the mills will run more steadily. They see conditions bad thru increasing machines per worker and the exceedingly low wages scheduled. No one of the six national unions which have made efforts to organize the textile workers is rated as sufficiently strong by the workers to effectively organize the industry and carry on the fight more energetically, but all agree that organization of the workers is the crying need.

SIR ESME HOWARD IS TRYING TO PEDDLE ONE OF HIS BRITISH JOKES

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 16.—"A self-denying agreement among nations by which they will pledge themselves not to support in any way the efforts of their own nationals to obtain concessions in undeveloped or semi-developed countries," is proposed by Sir Esmo Howard, British ambassador to the United States, to prevent further wars.

Speaking to the New York board of trade and transportation, Sir Esme blamed the "frantic competition for concessions of all kinds going on in China, in Persia, in Turkey, in the Balkans, in Morocco," as "one of the principle causes, for there were many of the late war." He continued that no nation could throw a stone in the matter of imperialism. He asserted that too much confidence had been placed in the theory "that internation al trade is the greatest factor for peace."

"The necessity of recognizing the value of economics in international politics" is "one thing which we have learned during the past few strenuous and terrible years," Sir Esme declared. He then stated that the Dawes reparation scheme "brought the whole (reparations) question out of the murky atmosphere of sentiment and politics down onto the bedrock of hard economic fact and proved to those interested that it is, when you come to dealing in sums required for reparations, almost as difficult to receive them without upsetting the economic applecart as to pay them."

FACTS FOR WORKERS

By JAY LOVESTONE.

THE COURTS

It is practically impossible to present an accurate picture of the total number of injunctions constantly being issued by the courts against the workers in their disputes with the bosses. The extent to which the capitalists used the courts against the workingmen in the strike of the railway shopmen offered an adequate index of the role of employing class justice in the class struggle. We herewith present the outstanding facts about the activities of the courts in the last national railway strike.

1. As soon as the strike was declared the railroads filed bills of complaint in the Equity Branch of nearly every federal district court, located in every state, and restraining every kind of activity on the part of the striking railwaymen.

2. The leading railroads instituted litigation in many courts. It has been conservatively estimated that at least three hundred suits seeking injunctions against the striking shopmen were filed by the carriers in the district courts alone.

3. Each of these injunctions was the source of numerous other court actions against the workingmen. Thousands of shop craft strikers were thus cited for contempt. In the cities of Cleveland and Toledo alone there were no less than 152 such cases growing out of injunctions issued by courts.

4. The 1922 railway strike affected four thousand localities. On the average there were approximately twenty court cases brought against strikers in each of these localities. This would mean that the workers were thrown into no less than eighty thousand court cases while striking for the right to organize. These cases included injunctions, contempt proceedings, and petty prosecutions before state courts and magistrates.

5. The exact cost to the labor organizations of these blows struck at them by the capitalist courts cannot be estimated. All we can do is to cite certain experiences of the workingmen which give a general but accurate idea of the hardships thus inflicted on the working masses by the bosses' government. We cite:

a) As a result of the Daugherty injunction alone the Railway Employees Department of the American Federation of Labor was presented with a bill of $13,356.70 by the department of justice.

b) In the paryer for an injunction filed by the St. Louis, San Francisco Railway company in the Federal District court at Kansas a default judgment of $9,030,891.42 was secured by the railroad against the International Association of Machinist, the Brotherhood of Boilermakers and Helpers, and other trade union bodies.

c) A certain Mr. Henry S. Jeffery filed claims running into millions against the labor organizations involved in the railroad strike. He sought damage to the amount of $2,500,000 for mental suffering and torture, for instance, growing out of strike activities.

d) Another Mr. Charles Christian entered a suit against the striking shop crafts claiming $100,000 damages because of his loss of job as a foreman on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway.

All of these cases merely indicate the cost and character of the court actions taken by the bosses against the workers. Undoubtedly the railway corporations were behind all these suits.

YOUR UNION MEETING

THIRD MONDAY, NOV. 17, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
89	Bartenders, 123 N. Clark St., 8:30 P. M.
1	Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, 910 W. Monroe St.
94	Boot and Shoe, 1939 Milwaukee Av
598	Butchers, Hebrew, 3420 W. Roosevelt Rd.
638	Butchers, Bohemian, 1870 Blue Island Ave.
17742	Cleaners & Dyers, 113 S. Ashland
4	Carpenters, 1710, N. Winchester's
1307	Carpenters, 1850 Sharman Ave. Evanston.
2505	Carpenters, 180 W. Washington St Cap Makers, 4003 Roosevelt Rd.
70	Carpenters, 2705 W. 38th St.
80	Carpenters, 3019 W. Madison St.
181	Carpenters, 2040 W. North Ave.
199	Carpenters, S. C. 9139 Commercial Ave.
416	Carpenters, S. C., 505 S. State St.
419	Carpenters, S. C., 1457 Clybourn
448	Carpenters, S. C. 222 N. West St., Waukegan.
1367	Carpenters, 2040 W. North Ave.
14	Cigar Makers Executive Board, 166 W. Washington St., 7:30 p. m.
713	Electricians, 118 S. Throop St.
394	Engineers (Locomotive) 7852 S. Union Ave., 7:30 p. m.
400	Engineers, 4643 S. Halsted Street
601	Engineers, 311 S. Ashland Ave.
549	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
196	Firemen and Enginemen, 2451 Roosevelt Rd., 9:30 a. m. Last Sunday.
331	Fireman and Enginemen, 64th and Halsted Ave.
696	Firemen and Enginemen, Madison and Sacramento.
18	Glove Operators, 1710 N. Winchester Ave.
16	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
59	Ladies' Garment, 328 W. Van Buren St.
74	Lathers, 725 S. Western Ave.
374	Longshoremen, Twp. 38S N. Clark
265	Machinists, 75th St. and Dobson Blvd.
337	Machinists, 1638 N. Halsted St.
378	Maintenance of Way, 1543 W. 103d Street
723	Maintenance of Way, 202 W. 47th Street
27	Painters, 175 W. Washington St.
633	Painters, 551 N. Cicero Ave.
181	Painters, 3308 W. North Ave.
147	Painters, 1710 W. Adams St.
194	Painters, Madison and 5th Ave.
265	Painters, 205 E. 115th St.
273	Painters, 2452 S. Kedzie Ave.
2064	Railway Clerks, 159 N. State St.
51	Sheet Metal Workers, 1638 N. Halsted St.
	Sailors' Union of Great Lakes, 355 N. Clark Street
5	Tailors, 183 W. Washington St., 7:30 p. m.
721	Teamsters, 11526 Michigan Ave.
758	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd., 3 p. m.
772	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

Textile Output Grows in Moscow.

MOSCOW, Nov. 16.—Annual reports from the city owned trusts in Moscow indicate that practically all have increased the productivity of labor and the number of employes. Four textile trusts in the Moscow district increased output 80 per cent, and one trust 120 per cent. The increase in working force, tho general, is hardly more than half the increase in output, indicating that organization of work is improving.

Building Bolsheviks—the D. W. B. U.

Secretary Wanted

Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.

J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

FIRST STRIKERS STICK SOLID IN WALTHAM WATCH CO. WALKOUT

WALTHAM, Mass., Nov. 16. — The striking watch workers of Waltham Watch and Clock company rejected the company's offer to take back at once 200 finishers and matchers and 400 other workers within ten days.

The strikers' association, which will affiliate soon with the International Jewelry Workers' Union, has held the strikers' ranks intact thruout the three months' fight and insists that all the strikers be taken back on the job at once with the union recognized and the wage scale of August 11 in effect.

Altho the strike is the first these workers have had, most of them, they are determined to hold out and win against the speed-up, cheap wage system which the bondholders, Kidder Peabody and Company, have attempted to put into effect in the factory.

"Do you see this drill? I have broken it. Perhaps I can make a punch of it. If not, I will throw it on the scrap heap. That is the worker who has lost an arm or a leg. If they can, they make him a watchman at a low wage. If he is too badly battered up they throw him on the human scrap pile."

Torres then told me how he made a protest against reduced pay and lengthened hours of labor in one of the big oil companies. He was blacklisted but the struggle over his case had restored the 8-hour day.

Neglect Physics and Chemistry.

COPENHAGEN—The Swedish Academy of Science announced today that it had decided not to award the 1924 prizes for progress in physics and chemistry as scientists had done nothing to merit the awards.

MEXICAN LABORER FEELS BETTER AT HOME THAN IN U. S.

Treated Like Dog Here, Says Jose Torres

By SCOTT NEARING.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

VERA CRUZ, Mex. Nov. 16.—Jose Torres of Vera Cruz, Mexico, is a first-class mechanic and is employed by one of the leading oil companies as a truck driver.

"Would you like to go to the United States?" I asked Torres, after we had spent a few minutes in discussion of the international situation.

"For one reason only," he answered, "I am anxious to take a course in electricity, and there is nothing here in Mexico of the kind I want. I would not care to go there and work."

Pressed for his reasons, Torres explained that in the United States—and particularly in the border states—Mexicans were little better than dogs, and were frankly treated as inferiors by those with whom they came in contact. "But in Mexico," he added, "since the passage of the new constitution even the Americans here do not treat us with open disrespect."

He then cited a number of instances in which Mexicans, working for American firms, had secured protection against unfair conditions by an appeal to the Mexican courts. "Mexico has much to learn from the United States in mechanical improvements," was his conclusion, "but I prefer to work here where a Mexican is a man."

Asked as to the possibility of another revolution in Mexico in the immediate future, Torres referred to the widespread and persistent rumors that certain Mexican political leaders were meeting in San Antonio, Tex., to lay plans for an outbreak.

"It looks to me," said he, "as tho the United States were actually encouraging factional strife in Mexico. If not, why do they permit these plottings to go on across the border? And why should they not encourage division among us? It will make easier the coming absorption of Mexico by the United States."

Then I turned the conversation to the economic situation confronting Mexico. "Yes," said Torres, "we are an agricultural people. Still, modern industry has made serious inroads on the old handicrafts. Large scale organization is taking the place of the small producer.

"Another thing," he went on. "Just consider the way men are treated by the big industries. The corporation handles men just the way I handle my tools. Here is a big heavy wrench. When I am thru with it for a moment I throw it right on the ground. That is the way the peons are treated. Here is another tool that I use in the adjustment of magnetos. You see, I keep it wrapped in paper, and whenever I use it, I wipe it carefully and return it to its box. That is the way the corporation treats skilled labor.

"Do you see this drill? I have broken it. Perhaps I can make a punch of it. If not, I will throw it on the scrap heap. That is the worker who has lost an arm or a leg. If they can, they make him a watchman at a low wage. If he is too badly battered up they throw him on the human scrap pile."

Torres then told me how he made a protest against reduced pay and lengthened hours of labor in one of the big oil companies. He was blacklisted but the struggle over his case had restored the 8-hour day.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, ETC.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
624 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES
By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50 6 months $2.00 3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50 6 months $2.50 3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL } Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE }
MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1922, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Organize the Unorganized

Only a small percentage of the wage workers of this country are organized in labor unions, whether in the American Federation of Labor, the independents, or the I. W. W. Such a condition is an open menace to existing unions, as well as a condition in which the great mass of unorganized are suffering helplessly under conditions which are outrageous.

There is a natural expectation that the largest body of labor, the A. F. of L., should undertake the organization of the great masses of unorganized workers. It could certainly organize these workers if it wished. They are not, in the main, antagonistic to unions, in many cases they are clamoring for a union that will not only organize but fight militantly, as unions should. The A. F. of L. has the machinery and the organized resources that no other organization has to carry on a great organization drive.

In the shops and factories where millions of workers remain unorganized the A. F. of L. has a beginning in the form of members working at some organized craft surrounded by a majority of unorganized workers of other crafts in the same industry. They have everything in common but unionization. They are exploited by the same corporation, sworn at by the same boss, underpaid by the same paymaster, subject to the same shop rules and produce the same commodity by mutual labor. Yet they are separated disorganized, powerless!

In the face of this condition, which is bad enough in boom times, a period is approaching in which millions will be thrown out of work and the unorganized and the unskilled will be used to beat down the wage and hour standard of even the aristocratic skilled workers. It is well known that no contract is worth the paper it is written on when an unemployed army stands at the shop gates.

These facts demand action, courageous and unequivocal from the 44th annual convention of the A. F. of L., now meeting at El Paso. The Trade Union Educational League has long fought for the organization of the unorganized. The means and methods of doing this great task may be defined differently, but that the A. F. of L. must take the initiative and begin a great drive with all its powers by uniting its forces in all localities and industries to sweep the wide masses into the ranks of the unions, is a primary necessity.

If the T. U. E. L. resolution, which will be submitted to the convention is ignored, the primary duty of the A. F. of L. is ignored. If it is defeated, the whole working class, organized as well as unorganized, is defeated. What will the A. F. of L. do?

The Struggle for Morocco

The increasing political and economic disturbances in Spain are now approaching a sweeping revolutionary character. This developing revolt against the Fascist directorate of Primo de Rivera is closely intertwined with the disasters that have befallen the Spanish military forces fighting on the Moroccan desert against the Riffs.

Morocco has more than once been a bone of contention amongst the imperialist national groups. Those who recall the Moroccan incident before the war will remember that it was accepted then as a certain indication of an impending world conflict. Today, Spain is looking upon the territory occupied by the Riffs as a means of recouping the fortunes of her weakened capitalists. So far the Spanish army has been humbled in the dust before the victorious Moroccan troops of the Riff sultan. Many suspect French aid has played its part in the overwhelming defeat administered to the marauders in Spanish uniform.

The fight of the Riffs is only part of the fight of the hundreds of millions of colonial peoples enslaved and exploited by the capitalist imperialist groups. The land occupied by the Riffs, who recently have proclaimed their national independence, abounds in such natural resources as iron, silver, copper and lead. It is these resources that the European powers are now scheming and fighting for. It is precisely this reason that accounts for the continued military operations by Spain to maintain its hold on this desert country.

The Riffs will never be given their independence by Spain as long as the Spanish exploiters retain political power. The only language the Spanish oppressors, like the American, British, French and other imperialists, understand is the language of the machine-gun and the bayonet. The Riffs know this to be the truth. They have been speaking rather eloquently in this tongue to the Spanish Fascist clique. The sooner the oppressed colonial peoples in the Philippines, in India, in Java, in Syria and in the Havaii islands learn to speak as effectively and in the same tongue as the Riffs have spoken the sooner will they win their freedom.

False Solutions

The Communists, basing their economic analysis of capitalism on the science of Marxism, have been maintaining that every attempt at the solution of any contradiction in the present industrial order only tends to beget many more contradictions.

We have in mind the much-heralded Dawes plan and its operation. No sooner had the Dawes program been formally accepted than British and French capitalist interests started to set in motion special machinery to counteract the operation of the new reparation scheme. American capitalists dominating international economy today are now preparing to do the same.

The international chamber of commerce, with headquarters in Rome, is in practice only a puppet of the best brains of Yankee finance and industry. This makeshift organization has appointed a subcommittee to study the effects of the Dawes plan and devise ways and means of meeting the difficulties and complications that are likely to arise in the wake of the acceptance of the American receivership of Germany. Such prominent American employing class leaders as Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the General Electric company, A. Bedford, chairman of the board of the Standard Oil company of New Jersey, and Fred I. Kent, vice-president of Morgan's Bankers' Trust company, are amongst the chosen few to lead our ruling class out of whatever wilderness the Dawes plan might bring them into.

We are certain that every fraudulent solution devised by these financial solons to meet the obstacles arising from the Dawes plan will only prove a fertile source for new and more serious hurdles in the path of capitalist production and exchange. The painful phase of the whole contradictory process lies in the fact that it is so onerous, so burdensome, so costly to the working masses. At this moment thousands of German railway workers are being dismissed in order to enable the allied and American imperialists to stabilize German capitalism. This stabilization is another false solution since all the imperialists are after is to stabilize the poverty and the degradation of the German and other working masses—to perpetuate world capitalism.

Imperialist Leadership

The warning sounded by Sir Auckland Geddes, former British ambassador to the United States, that America was the menace to British imperial supremacy is significant and timely. Geddes points out very well that England was losing her hold on her vast colonial possessions and that the United States is more and more strengthening its influence on Canada, Australia and New Zealand.

Geddes' fears and warnings are well-founded. At no time before in history has the colonial question been fraught with so much danger to the continuity and stability of the British Empire. India has been neither pacified nor cajoled into submission. Egypt is in turmoil. The menacing shadow of French imperialism hangs over Mesopotamia. American investments are increasing at a terrific pace in Canada. In the Pacific, Australia and New Zealand are trebling their trade with the United States. The Yankee imperialists are utilizing their conflict with the Japanese capitalists to win over British Pacific sentiment in order to weaken or destroy the possibilities of Great Britain lining up with the Nipponese when the war breaks in the Far East.

Swiftly and surely have the American imperialists been overwhelming the British in the race for world commercial, financial and industrial supremacy. America's colonial empire is yet only a source of strength to Yankee imperialism. Great Britain's colonial empire is not only a source of strength but is steadily assuming the role of a serious danger. The opposition to American domination in the colonies on the part of the oppressed peoples is not yet of sufficient magnitude to challenge effectively the rule of the Woods, Farringtons, Kellogs and Reilleys.

In the form in which it was given the warning sounded by Geddes appears friendly. In fact, it is a call to action to rouse the British imperialists to get on their hind legs and fight back. The declaration of Geddes only adds more pitch-blackness to the gathering war clouds now hovering in a pall over the world.

William Butler, Calvin Coolidge's strongest financial backer for the presidency, is expected to be placed on the foreign relations committee, one of the most important committees in congress. Butler is a millionaire manufacturer. He intends to be the Mark Hanna of the Coolidge administration.

Considering the political infancy of the Texas voters it's quite natural they elected a governess. They could have done worse however. They might have elected the Moron who ran on the Ku Klux Klan ticket.

The workers who took Coolidge's prosperity dope seriously will have plenty of time to wake up from their debauch. The textile workers of New England found a wage cut greeting them a few days after Coolidge was elected.

H. L. Mencken, is now scribbling for the Chicago Tribune. Mencken is supposed to be a radical but the type that the capitalists like. No fear that Mencken will help to topple the capitalist system.

The Spanish dictatorship succeeded on floating an internal loan of 1,200,000,000 pesetas. The press dispatch does not say how many barrels of castor oil were used in putting it over.

The Decline of Capitalism and the Rise of Sovietism.

By ISRAEL AMTER.

MR. HUGHES has often declared that Soviet Russia is in no position to play a part in international commerce, so that recognition would be of no practical meaning. A glance over the present situation in a few capitalist countries and comparison of it with the situation in Soviet Russia would not be amiss, in order to blast this idea.

The late labor government in Great Britain boasted upon going into power that it alone had the means of abolishing unemployment and raising the industrial and political condition of the country. Ramsay MacDonald may be a brilliant orator, but he cannot get glib with facts. Great Britain is in the midst of a real crisis. The Dawes reparation plan, which is intended not only as a means of restoring Germany to world economy, but also of improving the general economic situation of the capitalist world, has brought no wave of prosperity to Great Britain. On the contrary, the general situation has become more critical. At the end of September, only 170 of the 484 blast furnaces were in operation. The September iron production amounted to 562,000 tons compared with an average monthly production of 869,000 tons in 1912. The month's exports of iron and steel amounted to 325,462 tons compared with 353,463 tons in 1923 and 414,100 tons in pre-war times.

The decline is attributed to the expansion of the Belgian and French iron and steel industry, the competition of America, which is exporting in ever larger quantities to countries which hitherto have been British domain, and the fact that the British colonies and Dominions are becoming large producers of iron and steel themselves. Thus the decrease of 46 per cent in iron and steel exports from 1913 to 1922 is accounted for by a diminution of 44 per cent to the colonies and 59 per cent to the Dominions.

Coal production has reached a critical stage in Great Britain. In nine months, it dropped 12,680,000 tons. Exports decreased 14,832,000 tons, meaning a reduction in export values amounting to £1,557,000. On September 27, 48 mines shut down.

The crisis in the British coal industry is attributed in greatest part to French competition, to the opening of mines in Africa, India, the Far East and Central America, and to the increased competition of America which exported coal to the amount of 865,000,000. No wonder that the British miners demanded that MacDonald reject the Dawes plan—not in the interest of their fellow-workers in Germany—but as a millstone that has been laid about the necks of the British miners.

The textile industry is in a hopeless state. Before the war, unemployment did not exceed 2 per cent. At the present time, 10 per cent of the male and 8 per cent of the female operatives are jobless, and half of the workers are working short-time amounting to 1 to 4 days a week. In 1913, the average monthly production amounted to 596,000,000 square yards; in August of this year it was only 374,000,000 square yards. The crisis is due to the growing importance of the French textile industry and the increasing power of the American industry. In 1913 there were 55,000,000 spindles in Great Britain, 29,000,000 in the U. S. A. In 1924, Great Britain operated 56,700,000 spindles, the U. S. A. 37,000,000. America's exports have increased from 27 to 39 million dollars. Furthermore, China, Japan and India have increased the number of spindles in operation.

Coal and iron are the life of modern industry. They are the very core of the power of British capitalism. These industries are slowly paralyzing in Great Britain—a capitalist state of the highest order.

The Dawes plan, panacea for all the misery of the world, is in operation in Germany. At least the first steps have already been taken. Unquestionably being intended to aid the capitalists of the country in restoring "order" and in paying the reparations—WHICH MUST COME FROM A SURPLUS OF EXPORTS—it ought to produce excellent results. Dawes, the honorable vice-president-elect of the U. S. A., and his boss, J. P. Morgan, have told us so, so facts should substantiate their reasoning. But the facts do not. In September imports exceeded exports by 59,400,000 marks (about $14,000,000). Exports increased from 564,050,000 marks in August to 589,300,000 marks in September; but imports rose from 448,200,000 marks in August to 623,400,000 in September. The value of exported manufactured wares decreased from 454,600,000 marks to 442,800,000 marks, while that of half-finished products increased from 37,050,000 marks to 42,760,000 marks—the sole increase.

Wages, as a consequence, are steadily decreasing in Germany, factories and mines are shutting down, hours are being lengthened. Wages are as low as 15 marks (about $3.50) a week, from which must be deducted 10 per cent for taxes, insurance, etc. Apprentices get as low as 7 marks (about $1.60) a week, with the usual deductions.

This is capitalist Germany, where two-thirds of the direct and indirect taxes are shouldered by the working class, while the big capitalists report an "improvement in conditions."

These are two typical examples of capitalist countries which give the workers "happiness, prosperity and well-being." These are a few of the immediate "wholesome" results of the Dawes plan, which was hailed by the capitalists and capitalist governments the world over as the means of saving humanity.

Soviet Russia, on the other hand, to which Morgan, in his beneficence, has suggested the application of a Dawes plan, is ever steadily on the upgrade. Despite the years of revolution, blockade and famine—and despite the poor crops of this year—conditions in Soviet Russia are uninterruptedly improving. In the month of September, production of coal increased 11 per cent, of yarn 56 per cent, of textile goods 51 per cent. The metal, textile and leather industries cannot supply the demand for goods. Despite the demand which, in capitalist countries leads to rises in prices, prices in Soviet Russia have been lowered. The NEP people have tried to take advantage of the situation, but the competition of the state-controlled and cooperative organizations has beaten them. There is a discrepancy in the wholesale and retail price index in favor of the latter, but that is to be regulated by the government.

In September, the value of the total production increased 150,000,000 rubles ($75,000,000). Soviet Russia intends to buy $200,000,000 worth of goods in the United States. This will include about 425,000 bales of cotton, worth 100,000,000 rubles. The budget for 1924-5 provides for exports of $235,000,000, an increase of $10,000,000 over last year. This will mean an export balance of $38,000,000. Included in the exports will be 1,350,000 tons of grain.

This steady solidification of Soviet economy in the face of a collapse of world capitalism is one of the phenomena of the day. Even if there is a temporary period of stability in the United States, as long as the crisis, not buy from the United States, American industry will be threatened. The failure of crops in Argentine, Australia, Canada, Germany, Rumania and Soviet Russia have aided the American farmer during the past few months. The manipulations of the capitalists during the election campaign, and the fact that stocks were being used up, have temporarily kept the unemployment figures in the United States from mounting. The Dawes report states that the condition in Germany is bad, but would not have led to "insurrection or revolution." The situation of the German worker is NOT improving: it is getting worse. The British worker is getting into the same position. These are symptoms of the fact that the Dawes plan, the last attempt of the capitalists to restore Europe, cannot rehabilitate her.

Need it be argued that Sovietism is the only safeguard for the workers against further exploitation and degradation? Need it be argued that capitalism is leading world economy to hell and that, despite all attacks, military invasions and blockades, Soviet Russia is rising to new heights? Facts speak. Let the above facts speak for themselves.

ELEMENTARY MARXIAN ECONOMICS

CLASS in Elementary Marxian Economics, questions for Wednesday, Nov. 19. Meets at 2613 Hirsch Blvd., at 8 p. m. Earl R. Browder, instructor. Read this week, "Value, Price and Profit," Marx, chaps. 11 and 12, and "Wage Labor and Capital," Marx.

1. What are the different parts into which surplus value is divided?
2. Is there any such thing as "value of land," in the Marxian sense of the term value?
3. What is the source of rent? Of interest? Of industrial or commercial profit?
4. Which is the most important relationship of the worker—the relationship to the landlord, to the financial capitalist, or to the employing capitalist? Why?
5. What is the difference between a rate of profit based on capital advanced in wages and a rate of profit based upon total capital employed? Give an example.
6. How does a "rate of profit," based upon the total capital invested, conceal the degree of exploitation of labor (rate of surplus value)?
7. Deducting from the value of a commodity, the value of the raw material (past labor) used in its production, what remains? What becomes of this remaining value?
8. Can the value crystallized in a commodity be altered by any change in the rate of division between profit and wage?
9. When wages are changed, does that change value of the commodity? Does it change profit? Does change of profit change value of commodity? Does it change the wage?
10. Does an increased profit create a higher price for commodities? Does an increased wage bring a higher price for commodities? If increased profits or wages do not increase prices, what does? What lowers prices?

Answers to Last Week's Questions.

Collateral reading, "Value, Price and Profit," Marx, chaps. 8, 9 and 10. "Wage Labor and Capital," Marx.

1. As labor, measured by units of time, is itself the fundamental measurement of value, the value of 10 hours labor cannot be determined by anything but the 10 hours labor itself. The value of labor power takes the semblance of the value of labor, although, strictly speaking, value of labor is a senseless term. Marx says: "In using the term 'value of labor,' I shall only use it as a popular slang term for 'value of labor power.'"
2. It is determined by the quantity of labor socially necessary to reproduce it. The value of labor power will always, under normal capitalist production, be less than the values produced by the application of labor power. It is this margin between the value of labor power and the value of the products of its application that is the source of surplus value.
3. The amount of surplus value is determined by the relation of wages for the value of labor power to the value of the commodities produced (crystallized labor). Increase in wages is reflected in decreased surplus value and vice versa.
4. Wages constitute the price of the necessaries required to reproduce the power of labor, therefore the price of labor power; to speak of wages as the power of labor, would be an attempt to establish an impossible equation, because there is always a portion of labor received by the capitalist without price (surplus value).
5. Under slavery, serfdom, and wage labor alike, portions of labor are paid while others are unpaid. This similarity is obscured by the social form of the exploitation; slavery has the appearance of consisting of all unpaid labor; serfdom is the open division between paid and unpaid labor; while wage labor is covered by the fiction of being all paid labor. In each case labor produces values which are expropriated by the ruling class.
6. Profits are regularly realized under capitalism by selling commodities at their actual value. The transformation of commodity into money is the realization of the unpaid labor, the surplus value, crystallized in the commodity, which is the source of all profit.
7. Capitalists desire longer hours because within each hour is contained a portion of unpaid labor which increases profits. Longer hours also increase the demand for labor power and thus reduces its price. The workers want shorter hours of labor because it decreases the rate of exploitation and increases their relative economic power in the market.
8. Whenever the rate of exploitation is higher than 50 per cent, and the increased rates for overtime are compensated for by savings in reduction of overhead costs and more intensive use of means of production, then capitalists make higher profits by long hours at higher rates of production, then capitalists make higher profits by long hours at higher rates of production, then capitalists make higher profits by long hours at higher rates of wages.
9. The value of a new commodity produced by the application of labor power to raw material is determined by the socially necessary labor expended in its immediate production—plus the past labor crystallized in the raw material.
10. Surplus value is realised by the capitalist in the form of profit thru the sale of the commodity—thru its transformation into money.

EXPOSE BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSES

(Continued from Page 1.)

Carlson reported on the factory campaign.

Comrade Garver in charge of the campaign at Sears-Roebuck and company reported briefly on the results of last week's campaign, as published in the DAILY WORKER of last week and remarked that the response of the comrades to work at the Sears-Roebuck and Philipsborn was very encouraging and inspiring. Many and many comrades laid off work to attend to this work and many comrades were on the job every day, morning and evening, rain or shine. However there were only a few, who the volunteering, did not appear on the firing line and the cases of those will be looked after by the city organization.

Announcements were then made of the industrial class which holds its next lecture tonight on the Economic Work of the Nuclei, and Comrade Williamson will then summarize his whole course of lectures. Comrades who failed to attend this class should at least attend the last lecture and get an outline of the work accomplished.

Hold League Workers' Meeting.

It was also announced that Tuesday, Nov. 18, at 2613 Hirsch Blvd., a functionaries meeting will be held. All organizers, secretaries, educational directors and literature agents should attend this meeting, so that the work of the new branches can be carried on more swiftly and efficiently and therefore with greater results.

Committees were picked to distribute posters advertising the Young Workers League concert and ball of next Saturday, Nov. 22, at the Workers' Lyceum, as well as to put up posters for the Labor Defense bazaar. And volunteers were called for next week's campaign. Well over fifty comrades responded to thet appeal to be at the gates of Montgomery, Ward, and Chicago Mail Order houses every afternoon and evening in the week.

A young comrade from Sears-Roebuck, reported very briefly on the effect the Young Worker had in Sears, and said that the young workers there liked the paper, liked as the termed it, its audacity in razzing the bosses, and telling the truth about the conditions. He said the bosses were trying to intimidate the workers there from buying or reading the paper on the premises, but workers were all buying it and sticking it in their pockets when the bosses are around.

Must Organize League Units.

Comrade Carlson reported on our aims in these mail order house campaigns, pointing out that a unit of the Young Workers League must be established in every single house where we are carying on a campaign. He told how our members inside the plant and those working outside should talk to the young workers there, and taking up any petty grievance which they may have (and there is plenty) lead up to their bigger political problems, show to them our youth demands and enroll them into our ranks.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

their parasites spend the rest of their days or whether they sleep in their jackets or not. That is something that the workers of other countries must worry over.

* * *

THE BECKWITH PRESS, which publishes the literary garbage put out by America's foremost stool-pigeons does not seem to prosper very well. A correspondent sent us a letter from this publishing firm in a company for which he works, asking for help in getting their anti-radical literature into the public libaries. The letter in which the request is made is replete with grammatical errors and bad spelling. They complain that they cannot find any retail stores to handle such books as "The Reds in America" and other productions exposing the Communist "menace."

* * *

THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE is getting excited over the opening of Senator Borah's latest campaign for the recognition of Soviet Russia. Even Washington dispatches admit that the exposure of the "Zinoviev letter" as a forgery takes away another argument that Hughes' friends were about to use extensively to combat recognition. The Tribune states frankly that the United States cannot recognize Russia as long as it is a workers' government. But the former premier of France kept on saying that until the French sent him into the political wilderness.

San Francisco on the Job.

SAN FRANCISCO, Cal., Nov. 16.—Workers Party members of San Francisco will please keep the following dates open:

On Saturday and Sunday nights, Nov. 22 and 23, there will be a bazaar for the benefit of Labor Unity, on Saturday night, Nov. 29, a dance given by the International Chorus and on Sunday night, Nov. 30, a mass meeting for the benefit of German relief. All of these affairs will be held at 235 Valencia street. Notify your friends

THE FIRST TIME IN HISTORY—AND YOU ARE TO PLAY YOUR PART!

A few days, and we'll tell you about it! On tip-toe, ready to go!

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1922, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Vol. II. No. 206. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 18, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

MINERS FIGHT SLASH IN WAGES

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

JOHN L. LEWIS has a competitor for the post of secretary of labor in the Coolidge cabinet. John Donlin, until a few days ago head of the Building Trades Department of the American Federation of Labor has his hat in the ring. It remains to be seen whether the Coolidge wise men will prefer a member of the Gompers machine, which supported LaFollette to a man who lent his prestige as head of the largest union in the Federation to the G. O. P. cause. According to Donlin's press agents, he had a good war record, this being testified to by Barney Baruch. The claim is also made for Donlin, that he prevented hundreds of strikes, thus saving millions for the capitalists. John L. Lewis will have to get up early to get ahead of Sammy's strikebreakers.

• • •

A VERY strict censorship prevails in Italy. All signs point to Mussolini's early fall. Last Friday only a short dispatch was permitted to go out, the radical journalists are able to send reliable information from frontier points. What will happen in Italy this week should prove of tremendous interest to the workers of the world.

• • •

THE Chinese situation has left the headlines. Dean O'Bannion shoved it off the front page in Chicago and every other large city boasts of a crop of murders that makes a good sized civil war look puny. Yet, very interesting developments are taking place in China. Indications are that England and the United States are developing an anti-Japanese policy, while Japan is flirting with Italy, and France and is trying to consolidate itself in China. According to all reports from the Orient, the only great power that is China's friend is Soviet Russia.

• • •

REACTIONARY labor papers that supported LaFollette are kept busy defending themselves against the charge of radicalism preferred by the wily republican politicians who knew just exactly what the labor fakers would do when accused of being revolutionists. The Federation News, of Chicago, uses up more than a column of editorial space defending the socialist party against the terrible charge of "revolutionary." The socialists simply submerged themselves says the News, which is very, very true. In fact they did not even keep their heads above water.

• • •

THE NEW LEADER, official organ of the socialist party of New York, is good enough to give the Workers Party credit for polling 25,000 votes in the recent election, but claims 5,000,000 for the socialist party. A most conservative estimate of the number of votes polled by Foster is 100,000, not considering the hundreds of thousands of disfranchised workers who were reached by the Communist propaganda during the campaign. If the Workers Party had joined the LaFollette circus, it also, could claim five million votes and the socialist party could have claimed fourteen millions if it had endorsed Coolidge instead of LaFollette. Catching votes is no difficult task provided it is an end in itself as was always the case with the socialist party.

• • •

NO Communist will judge the value of the Workers Party campaign by the number of votes cast for its candidates. The ruling classes of this country have so fixed things that a large number of the workers are always disfranchised, even those who are citizens, not taking into consideration the foreign born wage slaves who have not become citizens. These voteless workers are the backbone of the heavy industries and tho their strength does not manifest itself at the ballot box, its political power can be manifested between elections in strikes and other mass efforts.

• • •

SOME of the so-called farmer-labor party leaders in Minnesota supported republican party candidates against the Communists, nominated on the farmer-labor ticket. The very same action was taken against the Communists in England by the high moguls of the labor party. Yet despite this treachery the Communists made a splendid showing in Minnesota as did the Communists in England, the latter going defeated by very close margins. No power on earth can keep back the rising tide of Communism.

SCRANTON COAL DIGGERS STRIKE AGAINST CUT

Bosses Pay No Heed to Jacksonville Pact

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 17.—Reduction of wages by new "regulations" imposed by the Hudson coal company, has sent 22,000 anthracite miners out on strike in the town of Parsons.

The "cossacks" or the coal and iron police are already active, having received orders to break the strike if it is not speedily settled.

Cal's Conciliator Arrives.

From Harrisburg, Frank Hall, acting secretary of the state department of mines, disclaims any jurisdiction in the conflict. "We are planning no action," Hall said. "Such matters are really out of our jurisdiction unless we are specifically ordered to make an investigation." He amended this by saying that "developments might necessitate action later.

Thomas R. Davis, a "commissioner of conciliation" has arrived here under orders from Secretary of Labor Thomas R. Davis, to endeavor to settle the differences by mediation.

Czar Lewis Orders Strikers Back.

With nine collieries in Luzerne county, one in Lackawanna county and eleven of the 20 between Forest City and Naticoke tied up by this so-called "outlaw strike" called by the general grievance committee, President John L. Lewis, of the U. M. W. of A., telegraphed from the A. F. of L. convention at El Paso to the district officials to put pressure upon the men to force them back to work.

It is understood that of the 22,000 first reported as striking, 8,000 were influenced by the union officials and remained at work.

MUSSOLINI'S POLICE FORCED TO ARREST FASCISTI GUNMAN

ROME, Nov. 17.—The police were forced to arrest a Fascist gunman and apologize to the Soviet embassy, here today, when the Fascist member insulted M. Youreneff, the Soviet ambassador.

The Fascist tore the red flag from the automobile of Youreneff, in front of the foreign office where the Soviet ambassador was keeping an appointment with Premier Mussolini.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

Are You Ready? Juniors!

By L. R. BORGESON.

Juniors and all other workingclass children all over the country! This is for you to read! Today, the second day of "National Education Week," the week against the workers and their children, is a very important day for us. For today in the bosses' schools (and all schools in this country are in control of the rich bosses who order the lies told during this week) the teachers are going to tell us even more lies about the workers and their "flag of freedom" than they did yesterday.

We in the Junior section of the Young Workers League and we children who read the DAILY WORKER and who ought to be in the Junior section, konw that when the teacher in school tells us that the workers who strike, and want better conditions are murderers and that all people that are not rich are wicked and lazy, why, we know that she is really lying. But there are hundreds of children in even the same school where each of you go, children who sit next to you in your room and study with you, who have never learned the truth about the working class.

They are going to believe every one of the lies that the teacher tells about the workers. And when they grow up it will be these same children who will have to shoulder guns and shoot down striking workers, or be sent across the seas to take away the freedom from the workers in Soviet Russia that they worked so hard to get.

Juniors! Working class children! Are you ready to do your part for the working class movement of the whole world? Then do this: Read over the Junior program for today very, very carefully and then be brave! Get up in school when the teacher says something about the workers or the Red flag that you know is not true, and tell the workers' side of the story. In that way the children who know nothing of the working class fight for freedom and joy and happiness, will hear about it, and the bosses will not be successful in putting over the lies of national miseducation week.

If you are not a Junior, do the same thing, but do another thing too, a thing that you will always be glad your whole life thru that you've done—JOIN THE JUNIOR GROUP! If you do not know of the one in your city or town, write to the national office of the Juniors of the Young Workers League, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, and we will get you in touch with the livest, most active bunch of children of the working class in your own town.

And Juniors! Prove that you really are like the Young Leninists of Soviet Russia—ALWAYS READY to take the part of the working class.

• • •

Program on page three.

Sun Yat Sen in Threat to Oust International Capitalists from China

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, Nov. 17.—Sun Yat Sen, war lord of Canton and dictator of South China, landed in Shanghai today. Incensed at the protests coming from foreign quarters that he is allowed to enter the international settlement here, Sun made a statement denouncing the activities of the foreign powers in China.

"If foreigners should dare to oppose my presence in Shanghai, I am determined to take drastic steps to deal with them," Dr. Sun's statement reads. "The time must come when all foreign settlements in China will be abolished. Every patriotic citizen of China realizes fully that China's rights have been infringed upon long enough. Should the revocation of foreign concessions be delayed any longer I fear some unhappy incident will result."

Dr. Sun's destination is Tien Tsin where he is to meet Feng Yu Hsiang, the christian general of China, who now is in control of the Peking government. The date of Sun's departure for Tien Tsin is unknown.

Thank You!

A few days ago we printed a letter from prison as a sample of many coming to our office, showing what sacrifices the men behind the bars make to get a subscription to the DAILY WORKER. This request entitled, "Will you send the DAILY WORKER to Jail?" has brought a response of $5.00 from George Linday of Evanston, Ill. The money and a slight allowance on our part will enable the prisoner whose letter we published to receive the DAILY WORKER, the Communist International and the Workers' Monthly for six months as he desired. We wish to thank the contributor who will no doubt hear from the prisoner directly acknowledging the gift.

There are others in prison anxious to read the DAILY WORKER and our other publications. We will gladly accept donations for this purpose.

Witness Links Fahy, Postal Ace, With Rondout Robbery

William. J. Fahy, former postal ace, was directly linked with the $2,000,000 Rondout mail robbery for the first time in testimony today when Jesse Newton, one of the confessed robbers took the witness stand in the federal court and told of various holdups planned before the Rondout job.

Newton said he and several others were trying to hold up a mail truck which went by too rapidly when he saw two men watching him. . "They're all right," his companion told him, he testified, "They are Fahy and Murray and are in on this."

POPULAR STORM BREAKS OVER BENITO'S HEAD

His Followers Are Now Deserting Him

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHIASSO, Italo-Swiss Frontier, Nov. 17.—With the opening of parliament this week, a veritable storm of opposition, which for many months has been gathering fury, is expected to break over the head of the iron-handed dictator, Mussolini.

One after another, individuals and groups who have been staunch supporters of the Fascist regime are deserting to the ranks of the opposition. One after another, they have visited Mussolini, learned from him that his policy is to remain unchanged, and, fearing the anger of the workers, have given up their posts in the government.

Turning From Mussolini.

Besides former Fascist sympathizers who have turned from the Mussolini government, the dictator will have to face the deputies of the opposition parties—socialists, liberals, democrats, maximalists. The Communists, altho not considering themselves members of the "legal" opposition, will of course, wage bitter warfare on the Fascist government.

Opposition to Mussolini in parliament will probably take the form, first, of a boycott—a refusal on the part of the deputies of the opposition to be present or, if present, to vote, when a vote of confidence is called for.

Strong Opposition.

That the state of affairs in parliament is only a mild reflection of the feeling toward Mussolini thruout Italy can be readily understood. The last parliamentary elections witnessed a reign of terror against all those who, it was feared, might vote for other than Fascist deputies, and a Fascist "majority" in the chamber was obtained literally, by the use of brute force, mainly against workers and peasants, a great many of whom found themselves locked in their homes during the period of balloting.

Elected Many Deputies.

That the workers were able under such circumstances to send a large number of opposition delegates to parliament, a great many of them Communists, gave an indication of the state of mind in the country. And the opposition has since then increased hundred-fold, due to the brutalities perpetrated by the Mussolini government within the past few months.

The strictest censorship has been established thruout the country, not only with regard to newspapers and periodicals published here, but also with regard to dispatches which correspondents have attempted to get thru to other countries.

Lumber Trust Convicts I. W. W.

EUREKA, Cal., Nov. 17. — John Bruns, I. W. W., convicted in Lassen county under the California criminal syndicalism law was given the regulation sentence of 1 to 14 years in San Quentin prison. Lassen county is controlled by the lumber companies, with the entire population under their influence.

COMMUNISTS OF NORTH DAKOTA SCORE AT POLLS

First Communist Elected in that State

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WILLISTON, N. D., Nov. 17. —Comrade A. C. Miller, secretary of the Workers Party branch here was elected to the state legislature, defeating a sticker candidate put up against him by the nonpartisan league politicians of Williams County.

Comrade Andrew Omholt who was candidate for sheriff of Williams County received a good vote but not enough to elect him.

Considering the fact that both candidates openly advertised themselves as Communists, the results are remarkable. A specially bitter fight was put up against Comrade Omholt, the voters being warned by the yellow press that the real issue of the campaign was law enforcement versus Communism.

Build Workers Party.

Comrade Miller is the first member of the party in North Dakota to be elected to the state legislature. He will go to Bismarck for the purpose of showing that the political machinery of the capitalist system cannot do anything for the farmers and the workers, that it is necessary for them to build up a system of their own and that they must rally around the Workers Party, the only organization in the United States that can solve their problems.

W. P. Branches Being Organized.

A strong Workers Party branch is now being organized at Williston, the comrades here desiring to use it as a base for party activities in four or five counties in northwestern North Dakota. At Bonetrail in Williams county a branch of ten members has already been organized and these new recruits to the party are ready and willing to educate themselves for Communist work in their respective neghborhoods.

Comrade Andrew Omholt will look after the party activities in this territory.

MEXICANS MAY DIE TO SAVE BRITAIN'S FACE

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—Two Mexicans have been sentenced to face a firing squad on the charge of having killed Mrs. Rosalie Evans, a British subject. The sentenced Mexicans are Alejo Garcia and Francisco Ruiz.

They were convicted Sunday after a trial lasting two days at Pueblo.

The friends of the convicted are citing numerous irregularities on which they base an appeal which they hope will be successful. The attorneys for the sentenced Mexicans are especially indignant over the hasty resumption of the trial after the judge had granted them a forty-eight hour recess in which to study the bill of particulars.

Diplomats Happy.

Great satisfaction is being expressed in diplomatic circles over the outcome of the trial. The diplomats feel sure that the sentence will stand. They say that this will facilitate negotiations now pending between Mexico and Great Britain for the complete restoration of normal relations.

Two British representatives are being charged with tampering with the witnesses. The defence has shown that Mrs. Evans was not killed by fire from the rifles of Garcia and Ruiz. John Strathans, the foreman under Mrs. Evans, is said to have fired the fatal shot in a moment of panic.

Albania Recognizes Russia.

TIRANA, Albania, Nov. 17.—Albania has recognized Russia. The Russian government will send a representative to Tirana.

EXECUTIVE COUNCIL'S REPORT TO A. F. OF L. CONVENTION AT EL PASO IS MODEL OF EVASION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 17.—Faced with the fact of a rapidly declining membership, with antiquated craft unions either going to pieces in conflict with concentrated capital or yielding up conditions step by step, with reaction triumphant in politics and industry, imperialism threatening war with Japan, the nation threatened by a period of crisis and unemployment and the "open shop" drive against all unions, wages scales and hours ready to take advantage of the competition with German slave labor under the Dawes plan, the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor opened here today with a report of its executive council which is a model of evasion of struggle against capitalist exploitation and of class collaboration with the employers.

An 84 Page Bluff

The report is comprised in an 84 page pamphlet—a dead loss of paper and ink. Ignoring facts and waving aside the bitter realities faced by rank and file workers all over the land who strive to wrest a living out of the merciless corporations, the hard-faced, pot-bellied fakers of the executive council assert with brazen nerve that "labor has never occupied so favorable a spot in the world's proceedings." Whatever the "world's proceedings" may be.

Despite the policy of harassing and expelling from the unions every progressive minded worker who lifts his or her voice against the reactionary policies of the Gompers machine, the executive council's report blandly remarks: "It is with immense satisfaction that we note the growth of constructive and progressive thought on every hand."

The executive council is headed by Sam Gompers as president, Daniel J. Tobin, treasurer, Frank Morrison, secretary, and eight vice-presidents, including James Duncan, Frank Duffy, William Green, T. A. Rickert, Jacob Fischer, Matthew Woll, Martin F. Ryan and James Wilson. If these reactionaries should perceive any "growth of progressive thought" it would be with fear and hatred.

Can You Beat This?

The proof of this is that last year these misleaders of labor unseated William F. Dunne, representing the Butte, Montana, Silver Bow Labor Council at the 43rd annual convention held in Portland, Oregon. Criticism of this has made Gompers seek his natural shelter in hypocrisy. In

(Continued on page 6)

PEACE FALLS ON WARRING CLANS IN THE A. F. OF L.

At Least It Is Truce That Ends Fighting

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 17.—Peace, blessed peace, unctuous and prayerful, has fallen upon the warring factions within the American Federation of Labor bureaucracy which had previously battled each other more or less openly over the split in three directions of the labor fakers during the election.

At least if there is not peace there is a truce, and the proof of this is the report of the executive council to the convention of the A. F. of L. upon the political activities of the council.

Woll Writes Report.

The report was written by Matthew Woll, the slick aspirant for the position of Gompers when the old chieftain of the fakers has the good grace to seek repose in Abraham's bosom.

The report is a model of evasion and lack of decision, containing nothing offensive to either of the old capitalist parties and their supporters in the Federation who at Atlantic City fought

(Continued from Page 2)

ROUSE WORKERS AT MAIL ORDER HOUSE OF MONTGOMERY WARD & CO.; ISSUE CALL FOR MORE VOLUNTEERS

Braving cold weather and snow yesterday morning many comrades of the Young Workers League of Chicago were in front of Montgomery Ward & Co., the second largest mail order house in the country and distributed leaflets to more than 4,000 employes announcing the sale of the special mail order edition of the Young Worker.

This is the second week that the Young Workers League has been carrying on its campaign to organize into the Young Workers League many of the young workers in the mail order houses. During the first week more than 5,000 copies of the special edition of the Young Worker were sold in front of Sears, Roebuck and company and at Phillipsborn's.

This morning at 7:15 o'clock and every evening at 4:45 o'clock volunteers of branches 1, 4, 5 and 6 should report in front of the Montgomery Ward plant on Larrabee St. (630 W.) and Chicago Ave. (800 N.) to sell the Young Worker.

Members of branches 2 and 3 should report at 29th street and Indiana Ave. to distribute leaflets and sell the Young Worker in front of the Chicago Mail Order House.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

PIN ANOTHER MEDAL ON GENERAL LEONARD WOOD, G. O. P. STRIKEBREAKER

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17. — In a rather pitiful attempt to keep their arch strike-breaker in the limelight, the Coolidge government, thru Secretary of War Weeks, today announced the approval of two citations for gallantry in action awarded to Major General Leonard Wood. Wood, whose latest exploit was to keep down revolutionary sentiment in the Philippines, was awarded the citation because of his activity in killing Spaniards during the Spanish-American war.

New York Trade Unionists, Attention!

The Workers' School, the educational institution of the Workers Party in District No. 2, is offering a special training course for trade unionists. This course aims to make you a more effective militant in your trade union, a more intelligent and confident fighter in the class struggle.

Classes will be given in the American Trade Union Movement, the World Trade Union Movement, Problems of Various Industries, Organization.

Workers! Without knowledge there is no power. Courses at the Workers' School begin December 1. Enroll now and educate yourself for the struggle.

Information and registration at the office of the Workers' School, 208 East 12th St., New York City.

LEWIS' TOOLS IN PITTSBURGH FEAR RADICALS

Trying to Get Militants Off the Ticket

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 17.—The Lewis-Fagan machine is using all means their small brains can think of to disqualify and keep off the ballot the progressive candidates in District No. 5 election.

On top of the flimsy trumped-up charge the machine preferred against P. H. Toohey, candidate for district teller, they try to secure under false pretense the card of Andy Harmison who is the candidate for International Board member and thereby claim he is no longer a member of the union.

When charges against Toohey fell flat and even Vice-President Murray was unable to make them stick, the attack shifted onto Harmison.

There can always be found human vermin that will do the slimy work of the officials. Two of these, members of Harmison's former local, went to the secretary and demanded his membership card.

The old secretary was not willing to turn over to strangers the property left in his custody. He ask them what right they had to other members' cards and what answer he would give Harmison if he turned his card over to someone that had no right to it. These traitors had the nerve to say, "Tell him his card is void."

Shifted the Attack.

Meeting with failure in this method to eliminate Harmison from the election they then proceeded to prefer charges against him as being an avowed Communist. The charges were made in Harmison's former local. At this meeting a small army of the official family came with the purpose of intimidating the membership or disrupting the meeting in case the membership would not entertain the charge. In this they would have been successful if it were not for a group of progressives including Harmison who showed the officials up in their true color as working in harmony with the operators revoking charters of locals that will not support the machine and hounding members who dare oppose them in election.

Making Good Fight.

The progressives of district five with all of the handicaps they are faced with in combating the actions and lies of officials are making a splendid fight to elect progressives to office. Meetings will be held in all sections of the district where the progressive candidates will present the program which they are supporting and will fight for when put in office against the deplorable conditions in the mines of this district.

CAL'S FRIENDS CLEANED UP MILLIONS ON STOCK EXCHANGE FOLLOWING THE G. O. P. VICTORY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 17.—George F. Baker is said to have made several million dollars on the stock exchange, following the rise in stocks after Coolidge's election. Harry Sinclair, on his Teapot Dome Mammoth Oil stocks, made hundreds of thousands of dollars. Charles M. Schwab, also cleaned up a fortune last week.

PEACE FALLS ON WARRING CLANS

(Continued from page 1)

for days against the endorsement of LaFollette and Wheeler.

In substance the report reiterates faith in the Federation's traditional policy of "non-partisan" action, reviews the alleged "progress" made by it and specifically advises adherence to that policy.

All Criticism Eliminated.

No criticism of those who opposed LaFollette is contained in the report. It even lacks criticism of the old parties such as that recently uttered by Gompers in Chicago. What is more, it does not ask the old parties of capitalism to adopt more liberal policies! It is a complete surrender by Gompers to the political parties of the capitalist class!

Compromise between the Gompers' family and the recalcitrant children who refused to go with LaFollette and instead supported Coolidge or Davis, is triumphant. The only danger remaining is the fringe of so-called "radicals" who were responsible for the LaFollette campaign. These are sore at labor's defection in the campaign and object to being "treated like orphan children" as they put it.

Satisfactory to Fat Boys.

But the report is quite satisfactory to the big fellows among the fat boys, such as Major George L. Berry, who fought for Davis, and William L. Hutcheson who, in the Carpenters' convention threw a LaFollette resolution into the waste basket, and John L. Lewis, the big chief of the republican labor fakers who aided Coolidge and may be Coolidge's choice as secretary of labor.

The "third party" advocates are busy in the hotel lobbies boosting the fortunes of the LaFollette group. William H. Johnston, speaking at a meeting, predicted the destruction of the democratic party and the erection on its ruins of a "liberal party."

Donlin or Lewis?

The name of John Donlin of Chicago, is being mentioned as a possible competitor with John L. Lewis for the post of secretary of labor under the new Coolidge regime. Donlin refused a unanimous re-election at the Building Trades department convention just closed.

Donlin is a faker of the deepest dye. Bernard M. Baruch, chairman of the war industries board, says Donlin made a "splendid record" of supporting the government during the war and that he "made the best speech delivered during the war."

Strong for Class Collaboration.

Donlin is noted thruout the building trades for his campaign for class collaboration with the bosses. He traveled over the country trying to organize the bosses so he could help them better than they could help themselves.

Donlin's greatest pride was his "board of jurisdictional awards." There is much discontent among the rank and file workers at the way this was organized. Instead of the board consisting of representatives of the unions alone, Donlin put over the scheme of collaboration by making the board composed jointly of bosses and union officials. For this reason many of the unions detest the whole idea.

Hedrick Hears Things.

The new head of the Building Trades department, George F. Hedrick, has expressed himself as apprehensive of an effort to cut wages. He quoted a speech made at the convention of the American Association of Bankers in Chicago where the speaker said:

"We are unable to do business with European countries. First, they have no gold. Second, we cannot accept their goods because that would interfere with the manufacturers of the United States. Third, their securities are worthless. In order to make their securities worth an American dollar it will be necessary to reduce the wages of men and women of the United States."

The banker went to say, that such a reduction ought to be accepted voluntarily, even if it would cause suffering. "The suffering," he said, "will be nothing to the suffering the workers will undergo if we have to enforce the reduction of wage scales on them against their will."

Hedrick had to admit that the discord in the building trades was at present too much to make any security against wage wars by the bosses.

British Officials on Way.

C. T. Cramp, of the National Union of Railwaymen, and A. B. Swales chairman of the last British Trade Union Congress, are enroute here to attend the A. F. of L. convention.

Peter Grassman, vice-president of the German Federation of Trade Unions, will be here and John Colbert is coming from Canada.

Labor's Disgrace to Convene.

The editors of approximately 200 so-called "labor papers" are gathering in El Paso for the convention of the International Labor Press. The operation of the "International Labor News Service," which was founded by Gompers to propagandize the policies of the bureaucracy as against the left wing, will be discussed by these acolytes of Samuel.

Fat Boys Disappointed.

A bunch of bloated labor fakers went across the Rio Grande yesterday to attend the assembly of the Mexican Federation of Labor. They had been encouraged to go visiting by the report that among the first arrivals in the Mexican convention were four representatives of the Chorus Girls' Union of Mexico. They were deeply disappointed when they found that the Mexican chorus girls were represented by four men.

AREA BRANCHES OF Y. W. L. MUST FUNCTION WELL FROM THE START

Young Workers' League, Local Chicago Branch Functionaries.

As a consequence of the reorganization we have different branch officers and new branch executives in all the working area branches.

Since we have only three months to reach our goal, it is necessary that the new branches function efficiently from the very beginning. For this reason no time must be wasted while these new officers are learning their duties—but they must learn their duties and carry out their duties and carry out their work from the very beginning.

The city will give the branch officers all the help it can thru the functionaries' class, which meets today at 2613 Hirsch Blvd.—and since your efficiency as a branch officer is of such importance to your branch if it is going to carry out its program of action—it is expected that you and every other officer of your branch will be presented at 8 p. m. today.

Competent Male and Female Help Wanted!

Chicago Comrades Asked to Finish Job.

IF it took one comrade six or seven hours to get articles donated for the great Chicago bazaar from 60 different stores, and an hour and a half for one woman to sell one package of 16 tickets—how long will it take YOU to get one or two articles, or sell a few tickets?

The bazaar committee reports that the Hungarian branch has sold 240 tickets (15 sets) and collected articles totaling $75 or more in value. A few other branches are doing very good work, such as Lettish, Czecho-Slovak, Karl Marx Scandinavian and DAILY WORKER shop nucleus. Individuals from many other branches have done extremely well, but the bazaar committee wants to know what ails famous Chicago sections of the party such as, English, Italian, Finnish, Jewish, Lithuanian and Swedish branches. (If your branch is, or is not, listed here, don't feel offended, or proud. The writer is one of them there Bolsheviki.)

Our "Immediate Tasks" Are:

1. Every comrade get one or more donations and sell some tickets.
2. Bring or send all donations to Room 307, 166 W. Washington St., Tuesday or Wednesday (before 2 p. m.) if at all possible. Otherwise, before Saturday noon, Nov. 22.
3. All delegates, branch committeemen, and others willing to help, attend meeting Saturday, Nov. 22, 3:15 p. m., at 722 Blue Island Ave. Settlements for series tickets are to be made there, and assignments for work at the bazaar.
4. See all the members of your branch you can, personally, urge them to further activity. TALK BAZAAR everywhere—to friends, sympathizers and workers.

Rally comrades, to boost the bazaar. Help to fight the American "czar."

Bazaar proceeds to the DAILY WORKER and Labor Defense Council.

Before

The Brick Makes the Difference

"Heave It Back" to The Daily Worker

1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

After

STEEL WORKER MILITANTS IN FINISH FIGHT

Battle for Victory Over Reactionary Leadership

(Special to the Daily Worker)

WARREN, O., Nov. 17.—The battle now going on in the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers between the progressives under rank and file leadership and the conservatives under the leadership of M. F. Tighe and Co. has produced a sensation in steel workers' circles.

The able leadership exhibited by the rank and file is contesting every inch of the way and that they are producing cold chills in labor faker circles is best proven by a letter that M. F. Tighe, international president of the "A. A." sent to the Tighe Lodge No. 22, Lancaster, Pa., in reply to a letter from his lodge inquiring why no ballots had been sent.

The Voice of Tighe.

Hear the voice of Tighe speaking with all the blasted Red pleading that such leaders are capable of: "Brother Hagen, see to it that you get out every vote, for we need all we can get, the REDS ARE ON THE JOB."

Tighe concluded this now famous letter by remarking that "Brother Denlinger of your lodge has the BALLOTS."

Readers of the DAILY WORKER can draw their own conclusions as to the intent of Tighe's statements.

Up and down the great Mahoning steel valley echoes the cry sounded by Tighe: "The Reds are on the job" and knowing that Tighe reads the DAILY WORKER, the steel workers warn him and his kind that they INTEND TO REMAIN ON THE JOB.

The last convention of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers did away with the office of assistant president and general organizer yet in defiance to this order Tighe has maintained on the payroll a chief henchman of his and sent this labor faker around the country defending the machine and lining up votes for Tighe, at the organization's expense, with the promise that if the reactionaries continue in office he is to be promoted to the office of "special organizer."

Show Much Inefficiency.

The history of the Amalgamated Association under its present officialdom is rotten with inefficiency and betrayal of the rank and file. During the strike of the Port View tin workers, McKeesport, Pa., one of the militants went into the national office of the Amalgamated Association at Pittsburgh and asked Tighe, what are you going to do for the strikers at McKeesport? Tighe replied, "We can't do anything; we are waiting for a committee to come down and tell us what to do!"

The rank and file are "next" to this brand of "leadership" and the "gang's" howling about the "Reds being on the job" seems like an echo from the steel trust propaganda dished out during the great steel strike.

It was the Tighe brand of leadership that lost to the Amalgamated Association two of its best lodges in Canonsburgh, Pa. It was Tighe's friendship with the Standard Tinplate Co. at this place that the industrial organization, built up by the militants, was lost along with over one-half of the membership. It was the Tighe & Co. leadership that lost two of the oldest and strongest lodges in the Amalgamated Association at Granite City, Ill., who were "punished" because they dared challenge the authority of Tighe.

The czar-like censorship maintained over the Amalgamated Association Journal by the headquarters gang has prevented news of these wrongs reaching the rank and file. Ben I. Davis, present editor, is really an office boy for Tighe and voices the sentiments of his master on any and all occasions.

These facts were given to the world at large for the first time thru the DAILY WORKER and the progressive rank and file organization, which is being supported by the militants in all labor organizations.

Let Dolla Rot in Prison.

The Tighe & Co. officialdom allowed Jake Dolla to remain behind the prison bars and had it not been for the militants arousing the officialdom to take some action in Dolla's behalf they would have ignored entirely this rebel.

These and countless other grievances have aroused the rank and file to action. The militants have well seasoned leaders who have years of experience battling for a better and bigger Amalgamated Association and these sincere and able rank and file leaders have written "finish" after the name of M. F. Tighe & Co.

The steel workers can take new heart and draw new courage and prepare to raise again the banners of revolt against the iron heel of the steel barons and their pet clique of labor fakers who have too long blocked the way to their complete organization.

"Education Week" Helps Rouse Inquiring Mind of Nation's School Children

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, "Education Week" is supposed to be on in full blast. The pursuit of "the reds," under the cry that Communists are a menace to "life, liberty, justice, security and opportunity," and with all the blood hounds of the American Legion hot on the trial, was scheduled to take on enormous proportions.

But there is little evidence of life and activity anywhere in the capitalist camp.

* * * *

There is no beating of tom toms, to arouse the multitudes to a lynch law frenzy, thru the columns of the kept press. At least not yet. There may be before the week is over.

The Communists have taken seriously the challenge issued by the Morgan-Coolidge administration at Washington for "Anti-Red Week." Everywhere thruout the land larger masses than ever before are being reached with the message of Communism. They are being shown the difference between capitalist and Communist education.

* * * *

Perhaps the capitalist enemy, still drunk with its victory on Nov. 4, in the political arena, feels it unnecessary to put forth any exertion on "Education Week." Perhaps it feels that it is best "to let well enough alone."

* * *

There is the big probability that the "Red Baiting Program" issued by the American Legion head of the Bureau of Education in the Department of Commerce, carries the sting that is piercing the hide of those who framed it.

It is dangerous to give birth to a questioning attitude in the minds of children. It is not to be expected that they will swallow, all of them, without thinking, the fraudulent program presented to them.

When the charge is made that, "The Red Flag means death, destruction, poverty, starvation, disease, anarchy and dictatorship," some youngsters among the millions of working class school children may rise and inquire:

Why is it that there is so much dying, needless death, then under the stars and stripes? The children of the coal miners, especially, could inquire, or the children of any worker toiling in the mills and the factories; always facing needless death in the unnecessary hazards of capitalist industry.

What about the poverty under the stars and stripes? Millions of children know that their fathers and mothers must count the pennies lest a single one of them be spent on any but absolute necessities.

What about hunger and starvation under the American flag? A million children go hungry to school every morning. Penny lunches must be served, most often to those without a penny, in the schools to the undernourished children.

What about disease under the American flag? The children will raise that question. They know how disease comes stalking into their homes; disease that could easily be fought, if the doctor could be paid; if father and mother didn't have to work so hard; if the children got better food; "if we could only live in a better home!"

* * *

The children won't understand very well what is meant when the American Legion program for "Education Week" says that "The Red Flag stands for destruction, anarchy and dictatorship." But they will begin to question if these are not the things that exist under capitalism; destruction of all that is worth while in life for the great masses of workers and farmers; chaos in all the relations between the units in the great human family; all under the brutalizing dictatorship of greed.

* * *

What is this Red Flag?

It is natural to assume that the children will ask about it.

The teachers must answer that it is the flag of Soviet Rule that reigns over the Russian Workers' Republic; spreading out over one-sixth of the land surface of the globe.

* * *

But that will only be the letting loose of the first little questions that will soon pour like an avalanche from the inquiring mind of the child. The boys and girls of the United States will want to know more about Soviet Russia; if it is so bad why do the many millions tolerate the Red Flag?

Then somehow they will learn that Soviet Rule is the goverment of the many millions of workers and peasants in Soviet Russia; the government that they have established themselves in their struggle against death, destruction, poverty, starvation, disease, anarchy and dictatorship; all those tormentors of mankind thriving under all the flags of the capitalist nations.

Today is called "Patriotism Day" of "Education Week." The New York World, in discussing "Education Week" says the natural reaction is, "Patriotism? Sure! Fine Thing!' I'm for it?" But on second thought the question arises, "What kind of patriotism?" And there is where the trouble starts.

* * *

The children will begin to question why they owe patriotic allegiance to the flag of Morgan, Rockefeller and the government, that permits millions of children to be fed into the factories; there to be destroyed in their youth; unable to enjoy manhood and womanhood if they ever reach it.

They will begin to wonder if they do not owe patriotic allegiance to the struggle that has already brought such happiness, such a bright prospect for the future, to all the children of Soviet Russia, under the Red Flag, that the enemies of the children in the United States condemn so hysterically.

Let American capitalism loose the avalanche of questions from the inquiring mind of the children in school and it will thus help destroy itself and all that it stands for.

Weinstone at Coney Island.

SEA GATE, L. I., Nov. 17.—William W. Weinstone will speak on "The Political Situation in the United States," Thursday, Nov. 20, at 3109 Surf Ave., Coney Island English branch of the Workers Party, announces Jeannette D. Pearl, organizer.

Sticks to His Job.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Reports that Brigadier General Frank T. Hines would resign shortly as director of the United States veterans' bureau were denied today by Hines himself.

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Workers Party, Local Chicago

THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 8 P. M.

IMPERIAL HALL,

2409 N. Halsted Street.

AGENDA:

1. Review of Election Campaign and Future Tasks of the Party.
2. Shop Nuclei.

All branch meetings called off for that night. All party and league members be there on time, 8 p. m. sharp.

HERE'S ALIBI FOR LAFOLLETTE AND HIS THIRD PARTY

Buck Is Passed to the Workers and Farmers

Editor's Note:—Here's the latest from the Gompers-LaFollette camp in Washington. We shall have some editorial comment to make in a future issue.

By LAURENCE TODD.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—Panic did not merely wipe out half of the popular vote which would have been cast for the LaFollette ticket if the election had taken place in September; it has destroyed the chance of formation of a new party next January when the conference for progressive political action is to meet to discuss the matter.

Fear of disturbing and endangering the men who own the industries was sufficient, in November, to elect Coolidge.

"Clean" Party Born Dead.

Fear, transmitted by means of the direct threats of closing down factories and mills, and by indirect threats contained in forecasts of "chaos" and general collapse, drove millions of farmers and wage workers and their wives to abandon their eager resolves to throw in their lot with the progressive movement.

This same fear, reinforced by the fact that the republican and democratic machines remain in the field with ample money at their disposal, is now crushing out the last hope of progressive republicans and democrats that their leaders will create a new "clean" party.

The Federated Press has questioned spokesmen of every element in the progressive movement in the national capital since the election, except Senator LaFollette, who has been in Wisconsin.

It finds that the railroad labor chiefs believe that they must continue to appeal to republican and democratic voters and to the persons whom these voters elect to federal offices, and that instead of creating an independent party they should build up the conference for progressive political action for the purpose of nominating friends of labor on tickets of the two old parties. The central idea of the non-partisan league appeals to them as being more practical than the idea of trying at this time to supplant the democratic party. They say bluntly that they are going to "play safe."

Always Opposed "New Party"

There has never been any question as to the hostility of the officers of the American Federation of Labor to a new party. They ventured in the recent campaign to denounce the two old parties as the tools in the hands of the enemies of the people, but they did not declare that the time for launching a new party was at hand.

The El Paso convention is scheduled to declare for the old policy of non-partisan action. Between the C. P. P. A. and the A. F. of L. strategy is this difference—that the C. P. P. A. proposes to establish organizations in the congressional districts to pick out far in advance, the best men to be nominated and elected on one or the other of the old party tickets.

The A. F. of L. has seldom taken an effective part in primary campaigns, but has waited until too late to secure the best representation of labor in congress.

Senator Borah, who with Senator Cousens and Senator Hiram Johnson will be in a balance of power in the new senate, has declared against any attempt to put Senator LaFollette out of the republican fold. The democrats have intimated to Senator Wheeler that they are ready to welcome him back and to make their program progressive enough to attract his support. Unless Borah and Wheeler decide to raise the standard of revolt, alone of his party group, the progressive republican and democratic elements are likely soon to sink back into the party ranks from whence they came.

This will leave the socialists and the thin framework of the farmer-labor party as the reliable elements upon which a new party may be based. The farmer-labor group is so nearly akin to the socialists in its political philosophy that its absorption by the socialist party is by no means impossible.

Tries to Straighten Socialists.

The socialists who appear generally disappointed and impatient with the results of the 1924 alliance, will go to the C. P. P. A. convention in January with but one program—the extension of socialist teaching. If the C. P. P. A. rejects the essentials of socialism, then the socialists will stand on their own feet and resume the work of straight propaganda for the socialization of the industries.

Railroad labor, the keystone in the arch on which the new party was to rest, has not fitted in with the socialists. It prefers to disturb the interior structure of orthodox politics while events shall shape it anew.

Capitalist Education Fraud Against Children

EVERY WEEK IS REAL "WEEK OF EDUCATION" IN SOVIET RUSSIA UNDER THE WORKERS' REPUBLIC

By KARL REEVE,
(Seventh Article.)

Every week is "Education Week" in Russia. But the Communist Party of Russia has overthrown the control of the educational system by the capitalists and has put the schools into the hands of the educators and pupils, where they belong.

In Russia, the counter-revolutionary trash used as textbooks prior to the Bolshevik revolution has been burned, and education has been made a stronghold for teaching the right of the working class to rule.

The Soviet commissar of education has rebuilt the entire outlook of the proletarian students on the basis of the new society. All scientific works used during czarist times, which were similar to books now used in the American schools, were filled with propaganda against the working class. Histories, sociological works, books on economics and anthropology were found to be counter revolutionary propaganda against the working class and were destroyed.

Czarist Education a Fraud.

What Edward A. Ross, professor of sociology at the University of Wisconsin, says of the czarist education, applies word for word to the present educational system of the United States as controlled by the capitalists. "Under the czar," says Professor Jones, "a gigantic fraud had been perpetrated on the children and the common people by feeding them husks when they were famishing for bread. The trick was to obscure while seeming to enlighten, to conserve darkness while going thru the motions of extending education." Professor Ross has here unwittingly given the true slogan of "American education week." "It was not enuf that the czar's (in America the employers' and Coolidge's) servants picked and drilled the teachers. A horde of inspectors (in America school superintendents and officers of the national education association) went about tasting the microscopic doses of truth administered to the children and testing the teachers' loyalty."

Taught to Be Self Reliant.

In America hard work is glorified. And in Russia hard work is also glorified. But in Russia, the school children are taught to work and learn for the good of the working class as a whole, which produces all wealth and controls it for the use of the workers.

In America children are taught to be subservient and obedient to their masters. They are taught to be good wage slaves who must tolerate the industrial masters. In Russia, the children, under the guidance of the Soviet government, are taught to be self reliant. The educators and the pupils run the schools of Russia for the good of their class.

Study in Russia is based on the child's play and his reason to productive work. The Russian children make trips to the factories and learn the truth about collective industry, and how the workers control the state. Textbooks on sociology and political economy which tell the children they must be good servants to their employers in order to succeed are no longer in use as they are in America. The profit system is shown up as a system of oppression of the workers by the capitalists.

Self-Government in Schools.

One of the main functions of the school is to teach the child collective action, we learn in Anna Louise Strong's history of Bolshevik Russia. "The schools are trying to fit the child to build a socialist state," she says. "The schools are the next battle front for Communism. The school is a self governed school community, in which children, teachers, janitors all have equal voice. It decides everything. What shall be done with the school funds, what shall be planted in the school garden, what shall be taught. If the children decide against some necessary subject, it is the teachers' job to show them, thru their play and life together, that the subject is needed."

Self government, self help, self management in common activity are part of the basic policy of the Soviet schools. The fair friendly division of labor is considered the corner stone of education as citizens of a future socialist commonwealth.

Building Bolsheviks—the D. W. B. U.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.

344 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

Educational Week Mass Meeting in Cleveland Thursday

(Special to the Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Nov. 17.—The Young Workers League will cooperate with the Workers Party in a joint celebration of "Forward to the Soviet's Week," at the Labor Temple, 2536 Euclid Ave., Thursday, Nov. 20, at which George Papcun, city organizer of the Young Workers League will be the speaker for the league. Each league branch will take up at its meeting during the week, the slogans adopted by the party and league for the day of the meeting, and will hold an open meeting for league and party members and sympathizers.

Sunday, Nov. 23, the local will hold a social and entertainment at the party headquarters, at 8:00 p. m. Games, songs, and a talk by U. A. Hamilton, city secretary of the Workers Party, on "Religion and the Working Class," will be included in the program.

N. Y. Party Activities

N. Y. BRANCHES—ATTENTION.

The Workers' School is offering a party training course for party members chosen by branches.

All branches must immediately send in the names and addresses of comrades designated to take this course, to the office of the school at 208 E. 12th street.

Classes will be given in the Elements of Communism, Marxism, American Economic and Social Development, and the International Communist Movement. Instructors are Alexander Trachtenberg, W. W. Weinstone and Dr. J. Mindel.

The school season opens Dec. 1. Names must be sent in at once. Remember, the time is short, and the number of students in each class will be limited.

WRIGLEY, COOLIDGE BACKER, SHOWN UP AS ENSLAVER OF CHILDREN

DENVER, Colo., Nov. 17.—William Wrigley, one of the chief contributors to Coolidge's campaign fund, has bought up large beet plantations in Colorado for the production of beet sugar. Wrigley has re-incorporated the old Gunnison Valley sugar corporation whose refinery is located in Centerfield, Utah, into the Gunnison sugar company, which Wrigley owns.

Child labor is rampant in these Wrigley-beet sugar plantation holdings, thousands of children under ten years of age being exploited for a few cents an hour.

ANTI-RED WEEK SEES EXPOSES OF "PARTIES" IN GOOSE-STEP SCHOOLS

Reports of wild parties in the most exclusive "goose-step" universities of capitalism continue to pour in as "education week" proclaimed by Coolidge begins. Reports of unrestrained drinking, and all night campus carousings in the exclusive "rich boys' club," Lake Forest University, give the latest evidence that education under capitalism is degenerating. The nation will disregard the welfare of the youth of the country, as long as the control of the wealth and the country's produce by capitalists is upheld by the schools.

Superintendent of schools in Chicago, William McAndrew, who at the bidding of the chambers of commerce is stamping out the teachers' councils, declared in Kansas City Saturday, that "purpose of education in the United States should be political, civic and social, rather than scholastic, cultural or vocational." An article by Karl Reeve in a forthcoming edition of the DAILY WORKER, will expose the social forces, including child labor, that are preventing the children of America from securing an education.

While two million children slave in the industrial system McAndrew prates about turning the schools into propaganda factories.

EMIGRANTS ARE FLEECED BY THE SHIP COMPANIES

Soviet Consuls Defend Victims of Ship Agents

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Emigrants waiting at Libau, Latvia, and other ports are being harassed and exploited by agents of steamship companies while waiting visaes permitting them to come to the United States, according to information received by the Central Bureau for Technical Aid of Soviet Russia, office in New York.

Police are called in by the steamship agents to "suppress uprisings" among the emigrants, most of them women and children demanding fresh fish and the washing of the floors in the dormitories housing them. Steamship agents charge these women and children with "conducting Communist propaganda" in order to get the police to raid and search their living quarters.

Soviet Agents Defend Victims.

The representative of Russia in Libau, from whom the central bureau secured much information, writes that the suppression of alleged "uprisings of emigrants" is not so serious a menace as the financial toll of money taken by unscrupulous steamship company agents for so-called advice and for rent for housing in the crowded dormitories. The agents tell the emigrants who protest: "If you're not satisfied, go to your consul and he'll defend you but get out of here. Such Communists are not needed in America."

The agents continue to accept money sent from the United States to emigrants who have left the ports after failing to sail to America because of immigration limitations, the central bureau says, advising all relatives of prospective immigrants once more to be sure their friends or families are really in ports to which money is sent.

Hungry Teachers Strike.

VIENNA, Nov. 17.—Underpaid and hungry teachers in Austria demonstrated in the streets of Vienna against the conditions in the schools. A one day strike of sympathy was organized all over Austria in the schools.

An Appeal to Grown Up Workers and to Working Class Children

By Tillie Lurye, Aged 10.
City Junior Literature Agent.

There are so many people who strive to guide the workers to a better state of society but there are others who linger behind and refuse to do anything.

Fellow workers: Aren't you as mistreated as well as the rest of us? Why do you leave it to others to fight while you look on and wait? You make it twice as hard for them. Why don't you join in and help along?

Shake yourselves out of your sleep—come and join us.

We are fighting for you as well as for ourselves. We are fighting for the workers in the whole world.

You see if all would join the ranks of the militant workers in four more years we'd all be wealthy partners in this world's great working hive.

I also talk to you young workers about to enter the dusty factories.

You are young. There is happiness and sorrow before you. Without fear, without terror in your heart your young blood should fight for justice for all workers.

Join the Young Workers League where thousands of workers are fighting for their rights.

JOIN NOW! DO NOT DELAY! JOIN THE JUNIOR GROUP OF CHICAGO!

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. Today's comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK Patriotism Day

Tuesday, Nov. 18.—"The United States Flag is the Living Symbol of the Ideals and Institutions of Our Republic."

1. The red flag means death, destruction, poverty, starvation, disease, anarchy and dictatorship.
2. Help the immigrants and aliens to become American citizens.
3. Take an active interest in governmental affairs.
4. Stamp out revolutionary radicalism.
5. To vote is the primary duty of the patriot.

SLOGANS.

America first.
The red flag—danger.
Visit the schools today.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS Patriotism Day

Tuesday, Nov. 18.—"The Red Flag is the Symbol of Working Class Liberty from the Oppression of the Capitalists."

1. Patriotism under capitalist rule means war, death, destruction, poverty, starvation and disease for the workers; and wealth, luxury and power for the capitalists.
2. The U. S. flag represents the U. S. government, which is a government of, for, and by the capitalists.
3. The native and the foreign born workers must join hands for a common struggle against the capitalists.
4. Every worker must take an active part in the struggle of his class, must belong to a union.
5. Every worker must belong to the Workers (Communist) Party; every young worker must also belong to the Young Workers League. Build the revolutionary movement.

SLOGANS.

The working class first, last and all the time.
The Red Flag—the symbol of our freedom.
Down with capitalist wars!

CLASSES START IN BROOKLYN WORKERS' SCHOOL

Alexander Trachtenberg Lectured Sunday

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Nov. 17. — A Brownsville Section of the Workers' School has been opened at the Clubrooms of the Workers Party, 1844 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn. Classes and lectures in Communism will be conducted in both English and Yiddish during the entire Winter season.

Open Forum

The season's activities were begun on Sunday, Nov. 9, with a lecture in the open forum by Comrade Shachne Epstein on "The Lessons of the Election Campaign." This was an unqualified success. The attendance far exceeded the expectations of the committee, which shows that we are gaining in influence, and that larger group are becoming interested in our movement. After the lecture, a few applications for membership were received.

Comrade Trachtenberg, lectured on "The International position of Soviet Russia," Sunday, Nov. 16 at 1844 Pitkin avenue. The recent recognition of Russia by France, the bitterest enemy of the Soviets, the defeat of the "labor" government of England on the question of the Anglo-Russian treaty, the re-election of Coolidge (and his anti-Soviet assistant Hughes) by a huge majority, the "uprising" in Georgia, all give an added interest to this very important and complicated subject, which Comrade Trachtenberg is well able to analyze.

Lectures for the open forum have been arranged for every Sunday evening, one week in English, and the next week in Yiddish. Comrade Poyntz, Cannon and Weinstone are the main lecturers in English, and Comrade Holtman, Burgin and Katz in Yiddish.

Classes

The following courses have been arranged: In English: "A, B, C of Communism," G. Siskind, teacher, every Monday evening from 8 to 10; "The Three Internationals," M. Rosenberg, teacher, every Tuesday evening from 8 to 10; Elementary English, Ray Bennet, teacher, every Friday evening from 8 to 9:10; Intermediate English, Ray Bennet, teacher, every Friday evening from 9:20 to 10:30. In Yiddish: "A. B. C. of Communism," Com. S. Don, teacher, every Sunday afternoon from 2 to 3:30; "Theory and Practice of Trade Unionism," Comrade Melech Epstein, teacher, "American Labor Movement," Com. Noah London, teacher; "Jewish Labor Movement," Com. P. Yudich, teacher, every Wednesday evening from 8:30 to 10; "Economics and Imperialism," Com. J. Mindel, teacher, every Thursday evening from 8 to 9:10; "The Three Internationals, and Communist Tactics," "The Strike," Com. J. Mindel, teacher, every Thursday evening from 9:20 to 10:30.

Thirty students have already registered for many of the courses. The classes begin the week of November 17. All comrades and sympathizers are urged to register now at 1844 Pitkin Avenue.

MANILA, Nov. 17.—A navy record was broken and probably a world's record established today when the torpedo crew of the U. S. S. Borie scored four direct hits with four torpedoes in succession at a distance of 12,000 yards.

THIS IS "PATRIOTISM DAY" IN COOLIDGE'S "ANTI-RED WEEK"

Today is the day the American Legion speakers in Chicago and thruout the country are trying to make working class haters out of the school children.

This is "Patriotism Day" of "Education Week" and under the leadership of Coolidge, the American Legion and Sam Gompers, the followers of capitalism are attacking the Communists.

The junior group leaders of the Young Workers League are showing the school children today that Communism is the only salvation of the working class.

They are pointing out to the school children that capitalism means poverty, disease and death, whereas Communism means the rule of the working class and the abolition of the profits system. The program of the junior groups for today follows:

Patriotism Day.

Tuesday, Nov. 18.—The Red Flag is the Symbol of Working Class Liberation from the Oppression of the Capitalists.

1. The Red Flag means freedom for the workers, construction, comfort and well-being for those who labor, freedom from disease, and a workers' and farmers' government.

a. Peace—the workers means peace—no child labor, shorter hours of work, better working and living conditions. All of these mean a full and beautiful and secure life for those who work so hard and now have so little.

b. The Red Flag stands, NOT for destruction, but for construction—a great building up of the work for the workers, NOT a tearing down or the terrible wars which the capitalists are always forcing.

c. The Red Flag means comfort and well-being for the workers in a world where there will be no poverty, no horrible slums where hundreds of families are crowded into dirty tenements.

d. Poverty breeds disease. The horrible conditions under which the workers live today are the things that are directly responsible for disease epidemics.

e. The Red Flag means—not anarchy—but a government controlled entirely by workers, not by a few rich bosses as it is today.

2. The native and the foreign born workers must join hands for a common struggle against the bosses.

3. Every worker must take an active part in the struggle of the working class against the bosses' rule.

a. Workers must belong to a union.

b. Workers should belong to the political party of the workers—the Workers Party.

c. Young workers should belong the to the organization of revolutionary workers—the Young Workers League.

d. The working class children should belong to the children's section of the Young Workers League—the Junior Groups.

4. Revolutionary radicalism can never be stamped out.

a. Conditions under capitalism make rebels.

1. Over 3,000 people were arrested and locked up in jails in 1920 for having these ideas. This did not stop the idea.

5. Patriotism under capitalist rule means death, war, destruction, poverty, starvation and disease for the workers, and wealth, luxury and power for the capitalists.

Slogans.

International of the workers, first and always!

The Red Flag—the symbol of workers' freedom!

Join the junior groups today!

BRONX COMMUNISTS DEMONSTRATE AGAINST CAL'S ANTI-RED WEEK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—The Bronx section committee of the Workers Party decided to answer Coolidge's anti-red week with the slogan, "Forward to the Soviets!" by holding two open air meetings and one indoor mass meeting.

The open air meetings will be as follows: Tuesday, Nov. 18, intervale and Wilkins Aves.; Thursday, Nov. 20, Prospect Ave and 163rd St. The speakers will be: Carl Brodsky, Sylvan A. Pollack, Max Maillard, I Miller and Louis Glouberman.

The campaign will be closed with a mass meeting at Workers Hall, 1347 Boston Road, Friday, Nov. 21. The speakers will be: Ludwig Lore, William W. Weinstone, A. Markoff and others.

Ten thousand copies of the special Soviet leaflet will be distributed.

* * *

XMAS EVE DANCE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 17.—Bronx English Branch No. 1, of the Workers Party, has arranged an entertainment and dance to be held Christmas Eve, Wednesday, Dec. 24, at Workers Hall, 1347 Boston Road. A fine program of vocal and musical numbers is being prepared in addition to a good dance orchestra. Friendly organizations are urged to keep that date open.

Communist Juniors In Flying Start on "Education Week"

The Juniors got off to a flying start in their fight on "Education Week" when several hundred of them attended a mass meeting at Imperials Hall, Sunday. William F. Kruse entertained the Juniors with a moving picture, depicting the struggle of the workers for the emancipation of their class in many countries. The picture showed how the priests and teachers under the rule of the czar put on airs and lived the high life. Then the decrepit homes of the workers under the rule of the czar were shown.

Scenes were shown of the struggles of the workers in Germany against the capitalist class, and pictures of the children's schools of Bolshevik Russia and their life under the rule of the workers' and peasants' Soviet government followed. The Juniors cheered pictures of the workings of the Soviet educational system, where the children are taught that they must always fight for the interests of the working class.

The children had their own program, enacting a play showing how the Juniors fight "education week" propaganda in the schools when asked to recite patriotic poems and talk against the working class. The hall rang with the Juniors' group yells.

Minnie Lourie and Lilian Borgeson spoke on the purpose of the Junior groups.

CHICAGO LABOR RED WEEK STAND HIT AT GOMPERS

Fitzpatrick Did His Best for A. F. of L. Head

The action of the Chicago Federation of Labor Sunday in instructing the schools committee to draft a letter of protest against Education Week, charging it is an attempt at cheap propaganda, is a blow at the policy of the Gompers' machine.

Gompers strongly urges the Federation of Labor convention now meeting in El Paso to endorse "Education Week," and the Chicago Federation of Labor delegates unmistakably registered their protest against turning the schools over to the American Legion.

Happy Over "The Day"

"It is propitious that the opening of 'Education Week' is on the same day that the convention of the American Federation of Labor convenes in El Paso, Texas," writes Gompers in the November American Federationist, "and will thereby give impetus to this much needed service."

It was thru no fault of President John Fitzpatrick that the Chicago Federation opposed "Education Week." Fitzpatrick had declared that the letter from Mathew Woll, asking the Chicago Federation of Labor to co-operate with the Legion in "education week" was up before the schools committee. Fitzpatrick knew that the letter could not possibly be acted on in time to do any good as "education week" started yesterday, M. Halushka, of the Men Teachers' Federation, however, brought the matter immediately before the meeting by moving that the schools committee draw up a protest against "education week." Halushka declared that "education week is obviously an attempt of the American Legion to push some cheap propaganda into the public schools."

In spite of Fitzpatrick's unwillingness to see the Federation take any action, the motion of Halushka was unanimously passed. Fitzpatrick told the DAILY WORKER that he would refuse to make any statement against education week. "If you fellows are against it," said Fitzpatrick, meaning the Communist, "Then I guess I'm for it."

Fitzpatrick Confers With Gompers

Fitzpatrick had a long conference with Gompers when the latter passed thru Chicago last week. It is not known whether education week was discussed. Gompers, in the Federationist, urges "all labor organizations everywhere to co-operate with all bodies interested in the promotion of education week." Gompers thus advises the Federations to ally themselves with the strikebreakers and anti-laborites of the American Legion.

Post Cards in Colors
Something New and Different.
Use them for your regular correspondence. Have a set for your album.
No. 1—Lenin, directing the revolution
No. 2—Lenin, when 16 years old
No. 3—The Red Flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics
No. 4—The Russian state seal and emblem
No. 5—Trotsky, commander of the Soviet Red Army
ONE CARD 5 CENTS
In lots of 10 or more, 2c per card.
1½ in lots of 100 or more.
Send money order, check or postage to
Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Secretary Wanted
Women stenographer, competent to prepare manuscript for publication. Must have extensive knowledge of labor movement. Position open in December. Age between 35 and 50. Single.
J. R. SWARTS
c. o. Charles H. Kerr & Co.
349 E. OHIO ST. CHICAGO, ILL.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
646 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1521 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

WASHINGTON IN BIG RALLY FOR 'THE FREIHEIT'

Raise Sum of $2,186.26 for Communist Daily

By H. O. WATT
(Special to the Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 17.—The spirit that shows the way to ultimate working class victories was prominently displayed at Community Hall, in this city, when members of the Jewish Branch of the Workers Party opened their hearts, and their purses, in the drive for the perpetuation of the Communist Jewish daily newspaper, the Freiheit.

From an audience of 300 persons the splendid sum of $2,186.26 was collected.

The names of the contributors to this worthy cause follow: N. Puzrin $250; H. Colodny, $200; S. Feinstein, $150; S. Gutkin, $100; H. Gurevitz, $100; J. Castelman, $100; J. Minkin, $100; A. Kolodne, $100; S. Malakoff, $100; I. Kune, $100; H. Stohlar, $75; B. Bialek, $75; S. Shinberg, $50; B. Plotnick, $50; S. Smith, $50; M. Jackerson, $50; L. Gold, $50; N. Smith, $50; J. Altman, $50; L. Shapiro, $50; H. Bachrach, $50; S. Sidman, $50; E. Sherman, $25.00 H. Rinis, $25; S. Rowbitsky, $25; L. Brown, $25; M. Nimelstein, $25; J. Furash, $25; S. Levin, $10; Collection, $71.26; total $2,186.34.

Spirit Was Obvious

One of the many misfortunes of the writer is his inability to understand the Jewish language. This report, however, is possible because the spirit of the gathering was obvious—and interpreters were ready and obliging. In opening the meeting the chairman, Comrade Samuel Feinstein, described the rout of capitalism in Russia and offered evidence of the stability of the Soviet government and of the increasing competence of the workers under proletarian rule.

Comrade Rubin Saltzman, business manager of the Freiheit, spoke at length of the establishment and progress of the Jewish daily. He described the purpose of the present drive and of its assured success in purchasing a modern building at No. 30 Union Square, New York, in which publication of the paper and the administration of party affairs will be conducted. Pandemonium broke loose when the speaker announced that Comrade Dr. Julius Love, of Philadelphia, had contributed $5,000 to the Freiheit fund. So great was the anxiety of the comrades to assist in the movement to keep the Freiheit in the fight for Communist victory that they actually fell over themselves in their haste to deposit their contributions with the chairman when the call for hundred dollar donations was made. When the collection was made the father of a large family dropped a dollar bill in the hat and the writer happens to know that this comrade hasn't a scuttle of coal in his cellar and that he has little prospect of buying necessary fuel before cold weather sets in. This is the spirit which moves mountains and which will move capitalism to its final annihilation.

Olgin Gets Big Greeting.

Comrade M. J. Olgin, who recently returned from a six months trip thru Soviet Russia, was greeted with thunderous applause when he began his address. Comrade Olgin told of his interviews with Russian working men, who compared present conditions with pre-revolutionary days. The speaker's remarks were interspersed with incidents of the struggles of the past seven years. He explained how, prior to the revolution, working men who attempted to educate themselves were persecuted. They dared not be found with paper and pencil in their possession and taught themselves to read and write by using coins and learning the letters stamped thereon. This education of ambitious workers was in most cases, accomplished in prison, where they came in contact with other victims of the czar's dictatorship. The prisoners, when liberated thru the revolution, had acquired sufficient knowledge to become leaders of the Soviets and were made managers of factories and other industrial enterprises.

The speaker stated that Americans have done business with Russia to the amount of sixty million dollars during the past year and that the coming year will show a business of two hundred and fifty million dollars. In face of this fact of immense commercial importance the present attitude of Secretary Hughes in his prejudice against the working class is bound to undergo a radical change.

Hold Nepmen in Contempt.

A prominent local anarchist, who seems unable to comprehend the full meaning of worker's control, stated that he had received letters from Russia containing information of the effect that the children of Nepmen are not given equal educational rights with working class children and asked Comrade Olgin if such is the case. In reply the speaker stated that the workers of Russia look with contempt upon the Nepmen and that if these bourgeois merchants desire the benefits that come from co-operative effort, they have but to go to work with the workers. It is only a question of time when the Nepmen will be eliminated anyway; they are tolerated at present as a necessary evil.

Machine Tender Meets Tragic Death at Filer Fiber Co.

MANISTEE, Mich, Nov. 17.—Edward Jennerjahn, a machine tender in the paper mill of the Filer Fiber company, was instantly killed in the shop when he came into contact with a large pulley, which the company had been "too busy" to protect by a railing. Jennerjahn was caught in the pulley, carried around one or more revolutions, and hurled to the cement floor.

When the officials of the Filer Fiber company found their employe, his body was broken and part of his head was gone.

Evidence given at the inquest has proved without the shadow of a doubt that carelessness of anything other than their receipts was responsible for the death of Jennerjahn, just as it has been responsible for the death of hundreds of other workers.

Company officials tried to shift the blame to "drink," but the ruse failed. They were finally forced to admit that altho a railing was absolutely necessary for safety, they had never attempted to install one around the pulleys.

"The matter had been talked of, but it had never been recommended by the state inspector that this be done and work therefore was delayed until shop employes had time," was the statement of one of the officers of the company.

Under the state laws, the company could not be prosecuted unless the state inspector gave definite orders. No law suit threatened, so the paper bosses "put the matter off."

! betrayed

Their first conversation betrayed the fact that she was not fastidious

AT a distance she had appeared unusually neat, immaculate. But upon their first face-to-face meeting he discovered that her teeth were not clean. And he soon lost interest.

So many people overlook this one matter of fastidiousness. And do so in spite of the fact that in conversation the teeth are the one most noticeable thing about you.

Notice today how you, yourself, watch another person's teeth when he or she is talking. If the teeth are not well kept they at once become a liability.

Forhan's Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. It last our chemists have discovered a polishing ingredient that really cleans without scratching the enamel—a difficult problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

Large Tube—25 cents

AMERICAN SMELTER TRUST DOESN'T LIKE WAYS OF MEXICANS

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 17.—Rather than give the workers a certain percentage of their income, and the right to audit the books of the companies for which they work, the American Smelting and Refining company has announced that it will gradually close down all its affiliated companies in the state of Chihuahua. An amendment to the labor laws there was passed by the local legislature granting the workers a certain percentage of the net income.

Several mines operated by the company have already been closed. It is estimated that in this way more than 10,000 have been thrown out of work.

BALDWIN SEEKS CITIZENSHIP FOR WAR POLITICALS

Courts Take Civil Rights from 1,200 Prisoners

The citizenship of 1,200 political prisoners, taken from them by capitalist courts, must be restored, Roger Baldwin, director of the American Civil Liberties Union, declared in a speech here at the New Liberal Club.

Baldwin said the election showed that the American capitalists are in the saddle stronger than ever, due to fear displayed by the workers. Baldwin said:

Reactionary Propaganda Effective.

"The election displayed a widespread fear of change and an unthinking allegiance to the propaganda for things as they are. It reveals the bankruptcy of political discussion as well as the effectiveness of conservative propaganda.

"In the local elections thruout large districts, the intolerant propaganda of the Ku Klux Klan demonstrated its power to hold together a middle class majority, fearful of all minorities. It represents an utter disregard of individual and minority rights. It is headed for the same type of community control by force and terrorism which characterizes the Italian Fascisti.

"This sweeping conservative victory is a part of the world-wide fear of chaos and distrust of untried proposals in the hands of the organized labor and radical movements. It reflects the consolidation of the capitalistic system. Increasing unity of the labor, radical and farmer movements makes resistance to suppression more effective.

Capitalist Machinery Intact.

"The machinery of capitalistic suppression is intact. The many laws and court decisions which created it are ready for use when any emergency arises. The extent of its use depends entirely on the temper of the control ling business interests and the strength of resistance on the part of those attacked—chiefly organized labor and the radical movements.

"That temper at present is one of wide-spread intolerance, but so secure in its power that it does not resort to force to accomplish its ends. The Ku Klux Klan is dominant in large sections of the country.

Tells of Gitlow Case.

"There are still issues to be cleaned up from the war. 1,200 persons prosecuted under the espionage act for mere expressions of opinion have lost their rights of citizenship. They must be restored. An agitation for the release of the 106 political prisoners, all of whom except 12, are held in California, is being undertaken. The United States supreme court still has before it a decision on the constitutionality of the laws under which they are held, in the case of Benjamin Gitlow, the Communist. The decision in that case, expected shortly, will determine the fate of the 34 state laws penalizing radical opinions. California and the non-union coal districts continue to be the seat of the chief invasions of freedom of speech and assemblage, together with a few cities like Philadelphia and Boston, where the mayor or police officials have arbitrarily banned meetings they don't like."

Congress Will Taboo Railroad Legislation At Its Winter Session

WASHINGTON.—No railroad legislation at the winter session of congress, is the program of the administration.

Although the Howell-Barkley railroad labor bill is on the calendar for early consideration in the house and senate, the republican leaders have reached an understanding—approved by the railroad lobby—that obstructive tactics shall be employed to prevent a final vote on the measure before March 4. They expect the new congress to be more responsive to the demands of the rail companies.

JAP WORKER DIES MARTYR TO LABOR'S STRUGGLE FOR POWER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TOKYO, Nov. 17.—Daisuke Namba, a Japanese worker, was hanged here today for an attack on a member of the Russian revolution on his life.

Namba's execution has stirred the country. Hundreds of thousands attempted to get near the prison in which he was confined, and to get near the place of the hanging. Newspapers are discussing the matter in leading articles.

It is generally admitted that Namba's "trial" was a farce. It was known that he was sympathetic to the Soviet government of Russia, so that his attack on a Japanese prince was seized on merely as an excuse. What the sentence would be was understood at the beginning of the trial.

When sentence was imposed, Namba cried: "Long Live the Russian Revolution." The courtroom was immediately thrown into the wildest confusion, most of the workers cheering loudly.

THE POWER COLUMN

Twice every week—this column uncovers to your view the motive power behind the DAILY WORKER. Here for the interest and inspiration of every reader—and especially the DAILY WORKER agents and committees—are tried and proven suggestions and accomplishments to drive the DAILY WORKER to further conquests.

Here is POWER—the power of brain and effort of men and women of the working class who not only believe—but ACT!

We Have a Friend in Kansas City—

SOME people imagine Communists as such ornery, cussed creatures. As persons convinced of a certain social theory and that like bigoted Jesuits they undeviatingly adhere to its theory and practice.

On the basis of such criticism the Communists are most heartily hated (and feared!) by the fakers in the Labor movement—and most generously snubbed by a good many liberals.

But the rigid adherence to the straight and narrow path of the Communists in their theory and practice has also gained us many good friends who are not yet in the movement but who are willing to "Build the DAILY WORKER," seeing in it the strongest weapon to promote the interests of the American workers.

Comrade Nelson Sorenson, DAILY WORKER agent in Kansas City, has found such a friend who modestly insists that his name be withheld. It's a real case of modesty when you See What a Builder He Is!

On the suggestion of Comrade Sorenson he was willing that the DAILY WORKER be sent for two months to 100 workers who were anxious to get THEIR paper but could not pay at this time for a subscription. He paid at once one-half of the subscription price of all.

At this stage enters our Building Agent in Kansas City. Comrade Sorenson is busy now trying to get renewals on all 100 subscriptions. On all those who are still unable to pay for renewal when their subscriptions expire this true friend of the Labor movement will pay for the second month of the subscription they received.

Of all those subscriptions renewed the DAILY WORKER gladly loses the cost of one month's subscription and has gained thru the favor of our Kansas City friend—a worker who will no longer stay without HIS paper if he can possibly manage it.

This notice is a grateful acknowledgment to our Kansas City friend and an appreciation of the efforts of our Kansas City Agent, Comrade Sorenson, whose plan our friend thought so well of.

Here is a real suggestion not only for individuals who can and would like to help the movement in some constructive fashion. Here is also a plan that units of any organization, including Workers Party branches could well adopt. This is constructive BUILDING with immediate results!—like the building work by other workers who have secured NEW subscriptions in the last two and a half days—on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. Is your name among

The Builders of the Labor Movement

YOLO, CALIF.—R. Ochos.
BELLEVILLE, ILL.—J. Randal.
BROOKFIELD, ILL.—Steve Lajcik.
DETROIT, MICH.—Edgar Owens (3).
CROMWELL, MICH.—John Pohl.
MINNEAPOLIS, MINN.—H. Seklund, Leo G. Walewich.
KANSAS CITY, MO.—Nelson Sorenson.
ST. LOUIS, MO.—Philip Ginsburg.
NEW YORK, N. Y.—Wm. Peterson (Brooklyn); Ida Kopp (Bronx); Franklin P. Brill, 3 (Williamsville); James Gralton; Hartman Bros. (Floral Park); Katterfeld, 5.
ALBANY, N. Y.—Dr. N. Goldberg.
JAMESTOWN, N. Y.—O. Beldner.
CHARLOTTE, N. C.—Benjamin Smith.
BELLAIRE, O.—John Zatezalo.
CLEVELAND, O.—Henry Reyonen.
SANDUSKY, O.—Chas. Litz.
EASTON, PA.—A. Hoffman.
MAHONEY, PA.—Alex Secauski.
PITTSBURGH, PA.—Bill Scarville.
WOODLAWN, PA.—M. Resetar (2).
SEATTLE, WASH.—J. Lawrie (2).
HANNAH, WYO.—Fred Williams (2).

* * * *

A Useful Hint for a Worker's Household

It really costs the DAILY WORKER a good deal to keep our readers advised by post card and letter that their subscription has expired. It takes time and help and money (and we sure need the last item!). But every issue, if you get the DAILY WORKER by mail, tells you on the address label when the subscription expires. Use this little household hint—take a look at the label. Take a look at it and act on the suggestion and save us the sometimes necessary inconvenience of giving our time and our help and our money (we'll tell the world we need it!) to advise you that your subscription to YOUR paper is expiring.

Periodically we may suggest other useful household hints but this time act on the suggestion and look on the label of THIS PAPER you are reading—if you got it by mail. Renewals also help greatly to "Build the DAILY WORKER."

* * * *

P. S.—The December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY will soon be ready. New features will gladden the hearts of those who already have or will subscribe before it appears.

HUNGARIAN WORKMEN'S SOCIETY SENDS $230 TO INT. WORKERS' AID FOR POLITICAL PRISONERS

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 17.—The International Workers' Aid which has begun a drive for the political prisoners in Europe and India of which there are hundreds of thousands, has already received a response from the Hungarian Workmens' Sick Benefit and Educational Federation which has over 4,000 members, in a contribution of $230. This represents a tax of 5c per member and is contributed in response to an appeal made in behalf of the Roumanian workers.

The Hungarian Workmens' Sick Benefit and Educational Federation has been active in all the drives made by the International Workers' Aid, for Russia and Germany, and now assures the committee of energetic support in behalf of the persecuted workers in Europe.

The International Workers' Aid, whose local headquarters is at 208 E. 12th St., is planning a conference of revolutionary workers which will be attended particularly by Workers Party and other organizations' delegates, on November 30 at the Workers' Home, 208 East 12th street, at 2 p. m. sharp. As a first undertaking it will hold a bazaar on February 11, 12, 13 and 14, which will be run jointly with the Labor Defense Council on behalf of prisoners in America and Europe.

Local committees representing national sections are being formed which will work particularly for political prisoners in Roumania, Greece, Italy, Lithuania, Poland, Hungary, Finland, Germany and India. The Roumanian committee is already organized and others are in process of formation.

The International Workers' Aid of New York calls upon all workers who have supported them in the last drive to participate energetically in the new campaign.

Trades Council Hits Prison Garments.

DANVILLE, Ill., Nov. 17.—Prison-made aprons, overalls and shirts in local stores will be called to the attention of the merchants by the Danville Trades and Labor Assembly. Merchants who persist in stocking prison-made goods will feel the disapproval of trade unionists who believe that convict labor should not compete in the open market with free labor, driving workers out of jobs, and infecting consumers with loathsome diseases.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

CO-OPERATORS GET SHOCK IN SOVIET MOTION

Resolution Is Beaten by Narrow Margin

By WILLIAM WEINSTONE.

The fourth Co-operative Congress which was held in New York City on November 6 to 8 was a dull, uneventful gathering. It was attended by about 50 delegates from various parts of the country. The first two days of the congress passed in a futile discussion of bookkeeping and control. The congress showed itself to be completely divorced from the life of the working class of this country and failed to touch the vital problems of the movement. Had it not been for a resolution on Russian recognition introduced by the militants which came up on the last day, it would have been difficult to distinguish the congress from any general gathering of liberals and professionals.

Proletarian Note.

The resolution introduced by the militants, calling upon the American government to establish recognition and enter into relations with the Soviet Republic, was the first proletarian note struck at the congress. The resolution committee bringing in its report stated that the committee was divided and left the matter open for decision to the body. The representatives of co-operatives, coming from proletarian sections such as the Finnish co-operatives of New York, Minnesota, Wisconsin, whose representatives are militants in the labor movement and supported also by the delegates representing other co-operatives having a distinct proletarian membership, came out energetically for the adoption of the resolution. Among the delegates representing co-operatives with a petty bourgeois membership, there was consternation when this resolution was reported. These delegates would have rushed from the hall in terror if it were at all possible.

Feared Soviet Motion.

Despite the fact that the Russian co-operatives are the most powerful in the international movement and a delegate of which had greeted the congress at the very opening, the mere mention of the Soviet government aroused fear and trembling in the hearts of these petty bourgeois delegates. The working class representatives spoke vigorously and well on the issue, but they were not in sufficient numbers to carry and the resolution was tabled by a vote of 19 to 14. Some of those who voted against declared their sympathy for the Soviet government but had not the courage to adopt this resolution. Their argument was the stock argument of all reformists that "politics" must not be mixed with the movement.

Working Class Connections

The co-operative movement showed itself to be in the very earliest stages of organization. The movement has not yet taken root among the workers and the lack of vision, the reformistic petty bourgeois leadership which this resolution showed dominated the movement, is to a great extent responsible for its weakness.

The militants who introduced the resolution on Russian recognition also presented a resolution on the relations of trade unions and co-operatives in which it called upon the co-operative movement to establish close bonds with organized labor, to assist striking workers and in general to serve as a weapon of the class war. In that way it could prove to the working class that it was an institution which should be supported by the working class and grow in organization and influence.

The resolution furthermore called upon the trade union movement to give material support to the organization of co-operatives and issued the slogan, "Every trade unionist a co-operator and every co-operator a member or active supporter of the trade unions." This resolution caused a division in the resolutions committee but when it was reported to the floor it was passed without discussion or a dissenting vote. It was unopposed by the majority of delegates not because they understood the significance of it and saw that the failure of the co-operative movement to serve the class struggle was the paramount cause of its weakness, but because they feared that another discussion similar to the intense one held on Russian recognition would again divide the congress.

In Reformists' Hands

In the election of officers the direction of the movement fell again into the hands of petty bourgeois liberals and trade union bureaucrats. It is not to be expected that they can make any vigorous campaign to establish the co-operatives in any sections of the country. The resolution adopted on relations with trade unions would call for such a campaign. The first action of the executive committee should be to send a ringing appeal to the American Federation of Labor convention meeting on November 17, to start action in forming co-operatives in order to meet the strikes, unemployment and period of depression in store for the working class in the coming months. But little can be expected of the present executive committee in this direction.

The co-operative movement is weak today because of the bureaucrats and reformists. The left wing are not organized and cannot impress their militancy upon the movement. The American workers need the building up of this instrument for the successful waging of the class struggle.

The Communists should give the movement their earnest attention and their energetic participation and direction build up the movement.

"Every Communist a Co-operator" should be a slogan that the party ought to adopt and in the coming year help to give life and vigor to the co-operative movement.

BLIND FARMER MUST WORK ALONE TO KEEP WOLF FROM HIS DOOR

(Special to The DAILY WORKER.)

LOGANSPORT, Ind., Nov. 17.—The farmers in Indiana are going thru a wild orgy of "prosperity." Right here in Logansport there is one of the "prosperous." He is blind, he is without help, he is "prospering."

Taylor Coffel is 50 years old. He became totally blind 14 years ago. But he is doing alone every bit of his farm work, his only aid being two horses.

"Love of labor," say the local newspapers, in attempting to explain Coffel to their readers.

Mining Towns Booking "Beauty and Bolshevik"

The mining towns of southern Illinois, notwithstanding their long siege of unemployment, are eagerly grabbing dates for the new Russian feature film, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik." Here are three dates that were fixed in a single day:

St. David, Ill., Opera House, Nov. 18.

Dowell, Ill., Rex Theater, Nov. 22.

West Frankfort, Ill., Majestic Theater, Dec. 1.

The first two are direct rentals of small theaters and the last is a big show house that is running the film on a percentage basis. It will only be a matter of a few days before theaters are secured in Christopher and Zeigler, Ill., and many other locals in the coal belt here and in Ohio are seeking dates.

The accompanying picture, "Russia in Overalls," is of special interest to these mining towns because it shows the Kushas Colony to which many American miners have migrated. Data can be secured from International Workers Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

Organize in Philadelphia.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 17. — The knitted outerwear workers are organizing in Philadelphia under the auspices of the Federated Textile Unions of America. Meetings are being held every Friday evening in the rooms of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' union and as soon as 200 members are signed up for the new union, a charter will be issued the local.

New York Readers, Attention!

WORKERS' SCHOOL

WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA, DISTRICT No. 2
208 EAST 12th STREET

COURSES BEGIN DECEMBER 1

REGISTER NOW!

PARTY TRAINING COURSE:
ELEMENTS OF COMMUNISM—W. W. Weinstone
MARXISM—Dr. J. Mindel
INTERNATIONAL COMMUNIST MOVEMENT—W. W. Weinstone
AMERICAN INDUSTRIAL DEVELOPMENT—A. Trachtenberg

TRADE UNION TRAINING COURSE:
HISTORY OF AMERICAN TRADE UNIONISM—Solon De Leon
PROBLEME OF INDUSTRIES—A Symposium
ORGANIZATION

GENERAL COURSES:
CURRENT EVENTS—Ludwig Lore
PUBLIC SPEAKING—Carl Brodsky
ENGLISH—Eli B. Jacobson.

Information and registration at office of Workers' School, 208 E. 12th St., Room 1
Telephone Stuyvesant 4634.

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

TOOHEY GREETED WITH ENTHUSIASM BY W. VA. MINERS

(Special to the Daily Worker)

GALLOWAY, W. Va., Nov. 17.—The miners in this little mining town on the edge of the non-union coal fields of West Virginia turned out in a body to hear Pat H. Toohey, the Workers Party speaker.

Packing the Union Theatre to the doors, the audience for three hours held close attention, save for many outbursts of applause, while Comrade Toohey, the young Pennsylvania miner, exposed the rottenness and corruption of the capitalist system.

Government With Boss Every Time.

Comrade Toohey told of the many heroic struggles of the West Va. miners, the role the government has played in these struggles, usually on the side of the boss. He pictured the suffering and misery of the miners and workers everywhere in order to forcibly bring home to the audience the ever intensifying class struggle. The miners of Galloway have been working part time for many months and the reason for this was explained in plain words by the speaker. He told of the approaching war the capitalists are planning, and how they will once more fool the working class to defend their profits and investments. His speech was punctuated with humorous remarks which the crowd greatly appreciated and applauded.

True To His Class

One was when he answered the rumor that he was a paid foreign agitator and trouble maker by saying "as to being an agitator and trouble maker, it is my delight to make as much trouble for the boss class as possible, and as for my nationality it happens that my grandfather, father and myself was born in this country, so you see I am a real American only I am not in the habit of wearing sheets and bed clothes at night in order to prove it."

The meeting was held under the auspices of Local Galloway, Workers Party, and much literature was sold in addition to the taking of a large collection in the face of the unemployment prevailing here.

Meet Death in Fog.

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind., Nov. 17.—The Negro driver of a school hack and one colored school girl were instantly killed, two other school children perhpas fatally injured and five seriously hurt today when the back carcade from Centerville to the Chinsburg school was struck by a railroad train. A fog obstructed the view of the crossing.

Communist Vote in Iowa.

COUNCIL BLUFFS, Ia., Nov. 17.—William Z. Foster, Communist candidate, got 27 votes in Pottawattamie county, which includes this city. As there are only two Workers Party members in the city, and as Iowa is termed as a standpat state, this is about 17 more than these party members estimated.

CHICAGO LABOR OFFICIALS DODGE WORKERS' HEALTH BUREAU FIGHT ON POISONING OF STANDARD OIL LABOR

The letter of the Workers' Health Bureau, condemning the tragedy at Bayway, N. J., where five employes of the Standard Oil died of insanity because of disease contracted while working with ethyl gasoline, was sidetracked by the Chicago Federation of Labor meeting Sunday.

"Ed" Nockels made a motion to refer the matter to the Painters' District Council, but the delegates declared that the Illinois Federation of Labor had endorsed the Workers' Health Bureau and that the body should act on the matter.

Nockels then made an amendment that the letter of the Workers' Health Bureau be referred to the Illinois federation, which was carried. "Bob" Fitchie said that, "When Miss Harriet Silverman spoke on the Workers' Health Bureau at the Peoria convention the Illinois Federation of Labor suggested that each trade act independently on the matter, she was practically ignored."

Ravages of Profit System.

The letter of the Workers' Health Bureau said that the Standard Oil tragedy was an example of the ravages of the profit system, and called on all bodies affiliated with organized labor to take action protesting against such tragedies. The letter characterized the lead poisoning as "proving that the workers must fight against the exploitation of labor's health."

Anton Johannsen reported on the LaFollette campaign committee, declaring that $11,000 had been raised for the LaFollette campaign and a little over one thousand dollars spent in expenses. Most of this expense money was paid to Johannsen and his fellow committee members as wages and expenses.

Fight for Window Washers.

The delegate of the window washers requested the federation to authorize President Fitzpatrick to act on a committee to induce the public library board to give more favorable working conditions to the window washers. It was brot out that nonunionist painters work in the library alongside of union carpenters and window washers. The matter was referred to the executive board.

U. S. Planes Training To Fight Mikado Are Wrecked on West Coast

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 17.—Four of five seaplanes engaged in maneuvers with the Pacific fleet between San Diego and Los Angeles were wrecked early today, according to unconfirmed reports received here.

How the planes were wrecked or whether any of the pilots were killed or injured was unknown.

Efforts were being made to communicate with the U. S. S. California, flagship of the fleet, which was at anchor off Los Angeles Harbor, to confirm the rumor.

Looking Out for Chile.

LONDON.—Latin - American society members representing fortunes aggregating a billion dollars, South American diplomats and the ambassadors from the United States and Spain gave a farewell dinner for Senator Edwards, minister from Chile, who is retiring after 14 years of service.

Anti-Working Class Judge is Returned by Recent Election

(By Federated Press.)

TACOMA, Wash., Nov. 17. — The rawest of all the many raw results of the Washington elections is the elevation of Judge William D. Askren to the state supreme court.

If ever a judge deserved to be classified with vermin, Askren is the man. Not only have almost half of his decisions been reversed by the supreme court on appeal, giving him a standing of 37th out of 43 court judges in this respect, but his disregard of human rights and decency have made him the classic exhibit in the state.

The most celebrated of the decisions in which he met ignominious and unanimous reversal in the supreme court was the damage suit of Mrs. Bertha Wampler, a deserted wife with three young children, against an automobilist who injured her foot so that it had to be amputated. Her husband, who had been jailed as a wife deserter, accepted $300 from the autoist as complete release of all claims by the deserted wife.

Judge Askren accepted the release when Mrs. Wampler brought her damage suit, dismissed the jury and threw the woman's case out of court. Her lawyer offered to prove that the deserting husband had used the $300 not only to get out of jail on the desertion charge but was using the balance to sue his injured wife for divorce. The money that should have gone to her as damages, had she accepted the settlement out of court, was thus used to injure her further. Askren refused to listen.

The decision was unanimously reversed by the supreme court. But the voters of the state gave Askren his revenge. Justice Pemberton, who wrote the reversal, is the defeated candidate in the supreme court election won by Askren.

Lead Gasoline Very Dangerous, Health Bureau Warns Labor

NEW YORK, N. Y., Nov. 17.—Immediate action by organized labor to protect workers against poisoning by gasoline containing lead was urged yesterday in a letter sent to trade unions thruout the country by the Workers' Health Bureau, 799 Broadway, New York, following the death of the fourth worker of the Standard Oil company's Bayway plant. State Federations of Labor and Central Labor bodies in every state have been urged to take steps at once along the following lines:

State Must Stop Sale.

"1. To protest to their State Departments of Health and Industrial Commissions against the exposure of workers to gasoline containing lead.

"2. To call for an immediate and complete investigation of working conditions in the Standard Oil company's Bayway plant, and all other plants where similar experiments or manufacturing is being done.

"3. To demand that the sale of gasoline containing lead be stopped immediately and prohibited until the subject is fully investigated by scientific experts.

"4. That in the investigating committee chosen for this purpose SCIENTIFIC EXPERTS REPRESENTING LABOR shall be included."

Information Based on Authority

It was explained by the Workers' Health Bureau last night that the call to organized labor was based on a telegram from Prof. Yandell Henderson of Yale, leading authority on gas poisoning, in which he stated that unless the sale of gasoline containing lead is "immediately stopped and prohibited until the subject can be fully investigated by scientific experts, there is great danger of wide spread poisoning among men at gasoline filling stations, garages, and repair shops, and even among the general public." Copies of the bureau's appeal have been sent to all organized labor bodies of New Jersey.

"It is now up to the workers to protect themselves," the letter declares.

Butchers Get Vacation with Pay.

One week vacation with pay will be given every union meat cutter employed by the Master Butchers' Association of Chicago as a result of the new agreement obtained by Local 546 Amalgamated Association of Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen.

SLAVES OF THE COAL BARONS TAKE TO BOOKS

May Study History from Tut to Farrington

By SCOTT NEARING

(Federated Press Staff Writer)

TAYLORVILLE, Ill., Nov. 17.—Ten thousand miners in the fifth subdistrict of Illinois, United Mine Workers of America are conducting a significant experiment in labor education. Altho more than half of the mines in this territory are closed for lack of demand, these union men, in the face of a hard winter, have reached the conclusion that their real hope lies in awakening the rank and file of the organization to the underlying and economic causes of the hardship that is confronting them. They propose to combat ignorance and apathy with organized education.

The subdistrict convention, held early in June, 1924, resolved to adopt this course after listening to a report from President William Daech, in which he suggested an educational committee and adoption of a vigorous policy of education for the rank and file. A committee of five was elected from the floor of this convention, a former mine worker—Tom Tippet—was secured from The Federated Press as director of the experiment, and in the blazing heat of an Illinois August, the educational work was begun.

Many Students.

Now, at the end of three months, there are more than 130 students, grouped in 10 classes, and well scattered over the district.

After a great deal of discussion, the students decided to spend the first three months on ancient history, supplemented by English and public speaking. The next period will be devoted to American history, particularly the American labor movement.

Most of these students never finished the grammar school, some went to work when they were twelve years of age, but they assemble, week after week, discuss the topic of the evening, bring in compositions, do outside work in the public libraries—in short they act quite like other folks that are interested in enlarging the boundaries of their knowledge.

Classes vs. Saloon.

Labor education comes as something of an innovation in these Illinois mining towns in which the saloon and the movie palace have heretofore predominated. The regular schools at this section are usually conducted by quite young girls, whose education has extended little beyond the high school, and whose background is that of the Illinois mining villages. There are few forces of revolution and almost no means of spreading enlightenment.

Hold Public Lectures.

Beginning with their October program, the educational committee in addition to the regular classes is bringing into the district prominent teachers in fields related to the class work, who not only conduct classes but hold public lectures in the mine villages where the classes have been organized. The public lectures will spread the work of education to the whole village.

There seems to be no limit to the work this educational committee may do except that set by the funds of the union and the interest and capacity of the students, most of whom are under 30, and all of whom are looking for a way out of the tangled maze of economic vassalage in which the miners of Illinois find themselves.

Plenty of Dividends.

FALL RIVER, Mass., Nov. 17.—In spite of the industrial depression that for 18 months has hit Fall River harder than any other textile center, the cotton mill companies of this city announce average dividends for the fourth quarter of their fiscal year of 1.33 per cent. The total dividends are $587,675 on a captalization of $43,965,000. Twenty-two companies paid dividends, fourteen passing. The Sagamore Manufacturing company paid five per cent.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

SPANISH WORKERS LIVING UNDER IRON HEEL OF FASCISM, WRITES COMRADE, DEPORTED FROM U. S.

From "sunny" Spain, the land of Fascism and dictatorship, comes a letter from a comrade who proved himself a fighter in the class war in America, who suffered imprisonment in San Quentin, and who was later shipped back to Spain.

"The whole country is under the iron heel of Primo de Rivera," writes our comrade. "Martial law has been proclaimed everywhere. The press has been muted. Hundreds of workers are in prison, and some others being deported to some Spanish colonies on the equator in Africa, some of the Canary Islands.

Labor Unions Wrecked

"The labor papers and their machinery have been destroyed. The labor unions have been practically destroyed, and those left can meet only under supervision, to talk of their organization business and their accounts. Any attempt to criticise the priests or the government brings a long jail sentence.

Workers Starving

"In every corner of the rural country, as well as in the cities, you can hear nothing but furious denunciations of the government.

"The workers are starving here, the wages are so small that they can't earn enough money for a living.

"I should appreciate it if you could sent me some revolutionary literature. We cannot get any here, under the present circumstances. Besides that, I was deported from San Quentin without money."

Show Movies of Life In Soviet Russia at Providence, Nov. 19

PROVIDENCE, R. I., Nov. 17.—The average picture shown in the moving picture theaters does not interest the person who wants to know real life. A picture like Tolstoi's story of a serf, "Polikushka," is not shown in many places. The average Henry Dubb wants to be amused and not instructed and as there are more Henry Dubbs than there are Jimmie Higgins, the result is "Vamps" and custard pie comedies.

The R. I. Workers' Educational Society, Joseph M. Caldwell, president has made arrangements to have an evening's showing of two of Tolstoi's pictures, produced by the Moscow Art Theater Players, at the Gaiety Theater in Providence, R. I. on Wednesday night, Nov. 19, 8 p m. sharp. The pictures to be shown are "Polikushka," a story of Russian serfdom, written as only Tolstoi could write and interpreted as only actors like the Moscow Art Theater Players can interpret Russian life. This picture is a masterpiece of photoplay production. Ivan Moskvin, who plays the leading part brings tears and laughter to the audience, a truly remarkable feat of a master actor. The pictures are genuinely full blooded Russian, holding one in breathless suspense from the first scene to the last. The pictures run for six reels of dramatic beauty conceivable only to the Moscow Art Theater Players.

"The Miracle of Ivan the Soldier," a two reel comedy of Russian life and a one reel pictorial of "Russia Today" are included in the evening's program. The show starts at 8 p. m. sharp, in the Gaiety Theater, on Weybosset St., Wednesday, Nov. 19, for one showing only. If you miss this you may never have an opportunity to see it again. The proceeds of the show will be used for the benefit of the children of the German workers, many of whom need food and clothes now. Tickets go on sale by the comrades and at the theater.

Amalgamated Wins Strike.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 17.—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers' Union has won a ten-day strike against contract shops supplied by J. Roth enberg & Son. Three shops were involved. An agreement is being worked out, the firm agreeing to accept union conditions prevailing in the city.

Is a Church a Business?

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—The California supreme court must decide if a church is a business organization, in the test case of Charles Eubanks, who was hurt while repairing a church roof and demanded compensation. The court awarded Eubanks compensation, but declined to make a definite statement on the question.

Your Union Meeting

THIRD TUESDAY, NOV. 18, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
21	Bricklayers, 912 W. Monroe St.
258	Carpenters, Diversey and Sheffield.
141	Carpenters, 1023 E. 75th St.
271	Carpenters, Masse Hall, 9916 Chicago Heights.
1786	Carpenters, Springfield and 26th St.
462	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
536	Fireman and Enginemen, 5438 S. Halsted St.
542	Federal Employes, Great Northern Hotel.
	Glove Workers' Joint Council, 1710 W. Winchester Ave., 8:30 p. m.
5	Hod Carriers, 225 E. 15th St., Chicago Heights, Ill.
6	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
81	Janitors and Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
	Marine Fire and Oilers, 357 N. Clark.
147	Painters, 20 W. Randolph St.
180	Painters, N. E. cor. California and Madison.
184	Painters, 3414 S. Halsted St.
191	Painters, N. W. cor. State and Adams.
275	Painters, 220 W. Oak St.
902	Painters, Trumbull and Ogden Ave.
802	Plasterers, Monroe and Perlo Sts.
4	Polishers and Die Stampers, 19 W. Adams St.
724	Railway Carmen, 75th and Drexel Ave.
1047	Railway Clerks, 9 S. Clinton St.
219	Railway Clerks, 509 W. Washington.
703	Teamsters, 160 N. State St.
7	Waiters, 234 W. Randolph St.
117	Upholsters Union, 180 W. Washington St.
39	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, Keddie and Ogden.
182	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 1534 N. Robey St.

(Note: Unless otherwise stated, all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Discuss Question of Making Vladivostok, Siberia, Free Harbor

VLADIVOSTOK, Nov. 17. — The question of declaring part of the Vladivostok a free harbor has again come to the fore. Since 1921, Vladivostok has become more and more an exporting port. The following table of trade passing thru Vladivostok port shows this clearly (figures in million poods):

Trade of Vladivostok Port.

	Exports	Imports	Excess of Exports over Imports
1921	24	3	21
1922	44	4	32
1923 (Jan.-Sept.)	41	1	40

With the declaration of a free harbor, the use of the port also for imports would be encouraged; this, it is argued, would decreased freight charges, and thus enable Vladivostok port to compete successfully with Dairen as a transit port, particularly for the trade in import goods to Manchuria.

A first-class free harbor could readily be organized in Vladivostok, where goods could not only be transported and warehoused, but preliminary operations, such as purifying, sorting, reweighing, and packing could be carried out.

Fear Bad Conditions in San Quentin Will Now Get Still Worse

SAN QUENTIN, Cal., Nov. 17.—After months of political harassing, Warden James A. Johnston of San Quentin prison has sent in his resignation to take effect Jan. 1. Johnston, known as somewhat of a liberal and more or less interested in prison reform, was a Hiram Johnson appointee, and for this reason Gov. Friend A. Richardson has been trying to get rid of him. Richardson announces as Johnston's successor Frank J. Smith of Los Angeles, now state printer. Smith is without experience in prison management. The change cannot help but be for the worse, bad as conditions already are in this prison, one of the largest in the country. There are 80 criminal syndicalism (political) prisoners now in San Quentin, and their fate under the new warden is causing considerable anxiety among friends of the militant workers.

GERMAN POLICE CHARGED WITH MASS MURDER

Communist Paper Sued for Libel

"Bloodhounds and Criminals as Police Officers." That was the headline of an article appearing in a Communist paper in Dusseldorf. The police of Dusseldorf found in this headline not only an insult to itself, but one to the whole institution of the police of Germany. Suit for criminal libel was brought against the paper.

The trial disclosed conditions in the machinery for the administration of justice of Germany that challenge any attempt at description. The whole institution of police was uncovered as one big cesspool. The government of the republic of Germany is in the hands of a band of unscrupulous mercenaries whose only object is to enslave the German workers for the benefit of German and international capital. Whoever lends a hand in the execution of this task is welcome and is given some authority as an official or an agent of the police.

In Pay of Police.

Haarman, the infamous mass murderer of Hanover was enabled to perpetrate his crimes only because he was in the pay of the police as a stool pigeon. And he was able to commit his murders practically under the protecting hand of this police.

The court in the trial against the Communist paper in Dusseldorf was biased and prejudiced against the workers. Yet, after hearing three witnesses, this court had to declare that the Communist paper established the truth of its accusation that bloodhounds and criminals make up most of the body of the police. The Communist paper was adjudged not guilty. The court was in a hurry to cut short the hearing of witnesses. It feared that the stench of the scandal disclosed by these witnesses might defeat the greater purpose of the suit against the Communist paper. So no more witnesses were permitted after the first three.

Commit Every Crime.

The witnesses disclosed the fact that every crime under the sun had been committed by the police, theft, assault, robbery, rape and murder. The crimes are committed as part of the execution of their "police duty." The victims are invariably workers. The Second International is silent about these outrages while it shouts loudly against the first Workers' and Peasants' Republic of Russia.

These victims and their families appeal for aid to the solidarity of workers the world over. The innocent children of these victims need food and clothing. The victims themselves need the little necessities that make life bearable for those suffering in prison from capitalist persecution. Send contributions to the Committe for International Workers' Aid, 19 South Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill.

Inspect Muscle Shoals Again.

One hundred and fifty prominent manufacturers, together with the congressmen they control, will depart on a trip to inspect Muscle Shoals to discover how the manufacturers can use the giant power dam to make the most money. The trip is being held under the auspices of the Illinois Manufacturers' Association. Senator William B. McKinley and several Illinois congressmen will attend.

Bosses Violate Contracts.

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 17.—The Shoe Workers' Protective Union is seeking an injunction in the superior court to compel the L. B. Evans' Son company, shoe manufacturers, to keep their agreement with the union and stop giving employment to non-unionists.

New York Readers, Attention!

WANTED—FURNISHED ROOM

Couple, no children. Party members desire furnished room and kitchen or use of kitchen. Offers with price to N. Jager, 232 E. 12th St., New York City.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A "ONE PIECE" DRESS

4930. Godets lend fullness to the front of this "straightline" model. It is made to slip over the head. Plaid woolen or alpaca, charmeen or wool rep will be good for this youthful model.

The Pattern is cut in 3 Sizes: 16, 18 and 20 years. An 18 year size requires 3¼ yards of 54 inch material. For facings on collar, cuffs and vestee of contrasting material ½ yard of 40 inches wide is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A COMFORTABLE WINTER OUT-DOOR GARMENT.

4920. "Teddy Bear" cloth, eiderdown, corduroy, jersey and flannel may be used for this design. It is a one-piece garment with "drop" back.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 2, 4, 4 and 6 years. A 4-year size requires 2⅞ yards of 36-inch material.

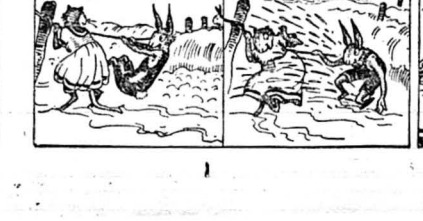
Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS



A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50...6 months $2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50...6 months $2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE | Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB | Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

This—Or Face Annihilation

It is typical that one of the most important parts of the American Federation of Labor, the Building Trades department, is torn with dissension over jurisdictional disputes. The 350,000 carpenters and joiners, quarreling with the sheet metal workers, withdrew from the department some time ago in order to continue the job war against the sheet metal workers.

The Stone Cutters' Union accuses the Granite Cutters' Union of cutting artificial stone which is "not hard enough" to use granite cutter's tools upon, and therefore belongs, by grace of the "jurisdictional board of awards," to the stone cutters' jurisdiction. The scrap over this made such bad blood that 32 granite cutters were compelled by their union president to scab on a job at New Haven, struck by the stone cutters.

In California the open shop drive against the building trades threatens to wreck them all, but the head of the Bricklayers' Union questions the wisdom of sending money to help the building trades of California for fear "of furnishing ammunition to fight" the national department.

These are merely mild and typical examples of the disorganization persisted in by the labor bureaucracy rather than give way to the increasing need and the growing demand for amalgamation of the craft unions into industrial unions. In every strike the glaring impossibility of victory by the scattered segments of labor, which battle huge corporations alone while other crafts calmly not only do their own work, but the struck work of the craft on strike, becomes more evident.

Against such a demoralized condition the Trade Union Educational League has raised the banner of militant struggle by its campaign for amalgamation. "One union for each industry," has been its cry. Great blocks of organized labor have rallied to the call for amalgamation. Only the bureaucracy stands obdurate. It would mean the loss of many fat jobs for officials. Therefore, even tho it is a matter of life and death to the rank and file, the officials will not move.

The employers are preparing a new open shop drive, new wage cuts and a general offensive. Conditions cannot improve, they cannot even be maintained! They are sure to become worse if the 14th convention does not register the will of the A. F. of L. membership and call upon the various international unions to meet in special conference to arrange for the amalgamation of the conflicting and discordant crafts into harmonious and coordinated industrial unions which can deal with corporate wealth in an effective manner. Do this, or face annihilation.

Timely Liars

The convention of the American Federation of Labor is opening at El Paso and it is foretold that a group of delegates who are not any more reactionary than Coolidge and Senator Borah, are planning to fight for a resolution favoring the recognition of Soviet Russia.

At the same time the political circles of Washington are flabbergasted by Borah, the new chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, openly advocating the recognition of Russia.

The division within the ranks of the bourgeoisie over this question is becoming more and more acute as the commercial interests of England and France are breaking away from the old blockade agreement and are competing for Russian trade. The "bitter enders"-among the bourgeoisie are launching a campaign against any recognition, hoping to influence both the labor convention and the capitalist government.

The McCormick Harvester company, which is the twin brother to the Chicago Tribune, lost its great factories and warehouses and port properties in Russia by the Bolshevik revolution. The Tribune is very vocal just now opposing recognition and inventing fairy tales of all sorts against the Soviet republic of workers and peasants.

In Sunday's issue, the Constantinople correspondent of the world's greatest liar is authority for the ridiculous statement that there are 4,000,000 unemployed in Russia at present. The dispatch goes on to add the more ridiculous statement that "a suit of clothes costs $100, shoes $20," and so on. Upon the basis of this last yarn, a long list of imaginary figures are given showing how the wages in Soviet Russia are, according to this telepathic correspondent, "lower than in any other country in Europe." Very interesting, if true. But what are the facts?

Russian workers were badly enough off before the war, and no Communist has ever contended that they are dwelling in a fairy land where chocolate biscuits drop from heaven. The wreckage of war and civil war, of blockade and famine and pestilence made the first effect of the workers' revolutionary seizure of power a lowering of standards and a pitiable state of want.

But with the problem of internal power settled and the invaders driven back—with no help and much hindrance from the Chicago Tribunes of all the world—the Russian workers, with no aid at all from capitalist sources, have been rebuilding the national economy with amazing speed and improving their standards of living with every step.

In Moscow the workers of all classes earn on an average of 93 per cent of pre-war rates, and in Leningrad they earn 83 per cent. These are figures of early spring 1924. There has been swift and uninterrupted progress since then. At that time the wages for all classes of workers thruout Russia were 65 per cent of pre-war wages.

Moreover, it must remembered that the ruble is at par. The "deluded" Russians have a government that has recovered from unexampled inflation because it could write off debts without facing opposition from the creditor class. No other country on earth can do that. The Soviet Republic is the first nation in Europe to go back on a gold basis, and to reckon wages from what wages buy.

The fact then that Russian workers are getting wages that amount to 65 per cent of pre-war wages, shows that they are in about the same comparative circumstances as the American workers whose wages in dollars that are worth only 66.3 per cent of pre-war dollars, have not convinced them that their Russian brothers are altogether mistaken in making a revolution.

Getting Their Pound of Flesh

The Mexican government has decided to shoot two peasants its court found guilty of participating in the incident resulting in the death of Mrs. Evans.

This case bears all the earmarks of diplomatic murder. These peasants would never have been found guilty if there were a Mexican government strong enough to disregard the British imperialist government whose subject Mrs. Evans was. The two peasants would never have been sentenced to face a firing squad if there had been a Mexican government courageous enough to tell the British and American imperialists to keep their hands off. But such anti-imperialist steps cannot and will not be taken by so weak a government as the Obregon-Calles administration which is ever ready to bow before the capitalist imperialist plunderers of the United States and other powers.

The diplomatic corps in Mexico City is especially hopeful that the sentence will stand and that the Mexicans will be shot down. They are sure that the meting out of such a punishment will help all wealthy hacienda owners and the foreign exploiters in general. In fact two British representatives are being charged with tampering with witnesses against the defense. Other irregularities are also evident in the trial. The hand of the American and British governments is behind the scenes in an effort to enact judicial murder, legalized murder.

We know that Mrs. Evans took her life in her own hands when she insisted on denying the Mexican peons the right to the most elementary needs of life. This is precisely what all the capitalist exploiters are doing in Mexico and in the other economically under developed countries. It is these capitalist marauders who are really guilty of murder.

Mark Hanna, 1924

The appointment of Wm. Morgan Butler as the successor of Henry Cabot Lodge in the United States senate, is of far more than passing significance.

Butler will be to Coolidge what Mark Hanna was to McKinley. The multi-millionaire textile magnate will be the captain and director of politics in Washington. This is the task that Mark Hanna performed twenty years ago for the imperialist lackey McKinley. It will be recalled that when Hanna was appointed senator he was chairman of the republican national committee. This is the position Butler occupies now.

Of course Butler will be the liaison officer between the senate and the White House. It is fitting that he should be. The labor-hating Butler personifies very adequately the type of administration with which the country will be saddled for four years. The tariff lobbyist Butler is a symbol of the price, the huge expense, paid by the reaction in selling Coolidge and Dawes to the country.

The days of Mark Hanna are with us again in American politics. Fundamentally there has been no interruption in the Mark Hanna politics for the last two decades. But now and then our strike-breaking governmental agents would tend to cloak themselves in the raiments of purity and democratic virtues. Mark Hanna was the type of government representative who did not have recourse to hypocritical cant. He was the type of political policeman who swung his club without blushing. Butler is a prototype of Mark Hanna.

It is perhaps not a strange coincidence that on the very day on which the senior Butler was appointed United States senator, the junior Butler, his son, was chosen president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. This is an employers' association of the vilest hue. It consists of the greediest textile barons in the country. With Butler at its head and Butler in the senate, the textile interests will not go hungry in Washington for the next few years—unless the working class decides otherwise.

The Washington, a United States warship that cost $16,000,000 to bring within 79 per cent of completion, is slated for destruction in accordance with the terms of the four-power naval pact. It is a pacific gesture that does not mean anything. The ship will be used as a target for aerial bombs, shells and depth charges. Simply preparing for war, and that costs money.

Report to A. F. of L. Model of Evasion

(Continued from Page 1.)

an interview last week concerning convention issues he said: "Our convention is a free and open forum where nothing can be concealed and where every delegate has a full and free opportunity to speak his mind. This is the freest forum in the world, and it is so known."

Gompers "Doth protest too much."

The same may be said of the rosy prophesies he and the other labor fakers make as to the future. With the Dawes plan being celebrated in every bankers' and commercial journal in the country as the means whereby, in competition with German labor, American labor will be thrown into unemployment enough to create a labor reserve sufficient to force down the wage standard of American workers and lengthen their hours, Frank Morrison, secretary of the A. F. of L., announces in pure disregard of facts, that "The trend of the times is upward for wages, and that trend will continue."

Rosy Dreams—Black Facts

This even stands in contradiction to the bourgeois economist Roger Babson, who says that wages will go lower and remain lower for the next ten or fifteen years. In fact, of course there is nothing inevitable about it either way. It depends altogether upon the strength of the labor unions. This being the case, the unions must look to building up their own powers and not depend upon the problematical weakness of the capitalists.

However, Gompers declares that everything is going to be glorious in the future because "The new congress is not likely to pass any measure greatly detrimental to the interests of the workers." Such dependence upon the kindness of the capitalists to avoid injury is an abandonment of the class struggle and an admission of inability to fight the enemy on the industrial field.

Amalgamation or Annihilation

In the report of the executive council, there is no recommendation at all of the only measure which would make the scattered forces of the craft unions able to fight the employers and depend upon the problematical dustrial unions.

One can only draw the conclusion from reading the report, that the executive council of the A. F. of L. does not want to fight the employers. That facts which show an increasing misery of and danger to the workers, are disregarded and covered over with rosy pictures, is not merely accidental or conventional cheer-up stuff, but a preparation for ceasing struggle against employers and going over into collaboration with them, is shown by the space devoted in the report to class collaboration, labor banks and labor insurance.

No Program of Struggle

The first part of the report that claims that "reactionary and bourbon employers are in a most unfavorable position," is not only a falsehood, but a falsehood upon which is erected the conclusion that all that labor needs to do is to establish "labor" banks and "labor" insurance companies. There is no hint of vigorous programs of struggle, no campaign proposed for organizing the unorganized, nor for making the organized workers able to strike with success by amalgamation of their unions and making common cause with the unemployed millions through unemployment councils.

Such ridiculous measures as the "full utilization of playground advantages" are advocated as essential to workers "who have small opportunity to use other than a few muscles." While no one doubts that recreation is imperative for sedentary workers, a program which shuns struggle for shortening their hours and merely declares some exercise is healthful is nothing short of betrayal of the duty of union leadership. If workers would use their heads as well as "few muscles" such leadership would soon be discharged. This is merely an illustration of the petty and futile items of the program suggested by bankrupt leadership.

Proud of Class Collaboration

The twenty-three "labor" banks are "pointed to with pride" and an insurance scheme is recommended by a special committee's report contained within the report of the council. This committee is composed of Matthew Woll and G. W. Perkins, and "urges a capital stock company to operate on the legal reserve system and on the participating plan only—to write both ordinary and industrial forms of policies—to be owned by the A. F. of L. and its constituent elements and their members, and directed by the heads of these organizations." Thus it is seen that the A. F. of L. is giving up the function of a labor union for its leaders to become officials of an insurance corporation.

The matter of child labor is dealt with superficially, complete dependence being placed upon a legislative program and nothing at all is proposed for to organize the millions of young workers into the A. F. of L. to remedy the condition of their use against adult labor by capital in reducing wages, etc.

Sam Protects Capitalist Courts

The menace of the injunction and the usurpation of power by the judiciary is a real threat to labor unions. Yet there is not a mention of the use of mass violation to break injunctions. Even the militant phrases once used by Gompers are missing. All that is said of the basis of the complaint is that the "misuse" of the injunction threatens to "undermine public confidence in the judiciary." The A. F. of L. would, that is, defend the capitalist courts against the indiscretions of the capitalist courts.

Bootlegger Draws Gompers' Tears

The instance given to illustrate the usurpation of power by the judiciary is an illustration, as well, of the enveloping character of the executive council of the A. F. of L. With thousands of members thrown into jail for violation of injunctions, with strikes broken right and left by order of the capitalist courts, the chief point made to show that courts are usurping power is the recital of the judicial over riding of President Coolidge's pardon granted to Phil Grossman, a ward-heeler-bootlegger of Chicago. Grossman, pardon by Coolidge for political pull, was by court order, re-arrested and confined in jail for a time. This is the best example of judicial usurpation Gompers could select!

Left Wing Only Hope.

"Labor has no complaints to make against the 68th congress," the report states. Gompers, privately goes further and brazenly contends that "Labor fared almost phenomenally well in the elections." And he adds, "The new congress is not likely to pass any measure greatly detrimental to the interests of the workers."

Such are the falsehoods upon which the leadership of the American Federation of Labor is leading the organized workers of America into a morass of disorganization and despair. Only the growth and unification of a left wing can defeat the traitors and class collaborationists. That left wing can, moreover, do this, only by the closest harmony with the Trade Union Educational League.

History of the American Communist Movement

THE second class of the series of seven given by James P. Cannon, Educational Director of the Workers Party, upon "The History of the American Communist Movement," will be held at 1902 W. Division street, tonight at 8 p. m. The subject of the lectures and the method of handling its varied phases is making this class one of the most popular as it is one of the most necessary of the party's educational activities.

The first class dealt in considerable detail with the roots of the Communist movement in the old socialist party, the I. W. W. and other working class organizations.

An Interesting Approach.

The method of approaching this vital subject is excellent in that one retains from the lessons the sense of continuity of the revolutionary movement thru its changes and variations. The labor movement is cursed by the prevalence of undigested experiences isolated in the minds of individuals from the experience of the whole class. The method of teaching used by Comrade Cannon brings all the separate incidents of the revolutionary movement into the picture and makes each understood as a part of the struggle as a whole.

The history of organizations and movements is taken up chronological ly, centering around conventions splits and factional controversies which have stirred the revolutionary movement of the United States in the last five years.

What the Russian Revolution Did.

The lecture tonight will deal with the reaction of the American movement to the Russian revolution and the formation of the Communist International.

In each of these classes the chronological account is woven into a discussion of all the big questions of policy which have occupied the movement such as the great problem of the relation of the revolutionary movement to the trade unions. In addition are the equally important questions of mass action, the fight between parliamentarians and anti-parliamentarians. The significance to the American movement of the federations of language groups, the structure of the party old and new, legal and illegal work the matter of auxiliary organizations and the vital question of the united front.

The Course of Development.

Those who missed the first class should by no means miss the other classes. The class which meets tonight will be followed one week from tonight by the third class which will take up the development of the left wing in the socialist party prior to the split.

The fourth class will deal with the split in 1919, the formation of the Communist Party and the Communist Labor Party, their differences and the issue of unity between them.

The fifth class will deal with the raids and persecution of the young Communist movement, the period of its underground existence, the underground convention and the convictions by the capitalist courts of Gitlow, Larkin, Ruthenberg and Ferguson.

From a Sect to a Mass Party.

The sixth class will take up the underground party from 1920 to 1922, the issues mentioned above and their stimulative effect on the life of the party.

The seventh class will conclude the series with an account of the fight for legality from October, 1921 to March, 1923. The question which shook the movement over legal or illegal work, the problem of sectarianism versus a mass party, the "geese" and the "liquidators," the birth of the Workers Party, the split, the "United Toilers," and the decisions upon all these issues by the Communist International.

Every worker whether a party member or not, should take this opportunity of learning the consideration of the revolutionary movement as a unified development. But particularly the members of the Workers Party should apply themselves to the study of the American Communist movement by attending Comrade Cannon's class every Tuesday evening at 1902 West Division street.

SELF-CRITICISM AND FRANKNESS

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The fifth chapter is entitled "Self-Criticism and Frankness."

* * *

LENIN knew exactly the strong and weak sides of the labor movement. And for this reason he reacted so exceptionally critically to every theory built upon the backwardness and weaknesses of the working class. He possessed a sixth sense, the sense of anti-reformism. He smelled reformism from a distance. It was very difficult in 1903 to have determined on the basis of differences of opinion regarding the first paragraph of the party constitution, who were the proletarian Girondists and who were the Jacobins. Nevertheless, Lenin determined this very definitely after the Second Congress of the Russian social-democratic party. Thru the formulation of the famous paragraph one, he came to the creation of the Girondist wing of the party. Since then he continuously criticised the right wing of the Russian social-democratic party whose reformism became apparent to everyone only in 1905.

Thruout the first revolution, in the period preceding the late war, and particularly after the war, this anti-reformist sense of Lenin manifests itself in all his activities. He was deceived neither by revolutionary phrases nor by well-sounding resolutions. He exposed to the daylight the reformist theoreticians and men of action, despite all their attempts to conceal their real nature. He was primarily a man of experience and practical deeds, and it was in this sphere of life that he caused the defeat of the strategists of reformism. More than one-half of his writings were devoted to the demoralizing activities of reformism, especially to the Russian Menshevike. Just as an archeologist determines the species of a pre-historic animal by the examination of a single bone, so Lenin was able to determine the reformist nature of his opponents by a single phrase in one or another of their articles.

* *

Tomorrow—"The Enemy of Reformism."

The Morning of a Busy Gentleman

Mr. Hughes learns about recognition of the Soviet Government by France. Dent, in Moscow Isvestia.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Wednesday, Nov. 19.

City Central Committee, 722 Blue Ave., 8 p. m. All delegates must attend. Visitors invited.

Cicero Italian, Circolo Giovanile Hall, 47th St. between 51st and 50th Ct.

Italian Terra Cotta, 2475 Clybourn Ave., 3rd floor.

Englewood English, 5414 S. Halsted St.

Ch.-Slovak No. 3, 2548 S. Homan Ave.

Ch.-Slovak, Women's No. 1, 1325 S. Loomis St.

Douglas Park Jewish, Liberty Club House, 3420 W. Roosevelt Road.

Thursday, Nov. 20.

Membership meeting, Workers Party, Local Chicago. Review of election campaign and discussion of shop nuclei. At Imperial Hall 2409 N. Halsted St. Meetings of all branches are off.

Friday, Nov. 21.

Polish North Side, 1902 W. Division street.

Lithuanian No. 5, 2142 S. Halsted St.

Greek Branch, 722 Blue Island Ave.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.

Wednesday, Nov. 19.

Earl Browder's Class in Elementary Economics, 2613 Hirsch Blvd., 8 p. m.

Junior Speakers' Class, 1111 N. La Salle St., Room 27.

Thursday, Nov. 20.

Party membership meeting, Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted St. Review of election campaign.

A BUCKET OF RED PAINT AND A BRUSH—AND BEHIND THE BRUSH—

A Comrade on tip-toe, ready to GO. (Watch our papers.)

YALE UNIVERSITY
NOV 28 1924
LIBRARY

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

HELP US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Vol. II. No. 207. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year; Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 19, 1924 290 Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

GOMPERS AID TO FASCIST DAWES

World War Vets Condemn 'Education Week'

AS WE SEE IT
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

MASTER IN CHANCERY BRIGGLE of Sangamon county, Illinois, makes it quite clear that Governor Len Small owes the state one million dollars which he made by lending state funds to the packers at 8 per cent, while Small only had to turn two per cent into the treasury. The capitalists do not like such conduct on the part of their servants, so they are after Small's scalp. An interesting feature of the case is that the LaFollette political scavengers who raised so much fuss over the corruption in Washington were able to line up with Small and found him a "friend of the people."

• • •

A Montana farmer-labor paper comments on the approaching trial of Burton K. Wheeler for activities similar to those carried on by Fall Denby and the rest of the G. O. P. crooks in Washington. Wheeler succeeded in putting the Anaconda tool T. J. Walsh, over on the workers and farmers of Montana, but there is a growing suspicion that Walsh will leave Wheeler in the clutches of the wolves. That is the way politicians play the game. And Wheeler's former friends, the workers and farmers he betrayed, are inclined to let the wolves do "their damndest."

• • •

An ingenious correspondent interested in getting to the bottom of the Dean O'Hanlon murder, pleads upon the leading catholic ecclesiastical authority in this section of the country as the real culprit. By a process of elimination which would do credit to Sherlock Holmes, he arrives at the conclusion that the conspirators were those who supported Crowe's Irish-catholic opponent, Micheal Igoe, ignoring the fact that Crowe is also an Irish catholic and just as loyal—for business reasons of course—to the Roman creed as is his opponent.

• • •

THOSE who profit from the capitalist system are not bothered with religious scruples. Those at the top never allow their religious affiliations to stand in the way of making a dollar. Only the superstitious workers take it seriously. This is just as true of the fanatical anti-catholics as of the catholics. The workers must be shown that the leaders of finance and big business, the Morgans, Rockefellers, Schwabs, Ryans, Belmonts, Garys' Farrells, Kuhns, etc., meet, eat and play together without worrying what their respective souls go to heaven or to hell after they stop clipping coupons. Fortunately religious prejudice is dying out and race prejudice with it.

(Continued on Page 6.)

POISON MINDS OF CHILDREN IN SCHOOL, CHARGE

Part of Drive to Smash Organizations of Labor

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 18.—National Education Week as proclaimed by President Coolidge is strongly condemned in a resolution adopted today by the national executive committee of the World War Veterans, assembled in a special session at Minneapolis.

The World War Veterans, quite unlike the several other organizations of former service men, have displayed sufficient courage to come out into the open and brand this un-American movement for what it is—a campaign among the school children to poison their childish minds against the expropriated farmers and exploited workers, a drive to reduce wages and smash labor organizations with the support of teachers and innocent scholars.

The resolution as adopted and signed by Jack Bradon, national president of the World War Veterans, follows:

Assault on Schools.

"Resolution on national Education Week.

"Calvin Coolidge is designating Nov. 17, to Nov. 23, 1924, as Education Week and in enlisting every known agency of reaction in the United States, has again definitely aligned himself with the enemies of progress and advancement.

"That there is no depth to which the forces of corruption and predatory interests will not stoop is proven by the fact that in this particular instance the assault is directed against the public schools of this country.

"Little children are to be taught a living lie—are to be told that every movement in the direction of human progress is fostered by dangerous 'Reds' and discontented radicals. Their little minds are to be systematically distorted and poisoned with hatred for the progressive elements fighting for the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness.'

"Teachers will be driven by fear of the loss of employment to do the bidding of those who seek to destroy freedom of thought and all semblance of that so-called democracy for which thousands of brave Americans offered their lives on the altar of sacrifice.

"This alleged Education Week is merely a movement to prepare the minds of school children for future exploitation—that the vested interests will be better able to successfully oppose any and all progressive movements on the part of the people.

Drive Children to War.

"Therefore: In view of the above designated facts, we, the members of the National Executive Committee of the World War Veterans, in special session assembled this 17th day of November, 1924, do hereby condemn this un-American attempt to stifle free speech and thought, and with the realization that this so-called Education Week is also designed to psychologize the child mind for war and to fight against those opposing warfare, we pledge the offices and efforts of this entire organization to inform the American people of the true purposes behind this gigantic drive and we further pledge our efforts to warn the workers and farmers that it is their common enemies that are instigating this sinister movement to prepare the people for wage reductions and 'open shop' campaigns.

"(Signed) Jack Braden, National President."

FOSTER EXPOSES TOOL OF IMPERIALISM

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.

TELEGRAPHIC dispatches from El Paso, Texas, where the forty-fourth annual convention of the American Federation of Labor is being held, state that in private cogferences between the leaders of the A. F. of L. and representatives of the trade unions of Mexico, Great Britain, Canada and Germany, plans are being made for co-ordination of international labor bodies thruout the world. It is added that Gompers hopes to establish from these conferences a union of world labor organization under the guidance of the American Federation of Labor.

This indicates that Gompers is finding it necessary, as a part of his regular program of furthering the interests of American imperialism, to get into the European labor movement. This necessity arises from the fact that the invasion of Europe by American imperialism, of which the Dawes Plan is the first big step, requires that Gompers and company, who stand at the head of the labor department of American imperialism, throw their restraining influence into the European labor movement which is stirring with revolutionary ferment.

In this Gompers aims to repeat the service already rendered to American imperialism in the western hemisphere, where the labor movements of Mexico, Central America, the West Indies and South America are saddled with his reactionary policies thru the control of the Gompers bureaucracy of the Pan-American Federation of Labor.

It is unlikely that Gompers will form any new international. It is unlikely that he even intends to attempt the formation of such an organization. But it is his first maneuver to re-enter the International Federation of Trade Unions, known as the Amsterdam International.

However, Gompers will seek before entering Amsterdam to drive it to the right and to prevent admission of the 5,500,000 revolutionary unionists of Russia. Indeed, this threat of a new international is designed by him to have this effect. He will seek to force Amsterdam to drop even its socialist phraseology, and to adopt, as a concession to him, even more reactionary policies.

But once inside of Amsterdam, Gompers will have three objectives. First, to organize and strengthen the right wing against the growing left wing. Second, to prevent the admission to Amsterdam of the revolutionary unions of Soviet Russia and the unity of the Amsterdam organization with the Red International of Labor Unions. Third, as a matter of customary adherence to the policy of the American government, Gompers will make war relentlessly upon Soviet Russia.

The policy of Gompers and company always follows the policy of the American government. When Wilson was in office, Gompers was a rabid propagandist for the League of Nations. At the same time he was holding the A. F. of L. affiliated to Amsterdam. When the big capitalists of America dropped the League of Nations in favor of a policy of independent imperialist action, Gompers also dropped his support and withdrew from Amsterdam. Just as the American government is the bitterest foe of the Soviet government, Gompers in the labor movement wars relentlessly upon the Soviets of workers and peasants.

Now, that the aggressive and independent policy of American imperialism is successfully forcing the capitalist groups of Europe to accept the dominant leadership of Morgan and company; now that American diplomats are giving directions in every great nation on the European continent outside of Soviet Russia, Gompers, the servant of American imperialism is maneuvering upon terms of his own making, to return to Europe to give direction, reactionary and counter-revolutionary direction, to the Amsterdam international. Gompers is following the Fascist Dawes.

IMPERIALISM IN EUROPE MAY GET AID OF A. F. OF L.

Anti-Labor Plot Being Hatched at El Paso

(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—In private conferences with labor representatives of Mexico, Great Britain, Canada and Germany, the leaders of the American Federation of Labor are discussing plans for "co-ordinating activities" of international labor bodies thruout the world.

An International Call Rumored.

Out of these conferences is expected to come a call for a world labor gathering, probably this winter, when a definite organization of European and American labor will be formed.

That some sort of a union of world labor organizations be established under the guidance of the American Federation of Labor is stated to be the chief act which Samuel Gompers hopes to accomplish, before laying down the active leadership of the American Federation of Labor. No mention of the relations of such a move to the existing Amsterdam international and the Red International of Labor Unions at Moscow, is divulged.

Sam Feels His Years.

Gompers has confided to friends that this is the last year he will seek re-election as president of the A. F. of L. If he can accomplish his hope in the coming year, he will not again seek his present office.

The representatives with whom the federation leaders are conferring are many of the Mexican leaders now at their own convention in Juarez, Mexico, just across the border. C. T. Cramp, of the National Union of Railwaymen of England; A. B. Swales, chairman of the last Trade Union Congress of England; Peter Grassman, vice-president of the German Federation of Trade Unions and bitter foe of the workers of Soviet Russia, and John Colbert of the Canadian unions.

FARMER-LABOR REACTIONISTS REVEAL PLANS

Oppose Recount for E. Youngdahl, Communist

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 18.—At a meeting teeming with excitement and interest, "the red-baiters" holding delegateships in the city central committee of the farmer-labor federation again showed their hands, first by organized opposition to the motion demanding a recount of the ballots in the 35th legislative district where Emil S. Youngdahl, Communist candidate, was defeated by less than one hundred votes.

Their tactics again became noticeable during the time when delegates were preparing to leave the hall, a motion having been made to adjourn Gustave Drake, local attorney and prominent in conservative labor-labor circles, with a cunning shrewdness so characteristic of lawyers, made a motion, reading from a prepared paper, to the effect that at the next meeting the following question be debated:

"That all delegates harboring Communist views be barred from the federation."

In the great haste of delegates to leave the hall, Drake's motion was carried. The left wing element was not asleep, however, and Jack Braden, delegate from the Machinists Union, countered with a motion that at the next meeting the following question also be debated:

"That all delegates holding views antagonistic to the interests of the producing class be barred from participation in the federation."

The next meeting promises to be a lively session and is expected to be witnessed by a huge crowd of farmer laborites.

POLICE AID TO BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE BOSSES

By AL SCHAAP
(Organizer, Y. W. L. of Chicago)

The drive to organize into the Young Workers League the young workers of Montgomery Ward & Co., a large mail order house, met with the opposition of the city police.

Yesterday as the members were taking their posts right at the entrance of the plant the police dispersed them to remote corners of the plant.

Despite this interference the members of the Young Workers' League distributed every leaflet printed and when they ran short they used their lungs and announced that the special mail order edition of the Young Worker would be on sale in the afternoon.

Demand Strong for the Young Worker

Many of the young workers of the plant were impatient. They wanted to purchase the paper immediately. However, they were told by the Y. W. L. volunteers that the paper would be on sale in the afternoon.

Five thousand of the 15,000 edition of the Young Worker have been sold in front of the Sears, Roebuck com-

(Continued on Page 2.)

IMMIGRATION OFFICIALS OF U. S. HUMILIATE MEXICAN DELEGATES COMNG OVER INTERNATIONAL BRIDGE

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—Immigration officials yesterday held up the delegates to the convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor as they paraded into El Paso from Juarez across the international bridge to greet the American Federation of Labor convention. For twenty minutes the delegates were subjected to insulting inspection.

"This man can't be a delegate," said Immigration Official Matthews, pointing to a Mexican worker wearing cotton trousers and sandals and no socks. All delegates wearing overalls had to be identified by some "leader" of the Mexican workers before they were allowed entrance.

This humiliating inspection was resented by the rank and file delegates among the Mexicans. They shouted back to Juarez "Comrades, the Americans again insult us." Mexican officials finally got order.

A Resolution of Fraternity.

In contrast with Mexican official greeting the delegates this morning found before them a greeting from the union of progressive workers of the paper factory of San Rafael, Mexico.

"To the workers who manufacture paper and the workers of all the industries of the United States, greetings:

"Comrades, These lines are a fraternal greeting to our class brothers, but at the same time, we take advantage of the opportunity of communicating an idea which synthesizes the aspirations of our struggle. Our criterion is international, and we wish to be acquainted with all the advantages, all the experiences acquired by our brothers who speak another language, but have the same objects as we.

"To this end, it is necessary that all your pamphlets, papers, magazines, books, letters and the like be known to us, in order that we may adapt to our environment, all your progress, be it of an economic or social order or in the field of production.

"By acquainting ourselves with your happiness, your triumphs and your sufferings, we will be able to attain to the creation of that true class consciousness that is necessary in order that the workers of the world may get to the point where they can govern alone. We trust that when you return to your respective organizations, you will make every possible effort to comply with our wishes. Yours for the cause of the organized worker, greetings and social revolution, San Rafael, Chalco, Mexico, November, 1924.

"For the executive committee, the general secretary and delegate to the sixth convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor, Luis Romero M. Gil Espinosa."

1,000 MEXICANS INVADE EL PASO A. F. OF L. MEET

But They Can't Infuse It With Class Spirit

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—When the delgates to the convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor, now being held at the city of Juarez across the Rio Grande river from El Paso, marched one thousand strong over the international bridge, thru the El Paso streets and into the convention hall of the American Federation of Labor, the dreary picture of the stodgy, fat and diamond - bedecked batch of labor fakers was suddenly transformed into a gathering of real workers.

Gompers Holds the Stage.

But the intrigues of Gompers with the reactionary and reformist leaders of the Mexican Federation cast a dulling tone upon the note of proletarian spirit engendered by the presence of real workers in overalls and dirty shirts who wanted to sing the International.

Thru the Mexican fakers, Rico and Trevino, Gompers held the center of the stage. In his speech, Gompers lauded Obregon, Calles, Rico, Trevino and Morones as the "saviours of democracy." Many of the Mexican delegates have no love for these politicians and labor fakers so dear to Gompers' heart. But, not understand

(Continued on Page 2.)

AMALGAMATED CLOTHING WORKERS IN NEW YORK MEET SATURDAY NIGHT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 18.—The Amalgamated Clothing Workers section of the T. U. E. L. in the city of New York invites all Amalgamated members to come to the great mass meeting to be held at Cooper Union, 8th street and 3rd avenue on Saturday, Nov. 22, at 1 p. m.

The meeting is called to protest against the methods used by the union officials especially in their manner of raising dues. All cost makers, pants makers, vest makers, children jacket makers, operators, pressers and washable suit makers are urged to attend.

CLEVELAND WORKERS TO GET THE TRUTH ABOUT 'ANTI-COMMUNIST WEEK'

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CLEVELAND, Ohio., Nov. 18.—The national Education Week of the American Legion, and the national chamber of commerce will be exposed in Cleveland at a mass meeting, Thursday, Nov. 20, at the Labor Temple, 2536 Euclid avenue, at 8 p. m. The speakers and subjects are as follow: J. A. Hamilton, "The Fraud of Education Week"; George Papcun, "The Fight of the Y. W. L. Against the Perversion of Education"; Max Lerner, "Proletarian Dictatorship vs. Capitalist Democracy"; Herbert Benjamin, "Working Class Loyalty vs. Capitalist Patriotism."

This meeting is one of the measures which the Cleveland local of the Workers Party is taking to counteract the open shop, anti-Communist propaganda which is being administered to the public under the guise of National Education Week.

MINERS IN SPAIN ALSO FIGHT EFFORT TO REDUCE THEIR WAGES

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ASTURIAS, Spain, Nov. 18.—Twelve thousand miners were out on strike here today in protest against a daily wage decrease of fifty centimes.

Bank Bursts.

BARCELONA, Nov. 18.—The bank of Vera Nueva has suspended payments and thrown into bankruptcy a factory owing 600,000 pesetas.

BALDWIN'S TORY GOVERNMENT IN GREAT BRITAIN VERY MEEK BEFORE THE RUSSIAN SOVIET GOVERNMENT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 18.—Announcement came today from the foreign office denying that Baldwin's tory government had any intention of going to gripe with the Russian soviet government.

It denied that the cabinet planned to send to Moscow a stern note protesting against alleged Soviet propaganda in the British empire and thus provide grounds for a break in relations with the Soviet government.

The foreign office also denied that Winston Churchill and others within the cabinet supposed to be of anti-Russian inclinations dominated the situation.

"EDUCATION WEEK" MASS MEETING, New York (the Bronx)
FRIDAY NIGHT, NOVEMBER 21, WORKERS HALL, 1347 BOSTON ROAD
Speakers: SASCHNA EPSTEIN, LUDWIG LORE, ABRAHAM MARKOFF AND MANUEL ELSTON.

MORGAN SWINGS DOLLAR LASH ON HERRIOT CABINET

Europe Bows to Wall Street Power

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The foreign office of the French government capitulated yesterday to the terms laid down by S. Gilbert Parker the agent general dictator of the German nation under the Dawes plan.

This marks the surrender of one more position and an important position, of France to the domination of the House of Morgan in its fight for control of Europe.

The letter by Parker was addressed last Saturday to the German government. It claimed that the practice of England and France of collecting the 26 per cent tax against German exports would have to stop.

The tax has been deducted by the exporters from the sale price and indemnified to the exporters by the German government, which charged the amount to reparations. Parker insisted that he, and not England and France, was to collect and pay reparations.

A Question of Power.

The acceptance of the claim to authority made by Parker means more than the mere question of who shall collect the tax. It means that the high tax wall raised against German exports may not stand.

This may mean in turn the unrestricted competition by German goods against the goods of England and France and America in the world market.

But one thing the surrender of France to Parker, who is known in all nations as the appointee of J. P. Morgan and company, certainly does mean, is that France having already borrowed $100,000,000 from Morgan earlier this year, is forced by the threat of another collapse of the franc and the hope of the rumored $300,000,000 loan, again to bow to American imperialism and cancel a law on the recovery of reparations which she passed thru the French parliament.

Kill 20 Bulgarian Villagers.

SMOLLAR, Bulgaria, Nov. 18.—20 Bulgarians, including Ciardaroff, their commander, were killed and as many villagers fell in an attack on this village. Jugo-Slav troops were sent in pursuit of the attackers.

ELECTION CONTESTS TAKING PLACE IN IRELAND TODAY

DUBLIN, Nov. 18.—Elections are taking place today in Dublin, East Mayo and North Cork constituencies. The Free State candidates are making their campaign on "the need for stability." They attribute everything that is not conducive to peace and comfort, to the republicans.

The latter are even blamed for the bank robberies and holdups which are getting as common in Ireland as they are in Chicago. The Bank of Ireland in one of the most frequented squares in Dublin, was robbed in broad daylight and none of the robbers were apprehended.

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Workers Party, Local Chicago
THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 8 P. M.
IMPERIAL HALL
2409 N. Halsted Street.

AGENDA:

1. Review of Election Campaign and Future Tasks of the Party.
2. Shop Nuclei.

All branch meetings called off for that night. All party and league members be there on time, 8 p. m. sharp.

MEXICANS INVADE A. F. OF L. MEET

(Continued from page 1)

ing English, when Gompers' speech was given by the interpreters, these clever chaps made Gompers say many radical things, to please the working class delegates from Mexico.

Trevino Attacks U. S. Capitalism.

When Trevino, the secretary of the Mexican Federation of Labor spoke, it was in Spanish. And Trevino, tho he is one of the Morones family of labor leaders, did not forget that he was a working class representative and a Mexican. He bitterly attacked American imperialist capitalism, and he made a sharp distinction between the American capitalist and American labor.

Trevino told of the terrible exploitation of miners and oil workers in Mexico by American capital. He urged the labor movement of both American and Mexican to fight against American capitalist imperialism as the strongest financial group in the world, a group which required the united struggle of all the workers of the world to overcome.

However, Trevino, and Rico as well, praised Gompers as always being willing "to help" Mexican workers. Rico thanked Gompers and predicted that American "civilization" would dominate the world. That this means the oppression of the workers and peasants of Mexico by American imperialism was not at all mentioned except by the inferences of Trevino. Trevino voiced his bitter hatred of the working capitalists who come to Mexico and secure large land and mine holdings. These financiers are responsible," he said, "for any unfriendliness that exists between the two republics." When the interpreters made this Spanish speech into English, they toned it down to please the ear of Gompers.

Must Protest U. S. Delegates.

I am told by Mexican revolutionary delegates that the Mexican band was ordered not to play The International, in order not to frighten the American delegates to the A. F. of L. convention. The convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor is a real labor meeting, enthusiastic and radical, but confused by the Mexican agents of Gompers.

Over in Juarez, in the Mexican convention, overalls are the dominating garment of the delegates. Some of these workers walked 175 miles to attend. Contrast this with the A. F. of L. convention, where 378 over-fed, over-dressed, soft-handed, pig-jowled, booze-guzzling labor fakers of the $10,000 to $25,000 a year class sit in an atmosphere that is as appalling as a morgue. The visit of the thousand Mexicans loaned it its only color and relief. The A. F. of L. convention is one great harmony of the reactionary officialdom.

Sacco and Vanzetti Mentioned.

The representatives of the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union intend to introduce a resolution in behalf of Sacco and Vanzetti, the workers sentenced to death in Massachusetts.

Two resolutions urging the A. F. of L. to form a new labor party were offered by the Brotherhood of Operative Potters' and the Molders' Union. Both suggested following the form of the British labor party. Both were referred to committee without debate. These were the only whisperings of disagreement with the report of the executive council recommending the "non-partisan" policy Sam Gompers has palmed off for forty years.

Molders Ask Soviet Recognition.

The Molders' Union also offered a resolution asking the United States government to negotiate a commercial treaty with Soviet Russia.

The Steel Workers asked the co-operation of the Federation in organizing the entire steel industry by enacting a rule providing that all crafts shall come under the jurisdiction of one union.

Gompers Gets Mushy.

Gompers asked the fraternal delegates to hold hands in token of world peace. The saber-rattling General Howse, who yesterday made a militarist speech, was not here to hold hands with the German delegate.

However, after this gesture of "international peace," the executive council reported as in favor of conscription during war, and praised the American Legion.

Political Prisoners Ignored.

Not one word in the report in behalf of any of the many prisoners of the class war, held in capitalist jails from coast to coast. Not one word against the "criminal syndicalist" laws which are holding hundreds of workers in prison and which are aimed at the heart of labor unionism.

ARE YOU GOING TO EUROPE?

WHETHER you are going or not, the fact remains that the American capitalist class is moving in that direction. American capital is extending its hegemony all over the old continent and if you want to realize the extent of this extension and its significance you can read no better article than that by I. Stalin, secretary of the Russian Communist Party: "American Intervention in Europe." It appears in the next issue of the DAILY WORKER Magazine Section.

And do you think that is all? Ha, ha! We've fooled you again! Leon Trotsky writes on the Red Soldier's Manuel, and if you were ever so fortunate (or not) to be in the American army, you will appreciate the difference between an army of imperialism and one of revolution.

Alexander Bittelman shows Gompers blossoming out in his old age as the prime mover in the attempt to block the unity of the international trade union movement.

Gordon Owens writes on the Negroes and the caste system. Anna Porter sends another letter from Moscow and Ruggiero Grieco analizes the forces that are rumbling beneath the black throne of brother Mussolini in Italy and threatening to erupt at any moment.

The second installment of William Z. Foster's description of his presidential tour is included in this issue of the Magazine Section; while Max Shachtman deals with the function of the group leader in the Communist children's groups.

And if you want to get a clearer insight the form of organization that the Communist parties all over the world are changing into, read Martin Abern's "The Shop Nuclei—A Need Now!"

Last, but not least, as they say, comes A. Joffe, famous Soviet diplomat, with an article on recent changes in China.

Honestly, we don't think that we need give you any special urging to get your copy of the DAILY WORKER this coming Saturday. Of course not!

FRENCH TREAT U. S. DOUGHBOY LIKE DUMB BOY

Fought for Them; They Give Him Wife

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—John Ayott 27, of Sheboygan, Mich., landed here today from the steamship Amerika prepared to swing on the first man that talks to him of the delights of war and its romance.

Here is his complaint: He was a soldier in the 125th infantry regiment during the war when he married Alice Lanier, a French girl he met in the hospital to which he was taken after being wounded at Chateau Thierry. Later he and his bride went to Sheboygan, but she liked it not at all and induced him to go back to France.

Set the Place Afire.

There his father-in-law insisted he work on a farm. He didn't like that either, having been a bookkeeper before the war. He fell asleep in a barn smoking a cigaret. The barn caught fire, but he awakened in time to escape. He was arrested, convicted of arson and sentenced to five years' imprisonment. After 27 months in prison, he was paroled with the understanding he leave France.

"Gladly," said Ayott, and boarded the Amerika. Ayott's wife and two children remained in France.

Steck Will Contest.

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 18.—Dan F. Steck, democratic candidate for the U. S. senate from Iowa, will demand a recount of ballots in the recent senatorial race by the United States senate, claiming that some fifty thousand ballots on which voters attempted to exercise a choice for senator were not counted by local election boards.

Popcatepetl is Busy.

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 18.—Popcatepetl, the flaming mountain of Mexico, was again in eruption today. Clouds of ashes and sand were belched out in such volume that the sun was hidden. Partial dusk lay over the region of the volcano.

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22

1. Recent Changes in China.....By A. Joffe
2. Campaigning for Communism.....By Wm. Z. Foster
3. Negroes and the Caste System.....By Gordon Owens
4. American Intervention in Europe.....By I. Stalin
5. Gompers Makes a Move to Block the Unity of the International Trade Union Movement.....By Alexander Bittelman
6. Leader of the Junior Groups.....By Max Shachtman
7. The Crisis in Italy is Ripening.....By Ruggiero Grieco
8. Letters from Moscow.....By Anna Porter
9. Red Soldier's Manual.....By Leon Trotsky
10. The Shop Nuclei—A Need Now.....By Martin Abern

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

SUN YAT SEN PROVES BUGBEAR OF CHINA FOES

Capitalists Scowling at Soviet Influence

In yesterday's issue of the DAILY WORKER, in reporting the arrival of Sun Yat Sen in Shanghai, the working of the International News Service, referring to Sun Yat Sen as "war lord of Canton and dictator of South China" unfortunately slipped into these columns. While the DAILY WORKER receives the International News Service, every effort is made to get away from the capitalist phraseology of this news agency. Sun Yat Sen is not a "war lord," this expression being used in referring to the military leaders who are bought and sold by the imperialists in their struggle to win domination over the Chinese nation. Sun Yat Sen is the leader of the national revolutionary movement in China, that has linked its fortunes to a great extent with the Russian Soviet Republic, in the struggle against world imperialism. He reflects the spirit of the broad masses of the Chinese people in their struggle for power; a struggle that is gradually winning the support of the workers of all countries.

• • •

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SHANGHAI, China, Nov. 18. — Dr. Sun Yat Sen, president of the South China Republic and leader of the Koumintang party of China, arrived here today. Dr. Sen took up his residence in the French section, which caused pro-British and American elements to turn loose a flood of gossip concerning a French-Japanese-Russian entente against British and American capital.

British Worst Offenders.

The British were particularly offensive in commenting on Dr. Sen's alleged friendliness to France. They even suggested that he be deported, but the noted revolutionist bluntly told the meddling agents of foreign capitalists that Shanghai was China and the exploters of foreign countries had seen their best days there.

Sun declared that the time had arrived for the abolition of foreign concessions as China is no longer able to tolerate infringements of her laws.

Wu Pei Fu and another collection of tuchuns have issued a manifesto defying the Peking government and declaring that none of its decrees would be recognized.

Fight Soviet Influence.

The capitalist powers express anger at what they consider the excessive influence wielded by the Soviet embassy at Peking. They and buy nationalist conspiracies that have as their aim the placing in power of some puppet who would carry out the desires of the British and American capitalists. It is not likely that they will be successful.

Washington Workers Party.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 18—The Workers Party, Local Washington will meet Thursday, Nov. 20, at 8:15 p. m., at 1337 Seventh street, N. W. Comrade J. Powell, organizer, will speak on the subject, "The Recent Election Results in England and the United States." A discussion will take place after the lecture, and applications for membership in the Workers Party will be received.

N. Y. Women Meet Tonight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A membership meeting of the United Council of Working Class Women will be held Wednesday, Nov. 19, at 8:30 p. m., in 208 East 12th St., New York. All members and delegates must be present as this meeting is of great importance.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

WHAT ARE THE REAL CONDITIONS FACING THE CHILDREN IN AMERICA?

Teachers in the Lafayette public school on North Washtenaw Ave., in the Humboldt Park section, have been telling the children that the Communists are murderers and that the red flag is the symbol of murder. The teachers have been ordered by their district superintendent to tell the children that the United States government is the best government on earth. They have been told to poison the minds of the children with propaganda against the working class. Children are afraid to contradict the teachers because of the danger of getting poor marks.

In tomorrow's issue of the DAILY WORKER, Karl Reeve will give a true picture of the condition of the children of the workers thruout the country. Two million children are unable to go to school because they must work in industries to support their families. Watch for this article.

1,000 More Toilers Pass Thru Capitalism's Jails in the City of Chicago

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, a thousand young men, workers, chalk up a new experience in their lives. They have been thru the police station hells and the filthy jails of Chicago.

This was really Chicago's way of starting off "Education Week." But it is an educational experience these young workers will never forget.

They had committed no crimes. They had no criminal records. They were just workers, wearing workers' clothes, picked up on the streets.

Here is a scene in the South Clark Street "Night Court," admitted even by the Chicago Tribune, no friend of labor:

"The clerk called off fifteen or more names. Up stepped a policeman and the defendants struggled thru to the bar.

"'We picked these men up on the north side Saturday night, your honor,' a detective said. 'We have nothing on them.'

"'Discharged,' the court ordered.

"Another group came up in response to their names. The same procedure; the same court order."

• • •

And so on thru the night, far into the morning.

It was the workers getting the worst of it in the alleged drive of Chicago's police department against crime. The drives on Saturday and Sunday nights had swept the south, north and west sides; but they only netted luckless workers, many of them on the streets out of jobs.

The vice lords, bootlegging kings, pickpocket princes, highwaymen and burglars of all types, remained unmolested. All the well known beer runners and hijackers were untouched.

• • • •

Some of the workers arrested were taken into custody in front of their own homes. Other homes of workers were actually invaded by the police, and when protest was made, as in the case of Walter Kubek, the victim was promptly beaten up. When Kubek appeared in court, with head bandaged, he was promptly fined $100.00 "for resisting an officer."

Alderman Arthur Albert declared he would visit the mayor and charge that the police were just "making a bluff at obeying the order to scare criminals out of Chicago." No doubt the order itself was also a bluff.

• • • •

But even this slight activity on the part of Chicago's police, insignificant as it has been, and in spite of its studious effort to dodge interfering with the real criminals, has resulted in arousing the biggest politicians in the democratic party. It is the democrats who control Chicago thru the Dever administration. George E. Brennan, the democratic boss of Illinois, who helped run the national democratic convention in Madison Square Garden, last summer, has even gone so far as to demand the removal of Chicago's chief of police, Morgan A. Collins.

• • • •

Brennan is fresh from the gathering of democratic chieftains at Tom Taggart's gambling and health resort at French Lick Springs, Indiana. There he met with "Al" Smith, re-elected governor of New York, under the Tammany Hall banner, with the aid of organized labor's officialdom. Brennan brings back the orders that "the underworld," great pillar of strength to the old political parties, must not be disturbed. Brennan is supported in this position by "Mike" Igoe, defeated candidate for state's attorney, and "Denny" Egan, chief bailiff of the municipal court. A goodly trio of capitalist politicians!

• • • •

Dean O'Bannion, gunman, recently assassinated by his own kind, was czar of the slum-boulevard district north of the Chicago River. He delivered the vote on election day for his party.

"Bath House" John Coughlin and "Hinky Dink" Kenna, altho the nation has gone dry, still rule for the biggest capitalist interests in "the loop." The employer-underworld alliance is all powerful in the south and west side river wards.

This is the explanation why Mayor Dever, State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe, Chief of Police Collins, Francis X. Busch, with other politicians and judges, were called on to act as honorary pall bearers at the recent funeral of Michael Merlo, leader of the Italian gunmen. But this is only an example of what takes place after every killing.

• • • •

The underworld, with its vast ramifications, is "protected" with the same care that is thrown about all capitalist institutions.

It is into this underworld that the big employers send their emissaries to recruit their guards, gunmen and strike-breakers. It is out of this underworld that many graduates come into high places in capitalist class politics to wage war on militant labor; to fight working class political action, to become the American Fascisti in politics.

It is to protect this underworld that the department of police in Chicago is carrying on fake raids; throwing only innocent workers, with very few exceptions, into jail by the hundreds, refusing them bail, holding them for days before they are finally released, because nothing can be proved against them.

• • • •

This is the rotten capitalist social system that cannot be cleansed. It must be destroyed, like all vermin. Only Workers' Rule can lift all humanity from "The Lower Depths."

SOME CONFERENCE! MIGHT AS WELL INVITE BURGLARS TO DRAW UP RULES REGULATING SECOND STORY WORK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

GENEVA, Nov. 18.—America was officially represented for the first time today as the delegates of 38 nations gathered at the second opium conference for the purpose of limiting production of the drug to sufficient quantity for medical use.

Representative Stephen G. Porter, speaking for the American delegation, said he regretted that the first conference had not succeeded in curbing the traffic.

It was decided to invite manufacturers of opium to give their views.

POLICE AID TO BIG MAIL ORDER HOUSE BOSSES

Rouses More Volunteers to Join Big Drive

(Continued from Page 1.)

pany and at the Phillipsborn plant. In order that every single copy of the issue be sold it is important that members report in front of the factory in the afternoon to sell the Young Worker.

Condition Unbearable to Slaves

Conditions at the Montgomery Ward plant are almost unbearable for the young workers employed there. In the thoro investigation made by the Young Workers League of Chicago of that plant it was found that the dirtiest and slimiest conditions prevail in the basement and the first story of the giant plant. During these winter months due to improper heating the employees must work in overcoats and sweaters. The stench which is the prevalent odor of these departments is equal to that of the stockyards.

The ventilation of the whole building is artificial. The workers have to slave under electric lights all day.

Speed-up System Practiced.

Here are some of the slave driving speed-up conditions in the plant:

The girls making out the order tickets are worked on a time schedule. They do not leave their chairs during the whole day. If they do not complete their alloted number of order tickets overtime without pay faces them.

Must Work Overtime while Underpaid

Altho they are employed to 5:15 p. m., if they are not thru with their work they must complete their tickets before 6 p. m. After that hour they receive time and one-half for overtime work. The conditions are the same for the wrappers, who must turn out at least 400 packages a day.

For this slave-driving and tedious task the girls receive $15, $16 and $17 dollars per week. The boys are subject to the same, if not more conditions. The order pickers must gather from 2,300 to 2,500 orders per day. This number they must do regardless of any reason.

If they are not quick enough, they are laid off. Here also we find that the boys are "stopped" to work until 5:15 p. m., but in case their orders are not picked until that time they must work to 6 o'clock, receiving no overtime. After six the company is "grateful" and allows them time and one-half for overtime.

Stockkeepers and Receivers Ruptured

Among the stockkeepers and receivers where heavy bundles, packages and boxes must be lifted most every employe is ruptured, as a result of the character of their work. Montgomery Ward and company do not concern themselves about these accidents.

Recreation Room a Farce.

The bosses of the Montgomery Ward plant sing loud praises about the recreation room for the workers. The true facts are these: The workers are given only three-quarters of an hour for lunch. After they get get their "feed" they have hardly five or ten minutes left before they return to their work. What can one do in a recreation room in five minutes, but just begin to settle down? Furthermore, when we consider that there are over 5,000 workers there, how could the recreation room, which can only accommodate 100 workers, be of any advantage to them?

The employes are highly dissatisfied over the prices in the cafeteria, which presumably is said to run on a non-profit basis.

Spy System Employed.

One day in this mail order house convinces one of the drastic spy system which is maintained to hover over the workers. In some departments no one is allowed to leave their chairs. In other departments workers are not permitted to talk to one another.

Volunteers Needed.

Every evening at 4:45 o'clock volunteers of branches 1, 4, 5 and 8 should report in front of the Montgomery Ward plant on Larrabee St. (630 W.) and Chicago Ave. (800 N.) to sell the Young Worker.

Members of branches 2 and 3 should report at 29th street and Indiana Ave. at 5 p. m. to distribute leaflets and sell the Young Worker in front of the Chicago Mail Order House.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

ATTENTION, W. S. CRATER!

Your present address is very much desired by Mrs. J. B. Erwin, 2822 Carroll Ave., Cleveland, Ohio. Please get in touch with her as soon as possible.

READY NOW—TO HELP IN A LITTLE JOB EVERY ONE OF US—

Will be very glad to assist in accomplishing! On tip-toe, ready to GO! (Watch our papers.)

Coolidge Attack on Communists Falls Flat

AMERICAN LEGION FORCES IN CHICAGO INACTIVE WHILE "MUM'S THE WORD" AT SCHOOL OFFICES

By KARL REEVE
(Eighth Article)

"Education Week" propaganda against the Communists is a flat failure in Chicago, judging from the reports given the DAILY WORKER by Superintendent of Schools McAndrew and his assistants.

Opposition to "Education Week" from many labor organizations, crystallized in the DAILY WORKER exposure, has caused the superintendent of schools to conduct militaristic propaganda and anti-Communist propaganda very quietly.

The Illinois office of the American Legion, 21 North LaSalle street, has done nothing to promote "Education Week," D. M. Carsgrove told the DAILY WORKER. "The national office of the Legion is handling that matter," Carsgrove said. "We have sent out no speakers so far."

Nothing Doing in Schools.

Mr. De Butts, an assistant superintendent of schools, who was supposed to be in charge of giving out information on "Education Week," told the DAILY WORKER he knew nothing whatever about it.

The DAILY WORKER reporter was referred to Martin Hogge, another assistant superintendent of schools, but Mr. Hogge, in his turn, declared he had no information on what the Chicago schools were doing on "Education Week."

The DAILY WORKER reporter, after being sent to Mrs. Brinsley, and one or two other officials who had no idea what the schools were doing during "Education Week," demanded to see Superintendent McAndrew.

"The schools of Chicago are keeping open house during 'Education Week,' and parents are invited in to see how teaching is done," Superintendent of Chicago's Schools McAndrew told the DAILY WORKER. "We will issue a report on 'Education Week' after it is over. Each principal is taking care of the program in his own individual school."

When confronted with the fact that many organizations have protested against turning the public schools over to the American Legion to fight the Communists, McAndrew evaded the issue.

"Each principal is taking care of his own program," McAndrew repeated.

[illegible] bureau of education outline which all school superintendents are ordered to follow. He was told that this outline attacks the Communists. McAndrew would not comment on this fact, however.

McAndrew was asked if he was disregarding this program, but he again evaded the question.

The Harold A. Taylor Post of the American Legion, 109 North Chicago Ave., has received no instructions regarding "Education Week" and has taken no active part, their officers stated to the DAILY WORKER.

Try to Militarize Schools.

Lillian Herstein, of the Federation of Women High School Teachers, told the DAILY WORKER that she is opposed to "Education Week" because "it is an attempt of the American Legion to militarize the schools."

"We are all opposed to 'Education Week,'" said Miss Herstein, "I believe it was discussed at our last meeting. We are opposed to turning the schools over to the American Legion."

Miss Herstein said the next meeting of the Women High School Teachers will be a luncheon Saturday at the Morrison Hotel, at which Professor O'Shea, of the University of Wisconsin, will be the principal speaker. She said perhaps "Education Week" will be discussed at this meeting.

Olander Out of Town.

It was said at the office of the Illinois State Federation of Labor that Victor Olander, secretary, was "out of town." The Illinois State Federation of Labor has taken no action toward fighting the militaristic and propaganding of the schools with anti-Communist and anti-labor propaganda.

The Federation of Men Teachers has not yet announced any official or belligerent opposition, but it is known that the teachers' unions are opposed to "Education week."

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Y. W. L. WILL HOLD MEETING IN PHILADELPHIA AGAINST ANTI-RED WEEK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 18.—The Young Workers League of Philadelphia has arranged a meeting on November 20 in the large hall of the headquarters.

This is a counter meeting for the American education week. Comrade Yusem will address the meeting on "The Communist Movement and Education Week."

After the meeting there will be an entertainment and dancing in the large hall at headquarters, 521 York Ave., Thursday, Nov. 20.

CALVIN'S MARK HANNA HEAD OF MANY CONCERNS

Big Business Has Firm Grip on Capitol

(By The Federated Press)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 18.—Just as William Morgan Butler, Cal Coolidge's open shop campaign manager, is rewarded by being appointed successor to Senator Henry Cabot Lodge, Butler's son, Morgan, has been selected president of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers. Morgan Butler succeeds Robert Amory, president of the Boston First National Bank and various cotton mills of New England.

Morgan Butler is director in his father's Butler Mills, New Bedford, Mass., and Nemasket Mills, Taunton, Mass., and in the Boston and Worcester Electric company, of which his father is president. His father's policy has been followed by the son. Both have been consistently the foe of organized labor. A total of five wage cuts has been put thru on the workers of the Butlers' New Bedford mills since the world war. Unionists predict that Morgan Butler's choice for the manufacturers' president signifies [illegible] intensified drive against whatever labor organization exists in New England textile mills.

William M. Butler, of whom Coolidge said, "He is my dearest friend," is president of Hoosac Cotton Mills, North Adams, Mass.; New Bedford Mills, New Bedford; West End Thread company; is director in Merchants National Bank, Boston; Columbian National Life Insurance; Atlas Tack company; Boston and Worcester Street railway; International Trust company, etc.

Start Co-operative Taxis.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 18.—When a strike of its drivers, lasting nearly two years, had placed the St. Louis Yellow Cab Co. on the brink of bankruptcy, Albert F. Verson succeeded the union fighting president, gave the strikers a union agreement and attempted to salvage the wreckage. But the Yellows were taken over by the Brown Cab Co., a union firm. Now Verson will try a co-operative idea on the Columbia Taxicab Co. The drivers have bought stock.

SCHOOL TEACHERS DO NOT OVERWORK SELVES FOR ANTI-RED WEEK

Some of the public school teachers had the courage to resist at least passively the attack of the American Legion on the schools. In one school on the northwest side the teacher in the eighth grade did not talk about the program prepared by the Legion.

Being afarid to lose her job, she did talk about the constitution, but failed to glorify it. She just mentioned the requirements needed to become president. All attempts by the Juniors attending that room to question her failed as she refused to listen to any questions. The members of the John Reed Group did some good work among the children telling them what it is all about.

In some rooms the teachers were evidently afraid of the children. The teachers know that they would not be successful in passing the bunk, as the Juniors will demand or give explanations, so they tried to avoid all talk.

If the "education week" will continus like that the only result will be more little Reds in the Junior Groups of the Young Workers League.

Russian Workers Are 100 Per Cent Back of The Soviet Government

(By The Federated Press)

MOSCOW.—Critics of the Russian government should be given a chance to show what they can do, says President Kalinin. In an address he declared in favor of encouraging criticism, and also urged drawing more women into public life.

"Our government, born in war and violence, is going over to the methods of legal management," he said. "We have no fear of the expression of discontent, wherever it exists. In fact, I consider it not only possible, but even advisable, that these same people who express dissatisfaction at some mistakes of government, should be themselves at once admitted to work in the Soviets. Non-party people, who criticize us sharply on this or that question, may be admitted to the most responsible and important Soviet units.

"For we know that 99 per cent of the peasants and 100 per cent of the workers are behind the Soviet system of government. Under these conditions the enemies of the Soviet power no longer talk openly. Therefore between those who criticize openly and the government itself there are no differences of principle but only differences of opinion."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Soviets vs. the American Constitution

The American Constitution was written to protect the property interests and to establish the rule of the exploiters of the workers.

The Soviets are the Governmental organs thru which the workers rule and abolish the capitalist system of exploitation.

Manifesto by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party

Coolidge's Anti-Red Week.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE, by proclamation, has set aside the week from Nov. 17 to 23 as "American Education Week."

Under the slogan of "American Education Week" the capitalist rulers of the country, whom Coolidge serves, propose to use the schools to carry on propaganda against Communism—against the movement to organize the workers for the struggle against the capitalists who exploit and oppress them.

The purpose of Coolidge's Anti-Red Week is to implant in the minds of the children of the nation the lie that the American Constitution and American institutions guarantee "life, liberty, justice, security and opportunity," and that the "revolutionists, Communists, and extreme pacifists are a menace to these guarantees."

The Communists Accept Coolidge's Challenge.

They declare that the American Constitution is a document written to protect the interests of the propertied classes and a weapon against the working class. They declare that Coolidge's open, brazen use of the schools to carry on propaganda in the interest of the capitalists is the best evidence of the character of the government of the United States. That it is a Capitalist Dictatorship which exists to protect and maintain the right of the capitalists to make enormous profits out of the labor of the workers and farmers of the United States.

The American Constitution.

The writers of the American Constitution were not great patriots who were trying to serve all the people. That is one of the lies of history thru which those whose interests the Constitution serves try to fool those who are exploited under it.

The men who wrote the Constitution were bankers, merchants, manufacturers and landowners, who were afraid of the working masses who had fought and won the war of independence. These bankers, merchants, manufacturers and landowners of 1787 wanted to protect their property rights and the right to make big profits against the workers and poor farmers. These workers and farmers had overthrown the rule of the English king, and were ready to use their power against these exploiters at home.

Only fools today accept the myth that the framers of the Constitution were men of a great patriotic purpose. The debates of the Constitutional Assembly, which were carefully hidden from the people of that time, the writings of Hamilton, Madison, and others, show that these "great patriots" had but one purpose—how to protect their property rights thru making it impossible for a majority of the people to rule in the United States.

The Constitution—Against Democracy—For Property Rights.

Professor Charles A. Beard, in his study of the Constitution, declares that what the framers were after was a Constitution so constructed "as to break the force of majority rule and prevent invasions of the property rights of minorities."

That is a polite way of saying that the framers of the Constitution were opposed to democracy—to the rule of the majority.

They wrote into the Constitution those provisions which make it impossible for the majority to rule in the United States.

They wrote into the Constitution those provisions which protect property rights of the exploiters—so cleverly was this done that today all legislation in the interest of the workers—child labor laws, minimum wage laws, etc.—are declared UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

Then they wrote into the Constitution those provisions which make it possible for one-fortieth of the people of the United States to prevent its amendment.

Thus they hope forever to protect the property rights of the owning, exploiting class of this country.

The Democracy of the Constitution.

The framers of the Constitution showed how much they wanted Democracy by the method for electing the various departments of the government.

They provided for the election of the House of Representatives every two years.

They provided for the election of the Senate every six years.

They provided for the election of the President every four years.

Why? Because they wished to prevent a majority from exercising its power and making a clean sweep of the government at one election.

And after having resorted to this trickery to defeat the will of the majority, to make doubly sure of their protection under the Constitution, they created a Supreme Court with power to annul laws passed by the House, Senate, and signed by the President, by declaring those laws UNCONSTITUTIONAL.

That's the brand of democracy the forefathers believed in—the permanent rule of the minority of the property owning exploiters.

That is the brand of democracy they have fastened upon us in the Constitution which we are asked to respect and revere by Coolidge and the exploiters of today whom he serves.

The Soviets vs. Capitalist Democracy.

The American Constitution is one of the worst examples of capitalist democracy—democracy which is a fake, a sham, a delusion to deceive the workers.

Capitalist democracy as expressed in the Constitution is a disguise of words for the actual Capitalist Dictatorship which exists in this country. "Democracy" as it exists everywhere under the capitalist system is an iron dictatorship of the capitalist class.

Workers of the United States! Do not permit Coolidge's "American Education Week" to fool you into believing that the Constitution and American Government exist to give you "life, liberty, security, and opportunity." They exist to make secure the right of the capitalists to exploit you and amass enormous fortunes out of your labor.

The form of the Workers' Government is not the form of the American Constitution. The workers cannot rule under the American Constitution. The workers can only rule thru creating their own organ of government—the Soviet, Workers' Councils.

"For the Soviets."

The Russian workers today rule thru the Soviets. The Hungarian workers established their Soviets when they were in power. The Bavarian workers created Soviets when they overthrew the capitalist government.

What are the Soviets? Workers' Councils!

The workers from the shops, from the unions, the workers upon the land, send their delegates to the local councils, these elect state councils, and the state councils elect national councils—thus the Soviet Government is created.

The Soviets are the form of Workers' Democracy. Against the capitalists they are a Dictatorship of the Workers.

Workers of the United States! The rule of the working masses of this country—the great majority—can only be won thru a struggle against the sham American Democracy and for the Soviets.

The Constitution stands for the rule of the capitalists—down with the capitalist rule!

The Soviets Stand for the Rule of the Workers—Forward to the Soviets!

That is the Communists' answer to Coolidge.

That must be the answer of the working class as a whole.

CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA.
Wm. Z. Foster, Chairman.
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary.

Attention! Members of Economics Class!

THE class in Elementary Marxian Economics, scheduled to meet tonight at 2613 Hirsch Blvd., has been postponed until next week. This was made necessary by the fact that Earl R. Browder, the class instructor, has been called out of town for a few days. The questions for next week's class will be published in next Monday's paper, and class members are requested to bring their papers on both sets of questions to the class next week.

SOVIET RULE INTRODUCES MEASURES FOR EFFICIENCY ON CHINESE ROAD

HARBIN, Manchuria.—(By Mail.)—The board of directors of the Chinese Eastern railway has adopted the following decisions:

(1.) To accept the project of the new flag, whose upper half shall be Chinese and lower one shall be the Soviet flag, and submit this project to both governments for approval;

(2.) To nominate, as previously reported, seven commissions of which three are to be presided over by Soviet and three others by Chinese nationals, while the budget commission is to be under the chairmanship, in turn, of a Soviet and a Chinese national;

(3.) To request the president to communicate with the competent authorities permission to the C. E. R. vessels to navigate on the Sungari, and

(4.) To dismiss so-called Advisers Horvat, Latchinoff, Klemme, Satovsky and Rjevsky, holding purely sinecural posts with high salaries and no work.

The president of the railway has left for Mukden for three or four days.

By order of General Manager Ivanoff, a special commission was instituted to investigate into the scale of salaries. The commission must complete its labors by the 10th of this month.

The new Russian orthograph (which has been used in Soviet Russia since 1918) is to be introduced immediately in all the business of the Chinese Eastern railway.

TESTIFY AGAINST 'DEMOCRACY'

By IDA DAILES.

ONE of the most interesting incidents which occurred at the Workers Party Forum held in Chicago at the Ashland Auditorium on Sunday evening, Nov. 16, was brought about thru a question from a member of the proletarian party. She asked whether Comrade Browder had any proofs to substantiate his assertion that the Workers Party had polled about 100,000 votes in the recent elections, many of which were uncounted.

Immediately voices from the audience called out to verify this statement. The spontaneous response from the listeners was the best evidence that could be gotten. One worker stated that he had been a watcher at the polling place in his precinct, where ten votes had been cast and one was tabulated. Another stated that in his family alone five votes had been cast and two tabulated. A worker from southern Illinois stated that nineteen votes had been cast at his polling place and five were registered.

Comrade Browder stated that any class conscious worker who still had illusions about the "fairness" of capitalists in counting revolutionary votes was hopelessly naive. He said that he did not have to answer the question, the answer was right there in the audience.

It is very difficult to estimate the number of votes which were really cast for the Communist ticket, but I think the response from this small group of about a hundred workers, where about thirty uncounted votes were accounted for, should be an indication of the fact that the Communists polled many more votes that the capitalist flunkeys registered thruout the United States.

SECOND MASS MEET IN NEW YORK AGAINST CAL'S ANTI-RED WEEK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—A mass meeting protesting against Coolidge's "education week" will be held Friday, Nov. 21, in the Workers Hall, 1347 Boston Road, Bronx. The speakers will be Ludwig Lore, of the Volkszeitung; Sasshna Epstein, of the Freiheit; Dr. Abraham Markoff and Manuel Elston. Admission charge will be ten cents.

This is the second large mass meeting the Workers Party of New York has held protesting against anti-Communist education being fed school children by the American Legion with the consent of President Coolidge.

Famous Composer Stricken.

ROME, Nov. 18.—The family of Giacomo Puccini has been summoned to Brussels, where the famous composer is critically ill. Physicians fear that the throat condition from which he is suffering may be cancer. Of Puccini's compositions, the most famous are La Boheme, La Tosca and Madame Butterfly.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

New York Trade Unionists, Attention!

The Workers' School, the educational institution of the Workers Party in District No. 2, is offering a special training course for trade unionists. This course aims to make you a more effective militant in your trade union, a more intelligent and confident fighter in the class struggle.

Classes will be given in the American Trade Union Movement, the World Trade Union Movement, Problems of Various Industries, Organization.

Workers! Without knowledge there is no power. Courses at the Workers' School begin December 1. Enroll now and educate yourself for the struggle.

Information and registration at the office of the Workers' School, 208 East 12th St., New York City.

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. Today's comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK

School and Teacher Day

Wednesday, Nov. 19.—"The Teacher—the Guiding Influence of Future America."

1. The necessity of schools.
2. The teacher as a nation builder.
3. The school influence on the coming generation.
4. The school as a productive institution.
5. School needs in the community.
6. Music influence upon a nation.

SLOGANS.

Better trained and better paid teachers.

More adequate buildings.

Schools are the nation's greatest asset.

Visit the schools today.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS

School and Teacher Day

Wednesday, Nov. 19.—"The School—a weapon in the hands of the Capitalist to Poison the Minds of the Working Class Child."

1. Workers must combat capitalist control of the schools.
2. Working class organizations must develop their own educational institutions in the spirit of revolutionary struggle against capitalism.
3. Teachers are workers, themselves exploited by the capitalists. Teachers must free themselves from capitalist ideology and instill into the minds of the children the ideas of the class struggle.

SLOGANS.

Councils of working class parents, students and teachers to fight capitalist domination in the schools.

Government appropriations for the maintenance of school children under the supervision and control of councils of working class parents, students and teachers.

More and better equipped schools.

Teachers must wage an organized struggle as workers against the capitalists for the betterment of their conditions and for the complete abolition of capitalism.

Every working class child a member of the Junior Groups of the Young Workers League.

Jingo Spirit Shows Itself at El Paso Convention

METAL TRADES OF A. F. OF L. FOR MORE WARSHIPS

"Build All Possible" is Jingo Plea to U. S.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—In burst of militarist patriotism unshaken by remembrance of the millions of dead in the last war, the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor has adopted a resolution in its convention here calling upon the American government to build all the warships possible.

Defend Our Boarding Houses!

After reciting about the "defenseless condition" of the United States and the sad lack of "capital ships and destroyers" the document goes on to say: "Therefore, be it resolved that the metal trades department of the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled at El Paso, Texas, do hereby petition the president, secretary of the navy, cabinet officers, committee on naval affairs and members of congress to make adequate provision for building up and maintaining a well-balanced navy."

Nothing is said in the convention about a plan to organize the millions of workers in the metal trades. This jingo resolution of building battleships is supposed to furnish work for metal workers, but it could well have been written by Judge Gary to furnish profits on steel. But if it did furnish work for more metal workers, the union could not organize them and does not even try.

No Unity, National or International.

This militarist resolution was properly accompanied by a jurisdictional quarrel between the machinists and the organization going under the name of the "Amalgamated Association of Street and Electrical Railway Employes of America." The row was left to the A. F. of L. for settlement.

International affiliation of the metal trades workers with the International Metal Workers' Federation failed when the resolutions' committee, headed by J. W. Klint, reported the recommendation that "This department refrain from affiliation at the present time, for the reason that the cost of such action would be quite an item." The matter of benefit returned from such cost was not mentioned. For instance, an international workers' organization may make it unnecessary for the United States to build so many battleships.

Labor Minister Censors Labor Attack.

OTTAWA, Can., Nov. 18.—James Murdock, Canadian minister of labor, does not intend the official Labor Gazette to record attacks made upon him by the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada. Two hostile resolutions were adopted at the recent yearly gathering in London, but the report of the proceedings in the Labor Gazette gives no inkling of the fact. he resolutions in question are, however, set out in the Congress Journal, official organ of the congress. One of them declares that the congress must "regard the attitude of the minister of labor as one of hostility, notwithstanding his hypocritical declaration of friendship."

Electric Trust in Schools.

NEW YORK.— Western Electric Company's apprentice class in tool and instrument making brings the company into the New York school department. The board of education accepts the big telephone and radio-making company's course in lieu of continuation school work regularly required of young workers.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

CEREMONIES OF ANNUAL CONVENTION OF A. F. OF L. GET UNDER WAY WITH USUAL BUNCH OF SILLY SPEECHES

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—At the opening of the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor here, Father O'Laughlin of the catholic church gave the invocation in which he referred to Samuel Gompers as the "king of the labor movement" and welcome in the name of the catholic church.

Saber-Rattler Rolls Germah.

The spiritual powers appeased, the temporal powers in the form of General Howze spoke, urging "preparedness" as the only way to avoid war. "Make the army strong and efficient and no one will dare attack us," he said. He failed to mention that "us" might attack others.

The doughty general invited the delegates to go out and see what a nice fort he had at Fort Bliss, and spoke feelingly of the part of labor in the "past war," not the "last war," and thanked the delegates on behalf of the United States army for their war service. This remark seemed to make Grassman, the fraternal delegate here from the German Federation of Trade Unions, a little uncomfortable.

Mexicans Handed Package.

The secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor urged stricter immigration laws against the admission of Mexicans into the country. He did not, of course, mention the word "Mexican," but said that 12,000 "immigrants" came in yearly. He boasted of fifty labor laws on the state statutes.

Another Texan, named Robert Ware presided Gompers with a gum tree gavel and gave a regular high school speech lauding General Samuel Houston as a great "liberator" for taking Texas away from Mexico. The fraternal delegates from the Mexican labor movement had their turn at being uncomfortable.

Gompers' Speech Read by Green.

Gompers was evidently in no condition to make a speech. Wm. Green of the U. M. W. of A. read Gompers' speech, thanking the general and the others for their worthy advice.

This speech of Gompers was a retracing of the history—from his viewpoint—of the federation from the meeting in Pittsburgh forty-four years ago. Strangely, it did not mention any organization except the federation, and it was a plea to continue the present structure and policy of the federation.

"Looking Backward" by Samuel.

"We have tried and proved these principles in economic, political, social and international relations," said Gompers.

"They have been tried and not found wanting. Where we have tried other ways we have failed."

Collaboration and Imperialism.

The report of the executive committee reeks of class collaboration, with boosts for "labor banks" and an urge for the federation to form a great joint stock insurance company.

The report quite openly favors conscription providing materials are also "conscripted." It infers labor should fight for the suppression of some nation or revolutionary group within a nation if the world court calls.

Little Joke on Canal Workers.

The recommendation on the canal zone was one of the most amazing things. Gompers submitted the recommendation that in any work on the canal zone, citizens of the United States should occupy a favored position at the expense of other workers. Gompers did not ask for more money for the Americans, but demanded that Mexicans and workers of Central America should get from 25 to 35 per cent less than any white man from the United States.

Many Join Clerks' Union.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The Grocery and Dairy Clerks' Union of Greater New York doubled its membership in the strike which is nearly concluded. Over 1,500 workers responded to the strike call and within two days two-thirds of the workers had returned to work under union conditions, according to Samuel Heller, secretary of the union. The organization drive inaugurated by the strike continues.

COOKS' AND WAITERS' UNION FIGHTS GOMPERS' EL PASO HEADQUARTERS

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 18.—As usual, Sam Gompers has selected a scab hotel in which to make the headquarters of the American Federation of Labor convention. A delegate from the local Cooks' and Waiters' Union managed to get the floor of the convention long enough to inform the convention that the Hotel Paso del Norte dining room was unfair and begged them not to patronize it.

COMMISSION ON FARMERS' ILLS IS DEAF AND DUMB

They Hear Nothing and Tell Even Less

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—President Coolidge's agricultural commission, charged with determining the causes of farmers' depression and discontent, and with finding remedies therefor, held its first meetings in Washington today.

Headed by ex-Governor Robert D. Carey of Wyoming, chairman, half a dozen members of the commission called at the White House and were closeted with the president for half an hour.

An unusual and wholly inexplicable atmosphere of secrecy, was thrown about the inauguration of the commission's work. Coolidge received the commissioners in the cabinet room, but the White House declined to make public the presidential utterances, and members of the commission were similarly uncommunicative. Newspaper reporters were barred.

The agricultural commission appointed by President Coolidge to find out "what is wrong with agriculture," settled down to its work today behind closed doors. The investigation will be pursued along the lines of legislation administration of present laws and education.

The commission has received a free hand from President Coolidge. No time limit has been set and no limitations imposed on its scope.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Wednesday, Nov. 19.

City Central Committee, 722 Blue Ave., 8 p. m. All delegates must attend. Visitors invited.

Cicero Italian, Circolo Giovanile Hall, 14th St. between 51st and 50th Ct.

Italian Terra Cotta, 2475 Clybourn Ave., 3rd floor.

Englewood English, 6414 S. Halsted St.

Cz.-Slovak No. 3, 2548 S. Homan Ave.

Cz.-Slovak, Women's Org. No. 1, 1825 S. Loomis St.

Douglas Park Jewish, Liberty Club House, 3439 W. Roosevelt Road.

Thursday, Nov. 20.

Membership meeting, Workers Party, Local Chicago. Review of election campaign and discussion of shop nuclei. At Imperial Hall 2409 N. Halsted St. Meetings of all branches are off.

Friday, Nov. 21.

Polish North Side, 1902 W. Division street.

Lithuanian No. 5, 3142 S. Halsted St. Greek Branch, 722 Blue Island Ave.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.

Wednesday, Nov. 19.

Earl Browder's Class in Elementary Economics, 2613 Hirsch Blvd., 8 p. m.

Junior Speakers' Class, 1111 N. La Salle St., Room 27.

How to Be Healthy

For many years people have been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial. After several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.

MEN AND WOMEN

If you are suffering from any ailments, come to my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.

DR. TAFT

1555 West Roosevelt Road

Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m. Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.

TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

CHARGE ATTACK ON MORONES IS PLOT OF ENEMY

Mexican Labor Official at A. F. of L. Meet

(Special to the Daily Worker)

JAUREZ, Mexico, Nov. 18.—Eduardo Moneda, member of the executive council of the Mexican Federation of Labor, upon arrival at this city for the convention of the federation, announced that the attack upon Luis N. Morones, head of the federation, in the chamber of deputies at Mexico City last week, was the work of men who are "enemies of the labor party."

He defined the labor party's enemies as the group known as the "confederated bloc" which includes members of the extinct co-operatista party.

Agrarian Sanchez Against Morones.

"They took the controversy between Gen. Jose Maria Sanchez, prominent agrarian leader, and Mr. Morones as a pretext to bring about the clash in which the latter was shot," said Moneda.

The agrarian leader mentioned, Jose Maria Sanchez, has long been a courageous figure in the working class movement of Mexico. When the chamber of commerce in Pueblo wished to avoid payment of taxes, Sanchez opposed them militantly to such an extent that he was forced by them to leave the city.

Mexican Unions Grow.

Moneda claims that the federation is growing. "It has doubled its membership during the year," he asserted, "and now has 1,200,000 on its rolls.

Reports from Mexico City indicate that Morones, tho at first thought out of danger, has developed some fever and shows indication of pneumonia.

BRAZIL REACTION CRUSHES TOILERS AFTER REVOLT

Thousands Massacred by Federals

By J. STONE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SANTOS, Brazil, Oct. 16. (by mail).—As a result of the fighting in Brazil the Communist local in Rio was smashed. The meeting places still bear the marks of destruction. Many comrades have been compelled to flee the city for their lives.

Even when martial law is not enforced every incoming passenger is watched very carefully. Gatherings of organized labor are prohibited.

Ten thousand people were killed in Sao Paulo during the rebellion. Of that number a few thousand were immigrants who were wantonly murdered by the federal troops of the Brazilian Republic. The trick played on these immigrants defies description. German and Hungarian workers who had just arrived as immigrants were forced to join the ranks of the military rebels who at that time were in control of Sao Paulo.

Rebels Outnumbered.

The federal troops outnumbered the rebels by ten to one. The immigrants were lured into enlistment by offers of thirty milreis a day when the pay of the ordinary worker was only eight milreis a day. Not knowing the language and not being aware of the political situation, as well as facing starvation, the German and Hungarian workers gladly joined the ranks of the rebels in order to secure bread for their families. Some of these immigrants were stationed as policemen in the city. Others were placed on the firing line.

Murder Thousands.

When the rebels were overcome by the federal troops and were forced to abandon the city, they left the recruited immigrants behind. The latter made no attempt to escape because they did not know that they were rebelling against the state. When the federals entered Sao Paulo they found the immigrants in the uniforms of soldier rebels guarding the city. A terrible massacre followed. Thousands of immigrants were led into the open fields to be mowed down by machine gun fire. No attempt at investigation was ever made by the Brazilian government.

The Brazilian government is guilty of murdering thousands of these innocent immigrant workers.

Monoxide Gets the Cops.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—Carbon monoxide fumes from the exhaust of automobiles is getting the poor traffic cop. Police records show an average of 100 on sick list every month out of 1,200 traffic cops.

GOMPERS FOLLOWS DELUSION IN FIGHT AGAINST CHILD LABOR, SAYS YOUNG COMMUNIST EDITOR

"Despite the enthusiastic report on the subject, the fact remains that the officialdom of the American Federation of Labor has done nothing to advance the cause of the abolition of child labor," declared Max Shachtman, editor of the "Young Worker," in commenting on the report of the executive council of the A. F. of L. to the El Paso convention now being held.

"On the contrary," he continued, "they have drawn the official trade union movement into support of the so-called constitutional amendment which is being touted as the beginning of the salvation of the child laborers, but which is in actuality one of the greatest frauds yet perpetrated on the American workers.

Not For Abolition.

"The amendment does not call for the abolition of child labor. Far from it. It provides that, if it becomes a part of the constitution, it shall give congress the right to limit, regulate or prohibit the labor of children up to the age of 18.

"Many workers are inclined to think that the passage of the amendment in the houses of congress has brought about the realization of their aim on this problem. But the truth of the matter is that the work is hardly begun, and if it is continued on the same lines, will never be accomplished. The amendment now goes to all of the 48 states for ratification by leislature, constitutional convention or referendum. If 13 states fail to ratify the amendment it can never become part of the country's laws. And if you consider the two facts that four states have already ditched the amendment and that the southern states will be practically unanimous in rejecting the proposition for the simple reason that child labor in that part of the United States forms one of the major props of exploitation, it becomes obvious that the hopes for passage of the amendment are about nil.

May Mean Half Century.

"The women's suffrage amendment, which didn't come near to the child labor measure in attacking the holy property rights and profits of the capitalists of America, took forty-two years to become a part of the constitution: from January 10, 1878, when Senator A. A. Sargent introduced it, to January 7, 1920, when it was finally ratified by Kentucky.

"And supposing that the amendment is finally passed," Shachtman went on, "at about the time when the grandchildren of the present child laborers are taking their place in industry and agriculture, is there anyone who believes that congress will do anything really to better the conditions of these children? And as for abolishing child exploitation, anyone who thinks congress would even consider such a proposition, is exceedingly optimistic.

"It should also be borne in mind by those bitche liberals who are making such a to-do about their successes to date, and by the workers who are being deluded into thinking likewise, that out of over 2,000 amendments proposed to the constitution since this American government is in existence only 19 have thus far been adopted."

Gives Communist Program.

"What is the program of the Communists, of the Young Workers League on the question of child labor?" the DAILY WORKER asked Shachtman.

"Well, we have always pointed out the great menace that the existence of child labor presents not only to the physical and mental condition of the workers in the future, but in the immediate present. Children and young workers are being used more and more to displace the adult workers—at a lower wage, fo course. Child labor is a danger to the trade union movement and a fight against this condition should always be on the order of the day of the organized workers. And it cannot be fought thru such utopian ideas as constitutional amendments. So long as a fat profit can be made out of the work of children, the owners of this country will see to it that no legislation is passed that interferes with their money bags. The fight against child labor must be a militant one.

"We realize that under the leadership of Gompers and his satellites, the A. F. of L. will never be led into any struggle. It is only under militant leadership that such a struggle will be effectively begun and carried on. The Young Workers League has laid out a program which calls for an increase of wages of child laborers to 50 per cent of the adult workers; for the gradual limitation of the working day for children to three hours; and for the free accommodation and support of undernourished and sick working class children in recreation and vacation homes, to be accompanied by vocational training under trade union control, with the expenses to be paid out of a direct tax on the propertied interests. We maintain, however, that the only real solution to the problem of child exploitation is the elimination of the system which brings it about, capitalism.

Is Creating Illusion.

"No amount of shouting about progress where there is no progress will make the intelligent workers believe that the A. F. of L.'s fake leaders, in collaboration with a gang of benevolent liberals who back down every time some representative of the capitalists shows fight, have accomplished anything worth while with their will o' the wisp amendment. It is a part of the illusions created for the workers instead of concrete plans or achievements."

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

U. S. WATCHING FASCIST FATE IN SOUTH EUROPE

Hopes Mussolini May Last Another Year

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Staff officials of the state department are eagerly studying every press dispatch and official report coming out of Italy and Spain. It was blandly assumed, as soon as the tories won the British election, that the hope of the liberals in the two Latin monarchies for an overturn of the Mussolini and Rivera dictatorships would collapse. When reaction triumphed in the American election they felt sure that the case was settled. Instead they have found Italy and Spain heaving and straining as tho about to break their bonds.

Shadow of Fascism.

Chief interest is centered on Italy, because the Spanish dictatorship is, after all, merely the shadow of Fascism, and is bound to dissolve when the left or the liberals in Italy succeed in breaking the grip of Mussolini. When the news came that the Fascist chief had put a ban on the political meetings of the Garabaldi organization of ex-soldiers and sailors, state department staff men realised that the turn of events was becoming grave.

As Italy's situation is viewed here by men familiar with Latin political events of the past century, the Garabaldian movement is of the first importance. It marks a definite breaking-away of one of the most powerful sections of armed Italian citizenry from the blackshirt regime. Behind these secessionist warriors will form the solid ranks of the workers, whose unions and co-operative societies and Communist Party institutions have been smashed by the Fascisti in the past three years.

Increase in Opposition.

While nobody in Washington officialdom thinks that Mussolini is at the end of his rope, many believe that he will be forced to make large concessions if he retains his job thru the next year. In the meanwhile they look for a steady increase in the opposition. And as this movement in Italy grows, the Spanish dictatorship and the throne of Alfonso will be rocked more and more violently.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

YOUNG WORKERS WHO GET COLD IN PEDAL EXTREMITIES AT FACTORY GATES CAN WARM THEM SATURDAY

Red boots are being polished, many colored "sarafans" are dragged out of the attic boxes in preparation for the Young Workers League dance to be held next Saturday, Nov. 22, at 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

The Englewood Orchestra is tuning its strings and its new bass drum to furnish the music for the whirlwind dancers.

With the factory campaign keeping the members of the league out at the gates of the Chicago's biggest mail order houses early and late, selling the papers and talking to the young workers, trying to organize them into their league and with the fine results they are achieving, the affair arranged by them for the coming Saturday promises to be a festivity to crown their efforts during the week and to fit them out again for the coming week's work at the factories.

Efforts will be made to bring as many young workers from the mail order houses to this dance as possible. Much fun, glamor and excitement is expected at this concert and ball.

DONATIONS AS WEAPONS

Articles donated to the Chicago Bazaar are weapons aimed at America's "Czar" because the proceeds of the Bazaar go to the Daily Worker and Labor Defense Council. Try your neighborhood stores, accept anything—musical alarm clocks or unmusical radio sets, cotton socks or silk shirts. Even a bath-tub can be forged into the needed dollar-weapons—if you TALK BAZAAR to all your friends and to workers.

DAILY WORKER LABOR DEFENSE

BAZAAR AND DANCE

At Folkets Hus, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

NOVEMBER 26-30

Auspices, Workers Party, Local Chicago.

Bring, send or report all articles you collect or donate to Room 307, 166 West Washington Street—AT ONCE

Notice to Delegates, Branches and All Bazaar Boosters!

Special final meeting Saturday, November 22, 3:15 p. m. at 722 Blue Island Avenue. All Party and League Branches, see that you are represented and make a complete report. You must do your share of the work involved.

Before

The Brick Makes the Difference

"Heave It Back" to The Daily Worker 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

After

RATES

$6.00 a year $3.50-6 months $2.00 3 months

IN CHICAGO—$8.00 a year $4.50 6 months $2.50, 3 months

THE NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO BUILD THE DAILY WORKER

NAME _____

STREET _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

SEND IT

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

WEST VIRGINIA COAL MINERS CONFINED IN MOUNDSVILLE PRISON WHERE "CITIZEN" FEARS MUTINY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 18.—That the prisoners confined in the Moundsville penitentiary will break into open mutiny unless something is done to remedy the terrible conditions from which they are suffering is the substance of an urgent appeal received here by Governor Morgan from E. E. Dudding, director of the Prisoners' Relief Society.

Behind this telegram there is a story whose tragic horror would startle most "good citizens," but which is nevertheless typical of the tragedies experienced every day by working men and women.

Victims of Cliftonville Battle.

For behind the walls of the Moundsville prison lie the miners who were victims of the Cliftonville battles during the strike of 1922.

To unravel the story of the imprisonment of these mine workers is to reveal an instance of brutal suppression of strikers in a fight in which every tool of the capitalist system—troops, thugs, press, religion—came to the aid of the bosses.

While the fight of the miners was at its bitterest, a skirmish took place in which H. Duval, a sheriff, was shot. Altho more than fifty men were arrested, the real culprit could not be found. Nevertheless, thirty men were sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of three years, five for ten years, one for eight years, five for five years, one for seven, and another for four. Thus 43 men went to jail as murder suspects, altho more than that they took an enthusiastic part in the strike could not be proved.

Use Trickery to Get Conviction.

A comrade who has visited the families of most of these men has written to the DAILY WORKER the story of the trickery used by the bosses to get "confessions" from these miners, which at the same time presents a clear picture of the role of the church as an ally of capitalism.

"There is one man, Eugene Pecsi," writes our correspondent, "who is the pastor of a protestant church and is claiming for himself a share of the credit for sending these miners to prison. He visited some of the accused men, and, using frequent quotations from the Bible, promised to use his influence for the arrested miners, demanding at the same time two to three hundred dollars for this service.

"After obtaining various sums of money from the miners' families, the reverend swindler went to the miners, told them that things would go hard with them in court if they attempted to deny their part in the shooting, and obtained from them 'confessions' of crimes that had never been committed. As soon as the miners had 'confessed' and been thrown into jail no further word was received from the Reverend Pecsi."

These are the men who have been driven to threaten mutiny against the conditions which their masters in jail have imposed on them.

PACIFIST IN CHURCH CONFERENCE STARTS LITTLE WAR OF HIS OWN

BUFFALO, N. Y., Nov. 18.—The cry of a young Mexican, Herbert M. Sein, for the youth of the world to revolt against war and his denunciation of the position of the churches in the last war raised a small war of its own in the peace congress of the American council, World Alliance for International Friendship thru the churches.

William E. Otto, a Buffalo delegate, jumped to his feet shouting against the uproar, but he and the speaker and those shrieking "Bolshevik, un-American, unpatriotic" were drowned in the general pandemonium. Sein said his speech was internationalist.

He had declared that the churches "sinned when they prayed for victory," and pictured the young fighters and workers suddenly refusing to fight just as the nations are ready to open another war.

Rev. Harry Emerson Fosdick warned of war possibilities if "some wild-eyed militarist across the Pacific or some hair-brained cabinet member or some hysterical session of the senate here, may drop a spark into that powder barrel."

CO-OP MOVEMENT SHOWS STRENGTH IN HOUSING, SAYS LEAGUE PRESIDENT

By ART SHIELDS.

(Federated Press Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—"The most encouraging outlook for the co-operative movement in the coming year is in the field of co-operative housing," James P. Warbasse, president, Co-operative League, tells the Federated Press.

"The co-operative movement is holding its own in the retail trade and showing remarkable vigor in dairying, banking and other fields that vitally affect the people. But this newest development of the movement, into housing, is resting with the most rapid success," Warbasse says.

ROCKEFELLER IS TYING THE CAN TO ROUMANIA

Dictators Punished for Flouting Oil King

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18. — Ever since the Roumanian dictators enacted a law which promises to confiscate part of the value of Standard Oil holdings in that country, the Washington government has at intervals issued commercial reports showing that Roumania is in a bad way, economically. No encouragement is given American capital to enter Roumania.

Thus the department of commerce issues a cable dispatch from Van Norman, its representative at Bucharest declaring that "The financial situation in Roumania has reached an acute stage, with a consequent paralyzing of business activities.

"This situation is brought to be largely due to the constantly rising exchange value of the lei, the heavy increase in the export taxes and increased transportation charges. A commission has been constituted for the fundins of some portion of the internal floating debt of the state, which includes the payment of debts owing to private industrialists, and debts to miners as a result of the decision of the arbitration commission which awarded an increase in wages to the miners in the state gold and coal mines of Transsylvania. The increase due from January, 1924, has not been paid and in consequence, without this increase they are unable to live."

According to this same report, manufacturing industries in Roumania are working at only 50 per cent capacity, with consequent unemployment. Only 80 carloads of exports and imports passed thru the ports, as a daily average, in September, as against an average of 1,000 carloads daily in September, 1913, for the old kingdom of Roumania alone.

The financial blockade of Roumania, threatened when the oil legislation was pending, would appear from these figures to be taking hold.

KLAN RIOT AT NILES, O., SHOWS FASCIST GROWTH

War with Flaming Circle Divides Workers

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MINERAL RIDGE, Ohio, Nov. 18.—It is a trite saying that out of evil some good must come. This saying is very applicable to the recent riots in Niles, Ohio, within a mile and a half of here.

These riots were and have been caused by members of the Ku Klux Klan and members of the Flaming Circle.

The Ku Klux Klan had been granted a permit to hold a parade in Niles, but the Flaming Circle as on the occasion of other attempts of the Ku Klux Klan, refused to permit them to go thru with the parade.

In the recent elections the klan had elected mayors, and other officials in Niles and other towns in the Mahoning Valley, and as a result of this the Klan has been carrying on a campaign of abuse and hatred against the Negroes, catholics, Jews and foreign born, threatening to run them out of the country, and campaigning against the hiring of catholic teachers and clerks in the stores and other places of employment.

So arrogant has this organization become that the press despatches have carried the story where the grand dragon of the K. K.'s interviewed the governor of the state on his appointments and how many were catholics, and whether he sent his children to a parochial school or not.

This grand dragon of the K. K.'s, a lawyer of Youngstown, O., before the recent election sent out a secret letter to all Klansmen to support Coolidge, and a prepared slate for the state of Ohio, and it is a current rumor that he aims to supplant the national head of the Klan, Imperial Wizard Evans.

Governor Has Klan Support.

As a result of the trouble in Niles, the governor, who by the way, was one of the officials who received the indorsement of Dragon Osborne, had a special committee investigate the Klan and its activities. This committee in its report asks that the governor take notice "that a condition dangerous to the community exists" and they further report that it is brot about thru the criminal actions of some of the high officials of the Klan.

Prosecutor Burgess of Trumbull Co. brings the charge that an organizer of the Klan by the name of Watkins, has organized a police force of his own, giving out police badges, guns and clubs, and representing to these men that they had the right of arrest and all the powers of state appointed police officials.

These "fish" as the prosecutor dubbed them, paid to this Colonel Watkins, as he styles himself, the sum of $17.50, and this money the colonel must have pocketed, for no trace of it can be found. This E. A. Watkins has been posing in the organization as a minister of the gospel, and an American citizen, while the investigation has disclosed the fact that he is not a minister, nor an American, but a super-grafter and an agent provocateur of the most slimy kind.

It seems that this man has been a super-spy of the British government in Egypt, during the late war, and that he is now carrying on his trade in this country in the interest of the same government, and the American capitalists.

He has the title in the Klan of kligraap, which is the super-spy department of the Klan, and as kligraap he is at the head of the "Black Hundreds" in the valley, and his department is only one of the many departments maintained by this organization, which boasts of having the best organized and largest secret service in the world.

Members of this secret service of the Klan have boasted, when off their guard, that they would, if not able to run the foreigners, catholics, Jews and Negroes out of the country, join in with the capitalists and make it so unpleasant for them that they would be glad to leave of their own accord.

Arm Klansmen in Secret.

This investigation has shown the Klan ready to arm their members in secret. It has also disclosed the fact that they maintain a wide-spread secret police force and spy system and that these spies are under the kligraaps, a special department of the Klan, and that this British agent has been very active in its organization, his activity in the secret service of the British government giving his advice great weight in the secret councils of the Klan.

The investigation has also shown that they have a force of agitators who go about the country arousing religious hatred and bigotry and appealing to the whites against the blacks and if this is not enough they are ready, if they have not already, to join hands with the capitalists if necessary to further their ends.

It has also shown how easy it is to get the gullible workers to put up their hard-earned cash to go out and arrest other workers if some sharper will come along and arouse their hatred and bigotry and national animosities and sell them guns. It has also shown a Fascisti of the most virulent type in formation in this country, and the capitalists not only of this country but other countries as well, back of its formation and organization. It has also shown that a wide-spread secret service organization is at the beck and call of the big interests of the country, and that it is functioning at this moment in every state in the union and is fast becoming a menace to the organized workers of the country, and that these secret agents are under the kligraaps of the Ku Klux Klan.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

THE HEAVY CASUALTIES OF CAPITALIST INDUSTRY.

1. The National Safety Council estimates that industrial accidents cause the death of at least 25,000 workers every year. The total number of accidents in industry is estimated at 3,000,000 annually. Of this number 2,000,000 are temporary disabilities of more than three days' duration.

2. According to the American Association for Labor Legislation last year saw a huge rise in the number of industrial accidents. This organization says: "The increase in industrial accidents ranged from 6 to 53 per cent, with an average for all those reporting of 29 per cent; that more than half of these states showed an increase of over 25 per cent, and nearly a quarter of them more than 40 per cent."

3. Dr. E. H. Downey, in his latest book on Workmen's Compensation (1924) said: "The total casualties of the American expeditionary force in the world war did not equal the casualties to American workmen in peaceful employments between April, 1917, and the signing of the armistice. The toll of life exacted by American industries during the second decade of the twentieth century exceeds the nation's loss in battle from the declaration of independence to the present day."

4. In the last fiscal year one out of every twelve of the wage earners in New York state was physically injured. The total casualties for the year in the Empire State reached the figure of 346,845—an average of nearly a thousand injured daily.

5. In the last decade there were 425,686 workers disabled, crippled and killed. Last year 2,452 miners were killed in digging coal. The American miners are the heaviest sufferers amongst the miners of the world from industrial accidents. The quarry industry reported 15,133 accidents last year.

6. Half the mining accidents are said to be preventable. The total cost than one billion dollars. The structural iron workers are said to lose one of all these accidents is estimated by the National Safety Council at more fifth of their time and the bituminous coal miners one-tenth of their time thru accidents.

CLAIM TO HAVE FOUND LARGEST VEIN OF COAL IN WORLD IN INDIANA

SULLIVAN, Ind., Nov. 18.—A vein of coal, believed to be one of the largest in the world, was found in the "Mildred" field near here today according to officials of the J. Woolley Coal Co., owners of the mines.

The new vein, 245 feet down, is 110 feet lower than the other veins in the field and is seven feet six inches thick.

High Living Cost is Alarming Brazilian Government Officials

SAO PAULO, Brazil, Nov. 18.—The rapid increase in the cost of living has become alarming to Brazil officialdom. The cost of domestic food has soared, causing an increase in the revolutionary sentiments of the workers. Officials, uneasy at the clouds of rebellion gathering, are trying to attribute the startling living conditions to the taxation on business and commerce. The masses are not satisfied with this explanation, however, and there is a growing discontent.

Cal Keeps Job; Others Need Work.

ST. LOUIS Nov. 18.—Coolidge prosperity already has joined St. Louis brewery workers. Approximately 300 employes of Anheuser-Busch, Inc. submitted to wage cuts ranging from $1.50 to $5.50 a week. The workers are employed in the corn products department. Anheuser-Busch operates the only unionized corn products plant in the United States, according to union officials.

See Timber Famine.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—Wasteful cutting of timber in the United States, in a race for profits regardless of efficiency, has brought the country to the verge of a timber famine, which has compelled the timber interests to call a national conference on prevention of this waste of wood.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

NEW WAGE CUTS THREATEN LYNN SHOE WORKERS

Workers Pauperized by Recent Wage Cuts

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 18.—In the midst of a job seekers' fight in the Amalgamated Shoe Workers' Union, the A. M. Creighton Shoe company, one of the largest shoe concerns in the east, sent a communication to the joint council of the Amalgamated Union calling for a reduction in wages.

It will be remembered that on Dec. 10, 1923, this company got a 18 per cent flat reduction in wages. Then later the company submitted to the state board of arbitration for a readjustment. After the state board got thru adjusting the cuts were so severe that the locals filed applications to reopen their cases. Three locals then withdrew from the Amalgamated Union and went independent, in order to avoid the dictatorship of the state board, which was created as a capitalist court of "justice" for labor, and is, of course, an effort to old the boss skin the worker a little more.

Their breaking away from the Amalgamated however did not help them any because under the Massachusetts state law provisions are made for an employer who wants to nullify an agreement signed with a union, to incorporate under a different name.

But a union, altho it changes its affiliations, is bound by the original agreement.

The state law provides that any decision rendered by the board of arbitration is a subject for reopening within sixty days if either party dissatisfied. Seven months since applications were sent to the board by the union and only two crafts were heard, and those were heard because they threatened in a motion "if the board does not reopen their cases within two weeks, they will not take any more cases to the board." When the state board was notified to that effect they immediately summoned these two crafts to appear for a hearing.

The state board knows if the shoe workers get wise to the board's game, the board of arbitration will be done away with in Massachusetts, because the bulk of the work the board gets is from the shoe unions who are split in fragments, and whenever the manufacturers want to they pick a fight, and the unions not being able to hold their own ground, are forced by the bosses to agree to go before the state board. The results are already too well known to the shoe workers.

Pasha Forced to Quit.

CAIRO, Nov. 18. — Cabinet dissensions have led to the resignation of Saghlul Pasha, according to reports here.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, ETC.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A POPULAR HOUSE DRESS FOR SLENDER OR MATURE FIGURES.

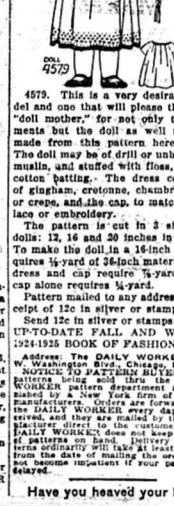
4593. Striped percale is here combined with white pique. This is a good style for ratine, for wool rep, or serge, and also for linen, gingham and voile. The sleeve may be finished in wrist or elbow length.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. The width at the foot is 4 yards. A 36 inch size will require 5¾ yards of 36 inch material. Collar, vest and pocket flaps of contrasting material, require ½ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

A NEW DOLL OUTFIT.



4579. This is a very desirable model and one that will please the little "doll mother," for not only the garments but the doll as well may be made from this pattern here given. The doll may be of drill or unbleached muslin, and stuffed with floss, hair or cotton batting. The dress could be of gingham, cretonne, chambray, silk or crepe, and the cap, to match, or of lace or embroidery.

The pattern is cut in 2 sizes for dolls: 12, 16 and 20 inches in length. To make the doll in a 16-inch size requires ½ yard of 36-inch material. The dress and cap require ⅞ yard. The cap alone requires ¼ yard.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns and data sheets the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. If not become important if your pattern is delayed.

Have you heaved your brick?

Your Union Meeting

THIRD WEDNESDAY, NOV. 19, 1924

38	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 1544 N. Robey St.
179	B. A. W. of W., Stone Derrick, 180 W. Washington St.
181	Belt Line Federation, 62nd and Halsted.
2	Brick and Clay, Village Hall, Lansing.
10	Carpenters, 12 Garfield Blvd.
21	Carpenters, Western and Lexington.
242	Carpenters, 5443 S. Ashland Ave.
250	Carpenters, Blacker's Hall, Lake Forest.
643	Carpenters, 180 W. Washington St.
1693	Carpenters, 906 S. State St.
1784	Carpenters, 1638 N. Halsted St. H. Fehling, Rec. Sec'y., 2253 Grace St. Irving 7597.
1922	Carpenters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
2289	Carpenters, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
293	Carvers (Wood), 1819 N. California, Francisco (R. R.), 127 N. Francisco Ave.
798	Electricians, 127 N. Francisco Ave.
85	Engineers, So. Chi., 11405 Michigan Avenue.
47	Firemen and Enginemen, 7425 S. Chicago Ave., 9:30 a. m.
275	Firemen and Enginemen, Lake and Francisco, 8:00 p. m.
	Hod Carriers District Council, 814 W. Harrison St.
10	Janitors (Misc.), Keddie and Belmont.
8	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren St.
366	Machinists, 3801 W. 55th St.
478	Machinists, 3802 W. Madison St.
830	Machinists, 1182 Milwaukee Ave.
515	Maintenance of Way, 5348 S. Halsted St.
23	Moulders, 2800 W. Madison St.
84	Painters, Sherman and Main Sts., Evanston, Ill.
624	Painters, 180 W. Washington St.
693	Painters, Moose Hall, La Grange.
902	Painters, Odd Fellows Hall, Blue Island.
5	Plasterers, 910 W. Monroe St.
16483	Poultry and Game, 200 Water St.
236	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington St.
226	Railroad Trainmen, 812 W. 59th St.
900	Railroad Trainmen, 54th and University.
73	Sheet Metal, 714 W. Harrison St.
723	Teamsters (Soda), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
733	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
753	Teamsters, 4319 S. Ashland Ave.
247	Typographical, 5015 N. Clark St.
8	Wall Paper Crafts, Chicago and Western Avenue.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050
MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947

You Probably Never Thought of It!

And yet another way of building

THE DAILY WORKER

is by getting an "ad"

When you go to your dentist—your doctor—your banker—the people you buy from—do you ask them to advertise in your paper?

If You Don't—By All Means Do!

There are advantages in it for them and it will help to build YOUR PAPER.

RATES
$1.00 an inch—Single Column.
Special rates to Unions and Workers Party units

When your union or branch has a meeting or dance—other workers in your town will know about it—If they see it in the DAILY WORKER.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER.

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE ..... Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1922, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Abolish Race Discrimination!

The news from the 44th convention of the American Federation of Labor that the secretary of the Texas State Federation of Labor, in greeting the delegates, insisted that the immigration of Mexican workers into this country should be stopped, is typical of the stupid policy of race discrimination permeating the unions of the American Federation of Labor. Evidently the Texas labor unions do not think of organizing these workers and fighting together with them against the employers.

The most disgraceful indifference, however, is that toward the organization of the Negro workers. The great bulk of the 12,000,000 Negroes in the United States are workers. They need organization even more than do their white fellow workers. Do they get it? Not from Gompers.

Yet, as an "inferior race" the employers organize them against the white workers. By first paying them atrociously low wages for the hardest and most menial work, they make them in their unorganized state, a possible reservoir of strike-breaking labor.

The caste system in American labor must be broken. We have heard too much of workers scorning each other as "Hunkies," "Wops" and "Jews." The whole system is an aid direct and unmistakable to the interests of the employers in dividing the workers the better to exploit them. It inspires prejudices among the workers which require much time and teaching in order to counteract and lay the fraternal basis of class solidarity in the unions.

The continued migration of Negroes to the cities of the north only accents the problem. The case with them is the same as with the Mexicans in the southwest. The policy of stupid and shortsighted selfishness, of craft privilege and organized monopoly prevails at the expense of both blacks and whites. Necessity, stern and inevitable, demands its complete eradication.

The T. U. E. L. has endorsed a resolution that will be offered at the A. F. of L. convention which is intended to set that body on record one way or the other as to its stand on racial discrimination. The resolution calls upon the A. F. of L. to declare itself unalterably opposed to any discrimination in any form whatsoever against workers because of race or color, and in favor of equality of such workers.

The resolution not only asserts these principles, but instructs the executive council of the A. F. of L. to start an immediate campaign to organize Negro wage workers and demands that these workers shall be organized in the same unions as the whites in order that the stupid prejudices now existing thru past misteaching shall be wiped out by fraternal contact as brothers in toil and struggle against common exploiters.

With the increasing pressure upon the workers by the capitalist class, and the danger of great wage struggles, the persistence of racial discrimination is a knife labor is turning against its own vitals. If the A. F. of L. convention does not act favorably upon this resolution, it will have proved itself recreant to its own members and indifference to the interest of the working class.

The Grange Meeting

Let no one mistake the present sessions of the National Grange in Atlantic City for sessions where the grievances of the exploited farming masses are aired. The National Grange is not now and has not been an organization speaking for the great number of poor farmers. The National Grange has been serving the interests only of the wealthy farmers and has been seriously hampering the struggles of the suffering, bankrupt farming class.

One need but consider the keynote struck at the gathering to brand it as a foe of the farmers who are hard hit by the exploiters. All the talk of the grange about more liberal loan terms to needy farmers is calculated only to play into the hands of the bankers and rich farmers. The opposition of the grange to even limited child labor regulation throws it into one camp with the blackest reactionaries, where it rightfully belongs.

The best example of the grange at its worst is to be seen in the plans afoot "to effect friendly understanding and co-operation between industry and agriculture, eliminating long standing antagonism." There is as much chance of harmonizing the interests of the exploited farmer with those of the capitalist exploiter, the railway magnate, the machinery king, the grain elevator owner, the marketing trust, the banking shark, as there is of harmonizing the interests of the exploited worker with the interests of his boss. In the imperialist stage of capitalism agriculture affords a very fertile soil of exploitation for the capitalist monopolists.

Consequently the talk of Louis J. Tabor, of Ohio, master of the National Grange, to the effect that "the meeting was the first active step towards the vitally necessary establishment of co-operative relationship between business and the farmer," is as impossible as unfounded. Only the mass organizations of exploited farmers, working in closest unity with the exploited industrial masses, can bring an end to the chaos in agriculture and end the hardships now overwhelming the poor farmers.

Father and Son

While William Morgan Butler was putting on the senatorial toga death took away from Henry Cabot Lodge, his son Morgan Butler was delivering an address of blood and thunder to the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers whose president he had just been elected.

Every one knows that the textile barons have been amongst the greatest beneficiaries of the robber Fordney-McCumber tariff law. Everyone knows as well that after congress raised the tariff schedules, at the plea of the mill barons, the wages of the textile workers were slashed 23 per cent.

At this time Morgan Butler is making another plea for an increased tariff schedule. He feels certain that, with his father being the spokesman of the administration in the senate, the National Cotton Manufacturers' Association has direct connections with the rear entrance to the White House and can put over, with little difficulty, a backstairs tariff revision. Running true to form, the cotton kings are slashing wages to the marrow, while they are whining about more tariff loot. The Amoskeag has just forced another ten per cent cut on the mill hands.

Of course, no one will take young Butler seriously when he talks of the glowing conditions of the textile workers in New England and elsewhere. In plain English, Mr. Butler is a plain liar. He knows he is talking for space in the well-kept press. It is an indisputable fact that the Butlers rule the textile operatives with an iron hand. Their spy system is notorious for its viciousness. Their hold on the legislatures is appalling. The conditions of the workers defy description. We recall a picture of the deplorable state of affairs in New England made recently by a competent observer when he said:

"There is no collection of garbage or rubbish. The windows are without screens, and wells adjoin hideous outhouses and stables. Oil lamps light these houses, the only change since 1810 being from whale oil to kerosene."

This is the condition that Morgan Butler, the son, and William Morgan Butler, the senatorial father, want to protect and perpetuate.

A Useless Attempt

The latest sign of the disappointment of the House of Morgan at the economic and political progress of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics is to be found in a statement just issued by Mr. Kent, chairman of the American Bankers' Association. Mr. Kent, who is the vice-president of the Bankers' Trust company of New York, a Morgan bank, is the author of a declaration admonishing those trading with Soviet Russia to be careful.

The warning against entering economic relations with the Soviet government is put in a real bogey form by giving it a religious basis. The threadbare arguments form the fabric of Mr. Kent's outburst. The Morgan lackey rants against the Soviet government having taken away trade from Germany, after the latter had broken into the Soviet Berlin office, and giving it to Holland and Czecho-Slovakia. In the eyes of Mr. Kent this is a crime. His memory seems to lapse at strategic moments. He does not find cause to utter a word of protest about the system of "favorite nations" and special treaties in vogue amongst the capitalist nations. But when the Soviet government attempts to follow what Mr. Kent would ordinarily call good business methods in dealing with a business government, the New York banker moans.

This talk cannot stay the tide of Soviet Russian political and economic advance. The department of commerce files afford a superabundance of proof that Soviet Russia has not only turned the economic corner but has forced her opponents to confess the failure of their hostile campaigns. American business with the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics has increased phenomenally during the last fiscal year. At the very moment that Mr. Kent was uttering his last prayer, Mr. Hoover was boasting of having worked overtime to help American capitalists get a slice of the Soviet business.

Mr. Kent need have no concern about Soviet Russia. The Workers' and Farmers' Republic has vanquished the poisonous campaigns and military expeditions led by the agents of Morgan in Europe. The Soviet Republic will sooner rather than later overwhelm the opposition of the House of Morgan in the United States.

The Chicago Tribune was quite furious over the disrespect for "law and order" shown by the gunmen, but its only remedy is to have the Bar Association endorse "honest" lawyers for the judiciary and that the voters should follow the lawyers' recommendation. Most people would rather take the advice of the gunmen than that of the Bar Association.

Samuel Gompers declared that "labor" won a big victory in the recent elections. Gompers is very easily satisfied, but then he is not troubled with the prospect of looking for a job no matter how the elections go.

Every day get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER and a member for the Workers Party.

Very Proud of Being Traitors!

By HARRISON GEORGE.

THE report of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor just made to the 44th annual convention at El Paso, takes up officially the formation of the so-called "labor banks" and recommends their development, with due precaution, of course that such banks be "incorporated under and subject to banking laws."

This represents a new departure in the American labor movement, a certification by the labor bureaucracy of the growth of financial class collaboration within the labor unions. We must analyze this official action if we would understand where the current is taking the organized workers of America.

What Is Class Collaboration?

It is an inherent quality of the labor union bureaucracy that it tends to class collaboration whenever the shifting relation of forces between the capitalist class and the working class makes struggle against the capitalist class necessary to forward or even to defend the interests of the workers.

In the epoch of history now opening when the era of an ascending capitalism, able to sustain its wage earners as its own forces were progressing has ended, and decadence of capitalist economy forces capital to make assaults upon the standards of the workers if it would prolong its own life and rule, the millions of organized workers who were pacified and restrained by union officials from demanding more in the previous period, now find these officials unable and unwilling to lead any sort of militant struggle against the forces of capital.

Leaders Give Up Class Struggle.

Instead, the union bureaucrats are found to take refuge in every sort of humbuggery and fraud as a substitute for struggle. Class collaboration becomes "the easiest way," and they try to delude the organization they head into accepting this as a substitute which is "just as good," and often claimed to be "much better" than class struggle. There are many forms of class collaboration, some political and some industrial and some financial.

The recent campaign is a shining example of political class collaboration. The infamous "B. & O. plan" of Wm. H. Johnston, of the Machinists' Union, is an illustration par excellence of industrial class collaboration. An article in the capitalist press by Frederic J. Haskin, a bourgeois journalist concerning "labor banks" should be a revelation to union labor of what financial class collaboration is. A portion of the article is such an excellent and unconscious exposition of class collaboration, that we give it as follows:

"One of the first predictions was if labor pooled its resources and organized banks, it would use its power to fight capital as represented by the employers of labor.

"Persons said the labor banks would be used to finance strikes and other industrial controversies.

"The fundamental error of those who made these predictions was in not taking into consideration the fact that a strike is a bad business proposition from a strictly financial standpoint.

"Banks do not finance bad business undertakings or those that are essentially gambles. That is, banks that are soundly conducted do not.

"And when organized labor went into the banking field, it had to be doubly sure that its institutions were absolutely sound and conservatively managed.

"Failure, with resultant losses to stockholders and depositors, would be more widely criticised and more bitterly condemned than the failure of an ordinary bank. Hence there has been no financing of strikes.

"On the contrary, it is claimed that labor's banking ventures have done much already toward reconciling the differences of employer and employe or bringing about their speedy adjustment with a minimum loss of economic force and a maximum economic loss.

"They have demonstrated that the interests of capital and labor are identical."—(Boldface mine.—H. G.)

Different for Workers.

We need hardly add that the idea of the growth of "labor banks" indicates a retreat from the class struggle. In this respect there are at least 60 such banks formed and 60 more are in process of formation. The retreat from the struggle, it must be remembered, altho led by the union bureaucracy, has its limitations for the rank and file of the workers. The class struggle becomes ever more a necessity, a life and death struggle for them.

Beyond the Life Line—Revolution!

Beyond the life-line there can be no further retreat. The the union officialdom may feel perfectly comfortable and secure as they sit in the bank or in the union office or a combination of the two, the workers in the shops and factories are attacked and must fight. All power then, to the workers in the shops! All efforts then to build in the shops the organs of struggle for the rank and file! Down with class collaboration, political, industrial and financial! Up with the banner of revolutionary class struggle! Build the shop committees! Build the Communist factory nuclei!

PAVEMENT PICTURES

BY JOSEF KALAR.

The procession,
The procession,
Is coming by.

Polite necks crane out of high crazy windows,
Polite necks bent in a pious prayer
For Coolidge and eggs forty cents a dozen.
Like mosquitoes with long spindly legs
Black shadows dot the tops of the low buildings.
The procession,
The procession,
Is coming by.

"Why what the hell is up?
What the hell is up?
These men that tramp the street
With working-shoes on their feet
Are from the mines,
Are from the factories,
Are from the mills.
Hey, there, you noisy fellows,
Get off our nice new pavement,
What th' hell do you think this is?
This is?"

The men come marching down the street
With heads held high and buoyant feet,
They are marching to the dying echo
Of the slave man's curse, the whistle's scream,
The burning sweat, the murdered dream.
They are smiling in the face of a thundering "No!"
They are marching to the tune of future years of peace,
They are marching—They are marching!

O Eagle sitting on the flag,
O Constitution flaunted in our face,
O God slapping our souls,
They see their daughters in hunger,
Turn to the prostitute dream,
Their sons swimming in the bubbling steel,
Their prayer, their hymn, the sullen screeching
Of the whistle summoning them from hard beds.
With grey smoke for their pall,
With cinders for their beds,
They have been dying . . .
O God slapping our souls,
O Constitution flaunted in our face,
O Eagle sitting on the flag,
See them march, see them march. . .
They are marching! They are marching!

MUSIC

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

Another good violinist, Socrate Barozzi by name, played a recital at Orchestra Hall, to a regrettably small audience. His program was made up of the conventional violin stuff, a Grieg sonata, and small pieces by Kreisler, Pugnani, and other violin composers. He played a violin arrangement of Percy Grainger's "Molly on the Shore," which is about as well suited to violin solo at Beethoven's fifth symphony.

Barozzi has a fine tone and good clean technic, altho his intonation is not always perfect. Unfortunately he has started in at the wrong end. There are so many good violinists that the only way for a new one to make any success hereabouts is to be lucky enough to get an engagement with the Symphony orchestra.

The Opera Schedule.

Wednesday, Il Trovatore, with Claudio Muzio, Louise Homer (last appearance until January), Forrest Lamont, Giacomo Rimini, Virgilio Lazzari. Conductor: Cimini.

Thursday, Lucia di Lammermoor, with Toti Dal Monti (last appearance), Antonio Bortis, Jose Mojica, Virgilio Lazzari and ballet. Conductor: Polacco.

Saturday afternoon, Madame Butterfly, with Edith Mason, Carlo Perini, Charles Hackett, Giacomo Rimini. Conductor: Polacco.

N. Y. HERALD-TRIBUNE IS FINALLY FORCED TO ADMIT IT'S LENINGRAD

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 18.—The Herald-Tribune here has again printed the name of Leningrad to mark the great Soviet Russian city on its maps. At first the paper owned by Ogden Reid, steel trust and railroad stockholder, insisted on printing the name Petrograd on the maps appearing in the Herald-Tribune. Now however, due to the protests of many Russians, the city is rightfully named Petrograd.

NOW FOR THE G. O. P. THANKSGIVING

Drawn by Wilfred Canan for the Federated Press.

AS WE SEE IT - -

By T. J. O'Flaherty

(Continued from Page 1.)

THERE is a tendency even among American radicals to ape the half wits of the burlesque stage in ridiculing the customs and dialects of workers of various nationalities. This may be a small matter, but aside from being an indication of ignorance on the part of the offending person, it also helps to maintain the imaginary line that keeps the workers of all lands apart. The battle against the well-trained, and sophisticated capitalists is difficult enough without those who should know better, making it still harder.

• • •

AN Esthonian Communist was executed by drum head court martial for possessing a few rifles and some ammunition. This is on the testimony of the police. But in Germany the Fascisti have carried on a campaign against the republican government, have marched thru the streets killed workers and committed other crimes while boldly admitting their object to be the overthrow of the government, yet not a thing happened to them. This under a socialist president. They were for the capitalist system, and that like charity covers a multitude of sins. The Esthonian government is a puppet of the imperialist powers and is carrying out their orders. Esthonia is one of the little hand-made republics that act as a cordon sanitaire between the rest of Europe and Soviet Russia. But the red tide will some day burst thru this dam.

• • •

THERE are several thousand czarist emigres in New York, and horrors upon horrors, they are working for a living. According to an inspired story in last Sunday's New York Times, many of those "workers" cook or act as chauffeurs during the day, and in the evening may be honored guests at some Fifth avenue party. "Surely we must have known each other," gushed a New York hostess to a distinguished guest, "your face seems so familiar." She was talking to the Prince G. Z., formerly of Leningrad — pardon, Petersburg—and Paris. "Madame has an excellent memory," replied the polite prince. "On Tuesday your husband engaged me as chauffeur and this afternoon I drove you thru the shops." These should be great days for wise chauffeurs!

THE ENEMY OF REFORMISM

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The sixth chapter is entitled, "The Enemy of Reformism."

• • •

LENIN would reach out after the substance of reformism, no matter under what masks it would make its appearance, and without any effort his part would tear off the covering. In the attempt that was made before the first revolution to revise Marx, to connect him with Kant and other philosophers, Lenin immediately recognized the intention to reject the revolution and a tendency to surrender Marxism to the ideology of the bourgeoisie. Lenin never considered reformism as an inner tendency in the working class. He considered reformism rather as a class enemy, operating within the labor movement and therefore more dangerous to it than the outside enemies.

Because of this attitude of Lenin's he has been charged with sectarianism and intolerance. But he continued to pursue his line of action with the greatest tenacity for details, proving that reformism is one of the greatest enemies of the labor movement, and that our theoretical struggle with the Menshevikis will eventually bring us to the sharpest conflicts with them. The Russian revolution has proved Lenin correct, thereby showing his extraordinary far-sightedness and sound instinct. In recent years reformism became the most powerful weapon in the hands of the bourgeoisie. Due to reformism, the working class movement has suffered a series of defeats enabling the capitalish system to continue a while in existence.

• • •

Tomorrow—"Revolution and Assimilality."

YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY

PATERSON STRIKE RELIEF TAG DAY IN NEW YORK—COMING SATURDAY AND SUNDAY—WATCH FOR ANNOUNCEMENT OF STATIONS

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. II. No. 208. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year; Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 20, 1924

Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Price 3 Cents

SEEK SOLIDARITY IN STEEL MILLS

Urge Soviet Trade at A. F. of L. Convention

AS WE SEE IT
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

THE Spanish dictatorship is hard pressed trying to get out of Morocco so as to be in a better position to hold down the rising tide of revolution in Spain. Primo de Rivera, the Mussolini of Spain, is dodging the Riffian bullets on the north coast of Africa, while his uniformed assassins at home are murdering the Spanish workers who protest against his tyrannical rule. The form of execution practiced in Spain is what is known as "garroting." In the modern garrote the neck is enclosed in an iron collar containing a point or blade which by the turning of a crank is forced into the spine at the base of the brain.

• • •

BESIDES the workers who are murdered daily in Spain there are over 27,000 imprisoned. One cannot help being surprised that such men as Eugene V. Debs, who lent themselves to the socialist and bourgeois clamor against the imprisonment of cut-throat capitalist agents in Soviet Russia, yet find no time to raise their voices against the white terror that prevails in every capitalist country in Europe to a more or less extent. But after all, there is no occasion for surprise. Only those who are on the side of capitalism criticize Soviet Russia for the methods it used to protect its revolution.

• • •

WHAT there is no hard feeling between both sides of the political fence in the late elections, was shown at the A. F. of L. convention when the Order of Railroad Telegraphers brought in a resolution urging the federation to bring the accomplishment of John L. Lewis to the attention of Calvin Coolidge, so that the latter would be induced to appoint him secretary of labor. In fact, those who have followed Brother Lewis' flirtation with the present secretary of labor have come to the conclusion that the berth is already fixed for him.

• • •

THERE are hundreds of coal miners in jails all over the country for fighting the coal operators. Can any evidence of Lewis' treachery be more damning that his high standing in the Coolidge administration, while the slaves of the mines are either unemployed, being fleeced by the bosses or lying in jails? The perfidy of the American labor fakers is beyond description, if not an explanation of the apathy of the workers who tolerate them. But their day will come.

• • •

A WISE man is the name of Col. W. G. Archer has risen in the west. He has a specific against Bolshevism, i. e., the bathtub. Only in countries where bathtubs are scarce can revolutions flourish declares this moron. Bathtubs were introduced into the White House in 1851, Colonel Archer tells us, but that did not prevent much dirty politics being played there since. And the White House bathtub did not prevent the civil war. We are of the opinion that Colonel Archer, unless he is a drummer for some plumbing concern, needs a mental bath very badly.

• • •

AN Irish poet writing of the exploits of the Irish Brigade in France in the early years of the eighteenth century says, referring to the defense of a French city, which was attacked in the night by the British: "The major was dressed but muskets and shirts

(Continued on page 3)

MEMBERSHIP MEETING

Workers Party, Local Chicago
THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 8 P. M.
IMPERIAL HALL,
2409 N. Halsted Street.

AGENDA:

1. Review of Election Campaign and Future Tasks of the Party.
2. Shop Nuclei.

All branch meetings called off for that night. All party and league members be there on time, 8 p. m. sharp.

KANSAS MINERS' OFFICIALS ARE TOOLS OF LEWIS

Rule Howat and Others Off District Ballot

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PITTSBURG, Kansas, Nov. 19.—The officials of District 14, United Mine Workers of America, are showing themselves the most brazen tools of the Lewis machine.

They have ruled off the ballot for district officers, not only Alexander Howat and the other miners who were deposed by "Czar" Lewis from official positions two years ago but who are now members in good standing, but also many other candidates who oppose the machine.

Ringo Local Incensed.

This tyranical action was taken by the executive board of the district on Nov. 7, and aroused tremendous resentment thruout the whole of District 14. At the meeting of Ringo Local No. 2489, a resolution was passed that, "it must be evident to our membership that the district executive board have the cowardly and unjust action they have taken mean to perpetuate themselves in office against the wishes of an overwhelming majority of our members and in open violation of our constitution."

85 Per Cent Favor Howat.

The locals that nominated Alexander Howat compose at least 85 per cent of the whole membership of the district, and these miners are up in arms over the unprecedented usurpation of power and the flaunting of constitutional provisions of the U. M. W. of A.

The Ringo local, in the resolution quoted above, also called for a mass meeting in the city park of Arma, Kansas, where plans are to be arranged for a special district convention to decide "once and for all whether the district officials are going to be permitted to run the organization in violation of the constitution, or whether the rank and file is going to run it."

Urge River-Harbor Development.

EVANSVILLE, Ind., Nov. 19.—The keynote of the campaign for $204,000,000 with which to finance the river and harbor development program in its entirety will be sounded at the first meeting of the Mississippi Valley Association here tomorrow.

BRITISH DELEGATE AT EL PASO TELLS U. S. LABOR BUREAUCRACY HE IS WITH LABOR IN RUSSIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—The British fraternal delegate at the American Federation of Labor convention, A. B. Swales, president of the British Trade Union Congress, in describing how British labor was seeking closer alliance with Soviet Russia, said, "We have nothing to fear from Russian workers. They are workers the same as we are. We will help them and they will help us. We are going together for the advancement of labor all over the world."

COMMUNIST INTERNATIONAL URGES STRUGGLE FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—The executive committee of the Communist International has issued an appeal to the working class of the United States to fight for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti, who are now held in Massachusetts prisons on framed up charges because they fought on the side of the working class during many Massachusetts strikes.

"American reaction lifts its head with growing audacity," the Communist International's appeal says. "America is the bulwark of international Fascism."

The working class in many countries has protested against the continued imprisonment of the two labor leaders, and against the death sentence which hangs over them. Monster demonstrations against the hanging of the two champions of the workers were recently held in the industrial sections of France and other European countries.

The Workers Party has lead the fight in America for the release of Sacco and Vanzetti, with mass meetings and appeals for funds to defend them.

Hold Meeting in Frisco Condemning 'Anti-Communist Week'

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 19. — A mass meeting condemning Coolidge's anti-Communist "education week" will be held here Saturday night at the Richmond Labor Temple, 331 Mac Donald St., with "Mother" Ella Reeve Bloor as the principal speaker. "Mother" Bloor's subject will be "Class Education in America."

Comrade Bloor spoke Tuesday afternoon, Nov. 18, at the University of California, against the propagandizing of the schools. Her subject was, "Is the Constitution Dead in America?" "Mother" Bloor spoke on the same subject in Oakland Tuesday night at Tenth and Broadway. The Younge Workers League has rallied its forces here to fight "education week."

Bandits Get $30,000.

FARMINGTON, Mich., Nov. 19.—Six bandits raided the Farmington State Bank today escaping with approximately $30,000 in cash and bonds

"SHOOT, IF NECESSARY," URGES EMPLOYER, IN DRIVE TO DESTROY EVIDENCE OF LAW'S VIOLATION

(Special to The Daily Worker)

TORONTO, Nov. 19.—Instruction to shoot if necessary to destroy the evidence were issued to a Toronto gunman by a large employer accused of paying less than the legal minimum wage to his girl employees.

Alan R. Johnston so reports to the Trades and Labor Council and the charges have been followed by legal action against the firm. The minimum wage board is investigating.

Nineteen girls are claiming back wages from the firm. Johnston stated that in an effort to destroy the evidence his desk had been robbed, but that the thief had returned the evidence, because he was not satisfied with the treatment he got from the firm. Johnston further said the thief had told him he had been employed by the company to steal the evidence and "to shoot if necessary." The name of the firm has so far not been published.

Ince Drops Dead.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—Thomas H. Ince, pioneer motion picture producer, dropped dead at his palatial home, "Dias Dorados," in Beverly Hills, Los Angeles suburb today.

BRITISH TORY CABINET GIVES LEAGUE 'PEACE' PROTOCOL ICY STARE

(Special to the Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 19. — Great Britain's reported desire to dodge the protocol while waiting for President Coolidge to call another disarmament conference, took tangible form today with the government's suggestion to the council of the League of Nations that the question of the protocol be deleted from the agenda of the council at the Rome meeting in December.

It was said England was not ready to discuss the protocol at this time.

U. S.-BRITISH IN CHINA WAR AGAINST JAPS

Wu Pei Fu in Move for New Government

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HANKOW, China, Nov. 19.—That the British-American interests in China are going to continue the fight against the Japanese control recently established by the coup d'etat of General Feng in seizing Peking and joining forces with Chang Tso-lin, is seen in the decision announced by Wu Pei Fu, the tool of America and Britain ousted by Feng, to set up a new government of China, a military government with headquarters at Wu Chang.

Who Furnishes the Munitions?

The decision was made public after a secret conference between Wu Pei Fu and the military leaders of the ten Yangtze provinces. Resolutions were adopted by the conference declaring that the "legally constituted" (and we may add "the amply bribed") government of China has been rendered incapable of functioning. Therefore, the conference, unquestionably assured in advance of the support of America and Great Britain, declared that a new government will be organized to "represent China" in all domestic and foreign affairs.

A "Council of Ten."

The new government will be administered by a military council of ten officers commanding the ten provinces, who are to "elect a president" and "appoint a cabinet" to function "until the constitution again becomes operative."

Following the conference, Wu Pei Fu set out for Chang Chow in the province of Honan, announcing that an immediate drive would be begun to dislodge General Feng from Peking and crush the victorious Chang Tso-Lin.

Wu asserts he has 200,000 troops available, and seems certain that he will get the ammunition, supplies and pay for his army from somewhere, the source of which he does not reveal. As the American warships have followed Wu up the Yangtze, however, and solicitously guarded him the source of his munitions may be conjectured.

New U. S. Spokesman in Japan.

YOKOHAMA, Nov. 19. — American Ambassador Bancroft arrived here today. He was welcomed by the embassy staff and by members of the Tokyo diplomatic colony. Bancroft made no statement of any kind. He succeeds former Ambassador Wood.

AMALGAMATION ISSUE TO FRONT AT LABOR MEET

Result of Progressive Fight in Steel Union

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—The battle of the Trade Union Educational League for amalgamation in the metal trades has long been agitating the members of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, and this union has introduced in the American Federation of Labor convention a resolution asking all the many crafts to give up jurisdiction in the steel mills, in order that a drive for an industrial union among the steel workers may begin.

Rallying Cry of Progressives.

This has been the program of the progressives in the A. A. of I. S. & T. W., and they have made it the rallying cry in the fight against M. F. Tighe, the reactionary head of the union, who is now apparently losing out in the election going on in the association.

The workers in the huge steel mills of the Mahoning valley are among the most militant and strategically important in the whole country.

Wage Consistent Fight.

They have fought consistently for the progressive measures of the T. U. E. L. and are waging a strenuous fight against Tighe, who is writing his henchmen in every local to "see to" the union election because "the reds are on the job."

TEN MORE FASCIST DEPUTIES DESERT MUSSOLINI RANKS

Dictator's Followers Are Turning Against Him

ROME, Nov. 19.—Ten more Fascist deputies in the Italian parliament have deserted their party and four others announced they will follow suit yesterday, as anti-Fascisti demonstrations, led by Communists, flared up thruout all Italy.

The blackshirts were trapped in ambush in many places, their assailants not being identified. Citta di Castello a Fascist school teacher from Umbria was clubbed down in the fighting.

Develops Into Fighting.

Fighting between the Fascisti and their opponents in the region of Lombardy led to heavy Fascist casualties A number of Fascisti militia were stabbed to death at Forli and Lecco Lombardy. The head of the local Fascist cohorts at Lecco was ambushed and shot.

Several deputies who formerly supported the government criticised Mussolini's home policy of violence and terror in the chamber yesterday. The real opposition to the government is continuing outside of the Italian chamber among the workers lead by the Italian Communist Party.

• • •

Can't Even Hire Gunmen.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Fascisti organization in New York has offered a gang of gunmen here a large sum of money to raid the New York office of Il Lavoratore and destroy it, it has been disclosed. The gunmen refused this job because they did not want to fight the working class.

HERRIOT NOW BEGINS TO HOLLER LIKE HIS FRIEND, MAC DONALD

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Official recognition of Soviet Russia has not stopped "Bolshevik propaganda," is the complaint of Premier Herriot, who spoke before the foreign relations committee. Herriot pointed out that the Arabs in Tunis and Morocco have been rebelling and the premier charges a Soviet plot. Herriot claims that Communist propaganda in France has grown, citing the new posters calling for a working class revolt plastered on walls thruout Paris and the French industrial districts.

WEEK FOR RED BAITING IS HIT BY LEGIONAIRES

Willard Straight Post Exposes "Propaganda"

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 19.—The Willard Straight Post of the American Legion has announced thru its executive committee its "strenuous disagreement" with the portion of the program of "American Education Week," denouncing the Communists.

The Willard Straight Post said it could not agree with "the inclusion in the program of propaganda for any purpose other than arousing interest in education."

Hit Fake Propaganda.

"We protest against these sections of 'Education Week'—denouncing the red flag and the Communists—because the terms employed have been so widely and purposely misused that they no longer have any definite meaning and have become almost solely the tools of anti-liberal propagandists," says the Legion statement.

"Even now the teacher who is courageous enough to tell his pupils that the institutions of this country are not sacred and immortal but simply the result of intelligent, human thinking done in times past and in different circumstances and invite changes to meet new conditions rather than resist them, is practically assured of immediate dismissal, as likely as not without any sort of adequate hearing.

Show Real Education Fogged.

"The individual who speaks his mind in favor of tolerance toward Russia or toward the efforts of labor to obtain justice is at once classed as a Communist, without regard to his value as a citizen," the statement of the Willard Straight Post continues.

"Essentially the object of education is to stimulate sound thinking on the basis of accurate information. Whenever that object is departed from in order to feed canned opinion of whatever color to the minds of the ignorant, the unthinking or those who are still too young to possess judgment, the real work of education is halted and befogged."

MOLDERS RAISE RUSSIAN ISSUE AT EL PASO MEET

Echo of Militant Victory in 26th Convention

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—The fight which the Trade Union Educational League put up in the Molders' Union is registering itself even at the inquest of working class hopes here which is called the American Federation of Labor convention.

The Molders have introduced the only resolution so far offered favoring the negotiation of a commercial treaty with Soviet Russia.

No Coercion Upon Russia.

The resolution which recites the need and the reasons for trade with Soviet Russia, carries with it a resolve reading as follows:

"That if such a commercial treaty be entered into between the United States and Russia, that under no circumstances shall the United States government use any form of coercion or force to collect any bills due to American merchants, manufacturers or banks."

This resolution results from the fight put up in the 26th convention of the Molder's Union in the autumn of 1923, when the left wing led by Campbell, Blome and others accomplished a victory over the conservatives and put across many progressive measures. There has been no convention since, as they are not held annually.

T. U. E. L. Measure Presented.

The same may be said of the resolution offered by the Molders' Union in favor of the formation of a labor party. This, also was a victory of the 26th convention of the Molders' Union at Cleveland last year.

In part, it runs as follows: "Resolved, that the American Federation of Labor in convention assembled, declare that labor must form a political party of its own, based upon the trade unions and including all working class political organizations, and herewith instructs the executive council to take the necessary steps to form such a party."

Molders Speak for Mooney.

Another action of the Molders' Union, and one which should find response in even the A. F. of L. convention was the request made upon the Federation to petition Governor Richards of California, for the unconditional pardon of Thomas J. Mooney, the victim of reaction in California, imprisoned on a proven frame-up by Prosecutor Fickert of San Francisco, following an explosion on "Preparedness Day," in 1916.

Find Plane of Portuguese.

ROTTERDAM, Nov. 19.—The hydroplane found near End by fishing boats has been identified as that of Admiral Sacadura Cabral, Portuguese ace, missing in his flight from Rotterdam to Portugal, according to advices telegraphed here this afternoon. The message said no trace of his body having been found.

MILITARY DICTATOR OF SPAIN PRAISED FOR ABILITY TO RETREAT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MADRID, Nov. 19.—A communique praising Primo de Rivera for his successful evacuation of 180 dangerous positions in Morocco was issued today on the complete evacuation of Sheshuan, with the loss of but three soldiers.

• • • •

MADRID, Nov. 19.—Admiral Marquis de Magaz, acting president of Spain's military dictatorship, announces the withdrawal of the Spanish forces from the Moroccan city of Seshuan.

EVERYTHING THAT IS BORN DOES NOT LIVE! A BRIGHT SPLASH OF RED! WITH A THUNDERING ROAR THE FRENZIED ANIMAL— (TOMORROW)

BOSTON GIVES WORKERS PARTY GOOD SUPPORT

Communist Candidates Outran Socialists

Editor's Note. — The DAILY WORKER calls on all of its readers to co-operate in an effort to get as close an estimate in this year's Communist vote as possible. The returns already sent in by our readers are very scattered. Send in the complete vote in your precinct, city, county or state. The secretaries of local, city and district organizations of the Workers Party are especially called on to aid in this effort. Send all returns to the Editorial Department, DAILY WORKER, 1113 West Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 19.— The official count of the vote in the city of Boston shows that the Workers Party candidates polled a higher vote than either the socialist party or the socialist labor party.

This vote is for Boston only. We have not yet been able to get complete returns from Massachusetts or Rhode Island, but reports from other cities indicate that the Workers Party candidates will lead both the socialist party and the socialist labor party in both states.

The vote for Boston follows:

United States Senator.

Gillett (Rep.)	65,159
Walsh (Dem.)	139,114
Konikow (W. P.)	2,154

(Both the socialist party and socialist labor party failed to nominate candidates for U. S. senator, thus endorsing the "liberal" democratic candidate Walsh.)

Governor.

Curley (Dem.)	135,061
Fuller (Rep.)	86,527
Ballam (W. P.)	993
Hutchins (socialist)	774
Hayes (S. L. P.)	473

Secretary of State.

Cook (Rep.)	82,611
Rocheleau (Dem.)	15,516
Dwyer, (W. P.)	4,941
Williams (S. P.)	2,816
Leger (S. L. P.)	1,999

Attorney-General.

Benton (Rep.)	80,548
Swift (Dem.)	97,580
Canter (W. P.)	3,623
Sherman (S. P.)	2,688
Belcher (S. L. P.)	1,395

Two Meet Death in Fire.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Nov. 19.—Two persons were burned to death and another probably fatally injured, in a fire which swept two hours today. Eight others fled to safety in their night clothes before firemen arrived.

USE OF MAILS DENIED TO MANIPULATOR OF A GET-RICH-QUICK PLAN

FORT WAYNE, Ind., Nov. 19.—Glen D. Freyer, 24, who is said to have made $200,000 in two years by inducing women and girls to "work at home" buying materials from him, was prohibited from using the mails in an order from the United States postoffice department received here today.

Freyer, two years ago a drug clerk is charged with using the mails in a scheme to defraud, being accused of developing a scheme of operations which, in a short time amassed him a fortune by circularizing women, particularly invalids and "shut-ins."

Indigent women bought the materials to make lampshade sets, pillow cases and embroidery, which they expected the Nile Art company, Freyer's concern to market.

Thousands of women, the government charges, found to their sorrow after making the required purchases of materials and spending long hours of tedious toil that their workmanship did not come up to the standard of specifications required and could not be "accepted."

BARNEY BARUCH, WALL STREET GAMBLER, HANGS OUT SHINGLE AS ADVISER TO BIG BUSINESS

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 19.—A court of commerce "before which business men would come with such questions as whether in time of overproduction and low prices they could cut down production and fix a price" was the proposal of Bernard M. Baruch, former head of war industries board, discussed by other former members of the board in their biennial meeting on Armistice Day.

The problems of trusts and the attitude of the government toward ever larger combinations of industry would come before the commerce court, which Baruch says should appeal to business men as the supreme court appeals to lawyers.

Baruch argued for bigger combinations of business on the basis of service and because, he says, "by their mass production, (they) increase the standard of living." The court would have to have certain regulatory powers, Baruch states. It would not be an "inquisitorial body" which term he applied to the federal trade commission.

JOURNEYMEN TAILORS IN NEW YORK CITY HOLD MEETING MONDAY NIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Journeymen Tailors' Union, Local 390, will hold its business meeting Monday evening, Nov. 24, at Manneror Hall, 205 E. 56th St., near Third Avenue. A vote will be taken on the general executive board's proposition of changing the time of the next convention from 1925 to 1929.

CROWE IS STILL SILENT ON DEATH OF DEAN O'BANION

Police Make Much Fuss But Do Nothing

State's Attorney Crowe, who took such an active part in breaking the garment workers' strike last spring, has not said a word since the murder of Dean O'Bannion, which has revealed the connection between the underworld and the so-called law enforcing authorities of Cook county.

Big business uses the crooks to break strikes, but in between such employment, the crooks do not always display their best qualities. They indulge in robberies and other sprees, including stealing from banks, getting away with heavy payrolls and other acts which bring uneasiness to the employers.

Washed Hands of Murders.

After every murder the police usually say that the culprit will be arrested within "twenty-four hours," but there was no time limit set in the O'Bannion case. Indeed, Chief of Detectives Hughes threw up his hands and said that the probability was the murderers would never be apprehended. No effort was made by the police or the state's attorney.

On the day after the O'Bannion murder, information leaked into the capitalist press that the dead gunman aided State's Attorney Crowe in the elections, turning over a normally democratic ward to the republicans. This fact is generally considered responsible for O'Bannion's death.

Dropped Crowe Clew.

Since then, however, the capitalist press have not commented on that phase of the case. There are other connections between the state's attorney's office and the underworld, which may shed some light on the reason for Crowe's strange silence since the murder.

It is stated that William Engelke who was arrested in connection with the Duffy murder, was allowed to plead guilty to a larceny charge before Judge Lindsey, at the request of State's Attorney Robert E. Crowe.

The orgy of arrests in which hundreds were gathered in for the purpose of making a showing to the business, means nothing. It is noted that none of the real tuxedo gunmen were arrested. Like similar police raids, nothing will come of it.

Spies of Capitalist Press.

The Chicago Tribune, The Herald Examiner and the Daily News are in the rotten mess up to their ears. Each one of these papers has spies, and criminals on its staffs.

There is a move now on among anti-Dever democrats to get rid of Morgan Collins, chief of police. Michael Hughes, head of the detective bureau, is also slated to go. This is not a move to clear up crime, but an election dodge. A certain faction in the democratic party is not satisfied with the way Dever played the game since he was elected, and they are after his scalp.

According to letters of administration filed today, Dean O'Bannion, reputed millionaire, left an estate only worth $15,000. It is believed the rest of his "earnings" went to the politicians for protection.

Call Italian Duel "Draw."

ROME, Nov. 19. — Deputy Eugenio Chiesa and Signor Tamborini, member. of the Florentine Legion volunteer militia, fought a duel of fourteen rounds with swords here, without any blood being shed. They called it a draw on the advice of doctors, altho both parties were as sore as ever at the end of the fourteenth round.

Chiesa, who was challenged by Tamborino in consequence of attacks on the militia by Chiesa, wanted to continue, but the militia man had enough.

TRUTH ABOUT BRITISH TORY ELECTION PLOT

'Zinoviev' Forgery Was Not Even Letter

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 19.—At last the great secret is out! The "Zinoviev letter" that was at first accepted as genuine by former premier Ramsay MacDonald has turned out to be—not even a letter.

This amazing exposure of the greatest and crudest plot in British political history will probably be confined to the Communist and labor press.

The stupidity, to say the least, of Ramsay. MacDonald in accepting such a fake yarn as genuine has caused even his staunchest supports to express their irritation.

Letter Was Fantasy!

The famous "letter" signed by Zinoviev, was not a letter, a copy or a picture of a letter. There was no such thing as a letter.

This is the story. One of the British spies in Moscow, sent to Scotland Yard "thru the regular channels" a stenographic report of an alleged speech delivered in Moscow at a Communist meeting where instructions were given to the British communists about "overthrowing the government."

Two weeks later another meeting was held in London at which the Communists went thru the same performance. The spy who attended this meeting and who by the way must have been working under Arthur Henderson, took shorthand notes and compared them with those sent from Moscow. They tallied. Thus runs the fairy tale.

Then the architects in the foreign office issued a "real" letter with seals and signatures, purporting to come from Zinoviev. MacDonald bit the cheese.

Daily Mail On The Job

No sooner had the foreign office put the finishing touches to the forged letter than the Daily Mail had it. Then the tory officials who know all the tricks of the trade, told MacDonald in a very friendly manner that unless he came out immediately with a broadside against the Soviet government that his party would be placed in an embarassing position. He did and is now very much embarassed.

The editor of the New Leader, the official organ of the independent labor party shows his irritation over MacDonald's stupidity in accepting this fake as genuine. He writes: "This charge has been launched, the electorate alarmed, our own policy destroyed, and our country's relations with Russia imperilled, if not ruined, on the faith of some spy or informer, perhaps a foreigner, who says he has copied or overheard this letter. It is hard when one's own leader is concerned to write of such levity at this, with the frank indignation it deserves."

Has Other Worries

The Baldwin cabinet is still investigating their own plot and sending out rumors that the "Zinoviev letter to MacDonald" is genuine, nothwithstanding the King's speech, which his machine charge made of Zinoviev writing a letter to MacDonald.

Premier Baldwin is now busy writing the King's speech, which his majesty will be asked to read at the opening of parliament. The rising cost of food is causing Baldwin more uneasiness than the "Zinoviev forgery" which has served its purpose.

Police Can't Decide If Minister's Wife Committed Suicide

(Special to The Daily Worker)

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 19.—Altho admitting possibility that she might have committed suicide, County Prosecutor King and Lieutenant of Detectives Shellenbarger at noon today, continuing their probe, were a unit in their refusal to relinquish the belief that the mysterious death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsly, wife of a Lutheran pastor, may have been due to a murderer who shoved her body into the furnace in the basement of the Sheatsley home where her charred remains were found Monday evening.

After viewing the remains of their mother, Prosecutor King, behind closed doors at the court house, questioned Milton, 20, and Clarence Sheatsley, aged 16.

Coroner Murphy announced that he had turned over to a local chemist for analysis the stomach and liver of Mrs. Sheatsley. It was asserted by members of the Sheatsley family that a bottle of carbolic acid was missing from the medicine chest, that they detected fumes similar to carbolic acid in the home late Monday.

Portuguese Cabinet Quits Over Question Of the Angora Debt

LISBON, Nov. 19.—The Portuguese cabinet resigned today, after it had been refused a vote of confidence by parliament on the Angora debt question.

IBANEZ DODGES ALL RESPONSIBILITY FOR OUTBREAK AT POMPTONA

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Blasco Ibanez and Rodriguez Sorlano, leaders of Spanish republican thought, again emphatically denied in interviews today that they had any connection with the Pomptona rebel outbreak, as witnesses at the Pomptona court martial testified.

* * *

MADRID, Nov. 19. — Disagreements between the military court trying fourteen radicals for the Pomptona outbreak and the captain-general of the district will result in the review of the case by the supreme war council, the directory announced today.

WATER SUPPLY OF LOS ANGELES IS ENDANGERED

Bloodshed Threatened Over Owens River

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 19.—Sheriff Charles Collins of Inyo county, has asked Gov. Friend W. Richardson to rush state troops to Lone Pine, where a band of 100 Owens Valley residents yesterday seized the Los Angeles city aqueduct, according to word received here today.

The appeal for troops followed unsuccessful efforts of Inyo county officers to disperse the valley party, which opened the headgates of the aqueduct, turned into the Owens river and placed an armed guard on the gates.

According to a telegram received here by city water bureau officials from Sheriff Collins, bloodshed will only be avoided by the arrival of state troops.

The officials here said the water being wasted was worth $10,000 daily and should the headgates be kept open long this city's supply would be greatly endangered.

The seizure of the aqueduct is the latest chapter in a bitter feud between Los Angeles and Owens valley farmers over the waters of Owens river. Three months ago the aqueduct was dynamited and damaged. Los Angeles officials said seizure of the headgates was another attempt to force the city to purchase extensive property holdings in the Owen valley

Machinists Local Union No. 390 Backs Flow-Meters Strike

Local Union No. 390, of the International Association of Machinists donated $50.00 to the striking machinists in the Flow-Meters company machine shop at their meeting Tuesday night.

The members of Local 390 showed this solidarity with the Flow-Meters employes after several members spoke of the gallant and determined fight the strikers were putting up against a drastic wage cut which the company tried to put over on the employes.

The men were not organized, but joined the Machinists' Union after going out on strike. They have been faithfully picketing every day regardless of snow and cold.

Several Thousands of High School Teachers Meet at Urbana, Ill.

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 19. — Several thousand high school teachers from all parts of Illinois will arrive tonight to attend the annual sessions of the Illinois high school conference opening tomorrow at the University of Illinois.

Three hundred editors of high school publications also are expected to be here for the fourth general conference of the Illinois State High School Press Association and high school journalism conferences.

Stresemann Plays Many Tunes on Harp Of German Politics

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Germany, Nov. 19.—Gustav Stresemann is changing his political tune to suit the changing political situation in Germany. Stresemann, who only a month ago tried to turn the government into the nationalist camp, is now speaking in the election for moderation and democracy.

The coming reichstag elections will probably mark the break up of the nationalist party, which is without funds.

Terminal Men Maintain Scale.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—Employes of St. Louis Electrical Terminal Railway Co. rescinded their strike vote and accepted the corporation's compromise offer. The men, receiving 58c an hour, had asked for a 3c hourly increase. The company demanded a cut of 3c an hour. The 58c scale remains in effect until Nov. 1, 1925. The action involves motormen, conductors and shopmen. The wage dispute had been pending since Oct. 1.

Capitalism Is Too Strong for Lone Worker to Fight; Get Strength Thru Unity

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, two boys and two girls, not yet of age, are on trial for murder at the Criminal Courts Building, in the same room where money saved the lives of the millionaire youths, Loeb and Leopold.

Assistant State's Attorney Michael Romano asks for "the rope" to hang "Peggy" Valanis and her girl chum, Lucile Marshall, both 18 years old; facing the gallows with "Peggy's" brother, "Red" Valanis, and William Lydon.

* * *

"We wanted money for clothes and fun."

That is the defense. They say they didn't mean to kill. They just wanted some of the money that belonged to a Mrs. Bessie Gaenssien, boarding house keeper, who had more of it than they. In getting it they killed her.

* * *

The capitalist law, thru the prosecutor, will weep over the dead Mrs. Gaenssien in order to secure a conviction. But it will not be thinking of her. Life is cheap under capitalism. It can easily be replaced.

But these mere children tried to get property that capitalism said didn't belong to them. That is their greatest offense. Capitalist justice must protect the thing most sacred in its eyes—private property—and that is why it will go hard with "Peggy," Lucile, "Red" and "Bill."

* * *

What a change in the surroundings since the Loeb-Leopold trial! No millionaire fathers with their purse strings untied and streams of gold flowing for expenses. The father of the Valanis boy and girl is a helpless inmate of the Soldier's Home in Milwaukee.

* * *

The Hearst press, that slobbered over the rich youths, Loeb and Leopold, always fashionably dressed, jeers at the clothes worn by these children of the working class. Here is just a paragraph:

"Unlike their predecessors, Leopold and Loeb, who occupied the very chairs only a short time ago, the youthful quartet furnish no fashion news. 'Red' and 'Bill' wore the same loud suits, brown and blue respectively, with wide white stripes and cuffs and the girls swaggered into the courtroom in their cheap little black coats, trimmed with imitation fur."

* * *

Then the judge orders the trial rushed. He rules out all further references to the poverty of the defendants as compared with the riches "of others recently tried here," that the lawyers were making in examining prospective jurors. There was no rush at the Loeb-Leopold trial. They were given all the time required. Their trial dragged interminably.

* * *

But in this matter of clothes. It was only yesterday that 1,000 delegates to the Mexican Federation of Labor convention at Juarez, crossed "The International Bridge" to attend the meeting of the American Federation of Labor in El Paso, Texas. They came in their work clothes; their overalls, cotton trousers, sandals, the cheap clothes of the underpaid worker and peasant. U. S. immigration officials were horrified. They tried to prevent them from coming into this country. Surely these couldn't be the delegates of labor organizations in convention assembled. But they were. And they crossed the Rio Grande River and on to the Convention Hall where the "grand dukes" of U. S. organized labor, paunched and be-jewelled, were assembled. They made a startling comparison. The labor lackeys of American capitalism, Fascisti in the making; while the Mexicans, revolutionists, who had swept Diaz and his successors into the discard, and still fighting for "All Power!" into the hands of the workers and peasants of Mexico.

* * *

These four children of the working class, on trial for murder in a Chicago court room, took the wrong way to get some of the good things of life. To be sure they needed money for clothes. They are young and they need a "little fun"; and that costs money, too. But capitalism is too strong for the individual worker who transgresses its laws. Only thru the organized strength of all workers can capitalism be conquered.

* * *

The Communist movement needs all young workers who aspire to something better. It will teach them that the lone effort of the individual to lift himself under the present robber system is in vain. The youth of the nation must be educated and organized, in the fight for the better day, to abolish the capitalism that holds it in chains, and win liberation under the oncoming Communist era. Then there will be fewer boys and girls of the working class facing "the rope" in capitalist courts; but the foundations will crumble quicker under the decaying capitalist social order.

"EDUCATION WEEK" FAILS TO PREJUDICE MINDS OF CHILDREN IN SCHOOLS AGAINST COMMUNISM

Meetings of school children were held in various sections of Chicago last night by the junior groups of the Young Workers League, at which school children, who had heard of the junior groups thru anti-education week propaganda, attended.

The meeting of the children of the northwestern Chicago schools, including the Lafayette school, took place in the Folkets Hus, in Hirsch Blvd.

As far as the impressing the minds of the school children against the Communists is concerned, "Education Week" in Chicago is a flat failure. Thru the anti-education week propaganda, the junior groups of the city have gained many new members. Representatives of the Young Workers League, distributing invitations to the children to come to the children's mass meetings, found that the children knew more about the junior groups and their activities against the jingoistic program than about capitalist "Education Week."

When the Young Workers Leaguers questioned the children about what the teachers told them of "Education Week," the children answered, "They told us the old stuff about the flag."

Many of the children spoke of the junior groups, and promised to come to the mass meetings. The militant juniors have been very busy turning "Education Week" into a red week, arguing, selling Young Comrades, pasting up posters and getting their school mates to join the junior groups.

Had Strong Belief in Property.

LINN, Mo., Nov. 19.—Selection of a jury to try State Senator Tilman W. Anderson, charged with stealing an adding machine, typewriter and other office equipment from the labor department office in the Missouri state capitol at the close of the 1923 legislature, has been completed and the lawmaker will face a second trial. At the first trial the jury disagreed, standing 8 to 4 for acquittal. Investigators say they have uncovered evidence of wholesale theft of state property following the adjournment of the general assembly, 1923. Other legislators face charges.

COMMUNISTS IN BIG CONFERENCE HIT DAWES PLAN

Call It a Treacherous Attack on Workers

(Special to The Daily Worker)

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 19.—The International Communist Conference held here with representatives of many European Communist parties and of the Communist International, described the London agreement, based on the Dawes plan, as "nothing more of less than a treacherous attack upon the vital interests of the world proletariat."

Outline Demands.

The Communist conference concluded that the execution of the Dawes plan will shortly make itself felt in the economic circles of the three main countries, France, Germany and England.

The participators in the conference have therefore consulted upon the best means of helping the workers in their countries in their frightful social and economic position. The whole of those present were fully convinced that the London plan must be opposed by an entirely different plan.

This other plan consists of socialization, of the expropriation of the mines, banks, and big industrial undertakings, of the nationalisation of large land estates and housing. These socialised undertakings are then to be placed under the control of workers' and employer organisations. This socialization can only be secured by the dictatorial power of a workers' government, and by an alliance with Soviet Russia.

"In order to insure immediate security for the existence of the working class in face of the capitalist offensive and the devastating results of the experts' policy," the conference decided the following demands are to be striven for:

A minimum eight-hour work day with a minimum wage, security of employment for all workers, habitable living accommodations for all workers, adequate nourishment for all the population, and security from the brutal hand of reaction.

Many Countries Represented

The Communist Parties of England France, Germany, Holland, Belgium, Switzerland, Italy and Czecho-Slovakia were among those represented. Comrade Francois represented the Communist International.

Pennsylvania Road Refuses to Deal With Clerks' Union

The Pennsylvania railroad is continuing to break the provisions of the transportation act and refuses to deal with representatives of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks, Freight Handlers, Express and Station Employes in a labor dispute.

The railroad labor board ordered the railroad to deal with the union, but the Pennsylvania railroad continues to defy the board and ignore the union. The board has asked Attorney General Stone for a decision, thus passing the buck to the Coolidge administration.

Washington Report Claims Anthracite Strike Called Off

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—The labor department was notified yestreday that the strike against the Hudson Valley Coal company called by the grievance committee in which at least 22,000 anthracite miners downed tools, is now called off. This information was reported by the government conciliation commissioner, Davis.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE ACTIVITIES. LOCAL CHICAGO,

Friday, November 21.

Activity Meetings of Area Branches.

No. 1., 8 p. m., at 166 W. Washington St., 6th floor; No. 2, 8 p. m., at 722 Blue Island Ave.; No. 3, 8 p. m., at 2342 S. Halsted St., (basement); No. 4, 8 p. m., at 3322 Douglas Blvd.; No. 5, 8 p. m., at Northside Turner Hall, 820 N. Clark St.; No. 6, 8 p. m., at 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Saturday, November 22.

All social managers to report with their supplies at 2733 Hirsch Blvd., at 3:30 p. m., to make final arrangements for the affair.

Want Small to Settle.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 19.—Ordering of an accounting by Governor Len Small on interest money earned by state funds in his hands while he was state treasurer, was recommended in a report submitted to the Sangamon county circuit court today by Master in Chancery C. G. Beigale.

Stage Lewis-Stone Battle at El Paso Meet

UNION OWNED SCAB MINES ARE SCORED

Fight Looms at El Paso Convention

(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—Introduction of a resolution condemning the management of the Coal Rivers Colleries owned by members of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers and directed by Warren S. Stone, president of the Brotherhood, for refusal to recognize the United Mine Workers of America, promises to enliven this very dull convention.

The resolution was introduced by William Turnblazier, representing the Kentucky Federation of Labor and was also signed by George L. Berry of the International Printing Pressmen's Union.

It asks the convention to "condemn the action of the Coal Rivers Colleries company and the attitude they have taken toward the United Mine Workers of America."

Stone as Strikebreaker.

The resolution also calls for condemnation of Warren S. Stone for the attitude he took in correspondence with John L. Lewis. The mines of the brotherhood organization located in the Little Coal River district of West Virginia are not now operating on a full time basis "because officers of the Coal River Colleries company have discharged a number of the members of the mine workers for exercising their constitutional right of affiliating with unions of their craft," reads the resolution.

Business Unionism.

The miners charged that the brotherhood is operating its collieries on a non-union basis, paying less than the union rates, evicting miners and their families in posting armed guards about the properties is jeopardising the lives of mine union organizers. The federation is asked not only to condemn Stone and the brotherhood policy but to notify all state and central labor unions of its action "in regard to this all important matter which deals with collective bargaining and the trade union movement in America."

John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, arrived today to lead the battle for passage of the resolution. Under an agreement, Maj. George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union, will be floor leader for the miners. William H. Johnston, president of the machinists, and Bert M. Jewell, of the shopmen, are the chiefs of the opposing faction.

Two-Year Feud.

The trouble between the miners and engineers has been brewing more than two years during which Lewis has sought to reach an agreement with Stone to place the rail mines on a union scale. Under the rules of the convention, the resolution must be voted on, forcing the federation to take a definite stand between the miners and engineers.

Stone's organization never has been affiliated with the federation.

While the battle lines are being drawn and convention leaders are holding endless conferences trying to maintain peace and harmony, the fight on the resolution on the floor may be postponed several days.

Former John Reed and Rosa Luxemburg Y. W. L. Branch Members, Attention!

All the members of the former John Reed and Rosa Luxemburg branches of the Young Workers League are urged to attend their auxiliary meeting which will be held on Sunday, Nov. 23, 3 p. m. sharp, at 3323 Douglas Blvd.

Comrade Galant of the Workers Party will speak on an important subject. All members must be present.—Julius Weiss, Secretary, Local Jewish Propaganda Committee.

LAME DUCK JOB IN CAL COOLIDGE'S CABINET ASKED FOR JOHN L. LEWIS AT A. F. OF L. CONVENTION IN EL PASO

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 19.—Today was occupied largely with resolutions offered to the American Federation of Labor convention by affiliated bodies.

Lame Duck Job Asked for Lewis.

R. C. Bonney of the Order of Railway Telegraphers was primed up and offered a resolution urging Coolidge to appoint John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America, whose position in that union is becoming somewhat insecure by reason of his attack on Howat and the Trade Union Educational League, to the post of secretary of labor. It also authorized the federation officials to secure this appointment for Lewis.

Tailors Attack A. C. W.

Soderberg of the Journeymen Tailors' Union introduced a resolution providing that the labor of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers should be placed on the unfair list. This was the best this fake radical, who poses as a socialist, could offer on the issue of amalgamation in the clothing industry.

The delegates of the Railway Mail Association asked the federation to "re-affirm its statement" of "an adequate postal service wage standard." There is no mention of militant action by the postal employes to compel such "adequate" wages.

Child Workers Treated Like Orphans.

In spite of the enormous amount of time and space devoted to the dubious way of getting child labor ended by beginning with a constitutinal amendment granting to congress the power to pass child labor laws, nothing in the prospect, of decisive nature. After this campaign was widely advertised as necessary because the supreme court of the United States had repeatedly killed child labor laws, the report of the executive council distinctly states its opposition to any change or limitation of that court. The report reads as follows:

Recognizes Bill Taft as God.

"Labor proposes to have the supreme court of the United States with greater power than that enjoyed by any similar judicial body of any other country in the world. There is no proposal to touch the strictly judicial powers of the court. And even its right to declare and interpret the constitution confined within reasonable and constitutional limits is not attempted to be modified."

This is also a concession to the Lewis-Berry capitalist party group in whom Gompers makes this surrender of the position advanced during the LaFollette campaign.

No "Indecent" Slavery, Please!

On top of the flubdub concerning the constitution and the supreme court dealing with child labor, comes a resolution asking for a law to compel the states in which labor laws have been held unconstitutional and in which child workers are driven like galley slaves, "to observe," as the resolution says, "common decency toward children in mill, mine and factory."

Andy Furuseth of the Seamen's Union introduced a resolution against the League of Nations and the world court on the ground that these institutions were "detrimental to seamen." Upon the same grounds a resolution might have been introduced against the policies of Andy Furuseth himself. There is small choice.

Why Not Can Lewis Gang?

There were resolutions appealing for food and clothing to aid the striking miners of West Virginia and Kentucky, in district 17 and 23. That Lewis' policy of collaboration with the operators is making the members of U. M. W. of A. so poor and the union too weak and unwilling to help these fighters was not, of course, mentioned in the resolution.

The Mobile Central Labor Council asked that all unions make all members become citizens and voters to retain membership. Many other resolutions are not yet printed.

Delegates Visit Mexican Mest.

In the afternoon the A. F. of L. delegates went across the bridge into Juarez, Mexico, to visit the convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor. You may be sure that none of them wore overalls as do the rank and file delegates at the Mexican convention. Nor were they held up and insulted at the line by uppish immigration officials.

The customary speeches of amity and accord were delivered. Rico, of the Mexican federation, lauded Gompers, and Gompers lauded himself. Rico, speaking in Spanish, painted Gompers as a bold and brave fighter against the old tyrant Porfirio Diaz. Gompers was depicted as the saving hand that rescued Mexico from many dire perils. "Capitalists," said Rico, "and workers of bad faith, say that the A. F. of L. is yellow, but this is not true."

Bunk Peddled in Two Languages.

Rico declared that if Gompers was younger he would inject more pep into the movement, which seemed a tactic admission that what he had just said about the A. F. of L. not being yellow, was subject to modification. Rico wants, so he said, "American liberty as opposed to European dictatorship. We cannot have liberty and dictatorship."

Gompers' speech was the same old bunk—"Peace, fraternity, brotherhood, democracy, etc., etc."

Ah, Ha! A Mexican Red!

At the morning session of the Mexican federation, there were charges preferred against Alfonso Soria of Zacatecas, on the grounds that he was a "Red." However, he was seated as a delegate.

That the Mexican federation is in no danger of attack by armed enemies was certified by the commandant of the garrison at Juarez, General Roman Lopez. Police have been ordered to redouble their customary "vigilance" and the military chief of staff says "Our troops are always held at the states in which labor laws have been held unconstitutional and in which child workers are driven like galley slaves," "to observe," as the resolution says, "common decency toward children in mill, mine and factory."

Andy Furuseth of the Seamen's Union introduced a resolution against the League of Nations and the world court on the ground that these institutions were "detrimental to seamen." Upon the same grounds a resolution might have been introduced against the policies of Andy Furuseth himself. There is small choice.

Why Not Can Lewis Gang?

There were resolutions appealing for food and clothing to aid the striking miners of West Virginia and Kentucky, in district 17 and 23. That Lewis' policy of collaboration with the operators is making the members of U. M. W. of A. so poor and the union too weak and unwilling to help these fighters was not, of course, mentioned in the resolution.

The Mobile Central Labor Council asked that all unions make all members become citizens and voters to retain membership. Many other resolutions are not yet printed.

Delegates Visit Mexican Mest.

In the afternoon the A. F. of L. delegates went across the bridge into Juarez, Mexico, to visit the convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor. You may be sure that none of them wore overalls as do the rank and file delegates at the Mexican convention. Nor were they held up and insulted at the line by uppish immigration officials.

The customary speeches of amity and accord were delivered. Rico, of the Mexican federation, lauded Gompers, and Gompers lauded himself.

JOHN L. LEWIS SAYS HE IS NOT ASPIRANT FOR CALVIN'S CABINET

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 19.—"I am not a candidate for secretary of labor."

This was the laconic reply today of John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, to questioners who asked him concerning reports that he was being mentioned for the cabinet post.

"I am not even aware there is to be a vacancy as secretary of labor," added Lewis.

POLICE BATTLE YOUNG WORKERS AT 'M. W.' PLANT

Mail Order Workers Like the Young Worker

Seven hundred copies of the special mail order edition of the Young Worker were sold at the Montgomery Ward & Co. mail order plant on Chicago Ave., despite continued police interference.

The Young Workers League members were pushed and shoved from one end of the block to the other by cops called in for the purpose by the Montgomery Ward management.

Youth Paper in Great Demand.

The paper was in big demand, however, the young workers in the plant crowding around the Young Workers League "newsies." Policeman No. 865 was in charge of the plain clothes squad and uniformed police. He was obviously trying to discourage the League salesmen and protect the mail order company. "They're liable to pull the workers here out on strike," one plain clothes dick was heard to remark.

Officer 865 shoved two of the girls off the sidewalk into the street. When the DAILY WORKER reporter interposed and said there was no law against selling newspapers on the sidewalk, the city policeman said "Who told you you was boss around here, anyway. I'm the law around here. Keep your clappers shut."

Wants to Lock 'Em Up.

"I think I'll lock you fellows up and find out if you've got a right to talk against the Montgomery Ward company." Officer 865 added a little later. "You fellows are nothing but a bunch of I. W. W.'s anyway."

"No, we're not, we're Communists," one of the Y. W. L. newsies informed the watchdog for the mail order house.

"Well, I think you're all anarchists, anyway," the cop replied. "You're a bunch of trouble makers and kickers You ought to go back to Roosia where you come from. America's the grandest country in the world and there's nothing the matter with this country. Go on now, get off the sidewalk. Move on there, before I run you in." All the cops came up and asked for papers when the Montgomery, Ward bosses weren't looking.

Get Paper on Sly.

Many of the workers took the papers on the sly, and peered around looking for "spotters" before they bought it, seeming afraid of getting fired. "We have to work overtime in the evenings a lot and never get paid for it either," one employe said as he bought a paper.

Moving pictures of the Young Workers League members selling the Young Worker in front of Montgomery Ward will be taken next Saturday at noontime. Volunteers are wanted to help sell the paper.

Philadelphia to See the "Beauty and Bolshevik"

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 19.—In order to meet the demand to see the good picture, The Beauty and the Bolshevik, another showing has been arranged in Philadelphia on Friday, Nov. 28, at Tyrian Hall, Broad and Oxford streets.

At the last showing thousands attended but many could not be accomodated and the tremendous enthusiasm with which the picture was received, has brought may requests that it be shown again. In addition to the Beauty and the Bolshevik, a three reel feature showing Russia's industries to date, "Russia in Overalls," will be shown. A musical program has been arranged for.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 19.—Four laborers were reported killed and several injured near here today when an electric train crashed into a car loaded with track workers.

"MARRY EARLY!" BOURGEOIS ADVICE; WELL, HERE'S MOTHER OF FOUR AT 24, WHO ENDS ALL THRU SUICIDE

Two news stories in the same edition of the Omaha Daily News shows the brutality of capitalism. One story printed on the first "pink" page, adorned with three pictures, advised girls to marry as early as possible. This story boasts of a mother fourteen years old.

Another news story on the third page, with a three column head, tells of a woman who committed suicide at 24 because she married too young and had too many babies at an early age.

The first news story gives the heartless advice of the employers who are anxious to breed wage slaves. The second news story shows the inevitable effects of the capitalist system of exploitation on the homes of the workers.

Here are the two stories from the same newspaper:

"MARRY EARLY."

FORT WORTH, Tex., Nov. 17.—Marry young for happiness—then you won't have to marry so often.

That's the advice of Mrs. A. A. Jenkins, 49; Mrs. Beulah Smith, 28, and Mrs. Tom Olsan, a full grown wife and mother at 14.

All three women from out the southwest went to the altar at 12. That is, all save Mrs. Smith, who lacked thirteen days of the common age.

Mrs. Smith, a grandmother at 28, says:

"Marry your girls off young. Let them have a husband, a family and a home of their own. That's the way to make them happy."

MOTHER SUICIDE AT 24.

COUNCIL BLUFF, Ia., Nov. 16.—Because there were already four children in her family and she feared the arrival of another, Mrs. Dorothy Grace Deyo, 24, 3458 Avenue E, Council Bluffs, ended her life.

Thought Family Too Big.

Her husband, Clifford Deyo, fireman at the Methodist hospital, Omaha, found her dead on his return from work at 5 p. m.

"She didn't want any more babies," he explained today. "She thought the family was too big already, and was afraid she was going to have a fifth child. She was still nursing Patsy."

Married at Sixteen.

Dr. Moth said she had talked of killing herself before Bobby came and before Patsy came, but he had talked her out of it each time.

Mrs. Deyo was married when she was sixteen. Her babies arrived twenty-five months apart.

GRAHAM, ACTIVE PARTY COMRADE, IS IN HOSPITAL

Would Welcome Visits from Comrades

Comrade Andrew Graham, member of the Irving Park Branch of the Workers Party, who has been active in the radical movement for the past 20 years, is lying in the Swedish Covenant hospital at California and Foster Aves., with a serious spine injury. A communication or a visit from comrades and friends will mean much to him at this time.

Comrade Graham is a cement finisher and his work in the building trade made it difficult for him to be active during the summer months. But now and then the Irving Park branch would get a new member, even in the summer, as a result of Comrade Graham's activity. Comrade Graham could be depended on at all times to do the party work asked of him. He helped in many educational campaigns, distributed leaflets, visited comrades, posted bills, pluggers, etc.

Comrade Graham has been especially active in re-organizing former branches of the old socialist party in the Workers Party, often paying the rent of such branches out of his own pocket. Comrade Graham's spine is injured and his left arm is broken in two places. He has injuries on the head and bruises on the body. He is lying in a cast and would welcome a visit.

New York Finns to See "Beauty and Bolshevik"

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The Beauty and the Bolshevik will be shown in Harlem at the New Finnish Hall on Monday, Nov. 24, at a bazaar arranged for that week. The Finnish Hall is at 15 W. 126th St.

The picture has once before been shown in Harlem and was seen by many of the Finnish workers, but because of the summer weather many of the workers had no opportunity to see it. All workers in Harlem who have not yet seen this picture should take advantage of this occasion.

Poincare Issues Denial.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Premier Poincare has issued a warm rebuttal to the press of the published statement of Georges Luis, ambassador to Russia, asserting that Poincare was partially responsible for precipitating the world war. Poincare's statement cites the letters of Jules Cambon, Stephen Pichon and Ambassador Daeschner, denying that they issued statements in Russia blaming Poincare for not preventing the war.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

were the clothes of the rest; Thru the mad battalions the cutrassiers go, but the man not the clothes makes the soldier, I trow. . . ." A New York psychoanalyst employed by New York contractors, takes issue with the poet, and declares positively that clothes have very much to do with the man. Perhaps the mental gaser is right. Take a white collar slave behind a corset counter. He may only receive $20.00 a week but he is psychologically more amenable to the boss's desires than a carpenter who makes three times that much per week, when he works.

* * *

THE head of the American Legion is a popular figure on the front pages of America's greatest lying capitalist sheet, the Chicago Tribune. His name is Drain and he is looking forward with keen anticipation to the next war when our capitalists set out to drain the youth of America for the battlefield. One of the sweetest bits of bunk advocated by the militarists is that "capital as well as labor" should be conscripted in the next war. Who is going to do the conscripting? Capital, of course. The capitalists run the government and they will do as they please in the next war as they did in the last.

* * *

THIS hokum is for the purpose of fooling the unthinking who imagine that the savings of the co-operative work. They maintain a fleet of 100 tractors which plow land at cost for an entire group of colonists. They maintain seed stations and stock-breeding stations, supply fruit trees, put up community buildings, and do drainage, all on a collective scale, free charged against the individual colonists.

The men of the family go first and live in dugouts or straw shelters until they can create a home. In spite of the general tradition that Jews do not take to farming or physical labor, not a single family in these colonies has given up. And due to the intelligent co-operative effort they are introducing better methods and new cultures to entire districts assisting also the non-Jewish peasants who live in the vicinity.

JEWS TAKE UP HOMES ON LAND IN SOVIET RUSSIA

Much Territory Placed at Their Disposal

Editor's Note.—The Jewish Workers' Relief Committee, with headquarters in New York City, is at present carrying on a campaign for funds to assist the Russian Soviet government in its colonization work. Those interested in the work may apply for information to the secretary of the committee, Abraham Epstein, 153 East Broadway, New York City.

* * *

By ANISE.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

MOSCOW (By Mail.)—In the southern agricultural lands of Russia American capital is helping the movement of settling the age-long ghetto-dwellers on the land as farmers.

The Joint Distribution committee has brought over from America some $400,000 to start with, and this is only one of the many agencies working on the situation.

Rescued by Soviet Rule.

The plight of the Jews in the old "pale of settlement" within Russia is indeed desperate. The politically freer than anywhere else in Europe, and socially the equals of all other Russian citizens, with equal intellectual opportunities in all universities and equal chances in government, they are as a race economically ruined.

First the world war passed across many of their settlements, then the civil war at its fiercest raged among them, complicated by hundreds of pogroms, and when at last the Soviet government rescued them, its policy of building up government and co-operative trade spelled ruin to vast numbers of Jewish private traders.

Before the war the chief occupation of the Jews in Russia was petty trade. Denied free access to land, to universities, or to the industrial centers, they were compelled to live in little towns and to exist by trade with the surrounding peasants. Fifty per cent of all Jews in Russia are estimated to have been thus employed. Another 40 per cent were engaged in small handicrafts, six to seven per cent in liberal professions, and only three to four per cent were factory workers or farmers, the two classes now most favored in Russia.

Large lands have been placed at the disposal of Jewish colonists in the Ukraine, the Crimea, and to some extent White Russia. The government furnished transportation and freight at one-quarter the usual rate, and some extent artesian wells and similar public works are projected by the government. But the capital for settling these families on the land, is being met by private organizations.

The Joint Distribution committee's main form of their loans is the co-operative work. They maintain a fleet of 100 tractors which plow land at cost for an entire group of colonists. They maintain seed stations and stock-breeding stations, supply fruit trees, put up community buildings, and do drainage, all on a collective scale, free charged against the individual colonists.

Coolidge Gets the Old.

OTTAWA, Ill.—Mrs. Cecelia Hayer, aged 101, of Seneca, near here, today was in receipt of a letter from President Coolidge thanking her for her support of him at the polls in the recent election. Mrs. Hayer is said to be the oldest woman in Illinois and perhaps the oldest in the country who voted.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

STANDARD OIL GAS EXPLOSION CLAIMS MANY VICTIMS AT WHITING

Six men employed by the Standard Oil company in Whiting, Ind., are known to have been injured, and many employes of the United States corporation at Indiana Harbor were thot to have been seriously injured, some probably being killed, in two serious accidents. The two corporations are suppressing the facts.

The gas explosion at Indiana Harbor closed down 28 open hearth furnaces, wrecking most of them. The six injured men were badly burned at the Standard Oil plant when five stills exploded. Some of them will probably not recover.

L. E. Block, offical of the Inland Steel company, of the United States Steel corporation in Indiana Harbor tried to belittle the wrecking of hi blast furnaces. He denied that an lives had been lost.

ATTENTION, W. S. CRATER!

Your present address is very much desired by Mrs. J. B. Erwin, 2822 Carroll Ave., Cleveland, Ohio Please get in touch with her as soon as possible.

Italian Senate Opens Sessions with Mussolini Weak

ROME, Italy, Nov. 19.—The senate reopened here yesterday with indications that there is much doubt as to whether Mussolini will be able to scrape a majority even with his campaign of violence working overtime. The opposition in the senate has gained momentum from securing the followers of former Premier Giolitti. It is thought probable that Mussolini's cabinet will be forced into the minority in the senate.

MAD TRADING FEVER IN WALL ST. MADE TO LOOK LIKE PROSPERITY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 19.—The New York Stock Exchange is now suffering from a mad trading fever. Professional speculators and big brokers are scrambling wildly to buy on the surge of a rising market. The large turnover of shares is a barometer of the extreme confidence the biggest business interests have in the Coolidge-Dawes administration.

It is especially worthwhile to note that oil stocks which have been at very low ebb for many months are now reacting strongly. These stocks have today reached the best price level of the movement. They are making up for serious losses suffered during the Teapot Dome investigation. The oil magnates feel certain that the storm has blown over for them.

Railroads, steel, sugar, motors are making great advances. Such huge corporations as the American Can company, the General Electric company and Sears Roebuck and company are climbing rapidly. It is estimated that the professional stock traders and big brokers representing the largest financial institutions have cleaned up millions of dollars in the speculative orgy.

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22

1. Recent Changes in China.....By A. Joffe
2. Campaigning for Communism.....By Wm. Z. Foster
3. Negroes and the Caste System.....By Gordon Owens
4. American Intervention in Europe.....By I. Stalin
5. Gompers Makes a Move to Block the Unity of the International Trade Union Movement.....By Alexander Bittelman
6. Leader of the Junior Groups.....By Max Shachtman
7. The Crisis in Italy Is Ripening.....By Ruggiero Grieco
8. Letters from Moscow.....By Anna Porter
9. Red Soldier's Manual.....By Leon Trotsky
10. The Shop Nuclei—A Need Now.....By Martin Abern

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

"CAUTIOUS CAL," THE HERO OF ANTI-COMMUNIST WEEK, SHOWN UP AS AN ENEMY OF CHILDREN

By KARL REEVE.
(Ninth Article.)

President Coolidge, who has officially turned the schools over to the American Legion this week, pleads for better education of America's boys and girls.

Yet statistics are unanimous in showing the alarming subnormalcy in those children who are able to attend school and an army of over two million children under 15 years of age are forced to work in the industries to help support their families.

Doesn't Better Children's Lot.

Coolidge, who has sponsored anti-Communist "education week," recently accepted the honorary presidency of a farm boys' and girls' club numbering over 700,000 members. Yet Coolidge did not raise his voice to better the lot of the 600,000 child laborers who were taken out of school to work long hours on the farms.

The official report of Coolidge's U. S. department of labor shows that 1,060,858 children from ten to fifteen years of age were engaged working in American industries in 1920. In addition, several hundred thousand children under ten years of age are known to labor in the United States.

Since 1920, the army of child laborers has steadily increased. The child in twelve, under the Coolidge administration, is forced to leave school and enter industry as a worker. In the oyster beds of Mississippi, on the truck farms of Maryland, on the beet fields from Michigan to Colorado, in the tenement sweat shops of New Jersey and New York and in the coal mines of Pennsylvania the manufacturers are hiring children by the hundreds of thousands. Illiterate children, taken from school at an early age die young or deformed because the master class wants their cheaper labor power.

Figures of the U. S. department of labor show that child labor increased 43 per cent from 1920 to 1922. In the first 11 months of 1923, under the rule of the openshoppers, child labor further increased 24 per cent over 1923. These children, the report reveals, work for four, five and ten cents an hour, because their parents' income is not sufficient, under the capitalist system, to keep the family alive.

Many Children Sub-normal.

Children everywhere have been found to be sub-normal, even when their parents have been able to earn enough money under the profit system to send them to school. Examinations made by school medical inspectors of New York state two months ago showed that 47 per cent of the children living in cities, 48.9 per cent of those living in villages and 27.4 per cent of those living in the country are physically normal. All the rest are defective.

Elbert H. Gary, one of Coolidge's most ardent supporters, prates about Coolidge's concern for the people. Yet in Gary's own town in the shadows of the steel mills at Gary, Indiana, investigation conducted by Coolidge partisans in the U. S. department of labor, found over 95 per cent of the children under nourished. Less than one-half of one per cent of the Gary children of pre-school age get the right amount of food, an examination of 6015 children of mill workers there disclosed.

Yet all Coolidge can find to do during "education week" is to denounce the Communists who are trying to establish a system of working class rule that will abolish the frightful condition of the youth of the country.

In proclaiming "education week," Coolidge declared, "Every American citizen is entitled to a liberal education." But the United States government is permitting millions of children to be deprived of this right by the capitalistic system which pays low wages, brings about periods of unemployment, and takes children out of schools and puts them in industry.

Conditions in South.

"The reason for this state of affairs in the south," said a southern investigator, "is the low wage paid in the southern textile industries, which makes it necessary for the whole family to work—father, mother, children—in order that the family income may provide the barest necessities of life."

According to the census of 1920, 20.5 per cent of all children 10 to 15 years old in Georgia worked in the industries, and three other southern states showed a much higher percentage, with 16.6 per cent of North Carolina's children being shown at work.

There are 7,500 crippled children in Virginia who have remained untreated, altho over 75 per cent of them could be cured, the University of Virginia recently discovered.

New York Sweat Shops.

In New York City thousands of children, many of them babies of three and four years old, work in home sweat shops for contractors, making hosiery and artificial flowers. The state child welfare commission of New York found that 79 per cent of all children employed in New York state are under ten years of age. Over half of the families whose children must work in New York receive less than $300.00 per year with the entire family working, and the remainder receive less than $500.00 a year, according to the commission's findings.

These are a few facts for our readers to ponder over during "education week." Capitalism is failing to pieces. Profits are kept up at the expense of the health and education of millions of little children.

In Soviet Russia, under the workers' and peasants' government, the profit system has been abolished by the working class and little children do not have to toil in industry.

Norwegian Minister to Moscow Expects Good Trade Agreement

MOSCOW (by mail).—The new minister of Norway in Moscow, Andreas Urbi, who just arrived at Moscow, said to the Rosta correspondent:

"It is needless to say that I consider as my chief task the strengthening and developing of good relations which fortunately exist between our countries. I hope that negotiations proceeding now anent the conclusion of a trade agreement will lead to a final and advantageous settlement. As you know, in these negotiations a very prominent part is played by fur and fishing industries on the north and trade relations between inhabitants of Norway and the White Sea district. The question of shiping is also very important for Norway which has a big commercial fleet. We hope that this question will be satisfactorily settled in the future agreement."

Build Italy's Navy.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Italy intends to re-establish fixed naval stations in South America and the far east according to a despatch from Rome today in the Morning Post.

FAMOUS RED ARMY FILM TO BE SHOWN THIS WEEK IN BROWNSVILLE, N. Y.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—The tremendously successful film, The Beauty and the Bolshevik, which was seen by thousands of people in Moscow, New York and Philadelphia, and enthusiastically applauded wherever it was shown, is coming to Brownsville this Friday and Saturday evening, and it is hoped that as large an audience will turn out to see this film as did at the Lenox Theatre in August, and in Philadelphia last month.

In addition will be shown Russia in Overalls, a synopsis of Russia's industrial development in the last years. And of course there is always a special musical program composed of special Russian folk songs.

There are thousands of workers in Brownsville and elsewhere in the city who have not seen this picture and every one is urged to take advantage of the opportunity of seeing it now. It will be shown at the Brownsville Labor Lyceum, 229 Saokman street, Brooklyn. On Friday, the performance will start at 8:30 p. m.; on Saturday, there will be two evening performances at 7:30 and 9:30 p. m., under the auspices of International Workers' Aid.

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. Today's comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK

Illiteracy Day

Thursday, Nov. 20.—"Informed Intelligence is the Foundation of Representative Government."

1. Illiteracy is a menace to our nation.
2. An American's duty toward the uneducated.
3. Provide school opportunity for every illiterate.
4. Illiteracy creates misunderstanding.
5. An illiterate who obtains only second-hand information is a tool of the radicals.

SLOGANS.

No illiteracy by 1930.

Education is a godly nation's greatest need.

The dictionary is the beacon light to understanding.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS

Illiteracy Day

Thursday, Nov. 20.—"Illiteracy and Ignorance of the Working Masses is One of the Foundations of Capitalist Domination in Government."

1. Illiteracy is the result of long working hours and low wages of the adults and the enforced labor of children.
2. Ignorance of his class interests makes the worker a tool of the capitalists.

SLOGANS.

Demand more leisure for study. Demand higher pay.

Abolish child labor.

Communism is the beacon light to the understanding by the workers of their class interests.

BOSSES FRAMED CLERGYMAN WHO HELPED STRIKE

Arrested On Charge of Transporting Girls

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Nov. 19.—The Wyoming State Federation of Labor is rallying to the support of Rev. B. J. Minort, who is being framed up by the United States government in Nebraska, because of his friendliness to labor. Minort, who aided the striking railway shopmen in 1922, is now paying the price. Thru the instigation of labor, Minort was appointed state humane officer. Because of his continued activity in behalf of labor, Minort has been arrested on charges of transporting two females from Wyoming to Nebraska, although it is well known that Minort was engaged in taking the girls home to relatives as part of his work.

Dropped from Church.

The Wyoming Federation of Labor has issued a call to all affiliated bodies to raise funds to defend Minort and care for his family, as Minort is now destitute. Minort was dismissed as preacher in 1922 by the railroad magnates controlling his church because he favored the striking shopmen.

A heavy prison sentence hangs over Minort's head as the result of the frame up of the employers in Wyoming and Nebraska.

Egan Gangsters' Found Guilty.

QUINCY, Ill., Nov. 19.—William P. (Dutch) Colbeck, leader of the Egan gang of St. Louis and eight others on trial with him today were found guilty by a jury in the federal court here of having participated in the $54,130 mail robbery in Staunton, Illinois on May 26, 1923.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

CHILD LABOR FOES CIRCULATE ATTACKS OF LEGISLATORS IN GEORGIA AS VERY GOOD HUMOR

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 19.—Members of the Georgia delegation in the house of representatives are trying to explain the remarkable political and sociological discoveries announced by their legislature, last July, when it rejected the child labor amendment to the federal constitution.

Sample: "The same is hereby not ratified but rejected because said proposed amendment would destroy parental authority and responsibility thruout America, would give irrevocable support to a rebellion of childhood which menaces our civilization . . . would place in the hands of congress a power to destroy agriculture and manufacturing at will, is merely a hypocritical pretense at an effort to protect childhood from slavery, and is really intended to enslave the childhood of this republic."

Observe that Georgia fears "a rebellion of childhood which menaces our civilization," and the menace seems to consist in destroying agriculture and manufacturing, and that at the same time Georgia fears that the rebellion will enslave the rebels. The national committee for rejection of the 20th amendment is circulating this document thruout the United States, hereby permitting it to come into the hands of people possessing a sense of humor.

Politicians in the capital are beginning to guess that this child labor opposition may prove as wide and deep a political grave as was the Lorimer vote, the Newberry rollcall or the support of schedule K in the Payne-Aldrich tariff act. Three of the four states that have rejected the amendment are cotton mill states—Massachusetts, Georgia and North Carolina. Louisiana, which rejected, is a state where children are employed on plantations. Arkansas, which ratified, has no cotton mill industry worth mention.

FIGHT TO FREE RUSSIAN CITIZEN FROM U. S. PEN.

Sent to Siberia, But Fought for Soviet

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 19. — Whether Woodrow Wilson's armed invasion of Russia without declaration of war comes under the technical definition of war is one of the points at issue in the case of Antoni Karachun, a Russian citizen, serving a 20-year term in the federal penitentiary at McNeil Island penitentiary, Washington, because he deserted the American forces to fight for his country.

Efforts to free Karachun are again being made by the American Civil Liberties Union through Attorney Thomas M. Woodward of Washington, D. C., who has reopened the case with the war department. The Liberties Union points out that Karachun is the only federal prisoner serving a sentence on purely political grounds. His case, the union says, involves his "conscience and his loyalty."

Enlisted Against Germany.

The McNeil Island prisoner, military records show, enlisted in the United States army from America in 1917 to fight against Germany, though a Russian citizen. He was not a drafted man. But after Germany was defeated this volunteer was kept in the army, and taken compulsorily to Siberia in America's unofficial military operations against the workers' government which had taken the place of the czar's provincial governors. Karachun had not calculated on this when he enlisted and he deserted. Afterwards, the American authorities say, Karachun was found fighting with the forces of his country which were resisting the American troops.

Sentenced to Death.

Karachun was captured, court-martialed and sentenced to death. Sentence was commuted to 20 years by the president.

Since America never declared war against Russia Karachun clearly was not a deserter in time of war, the Liberties Union is stating to the war department. The maximum sentence for desertion in time of peace is only six years and the prisoner has already served more than the full time permitted under the charge.

International Law.

"The United States government," the Union asserts, "is responsible for putting Karachun in a position where if captured by the Russian troops he would be executed for treason as a Russian citizen fighting against them. As a soldier in the American army in Siberia he was put in a position of fighting his own countrymen. This is contrary to international law, and Karachun cannot therefore be legally guilty of desertion."

Associated with Attorney Woodward, in behalf of the Liberties Union, is Wolcott H. Pitkin, former assistant United States district attorney and former attorney general for Porto Rico, who has filed a brief on the Karachun case with the war department.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Thursday, Nov. 20.

Membership meeting, Workers Party, Local Chicago. Review of election campaign and discussion of shop nuclei. At Imperial Hall 2409 N. Halsted St. Meetings of all branches are off.

Friday, Nov. 21.

Polish North Side, 1902 W. Division street.

Lithuanian No. 5, 2142 S. Halsted St. Greek Branch, 722 Blue Island Ave.

Saturday, Nov. 22.

Grand concert and ball, Workers Lyceum, 2732 Hirsch Boulevard, 8 p. m. Benefit of city organization.

Extend Amnesty to Cailleaux But Not To the Communists

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The senate ratified today the measure of amnesty for Joseph Cailleaux, formerly premier of France, who was arrested in 1918, charged with having commerce with the enemy and banished for five years from Paris, but not from France. The vote on the measure was 176 for, 104 against.

The former premier, regarded as one of the most acute financial intelligences of France is now free.

Norwegian Minister to Moscow Expects Good Trade Agreement

MOSCOW (by mail).—The new minister of Norway in Moscow, Andreas Urbi, who just arrived at Moscow, said to the Rosta correspondent:

"It is needless to say that I consider as my chief task the strengthening and developing of good relations which fortunately exist between our countries. I hope that negotiations proceeding now anent the conclusion of a trade agreement will lead to a final and advantageous settlement. As you know, in these negotiations a very prominent part is played by fur and fishing industries on the north and trade relations between inhabitants of Norway and the White Sea district. The question of shiping is also very important for Norway which has a big commercial fleet. We hope that this question will be satisfactorily settled in the future agreement."

Build Italy's Navy.

LONDON, Nov. 19.—Italy intends to re-establish fixed naval stations in South America and the far east according to a despatch from Rome today in the Morning Post.

Cotton Manufacturers Discuss Sweating Of Mill Workers

(By The Federated Press)

BOSTON, Nov. 19. — How to get more work out of the worker was the theme of speakers before the second days' session of the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

Wallace I. Stimpson, of the Draper corporation urged employers to break down the workers' traditions against operating more looms. He cited the case of a worsted manufacturer whose employes refused to change from six to twelve looms per weaver. This manufacturer "now has a mill out in the woods where the weavers don't know about these traditions and expect to run sixteen looms per weaver," said Stimpson in his advice to the audience.

"Wage cuts are not the real way of lowering costs, but thru more work," was his parting message.

Joel M. Barnes, of Harpham, Barnes Stevenson and company, charged that loom fixers were loafing and that a bonus system was needed to pep them up. Other speakers urged speeding.

There is no loafing in New England cotton mills that a visitor can detect. Speeding is already the rule. How much this can be intensified is a risky guess.

Russ Scientific Expedition Returns.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19.—The expedition of Rudenkov to the Altai district has returned to Moscow, bringing large collections which indicate that there once existed in this central Asian region a high culture. The expedition also made a large collection of anthropological material, showing the customs of Siberian peoples. The Soviet scientific expedition to Koziof, the buried town in Mongolia is expected back shortly.

Have you heaved your brick?

That Sense of Satisfaction!

It comes of having real pleasure and information—and you will have both when you

"Heave This Brick Back"

to

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Ill.

RATES—
$6.00 a year $3.50-6 months $2.00 3 months
In CHICAGO—$8.00 a year $4.50 6 months $2.50, 3 months

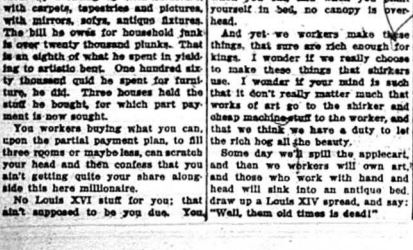
THE NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO BUILD
THE DAILY WORKER

NAME

STREET

CITY STATE

Dinner Pail Epics by Bill Lloyd



Federated Press Jingles.

A millionaire is being sued for having been so awful rude as not to pay a large amount claimed overdue on an account, which claimants say he did incur by stocking up with furniture, with carpets, tapestries and pictures, with mirrors, sofys, antique fixtures. The bill he owes for household junk is over twenty thousand plunks. That is an eighth of what he spent in yielding to artistic bent. One hundred sixty thousand quid he spent for furniture, he did. Three houses hald the stoff he bought, for which part payment is now sought.

You workers buying what you can, upon the partial payment plan, to fill three rooms or maybe less, can scratch your head and then confess that you ain't getting quite your share alongside this here millionaire.

No Louis XVI stuff for you; that ain't supposed to be you due. You buy perhaps a shaving mug, but no high-priced Aubusson rug. No tapestries hang on your wall, no hammered brass adorns you hall. And you don't stick your feet beneath black walnut when you eat, and when you plant yourself in bed, no canopy is overhead.

And yet we workers make these things, that sure are rich enough for kings. I wonder if we really choose to make these things that shirkers use. I wonder if your mind is such that it don't really matter much that works of art go to the shirker and cheap machine-stuff to the worker, and that we think we have a duty to let the rich hog all the beauty.

Some day we'll spill the applecart, and then we workers will own art, and those who work with hand and head will sink into an antique bed, draw up a Louis XIV spread, and say: "Well, them old times is dead!"

The World of Labor — Industry & Agriculture

BOSSES SCHEME TO PUSH LABOR INTO LONG DAY

Wages Cut on Nine and Ten-Hour Shifts

By SYDNEY WARREN,
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent.)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 19.—The timber bosses of British Columbia in an effort to induce the provincial government to reduce its royalties on timber cut, are crying poverty and parading the bogey of foreign capital invading the industry.

Workers regard the campaign for reduced royalties as a preliminary to an effort to annul the 8-hour act, which was passed as a sop at the last session of the provincial assembly.

The government has shown its hostility to the measure by appointing as labor's representative on the board an obscure henchman of the liberal party, C. V. Foster, whose sole qualification is that he is president of the liberal party unit in a small interior town. Those acquainted with Foster assert he is completely ignorant of the chief industry of the province, which is lumber, and can be counted upon to allow the lumber bosses the exemptions they want to make the act a farce.

Another attempt to set aside the measure has been the systematic reduction of wages by the camps and sawmills thruout the province. Workers working 9 and 10-hour shifts have been cut 5c an hour, which amounts to from 45c to 50c a day. The idea back of this is that if the wages earned working 9 and 10 hours barely suffice for a worker and his family, the workers will join the bosses in a petition to postpone, if not set aside the shorter working day.

Women Fight Child Labor.

LAKE PLACID, N. Y., Nov. 19.—As the American Federation of Labor delegates in convention in El Paso plan to push the campaign for states' ratification of the national child labor amendment, the women holding the thirtieth annual convention of New York state federation of women's clubs, resolved to urge their state legislature to act favorably on the proposed constitutional amendment. The failure of Massachusetts to ratify the amendment because of Catholic misinformation and clerical opposition is not discouraging those fighting for the protection of children in the United States.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

THE WORLD INDUSTRIAL POSITION OF THE UNITED STATES—1923.

Commodity	Per Cent of Total World Output Produced in the United States
Coal	43.5
Oil	73
Pig Iron	61
Steel	61
Copper	59
Lead	43
Zinc	46
Automobiles (Passengers and Trucks)	91

The United States controls 23.7 per cent of the cotton goods spindles in the world.

The capacity of electric stations in the United States operated to supply light and power is about 50 per cent of the world's total.

The United States is the largest lumber producing country in the world.

The United States is first in the production of railway cars and locomotives.

The United States is first in the manufacture of agricultural implements.

The United States is first in the production of boots and shoes.

The United States is the most important silk manufacturing country in the world.

The total production of finished leather in the United States is equal to that of the rest of the world.

Based on Commerce Year Book, 1923, published by the Department of Commerce.

BURGLARS AND OTHER ROBBERS

By DUNCAN McDONALD

PICK up any capitalist paper any day and read the news. "Banks robbed," "Burglars loot bank" or some other evidence of someone or other pursuing the course suggested by our present economic order of securing the greatest amount of returns for the least energy expended, or read where some poor working man acting as policemen get shot protecting the money of the other fellow who has exploited labor and then engages another worker to care for the loot thus taken.

These bank robbers are usually more brave than certain of our leading lights in the political arena who simply employ another method with the risk taken out of it but in reality as illegal from the moral standpoint. If all of the bank robbers could get into some position of trust as leading lights in the political arena they would be safer and yet secure the same results without taking the chances of getting their heads shot off when they go after the coin.

Like To Honor Crooks

Take our newly elected vice-presidential candidate who is found guilty of helping loot the depositors in the Lorimer bank scandal where the depositors lost their money by a crooked deal. Even the state supreme court in a recent decision found this dignitary guilty and the amount involved something like a hundred thousand dollars. The voters recently approved of this action and elevated this personage to high political office for his sagacity and well established business methods. Or take the case of the present governor of Illinois who is charged with retaining some two million dollars of state interest money and again his action is endorsed by the electorate of this great state. The difference is in method only.

Under our present system the only question is in getting the money and the easiest method is the best. If one has the "jack" the manner in which it is acquired is secondary. The main thing is to get it and if they are not caught they will be listed in the various blue books with the rest of the blue bloods and they are admitted to the best society, belong to the best clubs and have entry to all that is worth while.

Unfair To Burglars

If high toned burglars get it by robbing children or exploiting workers and thus depriving them of the necessities of life they commit a greater crime against society than by robbing some wealthy banker or smug aristocrat and yet they are pillars of society. Why make this distinction among rogues?

Take the long list of policemen who pay with their lives each year for their devotion in protecting the money of some exploiter. Even the risk is assigned to some poor chap paid a meagre salary while the person whose money is thus protected takes no chance.

Of course the ones engaged in bank robberies cannot all get into politics or political position so they take the other method of getting it. We must have money in order to eat and so long as the premium is placed on the easiest method why make the distinction between the ones who rob legally and those who take the other method?

If there were some real effort made to place a premium on productive effort instead of exploitation then naturally more of us would engage in that end of the game but since the ones who produce are robbed of the result of their labor and the usual rule is permitted of getting the greatest amount for the least effort expended and bank robbing is quicker than working and they can all get political positions where they can rob the people why should they arrest one crowd while honoring the other?

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A YOUTHFUL EVENING FROCK

A NEW NURSERY TOY

4935. Chiffon and metal embroidery is here shown. The style will be attractive in crepe de chine with lace or embroidery. Swansdown, fur or bands of ostrich would be very effective for trimming at the free edges. This frock may be finished with or without the sleeve puff.

The Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes for Juniors and Misses: 14, 16, 18 and 20 years. A 16 year size requires 2½ yards of plain material 40 inches wide and 1⅞ yard of embroidery or lace 9 inches wide, if made as illustrated. Without the sleeve puff 3¼ yards of plain material will be required. The width of the skirt at the foot is 2¼ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

Send 15c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

4799. Soft toys are ever popular and may be made very durable and practical. This model could be developed in oil cloth, terry cloth or towling. Stockinette or flannel also in rubberized cloth. A good filling would be kapack, excelsior or cotton. If made of oil cloth or rubber cloth and stuffed with cork the toy would be water proof and would float. The Cape and Bonnet is nice in flannel crepe, gingham or satin.

This Pattern is cut in one Size. The Doll will require ⅝ yard of 27 inch material. The Cape and Bonnet 24 inches of 27 inch material.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 15c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

Send 15c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The pattern being sent from the DAILY WORKER Pattern Department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and are mailed by the manufacturing firm to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. We do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Government Sells Oil Direct.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19. — The Russian government oil trust has opened offices abroad and is selling its large oil exports direct instead of thru private foreign firms as heretofore.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
624 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO!
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

MURINE
For YOUR EYES
Night and Morning to keep them Clean, Clear and Healthy
Write for Free "Eye Care" or "Eye Beauty" Book
Murine Co., Dept. E, 8 S. Ohio St., Chicago

LABOR FAKERS SABOTAGE SILK WORKERS STRIKE

Winning Out with Aid of the Masses

PATERSON, N. J., Nov. 19.—Over one hundred and sixty shops have signed the union agreement with the striking Paterson silk workers, and four thousand weavers have already returned to work under union conditions, the Associated Silk Workers of America announces. Since the strike started over twenty-eight hundred new members have enrolled in the union.

The organization's relief store at 73 Ellison St., is looking after all needy strikers. Broad silk weavers who are working in shops that have already settled are paying a regular assessment for the upkeep of those still on strike.

Morale Is Good.

The press, the police, the courts, the civil authorities and the government are still working in the interests of the bosses. But in spite of all obstacles, the spirit and morale of the strikers is better than the first day of the strike. Complete victory is expected.

Sara Conboy of the United Textile Workers' Union, has sent letters to all American Federation of Labor bodies advising them to sabotage the strike, and to give no aid. Organized labor, however, is solidly lined up with the courageous silk strikers. Many A. F. of L. local unions have indorsed the strike and given financial aid.

UNEMPLOYMENT AT SOUTH BEND, IND., PLANT OF SINGER COMPANY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Nov. 19.—Unemployment prevails in South Bend following the re-election of President Coolidge. The Singer Sewing Machine company employes men only on part time. Working on a piece work basis the employes at the Singer plant are allowed by the company to make only $20 to $25 a week by working the full week.

The Wilson Brothers shirt factory pays the lowest of wages. Th employes consist mostly of girls and women. The average wage for a begi ner is $7.00 to $8.00 per week. The wages are seldom raised in this sweat shop, women who have worked in the plant for many years earning at highest only $16.00 per week. The work is very strenuous, especially for the young girls, many of whom are under sixteen years of age. Many of the girls here contract tuberculosis from breathing dust filled air while working in a stooping posture.

The Oliver Chilled Plow company also employs workers on a piece work basis. The speed-up system is used by the Oliver ploy works. As soon as he men earn good money by increasing their speed, their rate is again reduced so that they can never go over $4.00 per day.

Armed Fascisti Shoot Down Chinese Workers on Streets of Canton

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CANTON.—(By Mail.)—On the occasion of the anniversary of the Chinese revolution, a large body of people, after a mass meeting, was proceeding along the principal street of Canton. The people were unarmed and peacefully paying homage to the memory of dead revolutionists.

Suddenly a company of merchant volunteers attacked the crowd, killing and wounding many citizens. The number of dead has not yet been ascertained, but many are known to have been killed. The merchant volunteers were let loose upon an unarmed crowd by Chan Lim-pak, the compradore of the Hongkong-Shanhai Banking corporation, who has been seeking the overthrow of the Kuomintang government. Thus have the people who have come to celebrate the revolution been shot down by the agents of imperialism.

Russia Opens Grain Elevators.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19. — Eight new grain elevators called for by the Russian state planning commission are in operation. They are chiefly in southern Russia.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

POPE DECORATES STEEL CZARS AS WORKERS FACE NEW WAGE CUTS

By PAT H. TOOHEY.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 19.—Coincident with the news that the pope has decorated that arch scamp, Judge Gary with a gold medal, and made President Farrell of the United States Steel corporation a Knight of St. Gregory, for humanitarian work among the steel workers, news comes from the steel centers announcing another drastic cut in wages, with the workers in these respective localities now living in the lowest depths of misery and poverty.

Reports from the Sharon and Farrell districts state that the wages of the puddlers and finishing mill crews will be cut for the November-December period, puddlers reduced 25 cents per ton, finishing mill crew cut two per cent. The new rate is $11.85 per ton as compared with $12.13 for the last two months. This is the fourth successive reduction in puddlers' wages. The bosses give as their reason "as a result of the bi-monthly examination of bar sales."

And still from Youngtown comes the news that wages of sheet and tin workers will be reduced from 40½ per cent above base to 39 per cent for November and December again "as a result of the bi-monthly examination of selling prices" held by representatives of the manufacturers and the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers. The average price of 26, 27 and 28 gauge black sheets was $3.45 per hundred pounds as compared with $3.50 for the preceding two-month period.

Mid-Air Collision.

TOKYO, Nov. 19.—Two army airplanes collided in mid-air this afternoon during military maneuvers at Nagoya. Pilots of both machines were killed.

Extract Poison from Body of Victim of Standard Oil Trust

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—One-fourth of a grain of original tetraethyl lead has been recovered from the body of Walter Dymock, one of the five Standard Oil Co. workers who died from poisoning in the manufacture of tetraethyl lead gasoline at the Bayway plant, New Jersey.

Dr. Alexander O. Gettler, city chemist, spent three weeks in continuous effort to recover the lead, half a milligram of it from the dead worker's brain. A total of 19.8 milligrams of lead, most of it in other compounds than tetraethyl, was taken from Dymock's brain and about the same quantity from his lungs, indicating that most of the poison was taken in by breathing, altho much entered thru the skin.

The Workers' Health Bureau, New York, reports that the New Jersey department of health offered to cooperate in investigations the bureau undertook in regard to tetraethyl lead gas. Labor bodies thruout the country are acting on the health bureau resolutions to safeguard workers manufacturing the poison gas.

Philosophy of Clothes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Clothes may not make the man but they make him feel more like the man, according to the alleged psycho-analyzing of building trades workers by H. J. Mehren, vice-president of the McGraw-Hill company, at the New York Building Congress, Hotel Baltimore. To revive the spirit of craftsmanship, Mehren asserted, we must encourage the self-respect of the workers and for that end, to be well-dressed is essential. Building contractors supply "no adequate facilities for the proper storing of good clothing in working hours, nor for washing up," Mehren said, "so the men must go home feeling as important as their neighbors in the subway." He suggested the placing of tablets containing the roll of workers' names in new buildings.

Your Union Meeting

THIRD THURSDAY, NOV. 20, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
	Allied Printing Trades Council, 69 E. Van Buren St., 8:30 p. m.
271	Amal. Clothing Workers, 409 S. Halsted St.
627	Boiler Makers, 2040 W. North Ave.
93	Beer and Soda, 1925 Milwaukee Ave.
14	Brick and Clay, Shermanville, Ill.
186	Brick and Clay, Glenview, Ill.
13	Carpenters, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
62	Carpenters, 6418 S. Halsted St.
241	Carpenters, 1440 Emma St.
434	Carpenters, South Chi., 11027 Michigan Ave.
584	Carpenters, Ogden and Keeler.
2102	Carpenters, 758 W. North Ave.
180	Drug Clerks, 431 S. Dearborn St., Room 527.
134	Electricians, 1907 Ogden Ave.
134	Electricians, 7201 S. Chicago Ave.
115	Engineers, 9222 Houston Ave.
428	Firemen and Enginemen, 58th and Campbell Sts., 7:45 p. m.
269	Hod Carriers, South Chi., 3701 E. 92nd St.
60	Janitresses, City Hall, Hearing Room.
73	Ladies' Garment Workers, 628 W. Van Buren St.
54	Ladies Garment Workers, 1214 N. Ashland Ave.
100	Ladies' Garment Workers, 628 W. Van Buren St.
12	Leather Workers, 810 W. Harrison Street.
233	Meatcutters, 119 S. Throop St.
571	Painters' District Council, 1446 W. 69th St.
2	Painters, Dutt's Hall, Chicago Heights.
2	Piano and Organ Wkrs., 180 W. Washington.
281	Plumbers (Railway), Monroe and Ashland Sts.
504	Railway Carmen, 79th and Drexel Ave.
504	Railway Clerks, 8138 Commercial Ave.
1872	Sign Hangers, 810 W. Harrison St.
12	Slate, Tile Roofers, 1224 Milwaukee.
110	Stage Employes, Masonic Temple, 10:30 a. m.
61	Store Cutters, 180 W. Washington St.
742	Teamsters, 4306 Houston Ave.
754	Teamsters (Dairy), 220 S. Ashland.
110	Upholsterers, 180 W. Washington

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Farrell, Penna., Sedition Trials of Steel Workers May Soon Be Continued

FARRELL, Pa., Nov. 19.—There is a strong likelihood that the Mercer county authorities will resume the Farrell sedition trials in the very near future and the Labor Defense Council in charge of the defense is preparing to wage an energetic defense in behalf of the four steel workers yet to be tried.

Prosecutor Leroy Rickard has been making some hysterical pre-election speeches condemning the alleged spread of Bolshevik ideas amongst the steel workers and is using these means to prepare the minds of the prospective jurors.

All defense work has been centralized under the national office of the Labor Defense Council, 166 W. Washington St., Chicago, Ill., and all contributions intended for the defense of the Farrell steel workers should be sent to this office.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
648 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1421 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

E. W. RIECK LUNCH ROOMS
Seven Places
62 W. Van Buren | 42 W. Harrison
109 N. Clark | 118 S. Clark
66 W. Washington | 167 N. State
234 S. Halsted
PHONES, HARRISON 8616-7
Specialities: E. W. Rieck Boston Baked Beans and Brown Bread
Fine Spices and Fresh Made Coffee
Commissary and Bakery:
1612 Fulton Ct. Phone West 2549

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 6129

WEALTHY UNITED STATES PACKERS OWN URUGUAY

Communist Party Has Big Influence

By JAMES STONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MONTEVIDEO, Uru., Oct 21 (By Mail.)—The Communist Party of Uruguay wields tremendous influence in the labor movement of this country. The Communist daily "Justicia," the official organ of the party, has a circulation of about ten thousand.

It is very interesting to note that the influence of the Communist Party on the working masses is entirely out of proportion to its numbers.

The organization has a membership of about seven hundred. The Young Communist League has a membership of about five hundred. There is in addition a sporting organization with a membership of approximately six hundred bearing the name of the Red International of Labor Unions. This is similar to the one in Argentina. The workers here are greatly interested in sports and the Communists are fully alive to this.

Woman Question Big Issue.

Here, like in Argentina, there are scattered groups of women workers. The woman question, as an integral part of the whole class question, is becoming more and more an issue in the country.

There is no socialist party in Uruguay. The syndicalist and anarchist organizations are on the decline. Some of the anarchist organizations have ceased to exist.

The Communist Party in Montevideo owns a building and a printing shop of considerable size.

Packers Own Country.

Thruout the country one comes in contact with the meaning power of the American dollar. It appears that Swift and Armour own and control everything in the country. Swift and Armour is all that one can notice when he enters the port of Montevideo. Ten thousand workers are employed at the Swift plant. Two flourishing towns, suburbs of the metropolis, belong to these exploiters. Banks, stores, buildings and other property are in the hands of the American capitalists.

The Communists are making a brave fight against the encroachments of the American imperialists. The workers of Uruguay are responding enthusiastically to the Communist appeal. When an appeal for help was recently made by the Communist Party the workers contributed thirty thousand dollars in a few weeks.

"The American Boom Is at an End . . . ."

Says Prof. E. Varga in his "The Decline of Capitalism," a pamphlet just received from Europe. Also: "Will not the militaristic-imperialist policy of Poincare gain the upper hand, which fact would lead to a new catastrophe of the kind, since the Rentenmark, an artificial creation, would by no means be able to withstand such a blow?" A most timely pamphlet 25c

From the 4th to the 5th World Congress.

Report of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, covering 45 different sections, including U. S., Canada, Mexico, Argentina, etc. It briefly summarizes the activities of the Executive Committee and its various sections. The United Front, the Trade Unions, Agrarian Questions, etc. A year book of the C. I. Single copy 25c

In lots of ten or more 15 cents.

Order while the supply lasts.

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER.

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE | Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Nationalization Progressing Backwards

The American Federation of Labor's executive council is seeking out every measure which smells of progress and wiping out of its program. At El Paso, the executive council retreats from the position of the Portland convention of one year ago, where it expressed itself favorably toward the government ownership of super-power, and says, "Industry must solve its own problems or we face the alternative of state intrusion which must inevitably lead to bureaucracy and breakdown."

Outside of the ironic situation of the union bureaucracy sitting in the midst of a brokendown labor movement solemnly condemning bureaucracy and breakdown, there are other elements of this report of the executive council deserving of comment.

Particularly in the mining and railroad transportation industries of this country, the system of private and corporate ownership produces limitless chaos in production and ever increasing misery to the workers.

Through private capitalist ownership of the coal mines the non-union fields are being used to break the union in the organized fields for the benefit of the operators in the organized districts who are, unquestionably, in league with and supported by the operators in the non-union fields.

The cry "competition is closing the union mines down" is pure buncombe. The mine operators, union and non-union, are in a conspiracy to wipe out the U. M. W. of A. And John L. Lewis is quite agreeable to this program, or the U. M. W. of A. would do some real fighting for nationalization of the mines.

In the railroads the workers are continually and loudly haranged by the companies, their representatives in congress and their propagandists everywhere, to the effect that the poor corporations are barely making both ends meet and that the starving widows and orphans who have "invested their hard-earned money" simply cannot afford to grant wage increases. Indeed, they can be saved from the poorhouse only by reductions in wages.

Yet who is so simple minded and so unmindful of the the history of how the railroads of this country were built and are maintained as to swallow this piffle of invested capital and poverty? The railroads of America were built at the expense of the public treasury or the public land or both, and were handed over on a platter to bankers of Wall Street. These worthy gentlemen have played with them, ruined them, got the government to repair them at public expense, hand them back and guarantee profits on "re-organized" capitalization with whole oceans of watered stock piled onto the backs of the railway workers. Yet the railroad unions have not only failed to fight for nationalization, they have even given up the mild demand for application of the Plumb Plan.

The Trade Union Educational League has raised the banner in these two basic industries for nationalisation of mines and railroads, providing that such nationalization be undertaken under strict control of competent miners and railroad workers and will exclude bureaucratic commissions of lawyers and capitalist politicians.

It may be that some protest will be made against the retreat in the struggle for nationalization by the A. F. of L. Certainly if the convention at El Paso does not act in favor of nationalization of railroads and mines the workers in these industries will be betrayed once more by the labor bureaucracy.

Britain and Japan

The British government had an alliance with the Mikado up until the time of the Washington conference, when the so-called four power naval pact was agreed to but not carried out. One of the gains made by the United States government thru that conference was the dissolution of the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

That disharmony is taking the place of the former friendly relations between Japan and Britain is growing clearer every day. This was manifested during the active stages of the recent Chinese civil war; it was evident at the opium conference in Geneva last week. Even the traditional Oriental suaveness was not strong enough to camouflage the bitterness existing between the Japanese and British delegates.

The United States and Britain are trying to reach an accord on an anti-Japanese policy. It is not clear how Britain can feel too happy over this development, except insofar as beggars cannot be choosers. The defeat of Japan in the Pacific by the United States will leave the latter in a position of domination. Britain knows that, but the old mistress of the seas is caught in the grip of fate.

The Washington conference was one of the most important steps taken by the United States in its plan to establish its world hegemony. "The Washington government considerately allows Britain to elevate her guns allegedly in violation of the compact. Perhaps these guns may be shooting shells at Japan one of these days. After that if England gets too impudent, the United States can then elevate her guns and make new ones than England can.

The United States is flirting with the British colonies. Australia and New Zealand have a "Japanese problem." The bonds between those colonies and England are made of sand. These colonies are a very important factor in pushing the "Mother Country" into an anti-Japanese alliance with the United States. If Britain does not adopt an anti-Japanese policy, what is to prevent the colonies discovering that the United States was once a colony of Great Britain?

The United States is preparing for the next war. This time it will not be a laggard, coming in at the heel of the hunt. It will be the first in the ring. There is no longer any attempt to hide the purpose of Wall Street's war preparations. Japan is the next victim of this capitalist Moloch. And the unthinking masses will respond even more readily to the slogan of "Down with the yellow peril" than they did to "Down with German militarism," in 1917, when the mountebank Wilson pulled off his mask.

While the capitalists of the United States are getting their battle weapons and their alliances in good order for the fray, Japan is not idle, and the human race will see another international slaughter feast, with the workers of the world the pawns in the game of capitalism.

Against this orgy of murder the cries of pacifists will rise in vain. There is only one power on earth that can stop it and that is the power of labor, consciously organized to abolish capitalism and establish the rule of the workers in its stead. The only organized world movement willing and capable to lead the working class to victory against capitalism, its wars and its attendant horrors is the Communist International.

Capitalist Honesty

A master in chancery handed down a decision that Governor Len Small owes the state of Illinois one million dollars. While that versatile gentleman was treasurer of the state, he lent money to the meat packers at 8 per cent and pocketed the difference between that rate and the 2 per cent paid by the banks to the state for the use of its funds.

That Small is a crook there is no doubt what soever. But what is capitalism anyhow but a crooked system? While the capitalists rob those marked out for robbery, i. e. the workers, their acts are quite ethical. Only when they rob one another or plunder some state institution of capitalism outside the regular way is there a big cry raised. Robbery then becomes a menace to the system, and the law of self-preservation compels the bulwarks of capitalist society to seek punishment for the miscreant who rocks the boat.

This is the milk in the cocoanut of the Small case. His enemies are just as corrupt as he is, but they are more disciplined and rob according to law. At least if they stray beyond the preserves they take care not to get caught.

Charles Gates Dawes, vice-president elect of the United States was implicated with the notorious Lorimer in the operation of a crooked banking business. Even the supreme court found him guilty. Yet he was elected. He helped to rob the poor people who placed their savings in Lorimer's bank.

Albert B. Fall and his criminal associates who are being prosecuted, after a fashion, for selling the naval oil reserves made the mistake of tampering with a capitalist institution. They will not be punished but had they stolen property from the Indians or robbed a savings bank, nothing would have happened to them. They would not be even inconvenienced to the extent of having a warrant served on them.

Former Governor Warren T. McCray of Indiana, got away with millions from the bankers of that state and he is now serving five years in Atlanta, prison. He should have known better than to make too free with his fellow capitalists. That is how it goes. It is well, that the capitalists give such excellent examples of their depravity.

We are not interested in cleaning up capitalist corruption. We leave that Sisyphus task to the socialists and the reformers. We are out to clean up capitalism. Small can plunder the capitalist treasury until he is as rich as a boss bootlegger for all we care.

The workers have nothing to gain from clean capitalist governments. They can only gain from having clean workers' governments. And their job is to get that by first getting rid of capitalism. Soviet Russia has blazoned the way.

Calvin Coolidge is liable to have as much trouble with the next congress as he had with the last. Cal does not trust anybody who is not a millionaire, so he made it known that William Morgan Butler, his campaign manager, would also be his mouthpiece in the senate. The other G. O. P. baby elephants don't like it a bit seeing that William is a newcomer on the scene.

Chief of Police Collins is running true to form these days. He announced that in his opinion the murder of Dean O'Bannion was solved or would be solved within twenty-four hours. That means that he is again normal.

John L. Lewis is reported as having said that he is not going to El Paso with the intention of running against Gompers for the presidency of the American Federation of Labor. Perhaps the pickings are even better in Coolidge's cabinet.

Do the Elections Promise Prosperity?

By ISRAEL AMTER.

"HIGHLY SATISFACTORY," "Wall Street Elated," "Prosperity Ahead," etc. These are some of the expressions appearing in the capitalist dailies indicating the satisfaction of big capital with the results of the elections.

Some workers are inclined to accept the election results as an indication that, if Davis or LaFollette had been elected, a more favorable period for them would have dawned. Other workers labor under the illusion that the elections as such have a tremendous influence on the economic state of the country. And still others, impressed by the big stock boom that followed immediately after the announcement of the election of Coolidge and Dawes, decided that America has embarked upon a new period of prosperity.

Coolidge Bosses' Man.

The contention of the first group of workers reveals that they do not understand the "power behind the throne." The controlling group regarded Coolidge as their man; Davis represented the "Solid South" and a different set of capitalists, but the power of Wall Street is so complete over the country that it would have controlled Davis as well as Coolidge and could block any "progressive" legislation on the part of a democratic congress. In any case, Wall Street did not fear Davis and therefore disregarded him during the election campaign. Nor did it fear LaFollette or his threat to throw the election into the house, for when the bogey of "confiscation" or "socialism" is raised, Wall Street knows that congress is still too "sane" to yield to the temptation of such measures. (See the fiasco of the MacDonald government when in office in England.)

The second group of workers also have the illusion that the elections as such are a powerful factor in determining the future economic condition of the country. During the Wilson regime, a vast unemployment wave swept the country and was inherited by Harding. Harding did not solve the situation; it was solved by the big building plans inaugurated, the increase in exports, the conquest of markets in South America, Canada and the East. This stabilized the market and led to a period of prosperity. The decline of 1923-24, followed by a slight rise in the past summer, and the present renewed decline, owing to the "sitting tight" of capital, are not due to the mismanagement of Coolidge. Economic factors are stronger than Coolidge, for he can only open the channels of government assistance which enable the capitalists to profit more by the economic situation.

Unemployment in 1924.

In the early part of 1924, there was a positive drop in employment, the country seeming upon the verge of an immediate crisis. The condition of the farmers was acute, hundreds of thousands went bankrupt, hundreds of thousands of farm houses were abandoned (and still are), millions of the farming population went to the city. (And even today—Nov. 15—Coolidge announces that his first efforts will be to relieve the "plight of the farmers.")

In the months of September and October, a change took place in the farming situation. There has been a partial failure of crops in other countries: Argentina, Canada, Australia, Roumania, Germany and Soviet Russia cannot supply the world market as before. There was a shortage of grain on the market and the American farmers who reaped big crops this year are benefitting by it. Their buying capacity has increased, according to report, by one billion dollars. This has been heralded as the beginning of a new era of prosperity, if not of a boom.

Now Business is Booming.

Steel production has risen and has now reached the figure of 66 per cent of capacity. Textile mills, especially in New England, which have been idle for months, have opened again. The railways have reached record loadings, due chiefly to the movement of grain. Exports in October attained the high total of $527,000,000, the highest since 1921, leaving a balance of $217,000,000 over imports. This is the highest trade balance since 1919, the year of "prosperity" in which the workers and farmers of the country launched the farmer-labor party.

These are the economic factors that act despite elections and because of their nature this year inclined the voting population to conservatism—to "letting well enough alone," as Mark Hanna said. These factors led to the defeat of Davis and LaFollette—aside from the threats of discharge made to the workers in case they supported the "socialistic schemes" of the progressive movement. The workers and farmers, acting under the good influence of the monetary situation, voted to preserve the status quo.

Boom only Temporary.

The big capitalists of the country were not bothered about the outcome of the elections. They knew the economic condition of the country, and the threat of LaFolletteism did not worry them. In spite of a temporary relief in the farming situation and a slow, slight expansion in industry, they did not predict the dawn of renewed prosperity. On Nov. 3, just before the elections, the New York Annalist published reports from different parts of the country. Detroit: "Local automobile companies as a whole are buying less steel than they were a year ago." Duluth: "I believe industry in general is sitting tight at this time." Kansas City: "There is some hesitancy about booking ahead very far on dry goods lines, and country merchants continue their policy of buying as they need." Detroit: "The industrial barometer of local conditions says election week will open with 2,000 less men employed than was the case the first week in October, and the majority of industries are not hiring men." Against these statements were others indicating increased buying power of the farmers, the opening of the New England textile mills and an increase in the operations of the steel mills. Coal operators, on the other hand, reported lower diggings.

Trade Slows Up Again.

Did the elections alter matters? This is a part of question number 2 and the substance of question number 3. The Annalist of Nov. 3 points out that altho elections have some effect on capitalist investment, insofar as the administration inspires "confidence" or not, nonetheless, the vital element is the economic situation. The department of labor published a report on wages and employment in September, 1924, compared with September, 1923. In 6,400 establishment, 2,219,000 persons were employed in 1923, compared with 1,931,000 persons in 1924, a reduction of 13 per cent. Similarly there was a reduction in the amount of payroll of somewhere over 14 per cent. The Commercial and Financial Chronicle of Nov. 1 states that "there is no denying the fact that trade, after the sharp partial recovery of the late summer, has latterly been slowing up again. . . . No business boom is in prospect."

Conditions Not Better, Says Annalist.

On Nov. 10, after the elections, the Annalist writes: "The two outstanding features of the post-election situation are: First, that the confidence following the election is not based on positive economic changes in the business prospect, but on the failure of an apprehended political change for the worse actually to take place; second, that what are loosely called the 'fundamental conditions,' of business have undergone no change whatever in consequence of the election and have not changed materially from what they were even two or three weeks before." The farmers are not buying much. They are paying the interest on their mortgages and putting the rest by. Those who are buying motor cars, are purchasing used cars. "The fact remains that the increased farm purchasing power from which so much has been expected has so far failed to show itself decisively in increased demand for goods, and there is no other definite area of buying power to which business can turn with clear prospects of greater markets," says the Annalist.

Exports, which are adding considerably to the country's "prosperity," depend upon the outcome of the Dawes plan. Should Germany succeed in obtaining a slice of the world's market, the leading exporting nations, including the United States, will suffer. Should walls be erected to Germany's penetrating the international market, the European markets, which are counting upon their rehabilitation thru the restoration of Germany, will collapse. The expert trade of the United States, which goes chiefly to Europe, will suffer a fearful blow. (These are only the economic effects of the Dawes plan.) These are the external factors militating against economic prosperity in the United States.

Unwary Fleeced.

Disregarding the conservative attitude of the Annalist, wild speculation on the exchange ensued on Nov. 5. Railway and industrial stocks rose with a boom. Millions of shares changed hands every day. On Nov. 13, 2,000,000 shares received new owners. Fifty stocks were at new highs. This was a "boom" such as had not been witnessed since 1901. One occurred in 1920, after the election of Harding. Speculators taking advantage of the vote of "confidence" cast in favor of a candidate proceed to boost the market, and fleece the unwary. For as the Annalist has pointed out "the fundamental conditions of business have undergone no change whatever in consequence of the elections and have not changed materially from what they were even two or three weeks before." There are serious dangers of this inflationary exchange "boom" being followed by a collapse, such as took place in 1920.

The "boom" seemed to be justified by the fact that the railways were placing orders for rails, locomotives and cars, which were held in abeyance pending the outcome of the election. Building plans were held up on the same grounds. Even tho the railways might have feared adverse legislation in case radicals were elected to congress, nevertheless such holding up of orders is also an election maneuver. It is a repetition of the Mark Hanna method of terrorizing the workers into voting the "right" ticket and scratching the "wrong" one, in fear of losing their jobs. The Annalist comes to the conclusion that "in the main, the problems and the prospects of business are precisely what they were before Nov. 4."

Dawes Plan to Cut Our Wages.

In prospect, however, of the Dawes plan and the general offensive of the capitalists against the workers, manufacturers all over the country reiterate the demand for the cutting of wages. With the assurance of the assistance of the reactionary government of Coolidge and Dawes, not only the workers but also the office personnel will have to face the issue of foreign competition. Longer hours and lower wages, and for the office forces in addition a cutting of personnel. As farmers will have to compete with the exportation of more than 1,000,000 tons of Russian grain. Consequently, they are holding tight to their money, thereby removing the only definite area of buying power to which business can turn with clear prospects of greater markets."

Workers should not be fooled by the "boom" which has set in on the stock market. They should not be misled by a change of capitalist administration. The example of Germany even in the hands of the social-democrats, of England in the hands of the labor party, of France in the hands of the radicals, should convince them that capitalism does not depend primarily on "confidence" in their capitalist governments (which even these social-democratic, labor and pseudo-radical governments are), but on sterner economic factors.

And these economic factors today with slight ups and downs, are leading to the permanent doom of capitalism. This will force the workers into struggle against greater exploitation. It will lead them into conflict with the capitalist government, which will use every form of force to crush them. This will lead the unpolitically and less politically minded workers to an understanding of class political action. This is the task—not of a moment, or day, but of the immediate future. This is the prospect not of the German workers alone, but of the American as well. Morgan, Rockefeller and their fellow capitalists will see to that. Coolidge and Dawes will supply the governmental force.

MUSIC & LITERATURE & DRAMA

WOMEN AND THE HUMBLE

Three Federated Press Reviews
By ESTHER LOWELL.

Women and Leisure, Dr. Lorine Pruette's study of social waste, only hints that the focal point of infection of society is, as Veblen has shown, the production-for-profits system. Pruette makes an interesting, serious, scientific sketch of the problem of the so-called new woman who desires other activity than the half-time job of keeping house. She studies the occupations into which women have gone—the less than 50 per cent who are gainfully employed—and asks a group of men their opinion of married women's work.

She finds from questionnaires answered by 347 adolescent middle-class and working girls, that many have ambitions for careers and activities outside of the home. She makes a splendid appeal for freedom to adventure, for tolerance in allowing women to seek new fields of work and new modes of living, escaping the "dogma of the child" which makes the child foremost in all interests of the mother and acts as the "greatest check upon experimentation by women."

True, she sees that a mass of middle-aged married women cannot suddenly be thrown upon the labor market, to fall chiefly into unskilled occupations. She argues for education and social understanding. We certainly can't see the women of the "uppah clawss" forsaking Mah Jong and crossword puzzles for half-time factory jobs and we protest at their efforts to do more "social work" in the charities. Pruette does not suggest higher wages and shorter hours for the millions of women already painfully employed which would permit their dissatisfied idle sisters to work part-time. She ignores the millions of men and women who are unemployed because they cannot get work, however much they want to. She gives a good social study, provocative of thought, even tho she slights the all important economic aspect of the problem. As she says, "Most men and most women must join in the maintenance tasks, but those who can dream of creating a new and better social order, who can believe in their vision enough to dare the dangers which beset every road to adventure must not be stopped by the firing squad."

Women and Leisure, a Study of Social Waste, by Lorine Pruette; E. P. Dutton & Co., New York; $3.

Radio Talks on Women in Industry takes up the task of social education which Pruette's book on Women and Leisure recommends by condensing the radio lectures broadcast by Mary K. Winslow and Mary V. Robinson, of the editorial staff, women's bureau, U. S. department of labor. The subjects cover in a more popular and specific way much of the same topics brought up by Pruette. Standardized higher wages are argued and the discrepancy between wages and cost of living is told. Statistics are made interesting by interspersed personal stories of women in industry and a sympathetic, understanding spirit is encouraged in the audience.

This book and other valuable pamphlets may be obtained free from women's bureau, U. S. department of labor, Washington, D. C., government printing office.

The daily struggle for life of the poorest Negro farmer and his little family on an isolated worked-out plantation is exquisitely and sympathetically told in the stories of Julia Peterkin's little volume, Green Thursday. Killdee's battle with the soil and superstition and ignorance is a tragic epic—cousin to Knut Hamsen's great Growth of the Soil in which nature responds more kindly to the pioneering Isak.

Altho the theme, method and setting are entirely different from Walter F. White's recent powerful novel of the new southern negro, The Fire in the Flint, Mrs. Peterkin's book shows keen and kindly understanding of the older Negro of the more remote plantation districts. Her work gives power and endurance to Killdee and Rose and Maum Hannah and Missie.

Green Thursday, by Julia Peterkin; Alfred A. Knopf, New York; $2.50.

Books at Pre-War Cost.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 19. — The cost of book production by the government publishing house is hardly more than in pre-war times and discounts are made to workers, peasants and teachers. The result of lower book prices, with the improved economic condition of the country, has been a tremendous increase in the book trade. In place of 300 book trading organizations a year ago, there are now 1,100, of which 350 operate in country districts.

Russ Harvest Permits Exports.

MOSCOW, Nov. 19. — The Russian export of agricultural products, in spite of the bad crop failure affecting the southeast, will not be less in value but greater than last year. The grain crop is nine per cent less than last year, tho the acres sown were seven per cent more. The total harvest is estimated at 2,700,000,000 poods (one pood, 36 lbs.) or 240,000,000 less than last year. But the harvest in other crops has increased, especially the crops producing vegetable oil, flax and hemp, cotton, milk, meat and leather. Despite these exports the famine areas will be cared for.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

REVOLUTION AND ACTUALITY

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The seventh chapter is entitled, "Revolution and Actuality."

* * *

LENIN conceived of the revolution as of something that was moving right upon us, and not as something lying in the far-off distance. Because of this he never tired of insisting that we must prepare ourselves daily for the revolution, even politically and technically. The political preparations consisted in training the masses for action thru everyday struggle. Lenin used to say: "The most important thing is to bring the masses in motion, thereby enabling them to accumulate experiences within a short period of time." The revolution confronts us directly with the problem of armed insurrection. And to speak of this without proper technical preparations, is merely to mouth empty phrases. He who wants the revolution must systematically prepare for it the broad masses, who will, in the process of preparation, create the necessary organs of the struggle.

The Menshevika were fond of ridiculing the idea of technical preparations for an armed insurrection. According to their conception the center of gravity would lie in the sphere of propaganda, of arming the minds of the workers. To this Lenin's reply was: "He who refuses technically to prepare for the insurrection ultimately rejects the insurrection itself, and transforms the program of the revolution into an empty phrase."

Altho Lenin knew quite well that revolutions are not made to order, that the success of a revolution demands certain deep-going historical changes, nevertheless he insisted that the problem of the revolution is not only political but also the technical organization of the revolutionary class. A party which does not prepare for the revolution must be considered a discussion club rather than the leader of a revolutionary class. No matter how difficult this problem is, yet all the progressive forces of the working class must be organized in order to solve this problem. Thus we see that for Lenin the revolution was always a concrete problem of the day which at times comes close to us and again moves back into the distance, depending upon the situation and the correlation of forces, but always remains the acute problem of the labor movement.

* * *

Tomorrow — "Proletarian State-manship."

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

LET US ANSWER COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK BY ADDING 2,000 NEW MEMBERS TO THE WORKERS PARTY.

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Vol. II. No. 209. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year; Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year

FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 21, 1924

290

Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Price 3 Cents

LAUNCH DRIVE TO BUILD "DAILY"

Prepare Labor for Next Butchery

YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY NEW HAVEN CONN 12-17-24

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

AMERICAN naval maneuvers in the Pacific are causing uneasiness in Japan. On the arrival of the new United States ambassador in Tokio, the newspapers editorially expressed the wish that the United States would relieve Japanese suspicion of Washington's hostile intentions by calling off the U. S. fleet's proposed war play. News reports say that Ambassador Bancroft was given a cool reception. Perhaps the Japs are living up to the Coolidge slogan.

• • •

TWO Italian deputies, one Fascist, the other just the reverse, fought a duel with swords. The battle lasted fourteen rounds and neither one was hurt. They might have succeeded in scratching each other's ears but for the intervention of a doctor who sent them in two opposite directions. Perhaps the duelists were giving an example of the civilized method of conducting warfare in order to win the support of pacifists for this entertaining form of diversion.

• • •

FRANK L. LOWDEN, former governor of Illinois sprained his foot while getting into a Pullman berth at Savannah, Georgia. Lowden inherited by marriage much of the wealth coined out of the labor of the Pullman Car company's slaves, by his father-in-law. Those who have succeeded in accomplishing the feat of getting into a Pullman berth will understand how the accident might have happened to Lowden, but if curses ever come home to roost, the gentleman is liable to get his neck broken unless he comes to a quick understanding of the fact that all travel is have not plastic spinal columns.

• • •

CARDINAL LOGUE, the primate of Ireland is no more. This news will not cause much weeping in Ireland or elsewhere, for a more bitter reactionary never lived in any country. Logue owed his elevation to the primacy to the British government, which exercises the right of veto on papal promotions in the Irish hierarchy. The cardinal hailed the entrance of England into the European war and urged Irish catholics to join in "the defense of catholic Belgium." But, when the British government threatened to enforce conscription in 1917 and include divinity students in its dragnet, the cardinal protested.

• • •

THERE is an unfounded but widely held assumption that the British government was the foe of the

(Continued on page 6)

WATSON ASSURES COOLIDGE LABOR BOARD REMAINS

President and Senator Discuss Railroads

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Senator James E. Watson, republican of Indiana, today discussed railroad legislation with President Coolidge. He conferred with the president for half an hour and told him he was confident the Howell-Barkley bill to abolish the railroad labor board could be defeated.

The plan to consolidate the railroads into a limited number of major systems was also discussed, Watson said. He expressed the opinion that the railroads could be compelled to consolidate under plans outlined by the interstate commerce commission, in the event they declined voluntarily to accept the consolidation plans.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

TWO CONVICT COAL MINERS DIE AS BLAST WRECKS PIT OF W. VA. "PEN"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Nov. 20.—Prisoners Michael Stony and Will Davis were killed and another convict Dan Willard, suffered probably fatal burns today when a gas explosion wrecked the new shaft of the mine operated by the West Virginia state penitentiary here.

One of the men lighted a match in the shaft and it is believed fire damp ignited from it. The blast occurred eighty feet from the mine opening.

GOMPERS' HAND MOVES MEXICAN REACTIONARIES

C. R. O. M. Imitates A. F. of L.

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 20.—In this city, across the border from El Paso, where the American Federation of Labor is in convention, the agents of Gompers and American imperialism yesterday provoked a shameful episode in the convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor—the C. R. O. M. (Confederacion Regional Obrera Mexicans)—when the whole afternoon was devoted to discussing the credential of a trade union delegate, Alfonso F. Soria, a Communist from Michoacan, and finally expelled him, thus imitating the Portland convention of the A. F. of L. last year in expelling William F. Dunne.

Soria Battles the Machine.

Alfonso F. Soria was not dismayed by the opposition to his right to be seated as a regularly elected delegate from the trade unions of Michoacan.

Faced by the ring of crafty officials of the C. R. O. M., he gave battle from the floor when his expulsion was demanded for "being a Communist."

Knowing quite well that the officials were playing upon the prejudices and fears of hundreds of working class delegates who have no conception of the program of the Communist Party, he spoke time and again in answer to his assailants, giving the viewpoint of the Communist Party and explaining that the right of a Communist to belong to trade unions as do members of other political parties.

Trevino a Liar.

Unfortunately, no one among the delegates rose to the occasion in his defense, and Trevino, secretary of the confederation, launched a vicious and lying attack against the Communist movement. He said that Communists were "bandits" and were responsible for the Fascist rule in Italy and the defeat of the British labor government.

Continuing his slander, Trevino said that the C. R. O. M. "cannot permit the existence of the Communist Party," or, any other labor movement in Mexico, and that "Russia has no right to establish a Communist Party in Mexico." His speech, wildly untrue and ridiculous in assertion as it was, swayed the delegates and upon a show of hands, following Trevino's speech, Soria was expelled.

Opposition Not Allowed to Vote.

Only about two-thirds of the delegates voted and—with true labor faker disregard for opposition, the chairman did not ask to see the hands of those opposed. By this happy solution a unanimous vote was recorded in the minutes before the ones opposing knew what had happened.

WILD RAIDS BY POLICE BRING TEARS TO MANY WORKING CLASS MOTHERS

Tearful mothers, wives and sisters, and irate brothers and fathers crowded the detective bureau and police stations thruout Chicago in frantic efforts to rescue sons, husbands and brothers from among the more than 400 men and boys rounded up by police over the week-end in their drive against gunmen and gangsters, following the murder of Dean O'Bannion. Only a few admitted having been arrested before.

"Insure the Daily Worker for 1925" Is Party's Biggest Task

THE CENTRAL EXECUTIVE OF THE WORKERS PARTY HAS PASSED THIS RESOLUTION:

THE DAILY WORKER is the central organ of our party. Our ability to build the Workers Party into a mass party depends largely on our ability to secure a wide circulation for THE DAILY WORKER.

THE DAILY WORKER is our chief instrument of propaganda and education. We depend upon THE DAILY WORKER more than anything else, not only to increase the membership of our party, but also to knit it together into a unified Bolshevik party.

The establishment of THE DAILY WORKER was for us a victory of the first magnitude. That we have been able to maintain our paper and build it up is a testament to the health of our party. That we have been able to continue for almost a year without having to request additional financial support, while at the same time we have established our own modern printing plant and purchased our own building, is indicative of our sound management.

THE DAILY WORKER is now launching a campaign to "INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925." While THE DAILY WORKER has its own printing plant and building these are not as yet paid for. While THE DAILY WORKER has been an outstanding success it is not yet able to operate without a deficit.

To "INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925" means to insure a steady march forward, a continued victory for our party.

The Workers Party therefore undertakes as one of its principal tasks to support THE DAILY WORKER campaign. It calls upon all Workers Party members and all enlightened workers everywhere to enter into this campaign with all energy and to support THE DAILY WORKER NOW with funds. NOW, AND ALWAYS WITH SUBSCRIPTIONS.

TEACHERS PUT BRAKES ON ANTI-RED DRIVE OF AMERICAN LEGION ALTHO SUPT. McANDREW ISSUES HIS ORDERS

By A TEACHER.

Coming on the heels of bull-dozing instructions and threats from the capitalist educator, Superintendent McAndrew, the teachers in my school received their program of educational week activities in sullen disinterest.

McAndrew is carrying on a strong campaign to mechanicalize teaching in the Chicago public schools. This campaign is calculated to wipe out all expression of individuality both among the teachers and the children.

More and more power and control is being arrogated by the bull-doing superintendent who is backed by the mayor and the school board. The teachers are virtually being terrorized into submitting to the new conditions imposed by McAndrew.

The priciples in their anxiety to curry favor with the superintendent are executing his orders with unquestioning zeal. The Teachers' Federation is doing nothing to curb this growing militarization of the Chicago public schools.

Special meetings have been held in many of the schools in order to launch the "Anti-Red Week." McAndrew has instructed the principals to exact a written report from the teachers as to their work in the drive. The teachers in these schools, however, have done very little to impress upon the children the alleged blessings which the American government and system is conferring upon them, likewise the awful intentions of "the Reds." It seems that McAndrew's actions of late have made them see a little "red" themselves.

FRATERNAL DELEGATES ADDRESS ANNUAL CONCLAVE OF AMERICAN LABOR FAKERS NOW ON AT EL PASO

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 20.—A. B. Swales, one of the two fraternal delegates from England to the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor spoke yesterday to the labor fakers of America. His speech, in part, is as follows:

"This year is one of anniversaries for British labor. It is the diamond jubilee of the labor and socialist international, the centenary of the British trade union movement, the birthday of the labor party and the advent of the first labor government.

Labor Is International.

"The labor movement is not sectional, but international and its industrial and political functions and activities cannot be dissociated.

"The past four years have not been a time for offense, but defense. The workers, since 1921, lost in wage cuts $5,000,000,000 and the unions paid out in unemployment benefits $120,000,000."

"More Unionism—Less Unions."

Swales showed the process of amalgamation now going on. It affects 3,000,000 workers and meetings are now taking place for further fusion. He gave credit to the Trade Union Congress for promoting amalgamation. The English unionists are now holding national campaigns with the slogan: "More unionism and less unions."

"We will see the day," Swales said, "when the hundreds of unions affiliated with the British council will be reduced in number, but will contain all workers under one general council. This is necessary for working class emancipation."

Swales praised the educational features of the British movement which, he claimed, is educating the young men and women to understand

(Continued on Page 2.)

LAY OFF 100,000 BRITISH MINERS

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Over 100,000 union miners in Great Britain are unable to get work.

ASKS A. F. OF L. TO COLLABORATE IN PLANS FOR WAR

Militaristic Scheme Is Coming Up at El Paso

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 20.—That American imperialism is preparing labor for butchery in the next war with—probably Japan, is seen clearly in the most outrageously militaristic scheme to place the labor unions directly in the service of the war department thru a plan of collaboration between the labor bureaucracy and the secretary of war, introduced by the officials of twenty affiliated bodies into the 44th convention of the American Federation of Labor now in session.

Gompers as Under Secretary of War

This amazing resolution is, in full, as follows:

"Resolved, by the American Federation of Labor in national convention assembled at El Paso, Texas, Nov. 17 to 29, 1924, that the Citizens Military Training Camps are deserving of the support of American laboring men and the executive council is authorized and directed to nominate three civilian aides to the secretary of war at large, and one civilian aide in each of the forty-eight states, to co-operate with the government in recruiting candidates for these camps. And be it further

"Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be forwarded to each union affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, to the secretary of war and to the press."

The Decoy Ducks

The above resolution is signed by Britton of the Metal Polishers, Berry of the Pressman, Reddick of the Book Binders, Holland of the New York State Federation, Hannah of the Curb Stone Pavers, O'Connell of the Metal Department, Baker of the Barbers, Healy of the Firemen and Oilers, Hines of the Sheet Metal Workers, Collins of the Tunnel Constructors, Canavan of the Stage Employes, Weber and Weaver of the Musicians, Kennedy of the Chicago Federation of Labor, Frey of the Molders, Ledvinka of the Ohio Federation, Marshall of the Horse Shoers, Lunnmert and Hedrick of the Painters, McCullough of the Typographical Union, Raleigh and Fitzgerald of the Street Railway Employes and Doyle of the United Garment Workers.

Will Unions Fall For It?

This unprecedented bid for class collaboration with the very department of the capitalist government which turns its bayonets against organized labor in strike it, as is noted, to be "sent to all affiliated unions." Will they approve or repudiate it?

HUNT ISADORE GLASER WHO LEFT HOME NOV. 1 IN LONG HUNT FOR JOB

Isadore Glaser, reader of the Young Worker and the DAILY WORKER, has been unaccountably missing from his home since Saturday morning, Nov. 1. Glaser, who is 19 years old, was out of employment. He told his mother he was going downtown to look for work, and never came back. Nothing has been heard of him since.

Isadore's mother is seriously ill, and anyone hearing of the whereabouts of the missing youth is requested to address a letter to 2406 Hirsch Boulevard.

Isadore's father dropped out of the socialist party at the time of the split. He is sympathetic to the Communist movement.

CAMPAIGN STARTS TO ENLIST ALL COMMUNISTS TO MAKE "THE DAILY" SAFE FOR NEXT YEAR

By ALFRED WAGENKNECHT
Campaign Director of THE DAILY WORKER.

It was an historic achievement of tremendous significance, when, upon January 13 of this year, the DAILY WORKER made its first appearance.

The announcement that an English Communist daily would be published, the first in its language in the world, electrified the Workers Party membership and all militants.

Then came greetings from the workers of Europe—encouraging hands, reaching across the sea, congratulating the advance guard of the American working class upon the advent of this new weapon in the battle.

The Spokesman of the Party.

For the first week the eyes of revolutionary labor of the world were upon us, for the DAILY WORKER was a new recruit. We were to augment the ranks of the hundreds of red dailies in their day by day fight with the world imperialists.

Then came a message from Moscow, from the Communist International. It pointed out the tasks ahead, the fertility of the field in which our "Daily" would flourish. Significantly the message closed with these words: "The DAILY WORKER must be the organ of the WHOLE membership of the party."

All Must Support "The Daily."

This command could mean but one thing. It could only mean that every Finnish, Polish, Roumanian, Scandinavian, Lettish, German, Esthonian, Bulgarian Armenian, Ukrainian, South Slavic, Russian, Lithuanian, Jewish, Italian, Hungarian, Czechoslovak, Greek and English speaking comrade was bound to make his first duty the earnest support of the DAILY WORKER.

These comrades did build the DAILY WORKER. They gave it the money that made it possible to buy a DAILY WORKER home. They gave it the finances for its printing plant.

No Call for Help.

But this giving took place a year ago. The first call to subscribe to the fund to establish "The Daily" was made about Sept. 1, 1923. From that time to this not a single call for help has been made.

During this year we did not ask for funds, but we did ask all militants to double and treble the list of readers. And treble the subscription list they did. The DAILY WORKER today has three times as many subscribers as it had upon January 13, the date of the first issue.

Approach the Second Year.

We approach the second year of the existance of the daily. A year of propaganda broadsides against the capitalists of this country, of exposes of their maneuvers and falsehoods, a year of conscientious support of the workers and poor farmers is before us. The year before us must be made twice as effective for the triumph of the workers, for the defeat of the imperialists, as the year gone by.

Our future possibilities have been surveyed. The management of the DAILY WORKER understands its responsibility. Therefore it knows today exactly what we all must do, if the DAILY WORKER is to be made safe and a more effective instrument for 1925!

Insure "The Daily" for 1925!

INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925 is the slogan which has been broadcasted from coast to coast. Insure the life of "The Daily." Make it secure against the future. Keep it out of danger. Kick every burden that today impedes its progress out of the way.

This campaign to make "The Daily" safe for the coming year is to be a campaign of giving. You gave a year ago to establish it. You are to give today to keep it and build it. The campaign will go forward upon books of policies, insurance policies, sent to every party branch. The policy of every member must be to buy a policy.

"Daily" Trebles Strength.

The DAILY WORKER in three times as strong today as upon the date of its birth. But it is weighted down with financial burdens which must be met. It came to fight and it fights today with blows that are much more discerning and aptly placed upon the solar plexus of the plunder-bund.

Today, at once, every one of us must rally to its assistance. Upon our shoulders, upon the shoulders of every one of the 25,000 members of the Workers Party we must now lift this organ of our class and give it a mighty push forward.

JUNIOR GROUPS LOCKED OUT OF MEETING HALL

Teacher Sends "Dicks" to Spy on Children

Six department of justice detectives, two teachers and the owner of Emmet Memorial Hall locked 150 children out of the hall at 2177 Ogden Ave., who were trying to attend a mass meeting of the junior groups of the Young Workers League to protest against "Education Week."

Forced to Leave Hall.

Comrade Minnie Lurye, who had charge of the meeting, was given her money back and forced to leave the hall, and several Young Workers League members with Comrade Lurye were thrown bodily out into the street. Comrade Lurye addressed the children from a soap box and arranged for another mass meeting this Sunday.

While Comrade Lurye was demanding to know why the junior group meeting was being broken up, the children, mostly students at the Krieger school, were pounding on the doors demanding admittance. It was learned that Miss Mary E. Tobin, principal of the Krieger school, whose mismanagement was responsible for the Krieger school strike, was largely responsible for sending her teachers and the dectectives to spy on the children.

O'Brien, who had allowed the I. W. W. to hold a convention in Emmet Memorial Hall for over five weeks, told Miss Lurye, "Get to hell out of here with your dirty money. I didn't know what kind of an organization it was or I wouldn't have rented the hall." The Mid-City branch which meets in Emment Memorial Hall every other Thursday, is now considering moving to another meeting place.

Speaks to Children From Soap Box.

Comrade Lurye explained to the children waiting outside the aims and purposes of the junior groups, and told them why the teachers and the Coolidge administration is against the Communists. The teachers and detectives listened while she addressed the children from the soap box.

The defectives charged that the children had broken up the furniture in the hall, in spite of the fact that they had not even been admitted to the building. O'Brien claimed he had not known that children were to attend the meeting, altho he was told this by Miss Lurye in the presence of witnesses. The only violence in evidence

(Continued on Page 2.)

GRAIN BARGE TAKES REST ON RIVER TUNNEL AND HOLDS UP BRIDGE

Traffic over Washington St., one of the main arteries into the loop was suspended today pending the arrival of high power tugs to move the huge grain barge, Constitution, stranded with its bow over the Washington St. tunnel since Yesterday afternoon. Its position prevents lowering of the Washington St. jackknife bridge which carries street car and vehicular traffic. The barge, owned by the Pringle Barge Line Co., Fairport, Ohio, is carrying 256,000 bushels of wheat.

LEWIS CROWD IS HAND IN GLOVE WITH THE KLAN

Still They Meet With Disastrous Defeat

(Special to The Daily Worker)

HOUSTON, Pa., Nov. 20.—The United Mine Workers of America, District 5, officials, if not members themselves of the murderous Ku Klux Klan, are working hand in glove with these Fascists against the Communists and other progressives. But in one instance they have met with disastrous defeat.

Try to Expel Communist.

This was in the attempt to expel Andrew Harmison, progressive candidate of the miners, and thus to get his name off the ballot.

Over a year ago, while a member of Meadowland Local No. 1829, Andrew Harmison had his back broken in the Meadowland mine. But while a member working with the other coal diggers he won the majority of the local membership to the progressive cause and this riled the reactionaries. But the Meadowland miners elected Comrade Harmison to the Indianapolis convention as their delegate.

Take Advantage of Cripple.

While at Indianapolis, Comrade Harmison fought the Lewis machine, and when he came back and had to re-enter the hospital, the financial secretary of the Meadowland local, who is a member of the Klan, made a motion in the local while Comrade Harmison was still in the hospital to expel him "because he is a self-admitted Communist." Notice was served upon Harmison in the hospital to appear to answer charges as soon as possible.

Two days after the framed-up farce of a "trial" at the Pittsburgh district office, the travelling auditor, George Fenton, and the Kluxer financial secretary of Meadowland Local 1829 came over to the house of the financial secretary of Local 1724 and asked him to turn over Comrade Harmison's card. When he balked at doing this and asked, "What'll I tell Andy when he comes after his card?" Fenton said: "Tell him it is void!"

Licks Gang Unanimously.

This shows how desperate the gang in District 5 is getting to throw the progressives off the ballot. If they could have gotten Harmison's card, they would have destroyed it and he would have had no proof of this membership. But the gang didn't know.

On Thursday, Comrade Harmison finally was able to appear for "trial" before the Meadowland local. And the crooks and fakers and Kluxers caught hell in particular. Dobbins and Fenton were in the meeting and had to take water. Harmison talked for an hour exposing their crookedness.

The only excuse Fenton could rake up for trying to get hold of Comrade Harmison's card was that he was "just going to bring the card to the local until the charges were disposed of." This sounded pretty thin to the coal diggers and by a unanimous vote the charges against Comrade Harmison were dismissed.

Kluxer's Flowers to Dead Boss.

Immediately a progressive miner preferred charges against the Kluxer financial secretary of Meadowland for his conspiracy to frame up Andrew Harmison. This will be acted upon at the next meeting and the Klansman is likely to get it in the neck as he has the coal diggers hating his guts for sending a $10.00 bunch of flowers in the name of the local when a coal operator died.

At this meeting Pat H. Toohey, another candidate of the progressive miners also took the floor and the officials did not dare reply. Fenton, Dobbins and Board Member Hughes are members of this local and by the unanimous vote in favor of Comrade Harmison are practically repudiated by it.

In their speeches, Toohey and Harmison both asserted that they were Communists and proud of it, and were applauded when they told of Communist principles. It was quite rich to see the three fakers have to sit still and swallow their rage.

Pat Toohey has been nominated by more than thirty locals in the district.

Harmison Not Afraid of Scrap.

Harmison is the man who was refused his citizenship papers in 1923 after he created a sensation in the court by asserting that he was a Communist, believed in revolution and thought that Lenin and Trotsky were two of the greatest men who ever lived. The Ku Kluxers threatened to lynch him at that time, but he told them to come and try it, and they decided he was too willing.

It is somewhat funny to read in the papers about the Klan wanting to "clean up the mining camps" when Board Member Hughes, who is working with the Klan, is a bartender for the Elks club in Cannonsburg and draws a regular salary from them, and in addition rakes off his salary as union officer and a padded expense account besides. No wonder these birds fight for their jobs and try to stop progressive miners running against them.

Gangland's Pistols Crack Again After Killing of O'Banion

Gangland's pistols, muted since the murder of Dean O'Banion and the attendant increased vigilance of the police to avert a possible gang war, spat death again today after another victim had been "taken for a ride."

The body, bearing three bullet wounds, was found slumped in an alley where, police believe, it had been hurled from an automobile in which the man had been killed. Nearby, police found another man dying from a fractured skull.

The dead man was identified as Genaro Panilla.

At a hospital, the other victim refused to reveal his identity. Dying, he adhered to the gangland's code—silence.

"My friends will take care of this," he murmured and lapsed into unconsciousness.

The body of the slain man was identified by Mrs. Louis Parillo, 921 S. Loomis street, as that of her husband's brother-in-law. He was a "man of mystery," according to the Parillos, and they did not even know where he lived. His wife was said to be in Elgin and the Parillos thought he had a brother living in Gary.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

UNITED STATES GETS NO REQUEST TO GAG IBANEZ ON ALPHONSE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—No request has been received by the United States from the Spanish government to prevent the publication of "Alphonse XIII Unmasked," Blasco Ibanez's attack on the king of Spain, it was said at the state department.

This government could not stop the publication of Ibanez's works anyway, save by court injunction, and that is considered improbable.

BRITISH PLAN NEW ATROCITIES TO COW THE NATIVES OF EGYPT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Premier Stanley Baldwin and Lieutenant Colonel Amery conferred today regarding the Egyptian situation and the attempted assassination of Sir Lee Stack. They decided, it is understood, to dispatch a stern note to Egypt, charging the Egyptian government with raising the Sudan question and in this manner incurring indirect responsibility for the attack on Stack.

IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE

The DAILY WORKER Magazine Section

SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22

1. Recent Changes in China.....By A. Jone
2. Campaigning for Communism.....By Wm. Z. Foster
3. Negroes and the Caste System.....By Gordon Owens
4. American Intervention in Europe.....By I. Stalin
5. Gompers Makes a Move to Block the Unity of the International Trade Union Movement.....By Alexander Bittelman
6. Leader of the Junior Groups.....By Max Shachtman
7. The Crisis in Italy Is Ripening.....By Ruggiero Grieco
8. Letters from Moscow.....By Anna Porter
9. Red Soldier's Manual.....By Leon Trotsky
10. The Shop Nuclei—A Need Now.....By Martin Abern

And Other Interesting Articles

VERSE PICTURES ILLUSTRATIONS

ORDER NOW!

THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

MORGAN ALLY IN GERMANY GIVES VIEWS TO A.F.L.

Confesses His Fear of the Communists

(Continued from Page 1.)

the present system of society, the causes of unemployment, forced emigration, poverty and wars. These young workers will be the future leaders in the struggle for emancipation.

"Helped Germans," Say Swales.

The English unions, asserted Swales, had helped the German workers against the lengthening of the work day. They had not confined themselves to defense in international activities. They helped initiate movements, not the least being the present world-wide campaign against war.

"Our hatred for war," said Swales, "must be translated into action and practice. We must have international solidarity of the workers of the whole world.

A Fat Chance for This Hope.

In spite of the "non-partisan" report of the excutive council of the A. F. of L., Swales expressed a hope that the American labor movement will soon be as well organized politically as they are industrially. It was a great achievement, according to Swales, to put in place of lords and dukes, lawyers and captains of industry, miners, railwaymen, machinists, ironworkers and other men of "honest toil."

"Like all countries," he said, "we in England have our militant section, our extremists. In some countries they caused a split. In Britain there was no split. We have met abuse sometimes, and discipline was upset. But only good comes from this new blood. Most of my colleagues were young firebrands, but responsibility has sobered them down. I hope to remain a rebel against present day society.

Opposes Expulsion of "Extremists."

"Instead of expelling these young people," said Swales, "we allow them to come in and take their share in the movement. To expel them plays the employers' game, and would have hopelessly divided us."

Russian Workers Like Ourselves.

"At the Vienna Trade Union Congress," said Swales, "we decided to make an effort to bring the Russian trade unions into the International Federation of Trade Unions. We have nothing to fear from Russia. They are workers like ourselves. I have faith that they will solve their problems We are coming together, not for Bolshevism, but for brotherhood."

Cramp Bellyaches at Communists.

C. T. Cramp, the other English delegate, bore out his name, after a brief laudation of the "labor" movement and the "budget" of Phil Snowden, he launched into a bitter attack on the British Communist Party, saying that the Communists promote strikes that end in defeat, cause disruption, that workers detest them, that if the ideal of the British Communists were achieved, "The world would be a human wilderness and brute law would rule." He did not state what can be would occupy in such a menagerie nor mention the "brute law" of calling out troops by MacDonald to break the tramway strike.

However, Communism was "rapidly fading," asserted Cramp, and he urged recognition of Russia, because it was a problem of all western races. He said: "You cannot put a fence around Russia."

As One Faker to Another.

Feeling himself in congenial company, Cramp spoke unrestrainedly, as one labor faker to another. He said that the Russian workers "were debased" by the czar's bloody suppression, that those who use brute force can expect to be crushed by brute force, that it is a servile mentality that worships a dictatorship, that revolution, in order to justify itself, must make national wellbeing and freedom, that Russia had not fulfilled this, whatever it may do in the future. We can accept friendly relationship, but not dictatorship, he said.

Cramp was not under fire as he was at the British Trades Union Congress when it was visited by Tomsky and other of the delegates from the Russian unions. There he was compelled to be cautious, and when he ventured as far as speaking of the "mistakes" of the Bolsheviks, Tomsky replied, "Yes, we Russians make mistakes. No one is more aware of it than the Russians themselves, but then you know angels do not make revolutions."

Patriotism's "Finer Feelings."

Cramp expressed himself as "against war," as all labor fakers do, but urged action before war, because "patriotism has its finer feelings" and carried the day. It was too late when the bugle blew.

German Delegate Speaks.

Peter Grassman, the agent of Stinnes, industrial king of Germany, was a perfect type to represent the social democratic traitors of German labor bureaucracy at the gathering of Gompers and company. He praised Gompers' "noble assistance" for sending of money from America to pay the salary of German union bureaucrats when they were bankrupt because of the combined inflation of the mark and the desertion by the workers of the trade unions. The money had helped Grassman to carry on the expulsion fight against the Communists, therefore, Grassman thanked Gompers.

No Remedy for Sharp Struggle.

Grassman warned that sharp struggle is now commencing between the workers and the employers. According to him, "only fools believe that capitalism has been weakened by the world war." He says, "On the contrary, in all countries the advance of the labor movement is coming to a standstill. But self-preservation will force the toilers of the world to unite."

Grassman said, "The most powerful economic nation cannot live for long in isolation from the others," evidently speaking of America. "How much truer that is of the working class. A defeat for the workers in one country concerns all others. We must look to the future in order to control it. We stretch our hands to the American workers and would be glad if you would shake hands with us."

"Greedy" Workers to Blame.

Grassman blamed the loss in trade union membership to the "greediness" of new members taken in during 1918. These, so he said, wanted a thousand per cent interest on dues paid. When it was clear that it was useless to alter political conditions than to change the economic order, these people lost patience and followed the loudest agitator. He did not say that the German social-democracy, of which he is a leading member in the relichstag, had promised the German workers "socialization" and then betrayed that promise by even giving the government railroads into private hands under the Dawes' plan.

Grassman, instead, blames "Moscow." "Moscow" financed Communist propaganda because it hated trade union leaders and wanted to make the trade unions an instrument for the political purposes of Moscow dictators and make Germany a Bolshevist state. But they failed." He did not add that the German workers had small choice in the matter, since his socialist party shot them down when they attempted to set up a Soviet. Nor did he explain that this "failure" of the Bolsheviks opened the way for the enslavement of German labor under the Dawes' plan.

Advocates Hope Diet.

"Communism is a mental disease," Grassman asserted, which probably explains the immunity of Gompers and company. "This disease disappears when we can have hopes for the future, therefore, we Germans accepted the Dawes' plan as the only way out." He did not say how long the German workers were expected to live on hopes, nor that a Soviet revolution was another "way out."

Grassman was so proud that he was the "only expert" that Dawes called in to speak for German labor. He said that the eight-hour law in the German constitution which the Dawes' plan is forcing Germany to repeal didn't amount to much anyhow, that laws can only be enforced by strong organizations and that in this respect the unions were now accumulating funds and had started a "labor bank."

Will Fight for Low Wages.

Grassman said that altho wages are from 35 to 40 per cent below the pre-war scale, still there are tested union men who will fight to keep these conditions because it is called a "democratic republic" instead of a dictatorship."

Gompers' Agent Misrepresents Mexico

Haberman, one of the lick-spittle "radicals" who successfully made career for themselves in the young labor movements of Mexico by acting as Gompers' messengers, spoke for the Mexican federation. He invited the delegates to the inauguration of Calles, at the expense of the Mexican government.

Calles, he said, was elected by organized labor and that Obregon and Calles both were members of the Machinists' Union. He painted a bright picture of labor in Mexico, where he says, they have the eight-hour day and no injunctions. He warned that Americans should not be proud of their big trusts, that Americans wanted to own things, while Mexicans wanted to live life. "American capital is imperialist in Mexico," he added, always with a sharp eye to keep the Mexican workers satisfied with words.

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION REJECTS RESOLUTION URGING AMALGAMATION

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas.—The resolution introduced by the Amalgamated Association of Iron Steel and Tin Workers, calling for an industrial union in the steel mills to be supported by the A. F. of L., was defeated unanimously without discussion.

Andy Furuseth of the Seamen's Union, introduced a resolution against the use of the army or navy for the collection of foreign investments.

A resolution introduced by Major George L. Berry, asks the endorsement of the American Legion, probably as the best strikebreakers outside of the officials of the Pressmen's Union.

The Molders' Union has introduced a resolution asking by petition of the governor of Texas, the release of Rangel, Cline, Olivares, Gonzales, Vasquez and Perales.

Class Lines Divide the Vote of Germans in U. S. and Berger Is Worried

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, many echoes are still to be heard, reverberating different reactions caused by the results of the recent election. Some little additional attention must be given to the lamentations of the lone socialist congressman, Victor L. Berger, editor of the Milwaukee Leader.

Berger feels, and he feels it strongly, that he has not only been double-crossed by the LaFollette forces, but that large hosts of Germans have also given him the thumb-to-nose treatment.

• • • • •

Quite a number of German sheets over the land surrendered to the Coolidge treasury in the recent campaign. The Cincinnati Freie Presse and the Omaha Tribuene are conspicuous examples. "The Progressive," an organ of the German Steuben Society, that endorsed LaFollette, refers to this sell-out as one of the "Humorous Phases of the Campaign." But Berger comes to bat strongly with the declaration that, "We can see nothing humorous in such trades."

• • • • •

Berger laments the lack of coherence in the forces that go to make up the Steuben Society. He especially attacks one of its leaders in Milwaukee, who failed of nomination for congress as a "progressive," and therefore went over to the Coolidge camp.

• • • • •

Berger's socialist education has taught him nothing. Because the United States made war on Germany in 1917-18, he expects the Germans in the United States to vote as a block against the two Wall Street parties. He can see no class divisions separating German workers, small business men and big capitalists in the United States. He creates the myth of "the German bloc"; that perhaps did exist, in greater or less extent, during the war.

• • • • •

Berger continues his illusion by proclaiming that he is a "sincere friend of Germany and the German people." He says he is "an absolute and implacable enemy of the hellish pact of Versailles." But it was his friends of the Second (Socialist) International who helped frame the Treaty of Versailles.

Berger has forgotten, at least in the article from which we quote, his hostility to the Dawes Plan. It may be that he has discovered that the German social-democracy is in favor of the Morgan-Dawes plan, along with the socialists of other countries.

• • • • •

Communists can easily understand Berger's hopeless position in the camp of the middle class enemies of labor. They are willing to accept and exploit his treason to the workers. But they certainly will not help him get socialist votes, or build even a socialist organization, except where it redounds to their immediate benefit.

The Germany that Berger defends is the Germany of the German capitalists, supported by German socialists. These are the German capitalists in league with the capitalists of France, England and the United States for the enslavement of the German workers.

• • • • •

Class interests are greater than any allegiance to race, color or nationality. Moneyed Germans in the United States; capitalists in industry and the wealthy farmers on the land supported Coolidge. Some middle class elements went to LaFollette. That stripped Berger's socialist ranks pretty clean; especially in view of the fact that class conscious German workers and bitterly oppressed farmers turned to the Communists.

• • • • •

The complete bankruptcy of Berger's socialist party is thus revealed once more in the confession of the Milwaukee congressman. The socialist organization evaporates with the phantom results gained by the socialist appeal to middle class support.

Only the Communists, as this situation clearly reveals, carry on the class fight against capitalism. The Workers (Communist) Party makes its direct and exclusive appeal to the exploited workers in industry and the poor farmers on the land. The socialists desert the class fight against labor's enemies in every crisis. Communists utilize every crisis to rally the workers and farmers for a renewed and increasing struggle to end the capitalist social order.

GOMPERS REPORTED GREATLY UPSET BY MENTION OF INTERNATIONALISM

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 20.—The speech of fraternal delegate A. B. Swales, Chairman of the British Trades Union Congress, advocating admission of Russian unions to Amsterdam, has greatly upset the equanimity of Samuel Gompers.

Gompers Going to Amsterdam.

Gompers is trying, as reported in the DAILY WORKER of Tuesday, to force the Amsterdam international to lay aside all pretense of revolutionary struggle and to refuse admission to the Russian unions, in order to obtain affiliation by the A. F. of L. so that Gompers may control European unionism for American imperialists.

Swales' Speech for Unity.

Swales, in his speech said that British workers had no fear of Russian workers, and that "at Vienna (the recent meeting of the Amsterdam International) we decided to make an effort to bring the Russian trade unions into the International."

Sam "Vexed"—May Reply.

Those close to Gompers report that he is "vexed" at the suggestion that the Russian trade unions be invited to join the Amsterdam International, and is likely to make public reply to the suggestion. Gompers leads the fight against any relations with Russia in the labor movement and is a faithful follower of the policy of bitter hatred of Soviet Russia practiced by the capitalist government of the United States.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Cleveland Attention!

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 20. — A Bohemian Workers Party was lately organized in this city and energetic work is being conducted for more propaganda and better education among Bohemian workers. If you know any Bohemian, workers who sympathize with our movement or who are Communists get them to join their section or send their names to the brach secertary, Anthony Halamck, 3292 E. 66th street. Communists in thot cannot do the work Communists in action can do. Respond to this call. Join up.

N.Y. TAG DRIVE FOR STRIKERS BEGINS NOV. 22

Raise Relief Funds for Paterson Silk Workers

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 20.—On Saturday and Sunday the United Council of Working-women, together with all women of the Workers Party, will conduct a tag day here to collect funds for the Paterson strikers.

This tag day must be made a tremendous success for the very lives of the strikers depend upon the funds collected to keep them and their families in food.

Women and Children Hungry.

The Paterson strikers are waging a heroic struggle with their bosses in an effort to better their living conditions. They have been beaten up. Many had to be sent to the hospitals so badly have they been wounded by the thugs employed by the bosses. The capitalist courts and judges always on the side of the bosses have made an exception in this strike only insofar as they have been more ruthless in their persecution of the strikers. Hundreds of them have been sent to jail. The women and children of the Paterson strikers are hungry and cold.

Respond to the Call of Your Class.

You, as a member of the working class should heed the call of the women and children of Paterson. No matter how little time you have you must set aside a few hours at the very least for this important task before the women of New York City during these two days. Every woman comrade and sympathiser report at Jimmy Higgins Bookshop, 137 University place, to sign up for your station. Help put this tag day over big.

Junior Groups of Y. W. L. Locked Out Of Meeting Hall

(Continued from page 1)

was not on the part of the children, but of the detectives, who treated the Young Workers League members present roughly.

Call Children of Workers Dirty.

One of the teachers sent to spy on the pupils told Miss Larrys, "We couldn't think of admitting such dirty children into the hall." The children of this neighborhood are mostly Italians, sons and daughters of workers. The police are helping them learn the truth about their class as well as gaining social activity.

The detectives tried to find out "where the central office of the Young Workers League is." They were advised if they wanted to find out they should subscribe to the DAILY WORKER.

Two boys in the crowd admitted they had been sent by Miss Tobin to spy on the activities of the children and report back to her. They were afraid Miss Tobin would persecute them if they did not obey.

Meetings of the Junior groups held at 3332 Douglas Blvd., and 2721 Hirsch Blvd., were uninterrupted. At both meetings many new members were admitted into the junior groups.

Death of Lutheran Minister's Wife Still Held to Be Suicide

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Nov. 20.—Investigation into the mysterious circumstances attending the death of Mrs. C. V. Sheatsley, 50, wife of a prominent local Lutheran minister was transferred today from the scene of the tragedy here to Paris, Ohio, Mrs. Sheatsley's girlhood home.

County Prosecutor King, a detective and stenographer were to leave here this morning for Paris. There they will interrogate relatives of the dead woman, hoping they will be able to furnish some thread which may help in clearing up the mystery of Mrs. Sheatsley's death.

Would Suppress Anti-Small Report

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 20.—Motion to suppress the report in which Master in Chancery C. G. Briggs recommended that Gov. Len Small be ordered to give an accounting on state interest money was filed in Sangamon county circuit court here today by Werner Schroeder, attorney for the governor. A counter affidavit was filed by Clarence Board, assistant attorney general.

LENIN MEMORIAL DAY

WORKERS PARTY, District No. 2, will hold a Memorial Meeting at Madison Square Garden, February 1, at 2 p. m. All party organizations and all workers' organizations are requested not to arrange conflicting affairs.

Executive Committee,
Workers Party, District No. 2.

LET'S COVER THEIR YELLOW WITH RED!

Listen, Comrade--- We know what we've got to do. We've got to do something right at once, which will so interest you in this BIG PAGE that you will not only read it to the very end, but read it twice.

We could step on your toe. Or sit on your hat. Or do something equally vaudevillish to attract your attention. But instead, we are going to tell you a good story.

Once upon a time there was a splendid bull. His calling was bull-fighting. Once each week this beast would ferociously dash into the arena, become infuriated because of the red capes the matadors or toreadors would fling into his face, dash hither and thither in frenzy, just like a mad bull would.

One day the bull fighters hit upon a bright idea. Said they—If in this mottled yellow arena the bull gets as mad as he does at the bit of red we stick under his nose, why not set him aflame with fury by covering everything with a coat of red?

This they did. Came the day for the next bull-fight. With a thundering roar the frenzied animal came tearing out of the enclosure.

He rushed to the right! He surged to the left!

Forward he dashed and backward he backed!

Then, suddenly, he pulled up short, overwhelmed with the expanse of red that enveloped him!

Bewildered, overcome, frustrated, defeated—the bull sat down and munched a daisy!

There are bull-fights, there are prize-fights. There are all kinds of battles and contests. The one we are in is called the class struggle. It towers over the rest like the Woolworth building over a chicken-coop—and then some.

We fight the yellow press. We fight the yellow politicians. We fight the entire expanse yellow capitalism flourishes in. Splash a bit of red upon this expanse of yellow and the beast goes mad. The struggle intensifies. We must look to our weapons to make sure they are perfect. We must look to our entrenchments to make sure they are invulnerable.

Comes then the day when the workers will have painted the entire world arena red. That will make what's left of the old bull so dizzy he won't know whether he is on the hoof or hamburger. We doubt if, upon that day, the beast will assume a sitting posture. And if it does, we know it's not going to munch daisies in the little time left it to ponder its defeat.

Thistles for the bull!

* * * *

That's our job. Covering their yellow with a coat of red! We began the work years ago. Hundreds of thousands of proletarians, masses of them in every country of the world, are at the task. One big country has been completely covered. Every country has its crimson outposts and citadels.

And here? No brighter splash of red was ever flung into the face of our enemy, the strongest foe of all, than when, about a year ago, THE FIRST ENGLISH COMMUNIST DAILY PAPER IN THE WORLD WAS BORN IN CHICAGO—THE DAILY WORKER!

Insure The Daily Worker for 1925

Everything that is born does not live! Myriads of fish and insects never see a second day of life. And hundreds of labor papers have been born that never get strong enough to walk. No revolutionary labor paper will ever celebrate its first anniversary if it does not have in back of it the invigorating, sustaining hand of a determined, vital, red proletariat.

When the DAILY WORKER was born, it looked a pretty naked proposition. No home. No printing press. Nowhere to lay its head. A little purse had been presented to it by the workers who wanted it. Not a big purse—and many conjectured at the time, wondering how long life would be sustained in our daily with the funds at hand.

But with the purse went lots of backbone and grit. With this small purse we purchased. And today? Well, take a trip with us up Washington Boulevard.

We stop before a four-story stone front building, the highest in the block. Looks imposing. We enter. At once we find ourselves in a nest of linotype machines, six steel monsters that clink and buzz and reach and arrange, building words and sentences and articles which are used to paint the country red.

We pass the stones and the busy make-ready crew and there, in a whir of wheels, in rythmic motion, four presses pile ceiling high hundreds of thousands and added hundreds of thousands of leaflets, pamphlets, papers—every one a challenge to capitalism, every one a tonic to the working class.

Below the stereotypers. Above the bindery, the editorial rooms, the business offices. And the national office of the party, the many federation secretaries, the Young Workers League, the Trade Union Educational League, editorial rooms of other party papers—a beehive of activity, a monumental enterprise for which 40 typewriters, from early morning until late at night, sing hundreds of variations of our iron will to win.

This is 1113 West Washington Boulevard. The building, ours. The machinery, ours. Telling our story to the workers. Hitting straight from the shoulder at capitalism. Day by day, covering its yellow with more and more of our red.

We have built. For nearly a year we have painstakingly fashioned a weapon every component part of which we tested and proved. Expenses—down to the bare bone. Service to the working class—absolute maximum. Attacks upon the enemy—the limit. For nearly a year we have labored unceasingly with a big bucket of red paint in one hand, and a large-sized brush in the other.

IN ALL THIS TIME WE HAVE NOT SENT OUT A SINGLE CALL FOR HELP!

Up to now we've made ends meet. The DAILY WORKER BUILDERS made ends meet—these thousands of subscription hustlers, who stood ready at all times to lend a hand in erecting our revolutionary beacon—the DAILY WORKER. It was their subscriptions that hit the wolf on the nose, every time he threatened us. It was this money that continued the DAILY WORKER a two-fisted fighter. We know the worth of the BUILDERS. They must be brought into closer touch with us. They must be organized. Their number must be increased.

BUT NOW WE CALL FOR HELP!

An EXTRA problem faces us. What confronts us this day can only be overcome by ALL OF US—TOGETHER! There are financial obligations to meet. There is a year to look forward to!

We must go into 1925 well shod and armoured. The burden that impedes our progress must be kicked out of the way. We must give the DAILY WORKER a running start for 1925 which will take it through the year without a hitch and which will make it end the year twice the power it is today.

For the first time in history a worker's daily has lived a year without subsidy or a call for funds. This is an accomplishment. YOUR accomplishment. Now the decision has been made to place every last one of the 25,000 members of the Workers Party, every friend of the DAILY WORKER full square in back of it, lift it right over the rough road under foot, and speed it down the highway ahead to victory.

VICTORY! That's what we are after. If we expect to win then the DAILY WORKER must live and prosper. Victory and the DAILY WORKER are inseparable, bound up with each other. The daily AND victory or—nothing. It should be easy to choose!

What is worth believing in, is worth battling for. You fight for what you believe in, right now, by GIVING for it. This minute should find you on tip-toe, ready to go! You're expected to RUSH IN and do your FULL SHARE of the task that confronts us.

The task is to make the DAILY WORKER safe for 1925. FORWARD—that's the command. It can only go FORWARD if it kicks its obligations out the back door. It will go FORWARD at a fast pace if we GIVE it money to build upon.

Good intentions butter no parsnips! But understanding and ACTION gave us Soviet Russia. You understand! NOW ACT!

The way is clear. The method is simple.
INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925!
$50,000 IS THE SUM THAT'S NEEDED!
INSURANCE POLICIES ARE READY!
PRICED: $10, $5, $1.
YOUR POLICY MUST BE TO BUY A POLICY!
Back up YOUR daily to the last cent.
Every comrade must meet expectations—
YES—WE MUST BEAT THEM!

WORKERS PARTY MEMBERS
BRANCH SECRETARIES

You will await your next branch meeting with much impatience. Once there, you will glance towards the branch secretary's table. Upon it you will see a large red book—the BOOK OF POLICIES.

In this book you will find YOUR POLICY. Walk up to your branch secretary and BUY IT. When you see it, you'll be surprised that they are being sold so cheaply. If you are so surprised, buy another.

THE DAILY WORKER

We've got it!
Let's Keep It!
AND BUILD!

Wm. Z. Foster
Chairman Workers Party

Business Manager Daily Worker

W. W. Weinstone
Executive Sec'y Workers Party

J. Louis Engdahl
Editor Daily Worker

Alfred Wagenknecht
Campaign Director

William F. Dunne
Editor Daily Worker

TO ALL FRIENDS OF THE DAILY WORKER

You understand the need of a labor press. You know that this daily paper has the habit of landing stiff blows upon the beaks of all the buzzards of capitalism. You like that. What you like you should have plenty of. Therefore, pen in hand and fill this blank:

THE DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

What I believe in is worth GIVING for. I want to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925. Send me a

(Check which denomination)

$10	$5	$1
INSURANCE POLICY

for which I enclose remittance herewith.

Name .....

Street .....

City ..... State .....

PLAN STRUGGLE AGAINST TERROR OF CAPITALISTS

One of the Main Tasks of All Communists

(Special to The Daily Worker)

COLOGNE, Germany, Nov. 20.—The thee main tasks confronting the International Communist conference at Cologne were the combatting of the Dawes plan, defense of the revolution in Russia, defense against national and international predatory capitalism and struggle against the terrorist regime exercised by the capitalists, Comrade Francois, representative of the Communist International, told the conference.

Hits Democratic Pacifism.

Comrade Francois scored the "democratic pacifist era," as exemplified by the recently defeated MacDonald government in England.

"The democratic pacifist era is especially characterized by the fact that English imperialism has been more energetic and active under MacDonald than at any time since the war.

"On the very eve of its fall the English labor government still refused the natives of the Sudan the right of self determination.

"Ever since 1917 the force backing up every endeavor towards national independence all over the world has been the red flag of Communism, for the oppressed peoples of the earth see the symbol of emancipation in the Russian revolution. In China, Afghanistan, Persia, etc., we witness the gathering of the masses beneath the red banner."

Attacks Second International

Comrade Francois attacked the Second International for its part in the Georgia putsch, and declared war on the Dawes plan. "American capitalism is endeavoring to establish its dictatorship over Europe and its economics by means of the Dawes plan," said Comrade Francois. "Europe is to become the exploited colony of America. England is striving to colonize the European continent for itself. The interests of American and British imperialism are here in conflict.

"The antagonism between America and England is becoming more and more acute. It is a struggle between the dollar and the pound. In Great Britain there are signs of insurrectionary movements. England and America are at daggers drawn on the question of petroleum. I am fully convinced that the petroleum question will be at the bottom of the next war."

Enter Period of Struggle

Comrade Francois said that the situation of democratic pacifist illusions existing thruout the world at the time of the fifth World Congress of the Communist International, has changed during the past few months.

"We are emerging from the period of manifestoes and demonstrations, and entering into a period of vital struggles," he declared. He cited as signs of this change the breakdown of the MacDonald government, revolutionary struggles in the most important countries, national revolutionary struggles in many colonies, including Morocco, India and Afghanistan, and the wages struggles in Germany.

The representative of the Communist International said that the weak purchasing power of European markets has caused a surplus production in America, which endangers American profits, and hence the Dawes plan of intervening in Europe.

Union Takes Quarrel to Court.

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo., Nov. 20.—Writs of prohibition were denied officers of the International Association of Bridge, Structural and Ornamental Iron Workers by the Missouri supreme court this week. The action by the international was an outgrowth of a controversy with Local 18, St. Louis. The local obtained an injunction restraining the parent body from revoking its charter. Denial of the prohibition writ by the high court means that the circuit judge can proceed with a hearing of the injunction.

The dispute originated when General President Morrin attempted to interfere with the election of a business agent of the local.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Friday, Nov. 21.

Polish North Side, 1902 W. Division street.

Lithuanian No. 5, 3142 S. Halsted St.

Greek Branch, 722 Blue Island Ave.

Saturday, Nov. 22.

Grand concert and ball, Workers Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard, 8 p. m. Benefit of city organization.

FRENCH REACTIONARY CIRCLES IN RAGE OVER COMMUNIST TACTICS

PARIS, France, Nov. 20.—The reactionary political militarist circles are in a rage at the adroit move of the Communists who have won a considerable following among the private soldiers of the French army by their bill, introduced in the chamber of deputies for an increase of pay for conscripted private soldiers from 45 centimes to one franc per day.

Altho the Communists oppose appropriations for the war department in every other instance and oppose every aid to any other army but the red army, this specific bill to put more money in the pocket of private conscript soldiers at the expense of the taxpayers is artfully designed to put the capitalist majority in the chamber in dutch with the soldiers by refusing this raise, or win the soldiers to the Communist cause by granting it. It is not a comfortable position for the bourgeoisie.

FILIPINOS PLAN LONG FIGHT TO WIN FREEDOM

Arrange for Long Siege of U. S. Congress

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Digging in for a long siege of congress and American opinion on the issue of the right of the Filipinos to independence, the Philippine press bureau in Washington has issued a booklet setting forth their arguments in great detail, both on moral and historical grounds and on grounds of their own fitness and efficiency.

To prove that they desire independence, the Filipinos present a long list of revolts they have attempted or carried out, beginning with the first struggle against conquest by Magellan in 1521 and ending with the revolution which began in 1896 under Bonifacio and Aguinaldo.

It was this latter struggle that led to the freeing of virtually the whole archipelago except Manila from Spanish rule, and the setting up of the Philippine republic—the first set up in the Far East based upon constitutional government. This republic was overthrown by the armies of the United States after a war that lasted three years.

Of the peaceful agitation since the American conquest, the outline says, at this point:

Feared "Disloyalty"

"1900—To talk of independence at this time was considered as an act of disloyalty to the United States. When the civil government was established in 1901 the Philippine commission passed an act virtually prohibiting any agitation for independence. Under the circumstances the movement had to go on in an unorganized manner. Request after request was made to the then civil governor, William H. Taft, for permission to organize an independence party, but continual refusal was the reply.

"Finally in 1902 Taft declared he would agree to the formation of such a party if the word independence was eliminated from the platform. This was not agreable to the proponents and they adopted the policy of watchful waiting."

Nationalist Party Organized

It was not until 1907 that the formal organization of a nationalist party devoted to securing immediate independence of the islands took place. In that year the new party won an overwhelming victory in the elections for the Philippine assembly. Yet it was not until 9 years later that congress, by passing the Jones law, promised independence as soon as a "stable" government should be established in the islands. Since 1919 the legislature at Manila has been sending independence missions to Washington to urge the honoring of this pledge. But every years since the Philippine assembly was created the elected spokesmen of the Filipino people have unanimously adopted a resolution asking the United States to give them their independence at once.

Expect No Action

Today, with Gen. Wood in Manilla as governor general, the administration is committed by his attitude to repudiation of the independence pledge. There is no chance that the Congress elected this month will do anything toward freeing the Philippines.

North Dakota Celebrates Anniversary.

WING, North Dakota, Nov. 20.—We had a meeting and concert here in celebration of the 7th anniversary of the Russian revolution in Finnish Hall. Comrade Chas. Heck was the principal speaker, with Henry Thorpe in the chair. There was the singing of revolutionary songs in which the audience joined and the celebration went off amid much enthusiasm and jollification. Literature was sold and distributed.

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. Today's comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK

Physical Education Day

Friday, Nov. 21.—"Playgrounds and Athletic Fields Mean a Strong, Healthy Nation."

1. A playground for every child.
2. Physical education and healthy habits for all.
3. Adequate parks for city, state and nation.
4. Safety education saves life.
5. Encourage sane athletics for all.
6. Physical education is a character builder.

SLOGANS.

A sick body makes a sick mind.

Athletes all.

Visit the schools today.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS

Physical Education Day

Friday, Nov. 21.—"Brutal Capitalist Exploitation is the Main Cause of Physical Degeneration of the Working Masses."

1. The long hours, low wages, speedup system and unsanitary conditions in factory and home, which are imposed upon the workers by the capitalists, are continually breaking down the physical well being of the working masses.

2. The exploitation of children between the ages of 3 and 14 is the greatest menace to the physical condition of the working class.

3. Capitalist sports and athletics are designed mainly, to distract the minds of the workers from their interests.

SLOGANS.

Strong militant unions, political action under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party will enable you to secure better conditions for the physical upbuilding of your class.

Build up a working class sport and athletic movement under the leadership of the Workers' Sport Alliance, the American Section of the Red Sport International.

TEACHER GETS A SHOCK

Drawn especially for the Daily Worker by Abe Stolar, age 12.

Them Bolsheviks seem to know more than we do, after all.

WORLD WAR VETERANS CALL FOR RELEASE OF MOONEY AND BILLINGS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 20.—That the veterans of the world war who are opposed to the labor-hating, strikebreaking American Legion so beloved of Samuel Gompers, are able to register a kick at the acquiescence by the American Federation of Labor in the continued imprisonment of Tom Mooney and Warren K. Billings, is shown in the following telegram, sent yesterday from the headquarters of the World War Veterans, address Box 516, this city to Gompers at the El Paso convention:

"In behalf of the national executive committee of the world war veterans, it is respectfully urged that the present convention of the American Federation of Labor take some definite steps toward immediate liberation of Mooney and Billings.

"Not to act in this case is to hurt the cause of American labor and the rights of democracy generally. The innocent victims of reaction should be defended to the last ditch and the torch of labor held bigh.—Signed, Jack Bradon, National President."

Workers to Learn English at Workers' School

THE WORKERS' SCHOOL of New York has organized classes in English, elementary and advanced, in all educational centers under its supervision. This was done in response to a growing demand for instruction in English under the direction of a workers' educational institution.

Workers of New York now have the opportunity to learn English in a school whose avowed purpose is to prepare workers for a more militant and effective struggle against capitalism. Classes will be given as follows:

THE WORKERS' SCHOOL, 208 East 12th street—Elementary and Advanced English, every Monday night.

HARLEM EDUCATIONAL CENTER, 64 East 104th street—Elementary and Advanced English, every Friday night.

BRONX EDUCATIONAL CENTER, 1347 Boston Road—Elementary English, every Monday night. Advanced English, every Friday night.

WILLIAMSBURG EDUCATIONAL CENTER, 61 Graham Ave.—Classes in Elementary and Advanced English.

BROWNSVILLE EDUCATIONAL CENTER, 1844 Pitkin Ave.—Elementary and Advanced English, every Friday night.

Workers are urged to ENROLL NOW so as to get the full benefit of the course. Party members in particular should register. A knowledge of the English language is absolutely necessary for effective work in the Communist movement.

Information and registration at office of the Workers' School, 208 East 12th street, New York City, at Workers' Educational Centers, or thru party branches.

Philadelphia Plans Second Showing of Red Army Romance

(Special to the Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Nov. 20.—The Workers Party of Philadelphia has arranged for a second showing of the Russian Red Army romance, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik," for Friday evening, Nov. 28.

The tremendous success of the last showing and the hundreds of people who were turned away after the hall was packed to capacity were the two reasons that the party decided to show the picture again.

The Tyrian Hall, located at Broad and Oxford streets, has been chosen for the next showing. The hall only seats 600 people but it is the largest available for that date, and the sale of tickets already predicts another huge success.

The price has been reduced to 35c to enable the many unemployed workers to see this masterpiece of Bolshevik propaganda, as termed by the Pennsylvania state board of censors, who unconditionally condemned the picture eight weeks ago. The workers realize that when a picture is disapproved by the representatives of the steel trust state, this act becomes the greatest recommendation and reason why they should see it, especially when the picture deals with that tremendous weapon of the workers of Russia, the Red Army. Our friends and comrades are requested to buy their tickets early as only a limited number will be sold.

New Vizier in Morocco

MADRID.—Bena Zuz, the new Grand Vizier of the Spanish zone in Morocco, has been installed in office.

HUGHES NUCLEUS IN BANKER BUND FIGHTS RUSSIA

Broadcast New Warning on Soviet Trade

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—An investigation of a warning against trade with Russia published in New York newspapers in the name of the American Bankers' Association shows shady, crude garbling of documents, in line with the brassiest brass check practise.

The warning is sent out by the publicity machinery of the bankers' association as part of a repoga by the commerce and marine commission of the association and asserts that economic conditions in Russia are getting worse and that the Russian government is an enemy of religion. It predicts wholesale executions and turmoil and warns that anyone doing business with Russia is running a great risk.

Original Garbled.

Comparison of the publicity with the document from which it is supposed to be quoted shows that the original was grossly garbled. Qaulifying sentences were deleted and clauses from one sentence were brot forward into another, changing the meaning.

Not only is the original document garbled but the original itself has no right to be given out over the name of the American Bankers' Association it appears. It is an old report that was supposed to have been passed at the recent session of the American Bankers' Association in Chicago, but Francis H. Sisson, secretary of the resolutions' committee there, says the attack on Russian trade did not get the sanction of that body nor of the bankers' executive council.

The portion of the commerce and marine document from which the garbled excerpts in the present publicity are taken is captioned "Anglo-Russian Agreement." Other bankers say they are certain the bankers' convention gave no authorization to the anti-Russia trade paragraphs.

Hughes' Bankers' Plot.

The quoted lines follow closely matter previously put out by the departments of state and commerce. Evidence leads to the conclusion that a group in the bankers' association, that is allied to the anti-Russian forces in the Coolidge cabinet is unwarrantedly using the name of the bankers' association for propaganda purposes.

Among the leading American banking concerns which are acting as American agents for the Russian State Bank in American trading are the Guaranty and Equitable Trust companies of N. Y.; Irving Bank, Columbia Trust, the Public National Bank, N. Y., and Chase National. These bankers expect to extend their Russian financial activities in the coming year.

Journeymen Barbers Make Demands on Master Barbers' Meet

The journeymen barbers of locals 548, 576 and 587 have demanded a wage increase and a betterment of general working conditions from the master barbers' convention now in session at the Hotel Sherman. A strike is threatened unless the master barbers accede to the demands of the Journeymen Barbers' Union.

The new agreement calls for a guarantee of $35.00 a week instead of the present $26.00 a week rate. A five-day week and a seven o'clock closing hour are also demanded.

GOOSESTEP HEAD HAS WARM SPOT FOR THE LEGION

Gets Balled Up When Asked Questions

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—Driven to explain his curious attack on socialists, Communists, and "extreme pacifists" in his program for national educational week, J. J. Tigert, federal commissioner of education, declares that his partiality for the American Legion is due to the fact that the legion started an educational week agitation of its own, and he saw fit to combine this with the earlier institution of education week established by the National Education Association. Any labor union, he declares, could equally co-operate in the movement.

As for his warnings against radicals and pacifists, Tigert takes refuge in the folds of patriotism, and in the assumption that the radicals and pacifists are enemies of the constitution.

Tigert Injects Himself.

"It has been the policy of the bureau of education to remain outside of politics," he declares. "The commissioner occupies a professional office which is non-partisan and non-political. If the constitution of the United States is brought into politics then the commissioner and every other federal officer is perforce necessarily injected into politics. I have taken an oath to uphold the constitution of the United States. I am going to carry out my oath."

Tigert, The Fumigator.

Omitting to mention when, how and by whom the constitution was brought into politics, and why this fact has injected all federal officers into politics, despite federal law governing their positions, and also how far Tigert considers himself injected into politics as an anti-radical warrior, he hints that the schools are to be purified.

"Every kind of propaganda and 'ism' has been injected into the public schools," he says. "Is it possible that anyone would contend that the teaching of patriotism or Americanism in the public schools is intolerant?"

This in reference to his "Stamp out revolutionary radicalism" slogans.

Just Like Our Rail Labor Board.

BERLIN, Nov. 20.—The failure of the government conciliation boards to do justice to the demands of German workers in view of the rising cost of living is due to the fact that the so-called public members of the board invariably side with the employer against the workers. This performance recalls the similar attitude of the "public" members of the U. S. rail labor board which sits in Chicago.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE ACTIVITIES. LOCAL CHICAGO.

Friday, November 21.

Activity Meetings of Area Branches.

No. 1., 8 p. m., at 166 W. Washington St., 6th floor; No. 2, 8 p. m., at 722 Blue Island Ave.; No. 3, 8 p. m., at 3142 S. Halsted St., (basement); No. 4, 8 p. m., at 3322 Douglas Blvd.; No. 5, 8 p. m., at Northside Turner Hall, 820 N. Clark st.; No. 6, 8 p. m., at 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Saturday, November 22.

All social managers to report with their supplies at 2733 Hirsch Blvd., at 3:30 p. m., to make final arrangements for the affair.

We Will Not Accept Advertising

Unless

It meets with the necessarily severe requirements of the DAILY WORKER.

Employment agencies, fake Labor organizations, patent medicines, books and periodicals opposing the workers' interests—anything that is not good for the mental or physical well-being of the person who works for a living—can find no place in our pages. . . .

BUT

We will accept—and to our mutual benefit—advertisements that every worker can secure from those whom he patronizes—

The doctor, dentist, book-shop and others. And we'll gladly accept ads for any meetings or socials of a Labor organization.

You can use your purchasing power to aid in building for working class power if you—

"Paste This in Your Bonnet"

Get an ad for THE DAILY WORKER

RATES:

Times printed.	1 in. single column	3 to 5 in. single column	Over 5 in. single column
Once only	$1.00	95c	90c
Less than 3 days a week—for 3 months	95c	90c	85c
Every day—3 months or more	90c	85c	80c

If you want a worker to see it—put it in the DAILY WORKER

! betrayed

Their first conversation betrayed the fact that she was not fastidious

AT a distance she had appeared unusually neat, immaculate. But upon their first face-to-face meeting he discovered that her teeth were not clean. And he soon lost interest.

So many people overlook this one matter of fastidiousness. And do so in spite of the fact that in conversation the teeth are the one most noticeable thing about you.

Notice today how you, yourself, watch another person's teeth when he or she is talking. If the teeth are not well kept they at once become a liability.

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. At last science has discovered a polishing ingredient that really cleans without scratching the enamel—a difficult problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have found for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

Large Tube—25 cents

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

BLOODY RULE OF BRITISH IN EGYPT ROUSES NATIVES

Nationalists in Attack on Major Stack

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CAIRO, Egypt, Nov. 20.—Major General Sir Lee Stack was seriously wounded yesterday by Egyptian nationalists who threw a bomb and then opened fire with revolvers.

The attempt upon this emissary of British imperialism arises from the continued occupation of Egypt by British troops without other right than superior force.

Dictatorship Alias Protectorates.

It occurred outside the ministry of war, when three or four men attacked the automobile in which the general, his bodyguard and a policeman were riding. All were wounded. The assailants escaped.

England promised years ago to give up its "protectorate," which is the polite name for dictatorship in colonial capitalism, over Egypt. In 1922, when the time expired, Great Britain merely changed the name of the dictatorship and held on to it under the excuse that it had to "defend" the Egyptians.

Maybe the Swiss Navy.

From whom or from what the Egyptians needed defense, other than from the British themselves, even the "labor" government of MacDonald would not say. But Britain maintains a large army in Egypt of which General Stack is the head. Recently, in a strike of conscripted labor battalions, many were shot down by order of Stack. It became plain then that the Egyptians need defending, certainly, but from England and not by her. But Britain is not expected to give up without mass revolution her control over Egypt, because of its strategic control of the Suez Canal.

Portuguese Pilots Strike.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—Pilots of Portuguese vessels are on strike demanding higher pay than generals or judges, according to despatches to the Daily Mail. Stokers who have joined the pilots in their demands are asking as much as admirals receive.

Negro Problem Cannot be Solved Under Capitalism

By GORDON W. OWENS.

Negroes rejoice and sing "Hosanna Unto the Highest." The Negro problem of the United States is about to be solved. Henceforth all people will be equal, or, at least well on the road to equality. Lynching and burning, Jim-crowism and segregation, are doomed. Negroes will no longer be the victims of discrimination and prejudice. No longer need Negroes' voices roll across the country in empty warnings and fruitless protests. No more will Arkansas judges address a cultured Negro young lady, "Miss Nigger." The day of universal brotherhood is about to dawn. Silent Calvin Coolidge, the president of the country, will even publicly denounce the Ku Klux Klan.

Negroes, raise your voices and loudly sing,

"Sound the loud timbrels o'er land and o'er sea,
"A Negro has been elected judge and all Negroes are free!"

All the above is going to happen because a Negro, Albert George, has been elected judge in Chicago on the republican ticket. If there be any doubting Thomases among the Negroes they may easily dispel their gloom by reading last week's issues of the four leading capitalist newspapers in Chicago. The Chicago Tribune, the Chicago Daily News, the Herald and Examiner and the Evening American tried to outdo one another in publishing the picture of this Negro judge elect, and writing eulogies about him and writing articles telling of the glorious opportunities in store for the Negro race under American democracy.

Another Tool of Capitalists.

But in all seriousness how the election of a Negro to the bench of a capitalist court of justice will materially benefit the mass of underpaid, overworked and exploited Negro workers to me seems a Chinese puzzle. White men have been judges from time immemorial and the condition of white workers were not improved one iota on account of same. In fact, the white judges have issued injunctions prohibiting white workers on strike from peacefully picketing shops and factories and have assessed fines and jail sentences on white workers for doing same. This Negro judge will be the same as his white fellow judges, namely, a servile tool of the employers and capitalists and he will willingly do their bidding.

All this praise in the capitalists' newspapers, which are the chief instigators of prejudices, discriminations and riots against Negroes, of a Negro who has been elected judge is plain sophistry and buncome intended to fool and humbug the mass of Negro workers.

Negro Workers Will Be No Better Off.

The political economical and social condition of the Negroes of the United States will not be bettered one iota by a Negro being elected to any office on the capitalist political parties. It is a known fact that the most abject slave, when given power, makes the worst tyrant and Negroes are no exception to this rule. Irish people and Negroes who are both badly oppressed when placed in a position of authority, become the worst oppressors. Irish and Negro policemen are the worst bullies in uniform. Negro workers must learn that the only possible way which they can do away with the evils under which they suffer is by joining hands and uniting with the white revolutionary and class conscious workers, to destroy and do away with the present iniquitious capitalist system of wage slavery which contains germs of all the evils under which Negroes suffer.

This will be the sane and sensible way for the Negro workers to better their lot and not by electing some Negro politician to office in order that the Negro politician, along with the white ones, may draw a big salary and smoke fat cigars, while the mass of Negro workers are mercilessly exploited.

FARMERS OWE MUCH DOUGH, SAY GRANGE LEADERS

Fourteen Billions Their Modest Estimate

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 20.—The farmers of this country are in debt to the extent of $14,000,000,000, according to a statement issued today by the national grange, in convention here.

The statement also declared that agriculture must be made as remunerative as any other industry and that many injustices are forced on the farmer, in the way of special privileges given to certain other industrials.

For Wage Increases.

The grange advocates a thoro investigation of post office system, an increase in the salaries of the postal employee, and a faster handling of mail, the statement said. It added that the grange will conduct a national movement to obtain electrical power for rural communities at reasonable rates.

Kuzbas Industrial Colony Doubles Its Working Territory

NEW YORK.—Kuzbas, the industrial colony in Siberia technically manned by the Americans, has been given control of more than twice the territory now being developed in the Kuznetsky basin. Southern coal deposits in Kuznetsky basin amount to over 170,000,000,000 measured tons, nearly as much as total reserves in Great Britain. In Prokopevsky, coal seams are 60 to 75 feet thick. Gurier steel plant produces at full capacity 30 tons of pig iron a day. All this goes to Kuzbas.

Tom Barker, head of the New York office, states that the enlarged operations of Kuzbas may require more American engineers and skilled workers during 1925, but so far Russians have done most of the work at Kemerovo very well with a few American technicians directing and organizing.

Post Cards in Colors

Something New and Different.

Use them for your regular correspondence. Have a set for your album.

No. 1—Lenin, directing the revolution
No. 2—Lenin, when 16 years old
No. 3—The Red Flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics
No. 4—The Russian state seal and emblem
No. 5—Trotsky, commander of the Soviet Red Army

ONE CARD 5 CENTS

In lots of 10 or more, 2c per card.
1½ in lots of 100 or more.
Send money order, check or postage to

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

SELF-RULE FOR INDIA IS SOUGHT BY COMMUNISTS

Call for Speedy End of Capitalist System

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CAWNPORE, India, Nov. 20.—The Communist Party of India demands complete self-government, and a speedy termination of a system which deprives the workers of the fruits of their labor, in their declaration of principles just issued.

"The Indian Communist Party enters the field of political action determined to supersede or envelope all capitalist parties, and calls upon all members of the working class of India to muster under its banner to the end that a speedy termination of the capitalist system may be wrought," says the statement.

For Overthrow of Capitalism.

"Our party holds that the workers of all countries are suffering from the same injustices at the hands of the capitalists and that their interests are one and the same. It is therefore necessary for our salvation to unite and act internationally.

"Our party holds that as the machinery of the government including the armed forces of the nation exists only to conserve the monopoly by the capitalist class of the wealth of the workers, the workers must organize consciously and politically for the conquest of the powers of government, national, provincial and local, in order that this machinery, including these forces, may be converted from an instrument of oppression into the agent of emancipation and the overthrow of bureaucratic and capitalist privileges.

"Our party holds that the present Zamindari (land-tenure) system is the sole cause of all the miseries of the Indian peasants and so long as it exists there is no hope of improving their condition. Therefore the Zamindari system must be abolished at once, and peasants should be deemed as the rightful masters of the fruits of their labor.

Oppose Foreign Rule

"Our party holds it is unnatural and unjust for any nation or country to rule over another nation or country, and therefore, it is the birthright and the foremost duty of Indians to gain complete Swarajya (self-government) at the earliest possible time.

"Our party holds that Indian society as at present constituted, is based upon the ownership of the means of living (that is, land, factories, and means of transportation) by the capitalist or the master class and the consequent enslavement of the working class by whose labor alone wealth is produced.

"Our party holds that in society, therefore, there is an antagonism of interests manifesting itself as a class struggle between those who possess but do not produce and those who produce but do not possess.

"Our party holds that this antagonism can be abolished only by the emancipation of the working class from the domination of the master class by the conversion of the means of production and distribution into common property of society, and the control thereof by the whole community.

"(Signed) S. SATYA BLAKTO,
"Secretary Indian Communist Party."

State Rests in Fraud Case.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Nov. 20.—Following cross examinat on today of the government's final group of witnesses United States District Attorney Homer Elliott was ready to rest his case against 16 former officers of the Hawkins Mortgage company and its subsidiaries, charged with complicity in an alleged mail fraud case involving losses of millions of dollars to investors.

LABELLING WORKERS BY LOOKING INTO THEIR EYES IS THE BUNK, SAYS RUSSELL SAGE FOUNDATION

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—The Russell Sage Foundation has issued an exhaustive report on "Public Employment Offices—Their Purpose, Structure, and Methods" that knocks the bottom out of the science in the technique of selecting applicants for employment.

"No system or method of character analysis has yet produced results which justify its adoption or even suggest its trial in a public employment office," says the foundation's statement.

Labelling Not so Simple.

"The human mind has been grouped by some persons interested in employment questions into types that are presumably mutually exclusive as follows: The executive type, the detail type; the promotion type; the accounting type; the clerical type; the selling type; the mechanical type, and so on. These adjectives do describe attributes of the mind, but that people can be so tagged and labeled fairly is doubtful. The temptation to label people is very great, but the science and art of successfully doing it have not as yet been discovered."

The report, which is based on a five-year study extending into almost every state in the union and into Canada and England, was prepared by Shelby M. Harrison, director department of surveys and exhibits of the Russell Sage Foundation, in collaboration with Mary LaDame, Bradley Buell, Leslie E. Woodcock, and Frederick A. King, all of whom have been closely identified with public and private employment work. Several hundred pages in the report are devoted to methods of organizing and administering a national employment service.

Poultry Growers Go Broke and Join the Ranks of Unemployed

LANGLEY PRARIE, B. C., Nov. 20.—Many small poultrymen with flocks of from 100 to 300 chickens are being forced to the wall by the high feed prices and are crowding onto the already flooded labor market in British Columbia. Wheat during October increased $10 and now sells at $50 a ton, while oats advanced $4 and is selling at $42 a ton. Bran and shorts have also gone up and feed dealers expect further increases before the winter is over.

In the fruit growing districts of the province conditions are no better and as the returns from the bulk of the fruit crop have not been received yet it is only a matter of time until many fruit growers will join the poultrymen in quest of the elusive job. In many cases the crop returns have been mortgaged to pay for irrigation assessments and outstanding grocery bills.

In both cases the victims are having the necessity of genuine co-operation impressed upon them. The Japanese and Chinese operate large garden tracts in the provinces with much success because they adhere to the principles of co-operation.

Fire Hits Pleasure Resort.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., Nov. 20.—One life was lost and property damage in excess of $500,000 was done by fire which destroyed two hotels, damaged the Hotel Wiltshire and the casino on the Steen pier here, and threatened the entire board walk, a check up to day showed.

DR. S. ZIMMERMAN
DENTIST
3212 N. CALIFORNIA AVE. Phone ARMITAGE 7460

MY NEW LOCATION

Special Prices to Workers — X-Ray — Gas Given

ESTABLISHED 15 YEARS.
My Examination is Free
My Prices Are Reasonable
My Work Is Guaranteed

Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

Your Union Meeting

THIRD FRIDAY, NOV. 21, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
237	Bakers and Conf., 3748 W. Roosevelt.
8	Bookbinders, 175 W. Washington St., 8 p. m.
28	Broom Makers, 870 W. Harrison St.
1	Carpenters, 175 W. Washington.
70	Carpenters, 2708 W. 35th St.
	Building Trades Council, 730 W. Washington.
2300	Carpenters' Dis. Council, 806 S. State St.
e	Electricians, 4239 S. Halsted St.
216	Electricians, 2801 W. Monroe St.
778	Electricians, 4141 W. 14th St.
779	Electricians, R. R., 2324 S. Halsted
564	Firemen and Enginemen, 5438 S. Halsted St.
	Gen.
94	Hotel Workers, Emily and Marshfield.
225	Hod Carriers, Monroe and Peoria Sts.
	Ladies' Garment Workers, Joint Board, 328 W. Van Buren St.
83	Machinists, 175 S. Ashland Blvd.
113	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
273	Painters, 2348 So. Kedzie Ave.
	Painters, Kenwood and Sheffield Ave.
863	Painters, 3140 Indiana Ave.
1332	Painters, 1160 Indiana Ave.
	Pattern Makers, 119 S. Throop St.
512	Plumbers, 3251 S. Chicago Ave.
548	Railway Carmen, Village Hall, Kolzie, Ill.
376	Railway Carmen, Village Hall, Kolzie, Ill.
806	Railway Carmen, 8445 S. Ashland Ave.
329	Railway Clerks, 20 W. Randolph St.
870	Railway Clerks, 9 S. Clinton St.
1356	Railway Clerks, Ft. Dearborn Hotel.
6	Railroad Trainmen, 1806 E. 64th St.
119	Railroad Trainmen, 8340 North Ave.
186	Railroad Trainmen, 9120 Commercial Ave.
367	Sheet Metal Workers, Ashland and Van Buren.
	South Chicago Trades and Labor Assembly, 9120 Commercial Ave.
2	Stage Hands, 412 Capitol Bldg.
12	Steve Mounters, 3409 Wolfram Ave.
2	Teachers' Union, Women's City Club Rooms, 4:30 p. m.
	Telegraphers (Com.) 918 S. Clark St.
484	Waitresses, 19 W. Adams St., 2 p. m.
	Women's Union Label League, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

Claim Railroads Good Spenders.

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Since April 1923, the railroads of the United States have authorized the expenditure of more than $2,000,000,000 for locomotives, cars and other additions to equipment and actually have spent $1,690,063,426, leaving about half a billion to be expended in betterments in the next few months, according to a statement issued today by the American Railway Association in annual meeting here.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
446 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1437 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

PRIME MINISTER OF CANADA WAS TOOL OF 'JOHN D.'

Training Helps Him to Fight for Capitalism

By SYDNEY WARREN
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 20.—The prime minister of Canada, William Lyon Mackenzie King, on his recent tour throughout British Columbia and the prairie provinces, made it plain that the government has committed itself frankly to the interests of big business.

Canada's prime minister was a former paid industrial propagandist for the Rockefeller interests and was associated with the notorious capitalist press agent, Ivy Lee.

His training, therefore, has peculiarly fitted him to become the chief spokesman for the vested financial interests of this country.

With amazing frankness the premier revealed the fact that every cent of Canada's war debt is still unpaid and that nothing was being paid but the interest. The Canadian people are today indebted to domestic and foreign bond holders to the extent of $2,247,000,000 and pay interest on this sum amounting annually to $127,000,000, or over $15 per capita.

The prime minister admitted that the wartime coalition government had permitted Canada's war profiteers to salt their wartime profits in long term government bonds bearing 5½ per cent interest and exempt from all taxation, whereas the bonds could have been made redeemable in shorter time and at a saving in interest charges.

The premier predicted an era of intensive exploitation by foreign (principally American) capital and stated that the government intended to encourage such enterprise by carrying on an aggressive immigration policy, which means the supplying of an abundance of cheap labor.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

A PLEASING HOUSE DRESS

4927

4927. Comfort and good lines are expressed in this charming "morning" dress. Percale or seersucker, gingham or wool crepe would be good for a dress of this kind. The width at the foot is 2¼ yards, with plaits extended. This is a fine model for women of mature figure.

The Pattern is cut in 8 sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46, 48 and 50 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 5 yards of 36 inch material. If collar and cuffs are made of contrasting material, ½ yard is required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL & WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

NEW AND POPULAR FOR THE GROWING GIRL

4914

4914. Fashions latest expression "the tunic" is here portrayed. This model may be finished with short or long sleeves. The skirt is separate. It may be joined to an underbody. The blouse may be worn over any skirt.

This Pattern is cut in 4 Sizes: 8, 10, 12, and 14 years. A 10 year size requires 3¼ yards of 40 inch material if made with long sleeves. With short sleeves 2¾ yards are required.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received, and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Are You Clever?

Then solve this! If one Booster, realizing that articles obtained for the Bazaar are Weapons against Capitalist Tyranny, got ten dollars worth of stuff donated by storekeepers in 15 minutes—how long will it take you to get one or more articles? Or sell a few tickets? Try it and find out!

TALK BAZAAR! FIGHT CAPITALISM!

Bring, send or report all articles you collect or donate to Room 307, 166 West Washington Street—AT ONCE!

DAILY WORKER LABOR DEFENSE

Bazaar and Dance

At Folkets Hus, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.
NOVEMBER 26-30
Auspices, Workers Party, Local Chicago.

Notice to Delegates, Branches and All Bazaar Boosters!

Special final meeting Saturday, November 22, 3:15 p. m. at 722 Blue Island Avenue. All Party and League Branches, see that you are represented and make a complete report. You must do your share of the work involved.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year	$3.50...6 months	$2.00...3 months
By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year	$4.50...6 months	$2.50...3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE } Editors
MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application

For Class War Prisoners

We have before expressed our hope that Gompers, while sojourning at the scab Hotel El Paso del Norte, will spare a few moments to solicit "Ma" Ferguson, new governor of Texas, for the pardon of Jose Rangel and Charles Cline. If Sam's reputation for being a "friend of Mexican labor" is to be sustained, he simply must do this much.

But there are hundreds of other prisoners for the cause of labor rotting their lives away behind prison walls in this country, and no labor leader who is fit to remain above ground can ignore them without making the omission an accusation of treachery on his part to the working class.

Mooney and Billings, militant, yes, revolutionary trade unionists, remain in prison after the frame-up against them is clearly proven. And it is up to Gompers and company at the head of the A. F. of L. to either quit boasting about how powerful that organization is or throw that power into action in forcing the release of these two victims.

But these are not the only ones, either. The executive council of the American Federation of Labor is either interested in the working class of this country or it is not. If it is, it should take a stand unequivocal and aggressive for the release of every victim of capitalist repression lying behind bars.

There are many of them. Ford and Suhr, rotting their life away in Folsom year after year, the West Virginia coal miners who dared to defend their homes and lives against violence of the bosses, and the eight lumber workers who remain in the cells of Walla Walla prison are a standing rebuke to the traitorous action of Gompers and company in their collaboration with the American Legion.

Then there are the hundred and more courageous workers, members of the I. W. W., who have upheld the right of labor unionism in California at the expense of one to 14 years imprisonment. In no other country in the world would the labor movement remain dumb and paralyzed if such outrages were perpetrated on workers. The hand of the union bureaucracy alone is responsible.

Then there are the two Italian workers, Sacco and Vanzetti, doomed to die unless labor really throws off its indifference to the murder of workers and acts, sharply, decisively and en masse. If it does not act, the blood of these workers will be on the hands of Gompers and company. They are responsible, let there be no quibbling.

In all these cases the resolution sponsored by the Trade Union Educational League could be applied with telling effect. This resolution instructs the state and central bodies to work upon a program which (1) demands of the executive power of the states in which workers are imprisoned, their immediate and unconditional release; (2) includes raising the issue of the release of such workers as a major issue in elections in these states; (3) insists that this issue shall be on the agenda at every important union convention, particularly the state federations; (4) advocates mass meetings and demonstrations for public demand for release; (5) support to be given financially to defend workers in courts and to give wide publicity.

The 44th annual convention is now meeting at El Paso. From reports it seems to be one unrelieved picture of reaction. If so, so much the worse for the workers rotting in prison or on the road from the factory to the prison. But by its stand the workers shall know the character of the "leadership" of the American labor movement.

Strikebreakers Quarrel

Warren S. Stone made the mistake of not taking out a card in the Strikebreakers' Union, a synonym for the official bureaucracy of the American Federation of Labor. Had he done so, the spectacle of John L. Lewis and George L. Berry, defending trade unionism against Stone would not amuse the cynical capitalist reporters at the El Paso convention. The grand dukes of the A. F. of L. are privileged strikebreakers.

The DAILY WORKER has already dealt fully with Stone's perfidious conduct toward the miners who worked his so-called union collieries. Suffice it to say that he refused to recognize the United Mine Workers of America and has armed guards protecting his scabs in his Kentucky mines. This is a most disgraceful situation.

A resolution was introduced at the El Paso convention denouncing Stone for his anti-union action. It should be passed. But it is a sight for the gods to see John L. Lewis and George L. Berry standing up as the champions of trade unionism.

Berry, head of the pressmen, has broken two New York strikes with the aid of strikebreakers, detectives and the newspaper publishers. Yet after breaking the latest New York strike he was given an ovation at the Portland convention of the A. F. of L. and signally honored. This was the convention that expelled William F. Dunne, the Communist, for being an uncompromising enemy of capitalism.

The crimes committed against unionism by John L. Lewis would fill this issue of The DAILY WORKER. The very fact that he served on the republican party advisory campaign committee in order to secure the re-election of Strikebreaker Coolidge, is evidence sufficient of his character, disregarding his alliance with the Kansas coal operators against Alexander Howat, with the British Empire Steel corporation against the Nova Scotia miners, with the Kentucky coal operators in keeping the fields of that section unorganized, and with the coke magnates of Fayette county against the heroic workers he deserted in 1922.

Berry is to lead the fight on the floor at El Paso against Stone. Our good friend, the former salvation army drum wacker, William H. Johnston, will stand in the gap for Stone. A fine crew, indeed, to talk of unionism! Johnston is the father of the B. & O. plan, the standard form of class collaboration. You may ask, what is it all about? Why are those strikebreaking labor fakers making such a fuss about Stone's direliction?

There is a reason. Lewis is the main lieutenant of the G. O. P. machine in the trade union movement. Berry is the democratic "tuchun," while Stone is the principal backer of the so-called progressive party, with Johnston as his mouthpiece. They are not concerned with trade unionism, but the boys are looking for a place in the political sun and the resolution against Stone is a carefully worked plot on the part of the republican and democratic lackeys to knock him out or seriously wound him. This strategy is no different to that of the various hi-jacking and bootlegging gangs of Chicago.

What a deplorable state the American labor movement is in when these moguls of crookdom can gather in convention to represent the workers and get away with it. It makes many sincere workers despair of the future. But there was never less cause for downheartedness than today, with the example of triumphant Soviet Russia before the eyes of the workers of the world. The American workers will triumph as their Russian brothers did despite the Stones, Lewises, Johnstons, Berrys and all the other lackeys of capitalism.

The Mexican Was Right

"Surely these are not labor union delegates, they look like bankers to me," declared a Mexican delegate as he watched the portly, bejeweled and well-groomed labor fakers who attended the El Paso convention of the American Federation of Labor. The Mexican was right.

The labor leaders, who dominate what there is left of a trade union movement in America, do not represent the interests of the workers, organized or unorganized. They are wealthy and contented with the present robber system, which exploits those whom they are supposed to serve.

These labor leaders are allies of the capitalists. Mark Hanna baptized them properly when he characterized them as "labor lieutenants." Capitalism takes good care of them, and one of the canniest of the American plutocrats, Andrew Carnegie, placed Samuel Gompers on his pension list.

Honors are heaped on the labor fakers by the capitalist government while radical leaders face the jails. Gompers is an honored guest at bankers' banquets while indictments dangle over the head of William Z. Foster. The Mexican was right.

Our American labor leaders, the kind that are welcome at El Paso, have a stake in the capitalist system. They wear diamonds. They will fight for the system that keeps them in diamonds at the expense of the millions of slaves, organized or unorganized, in the United States.

Business Unionism

The American trade union movement, as typified by the American Federation of Labor, is officially committed to the policy of class collaboration, which is based on the theory that the interests of the workers can best be served by co-operation on their part with the capitalists in the running of industry. This is just like saying that the best interests of a burglar's victim can be conserved by assisting in the process of transferring his cash to the burglar.

Strong international unions—strong financially if not numerically—have gone into business on a large scale. They were going to solve the economic problem by turning the workers into capitalists, and thus remove all class distinctions. But a capitalist is a capitalist whether he carries a "union" card or not.

The main result of the banking and other business ventures of the labor unions is that the leaders have become bankers and the workers brokers, which means in the vernacular that they are about "broke."

The workers can never emancipate themselves one by one. It must be a collective job and cannot be done by going into business, but by putting the capitalist out of business.

When a police officer announces that he cannot solve a crime puzzle, he is in poor health. Chief Collins was as silent as a clam since O'Bannion did outside of stating that the dead gentleman, who was on such good terms with Robert E. Crowe and Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes, had twenty-five notches on his gat. The newfound loquaciousness of the chief is comforting.

Every day get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER and a member for the Workers Party.

Workers! Join the Struggle Against the Dawes Plan

Statement of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party on the German Election and the Situation in Germany

Workers of America!

Seven thousand Communists and revolutionary workers are being tortured in German prisons. Daily more revolutionary workers are being seized and put behind prison doors. Warrants have been issued for the arrest of all Communist members of the Reichstag, which has been dissolved. A bitter attack is being made upon the whole German working class. Efforts that the revolutionary workers are making to aid their fellow-workers in prison through the International Red Aid have been prohibited. The reactionary capitalist-social-democratic government of Germany is carrying on a campaign of annihilation against the revolutionary workers of Germany.

The German Nationalists, cowardly Fascisti, openly demand the return of Wilhelm to a German throne. These degenerate hooduma comprising monarchist ex-officers, sons of big landowners, industrial and financial bosses, and numbers of deluded workers, are armed to the teeth, and daily make bloody attacks on the working class. The capitalist-social-democratic government allows them to do this dirty work, thus sparing the government any responsibility for the workers' blood that is shed.

Why is the capitalist class conducting an offensive against the workers at this time? There are two reasons:

First, elections are to take place in Germany on December 9. The capitalists and the social-democrats know very well that if the German workers are given an opportunity to cast their votes without interference or limitation, they will overwhelmingly support the revolutionary Communist Party. The workers of Germany through the struggles of the past six years have recognized that there is but one leader of the working class in its battle against exploitation and suppression, and that is the Communist Party, which is united with the revolutionary workers of the entire world through the Communist International. The Communist Party has conducted a militant fight in the Reichstag, the provincial diets and municipal councils in the interests of the workers, and for that they are hated by the capitalist parties and feared by that other capitalist party, the social-democrats. The election of a large number of Communist deputies to the Reichstag on December 9 will be the mandate that the revolutionary working class of Germany has given to the Communist Party, to start the proletarian revolution, to sweep the reactionary capitalists out of power and install a Workers' and Farmers' Government, a Soviet government of Germany.

Hence the capitalist-social-democratic government is doing everything in its power to terrorize the workers, and therefore is attacking its most revolutionary section, the Communist Party. Every day brings reports of the arrest of Communist editors, leaders, and functionaries. Every day the world learns of the brutal attacks of the police and gendarmes on workers' meetings. Blood is flowing in Germany, while the Communists are locked up, unknown to their friends, subjected to the "third degree," beaten up and even killed in prison.

There is a second reason for this brutal offensive against the German working class. With the aid of the reactionary capitalist government of the United States, through the infamous Dawes Reparation Plan, the German workers are to be further enslaved. Hours are being lengthened, wages are being reduced, hundreds of thousands of workers are being thrown into the streets to starve in the cold of winter. Using the excuse of the necessary of raising the reparations, the German capitalists are demanding cheaper and bigger production. They have saddled the working class and poor peasants of Germany with the burden of paying the reparations, while they themselves accumulate millions and billions of profits. The wages that the German workers receive cannot keep them alive. Tens of thousands of women are driven into prostitution, the workers' children are pale and undernourished. For six years, the German workers have struggled against the capitalist-social-democratic coalition and today are approaching the point of rebellion.

The Communist Party is mobilizing the working class and the poor peasants of Germany against the capitalists. During the coming winter, the German workers will face tremendous bloody struggles against the capitalist regime. They will have to face not only the brutal government forces and the German Fascisti, but the force of the capitalist governments of the world united under the banner of the Dawes Reparation Plan. Not intimidated by this savage array of power, the Communists are raising the Red Flag of Revolution. They have proclaimed that only the proletarian revolution will save the German workers from complete degredation. Their aim is the establishment of a Soviet Government and unity with Soviet Russia against the reactionary capitalist world.

The capitalist-social-democratic government of Germany, aided by the capitalist governments of the world, thinks it can stop this mass revolt of the German workers by terrorizing their leader, the Communist Party. In their fears as to the outcome fo the elections in December and of the coming struggles, they are trying to disorganize the working class. Social-democratic ministers and chiefs of police issue orders for the arrest of Communists and revolutionary workers. In this offensive, the social-democratic leaders of the trade unions are giving them full assistance. These treacherous leaders refuse to conduct a struggle against the lowering of wages; they have consented to the lengthening of hours. But the Communists and revolutionary workers continue the fight and will not cease till they have attained victory.

Workers of America! Show your solidarity with the struggling German workers! Raise your voice of protest against these brutal attacks on the German working class. Let your German comrades and fellow-workers know that in this fight against the barbarous capitalist regime you will stand by them! Demand the release of the 7,000 revolutionary workers who are languishing in German prisons, tortured by the capitalist regime! Call meetings of protest and demonstration! Send resolutions of sympathy and solidarity to the German workers, for that will hearten them in their fight!

Workers of America! Remember that the capitalist offensive against the German workers is only part of a grand offensive of the capitalist class against the workers all over the world. The British workers sent delegations to the British Labor Government to protest against the Dawes Reparation Plan—but Ramsay MacDonald turned them down. The Belgian and the French workers have protested against the Dawes Plan, for they recognize in it a method of reducing the pay and lengthening the hours of the French and Belgian workers.

Workers of America! Do not think that you will be spared. The capitalists of America have already declared that the workers of America must work longer and cheaper if they wish to keep their jobs. They have declared that the trade unions must be destroyed. They make the excuse that the German workers are accepting terms that make the competition of American industry impossible. The international capitalist class, with Coolidge and Dawes at its head, has declared war on the workers. The German workers, weakened by six years of struggle, are to be the first victims. In your own interest, therefore you must organize.

Strengthen the trade unions! Every worker who does not belong to a trade union must join. Amalgamate your unions into powerful, revolutionary industrial unions! Link up your unions with the only fighting revolutionary trade union movement of the world, the Red International of Labor Unions. Prepare for the fight by joining the only body of workers and poor farmers of America that openly, militantly conducts the fight against the capitalist class and the capitalist government—the Workers (Communist) Party.

Now it is time to act. Now is the time to show your solidarity. Now is the time to strengthen the international revolutionary movement, to prepare for the struggle against the international capitalists and capitalist governments and for the establishment of a Soviet Government—a Workers' and Farmers' Government—in the United States.

Demand the release of the 7,000 German class war prisoners!

Demand the release of revolutionary workers and peasants confined in the prisons of all capitalist countries and of the colonies.

Protest against the Dawes Reparation Plan, which is to enslave the workers of the whole world!

Organize to resist wage-cuts and "open-shop" drives!

Fight for the relief of the unemployed!

Break with the small capitalists of the LaFollets movement and come to the support of the Workers (Communist) Party!

The issue is a Soviet Government of the workers and poor farmers against the international capitalist class.

Central Executive Committee
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
William Z. Foster, National Chairman.
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

catholic church in Ireland. While it is true that members of the lower clergy have at times been persecuted and imprisoned, there is no record of high church dignitaries meeting with indignity at the hands of that government for hundred of years.

• • •

IN his invaluable little book "Labor, Nationality and Religion," James Connolly places a valuable fund of information on the relations of the catholic church with the British government on the Irish question, at our disposal. Not many people are aware that the noted Irish seminary, Maynooth College, was founded on a British grant and sustained by British government subsidies. Richard Lalor Sheil, the noted orator congratulating Pitt on the new British policy toward Ireland declared in the house of commons that 2,500 British educated Irish priests could maintain order in Ireland more effectively and cheaper than several thousand British troops. He was right. Cardinal Logue was one of Britain's spiritual lieutenants in Ireland.

• • •

LEADERS of the British labor party are looking around for scape goats to blame their fall from office on. As was to be expected they hop on the Communists. "If the Communists were not so radical, the tories would not be able to pass off the 'Zinoviev forgery,'" they bleat. Their solution of the problem is that the Communist Party should disband. Quite generous. The mensheviks of Russia had the same idea many years ago, particularly after the defeat of 1905. But the Bolsheviki kept on going in the right direction while the foxy mensheviks went the other way. They are still going.

• • •

IT occurs to some of the members of the independent labor party that is unfair to blame the Communists for causing MacDonald's defeat, after the latter had fallen for a tory plot which was so crude that a ten-year-old youth could see thru it. The McVittie biscuits and endowed motor car did not help any, they pointed out. A man with $150,000 worth of shares in his jeans was not such a pauper, and many workers were darned if they could see where MacDonald was any more of a proletarian than Stanley Baldwin. Workers who have heard MacDonald compete with Baldwin in respectability chose the older and more reliable brand.

• • •

THE editor of the New Leader of Britain, cannot refrain from digging his fountain pen into the ribs of his leader over the bungling of the Zinoviev forgery. The British socialists do not seem to have sunk to the depth of depravity the American variety have descended to. While, even the capitalist press, after the first outburst, admitted that the thing looked like a plot, we find the New Leader of New York, organ of Morris Hillquit, saying that "it is in line with frequent manifestoes of the head of Communist International . . ."

• • •

SIR JAMES O'GRADY thinks King George is a nice fellow. He is. The fact that MacDonald was licked did not make a particle of difference to the king or to Sir James. The latter is a prominent member of the labor party. On November 4, Sir James waited on the king at Buckingham Palace and kissed his majesty's hand. His majesty, not wanting in courtesy created him a Knight Commander of the order of St. Michael and St. George. Sir James was recently appointed governor of Tasmania. Another good reason why the yellow socialists should hate the Communists, who would speedily put an end to all the trappings of royalty and to royalty as well.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

PROLETARIAN STATESMANSHIP

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The eighth chapter is entitled, "Proletarian Statesmanship."

• • •

LENIN was a foremost statesman. What does this mean? According to his own definition a statesman is one wh understands how to maneuver with with millions of people, who is capable of estimating correctly the mutual relations of social classes, who can detect the weak spots in his enemy's armor and who knows how to make effective the strongest side of his own class.

In this respect Lenin possessed extraordinary gifts. He knew above all how to determine the line of demarcation between classes and to create a concrete and practical program of action calculated to bring together the working class with its temporary ally, the peasantry. He based his judgment of political conditions, not on superficial appearances, not upon the so-called public opinion but upon the deep processes that are taking place within the working class. His mind always pierced thru to the very vitals of a situation. He studied the make-up of social life in order to find for himself a starting point, and then he continued to base his activities on the dynamics of the class struggle.

These traits of Lenin's character made him the most dangerous to, and at the same time the most hated by, the class enemies of the proletariat whom he always managed to hit at the softest spot. He was a realer, politiker (of course, realistic not in the reformist sense, for whom realism means adaption to the bourgeoisie) in the sense that he based his revolutionary activities on the correlation of forces in the class struggle. The reformists of all countries declared Lenin to be a Utopian, an "irrational" statesman, because he always busied himself with the problem of revolution, and themselves they consider realists because they advocate the idea of gradually transforming bourgeois society along the lines of evolution. But these "great realists" became tools in the hands of the bourgeois politicians after the war, while Lenin the "irrational statesman" became the most dangerous opponent of the bourgeoisie and the leader of millions of toilers who have risen against their masters.

Immediately after October revolution Lenin was charged by all petty bourgeois socialists with being an adventurer. But this "adventurer" proved by his deeds which side the real power was on. The "realists" among the Social-Revolutionists and Menshevriks have simply missed the importance of the great change that has taken place in human life. They have even failed to notice that the masses have turned their backs on them. Lenin was the greatest statesman of our age. He has proven this standing at the helm of the greatest state in the world, by the exceptional flexibility of the Russian Communist Party whose leader and creator he was.

• • •

Tomorrow — "Critical and Realistic."

PLAN TAG DAYS IN NEW YORK CITY FOR SILK STRIKE RELIEF

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—Tag days will be held here Saturday and Sunday for the benefit of the Paterson silk strikers, the New York Paterson strike relief committee announces. The Paterson strikers have been walking the picket lines for over sixteen weeks, and many of them must be aided. New York Workers Party members are urged to watch for announcements of stations for the tag day.

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1922, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

5 CENTS Including Saturday Magazine Section. On all other days, Three Cents per Copy.

Vol. II. No. 210. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year; Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 22, 1924. Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 5 Cents

GOMPERS ANTI-SOVIET PLOT FAILS

Minnesota Labor Fights Reaction

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

JOHN D. ROCKEFELLER, Sr., delights in giving pennies—not many—to children, and telling them that by saving pennies they can become rich. Old John did not become rich by saving pennies. He became rich by exploiting others. The Rockefellers are so rich now that they cannot help getting richer. Since Silent Calvin was re-elected stocks have been bounding in Wall Street. Among those to go skyward were the Standard Oil stocks. In one day John D. Jr. added $50,000,000 to his nest egg. It would take him a long time to save that much in pennies.

GREAT consternation in Paris! The czarist emigres are madder 'an the devil and their wrath only takes second place to that of the Roumanian and Bulgarian Fascist governments. It is over the fact that the Russia fleet used by the White Guard Wrangel to sail his troops from port to port after the Red Army kicked them out of Russia, will be turned over to the Soviet government by Premier Herriot of France. The Roumanian and Bulgarian governments who have ports on the Black Sea, did not like this arrangement, but Herriot gave his shoulders a little French shrug and said that France had recognized the Soviet government and was therefore obliged to turn over all Russian property to the Soviets.

HERRIOT also intimated that Russian industry should be helped to its feet and that such a development would be helpful to France. Some objections were made on the ground that French help in developing the Russia oil industry might bring the heavy hand of Morgan and Rockefeller down on France, but Herriot remarked that France must look after her own interests. Which proves that business is business. Herriot likes Communism no more than does Charles Evans Hughes or Victor Berger, but Soviet Russia is a great military power, has great mineral wealth, and France has capitalist enemies that are out for her scalp.

JOHN W. DAVIS went to Europe for a rest and seemed to regret that nobody cared whether he went, returned or jumped into the river. All the big publicity is for Silent Calvin. If Calvin ever says anything except what the reporters say for him, he will stay on the front page as long as Dean O'Banion's murder. Davis was willing enough to talk. He used good English, and his style was in harmony with the best parliamentary traditions. It is even doubtful if old Mr. Roberts, whose rules of order have often caused disorder, had anything on the dignified, scholarly Mr. Davis. But the masses did not listen to him very well, so he is taking a trip to Europe. They listened to Silent Calvin who said nothing.

THE Milwaukee Leader is the source of much amusement and inspiration these days. Victor Berger has a novel way of running a column. He generally quotes an article written by somebody else, giving it a few lines by way of introduction. On the editorial page, other writers try to wriggle themselves out from under the debris of the LaFollette election debacle. They quote Marx to prove that their policy of a united front with LaFollette is the very best socialist tactics. They pour the vials of their wrath on those who would isolate themselves within the "corral of the socialist party." To be isolated from the petty bourgeois politicians and the labor fakers is to them the last word in loneliness. It never strikes them that a united front is not limited to intrigues with labor fakers and bourgeois politicians.

FASCISTI SPY SYSTEM STRETCHES EVERYWHERE, SAYS PROFESSOR CRISPI

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Professor Angelo Crespi, of London University, accused the Fascisti of conducting a world wide spy system on behalf of the terroristic Mussolini government. If any Italians living in foreign lands dare to fight the Fascisti, Professor Crespi says, their families residing in Italy are immediately persecuted by the Mussolini government.

JUNIOR MEMBER IS PERSECUTED BY HER TEACHER

Satellite School Marm Obeys Boss' Orders

Teachers at the Clark school have been persecuting pupils who denounced anti-Communist education week.

Rose Plotkin, in the fourth grade of the Clark school who was absent from school Wednesday, was accused by her teacher of being absent because her work with the junior groups of the Young Workers League had made her sick.

When Comrade Plotkin denied this, her teacher said, "You're a liar."

Comrade Plotkin was made to sit at the foot of the class, altho an exceptionally bright pupil. She was given poor marks and accused of not doing her homework, which she also denied. It is thot that the teachers have been persecuting members of the junior groups on orders from the principals, who in turn receive their orders from the chamber of commerce controlled superintendent of schools, McAndrew.

Professor Protests.

Professor Joseph Kalar, of Clemenston, Minnesota, has written the DAILY WORKER protesting against Coolidge's education week. "The teachers of Minnesota and the teachers of the United States in general, are in receipt of a very interesting bulletin for American education week," says Professor Kalar. "All teachers are commanded to carry out this program." The professor then describes the interest of the American Legion in education week, and describes the anti-Communist program.

"It is expected that the children of this great Godly nation will make marvelous strides in their own personal education during education week," Professor Kalar concludes sarcastically, "For God and country!"

Mass Meeting Tomorrow.

The children interested in the junior groups will attend a mass meeting tomorrow at eleven o'clock at 1902 Division street to discuss the results of education week. The case of Rose Plotkin will be discussed, as will the denial of Emmet Memorial hall to the children this week by secret service dicks.

TORY CABINET MAKES THREAT AGAINST EGYPT

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 21.—The British government will avail itself of the opportunity afforded in the death of Sir Lee Stack, in Egypt, to tighten its hold on that country. The tory government is considering openly annexing the Sudan, it was learned today.

Fears French Opposition.

This move, however, would tend to further inflame the slumbering hatred between France and England, and it is expected that the tory government will hesitate to carry out its intentions. French and British interests clash in the Near East.

According to rumors in usually authentic quarters, the American ambassador to England has been approached with a view to ascertaining the views of Washington on the proposed annexation. In view of the growing Anglo-American entente against Japan it is not expected that Washington would make any objection.

British Fleet Active.

The British Mediterranean fleet will be moved to Alexandria. As usual, the admiralty denies that this move has any political significance.

The stern British note to Egypt, it is reported, will place moral responsibility for the death of Sir Lee Stack on Zaghoul Pasha, the Egyptian premier, and the Egyptian government as a result of Zaghoul's agitation regarding the Sudan.

REMEMBER YESTERDAY?

The BIG PAGE? Covering their yellow with our RED?

No brighter splash of RED was ever flung into the face of our enemy than when, about a year ago, The DAILY WORKER was born.

But everything that is born does not live. No revolutionary labor paper will ever celebrate its first anniversary unless it has in back of it the invigorating, sustaining hand of a determined, vital proletariat.

We are in a struggle. Capitalism there. We here. You're on our side, aren't you? GOOD! Let's get the best of the beast!

INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925!

Insurance Policies Are Ready

$1 $5 $10

BUY YOURS!

The Daily Worker
We've got it!
Let's keep it!
and
BUILD!

GOMPERS SENDS HIS LIEUTENANT TO MINNEAPOLIS TO LINE UP OR DISRUPT LOCAL LABOR ASSEMBLY

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 21.—Paul W. Smith, personal representative of Samuel Gompers, in an official appearance before the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly here delivered a drastic and contemptible ultimatum which if carried into effect may spell the smashing of the local labor movement and the inauguration of the "open shop."

A confirmed advocate of capitalistic rule could not have made a more emphatic demand that the workers submit to oppression and tyranny than did Paul Smith in his speech here.

One delegate who claimed to have joined the American Federation of Labor at about the same time that Frank L. Morrison became a member, termed Smith's demand the worst and most brazen insult ever handed American workers anywhere.

Motion by Policeman.

The executive council of the American Federation of Labor, represented officially by Smith, demanded that the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly enter into an agreement that no delegate holding views in sympathy with the Communists (Workers Party), I. W. W., or any other dual organization, or who is known to be a member of the Communist (Workers Party), I. W. W., or any other dual organization shall hold office in the Minneapolis Trades and Labor Assembly.

After hours of intense and spirited debate, Delegate Dave Broderick, of the Police Federation, who slurringly remarked and inferred on the floor of the St. Paul convention, June 17, that W. Z. Foster was in the employ of the department of justice, made a motion to adopt and concur in the recommendations of the central executive council of the A. F. of L. The motion carried with forty-five being recorded in favor of same.

Communists Refuse to Vote.

Comrade Jack Bradon, party member, who was seated as a delegate, arose to explain while the voting was in progress that the Communists would not vote one way or the other. They remained seated and therefore no votes were recorded against the policeman's motion.

Paul W. Smith, in coming before

(Continued on Page 2.)

LABOR ASSEMBLY ATTACKS FAKE WORKER'S PAPER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 21.—The Trades and Labor Assembly by passage of a motion last night began a fight against the Minneapolis Daily Star, a publication originally founded by progressive farmers and workers, but whose present private management has betrayed the cause.

The assembly action provides for the employment of any attorney who will oppose any attempt by the Star to levy an assessment against the stockholders who have already been fleeced of thousands of dollars. R. D. Cramer, editor of the Labor Review, laid down the first barrage against the Star and was followed by numerous other prominent members of the labor movement who said that the farmers and workers were looking to labor for protection of their interests.

One delegate stated that since the non-partisan league had fallen by the wayside, it was up to organized labor to look after the interests of the farmers who were formerly members of the league. As usual, the ultra-conservatives opposed any attempt to promote harmony between the farmers and workers, and stood by the Star, saying that this was not a matter for the assembly to decide. The attorney is to be engaged immediately

GREAT BRITAIN AND U. S. AGREE ON ARMS CONFAB

France and Japan Are Not So Enthusiastic

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 21.—Great Britain and the United States are substantially in accord on the proposition of holding another international arms conference as soon as possible; France and Japan are cool and critical and disinclined to go thru with it this winter.

This, in a nutshell, describes the present status of the various informal moves looking toward a second Washington conference, which President Coolidge promised he would initiate "at the proper time."

A Diplomatic Denial.

The state department's denial that this government is taking steps to bring about a new conference is considered here a purely "diplomatic denial." It was dictated by the fact that to date neither France nor Japan have shown any decided warmth toward the proposal and on the contrary have informally advised American officials they prefer to let the league of nations handle the armament question.

It is true that no invitations have been sent out and no notes exchanged between the powers on the subject of a second conference. But is is also true, despite the fact that the state department declines to characterize the moves as "steps," that the diplomatic representatives of this government and of Great Britain have been busily engaged for the last two weeks in unofficial and informal conversations with other world powers looking to the holding of a conference before spring.

French and Japs Cool.

Whether the French and Japanese objections are so insurmountable as to preclude a conference being held before spring is problematical.

There was decided American-British accord at the first conference and it is apparent that both France and Japan view with something akin to distrust and alarm the prospect of another such accord in another such conference.

* * *

Gentle Hint to Cal.

LONDON, Nov. 21—The Baldwin government is planning to intimate privately to President Coolidge that any invitation from him for the arms conference in Washington would be warmly welcomed.

When the British government has straightened things out in Egypt—with arms—and gets the Soviet situation somewhat cleared up, if it ever will, it has no objection to talking disarmament under the leadership of the United States. There apears to be a strong Japan-French bloc developing against the Anglo-American entente.

JAPS PLAN TO SPEED UP NEGOTIATIONS FOR SOVIET RECOGNITION

TOKYO, Japan, Nov. 21.—The report is current that the Japanese government is telegraphing its minister, Yoshigawa, at Peking, to speed up the negotiations with Soviet Ambassador Karakhan, for a treaty of peace and recognition between Japan and the Soviet Republic.

It is stated that if the fundamentals are agreed upon, no time should be lost in completing the negotiations and recognition of Russia.

Bancroft Arrives.

The new ambassador to Japan from the United States, Edgar A. Bancroft, of Chicago, yesterday presented his credentials and was received by the prince regent. The reception, however, may best be described as "cool and qualified," tho courteous. This is the usual pre-war attitude of diplomats toward each other before they talk on the workers to kill each other while they look on.

SPOKESMAN OF BRITISH TOILERS AT EL PASO TELLS LABOR DUKES RUSSIANS WILL SOLVE PROBLEMS

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 21.—"We have, I feel, nothing to fear or lose from Russian workers," said A. B. Swales, fraternal delegate to the American Federation of Labor convention from the trades unions of Great Britain, in addressing the delegates.

"Their temperaments and conditions may be different from ours. But I have faith that they will solve their problems."

Unity An Insult to Fakers.

This statement, sets forth perhaps, the answer of the British trade unions to the intrigues of Gompers, said to have taken place behind closed doors, in which he, in conference with Swales and other foreign delegates, had tried to influence the English delegates, who are in a commanding position in the Amsterdam International, toward a hostile, instead of a friendly attitude toward admission of the 5,500,000 Russian unionists to Amsterdam.

Certainly the statement of Swales has created a furor in the ranks of the labor fakers. Gompers is raging and promising to attack this "guest of the convention" who dares to suggest unity of western labor with the industrial unions of Soviet Russia, and Chester M. Wright, the yellow ex-socialist who is chief publicity agent for Gompers, is today issuing a printed attack upon Swales in the temporary "convention daily" called the "El Paso Labor Advocate."

Yellow Socialist Sees Red.

In the attack on Swales, Wright says, "There was bitter resentment among many delegates against the introduction and manner of treatment of the Russian question by the British delegates. 'We have, I feel,' said Swales, 'nothing to fear or lose from Russian workers.'"

Incensed by this inference that the attempt by Gompers to fight against the Russian unions being admitted to Amsterdam by threatening to form a "new international" would be opposed by the dominant English group in Amsterdam, Wright spits out his venom at Swales.

Wright "Amazed" at Brotherhood.

"There was amazement," says Wright, "when Swales added, speaking of the Russian workers, 'We will help them and they will help us. Perhaps we have not fully understood them in the past and they have not understood us fully, but this is rapidly changing. We are coming together, not for Bolshevism, as parodied in the capitalist press, but for brotherhood.'

"These statements," continues Wright, "delivered to a labor movement that has been compelled to fight Communist propaganda in its most vicious form, couched in almost the verbatim language used time after time by labor's enemies in America, caused not a little comment. It was the most unfortunate diplomatic blunder in a long time." It is rumored that Gompers is finding it hard to explain why Amsterdam should be asked to repulse the application for admission of 5,500,000 organized workers of Russia, to get a brokendown and spiritless American Federation of Labor with about 2,500,000 members.

Spanish Naval Aviators Die.

BARCELONA, Nov. 21.—Jose Piner and Thomas Perez, naval aviators were killed today when their hydroplane crashed thru the roof of a house here.

LEGION HEAD IS PROMISED LABOR AS CONSCRIPTS

Berry Tells Drain This Is Plan for Next War

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 21.—While Gompers was busy elsewhere being banquetted by the El Paso chamber of commerce, a special committee was appointed to greet James A. Drain, national commander of the American Legion.

William Green, secretary of the United Mine Workers of America, took Gompers place while Major Berry introduced Drain to the delegates of the American Federation of Labor now meeting in convention.

Urges Conscription of Labor.

In introducing Drain, Berry stated that in event of another war, both the American Legion and the American Federation of Labor are in favor of conscription of both labor and capital. He added that Drain was a man "filled with Americanism." Berry was right about that. Drain oozed Americanism from every pore.

As is customary with all speakers, Drain began with praising Gompers. At least he supposed it was customary to say that "Gompers is a man who is the friend of kings and presidents." Drain went on to prove, probably to enlighten the British, if not the German delegates, that "America won the war."

What Abot the $230,000 Balance.

Drain referred feelingly to Major Berry who, so he said, had "come from a $20,000 farm in Tennessee for our orphans." Drain did not mention the $300,000 or so that Berry misappropriated from the funds of the Firemen's Union, as charged by the Chicago local of his union, and used to finance a corporation owned by Berry and his family in Tennessee. One who can get away with $300,000 of union

(Continued on Page 2.)

WEISBORD QUITS THE SOCIALIST PARTY, DENOUNCES OPPORTUNISM OF LEADERS, AND SEEKS COMMUNIST MEMBERSHIP

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BOSTON, Mass., Nov. 21.—Albert Weisbord, secretary-organizer, New England district, member national executive committee socialist party, national secretary young people's socialist league and national director of young people's department of socialist party, has issued a statement resigning from the socialist party and made application to join the Workers Party.

Weisbord denounces rank opportunism of socialist leaders and its policy of class collaboration and endorses the principles, policies and statutes of the Communist International, and its American section, the Workers Party. Weisbord ends his statement of resignation with "Long live the Workers (Communist) Party of America."

Weisbord's statement follows:

"To the members of the Workers (Communist) Party of America:

Greetings!

I hasten to apply for membership in the party of Lenin in America and to enroll under the red banner of the Communist International. The passive and opportunistic socialist party must be exposed before the American proletariat as the enemy it is.

Long live the Communist movement!

Long live the Workers Party!

ALBERT WEISBORD,
Secretary-Organizer, New England District, Socialist Party.

GREAT BRITAIN SPREADS LIES AGAINST INDIA

Sends Officials Here to Do Dirty Job

By M. K. MORSE.
(For the Federated Press)

(NOTE:—M. K. Morse is the penname of an Indian now residing in the United States and cognizant of the British official propaganda about India for loose in this country. By his close Indian connections he is able to expose the British statements.)

• • •

Great Britain is seeking American co-operation to continue her tyranny in India. Lord Sydenham of Combe in a recent article in the Current History Magazine of the New York Times has made this clear.

To mislead the American public, official and non-official propagandist who falsify the situation in India for the benefit of the British government are flooding America.

Says Unrest is Not Serious.

Otto Rothfeld, according to the New York Times, is the latest addition. He was for many years a member of the Indian civil service and has recently come from Bombay to lecture on India. He classes himself as a liberal and is anxious to spread the impression that the majority of the Indian people are satisfied with the so-called reforms granted by the British government, that unrest in India is not serious, and that in due time the Indian people will be granted self-government by the British.

Facts Give the Lie.

If the political unrest in India is not serious, it is hard to understand why the British government has suspended the reform measures in Bengal and the central province and why the viceroy of India is using his veto and "certifying" power to run the government, regardless of the legislative branch. The British government does not enjoy the confidence of the people of India and the best evidence of it is that within the last few months in Bengal alone about 60 of the most enlightened Indian political leaders, two of whom were members of Bengal legislative council and one the former chief executive officer of Calcutta, have been put in jail without trial and without specific charge, but on mere suspicion of assembling with "dangerous" characters, believing in the overthrow of British rule in India by violence.

India Ruled by a "Czar."

This really means that there is no civil government in India. Earl Reading is ruling India like a czar, assisted by Lord Lytton, governor of Bengal, and others who deny the simple right of court trial to persons merely suspected of political agitation. The British government in India has surpassed the czarist regime by denying all forms of trial to political offenders in India, suspected of working for independence.

Cleveland to Hold Dance.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Nov. 21.—Local Cleveland of the Workers Party has arranged a dance and entertainment to be held Thanksgiving eve, Wednesday, November 26, at the Institute Hall, 2491 East 55th street, opposite East Tech high school. Admission will be 25 cents. Free favors will be given out. All party members, sympathizers, and reds of every hue cannot afford to miss this affair, which will be one of the outstanding radical gatherings of the year.

"DAILY WORKER" TO EXPOSE MISTREATMENT OF WAR VETERANS

WIDESPREAD dissatisfaction exists thruout the country among the ex-service men who were disabled in the "war for democracy" and who upon being discharged from the army, were derided their right to compensation, insurance and decent hospital treatment. Conditions today under Coolidge's director of the veterans' bureau, Major Hines, are as bad as they were under the regime of the teapot domers, who were forced out of office because of their corruption.

Beginning in Monday's issue of the DAILY WORKER, Karl Reeve will contribute a series of three articles on the treatment by the Coolidge administration of ex-service men. The material used will be largely exclusive, being evidence contributed to the DAILY WORKER and the Workers Party by ex-soldiers, revealing the rottenness of the capitalistic Coolidge administration.

These articles will tell of the present treatment of insane and disabled ex-service men, incapacitated in the war, and what attitude the benevolent Washington politicians are taking toward the care of disabled soldiers.

GOMPERS RAG, THRU MISTAKE OF COURSE, ON RECORD FOR "VIOLENT ACTION" AS "GUIDING PRINCIPLE"

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 21.—The visitors and newspaper correspondents at the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor are still chuckling, more or less noisily at the joke on Gompers sprung, possibly by accident, in the "El Paso Labor Advocate," a temporary "convention daily paper" being published by the Gompers' gang at the convention and devoted to puffing the official family.

On the front page of the issue of Tuesday, Nov. 18, is the gross page streamer headline — "Sacrifice and Service Urged by Gompers." Then, underneath, a two column sub-head in big twenty-point type says—"Let Violent Action Be Guiding Principle, He Declares."

While this may express Mr. Gompers' "violent" opposition to the Communist work in the unions, it is remotely possible as deduced from the context of his speech, that the headline should have said "Voluntary" instead of "Violent." However, we hope that this little error will escape the eyes of the department of justice of the United States, as poor old Sammy is getting too old for to take Bill Haywood's empty cell at Leavenworth.

TEDDY MAY NOW REST IN PEACE; 'TIS SAID ALICE MAY HAVE SON

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 22.—Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth, eldest daughter of Theodore Roosevelt, is expecting the birth of a son. Mrs. Longworth, wife of the republican congressman, has been for many years an outspoken advocate of large families—for the workers. This is Mrs. Longworth's first child in eighteen years of married life.

GOMPERS AID TO OPEN SHOPERS

(Continued from page 1)

the central labor body of Minneapolis, stated that this was his second official mission to this city and that after spending over eighteen months here he had thought that it would never become necessary for him to make a second trip. Smith, in launching into his attack on the Communists, said: "Labor finds itself in the position where it must take certain steps to protect its integrity.

"During the past five years a force has been in evidence in America seeking the destruction of organized labor by 'boring from within' actions. I have devoted the last five years of my connection with the labor movement to combatting this force which is slowly, but surely destroying the trade unions of this country.

Court Employers' Favors.

"If we are to court and receive the confidence of the employers, we must be willing to co-operate with them, and we cannot hope to be able to receive their confidence when conditions are such as they are in this assembly. The Communists (Workers Party) have discredited this local labor movement. Now, brother chairman and brothers, my errand here is to say to you today that unless you are willing to enter into an agreement with the central executive council of the American Federation of Labor that no delegate shall hold office in this assembly who is a member of the Communist (Workers Party), I. W. W., or any other dual organization, your charter must be revoked."

Upholsterer Fights Ouster.

The first delegate to take the floor in opposition to the demands put forth by Gompers' lieutenant was Leif Vandenbergh, former international official of the Upholsterers' Union. Vandenbergh contended that tho he personally was not a member of the Workers Party nor in sympathy with their principles, he wanted to see the rights of free speech and thought enforced. Vanderbergh termed this the most sweeping and drastic ultimatum ever delivered to any group of workers.

He wanted to know from Smith why the central executive council had failed to ask that republicans, democrats and members of the Invisible Empire —the hooded Knights of the Ku Klux Klan—be also barred, as well as members of the Workers Party. This question Smith absolutely refused to reply to, saying that he was not there to engage in disputes designed to catch him asleep at the switch.

Cramer Pussyfoots Some More.

Robert D. Cramer, editor of the Minneapolis Labor Review, displayed his usual "pussyfooting" attitude and proved the contention of the editorial writer of the DAILY WORKER that Cramer is not "red" at all—except his hair.

Cramer said, in part: "I believe this agreement had ought to be entered into. I do not believe that any man who holds another movement above that of the trade union movement should hold office in this assembly." It was plain to be seen that Cramer was simply sparring to hold on to his "pie card" as editor of the Labor Review.

Johnson is Forceful.

J. O. Johnson, member of the Workers Party—delegate to the assembly from the carpenters and a member of organized labor for the past twenty-five years—made a stirring and forceful appeal for the delegates to assert their manhood and womanhood. Johnson raised the point that the Workers Party is not dual union, that some of the most active and efficient workers in the trade union movement are Communists.

Jack Bradon, party member and sitting as a delegate for the first time tonight, defended the right of Communists to belong to the trade union movement.

In opening, Comrade Bradon questioned: "I would like to ask Brother Smith if there is a rule anywhere in the A. F. of L. regulations which state that members of the republican, democratic, farmer-labor party, the Klan, I. W. W., the socialist labor party or Workers Party cannot be officers in the American Federation of Labor.

"If there is such a ruling, then I want to ask why it has not been enforced against Mr. Berry, reactionary Pressmen's Union head, and John L. Lewis, of the Mine Workers?"

Proud of His Communism.

"I have been in the military service over ten years, served in nearly every major engagement in the fronts over there, but I have yet to see such a display of autocracy as has been shown here tonight by the representative from the central executive council of the A. F. of L.

"I'm a former soldier, was decorated for bravery in action, pardon me if that sounds like bragging, but I'm not ashamed to stand up here tonight and say that I'm a Communist. Bothers, I'm proud of it, I'll tell you that."

Attorney Shows His Colors.

R. S. Wigrin, assistant city attorney, delegate from the City and County Employes, supported the onslaught against the Communists, as did Franklin Hynes, conservative leader, and Gunner Olson, recently elected farmer-labor legislator. Olson confessed his total ignorance of the Workers Party principles, but said he was in favor of Mr. Smith's demands because the Communists stood for a "bloody revolution."

FILIPINOS DEMANDING IMMEDIATE, ABSOLUTE, COMPLETE INDEPENDENCE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MANILA, P. I., Nov. 21.—Immediate, absolute and complete independence is demanded in a resolution adopted by the Filipino independence commission today.

Representative Recto, who has just returned from the United States created a sensation in the meeting when he accused Manuel Quezon and Representative Comena with falsehood because of statements they had made that they had opposed the Fairfield bill.

Recto produced letters from the war department to Governor-General Wood stating categorically that Quezon had agreed to support the bill. He also produced a letter from the war department stating Comena had apologized for attacks on Governor Wood and promised the Filipinos would co-operate with Wood in the future.

Big Haule of Fish.

MALAGA, Nov. 21. — Fishermen of Torrox, a hamlet near here, are making such unprecedented catches that the price has dropped to five centimes a basket. Thousands of baskets of fish have been used as fertiliser.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

LEGION HEAD IS PROMISED LABOR AS CONSCRIPTS

Berry Tells Drain This Is Plan for Next War

(Continued from page 1)

funds can well afford to make a $30,000 demonstration for war babies.

Drain recommended the committee which is gathering funds for these war derelicts, by telling the delegates that Hanford was an honorary chairman of it. He added that the Legion, as everybody knows, is conducting an "Americanization" campaign with forty planks, chiefly, "respect for the flag," and "restricted immigration."

In this regard, the convention saw eye to eye with the American Legion and passed unanimously without discussion, a resolution against modification of the restrictive immigration law and the Japanese exclusion provision.

"For God and Czar."

The "representatives of labor" listened approvingly to Drain's statement that the Legion was for a draft bill which would make every citizen take part in war, that preparedness was a peace measure and that to maintain peace we must have a navy equal to any and an efficient army with all citizens ready to fight "for peace at the drop of a hat. We stand for God and country in peace as the soldiers stood for God and country in war," he shouted. Green, deeply moved by mention of the "heavenly father," he hopes to avoid for some time, said in reply that he was sure "everyone was inspired with Drain's adress."

"Non-Partisan" Report Offered.

The long report on labor's activity in the recent election and the course proposed for the future by the executive council, were offered yesterday. In brief, it does not prevent the federation leaders from indorsing LaFollette, or any other candidate, but the federation is constrained to take no hand in the C. P. P. A. or other labor party movements.

It is likely that this, as all other proposals of the council, will pass without much fuss. If there are any left wing delegates, they are in hiding. The convention is the most hopeless one I have ever attended.

Ameringer Renounces Socialist Faith.

There are about 25 ex-socialists here, but they have marched out from the rest only by being more reactionary than the usual run of fakers. Oscar Ameringer, correspondent of the Federated Press, and once a great "red," admits in today's issue of the convention daily,"The Labor Advocate," that Gompers was right and he was wrong about the class struggle.

"Gompers was issuing charters," says Ameringer, "when I was issuing manifestos. Sam was right when I was only consulting the Communist Manifesto." Thus he renounces Marx for Gompers.

And the Strikes He Broke.

Ameringer continues with, "If we measure Gompers by the years he dried, the smiles he spread, the longings he stilled, the hopes he aroused, he is a mighty big man. I am writing this tribute to atone for some of the harsh things I have said about him in years gone by. I thought it better to hand him my little bouquet while he can still enjoy it."

This is the fourth day of the convention sessions and not one delegate has yet spoken from the floor. A fake fight is expected on the "World Court." It is a servile and slushy convention.

The day's relief was adjournment for a barbeque with the Mexican federation at the Juarez race track.

Mexican Agrarian Law.

In the Mexican federation Chairman Rico pointed out the advantages of the agrarian laws as beneficial to the poor, because they limit the amount of land a single person or society can legally own. Those having an excess, must sell on terms provided by the government. If the owners refuses to sell then the government will parcel out the land.

Promises New Deal.

Ricardo Trevino, secretary of the Mexican federation, said that all contracts and concession made by former governments since 1876, which resulted in accumulation of land, water, and natural resources in the hands of individuals or corporations, would be revised and might be declared null and void if dangerous to public welfare.

Grassman, the fraternal delegate from Germany, made the same speech to the Mexican convention as to the A. F. of L. gathering, except that he left out the attack on the Communists. Perhaps he was impressed by the sight of several hundred overalled labor delegates, some wearing bright red shirts. The convention paid tribute to Felipe Carrillo, the labor leader executed by the de la Huerta forces in the recent rebellion.

RANGOON, Nov. 21.—Four Buddhist monks were sentenced here today to from five to seven years in prison, when found guilty of attacking two American missionaries, Professor and Mrs. GGreason.

Six Communists Hold Seats in the Next Norwegian Storthing

(Special to The Daily Worker)

CHRISTIANIA, Norway, Nov. 21.—Following the elections, six Communists have gained seats in the Norwegian parliament. Communism was one of the major issues of the elections, prohibition being the only other matter that was widely discussed.

The conservatives gained control of the "storthing" (parliament) with fifty-four seats. The Norwegian labor party has twenty-four seats. Tranmael, who campaigned for the Norwegian labor party, denounced the Communists.

Let the Red Flag of the Daily Worker Replace Tribune's Yellow Flag

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the drive to "Insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925!" is on; bulwarked with an unbounded supply of Communist enthusiasm and energy.

The Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, in a special call, declares this to be "The Party's Biggest Task." But it is also the task of every reader of the DAILY WORKER, many of whom have not yet been won for the party's ranks.

• • • •

It is because the DAILY WORKER is the central organ of the Workers (Communist) Party that it is also the fighting giant of the oppressed masses of the American working class. In order to wage successful struggles against capitalism, however, the DAILY WORKER must be able to reach the masses. It must be able at all times to interest the many, and bring them into action.

The establishment of the DAILY WORKER was a tremendous victory in itself. But it will be an even greater victory for us to enlist the great hosts of exploited workers and poor farmers in its support, at all times. That is the object of the present campaign to, "BUILD THE DAILY WORKER!"

• • • •

Capitalism has its huge propaganda machines. It supports them liberally with its gold. It stands back of them because it needs them. They are useful instruments in the campaign to deceive the workers and farmers and keep them in submission.

The so-called Curtis publications, during 1923, returned a net income of $11,863,432. This group showed the greatest profits during this year. It includes the Saturday Evening Post, the exclusive reading matter, outside of the yellow dailies, of great myriads of white collar slaves; the Ladies' Home Journal, for the women and children, and the "Country Gentleman" for the farmer who refuses to realize that he is a worker. That is the usual combination. The Curtis publications also include one of the worst "open shop" daily newspapers in Philadelphia.

• • •

Then there is the Hearst group. It comes next with a net profit of $10,251,312 during the past year. These millions of dollars have not only been taken from the greatest army of newspaper readers ever gathered together by one management in the history of journalism, but they have also been lifted from great hosts of readers of the salacious magazines issued by this most unscrupulous of publishers.

• • • •

It is interesting to see that the next greatest profits fall to the chosen press spokesmen of capitalism in the nation's two largest cities, The Tribune, open shop organ in Chicago, taking $3,285,709, and the Times, peer of the reactionist press in New York, getting $2,866,030; with $1,494,612 going to the Chicago Daily News, while the profits of Funk & Wagnalls, publishers of the Literary Digest, total $1,415,890. The business of prostitution has always paid well; but it has proven most profitable in the case of the yellow press. It shows how well capitalism keeps its ladies of the press.

• • •

It is against this great power that the rising waves of the working class press lash in all their fury. The bought press has strength only because it is read by the millions. If it could not lure millions of readers into its fold it would be useless to its masters. The power of this press crumbles immediately the workers are won for their own press.

To win the workers away from the capitalist class press in support of their own working class press is the task of the drive to build the DAILY WORKER.

• • •

The Chicago Tribune, out of its enormous profits, has just erected one of the most complete newspaper plants in the world. It is housed in one of Chicago's most sumptuous buildings. The Tribune claims that the flag that flies from the top of its tower, breasts the breezes from the highest pinnacle in Chicago.

The Tribune has climbed high. But the workers may well remember the saying that, "the higher they climb the farther they fall." For it is the task of labor, especially the workers of Chicago under the vanguard leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party to tumble The Tribune to the earth, thru building the power of their own DAILY WORKER.

• • •

One of the especially appealing slogans of this drive is, "Let us cover their yellow with Red!" Instead of the yellow flag of The Tribune, flying from the highest mast in Chicago, make it the Red Flag of the DAILY WORKER.

• • •

Read again the program of the campaign as outlined in yesterday's DAILY WORKER. Read again the call to action of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers (Communist) Party.

• • • •

In the words of our campaign director, Comrade Alfred Wagenknecht, "Understanding and ACTION gave us Soviet Russia. You understand! NOW ACT!" for the DAILY WORKER, your weapon in the struggle to triumph over your enemies.

BRITON BLAMES OPIUM TRAFFIC ON GOVERNMENT

GENEVA, Nov. 21.—The British government is responsible for the continuation of the opium traffic in India, a Britaher, Rev. E. J. Dukes, charged in the conference dealing with the smoking of opium. Dukes is representative of one of nine societies trying to supress the smoking of opium.

"The British, and not the people of India control the government of India, and the people of India are not represented in this conference," Dukes charged. Dukes presented a petition signed by 206,000 East Indians, urging the total extirpation of the opium plant except for medicinal purposes.

Horace G. Alexander of the English Quakers, made an attack on the policy of the India government and the British colonial office in exploiting the sale of opium to reap rich profits at the expense of the people who are encouraged to contract the opium habit.

Britain and Japan are still fighting over the control of the opium trade.

13 I. W. W. Regain Liberty.

SACRAMENTO, Cal.—With the dismissal of criminal syndicalism indictments against 13 members of the I. W. W. in Sacramento, another blow has been dealt to this vicious law. The defendants were delegates to a state convention of the I. W. W., arrested last February. One other defendant died from pneumonia contracted from prison conditions; another was dismissed because of severe illness. A trial last June resulted in a disagreement.

DOUBLE REPEAT FOR BOLSHEVIK DRAMATIC FILM

"Beauty and Bolshevik" Draws Big Crowds

The repeat performance of "The Beauty and the Bolshevik" which will come off at Tyrian Hall, Philadelphia, Nov. 28, was inspired by the tremendous success of the first show at Lulu Temple, but while it was a precedent it was not allowed to be a record.

New York went one better by arranging a double repeat. On top of its eleven day show in August it has arranged a two day show for Nov. 21 and 23 in Brownsville and an additional show in Harlem, at the Finnish Workers' Home, on Nov. 24.

Several other localities are planning to run several neighborhood shows in place of the one big downtown performance. Toledo and Detroit being the leaders in this move. Smaller cities have found from experience that one night's showing means a much more certain success than a hasty spread over too much time and territory. Definitely fixed dates for "The Beauty and the Bolshevik," and "Russia in Overalls," are as follows:

Brownsville, N. Y., Nov. 21, 23; Dowell, Ill., Nov. 23; Harlem, N. Y., Nov. 24; Philadelphia, Pa., Nov. 28; West Frankfort, Ill., Dec. 5; Dillonvale, Ohio, Dec. 19; Chicago, Ill., Jan. 13.

For other films routed by the International Workers' Aid, these dates are made: "Russian and Germany": Nov. 26, New York Finns, Nov. 27, Milwaukee Bazaar, Nov. 30, Chicago Slovak Dance. "Polikushka": Nov. 30, New York Finns, Dec. 27, Rock, Mich. "The Fifth Year": Nov. 26, Mass, Mich.

In many cities movie arrangements are pending and in a very short time dates will be fixed. Among them are: California: San Francisco; Illinois: Joliet, Christopher, Lavington, Nokomis and Zeigler; Iowa: Davenport; Michigan: Detroit, Grand Rapids, Saginaw; Minnesota: Chisholm; Ohio: Bellaire, Cleveland, Powhattan Point and Toledo; Pennsylvania: Bentleyville, Marianna, Erie and Wilkes Barre; Nebraska: Omaha; South Dakota: Frederick; Wyoming: Hannah. In addition the eastern district also has a long list of pending dates.

If your city is not already on this list, get after any and every labor organization to which you belong and put it there. Any such organization no matter how large or what it language, can run a successful movie show. Send for list of films to International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Illinois.

Young Workers League Member Beaten Up at Sexton Stove Co. Plant

Gangsters employed by the Sexton Stove company, 700 North Sacramento Ave., badly beat up Comrade Hyman Bornstein, of branch five of the Young Workers League, who was selling the Young Worker in front of the factory gates. Bornstein was ordered to stop selling the paper, which exposed working conditions in the factories of Chicago, but asserted his right to sell papers on the sidewalk.

The manager of the stove company then sent out a burly watchman, who shoved Bornstein half a block down the street, cursing violently at him. Bornstein remained at the end of the bridge half a block from the factory and continued selling Young Workers and distributing cards advertising the purposes of the Young Workers League.

Five gangsters then came out of the factory and beat Bornstein, grabbing the Young Workers and throwing them into the street. They quickly made their get-away as a crowd of workers from the stove factory gathered. The workers picked up the papers from the street, and stood around reading the paper, discussing it with Bornstein.

Bornstein was badly beaten about the face and head, his lips and cheeks bleeding profusely.

Ince Funeral Today.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Nov. 21.—Private funeral services will be held here Friday for Thomas H. Ince, noted motion picture producer, it was announced today.

George E. Pashas
COZY LUNCH
2426 Lincoln Avenue
One-half block from Imperial Hall
CHICAGO

WHEAT WEALTH IS ONLY MYTH TO THE FARMER

Newspaper Prices Are Strangers to Him

By ALFRED KNUTSON.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

RAY, N. D., Nov. 21.—There is much talk by bankers and big business men in the country that the farmer is getting well off, if not rich, by the increase in the price of wheat.

Senator McNary now says it is not necessary to press very much his bill for farm relief because for the present the farmer is on top.

$1.80 Wheat?

The other day the Minneapolis wheat market quoted number one wheat at $1.80 per bushel, and the impression was given by the newspapers, which carried this news item, that the farmer, of course, was getting rich.

As a matter of fact, the price given above was on a few hundred bushels of Montana wheat with particularly high gluten content. Prices generally were much lower. Here at Ray, North Dakota, for instance, the farmers received $1.27 for number one wheat when the Montana wheat was sold at $1.80 in Minneapolis.

Spread in Prices.

Another fact to remember is that the Minneapolis wheat price is about 24 cents higher than the prices quoted out here in the west, so that the Montana farmer did not get more than $1.56 for his wheat. Also, the capitalist press usually gives the price for the best grade of wheat, but it is not very often that the farmer has this kind of wheat to sell. Most of the wheat that is taken in here at Ray now grades number three, and this sells at five cents per bushel less than number one.

Who Gets the Wheat Money?

The farmer is getting rich on wheat this year! Yes. Let us take North Dakota as an example. The total value of the entire wheat crop in the state is approximately $100,000,000. This is what the farmer is selling the wheat for, but, of course, it does not mean that he is getting this much money. He must pay for seed, repairs on machinery, threshing and hired help, so that his income is cut down to at least $75,000,000. If we figure in every item of expense that it takes to produce the crop, it would be even less than this amount, but we are going to be charitable with the prosperity howlers.

Wheat Wealth a Myth to Farmer.

The North Dakota farmer, then, has $75,000,000 to go on. What becomes of it? Does he keep it? No. He has back taxes and back interest of over $100,000,000 to pay, without taking into account this year's tax and this year's interest. One farmer showed me a tax statement of $958 and said he barely earned enough net from the sale of his crops this year to pay this tax. Another farmer, who got a bumper wheat crop, told me that he paid as much on his debts as he could and then kept $200 with which to feed and clothe his family between now and the next harvest!

Exploiters Get the Money.

The large majority of the farmers in this state have given up hope of ever being able to pay their loans. Their main struggle is in paying taxes and interest and even this is impossible. The banks, machinery concerns and investment companies are, of course, elated over the increase in the price of wheat because they get most of the money. No wonder they were in favor of Coolidge and his prosperity! But the farmer will have a tough road to travel until capitalism collapses and he, together with the industrial workers, establishes his own rule in the United States.

SOLDIERS REBEL AT BEING KEPT OVER TIME IN MILITARY SERVICE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MADRID, Nov. 21.—Many cases of insubordination have occurred in the barracks here it is learned today. Two hundred soldiers here are under arrest and facing court martial for mutiny. The trouble occurred when soldiers whose time had expired were retained in the army by Dictator Marquis de Magaz. Many of these soldiers are serving in Africa.

Recruits of the 1924 class, who are not due to be summoned into the army until February, have been called to the colors and the families of the soldiers are protesting. Discontent in Spain over the army situation is growing.

'YOUNG WORKER' SELLS FAST AND BOSSES SWEAR

Finks, Cops and Employers Greet YWL Newsies

"Young Worker—get a copy of—" "Get one for me, too, Bill"—"Wanna own the earth, donchа!" "Right dope in that sheet."—"You dirty Roosians!"—"Gimme three of them papers!"—"Move along—I'm the law here!" "Young Worker—get your Young Worker!"

Workers—boys and girls—pouring into the street by the thousands. Lining the curbstone, a dozen members of the Young Workers League, papers in one hand, pluggers in the other. Fat-bellied bosses swearing volubly. Pennies clinking. Eager hands outstretched for the Young Worker. Bewhiskered police pushing, shoving, spitting and threatening.

Sell Like Hot Cakes.

And above all the racket, the voice of the Young Worker newsies: "Get your copy of the Young Worker! All about Montgomery Ward. All about conditions inside. Get your Young Worker and find out about the boss! Every young worker reads the Young Worker."

Two days in which the young workers in the plant bought up every available copy of the young Communist organ, two days in which interest of the workers inside rose higher and higher as they read the reasons for their long hours and their short purses two days in which the Young Worker passed from hand to hand, and news of the Young Workers League passed from mouth to mouth—and the bosses of the Montgomery Ward mail order house decided to get busy.

Bosses Get Their Finks.

They got their finks. The finks glanced into the paper, popped questions at the newsies, looked wise—and left. They got the police. The police shoved the Leaguers into the street, mauled them and manhandled them, threatened arrest—and left, too. And the young workers bought the papers and asked countless questions about the League. Already over a thousand papers exposing the terrible conditions among the workers in the mail order houses have been placed in the hands of the slaves of Montgomery Ward.

Boss Gets His Answer.

The bosses put up a bit of a scrap. A gentleman with gold watch and chain on a rounded belly approached a League member, and with true aristocratic air said this:

"Well, I'll push your God-damn Russian mug off into the gutter!"

He got his answer: "I'll push your God-damn capitalist mug off the earth."

A policeman came to the rescue. "No right to sell papers here. No right to peddle that kind of stuff. Come along before I decide to hit you hard."

A newsstand bearing all the capitalist papers in the city stood before the entrance to Montgomery. The League members glanced in that direction.

"Yes, yes," said the policeman. "But that's the Daily News."

"And this," said the League member, "is the Young Worker."

And a sudden rush of business prevented further conversation with the police. The newsie had very little time to talk to bosses and their police aids. They were busy selling, explaining, and getting the names and addresses of the Montgomery Ward slaves who are planning to join the Young Workers League.

MOSCOW WORKERS WELL DRESSED AND HAVE HEALTHY LOOK, SAYS AMERICAN FACTORY INVESTIGATOR

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 21.—Moscow workers are warmly clothed and look well fed, Alice Hamilton, professor of Boston University and prominent New England liberal says, according to a cable from the Russian capital, where she is investigating methods of labor protection and factory hygiene.

"In spite of all that is said by the press outside Russia, the inhabitants of Moscow have, in my eyes, the look of well-fed people," declares Miss Hamilton. "They are warmly clothed—and, in any case, the appearance of the Moscow workers is much superior, in these respects, to that of the workers of Western European industrial centers."

CHICAGO PARTY ACTIVITIES

C. C. C. Meeting Nov. 19. Industrial Activity in Chicago Increasing Swiftly.

INDUSTRIAL, trade union-political activity in Workers Party, local Chicago, is increasing rapidly, it was pointed out at the meeting of the city central committee Wednesday, November 19. The district and city industrial committees worked out a joint plan of work for every industry, T. U. E. L. groups and groups within the unions and already is producing results. The groups are picking up strongly. The elementary points, such as organization of the unorganized, amalgamation, uniform agreements for the various trades, united fight of all the trades in the industry to establish and maintain an eight-hour day and against wage cuts are the practical phases of the program put forward and are being given a revolutionary character.

Comrade Bell in his report showed the excellent gains being made by the metal trades group. In the building trades, comrades are organizing to prevent the expulsion of our comrades and militants and feel that they will be successful, if all other comrades will be on the job. The Progressive Building Trades Worker and the DAILY WORKER were distributed by the thousands in the elections in Chicago among the carpenters. Attendance of building trades workers is increasing with every meeting of this T. U. E. L. group.

In the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, more comrades are on the job in the local unions, the comrades are being organized for the coming elections in the Amalgamated.

The barbers' group has gotten together and worked out a program for the elections in the union on an independent slate.

A concerted effort is being made to get our comrades in unions on the job in all forms of union activity, in delegated bodies, district councils, etc. Comrades failing in this important work will be subject to action from the party. The printing group has been organized and has begun to functionfar more efficiently and has issued its first bulletin, The Amalgamationist.

The work among the shop nuclei was reported as progressing favorably and many branches reported an increase of interest in industrial activity. The party as a consequence of having the industrial registration is in a position to follow up every member in his union attendance and at T. U. E. L. group meetings, and branches are expected to co-operate.

Young Workers' League in Big Campaign.

The league is conducting a city-wide campaign on the mail order houses which employ thousands of young workers at the lowest of wages. League members are responding well to sell copies of Young Workers and to agitate among the workers in the mail order houses. A nuclei in each mail order house is the goal set and two have already been formed.

City of Chicago is raising $400 towards the Weekly Young Worker to come out on Jan. 1. Holding affair on November 22, at Workers' Lyceum, to raise money for the factory campaign.

Applications—Many Members.

A total of 31 new members were accepted from the following branches:

South Side Scandinavian, 1; German, 2; E. M. Scandinavian, 3; South Slav No. 1, 3; Nucleus No. 1, 1; Greek, 1; Cicero English, 3; Douglas Park English, 2; North Side English, 3; Mid-City English, 2; S. S. English, 2.

Among them were union members from the Amalgamated Shoe Workers, Agricultural Workers, I. W. W., Carpenters, Machinists, Hod Carriers. A number of transfers to and from Chicago were granted.

DAILY WORKER Drive.

A drive to insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925 has been started. The DAILY WORKER and party have co-operated to place a comrade, B. Edwards on the job to take charge of The DAILY WORKER and literature department in Chicago.

Comrades should give every aid possible to DAILY WORKER-Labor Defense Bazaar starting this week, arrangements for which are progressing very well.

Red Aid work is also starting and branches will receive letters with instructions on how to proceed with the work.

The educational program is going over big. In addition to the regular courses the branches are being covered with reports on the Fifth Congress of the C. I. and especially is there discussion on shop nuclei. The city committee is also visiting the branch committees in order to make the branches function more efficiently in their work and to eliminate as much routine as possible.

The Czecho-Slovak comrades have made fine progress since the split and have strengthened their forces tremendously. They are now in a position to issue a weekly newspaper, The Worker, on the 24th of this month and are holding a membership meeting on November the 24th to celebrate the occasion.

The work in the Workers Party has now taken on a very systematic and fundamental character. The stressing and developing of the trade union industrial political work is extremely important and is producing already very good results. Those are the fundamental activities which will bring permanent contact with the workers and in time assure Communist leadership over them. This phase of the work will be pushed to the utmost and comrades in the party will have to toe the mark or go elsewhere.

The party is certainly and surely making real headway and always it must be further and harder pushing for the Communist goal.

Martin Abern, Secretary,
Workers Party, Local Chicago.

MacDonald to South

LONDON, November 21. — Former Premire MacDonald is considering a visit to South America as soon as debate over the King's opening speech to parliament has been concluded, according to the Daily Mail.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

GARRICK THEATRE

Tomorrow Sunday Afternoon
2:30 o'clock

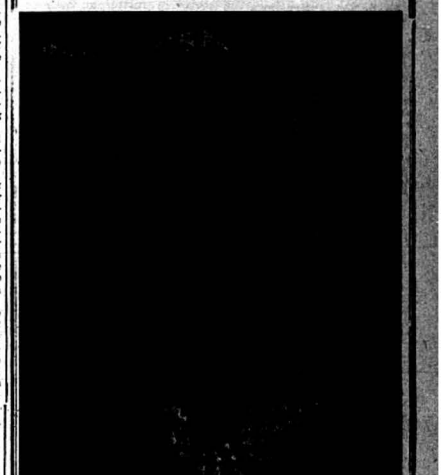
Grand Farewell Lecture

Professor Frederick Starr
Formerly of the University of Chicago

"The Future of the Nations"

What will be the immediate future of America, Russia, Germany, France, England, China and Japan?

CONCERT
for the benefit of
"VILNIS"
the official organ of the Workers Party of America, Lithuanian Section



Sunday November 23, 1924
at 3:30 P. M.
at the
West Side Auditorium
Racine and Taylor Streets

A great program including V. Svetloff, tenor from the Russian Grand Opera; K. Menkel-Januska, soprano from New York City; Alex Kaminsky, violinist; also the big Lithuanian Liberty Chorus and the Lithuanian Workers' String Orchestra, and a number of other entertaining singers.

After the program dancing until late at night, to the music of a good union orchestra.

Comrades and friends are all invited to come.
COMMITTEE.

GRAND CONCERT and BALL

Saturday, November 22
At
Workers' Lyceum
2733 Hirsch Blvd.

Tickets 35c Best of Music

Arranged by Former Marshfield Branch, Young Workers League, for the benefit of the city organization.

New York Readers, Attention!

WORKERS' SCHOOL
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA, DISTRICT No. 2
208 EAST 12th STREET, NEW YORK CITY

COURSES BEGIN DECEMBER 1

REGISTER NOW!

PARTY TRAINING COURSE:
PRINCIPLES OF COMMUNISM—W. W. Weinstone
MARXISM—Dr. J. Mindel
INTERNATIONAL COMMUNIST MOVEMENT—W. W. Weinstone
AMERICAN ECONOMIC and SOCIAL HISTORY—A. Trachtenberg

TRADE UNION TRAINING COURSE:
HISTORY OF AMERICAN TRADE UNIONISM—Solon De Leon
PROBLEMS OF INDUSTRIES—A Symposium
ORGANIZATION

GENERAL COURSES:
CURRENT EVENTS—Ludwig Lore
PUBLIC SPEAKING—Carl Brodsky
ENGLISH—Eli B. Jacobson.

WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL CENTERS:
HARLEM—64 East 104th Street
BRONX—1347 Boston Road
WILLIAMSBURG—61 Graham Avenue, Brooklyn
BROWNSVILLE—1844 Pitkin Avenue, Brooklyn

REGISTER NOW for classes in Elements of Communism, Economic Science, American Economic History, English.

Registration and Information at office of Workers' School, 208 East 12th St., Room 1; at Workers' Educational Centers, or thru party branches.

Lithuanians to Hold Concert Tomorrow Night

The official organ of the Lithuanian section of the Workers Party of America, VILNIS, with the beginning of next week is moving into its new quarters at 2116 S. Halsted street.

The moving will somewhat delay business activities for the week but the VILNIS comrades are doing their best to have things straightened out by the end of the week so as not to impair service they have always given their friends and comrades.

The new quarters are more conveniently located, in a business center of the Lithuanian poulation. Not only is the location good, but the printing plant itself and the office will be more adequately furnished, enabling them to serve comrades and friends more efficiently and effectively.

Club Rooms and Meeting Halls.

There will be a club room, where Workers Party and Young Workers League branches and other organizations of workers will be able to hold their meetings.

In order to help allay the expenses of moving, a concert is being given for the benefit of VILNIS, Sunday, Nov. 23, at the West Side Auditorium, Racine and Taylor streets, at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. At this concert some of the best singers, such as V. Svetloff, tenor from the Russian grand opera, and K. Menkel-Januska of New York, will entertain the comrades and friends. They expect a big crowd and ask all comrades, who want to have a good time to come early in order to get seats.

THE WORLD'S GREATEST TONIC for lowered vitality

makes your blood tingle with joy the minute you taste it. Take a wine glass full of

LIPSEY'S

BITTERS

before meals and note the improvement of your health in a few days. Order a bottle by coupon below.

LIPSEY PRODUCTS CO., Dept. 31,
1123 Foster Ave., Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen:
Send me in plain wrapper one (1) large bottle of LIPSEY'S BITTERS. I will pay postman $1.85 on arrival. If I am not satisfied after trying a few glasses, I may return unused portion and you will refund my money.
Name .....
Street and No. .....
R. F. D. No. ..... Box .....
Town ..... State .....
Money Back Guarantee

Madison Pharmacy
INC.
BETTER DRUGS
Light Luncheon Served
1154 Madison Street, Corner Ann
OPEN DAY AND NIGHT
Four Phones Chicago

Furnishings
LADIES'
MEN'S INFANTS'
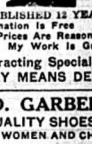
Trade Where Your Money Buys the Most
Martin's
651 West North Avenue
East of Halsted St.

DR. S. ZIMMERMAN
DENTIST
2252 N. CALIFORNIA AVE. Phone ARMITAGE

MY NEW LOCATION



Special Prices to Workers
X-Ray — Gas Given

ESTABLISHED 12 YEARS.
My Examination is Free
My Prices Are Reasonable
My Work is Guaranteed

Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

ED. GARBER
QUALITY SHOES
FOR MEN, WOMEN AND CHILDREN
2427 LINCOLN AVENUE
CHICAGO
Telephone Diversey 5120

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO. 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. (Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:

$6.00 per year $3.50—6 months $2.00—3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):

$6.00 per year $4.50—6 months $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to THE DAILY WORKER 1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE } Editors

MORITZ J. LOEB Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application

Imperialism in the Labor Movement

Last Sabbath day, the delegates to the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor went to Juares, Mexico, where they were entertained in state at a bullfight. Four bulls were killed. It would have been more fitting to this holiday of Yankee imperialism, if these had been four Mexican peons butchered to edify the labor lieutenants of Morgan and company.

On Tuesday, it is announced that Gompers is beginning maneuvers to re-enter the reformist Amsterdam International in order to further therein the interests of the Dawes plan which underwrites the imperialist ventures in Europe of Morgan and company.

In Panama, Haiti, Santo Domingo, Cuba, Colombia, Mexico, Nicaragua and other small and helpless nations, the agents of Gompers and company have followed the United States marines to add to armed force the power of guile and deceit under the sacred name of the brotherhood of labor. The marines and Mr. H. L. Brunson, commissioned by the Pan-American Federation of Labor, were both agents of the same institution, the banks of J. P. Morgan and company.

It is no accident that Ricardo Trevino, secretary of the Mexican Confederation of Labor, landed Gompers at the time Calles, the new president of Mexico, makes obeisance to Wall Street, and then goes into the convention of the Mexican confederation to expell a Communist delegate as a sign of submission to the Caesar of the north.

Neither is it an accident that Peter Grassman, the German labor bureaucrat who last spring was called into conference with Brigadier General Dawes, Fascist open shop agent of Morgan's bank, to discuss the provisions of the Dawes plan, should now be at the El Paso convention in conference with Gompers, and publicly bowing both to the Dawes plan and to Gompers.

Nor is it by chance that Gompers should fulminate against the Japanese, while twenty of his henchmen propose a resolution which is purposed to make three officials of the A. F. of L. assistants to the secretary of war at a time when American banks and commercial interests, desperately striving to dislodge Japan from her new vantage in China, are intriguing night and day and using freely the threat of war, the presence of warships and the promise of maneuvers "east of Hawaii."

These things all have a relation and a meaning. They are not isolated incidents. They mean that the labor bureaucrats of the American Federation of Labor are owned body, soul and bootstraps by the American capitalists, and revel in their harlotry.

But this constitutes something besides a shame. It is a living threat to the lives of workers of every land. The A. F. of L. leaders plan to be the recruiting agents which inveigle American workers into the trenches in a new and more terrible war. Do the American workers like that? If not, let them speak so even Gompers may hear.

The A. F. of L. leaders plan to use their influence upon the careerists, such as Trevino in the Mexican confederation, who seek to ride to power on a lie, the lie they tell the Mexican workers that Gompers is their friend and an enemy of the "sausage empire" of the north. Gompers is recruiting "Gringos" to shoot them. If the Mexican workers do not like that, let them speak so Trevino may hear.

In Germany, Herr Grassman may have some difficulty in convincing German workers that Gompers is recruiting troops for purposes of brotherly love. If German workers don't believe it, let them speak so Herr Grassman may hear, even across the Atlantic.

In El Paso, if possible, in Juares if it can be done, or in Mexico City if humanly attainable, a demonstration should be made in support of the proposal of the Trade Union Educational League, that all organized labor should unite in a struggle against imperialist ventures and for national freedom and independence.

U. S. Souls Cost Like Hell

It costs almost twice as many dollars to keep an American soul out of the devil's clutches as it does a foreign soul. To be exact, the per capita needed to send an American sinner upwards in good condition, is $457 while a foreigner can be fitted out with a clean shave and a brand new pair of wings for $263.

We are indebted for this information to the Rev. C. J. Gulp, of the presbyterian foreign missions committee. If the Rev. Gulp did not confine himself to a superficial analysis of the soul problem he might learn that the high cost of souls was not due so much to the superior technique of the American devil as to the high cost of living.

No soul worth a damn will turn down a good meal and a well-regulated diet will sometimes make a battered one look like new. But this treatment costs money, hence the high cost of travel to heaven.

Every business has its particular problems. It is so with the soul-saving game. Another missionary complains that radicals and atheists purposely attend camp meetings and sing the hymns out of pure devilment in order to bring ridicule on the ministers of the church. This is a pernicious form of "boring from within." Strange to say, God does not strike these miscreants dead. On the contrary they get fat on this kind of thing, laughter being conducive to good health. The ministers get thin, because a business that draws only grins does not draw money, unless it is a vaudeville act.

But the law of self preservation works mysteriously its wonders to perform, so we find the missionaries looking around for pioneers to go into the mining and lumber camps with the word of God. Not only must they have something in the head, but they must be ready to fight like blazes in order to put Christ into the hearts of the scoffers. Here is a chance for the O'Banion, Torrio, O'Donnell and other Chicago gangs in the event of unemployment.

These boys would keep Saint Peter busy hauling in sinners over the golden rails if they had a free hand.

If the preachers brought their problems to the attention of President Coolidge he might appoint a commission to reduce the cost of saving souls. Calvin considers waste of money the greatest sin.

Sinking the Washington

American jingoes are howling because the government has decided to sink the Washington, the $18,000,000 steel monster, that was doomed by the signing of the Washington agreement. Let the jingoes howl. It will not cause any pertubation in the White House and it will not hurt the plan for heavier naval appropriations to be submitted to the next congress.

But the sinking of the Washington is no wanton act or the result of a desperate intention to scrupulously obey the terms of the four-power pact. Reading the inspired news dispatches from Washington, we learn that the sinking is merely a rehearsal for the next war. At this rehearsal, the Washington will be subjected to every test it might meet with in war. This floating death palace is the latest thing in naval construction, so that Wall Street's naval strategists are not such Simple Simons as they appear to be in sending their costly warship to the bottom of the ocean.

The sinking of the Washington will be done "in camera." In other words the public will not be let in on the ceremonies. Japan, England and France the other signatories to the four-power pact would like to have a look, but tho the United States is generous—like all money lenders—it will keep its $18,000,000 lesson in naval warfare all to itself.

The Washington arms conference was hailed by many liberal pacifists as a step toward peace. Communists branded it as a war move. It was a war move of gigantic proportions. It laid the basis for the present anti-Japanese alliance that is being built up under the leadership of the United States.

Wall Street has money to burn and to sink, but the money wasted on the Washington can be saved one hundred fold in the next war. The sinking will serve a double purpose. It will look to the unthinking as if the United States was punctiliously carrying out the terms of the Washington pact and it will prove a valuable object lesson in the art of modern naval war to the Wall Street government.

Selfdetermination!

It looks as if the whole capitalist world was going into receivership, with the United States as the receiver. Nations that will not be purchased by the great United States financial trust, will be put out of business as the Standard Oil and the Steel Trust put their industrial competitors years ago.

Before the war, the European powers enjoyed some degree of independence. Today they can hardly put on a new suit of clothes without asking Wall Street's permission. The Dawes plan is not only working in Germany but in every other country in Europe. Even the British lion's roar is no longer what it used to be.

Owen D. Young, one of Wall Street's expert managers has returned from Europe, after setting the machinery of the Dawes plan in motion. Young declares that France considers a "fully developed German democracy as the best safeguard for the future." This means that Morgan's favorite agents in Germany are the socialists and democrats and France must trim her political sails to suit whatever breeze the magician Morgan whistles for.

Europe is today a dependency of the United States.

Speaking about the resolution introduced by Major Berry against the scab coal mines of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, we animadvert that the pot is finding the kettle a bit grimy. But, passing on, we note that the resolution of Major Pot recites that Warren Kettle makes necessary a call for aid for foodless and clothless miners and their families. Major Pot could not, of course, sell some of those 6,000 acres he owns and make a collection of diamond pins and rings from the delegates at the convention.

"ANTI-RED WEEK" SEES STRUGGLES IN CALIFORNIA

Water Fight and Milk War Battle Centers

By JACK CARNEY.

(Special to the Daily Worker)

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—Coolidge's "Anti-Red Week" opened up with a bang here in California, with enraged farmers, small business men and small town bankers, in Owens Valley, defending their water from the hands of the industrial interests of Southern California.

In Oakland a similar celebration has taken place with the large milk dealers employing armed guards to prevent the farmers from selling their milk to the independent milk dealers.

Farmers are Threatened.

In the case of the Owens Valley farmers and small business men, as previously reported in the DAILY WORKER, the issue is one that threatens their livelihood. An aqueduct has been erected in the Owens Valley that takes away the water for power purposes and leaves the farmers and ranchers without water for their crops and their cattle.

If this aqueduct continues to drain the valley, ruin and bankruptcy must inevitably follow. The farmers and small business men are camping outside the aqueduct with guns to defend their claims. Reinforcements are being rushed to them.

The governor of the state has refused the use of troops. He declares that the use of troops will lead to bloodshed. The capitalist press is trying to minimise the seriousness of the whole affair but the truth of the matter is that these ranchers mean business.

Milk Dealers Fight Farmers.

The large milk dealers of Oakland have informed the farmers that they must accept 29.1 cents per gallon for their milk. The milk dealers retail it at 56 cents per gallon. Independent milk dealers are taking advantage of the split between the milk dealers and the farmers and are buying milk from the farmers at the prevailing prices.

The San Francisco Chronicle carries a picture of the leaders of the milk dealers and declares, "Here is the president of the Milk Producers' Association, and three of the committee in charge of the strike which has brought gunplay and terrorism thruout the east bay district, in the price war between the milk producers and the distributors."

As the large milk dealers are not members of the I. W. W., nor are the farmers and ranchers of Owens Valley there have been no warrants issued under the criminal syndicalist law. It has been definitely proven that if you talk force in California you get pinched. On the other hand if you use force you get away with it. The moral may not be lost on some of those who feel the effect of the rapidly growing unemployment situation.

* * *

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 21.—"Mother" Bloor is addressing meetings thruout the Bay district in the "Forward to the Soviets" week of the party, assisted by James H. Dolsen, the district organizer, and Jack Carney, editor of Labor Unity.

Meetings have been held outside the gates of the University of California, Marion Steries and the usual open air meeting places. Great success has attended these meetings due to the tremendous energy of "Mother" Bloor, who seems to be a veritable dynamo, shaming many young comrades into action.

The Young Workers League held a mass meeting on Friday evening at the party headquarters with Comrades Riker, Bassi, "Mother" Bloor and Jack Carney as speakers. A meeting for school children will be held on Saturday morning with "Mother" Bloor as the speaker, dealing with the children in Soviet Russia.

Sunday, Nov. 30, there will be a large mass meeting, the proceeds to go to assist the German Communists, to be addressed by "Mother" Bloor and Jack Carney.

An enthusiastic membership meeting was held last Monday with "Mother" Bloor giving a spirited talk on the functions of a member of a party and what it means to be a Communist.

"Mother" Bloor speaks before the Oakland members of the I. W. W. on Sunday, Nov. 23, on "Soviet Russia."

Truths for "Educational Week"

EACH DAY this week the DAILY WORKER, in parallel columns, will publish the slogans issued by Coolidge's Anti-Red Week Drive and also those of the Workers (Communist) Party. Today's comparison of the Communist and capitalist positions is as follows:

COOLIDGE'S ANTI-RED WEEK

Community Day

Saturday, Nov. 22.—"Service to Community, State and Nation is the Duty of Every Citizen."

1. Equality of opportunity in education for every American boy and girl.
2. Better rural schools.
3. Adequate public library service for every community.
4. A community's concern for education measures its interest in its own future.
5. Good roads build a community.

SLOGANS.

Get acquainted with your neighbor.

A square deal for the country boy and girl.

Children today—citizens tomorrow.

For God and Country Day

Sunday, Nov. 23.—"Religion, Morality and Education Are Necessary for Good Government."

1. Education in the home.
2. Education in the school.
3. Education in the church.

SLOGAN.

A godly nation cannot fail.

FORWARD TO THE SOVIETS

Community Day

Saturday, Nov. 22.—"Service to the Working Class Revolution is the Highest Duty of Every Worker."

1. To establish equality of opportunity in education and all other phases of social life means to destroy the rule of the capitalist class and to substitute for it the rule of the working class.
2. Membership in the Young Workers League is the duty and privilege of every American working class boy and girl.
3. Unite the rural working youth with the city working youth for the common struggle against capitalism.

SLOGANS.

Acquaint your neighbor in the shop with the problems and tasks of the working class.

Abolish child labor on the farms.

Children today—Communists tomorrow.

For God and Country Day

Sunday, Nov. 23.—"Religion, Capitalist Morality and Capitalist Education Are the Mainstays of Capitalist Government."

1. Every member of a working class family—a Communist.
2. To train valiant and intelligent fighters in the social revolution is the aim of working class education.
3. Religion is the opium of the people—the church is the servile tool of capitalist oppression.

SLOGAN.

A class conscious and militant working class must be victorious!

"EDUCATION WEEK" COMES TO AN END BUT OPEN SHOPPER'S DRIVE AGAINST LABOR WILL CONTINUE

By KARL REEVE.

(Final Article.)

Two days after election, the lumber companies of the northwest, realizing that the election of Coolidge meant the reign of the open shoppers, abolished the eight-hour day and prepared to reduce wages.

Reports have reached the DAILY WORKER that the McCleary Lumber company, with headquarters at Olympia, Washington, ordered their employes to work nine hours a day without increase in rate of wages.

The election of Coolidge and Dawes was the signal for the large employers to cut loose with wage slashing and speed-up methods. The Coolidge ticket is the ticket of the labor haters, and working class enemies.

Coolidge Ignored This.

In his proclamation on "educational week" Coolidge was careful to refrain from mentioning the condition of the workers and their families thruout the country. Coolidge pleaded for education, but did not say how the children of the workers are to obtain that education.

Coolidge made no suggestion as to what to do with the boys and girls of ten, twelve and fourteen years of age who cannot read or write because they do not have the opportunity to leave the industries and attend school. Coolidge did not mention that the states which have the largest number of child laborers also have the largest number of illiterate children.

Coolidge Brings Chaos.

Twenty-three states permit children under fourteen to work in industries ten states allow children under sixteen to labor 11 hours a day and thirty-seven states allow children to enter industry as workers before completing the eighth grade of school.

Sixty-four per cent of the children under sixteen work regularly in the Pennsylvania coal mines as breaker boys, one investigation revealed. Nearly half of those who worked were under eleven years old. In North Carolina cotton mills employ twelve-year-old boys, while girls and boys fourteen years of age are employed for eleven hours a day. In the factories of Georgia twelve-year-old children work 60 hours a week, and children of fourteen years of age work on night shifts. These facts are gleaned from reports of the Coolidge department of labor.

Promotors of "Education Week."

Education week is promoted by a vicious open shop president who sanctions wage reductions and unemployment, by the American Legion, whom the Communist hating commissioner of education, J. J. Tigert, allows to try to militarize the schools, and by Samuel Gompers, hanger-on of the capitalist bandwagon, who sells himself to the capitalistic political party that will pay the highest price for his services, and by the national education association which has tried to industrialize the schools in order to turn out cheap, efficient and unthinking wage slaves for the capitalists' factories.

At this time statistics reveal a monstrous condition of the children of the workers. Child labor and illeteracy, going hand in hand, are prevelent. Following the re-election of Coolidge, wages are being slashed, men laid off, and hours lengthened, sending thousands of more women and children into industries in an attempt to keep starving families alive.

The Solution.

In Soviet Russia on the other hand, anti-working class propaganda is not permitted as it is in America. The children of Soviet Russia are taught that their interests are the interests of keeping the working class, which produces all wealth, in control of the government.

There is but one solution to the problems of illiteracy, and child labor, malnutrition and militaristic, anti-working class propaganda. The capitalist class of America, which owns the Coolidge government, and burdens the workers with the system of wage slavery, also dominates the public schools. The capitalist class considers control of the minds of the children of this country necessary to the continuation of the profit system.

Communists Led Fight.

The Workers (Communist) Party of America has led the fight against the control of the public schools by the manufacturers and exploiters of labor. When the working class of America takes over the industries and government of this country and runs the industries for the use of the workers—abolishing the profit system—then the school children will be freed from the grip of the master class.

The issue is working class control of industry and government, and workers education versus capitalistic propaganda.

CRITICAL AND REALISTIC

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The ninth chapter is entitled, "Critical and Realistic."

* * *

A SOBER estimate of his own and his enemies' forces was always the starting point for Lenin's political activity. Only he can be termed a real statesman who is able fearlessly to look reality in the face, who coolly estimates the forces of the opposing class, who is not dealing in mere phrases and who is able mercilessly to expose and criticize the weak sides of his own class and his own organization. Also in this respect Lenin possessed an exceptionally strong sense for reality. He never succumbed to the hypnosis of fantastic figures and pompous proclamation.

When he came to Russia in 1917, the time when the Social-Revolutionists held full sway, Lenin remarked: "The power they hold is only imaginary. The Party of the Socialist Revolutionists is an empty shell." Although at that time millions upon millions of workers were following the lead of the party of the Chernovs and Kerenskys, yet he immediately perceived the instability of the influence of the Socialist Revolutionists.

Basing his opinion on the real situation, Lenin spoke in favor of the Brest-Litovsk treaty against the wish of the "public opinion" (at that time the liberal and reformist press was still in existence) and at first even against the leadership of the Russian Communist Party. Upon what did Lenin base his views? Upon those deep processes which have been developing within the broad masses. While these latter had been protesting against the peace treaty, the soldiers were leaving the front in mass. Lenin has defined the situation by a very laconic but significant expression: "The peasants have voted in favor of peace with their legs because they have been leaving the front." No amount of phraseology in favor of a revolutionary war could convince him to the contrary. He was asking his opponents: "Have you got at least one regiment, have you the support of any armed power, which could be put up against the fleeing, demoralized peasant masses? We cannot fight. We need a breathing space. No matter how short, it will be of advantage to us." History has proved that he was right.

Lenin's prognosis that by means of this breathing space we would be able to create a new army, inspired with a new spirit, and able to take the offensive again, has been proven to be correct. "One must know also how to evade a fight," he used to exclaim, arguing in favor of signing the Brest-Litovsk treaty. "It is better to retreat in a semi-orderly fashion than to subject the army to complete dissolution. A leader is he who knows how to protect his army from breaking up and who adopts all necessary measures to preserve his army for future battles." Today this look to us like A. B. C. wisdom. In order to understand the real extent of Lenin's genius one must remember the tragic situation of Soviet Russia in 1918, and the terrific difficulties which Lenin had to overcome in order to convince his own party that his estimate of the situation and of the relation of forces was the correct one.

* * *

Monday—"The Great Alliance Between Workers and Peasants."

WELL KNOWN AMERICAN EDUCATORS PROTEST AGAINST EDUCATION WEEK

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 21.—Protests from educators and publicists from all parts of the United States have come to the American Civil Liberties Union, which took up the fight launched by the Teachers' Union against an educational program dominated by an outside organization, the American Legion. David Starr Jordan, of Stanford; Vida Scudder, of Wellesley; Charles W. Elliot, of Harvard; William Ellery Leonard, of Wisconsin; W. H. Tyler, Massachusetts Tech.; Bernard Glueck, James H. Maurer, Pennsylvania State Federation of Labor, and many others protest the legion's interference.

"The idea becomes power when it penetrates the masses." —Karl Marx.

SPECIAL MAGAZINE SUPPLEMENT
THE DAILY WORKER

SECOND SECTION
This magazine supplement will appear every Saturday in The Daily Worker.

NOVEMBER 22, 1924.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS - By T. H. Wintringham

The first labor government of Great Britain fell because it could not reconcile its actual devotion to the cause of capitalism with its pretended devotion to that of the working class.

Why MacDonald Came to Power.

Ten months ago capitalism in Europe was facing problems that had become desperate. The whole economic situation of Central Europe was only hanging by a thread, and that thread was the faint hope that American finance would come in and take control before the renten-mark collapsed.

Ruhr industry lay in ruins. Yet France was no nearer to a working agreement with the German capitalists, and every one realized that if the position of January, 1924, continued, both French and German capitalism were in danger of an economic disaster.

America did come in. As the labor government was preparing to take office, and the new ministers of King George V. were buying the silken kneebreeches needed at court, a certain "General" Dawes, closely connected with J. P. Morgan and the organizer of the Minute Men of the Constitution (the Fascisti of America) was dictating to a committee of experts the terms on which American finance capital would intervene to "stabilize" Europe.

America's terms included provisions which made certain a very drastic lowering of the standard of living of the German workers, and therefore of all the workers of Europe.

America's terms had been known in outline for months and even for years. British imperialism had been unwilling to accept them, but there was no alternative. The conservative party had thought at one time that it was possible to withdraw from Europe, to concentrate on the exploitation of the colonies, and to guard British economy from European competition by means of tariffs. The complete unreality of this program was so thoroly shown up at the general election of 1923, that the British bourgeoisie discarded Baldwin and refused to consider his "alternative."

The majority that resulted from this election was a majority for the acceptance by British capitalism of America's terms. There was no other bond between the diverse elements contained in it. Lloyd George, who returned directly from America to make peace with the official liberal party and fight with them in the election, could not have been got to support a labor-liberal alliance by anything except the pressure of the real rulers of modern civilization—Morgan and his associates.

The labor government was put into power in order to carry thru the Dawes' plan.

Used MacDonald Against Labor.

There were other reasons which made the capitalist classes of Britain willing to use these agents. The most important reason was the steady movement of the masses of the British workers towards an industrial attack.

Strikes were steadily increasing; some agent was needed in order to check the revolt of the rank and file trade unionists against the dictation of capital.

The political labor movement was growing strong without having yet clearly reached the stage when the banalities of reformism, so useful to capitalism, are differentiated from the advocacy of working class socialism. Any acute observer could see that most of the advocates of socialism in Great Britain could be tamed, and used as domestic animals to do the more unpleasant parts of capitalism's housework, if only they were caught soon enough and fed well on the sweets of office.

The labor government was therefore put into power largely in order to check the movement of the masses, to divide the political labor movement, sift out from it those who could in no circumstances be useful to capitalism, and educate those of the leaders who are willing to work for capitalism in the art and craft of "democratic" rule.

One other reason is also obvious. There was the need for a government of democratic phrases to fight the growing revolt among the colonial peoples. A capitalist government which shot Indian workers or bombed peasants in Mesopotamia ran the risk of rousing a wave of antagonism in Britain that would make it difficult to carry out the necessary—but of course unpleasant duties of a great civilized power. As yet there has been no mass revolt in any of the colonies, but such a revolt might develop within a few months in any of them, and the labor government would have been in a better position than any other to rouse the righteous and democratic wrath of the British people against any race of "niggers" who dared to rise against the benefits of British rule.

The labor government was put into power to see the British Empire thru a period of uncertainty in regard to the colonies.

Why MacDonald Fell.

The labor government has fallen because it has either carried thru these tasks or has proved itself incapable of carrying them thru. There are other reasons for its fall which arise from the pressure upon it of the masses of the British workers.

The Dawes' report is being put into operation with the tacit consent of the majority of the British working class movement. That is an achievement for which capitalism might well be grateful, and in the capitalist attack on MacDonald during the election campaign the question of the Dawes' plan has been avoided.

The labor movement has been deeply and dangerously divided by the policy pursued by the labor government, but there is no longer any need to keep on dangling the sweets of office before the leaders; the memory of these will be enough to keep these gentlemen moderate, sane, and careful.

Every great strike during the period of office of the labor government has ended in defeat for the workers; but concessions that have been gained in certain cases, of a very minor sort allowed the MacDonald government to avoid, "by the skin of its teeth," having to use troops and police against the strikers. The government has done its job of breaking strikes but it has failed in its other task—that of ending strikes. It has not ushered in an era of industrial peace. These two facts are among the reasons why MacDonald goes out of office now, and almost certainly will not be in office after the election.

Served Imperialism.

With regard to the British Empire no government has ever been so successful from the capitalist point of view as that of MacDonald. But since there has been no colonial revolt of importance during 1924 the capitalist class feels that after all there is no great need to keep MacDonald in power on this score, as any government that follows it can justly claim that labor cannot attack it for its colonial policy, since it is only carrying on that of the labor cabinet.

The Conservatives in Power.

These are the underlying reasons why MacDonald is no longer needed by the bourgeoisie. The actual issues on which he was overthrown are also important, but the capitalist class would not have attributed much importance to the question of whether a certain Communist leader was sent to prison or not, or whether a treaty with Soviet Russia (in which British capitalist interests were carefully guarded) was signed or not, if there had not been deeper underlying reasons for putting one of its most skilful craftsmen temporarily among the ranks of the unemployed.

The British Elections.

We have seen why MacDonald came to power and why he fell. The manoeuvers of the election are of no real importance in comparison with the causes which brought about the election or the results which it will have on the balance of class forces in this country and on a world scale. At the same time they are of interest as showing very plainly the policies and programs of the contending parties.

In the first place the whole of the events of the last session of parliament must be counted as electioneering strategy. The two capitalist parties had indicated clearly to MacDonald that on the Russian Treaty they were determined to take a firm stand. It was not as they pretended simply a question of some thirty million pounds being lent without guarantees. There was actually no question of principle involved: the recognition of the right to nationalize property, or repudiate debts. The reason for the frantic opposition to the Russian Treaty was mainly a realization that the treaty and the loan, and the credits that Russia could raise if the treaty went thru, would represent a very real strengthening of the power of the working class in Europe, since it would mean more rapid economic recovery of the Workers' Republics.

Defeat Inevitable.

In view of this threat which would certainly have led to his fall at the end of October, MacDonald decided to force an immediate election on the question of whether the government had acted rightly in withdrawing the charge of "incitement to mutiny" made against Comrade Campbell, the editor of the Workers' Weekly. He went to the country after defeat on this issue, saying that the question was an unimportant one. Noel Brailsford struck the keynote of the labor party election attitude on this issue in an article in which he seven times repeats the assertion that Campbell had been injured "while fighting for King and Country," refering to Campbell as "A man with fragments of two feet," and "a young man with no feet."

Another series of events which must be taken as part of the labor party election strategy center around the annual conference of the labor party, which began in London two days before the labor government was defeated. It has been at all times MacDonald's ideal that the labor party should consist of sane, smooth, and prudent "workers by hand and brain," free from any taint of revolutionary impulse and carrying on "the great traditions of liberalism" which MacDonald often invokes. MacDonald's swift action in pressing the Campbell case to a crisis on Oct. 8 enabled him to meet the labor party conference with the obvious threat of capitalist combination and defeat hanging over him. Haloed with righteousness in his indignation against the capitalists for daring to combine against him, and speaking to an audience excited by the prospects of a hard election, he was able to begin the conference with a vigorous attack on Communism and the Communist Party, and eventually to secure a resolution from the conference excluding Communists from all membership of the labor party. This was not so real a defeat for the Communists as it may seem. At the moment when this resolution was passed MacDonald was actually leading the labor movement altho in a hesitating and unreal fashion into a fight on issues of importance to the working class. Good workers who had come to the labor party conference determined to show clearly their disgust with the policy of treachery and timidity hitherto pursued by the labor government refused to criticize MacDonald or his ministers in view of the fight into which the movement was entering. There was a general feeling that there must be no opposition to the leaders when these leaders were bearing the brunt of the capitalist offensive.

Soft Pedal Russian Treaty.

It was a useful piece of election strategy for MacDonald since he was being attacked on two issues directly related to Communism. All thru the election the labor party has been using this resolution to show that it has no connection with Communism, and thereby to win votes of workers

(Continued on page 8)

Negroes and the Caste System

By GURDON OWENS.
Workers Party Candidate for Congress in Recent Elections, First District, Chicago.

The Negro population of the United States suffer untold difficulties on account of the vicious caste system known as the color line in vogue in this country. This vicious form of discrimination practiced against Negroes originated with the introduction of chattel slavery in the United States, when the masters of the indentured white slaves replaced the indentured slaves and wage workers with Negro chattel slaves from Africa. The unemployed white workers, seeing their jobs taken by the Negro chattel slaves, began to stir the Negro slaves to rebellion against their masters. As the Negro slaves numerically outnumbered their masters, and staged several rebellions against them, the slave owners realized that something must be done to hold their slaves in check and to put a stop to the mixing and fraternizing of the white wage workers with the Negro chattel slaves, who were termed "Niggers."

Set Negro Against White Workers.

Then was started for the first time anti-Negro propaganda, stating that the Negro chattel slaves were the inferiors of the white wage workers and unfit to associate with the white workers. Despite this anti-Negro propaganda of the white master class, thousands upon thousands of mulatto children were being produced during this period as a result of the mixing of the southern white masters with their Negro female slaves. Propaganda was also disseminated by the white masters among their Negro chattel slaves, stating that the Negro slaves were better and should not mix with white wage workers who were termed "poor white trash."

This propaganda proved very effective in keeping apart the Negro chattel slaves and white wage workers, and with few modifications to comply with new conditions is still used today, to keep Negro and white wage workers separate and apart. As a result of this propaganda many Negro workers still refer to white workers as "poor white trash" and many white workers refer to Negro workers as "Niggers."

The conditions which the employing class do all in their power to prevent from existing between the Negro and white workers, is social contact, the unionization of the Negro workers along with the white workers, and free speech and assemblage. Social contact between Negro and white workers, would make them become friendly and understand each other, and realize their identity of interests as workers. Negro workers in the same unions with white workers, would prevent the use of Negro workers as strikebreakers by the employers during strikes. Class conscious speakers telling the Negro and white workers of their identity of interests, and trying to organize them to better their living conditions, are constantly being molested and prohibited from speaking.

The capitalists and their hirelings, will go to any extent to prevent Negro and white workers from becoming friendly and fraternilizing. In cities both north and south, with few exceptions, the Negroes are forced to reside in segregated residential districts. Negroes while traveling thru the south to ride in jim-crow cars or sections, which comprise the men's smoking compartment, and are refused service in the dining car, and denied service given to other public travellers.

Every state in the south and many northern states, prohibit by statute marriage between Negroes and whites, despite the fact that the two races have been and still are mixing very intimately in the south as well as in the north. When the Negro chattel slaves were first brought from Africa to the United States they were all black, but today as a result of the dreaded so-called "social equality" which has been going on between the Negroes and the whites since the Negroes first landed in this country, Negroes today are of every shade and color from a fast black to a lily white. In fact many Negroes can and may easily pass for white. This proves concretely that despite the anti-intermarriage laws, Negroes and whites mix very intimately together.

Negro and white workers holding joint meetings are constantly molested by the police as tho they were criminals. The capitalist newspapers stir up prejudice and riots against Negroes by displaying in large headlines across their front pages real or imaginary crimes attributed to a Negro or Negroes, always placing the word "Negro" in large letters in the headline, thereby discrediting the Negroes in general.

All of this is done to place Negroes as inferiors to white workers, unfit to mix or associate with the whites. As a result of this propaganda many politically backward white workers today think themselves better and superior to all Negroes.

Communism the Solution.

This capitalist anti-Negro propaganda, is what keeps the Negro and white workers separate and apart and suspicious of each other, and enables the capitalists and employers to rob and exploit both groups of workers. This caste system, or color line, is one of the main props of capitalism and can only be eliminated by destroying the capitalist system. Communists the world over, recognize but one race, the human race, composed of two classes, the working class and the exploiting class. Communists champion the cause of all workers regardless of their race, color or creed and are opposed to all forms of discriminations practiced against Negroes or other workers, and favor abolishing all race, color, and religious lines which tend to keep workers separate, divided and apart.

In Communism lies the only hope of the oppressed and exploited Negro workers to obtain full and equal rights with all other workers. Therefore the chief task before the Communists of the United States, is to take the liberating message of Communism to the badly misled and deluded Negro workers who are composed 95 per cent of farm and wage workers, and to obtain the support of a majority of the Negro workers to the cause of Communism.

Leading the Junior Groups - -

By Max Shachtman
Editor, Young Worker.

Note:—This is the second of a series of three articles by Comrade Shachtman on the Communist children's movement. The concluding one will deal with the new relations between the children and their parents. —Editor.

• • •

THE leader of the Communist children's groups is not a teacher in the sense that one considers the instructor in the modern capitalist school. Far from it! His task and purpose is the organization of the working class children to an understanding of the struggle that is going on right in the midst of life, arousing the children to the necessity of being a participant in the great battle for proletarian freedom. And for this task it is not necessary to be equipped with an erudite knowledge of the educational theories and methods of the bourgeoisie. Quite the contrary—it is too often a positive hindrance. The purpose of all bourgeois education is the preparation of the child to be a part of social life, which today means the training of good, efficient, but none too intelligent wage workers. The Communist junior groups train the child to fight against bourgeois influence in education, and the system that it supports.

A Leader's Requisites.

What is required of a leader of a junior group is a simple understanding of the aim of the Communist movement and the desire to enroll the children into the ranks of the revolutionary workers, accomplishing this task without resorting to any of that dishwatery sentimentality and christian humanitarianism from which the youth is relatively free, but the use of which has so effectively killed off any good that the socialist Sunday schools ever produced. The leader must be able so to obscure the fact of his "leadership" as to develop the initiative of the children, stimulate the spirit of freedom and solidarity and independence of external direction to the extent that the groups arrive at the point where the children are themselves the judges, the legislators and the executives.

But here the cry is raised: What! Let a bunch of kids run loose? Permit them to run things to suit themselves? Why, that's independence run riot!

And the cries of indignation are drowned in the angry spluttering of the protester.

But wait, dear adult. It is here that the leader of the groups enters, and in a most inobtrusive fashion. Let us admit that the children, when left to themselves, are inclined to conduct themselves in a rather "riotous" manner, not according to Robert's rules of order. It is the task of the group leader to direct this superabundance of energy into the channels of Communist activity or education. This must be done without leaving the impression upon the child that such a thing must be done because the group leader has said so.

Free Play to the Children.

Do the children want to play games? Very well, there are already a number of games that bring home to the child the message of the class struggle, games which are being played by large numbers of children with enjoyment and profit. Do they want to sing? Excellent! A singing proletariat is a marching proletariat. And instead of singing of the fact that it isn't going to rain any more, the children soon learn and sing with enthusiasm the parody: "The capitalists ain't going to reign no more" with at least a dozen verses of their own composition.

Would they like to hear a story, as absorbing as any fairy tale ever was? Let them gather around the group leader who has learned the value of studying and repeating the stories of the lives of working class heroes: Spartacus, Danton, John Ball, Lenin, Karl Liebknecht, Rosa Luxemburg, Wesley Everest, Joe Hill—their name is legion; or else he can relate some tale of heroism of revolutionaries in underground Russia, the armed marches of the West Virginia miners, and the thousands of other incidents that abound in the pages of working class history thruout the centuries.

Occasionally the leader will take his group on a tour thru the rich residential district and then thru the section of the city where the workers live, and permit the child to draw his own conclusions from the contrast. A day spent in the woods, or in the country is of great value, not because it takes the child away from his sordid environment, but to develop the spirit of united work, to build their bodies, and skillfully to inculcate in their minds the difference between the boy and girl scouts whom they meet on the way, and ourselves. Games, sports, plays, socials, all can be made to serve as aids in the development of class consciousness, revolutionary solidarity, and the creative individuality of the child in the interests of the common weal.

Even in so small a matter as the wish of the children to chalk up sidewalks or buildings can be turned to good use. The leader will suggest that they chalk up announcements of their meeting, or slogans of any campaign in which the Communist Party, or the junior groups are engaged. And it is quite probable that questions will follow, giving the leader the opportunity to draw from the children the reply to the questions they themselves have asked.

No Orders.

The leader of the junior group, if he knows his real function, will never order anything to be done, not even if the order to the children is that they should do things themselves. The children will learn to organize themselves upon an independent basis. When they learn that there is something to be done, it will naturally develop that some division of labor is necessary in order that the task be accomplished. If writing is necessary, the one or two or three children who are best fitted for the work will usually volunteer or be chosen. If it is required that a certain job be done in various parts of the city, directions will inevitably be issued assigning certain little comrades to particular places. Slowly but with certainty the functions of the group secretary, treasurer, organizer, literature agent, sports and social director are crystallized and apportioned among the members. The group leader has achieved his purpose without having laid down the law.

The members of the young Communist leagues have proved to be more capable group leaders than have the adults for the following three general reasons: First, they are more adapted to the special characteristics of the child's psychology; second, they are not burdened with any "non-political and humanitarian" inclinations; and third, being members of the young Communist league, they know better than the adults the necessary preliminaries for the training of the child to become a member of the revolutionary youth movement.

In the group leader of today, training the child for membership in the ranks of the revolutionary proletariat, can be found the seeds of the pedagog of the future. While his task is different from that which will be undertaken by the teacher of our youth in the Communist society—insofar as at present the question is a political one, of the class struggle—still, the method of education and leadership is a symbol of the methods that will be followed in the classless society. Instead of having our teachers as the willing or unwilling tools of capitalism, bound and gagged by the dead hand of the master class, imbuing the child with the ideas and ideals of a slave, the future brings the free teacher of free children. It brings the teacher and the child released from the prostitution of mind and body, freed from the mental cringing and servitude imposed by an unscrupulous ruling class. It presages the new society and the new education.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

"The American Boom Is at an End . . ."

Says Prof. E. Varga in his "The Decline of Capitalism," a pamphlet just received from Europe. Also: "Will not the militaristic-imperialist policy of Poincare gain the upper hand, which fact would lead to a new catastrophe of the mark, since the Rentenmark, an artificial creation, would by no means be able to withstand such a blow?" A most timely pamphlet 25c

From the 4th to the 5th World Congress.

Report of the Executive Committee of the Communist International, covering 45 different sections, including U. S., Canada, Mexico, Argentine, etc. It briefly summarizes the activities of the Executive Committee and its various sections. The United Front, the Trade Unions, Agrarian Questions, etc. A year book of the C. I. Single copy 25c

In lots of ten or more 15 cents.
Order while the supply lasts.

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA,
1113 Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

Recent Changes in China - By A. Joffe

AT first sight recent changes in Peking would be hard to explain. However, those who are more or less familiar with the Chinese situation will very well understand the significance of what happened in Peking.

• • •

THE writer of these lines, while residing in China some two years ago, expressed the opinion that for a clear understanding of the future of China, it was necessary to follow the policies and activities of the "Christian General" Fenghu-Ysiang. And only recently, while in London, the writer expressed the opinion that it would be impossible to appreciate correctly the Chinese situation until the plans of Fenghu-Ysiang become more apparent.

• • •

NOW, after Fenghu-Ysiang has openly taken a position, it proves to be decisive in the Chinese situation, as was easily to be expected. The old government of Tsao-Kun, supported by We Pei Fu, immediately disappeared. The military power of Wu Pei Fu is destroyed. There comes into existence a new government, which will be dominated mainly by the Japanophiles. It seems that Chang Tso Lin, the worst enemy of Wu Pei Fu, is behind Fenghu-Ysiang, in spite of the declaration of the latter that he is acting independently of any other organized group in China. It is also a fact that Sun Yat Sen, the most popular figure in present-day China, the representative of the truly national movement of China, in his struggles against the reactionary alliances headed by Wu Pei Fu, is sympathetic to the change made by Fenghu-Ysiang. What does it all mean?

• • •

FOR a correct understanding of Chinese events, it is necessary always to have in mind that the Chinese generals, who are constantly warring with each other, are not only agents of one or another of the great imperialist powers, or groupings of them, but are also conducting an independent struggle of their own for power.

• • •

THE Chinese armies are made up of mercenaries. In order to maintain and equip such an army, every general must control some source of local income, because the general income of the federal government is completely taken away by the foreign imperialists. And in order to control such local incomes, one must dominate politically and also in a military sense certain Chinese territory. Up to now, the division of territorial control ran something like this: The South, with its center in Canton, was controlled by Sun Yat Sen. Central China, having Peking as its headquarters, was controlled by Wu Pei Fu, while Chang Tso Lin dominated the North and also Manchuria. The lesser generals would vacillate between one or the other of the bigger generals, in decisive moments definitely going over to one or the other of the larger military groupings.

• • •

IT was the policy of the imperialist powers to prevent the complete victory of any single one of the big generals, in order not to permit the settlement and pacification of China. To carry out this policy the imperialist powers had a number of resources, such as the Shanghai-Peking railroad. In the last war between Chang Tso Lin and Wu Pei Fu, when the advance of the former threatened the destruction of the Shanghai-Peking railroad, the imperialist powers declared that none of the warring armies would be permitted to enter the so-called neutral railroad zone. As a result of this order, Chang Tso Lin was compelled to withdraw his armies from Shanghai and Wu Pei Fu was saved.

Sun Yat Sen (left), Wu Pei Fu (Center), Tchang Tso Lin

• • •

IN the last war the great powers attempted to extend this so-called neutral zone to include the city of Shanghai and the entire province. This attempt failed only because of the interference of the Soviet government. Nevertheless, it can be stated that the great powers will not permit the complete destruction of Wu Pei Fu.

• • •

ON the other hand, it must be realized that Fenghu-Ysiang does not belong to the group of small and weak generals who have to depend on the support of the great powers. Fenghu-Ysiang has a well-organized, well-equipped and disciplined army of 30,000. Until recently, he supported Wu Pei Fu, who is nothing but a servant of Anglo-American capital. Fenghu-Ysiang himself is also connected financially and otherwise with the United States. The latter is continually advancing its influence and power in China, holding the purse in one hand and the crucifix in the other. The missionary and the merchant are the two means by which American capital extends its influence in China. The army of General Fenghu-Ysiang consists mainly of christians, who are strongly influenced by and connected with the American missionaries. Now the coup d'etat of General Fenghu-Ysiang brings to power Tuan Chi-Jui and saves from imminent destruction the army of Chang Tso Lin, who, altho not a direct supporter of Japan, yet is much closer to Japan than to America.

• • •

THE question now is, whose victory is it? Is it a victory of the American crucifix or of the Japanese purse? Both are no doubt involved in the recent events. To us, however, the important phase of these developments is the attempt of Fenghu-Ysiang to become independent of the foreign imperialist powers. He seems to have become tired of playing the game of these powers, and feels strong enough to assert his independence and to follow the example of a few other powerful Chinese generals. As a christian, he is not popular enough to achieve his end by his own effort, and for this reason he is compelled to look for assistance to Chang Tso Lin, to Sun Yat Sen, and eventually also to the Soviet government. If nothing interferes, he will continue to consolidate his power and to assume the vacant place of Wu Pei Fu.

• • •

WILL he succeed? We don't think so. The time is past for the success of single generals imposing their power upon certain sections of China. The nationalist movement for the unification of China, led by Sun Yat Sen, has recently scored great victories. The prestige of Soviet Russia, which supports this movement, has also grown considerably. No Chinese government can now afford to ignore Sun Yat Sen or Soviet Russia. On the other hand, even Japan, who will acquire great influence in Chinese affairs, will not be able to ignore the will of Soviet Russia, because her own interests dictate a policy of friendship to us.

• • •

WE may therefore conclude that whatever the desires of the participants in the present events in China, the objective historical developments will compel them to move in the direction of the national unification of China and its liberation from the oppression of foreign imperialism. Considered from this point of view, the coup d'etat of Fenghu-Ysiang is a step forward and in the right direction.

American Intervention in Europe

By I. STALIN,
Secretary Russian Communist Party

THE LONDON Conference of the Entente is the fullest expression of lying, false bourgeois democratic pacifism. If MacDonald-Herriot's accession to power and the noise about "establishing normal relations" with the Soviet Union were intended to cover and mask the cruel class struggle in Europe and the mortal hatred of the capitalist states towards the Soviet Union, the London agreement of the Entente is meant to cover and mask the desperate struggle between England and France for European supremacy, the growing hostility between England and America in the struggle for domination of the world market, the struggle of the German people against the colonial Entente oppression. There is no longer any war between classes, the revolution has come to an end, now things can be settled by class co-operation!—rave the MacDonalds and Renaudels. There is no longer any struggle between France and England, between America and England, between Germany and the Entente, an end to war, now everything can be settled by universal peace with America at the head!—chime in their friends to the London agreement and their brother-traitors to the cause of labor, the social democratic heroes of pacifism.

However, what did happen at the London conference of the Entente?

Before the London conference the reparations questions was solved by France alone, more or less independently of the Allies, for France had a safe majority in the reparations commission. The occupation of the Ruhr served as a means to disorganize Germany economically and as a guarantee of France's receipt of reparation coal and coke, for the production of French metal of semi-finished chemicals and dyes for the French chemical industry, and dutiless importation of Alsace textiles into Germany. The plan was calculated to create a material base for the military and economic supremacy of France in Europe. However, this plan, as is known, did not succeed. The method of occupation led only to opposite results. France did not receive more or less adequate payments in money or in kind. And finally, the author of the occupation itself, Poincare, found himself thrown overboard for his openly imperialist policy, fraught as it was with new wars and revolution. As regards France's supremacy in Europe, it failed not only because the method of occupation and open robbery precluded the possibility of economic co-operation between the French and German industries, but also because England was resolutely opposed to such co-operation, for she could not be unmindful of the fact that a fusion of German coal and French metal must inevitably undermine the British metal industry.

What then, did the London conference of the Entente give instead?

Firstly, the conference rejected the course of independent solution of the reparations question by France, recognizing that disputes must be settled in the last resort, by an arbitration commission composed of Entente representatives and headed by an American representative—in other words: if Germany is to be robbed she is to be robbed jointly.

Secondly, the conference rejected the occupation of the Ruhr and recognized the necessity of evacuation, economically (immediately) and military (within a year or sooner). The reasons: the occupation of the Ruhr at the present stage is dangerous from the point of view of the political situation of Europe, and inconvenient from the point of view of organized and systematic robbery of Germany. And that the Entente is preparing to rob Germany thoroughly and systematically, is hardly to be doubted.

Thirdly, while rejecting military intervention, the conference wholly approved intervention of a financial and economic character, recognising: (a) the necessity of setting up in Germany a bank of issue under the control of a special foreign commissioner; (b) the handing over to private hands of the state railways to be governed under the control of a special foreign commissioner; (c) the creation of a so-called "exchange committee" of representatives of the allies concentrating in its hands all the reparation payments in Germany, financing the German deliveries in kind from the reparation payments, and authorized to invest a certain part of the reparations payments (in case it is inexpedient to remit it to France) in German industry, thus being in complete control of the money market of Germany. It is hardly necessary to prove that this means a conversion of Germany into an Entente colony.

Fourthly, the conference recognized the right of France to compulsory receipt of German coal and chemicals for the course of a certain period, stipulating, however, Germany's right to appeal to the arbitration commission for a reduction or even a cancellation of these compulsory deliveries in kind. It thereby nullified or practically nullified the rights of France.

If we add to all that the 800 million mark loan to Germany floated by the British and mainly American bankers, if we further remember that the conference was commanded by bankers, notably by American bankers, then the picture becomes complete: French supremacy has received a knock-out blow, French supremacy have given way to American supremacy.

Such are the results of the London conference.

Some believe on this ground that henceforth the conflict of interests within Europe will fade before the spectre of American supremacy; that America, interested in exporting capital to Europe, will be able to put the European countries on a ration and force them to sit still in the name of the enrichment of their bankers; that peace in Europe, tho compulsory, may, therefore, be considered more or less warranted for some considerable period.

This belief is entirely erroneous.

First, because the conference settled the question of Germany without the party chiefly interested, without the German people. You may, of course, plan the conversation of Germany into a first class colony, but to attempt to make a colony out of a country such as German, now that even the backward colonies are held in subjection only with difficulty, means to place Europe on a charged mine.

Secondly, the conference put back in her place too far advanced France, which naturally gave England the upper hand in Europe. However, to think that France can reconcile itself to British supremacy means to disregard the logic of things, which usually proves to be stronger than any other logic.

Thirdly, the conference recognized American supremacy. But American capital is interested in financing the Franco-German industry, in the most rational use of this industry, for instance, in the spirit of combining French iron with German coal. It can hardly be doubted that American capital will take advantage of its position in this most profitable direction for itself. But to think that England will reconcile itself to this situation means not to know England, means not to know to what an extent England values the interests of her metal industry.

And finally, Europe is not an iso-

(Continued on Page 5.)

Gompers on the Warpath - -

By Alexander Bittelman

Gompers is becoming again an internationalist. Before he departs to the other and better world he feels it his duty to American imperialism to mobilize the labor reactionaries thruout the world for a fight against the left wing and for the enslavement of European labor in the interests of the Dawes' plan.

The Dispatch From El Paso.

An innocent little dispatch. It says: In private conferences with labor representatives of Mexico, Great Britain, Canada and Germany, the leaders of the American Federation of Labor are discerning plans for "co-ordinating activities" of international labor bodies thruout the world, out of these conferences is expected to come a case for a world labor gathering, probably this winter, when a definite organization of European and American labor will be formed.

Now, if you want to get the true meaning of this new move by Gompers, you must remember two things: One is the Dawes' plan; the other is the growing left wing in the international trade union movement and the campaign for international unity of the trade union movement initiated by the Red Labor Union International. Gompers, like a true agent of American imperialism, is in favor of the one and violently opposed to the other. Hence, his latest move.

Gompers Follows the Flag.

Gompers like business, follows the flag. Thruout his career in the labor movement, he has remained a devoted servant of American capitalism. Every policy and every move of his is dictated by one desire, and that is to assist American capitalism to solidify and extend its power at home as well as abroad.

Look at Gompers' role in the Pan-American Federation of Labor. He is president of the organization; he is practically in control of it thru the help of the labor reactionaries in Mexico, in Central and South America. And what is the result? The Pan-American Federation of Labor has been reduced by Gompers to the role of a mere tool in the hands of American imperialism. By means of this organization American capital secures for its imperialist policies in Central and South America the support of the labor reactionaries in those countries. Labor on the American continent is kept in check by "labor" leaders who are managed by Gompers who, in turn, is being managed by American capital.

Now the Dawes' Plan.

Now comes the Dawes' plan. It is the great bid of American capital for world domination. It is the culminating point and the most brazen expression of many years of development which made American imperialism the greatest capitalist power on earth.

Seymour Parker Gilbert, chief reparation agent, sits in Berlin and in the name of Morgan, manages the affairs of Europe. He rules by "ukase." His word is law. He says: Taxes on German imports into England and France will be collected by himself and not by the governments of those countries. And what is the effect? France agrees immediately. The reason? France is negotiating a loan of 200-million dollars from the purse of Morgan. English capital is dissatisfied. Of course, it is. But it will submit eventually just the same, because behind the Dawes' plan stands the fabulous wealth and tremendous power of the entire capitalist system of America.

European Labor Must be Subdued.

The resistence by the capitalists of Europe to American domination in world affairs is a serious obstacle, indeed, to the free expression of American imperialism. Trouble is already brewing. Sooner or later there is bound to be an explosion which will shake the world and the capitalist system to its foundations. But for the present and for the immediate future the main obstacle to the "successful" enforcement of the Dawes' plan is labor—European labor.

Why? Take a little example: The German railroads. According to the Dawes' plan, the German railroads must produce a certain rate of profit to go as payment on the reparation account. But the German railroads never produced profits, and the only way this could be achieved now is either by reducing wages or by reducing the working staff.

The third possibility—the increase of transportation rates—is excluded by all the managers of the Dawes' plan.

The German railwaymen are the first to pay for the Dawes' plan. The same is true of every other industry in Germany. And the workers know it. And they don't like it. And they will resist it in spite of the German social-democracy and the trade union bureaucracy. In fact, the German railwaymen are already threatening a strike.

What is the main and immediate European problem before American capital? It is this: To subdue European labor. By force if necessary, but first of all by the old, tried method of buying off and corrupting the European labor bureaucracy. American capital needs the support of the European labor reactionaries to impose upon the revolting masses the Dawes' plan. And who could do the job best?

Enter Gompers.

Old Samuel Gompers will do the job. Before he dies he will pay his last tribute to his master. Gompers is willing. He did a similar job for American capital thru the Pan-American Federation of Labor. Why not try the same in Europe?

The question is how? The European labor movement is somewhat different from the labor movement in Central and South America. And so is the general situation. The important factors to be reckoned with by Gompers and the American capitalists is the growing left wing in the European trade union movement, and the international Communist campaign against the Dawes' plan, and the movement towards international trade union unity initiated by the Red Labor Union International and supported by every militant left wing in the world. The main basis of this unity movement is an international unified struggle against the enslavement of labor by the Dawes' plan.

Now, the problem is, how can the Dawes' plan be enforced in the face of all these powerful opposition movements? The answer that American capital seems to have hit upon is: Crush them! Unify the labor reactionaries against the left wing. Block the unity between the Red Labor Union International and the Amsterdam International. Demoralize the ranks of European labor and the task will be achieved.

Gompers will undertake to do the job. He will talk to the reactionaries in the Amsterdam International and will tell them to stop unity—talk with Moscow. And the reactionaries will listen because, God knows, they hate to unite with the revolutionary unions. They were compelled to begin talking unity because of pressure from below. Now there will be pressure from Gompers and from the American capitalists. To which pressure will the Amsterdam reactionaries respond quicker?

And if Gompers is not successful in blocking the unity movements, he may even attempt to split the Amsterdam International. The interests of American capital will demand it. The house of Morgan needs an international trade union organization of its own—a sort of international "company" union—to enforce its will in Europe. The dispatch from El Paso is very suggestive. It says further:

"That some sort of a union of world labor organizations be established under the guidance of the American Federation of Labor is stated to be the chief act which Samuel Gompers hopes to accomplish before laying down the active leadership of the American Federation of Labor."

Do you get the meaning of it? It is simple. It is an attempt to create an International Strikebreaking Agency to be supervised by such expert strikebreakers and open shoppers as Coolidge, Dawes and Gompers.

The Left Wing Must Be on Guard.

The left wing of the American labor movement must immediately get into militant position and fighting trim to resist this new dastardly attempt to split the ranks of labor. Every American worker and every local union must be made to understand the full significance of this latest move by Gompers.

Make the American labor movement ring with the slogans:

Down with the Dawes' plan!

Down with Gompers, the tool of American imperialism!

Down with the international strikebreakers and open shoppers!

Hail the movement for unity between the Red Labor Union International and the Amsterdam International!

The Red Soldier's Manual - -

By L. Trotsky

Military Drill and Schools.

It should be made a point of honor of every Red Army soldier to strive to attain a thoro knowledge of the business of war. Each warrior must know his part. The enemies of the workers are many, they are rich and well armed. In order to resist them effectively and with the least possible sacrifice, each red soldier must wholeheartedly, conscientiously and untiringly study military science. And he must do it not from fear, but for conscience sake. Remember, that you will have to fight. Drill under fire is very costly. Do not lose time!

12. There are no interior barriers in the Red Army. Each Red Army soldier may become a commander and may rise to the most responsible, highest position. The military schools are open to all conscientious and capable soldiers. Red Soldier! Do not hang about leisurely, do not become stagnant, study, dare, march forward.

13. The chief disseminators of military science are the military schools. In some schools the future commanders are learning the first necessary principles and become tempered and skillful. In others the young commanders are replenishing their knowledge and are widening their horizon. And finally, the military academies are offering a higher education preparing officers for the highest, most complicated military duties. The military schools, where the work of moulding and hammering out the commanding staff of the army is being done, are in the true sense of the word forges of victory. Fully conscious of their high mission, the military schools must serve as models and examples to the Red Army in every respect.

Commanders and Commissars.

14. The role of the commander is to lead his soldiers into battle. To this end he is constantly preparing himself and those under his command. His fundamental task is to train the red soldiers in military science, to weld them into a single fighting unit, skillful in the use of their arms and able to adapt themselves to place and environment.

The commissar is the eye of the workers' and peasants' republic. His task is to educate the red soldier in the spirit of a conscious revolutionary fighter and to insure the unshakable loyalty of the Red Army to the Soviet government.

It must, however, constantly be borne in mind that military drill is inseparable from education just as education is inseparable from drill. The commissar and commander, therefore, are working hand in hand, supplementing each other in the responsible tasks assigned to them.

15. Each commander must strive to rise to that moral and political height which would enable him also to carry out the duties of the commissar. Each commissar must acquaint himself with the various phases of military science and acquire the necessary theoretical and practical knowledge, thus improving his military education, which would enable him to take upon himself the duties of a commander. Thus as experience accumulates, with the growth of general military culture in the army, and with the strengthening of its fighting traditions, the two offices of commander and commissar will merge into one, the one occupying it serving as leader, instructor, and educator who thoroly trains his soldiers and leads them into battle.

16. The authority of commanders and commissars is very wide, in accordance with the demands of the army, but still wider are their duties and consequently their responsibilities. Each military unit is what the commissar and commander make of it.

12. To encourage conscientious, zealous, distinguished soldiers, irrespective of the positions they occupy, and to impress the listless and negligent in the army, the workers' and peasants' government authorizes higher commanders and commissars and officers in general in some instances to use means of encouragement and in others to apply punitive measures. The commanders and commissars must take great care to accord praise only to those that really deserve it and to inflict punishment only upon those that are guilty beyond any shadow of doubt.

18. The law gives full right to the commander to demand unconditional obedience from his soldiers. On the other side the commissar secures such obedience by the weight of his authority and power.

19. But mere obedience is not sufficient. The commander must strive to win the complete confidence of his soldiers. He can attain that only by exhibiting in his daily action and deeds the real qualities of a military leader: insistence, impartiality, consistency, a firm knowledge of military affairs and an intimate acquaintance with the soldiers under his command. Demanding discipline from others, the commander himself must be the personification of discipline.

20. Lack of determination on the part of a commander, which is frequently caused by insufficient knowledge of his affairs, duties and tasks, is most disastrous. A good commander not only teaches others, but untiringly studies himself. He keeps in touch with the military literature and thus establishes associations in his mind between the lessons derived from literature and those of his own experience as a commander. To be a commander means to work unceasingly over one's own personality, to aim constantly at perfection, and to move upwards steadily, untiringly, step by step.

21. The caste spirit characteristic of the officers of bourgeois armies is alien and hostile to the Red Army of workers and peasants. Arrogance, boastfulness, extravagance, debauchery, dueling and other usual characteristics of officer's life, will meet only with condemnation, and contempt in the public opinion of the Red Army and of the socialist country in general. The red commander must do his best, be worthy of the confidence of the workers who have conferred upon him such high honors.

(To be continued next Saturday.)

Still the Banks Bust.

ALGONA, Ia.—A national bank examiner today was in charge of the First National bank here which was closed by the board of directors. The bank had deposits totalling $650,000. No statement regarding its condition or the reason for the closing has been issued.

First Aid to God.

ROME, Nov. 21.—Special rail rates to foreigners visiting Rome during holy year have been announced by the government, including individual reductions up to 30 per cent and half rates for parties of 400 or more.

Campaigning for Communism - By Wm. Z. Foster

II.

Among the many impressions gathered by myself during the campaign is a realization that our party militants have much need to become better acquainted with the technique of organizing mass meetings. This fact was borne home to me emphatically by my participation in scores of gatherings encompassing many thousands of people. Mass meetings are an important method of carrying the message of Communism to the rank and file of the working class, and much of their success depends upon the skill with which they are organized and conducted. My campaign experience goes to show that many of our comrades in charge have a great deal to learn in order to properly utilize the valuable organizing and propaganda medium of the mass meeting.

By WILLIAM Z. FOSTER.

One of the particlar difficulties they encounter seems to be with regard to halls. There is a strong tendency to hire halls altogether too large. Many of the comrades in charge fail to properly estimate the crowd that can be expected to attend. This is a serious defect. It works out bad several ways. For one thing, it loads down the meeting with a needless expense and usually creates a disastrous deficit. I saw many illustrations of this, where halls were rented for $150 and $200 when others would have served the purpose as well for a fraction of that amount. In one town where our organization is quite weak, some of the comrades even proposed to hire the local ball park, whereas when the crowd was actually gotten together in a hall it counted not over 200 people.

Selection of Halls.

But worse than the needless expense involved in a too large hall is the bad psychological effect produced upon the crowd. Empty chairs simply ruin a meeting. Far better a small hall jammed with people than the same number of people seated in a too large hall. The more a crowd is bunched together the better it responds to the speaker. During the campaign I spoke, for example, to a crowd of 1,500 people in a hall that seated 3,500. The result was a comparative failure. The sight of so many empty seats carried to the crowd unconsciously the conviction that the meeting was a frost. The same crowd in a hall half as large would have been much more enthusiastic and responsive. The too large hall disease is one that should be corrected in the organization of our Party meetings, likewise the hiring of fancy downtown halls instead of the popular halls patronize by the masses.

There is also a lack of appreciation of the important fact that crowds, in order to be receptive and responsive, must be comfortable. Hence the halls must be properly lighted, heated, and ventilated. Dark, cold, or stuffy halls simply destroy the effect at meetings. Too often those in charge pay no attention to such matters. They take the halls just as the janitors turn them over, instead of carefully seeing to every detail beforehand. Dark halls should be avoided. The more lights there are the better. crowds are not receptive. The same Many times I have seen the turning on of lights give a new spirit to a crowd. Cold is also fatal to a meeting. Comrades arranging meetings in cold weather should never depend upon chance to take care of the heating of the halls. Many an otherwise good meeting has been spoiled by the hall being too cold. Shivering crowds are not receptive. The same is true of crowds in unventilated halls. It is enough to make a speaker lose his mind to see the way the ventilation problem is handled sometimes. First, the hall will be entirely unventilated. Then someone will open every window in the place, only to be followed shortly afterward by someone else who closes every one, raising havoc in the meeting meantime. A little intelligent foresight would avoid all this harrowing inconvenience. Even the arrangement of the chairs is of real importance in making a meeting a success. Again the tendency is to accept things as the janitors leave them. This often means a chaotic arrangement. A special duty of the committee in charge should be to see that the crowd is properly bunched together and seated close up to the speaker.

Duty of Committeemen.

The maintenance of order in meetings is such a prime necessity that one would believe it hardly necessary to mention here. But many comrades lack an appreciation of the fact. They let the crowd practically take care of itself as best it can. Usually no arrangements are made to seat the incoming people, with the result that, after the meeting is in session, they meander in searching for seats, to the infinite disturbance of everyone. It is enough to give a speaker nervous prostration to watch such interruptions. Ushers, properly organized, would save this serious annoyance. But ushers who don't know their job are worse than none at all. They can break up a meeting quicker, by running aimlessly around, than even the late-coming visitors. A first requsite for a successful meeting is an active floor committee that takes full charge of maintaining order. Especially this committee should see to it that the committeemen themselves are in their seats. Often these seem to thing they have a special license to run helter-skelter about the meeting and that this does not create disturbance. Silence in the audience is essential for good meetings.

Like many other organizations, our party is afflicted with the chairman evil. The different ways an inexperienced chairman can spoil a meeting are as numerous as they are disastrous. The best chairman is he who devotes himself to the technical business of handling the meeting from the platform. The less he says to the meeting the better. Nothing is more exasperating to a speaker or more wearisome to a crowd than to have the chairman launch out continually into long speeches upon every occasion. Especially criminal is that type of chairman who, drawing upon his own imagination, undertakes to tell the crowd just what the speaker is going to speak about. I had many experiences with such loquacious chairmen during the campaign. They are the bane of the speaker's life. Once proven guilty, by such an exhibition of garrulousness on the platform, they should be sent into political exile. The same fate should be meted out to those sinners who go upon the platform without a gavel, without thoroughly acquainting themselves with the literature that is to be sold, and the order in which the speakers talk, or without making any other of the many necessary preparations for properly handling a meeting. Such incompetence is altogether inexcusable and should not be tolerated. An experienced chairman is the life of a successful mass meeting. We should have more of them.

Build the Mass Meetings.

In the campaign it became quite evident to me that our comrades were not going to the masses effectively in order to build up our mass meetings. There was too much of a tendency to restrict our efforts just to our own circle of members and immediate sympathizers. This was a big mistake. If our meetings were not up to expectation in certain places it was almost entirely due to this fault. No sooner would I take a look at a crowd than I could tell whether or not it had been built up by real work among the masses. The building of a Communist mass meeting requires genuine effort. The announcement of a meeting should immediately be followed by a widespread and systematic campaign of advertising amongst all kinds of working class organizations, including trade unions, fraternal associations, co-operatives, etc. Above all, meetings should be held at the factory gates to acquaint the working masses of the approaching mass meetings. This is done all too seldom. Our comrades are too much inclined to confine their efforts simply to announcing their meetings thru a few radical channels and to a circulation indiscriminately of handbills. In this day of movies, radio, and a thousand other attractions to lure the sleepy-minded workers away from all serious consideration of their problem, the building of mass meetings is a real task.

Skill and Hard Labor Needed.

Whatever is worth while for our Party to do at all, should be done well. Inasmuch as we must use mass meetings as a means of carrying our program to the great rank and file of labor, we should learn to do the job with the utmost efficiency. The comrades throughout the Party should give much more attention to this fact that has hitherto been the case. We should not be content to go along with the slipshod methods that prevail in other organizations of workers. When we call a meeting we should build it into a success, into something that will be a credit to our Party. "I say "build" advisedly, because, under existing conditions in the United States, successful working class meetings are actually built by skill and hard labor.

In the foregoing I have sketched a few of the essentials that should be constantly borne in mind in the organization of mass meetings. There should be a live committee in charge of the work wherever such a meeting is contemplated. This committee should take nothing for granted but should use its intelligence in every detail of the work. It should see to it that the hall secured is of a popular character, well situated, and not too large. The committee should assume full responsibility for the heating, lighting, and ventilation of the hall, leaving nothing to the imagination of the janitor. Then a widespread campaign should be initiated directly amongst the masses of the workers to attract them to the meeting. A vigorous floor committee should be on the job to see that order is preserved in the meeting, and an experienced chairman secured to control the meeting.

Scientific Method Necessary.

These recommendations may seem obvious, but, unfortunately, all too often they are not. Strangely enough, in spite of so much experience in this direction, the workers are exceedingly unskilled in the organization of meetings. The crimes that the trade unions commit in this respect are almost unbelievable. For example, a few years ago the Chicago Federation of Labor, following out its usual incompetent and primitive methods, called a mass meeting to protest against the threatening execution of Tom Mooney. Although there were 200,000 workers in the city, only 200 of them showed up at the meeting. Disgusted at this fiasco, the radical delegates of the Federation, headed by J. W. Johnstone, moved the reholding of the meeting. They set out systematically to build up the meeting, with the result that a few weeks later 20,000 workers poured into the great Coliseum to demonstrate for Mooney. It was one of the greatest working class meetings in the history of Chicago and it was the result of scientific organization methods.

We must apply scientific methods in the building and controlling of Workers Party meetings to a greater extent than is now the case. Mass meetings form an important part of our propaganda and should be properly organized. A careful study of the foregoing hints will help a great deal in this direction. Whenever the Workers Party calls a mass meeting it must be a real outpouring of the workers. Wherever a mass meeting is a failure it is an indication that the comrades in charge do not understand their job.

FRENCH WORKERS DEMAND SOVIET RECOGNITION

Herriot "Consents" to Recognize.

AMERICAN INTERVENTION IN EUROPE

(Continued from Page 3.)

lated continent. It is connected with its colonies, it lives on the sweat of these colonies. To think that the conference can change anything for the better in the relations between Europe and the colonies, that it may stop or retard the development of the conflicts between these, means to belive in miracles.

What then is the conclusion?

There is only one conclusion. The London conference did not settle a single one of the outstanding conflicts in Europe, but has supplemented them by new conflicts, by conflicts between America and England. No doubt England will, as before, deepen the antagonism between England and Germany, in order to secure political domination on the continent. No doubt America in its turn will deepen the antagonism between England and France in order to secure its hegemony on the world market. We do not speak of the deep-lying antagonism between Germany and the Entente. The world events will be determined by these antagonisms, and not by the "pacifist" speeches of the hangman Hughes or of the eloquent Herriot. The law of the unequal development of capitalist countries and of the inevitability of imperialist wars, remains in force now more than ever. The London conference only comouflages these antagonisms, in order to create the conditions for their greatest intensification.

The Shop Nuclei--A Need Now

By MARTIN ABERN.

Why is the Workers Party trying to reorganize itself on the basis of shop nuclei? Many reasons and correct ones have been presented before to the membership, yet there are more and weighty rasons why the Workers Party must become a political party organized at the place of work, in the shops and factories.

Shop nuclei organizations or the idea for shop nuclei did not fall from the skies. The idea and the necessity for the change in the party have arisen because of historical and practical necessity. Very briefly we can point out that previous to the world war, the socialist movement thruout the world had been gaining strength rapidly in a comparatively easy manner, thru propaganda, agitation meetings, press. Especially do we note this development in the party of social-democracy in Germany. There, more than anywhere else, social-democracy was growing stronger in the reichstag and was presumably acquiring political power thru making use of the institutions of capitalism, and there developed most strongly the revisionist theory in economy, on the state and other political matters. It became an accepted opinion with the leaders and very largely too, in the ranks of the social-democrats that socialism could be achieved thru the parliamentary or electoral machinery of capitalist "democracy." Holding this view, it is natural that the revolutionary vitality, that the struggle on other than the parliamentary field was eliminated. The theory of socialism gained easily and brought forward organizationally a vast electoral machinery of social-democracy competing supposedly, with the capitalist class.

Shop Nuclei a Historical and Practical Necessity.

Then the world war came and destroyed, in the vast millions of the masses, at least, if not in the leaders the illusion that political power could be gained by the workers thru the machinery of the capitalist parliament and institutions. In fact, a story which is now old, but which yet needs to be told many times, the socialist parties thruout the world became the third parties of capitalism. The socialist parties, instead of being parties of revolution, have become the parties of counter-revolution, last staves of the barrel of capitalism.

The Communist movement coming into being during the course of the world catastrophe and the breaking up of the Second International brot forward its own definite ideology principally and tactically. The ideas of Communists and socialists are as far apart as the poles. Briefly, the Communists have demonstrated that the primary struggle for power by the workers lies outside of parliament and congress, which can only be used as mediums for propaganda for the revolution. The real struggle lies in participation in the daily battles of the workers, strikes, etc., in the fighting to revolutionize the trade unions and to organize shop committees. Further, there is the recognition that the struggle for power finally reaches the point of an open struggle between the workers, organized under the leadership of the Communist Party and the capitalist class.

Political Situation Demands Shop Nuclei.

We are living under greatly changed political and economic conditions in the United States too, which is now full-blown as an imperialistic nation. The world is existing in a period of shrieking militarism, battling imperialism, struggle, conquest, starvation, war and so on. Soviet Russia excepted.

Socialist organizational forms, electoral machineries with their lifeless, devitalised thought and action cannot meet the needs of revolution. More virile and dynamic forms of struggle are required. Oddly enough, despite the contrasting aims of the socialist parties and the Communist parties most of the Communist and socialist parties still have the same organizational areas. In other words, an organization fitted for carrying on ordinary election campaigns, etc., and those poorly, but not fitted for swift, militant revolutionary struggle and action either in the daily struggle of the workers or for the revolutionary goal of Communism.

In America, the Workers (Communist) Party, yet retains the territorial form of organization, but has decided to begin changing (already has begun) to the shop nuclei basis. To form or organize the Workers Party on the job is to solve the organizational contradiction.

By organizing our party units in the shops, factories, mills—shop nuclei—we get permanent contact with the mass. We carry on the struggle along with them in the shops in the immediate issues, whatever they may be, and also on the larger political problems facing them. The I. W. W. once served in a way as an example of job organization for revolutionary purpose. Of course, the I. W. W. has refused to face the most important fact of all, that the struggle is a political one and the aim must be, first of all for the conquest of political power by the working class, before control of industry can be established.

Historically, therefore, our present organization is antiquated, a relic of social-democracy and must pass into the limbo of the dead. We are meet militantly, our political problems. But we must create and build our organizational forms so that they will correspond to the political necessity of the situation in this period, and that demands that the political, the organization unit, of our party must be in the shops.

Experience, everywhere that the shop nuclei have come into being, proves the soundness of the shop nuclei form of organization.

It is not only that the Communist International has declared that we must organize a party of shop nuclei, and that is a very good reason indeed, but the important thing is that it is necessary for the very life of the Workers Party, if it is to go forward with revolutionary political activity. Even as the Comintern has solved correctly the other political, tactical and other organizational problems before the Communist Parties, the Communist International arrived at the shop nuclei form of organization thru experience and need.

The Communist International has given us the lead once again. We will do well indeed, to follow that lead and organize the Workers Party on a Bolshevik, Leninist basis. A party organized at the place of work. Forward to shop nuclei!

MUSIC - LITERATURE - DRAMA

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN

Alfred Wallenstein, first violincellist of the Chicago symphony orchestra, was soloist with it at the regular concerts of last Friday and Saturday, at Orchestra Hall. Wallenstein eclipsed all his previous performances. There was an unusually enthusiastic response, and the soloist well deserved it. He played the Schumann concerto and the variations on a rococo theme by Chaykovski. The first of these is undoubtedly interesting to the 'cellist in the privacy of his studio as he works out its intricacies, but on the concert platform and from the point of view of the listener it is not very intriguing. There are some good bits in the second movement, but the rest is technical hot air.

It was the Chaykovski theme and variations that made the hit. The theme itself is not at all characteristic of the composer. It is almost Mozartian and simple, and the variations are not the distortions one so frequently finds. This music combined with Mr. Wallenstein's tasteful and refined interpretation made a most delightful combination.

Mr. Stock opened the program with the symphony of Ernest Chausson. Chausson was a pupil of Cesar Franck and his symphony is much like Franck's, which means that it is melody full of pathos and suffering that touches one to the depths. It is a pity this man could not have lived and his genius ripen. But a recalcitrant bicycle and a stone wall decided differently, and all we have is a few poignant and moving compositions to remember him by.

Richard Strauss' rondo "Till Eulenspiegel" and a festival march written by Alexander Glazunoff for the Chicago world's fair of 1893 rounded out the program. This march is practically unknown, and it is a surprising line bit of music, considering that it is based on an American tune and was written by a man who has never come to America. It does sound a little bit American. Glazunoff's theme is derived from the tune "John Brown's Body," and the unaltered tune is also used. Which sets one to thinking, "John Brown's Body" is as near to an American folk song as any. There are a lot more like it, such as "Frankie and Johnnie," "Blow the Man Down," the cowboy songs collected by George Lomax, and all the rest of the songs that Carl Sandburg and his guitar sing before literary societies.

If Alexander Glazunoff, living in Leningrad, can write a march on an American folk song, why not some activity on our part to use what folk music we have.

Res. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050

MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8657 Central 4945-4947

Dust Proof Slip Covers to protect Your Furniture

Call or Phone.
Illinois Slip Cover Co.
Not Inc.
Warwick Bldg., 551 E. 47th St., Chicago
Telephone Atlantic 0601
Estimates cheerfully given everywhere

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

GET AN "AD" FOR THE DAILY WORKER

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES

INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

EDUCATE YOURSELF FOR THE STRUGGLE
THE WORKERS PARTY
OPEN FORUM
(Lecture, Questions and Discussion)
Every Sunday Night at 8 o'clock, Season 1924-25

SUNDAY, NOV. 23—HARRISON GEORGE
Journalist, lecturer and representative of the Red International of Labor Unions, will speak on
"The I. W. W. and Its Relation to World Revolution"
In the Lodge Room
Ashland Auditorium, Ashland Ave. and Van Buren St.
Take Metropolitan "L" to Marshfield Sta., or surface lines on Van Buren
Single admission 25c
Tickets good for any three admissions, 50c

Amalgamated Food Workers
GENERAL HEADQUARTERS
81 East 10th Street, New York, N. Y.
THIS IS OUR

EMBLEM
An Industrial Organization For All Workers in the Food Industry

The Crisis in Italy is Ripening

By RUGGIERO GRIECO.

Without having accepted any particular Dawes' plan, Italy is also a sphere of financial influence of the United States. With the entry of the United States into the war, Italy sheltered the Y. M. C. A. which, provided with great resources, made itself at home in the war zone and in the most important towns in Italy. The Y. M. C. A., which is a sort of spiritual advance guard of the American financiers, followed the tins of preserved rabbit, frozen meat and the corn. Today the Sinclair company, the great American petroleum trust, is coming to the fore, whose most recent history is linked up with the petroleum scandals, in which the highest functionaries of the American state was involved. Italy is therefore sufficiently—Dawesed.

The political independence of Italy, which is so vaunted by our nationalists, is therefore nothing else but pure rhetoric without any real significance. Italy has 391 million dollars credits abroad, as follows: 134 million in Great Britain, 97 in France, 63 in Austria, 35 in Czecho-Slovakia, 33 in Roumania, 14 in Poland, 7 in Russia, 3 in Yugoslavia, 2 in the United States, 2 in France (the figures are taken from a publication of the Bankers' Trust company in New York). On the other hand Italy has debts in other countries to the amount of 4,748 million dollars, 2,569 million of which are due to Great Britain, 2,015 million to the United States and 164 million to France.

Fascist Foreign Policy Weak.

In foreign policy Fascism is following the same lines which the ministers of the old regime followed, only that it has developed greater oratorical powers and trained more numerous and noisy choirs. One can even say that the foreign policy of Italy has never been so provincial as now. The premier, Mussolini, avoids leaving Italy to attend international conferences; his imperialism is very domestic in form, it has nothing of the pinion of the Roman eagle, but rather something of the flutter of a barn door fowl. Since his journey to London in November, 1922, Mussolini has just roused himself sufficiently to go to Lausanne, but his journeys mean the rise of crises at home.

In home policy the crystallization of the opposing parties and powers proceeds with painful slowness. The polemic which the Civilta Cattolica (Catholic Community), the organ of the Jesuits and the Osservatore Romano (Roman Observer), the organ of the Vatican, on the one side, and the press of the (catholic) people's party and of the democratic-liberals on the other side, are carrying on over the common work of the people's party and of the socialists, is continued in a most interesting way. The fact that the Vatican favors the view that the Fascist government, with all its sins, is to be supported, instead of an attempt being made to overthrow it by violence, is connected by many people with the desire of the Vatican, that the year 1925 being a "holy year" shall pass without any social upheavals which might keep back the stream of pilgrims, millions of whom it is reckoned will come to Italy, as it is feared that the failure of the catholic festivals might cause a loss of income to the Vatican coffers expected during such mystical occasions.

Parliamentary Opposition Timid.

The polemics over the eventual collaboration of the people's party and the socialists may be a threat to prevent, or to increase the difficulty of the participation of the people's party in the expected violent attack against Fascism. But it is quite uncertain whether it will come to this attack. The program of the opposition, to which all anti-Fascist constitutional parties belong (the people's party, the republican party, the reformist party, the maximalist socialist party and a few other less important political groups) is of a very vague character. The opposition parties continually repeat that they are against any form of violence and do not intend to adopt violent methods.

The question which the press of the Fascists and of the constitutional opposition parties recur to again and again, is the "Bolshevist danger." The Fascists maintain that there is a "Bolshevist danger" in Italy, which hides behind the opposition. The opposition maintains and even "proves" that there can be no Bolshevist danger. On the contrary, the opposition parties maintain that the Italian Communists in a certain sense work along with the Fascists, in that they support the policy of Soviet Russia and therefore must be on good terms with the Fascist government, which is likewise on friendly terms with the Russian government.

"Legal" Opposition Would Persecute Communists.

Serrati sent a letter a short time ago to the democratic opposition paper Il Mondo (The World) pointing out that Russia is not a friend of the Fascist government, but wants to be a friend of the Italian people; that anti-Fascism has been very much taken up and spread in Russia and that the treaty between Italy and Russia is not a treaty between Communists and Fascists. Perhaps it would have been better if Serrati had not sent this letter to the democratic newspaper, since the latter cannot in any case admit the correctness of the fact which is opposed to its views. On the other hand, one must keep in mind that the whole opposition is strengthening its anti-Communist-Fascist campaign, in order to show the petty bourgeois, which changed a short time ago from Fascism to anti-Fascism, that the opposition parties are for the true and effective return to legality and normal conditions. It is certain, that the moment the opposition parties were to take the place of Fascism, a cruel persecution of the Communists would set in; a legal persecution, but none the less fearful and pitiless.

Under what conditions will the collision with Fascism take place? Will it take a legal form, or will it be accompanied by violence? The assumption of a conspiracy would sound credible, if one keeps in mind that the opposition parties feel above all the necessity of interesting the masses directly against Fascism. But without the intervention of the masses there seems little prospect that the opposition parties will be capable of defeating Fascism, which has an armed militia and many munitions stores at its disposal. The opposition parties are in a very embarrassing position.

Musso Pleads and Threatens.

In the political sphere the cleavage of Fascism goes on uninterruptedly. Those who have withdrawn from the Fascist party, like Torni and Sala, have joined with the poet Sem Benelli, the author of the "Last Supper of the Mockers" in addressing an appeal to the Italian people and founding a "Lega Italica" (Italian League). The movement is purely intellectual and imitates the forms of the political interventions of d'Annunzio, and only those who know nothing of Italian affairs would believe that it could be capable of evoking a mass movement. From Bologna comes the news of the founding of a radical socialist party whose program is not known, but can easily be guessed.

The indecision of the anti-Fascist parties opposes the indecision of the Fascists. Fascism is trying to retain the co-operation of the right liberals who assure it the parliamentary majority, and continues at the same time its threats against the opposition. Mussolini's speech to the miners of Monte Amiata, who were compelled to listen to him, reveals the naivete contained in the political outlook of Mussolini, who, at the same moment in which in an interview with the editor of the Giornale d'Italia he expressed his desire for collaboration, in a public speech threatened the constitutional opposition parties in the commonest of barrack-room expressions.

Currency Depreciating.

Meanwhile the exchange has deteriorated. While the average rate for the first half year of 1922 was 20.1 lire to the dollar, the average in the first half year of 1924 amounted to 22.85. In the last half year 442 paper lire corresponded to 100 gold lire while in the first half year of 1922, 100 paper lire corresponded to 100 gold lire. Imports have increased to 13 milliards a year, that is about 2 milliard more than in 1922. The increase of prices corresponds to the increase in the rate of exchange. In 1922 the buying capacity of the lire was 18.92, in 1924 it was 18.67 in January, 18.41 in February, 18.20 in March, 18.16 in April, 18.20 in May and 18.29 on the average of the first half of 1924. In the first half of 1924 the surplus of imports over exports amounted to 2,783 million lire. The price index figure set at 100 on the average, amounted to 543.1 in January, 1924, 550.5 in April, 536.6 in June and 544.9 last July. Of 125 different classes of goods which were investigated by a financial paper, only 20 have increased less than 200 per cent in price, while 17 have increased from 200 per cent to 300 per cent, 23 from 300 to 400 per cent, 27 from 400 to 500 per cent, 21 from 500 to 600 per cent, 18 from 600 to 800 per cent and 6 from 800 to 1000 per cent.

The increase of population is also noticeable, which must be particularly considered in connection with the results of the Johnson bill (the new American immigration law, which now only permits the immigration of very few Italians.—Ed.). On the 31st of December, 1921, the figures of the population of Italy ran to 37,171,094, at the end of 1922 they had risen to 37,607,487, at the end of 1923, to 38,044,441.

All these elements are of importance for the complete understanding of the importance and significance of the coming events in Italy.

THE SOVIET AGENCY IN CANADA

In September the official agency of the U. S. S. R. in Canada completed its six months stay in Canada. Notwithstanding the friendly reception given the agency by the Canadian government and the official de jure recognition of the Soviet Republic by Canada, the agency had to work under very difficult conditions.

The black hundred and white guard emigrant circles who had already long settled in Canada, the extreme reactionary elements in Canada, self-named representatives of fallen Russian governments, black hundred groups among the Ukrainian population and last the previous representative of Kerensky, Boris Bakhmetiev, who came to Toronto with the purpose of arranging counter-revolutionary meetings have done all they could in order to force the agency out of Canada.

The agency was left without reference books, without information, as the library of the agency was confiscated; also the books were held that were sent by the Russian Academy of Science for the various Canadian universities and scientific institutions. The normal communication with Moscow was greatly hindered by detaining and opening the agency's mail. Also mail was detained and opened that was addressed to the agency from the United States.

The white guards in Canada furnished all sorts of nonsense for the press regarding life in the U. S. S. R. In the newspapers various personal attacks on the members of the agency were continuously being published, as well as all other nonsense about some "tens of tons of inflamatory propaganda literature that members of the agency tried to bring in as wraping for their personal luggage." In spite of this the agency has continued its work, striving towards the re-establishment of trade and cultural relations between Canada and the U. S. S. R., also being of great assistance to subjects of the U. S. S. R. living in Canada.

Not only the presence of the agency in Canada, but also the coming of all other persons from Soviet Russia to Canada was being utilized as propaganda against the U. S. S. R. At the last International Congress of Mathematicians held at Toronto there were present as delegates six Soviet professors. Instead of interviewing them there was published in the Toronto newspapers an interview with a white guard. The Soviet scientists, resenting this, had to publish a protest against such false and slanderous actions.

Left to Right: I. Lambert, B. Solasko, A. Yazikov, L. Kulik and I. Kulik.

Headquarters Soviet Agency in Montreal.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Stack Hit in Egypt.

LONDON, Nov. 21.—Sir Lee Stack, commander of the British forces in Egypt, was wounded seriously when bomb throwers made an attempt to assassinate him today, according to a news agency despatch from Cairo.

KOMBRIG IVANOV

From the Russian by I. YAROVSCHENKO

The guns have stopped firing! "That is good," says everyone. But is it good? We wonder. Everyone wonders. Soon the soldiers will come. After a battle soldiers always come. Lucky that the armies met twenty versts away. Old Vassily remembers—but what does it matter what he remembers? Anyway, he tells of villages in which not a house was left standing. Or a woman unharmed. Terrible stories. Perhaps they are only stories.

The rich landowners have been cheerful these days. The fat priest also, his paunch shakes when he laughs, like a bowl of warm kasha. The poor peasants do not like these signs. They walk unsmilingly, resigned to the future. In other villages when the "Whites" came — but perhaps they are only stories.

Dust on the steppes. Music on the air. The soldiers are far off. Five versts, perhaps six. What matters a verst more or less? Too far to distinguish their uniforms. Or their martial tunes. From a distance armies look the same. It is when they come near—let us hope that they are but stories, tales told by idle women at the fish market.

* * *

In the home of old Kulak the table is spread with good things to eat and drink. As fast as a plate is empty the servant brings something else. This is a fat land and has not been touched by armies. But today! We shall see. The steward, he who watched over the old baron's estate these many years, is talking. About the civil war, of course. Now those "Reds" will be overthrown. The good times will come back. Perhaps the baron might even come back—just for a visit.

The firing has ceased. Yes, yes, of course, Kulak had heard it! Who had not? Soon there would be jovial officers at his table. Perhaps one of them might take an interest in his daughter. His beautiful Olympiade. Daughter of heaven. So she was. An officer was the right husband for her. Those good looks should be set off by a swagger uniform. An officer. Yes, a brigadier even. Of artillery—no, cavalry. This was a country for a horseman. The glasses were filled again and the wine was no more good to look upon than the maiden's blushes. An officer! A brigadier, no less!

* * *

The music came closer. What can they be playing? Surely that is not the "Hymn to the czar." What else can it be? Surely not. . . it cannot be. . .?

But it was. From fifty brass horns, and behind them a thousand lusty throats, the tune that inspires worker and peasant to great things, the tune known as the battle song of the rebellious workers of all the world—"The Internationa!"!

Gone is the gravity of the worker and peasant—a smile is on his honest open face. A smile from the young mother. A smile from the gray bearded veteran with back bent with toil. A cheer from the young workers, who already vision themselves in the proud brown cloth of the Red Army.

Gone is the smile from the well-nourished faces of the wealthy farmers, the merchants. Gone are the debonaire prophecies of the steward and the priest. Gone are rich old Kulak's hopes for an officer for his daughter. Even a subaltern would do. Gone! But are they?

* * *

All is activity in the village. Orders are posted. Two soldiers shall be quartered in each house; they shall adhere strictly to the "political manual" which tells them that worker and peasant must be treated with love and respect. It is easy to love your fellow worker. Sometimes it is easier.

The horses, too, are warriors. They are well cared for. School and club-room are opened for the soldiers. Chess and checkers are favorite pastimes, books and papers are passed from hand to hand. From town to town there rushes a wierd horseless wagon, an "automobile" it is called, the first ever seen in these villages. Hundreds of leaflets are tossed from this machine; they tell of the workers' victory.

* * *

The soldiers make themselves comfortable. Workers welcome them with open arms. The old women are busy at the big stone stoves; daughters primp excitedly in front of the cracked mirror. Make yourselves pretty, my maiden, a Red soldier is a good husband. Perhaps an officer even? Who knows?

The soldiers tell of their exploits. They help with the threshing, the rain must not spoil the grain. They dance on the village green with the bright-eyed maidens. These are happy days in the village. The poor moujiks are happy. Has not the army said, "The land is his who works it. They have worked it all their lives. You cannot argue with an army.

* * *

At the home of old Kulak there are also two soldiers. The biggest house must contain the brigade office. So here is Kombrig Ivanov himself, with his chief aide. The old scoundrel's face fell as the two soldiers entered. An officer, yes, but he had hoped for a different kind. Not so with the girl. After all, he was an officer, and a handsome one at that. A brigadier! Perhaps. . .

It is easy to listen to a soldier. He talks so well. Especially to an appreciative audience. What wonders could Kombrig Ivanov relate to the open-mouthed Olympiade. Marksman, orator, hero. And here was a gold watch to prove it, the general himself had come out to present this gift of the Moscow Soviet. So after all, she was to get her officer, and he was a brigadier.

Ask not what wiles a woman can wield for a man's fancy. The maiden was interested and therefore, interesting. She listened to his stories. She even read what he read, tho it be "The A. B. C. of Communism." She found it much more interesting than "Klyuchy Schastya"—especially when his arms were around her to help hold the book.

* * *

Days speed past like hours, nights like minutes. There came the day when her head was pillowed on his chest, her star-bright eyes looking up into his, and she gave him the answer he desired. But, alas, this was not the end of trouble; it was but the beginning. Enthusiastically she outlined her plans for a high church wedding in all its splendor, veenjetz on head and svetchka in hand as they made their vows before the bejewelled priest. But this did not suit Kombrig. He was a Bolshevik, and the civil registration of marriage required by Soviet law was enough ceremony for him. In vain did he quote authority after authority out of the very books they had read together. She hurled them at his head, even Bucharin, Plechanov, Karl Marx, in hard bindings. Their dream was done.

* * *

But youth will be served. Day and night he thought of the fair Olympiade. Day and night the maid dreamed of her Kombrig. If he went to her it would be surrender. If she went to him, the same. It could not be. Yet they must meet. Kombrig soon found a way. An announcement that the division of land would be stayed if any former owner could give a good reason why he should be permitted to retain it.

Everybody came to that meeting. Poor and rich. Young and old. Kulak was there. Also, despite parental commands, was his daughter. Kombrig was in his glory. His logic was unanswerable, his eloquence most inspiring. The girl drank in his words with her whole being. When he finished the chairman asked for opponents. Very unwillingly, certain defeat facing him, old Kulak allowed himself to be pushed to the platform by his small clique. But he could only stammer and stutter meaningless phrases about the holy czar and the "good old times." The heart of the youth was with Kombrig, and the heart of the girl also. She waited for him after the meeting and told him so by the banks of the moonlit river.

Yet the last obstacle was not yet removed. Her parents would surely object. Well, let them. They would be told, not asked.

It was harder than they anticipated. The old father was especially set on a church wedding. "No civil ceremony will hold your line Kombrig away from other women" he raged. "So?," answered the girl, "And has the high-church wedding held you? Why not tell mother just where you lost your hat?"

Ah, that cursed hat! Old Kulak had a fondness for fishing, not necessarily in the stream, an orchard bench with a plump little applewoman by his side would do nicely. One night the lovelorn Kombrig has seen him go "fishing," and that night Kulak had lost his hat. It was now in Kombrig's room.

The old rake started an explanation to his wife that will take at least five years to finish, and we are not interested in that outcome. Neither were the young people. In five minutes they were before the "Commissar of Vital Statistics," had signed the marriage register, and accepted the license under the benign smile of the big picture of Trotsky that hung on the wall.

This is a romance, not a war story. So we will not pursue the tale of Kombrig and Olympiade any further. Some of the soldiers insist that the brigade has a new Commandant who, except for skirts, wears the regular uniform of the Army. Soon marching orders were received and Olympiade bravely broke with the life of her past and took to the road with her soldier husband.

She had her officer. She looked well in a uniform. She was happy.

And in the village the poor peasants sang as they sowed their grain—this time the crop would be theirs.

Note: This story, with very slight changes, is told in motion picture form by the new Russian feature film, "The Beauty and the Bolshevik," which can be rented by working class organizations on very favorable terms. For particulars address, International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

THE BRITISH ELECTIONS

(Continued from page 1)

who are not class conscious.

MacDonald issued definite instructions to the labor party candidates not to fight the election on the Campbell case or the Russian treaty, but to fight on "the record of good work done by the labor government." Nevertheless the treaty and the Campbell case have been important issues in the election and have served to retain for labor the enthusiasm of active workers who would otherwise have treated the election as a sham fight between three completely capitalist parties.

The only points worth noting in the election platforms are that labor did not mention the capital levy or the working class in its "appeal to the people" and that the tory party kept the issues of the Campbell case and Russia well to the front all the time. The liberal party discovered during the election a new agricultural program on vaguely socialist lines and tried to revive the old fear of taxes on food. Both these efforts fell very flat, and the liberal party lost heavily in votes and seats.

Liberals Smashed.

With regard to the nomination of candidates which plays a considerable part in British election maneuvers, owing to the method of election, there has been either an open or tacit agreement between the liberal and tory parties with regard to most of the seats in which labor had hitherto been faced by both of their opponents. In such three-cornered contests labor has had the advantage of the fact that the capitalist vote is divided. Now in 127 such constituencies labor had to meet a solid capitalist vote, with the result that many of these seats showed an increased labor vote but a loss in representation. It is a sign of the weakness of the liberal party that they withdrew their candidates in 107 of these 127 cases.

The final election maneuver was the "bombshell" note from the foreign office to Russia enclosing an alleged letter from Zinoviev to the Communist Party of Great Britain. This was termed by the London Daily Express, a capitalist newspaper which supports trade with Russia, "the foreign office election manifesto." The Zinoviev letter is an obvious forgery. MacDonald's part in the matter is ambiguous. It is impossible to believe that this attempt by reactionary officials to provide the capitalist parties with election material has actually changed many votes. MacDonald remained silent for three days after the publication of this most unconvincing document, but from hundreds of labor platforms up and down the country the "letter" was denounced as a forgery.

If the work put in by the Communists during the election has been as effective as it seems to us to have been, we are a good step forward towards a Communist mass party in Britain.

PATRONIZE OUR ADVERTISERS

BOOKS FOR THINKERS
SCIENCE, LITERATURE
ECONOMICS, HISTORY.
Any Book in Print at Once.
Jimmie Higgins Book Shop
127 University Place
NEW YORK CITY
A Workers Party Book Shop

The Walden Book Shop
307 Plymouth Court
(Between State and Dearborn
Just South of Jackson)
CHICAGO

LEARN ESPERANTO
The International Language
The following booklets are received free:
Esperanto for All, grammar and vocabulary.
Esperanto and its Critics, by Prof. Collinson.
525 7th St., Rockford, Ill.
WORKERS' ESPERANTO ASSN.

How to Be Healthy

For many years he has been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial. After several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.
MEN AND WOMEN
If you are suffering from any ailments, come to my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.
DR. TAFT
1555 West Roosevelt Road
Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.
TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

Learn the International Language IDO
16-page pamphlet, giving outline of language, showing its superiority over Esperanto, etc., sent free.
The Workers Ido Federation
Room 5, 805 James St., N. S.
PITTSBURGH, PA.

THE DAILY WORKER RAISES THE STANDARD FOR A WORKERS AND FARMERS' GOVERNMENT

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Help Insure THE DAILY WORKER for 1925!

Vol. II. No. 211. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year; Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. MONDAY, NOVEMBER 24, 1924. 290. Published Daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

IMPERIALISM RULES LABOR MEETS

Daily Worker Drive On With Smashing Start

AS WE SEE IT
By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

ANOTHER clergyman is misunderstood! The holy man's wife died under rather unusual circumstances and there is more than a suspicion that the clergyman may have a hand in sending her to her fathers. According to the clergyman—his name is Sheasley and he lives in the K. K. K. state of Ohio—his wife crawled into a furnace, shut the door after her and watched herself burn to cinders. Well, those who believe that a whale swallowed Jonah, may swallow the divine's yarn. Those workers who also voted for Calvin Coolidge may believe it.

• • •

THERE is quite a lot of excitement among Chicago police officials. Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes was sent to the woods, and he did not like it. It appears that Hughes is a close relative of State's Attorney Crowe. Hughes attended a banquet given in honor of Dean O'Banion and his gang turned over a normally democratic ward to Crowe, against the opposition of Mike Merlo and his talian squad, whose guns had hitherto kept that particular ward "normal" for the democrats. Now Hughes is out and politicians, judges and other flunkies are finding it had to keep from blowing on each other.

• • •

SINCE the murder of Dean O'Banion, the capitalist newspapers of Chicago have displayed their hypocrisy at its worst. Realizing that both capitalist parties, republican and democratic, have their favored gangs of gunmen, the papers do not get down to brass tacks but deal in generalities about crime and criminals and crooked politicians. The Tribune declares that crime is organized and just as soon as the voters clean out one set of grafters another set is ready to jump in and start all over again. Yet the Tribune was one of the strongest supporters of Calvin Coolidge and his merry grafting administration, branding those who wanted to do a scavenging job on the G. O. P., as radicals and revolutionists.

• • •

THE residents of the gold coast of Chicago, are not going to have their nocturnal slumbers bothered any more by unseemly noises. Let it be understood that "our best citizens," or at least quite a number of them live on the gold coast. The obliging health commissioner of Chicago was informed that society's elite were disturbed by the noises made by workers earning their living on construction jobs. Bundesen called up Chief Collins and requested him to have policemen put a damper on all noisemaking. No doubt the chief will do that little thing unless he is too busy trying to hold his job.

• • •

DENNIS E. BATT has earned the praise of the non-partisan republican mayor of Detroit who was recently elected. On the front page of The Detroit Labor News, official organ of the Detroit Federation of Labor, Batt

(Continued on page 2)

MEXICAN, U. S., UNION OFFICIALS BOW TO WALL ST.

Latin-Americans Follow Lead of Gompers

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 23.—The leaders of the Mexican Federation of Labor (Confederation Regional Obrera Mexicana) and other sycophantic spokesmen of Latin-American unions, have prostituted themselves here before American imperialism in the most brazen and unmistakable manner by official and open homage to Coolidge, president of Wall Street's imperialist government, and simultaneous obeisance to Gompers, president of Wall Street's imperialist labor movement.

Traitors to Their Class.

This marks the acceptance by the leaders of Latin-American labor unions of the despicable role of traitors to their race, oppressed by the imperialist absolutism of the north, and traitors as well to the working classes they claim to represent in their continuous struggle against both native and foreign capitalist exploitation.

At the convention of the Mexican federation (C. R. O. M.) a resolution was passed to send to President Coolidge the following message:

Subservient to Coolidge.

"The sixth annual convention of the Confederation Regional Obrera Mexicana, reflecting the sentiment of the workers of Mexico, unanimously resolves itself to express to the people of the United States, whose government you wholly represent, our thanks for the just and righteous attitude you assumed during the recent military treachery headed by Adolfo de la Huerta, thus helping the workers and the government of Mexico, nobly represented by Obregon, to defend the rule of democracy and liberty.

Hypocrisy is Expressed.

"We feel and hope that the relations of friendship existing at present between our two countries, will endure eternally to our mutual happiness and prosperity.—Respectfully Juan Rico, president of convention; C. L. Gracidas, secretary."

The hypocrisy of this toe-licking of the strikebreaker in the White House becomes apparent when it is understood that the American capitalists supported Obregon as against Adolfo de la Huerta for their own good imperialist reasons.

Huerta was backed by the Cowdray oil interests of England and Obregon was backed by none other than Doheny, famous for his bribing of Am-

(Continued on Page 2.)

GOMPERS' MOVE AGAINST ORGANIZED LABOR IN MINNEAPOLIS IS AID TO OPEN SHOP DRIVE OF EMPLOYERS

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 23.—If organized labor is smashed in Minneapolis and the "open shop" assumes absolute control of things, the destruction can only be laid at the door of the reactionary officialdom of the American Federation of Labor.

Samuel Gompers by sending his lickspittle, Paul W. Smith, into the Mill City has stirred up a "hornet's nest" the result of which may spell the defeat of labor's ideals and aspirations.

Cripples Labor's Fight.

Coming to Minneapolis at a time when thousands of men and women, both organized and unorganized, are walking the streets in search of employment, Smith has succeeded in disrupting the entire local labor movement, broken it up to such an extent that consideration of vital problems such as unemployment is made an absolute impossibility.

For some time the labor fakers have cried out for blood—have energetically sought the scalps of the Communists. The Minneapolis Daily Star, whose policy is alleged to be in the control of a former member of the Minneapolis labor movement, but who has long since been thoroly discredited in the eyes of honest and sincere of Communists in the local assembly.

Its first attack was launched against unionists, led the fight for the unseating of Communists in the June 17 convention of farmers and workers, asserting that convention was to be in control of "envoys of Soviet Russia." This was followed by the traitorous repudiation of the convention by Senator Robert M. La-Follette.

The Star thereafter continued its assault on members of the Workers Party holding cards in local unions under the jurisdiction of the A. F. of L. Then a scurrilous, contemptible

(Continued on page 5)

It's a "C. E. C." Decision

THE DAILY WORKER and the campaign "To Insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925" occupied a foremost place in the full meeting of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party, held in Chicago November 21 and 22. The Central Executive Committee is fully aware of the vital importance of this campaign to make the DAILY WORKER safe for 1925 and-having in a previous resolution called the party membership to activity, determined to make it impossible for anything to interfere with the success of the campaign.

LINK PARTY DISCUSSION WITH CAMPAIGN.

Because of the apprehension that the discussion now beginning in our party over party policy might interfere with the successful progress of the campaign, the Central Executive Committee has decided to make the insurance policy drive an integral part of every meeting for party discussion. At each branch and general membership meeting the first point on the agenda is to be the DAILY WORKER campaign. The needs of the DAILY WORKER are to be discussed and insurance policies sold.

While a difference exists in the party over party policy, one policy has been unanimously adopted, "To Buy a Policy to Insure the DAILY WORKER."

OFFICIAL CANVASS SHOWS 4,406 VOTES COUNTED FOR COMMUNIST TICKET IN MINNESOTA ON NOV. 4

Editor's Note.—The DAILY WORKER is compiling its own list of the election returns. It is well known that many votes for the Workers Party ticket were not counted. The DAILY WORKER again requests all of its readers to co-operate in an effort to get as close an estimate of this year's Communist vote as possible.

Send in the complete returns from your precinct, county, city and state. Returns continue to come in, but they are as yet scattered and incomplete. The secretaries of local, city and district organizations are particularly called on to aid in this effort. Send all returns to the Editorial Department, DAILY WORKER, 1113 West Washington Boulevard, Chicago, Illinois.

• • • •

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ST. PAUL, Minn., Nov. 23.—Election returns from the state of Minnesota show that the Workers Party polled 4,406 votes which were counted, beating the socialist labor party candidate by a ratio of three to one.

The farmer-labor party practically wiped out the democratic party in the state, Farrell, the democratic candidate for U. S. senator, getting only 53,488 votes as compared to 379,650 for the farmer-labor candidate, Magnus Johnson.

The Workers Party carried on a united front with the farmer-labor party in this state, J. F. Emme and Emil Youngdahl, Communists, running on the farmer-labor ticket and polling a surprisingly large vote

Olson, farmer-labor candidate for governor, polled 365,015 votes, while Avery, the democratic candidate, received only 49,173. Coolidge carried the state over LaFollette by a small plurality, and the republican candidate for governor was elected in the drift to Coolidge. The returns, complete with the exception of one small county, follow:

For President

Coolidge, Rep.	420,126
Davis, Dem.	55,704
LaFollette, Ind.	338,543
Johnson, S. L. P.	1,851
Foster, Communist	4,406

U. S. Senator

Schall, Rep.	357,986
Johnson, F. L.	379,650
Farrell, Dem.	53,488
Keefe, Ind.	4,977
Birmingham, Wet	8,496

Governor

Christianson, Rep.	406,052
Olson, F. L.	365,015
Avery, Dem.	49,172
Anderson S. L. P.	3,869
Ferch, Ind.	9,029

Lieutenant Governor

Nolan, Rep.	409,783
Holmes, F. L.	344,643
Schilpen, Dem.	50,142

Secretary of State

Holm, Rep.	472,598
Stageberg, F. L.	288,063
Halverson, Dem.	45,466

Treasurer

Henry Ripes, Rep.	422,714
Berg, F. L.	321,641

Attorney General

Hilton, Rep.	416,716
Sullivan, F. L.	341,236

Railroad and Warehouse Commissioner

Matson, Rep.	402,703
Smith, F. L.	333,122

Supreme Court Chief Justice

Wilson, Rep.	349,929
Johnson, F. L.	295,442

Supreme Court Associate Justices

Stone, Rep.	296,778
Holt, Rep.	316,820
Fraser, F. L.	233,572
Anderson, F. L.	244,954

BRITAIN MAKES THREAT OF WAR AGAINST EGYPT

Plans Open Annexation of the Sudan

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The British government looks upon the execution of Major General Sir Lee Stack, governor general of the Sudan, by Egyptian nationalists in reprisal for the murder of Egyptians by British troops, necessary excuse to withdraw as a godsend, which gives it the the concessions it had previously made under force of circumstances, to the Egyptian nationalists.

In a note, unmatched for brutal frankness since the famous Austrian ultimatum to Serbia which marked the opening of the world war, the Baldwin cabinet makes demands which practically mean the end of every vestige of the shadowy independence which the Egypt-

(Continued on Page 2.)

CHARGE GROSS FRAUDS IN POLL OF CARPENTERS

Wholesale Juggling of Votes, Is Claim

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EVERETT, Wash., Nov. 23.—That gross frauds were committed and wholesale juggling of votes resorted to by piecarders of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America in connection with the referendum election held in April, 1923, is the sensational report just made public here in detail for the first time, by delegates of the local union who attended the recent international convention at Indianapolis.

Rumored Frauds Proven.

Rumors of these frauds have been in circulation for more than a year but officers of the local declined to discuss the matter in detail outside of meetings, further than to state that the 59 votes of Everett, which were unanimous in opposition to the proposition submitted by President Hutcheson to build and maintain a home for aged members, had been counted as unanimously in favor thereof. They did give out the information, however, that International officers arbitrarily had dismissed the local's protest and appeal for a recount, "with best wishes and kindest regards," that an investigation had uncovered similar frauds in all parts of Canada and the United States; that other locals also in the "gypped" class were co-operating with Everett in an endeavor to bring the subject before the next International convention.

The proposition contemplated an addition to per capita assessments upon the membership of approximately $40,000 per month for an indefinite period, for construction and maintenance of a home for aged carpenters. The Everett local voted against the plan not because of opposition to a home, but because of the proposed location in the alligator swamps of Florida, where it would accommodate only a small portion of those who might desire to become inmates.

Handpicked Ballot Committee.

Official returns tabulated by a committee handpicked by the general

(Continued on Page 5.)

Urge Hands Off China.

MOSCOW.—The Hands off China organization now numbers a million and a half members in Russia. Entire student bodies in universities and entire factories joined in masses. The organization protests the interference of western and Japanese imperialists in the internal affairs of China.

Americanize Porto Rico.

WASHINGTON.—Wholesale intimidation, driving of voters from the polling places, and locking up working class voters are reported by Santiago Iglesias, head of the labor movement of Porto Rica, as characterizing the election in the island Nov. 4.

65 New Union Musicians.

ST. PAUL.—The Musicians' Federation of St. Paul has initiated 65 new members.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

THE PARTY AND "DAILY WORKER" EMPLOYES IN STIRRING RESPONSE TO INSURANCE POLICY APPEAL

By MORITZ J. LOEB
(Business Manager of the DAILY WORKER)

First careful consideration, then determined decision, then ACTION. The more and the quicker the action the better. Such has been the program of the DAILY WORKER campaign.

No sooner had the word been given "Insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925," when things began to happen. The Party Central Executive Committee was in session. Its first act was to pledge the utmost support of the party to the campaign; its second act was to call the roll of its members for the sale of the insurance policies. Result: $145 collected from the thirteen Central Executive Committee members!

From "The Daily" Building.

The employes in the DAILY WORKER business office called a meeting. Result $135.00 collected and a committee appointed to sell policies in the rest of the DAILY WORKER building.

Editors and reporters of the DAILY WORKER held a meeting. In addition to the amounts paid by Central Executive Committee members of the staff, $45 contributed.

The committee makes a tour of the DAILY WORKER building. They stop in each office. The Young Workers League, the Trade Union Educational League, the Workers Party national office, the offices of the federations and the federation papers. Everywhere they are greeted. Everywhere they come away gratified and encouraged. No one has refused to appeal of the DAILY WORKER. No one has bought less than a five dollar policy.

Out of the Shop.

At the close of a busy day over linotype machines and presses, the party member mechanical employes in the printing plant hold a special meeting of their nucleus. These comrades who have their fingers on the heart of "Our Daily," know something about the problems and difficulties. They discuss at length what can be done. They translate their decision into action. Two appreatices give $5.00 each. Six give or pledge $10.00 a piece. Ten more account for $25.00 each. Two more give $35.00 each. The party members in the printing plant come across with $390.00!

Read the totals secured in a few minutes in the DAILY WORKER building on the first day of the campaign. It is made up of those who have a first hand view of the DAILY WORKER, a keen insight into its needs and problems.

The First Day!

Daily Worker business office	$135.00
Members of the C. E. C.	145.00
Daily Worker Editorial Staff	45.00
Young Workers League	15.00
T. U. E. L.	15.00
Workers Party Nat. Office	77.00
Federation employes and Federation editors	85.06
Daily Worker printing plant	390.00
Total from the Daily Worker building for the first day	$907.00

From the headquarters of the DAILY WORKER has gone out the slogan:

INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925!

From every corner of 1113 W. Washington Blvd., from every occupant reverberates the first echo:

INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925!

We've Got It!
Let's Keep It
and
BUILD!

SIX COMMUNISTS FROM REICHSTAG ARE ARRESTED

Morgan's Influence Is Becoming Evident

(Special to the Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—Six Communist members of parliament have been arrested here, and the remaining 56 Communist members of Morgan's Reichstag are persecuted and compelled to remain in hiding, the report of the Conference for Red Relief of Germany discloses.

The Red Relief of Germany now has 200,000 members the report states. The official report of the Red Relief Conference, which was addressed by a representative of the Russian Red Relief, follows:

Conference of the Red Relief of Germany

"On Oct. 26, 1924, the conference of the Red Relief of Germany took place in Berlin. At this conference it became obvious that the German Red Relief has made considerable progress in the course of the last few months. It was formed in 1921 at the time of the persecutions after the March action of the German working class, but at that time the Red Relief was not yet a firm organization. When the terror of class justice decreased somewhat in 1923, the Red Relief work, too, decreased. However, when in October 1923, after the defeat of the German working class, the terror of the capitalists began again with unheard of brutality, an immense relief work for the victims of the class war and their families became necessary.

"Since the beginning of this year a systematic organizational work of the Red Relief of Germany has been carried on. The income of the organization increased from 24,072 gold marks in April 1924, to 54,702 gold marks in September. A firm membership organization of the Red Relief was formed. Thus, for instance, the district of Lower Rhine has won already 18,000 individual members and 90 collectively affiliated organizations with 30,000 members, which is a total of 48,000 members. The Red Relief of Germany includes at present about 200,000 members.

"Despite this great progress of the work, however, the Red Relief of Germany could only fulfil its duties towards the victims of the class struggle

(Continued on Page 5.)

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER TO DISCUSS EL PASO CONVENTION AT NEXT MASS MEETING OF THE T. U. E. L.

The next public meeting of the Chicago section of the Trade Union Educational League which was scheduled to be held on Wednesday evening, November 26, will take place on Tuesday evening, December 2, in North West Hall, corner North and Western avenues. The meeting was postponed because of the Labor Defense Council Bazaar, which starts on Wednesday, November 26.

The forthcoming meeting of the Trade Union Educational League promises to be of unusual interest as it will be addressed by William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Workers Party and leader of the revolutionary forces in the American labor movement. He will speak on the result of the A. F. of L. convention at El Paso. Workers Party members and left wing trade unionists are urged to attend and bring as many as possible to the meeting.

TWO STRIKEBREAKERS RULE U. S.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 23.—Two Strikebreakers to Rule America, is the headline in the Daily Herald, British labor daily, announcing the result of the American election Nov. 4. Coolidge is described in the article as a "person of mediocre abilities and uninteresting character.

"His elevation to so high a post is largely fortuitous tho he would not have been run again by the republican party if it had not suited big business to have a pliable nonentity of limited views and intelligence, for its figurehead."

Of Coolidge's running mate the Daily Herald says, "Gen. C. G. Dawes the vice-president is equally an enemy of the workers but a far more dangerous one. He has been the moving spirit and organizer behind the open shop drives in American industry which have succeeded in stamping out every trace of trade unionism in certain trade areas."

MEXICAN, U. S., UNION OFFICIALS BOW TO WALL ST.

Urge Monroe Doctrine for American Labor

(Continued from page 1)

erican officials under Harding to acquire the naval oil reserves of California.

Doheny loaned Obregon several million dollars to finance the military movement against the armed agent of the Cowdray oil interests—and the United States government defended—not "democracy and liberty," but Doheny's oil company—in its supposed "neutral" attitude.

The second act in the prostitution of Latin-American unionism to the imperialists of Wall Street, came when Robert Haberman, the yellow socialist labor officer between the Mexican labor fakers and their American superiors, came before the A. F. of L. convention in El Paso with a resolution he had put thru the C. R. O. M. convention pledging the Mexican federation to defend the American federation against its critics in all its class collaboration with the Wall Street imperialists. The resolution follows:

"Whereas, the American Federation of Labor, has given unequivocal proofs of solidarity to the Mexican labor movement, and has defended energetically the Mexican Federation of Labor from all the attacks of which we have been the victims in the United States; reciprocating loyally to this noble attitude, be it,

"Resolved, that the Mexican Federation of Labor will oppose all attacks which the enemies of the American Federation of Labor will attempt to undertake against it in any part whatsoever of the Mexican republic."

"Monroe Doctrine of Labor."

To this manifestation of the united front of labor fakers in behalf of American imperialism, Vice-President (sometimes called "Crown Prince") Matthew Woll of the A. F. of L. replied in the following words:

"Mr. chairman, I move that the president of this federation convey to the Mexican Federation of Labor our appreciation for this declaration of loyalty to the ideals of democracy and pledge of support and co-operation with the American Federation of Labor in the promoting of the ideals of trade unionism, which, after all, is the beginning of the Monroe doctrine of American labor to apply to the western hemisphere." This was adopted by unanimous rising vote.

When Haberman, for his good services in behalf of Gompers, Morgan and Doheny, was given a diamond stick-pin, as official gift from the A. F. of L., he was so overcome at being taken into the camp of the big fat boys that he could only splutter something about "making this a better world."

Ricardo Trevino, secretary of the Mexican federation, immediately taking the floor of the A. F. of L. convention in order to make clear what this new labor backing to the Monroe doctrine meant, accused the capitalists under the "labor" government of England, of supplying de la Huerta with arms.

Taking the offensive against English imperialism as represented by the two fraternal delegates from the British labor movement, Trevino declared that he had just received a telegram that arms and ammunition were again being landed at Belize, in British Honduras, from there to be smuggled into Mexico to support General Angel Flores, reported already in arms in the state of Durango, in a new counter-revolutionary movement. Trevino appealed to the British delegates to show some "real solidarity and prevent the shipment of these arms."

The British delegates, being representatives of Amsterdam, undoubtedly felt somewhat embarassed by the sudden onrush of the Monroe doctrine. Cramp said that Mexico was being exploited by both American and English capital. But Swales answered Trevino that the workers of England would condemn the shipment of arms into Mexico. He said that the labor was defeated in the recent elections, sufficient power would be brot to make difficult these shipments.

Swales made a typical Amsterdam talk of socialist platitudes and assured everybody that the workers of the world do unite. But he dispatched the following telegram to Arthur Henderson, secretary of the British labor party and member of parliament:

"Informed that arms purchased in England are shipped to British Honduras to be used against Mexican labor government, I urge upon you to raise the question in parliament to prevent repetition. Also inform the 'Daily Herald' and the Trade Union Congress.—Swales."

Combrazo Licks Gompers' Boot.

Not to be outdone by others, Combrazo, delegate from Santo de Domingo, occupied by United States marines in defiance of all law to force the rule of American banks upon the, the workers of that country, took the floor before the A. F. of L. delegates and debased himself in the most abject and disgraceful manner. He declared they had good labor laws in Santo de Domingo, but would not enforce them as the American marines would not allow labor to organize or make political speeches.

In spite of this humiliating oppression by American imperialism, Combrazo asserted that the workers were conservative like Gompers." Like Gompers, he, too, wanted immigration laws against Negroes who worked for fifteen cents per day. He apparently stands boldly out for sixteen cents. He said that American capitalists in Santo de Domingo boycotted the Dominican workers because Negroes from the West Indian islands were cheaper. "Gompers is the great emancipator of the workers," said Combrazo, and added that Gompers, Morrison and Mattie Woll were "idols" in his country.

Several Mexicans followed with speeches lauding Gompers. Jose Miguel Bejarano of the Mexican agricultural department, stated that nearly fifty per cent of the Mexican workers were organized, were in control and were "giving the land back to the Indians." He was careful to say that they were not confiscating it.

Almost 300 delegates and guests of the A. F. of L. convention are going to the inauguration of Calles as guests of the C. R. O. M. and the Mexican government, the government paying the bills. When Soviet Russia did this, it was a great crime, according to the Gompers family.

Schlossberg of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers is also going to Mexico City at the expense of the Mexican government.

The Wise Interpreter,

A representative of a Mexican socialist theatrical company appeared on the platform. He said they were traveling from town to town spreading revolutionary socialism and wanted the support of the American Federation of Labor. The interpreter translated this to the A. F. of L. delegates as "spreading principles of the American Federation of Labor."

Something Worth Fighting For.

Soto y Gama, agrarian leader of Mexico, said that the reason they had to have a violent revolution was because a state of feudalism had existed in which good-looking women became the common property of ranchers and their sons. Madero, he said, was the father of Mexican working class revolution, but that they were going to stop the use of force.

Strikes had been met with machine guns, Soto y Gama said, and there were so many dead they had to be carried away in flat cars and dumped into the sea. But now everything was going to be done according to law, and he virtually apologized because force had been used. He asked the A. F. of L. delegates if they would not have used force under these conditions. They squirmed, but no one replied. Now, finished Soto y Gama, Mexico was inviting foreign capital and everything will be lovely.

Ape Sam's Exclusion Policy.

The C. R. O. M. (Mexican Federation of Labor) in its session, passed a resolution in favor of barring all Chinese from Mexico, and to "Mexicanize" the Chinese who are there by insisting that they be "law abiding citizens" or be deported.

Trevino, echoing the policy of Gompers in trying to lay the ground for re-entry to the Amsterdam International of Trade Unions, expressed the hope that the world's labor unions would join one movement and be directed from one central point.

Big Rakeoff on Straw Hats.

WASHINGTON.—Straw hat manufacturers in the United States, operating 96 plants in 1923, paid wages averaging $1,100 to 6,802 workers and took $6,600,000 gross profits for themselves, in addition to their own salaries, according to the census of manufacturers, U. S. department of commerce.

GREAT LABOR CARTOONS

by such noted artists in the ranks of Labor as

FRED ELLIS
HAY BALES
WM. S. FANNING

In the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

GET IT!

ST. LOUIS JOBLESS MOB NEWSPAPER OFFICES IN HUNT FOR WORK

ST. LOUIS.—The growth of the army of St. Louis jobless is indicated by the fact that police are stationed at the rear of local newspaper offices as the first editions come out, so great is the daily throng fighting for possession of the first papers in the hope of discovering some kind of employment in the help wanted columns. Employment offices are swamped with applicants for work, with few jobs been a noticeable growth of the out-of-work army since the election.

BRITAIN MAKES THREAT OF WAR AGAINST EGYPT

Plans Open Annexation of the Sudan

(Continued from page 1)

ians managed to get from England when the latter was in a tight corner.

Heavy Money Indemnity.

A money indemnity of $2,300,000 is demanded for the death of the British agent. Premier Zaghoul is willing to pay this but balks at some of the other demands.

The note is an ultimatum, demanding a reply within twenty-four hours. One of the principal bones of contention between Britain and Egypt is control of the Sudan. Egypt has been easing in on British influence in that quarter. The Sudan is potentially one of the greatest cotton growing countries in the world, and properly irrigated with the waters of the Nile, would prove a gold mine. The Asquith family were financially interested in the Sudan and no doubt, this is also true of the members of the Baldwin government.

Lord Allenby, British high commissioner of Egypt, presented the note to the Egyptian premier, accompanied by a strong military force. Every effort is made to impress the Egyptians with British power, cannons being fired and airplanes buzzing overhead as the body of the slain Briton was shown in public.

Ready to Strike.

Britain has a heavy naval force mobilized within striking distance of Egypt. Military reserves are also close at hand.

The British note blames the Egyptian government for Stack's death, accuses the latter of "gratitude for England's benevolence and charges it with carrying on a hostile campaign against British subjects and British interests in the Sudan.

The note continues:

"Your excellency was warned by his majesty's government a little more than a month ago of the consequences of failing to stop this campaign. It has not been stopped. The Egyptian government have now allowed the governor general of the Sudan to be murdered and have proved that they are incapable or unwilling to protect foreign lives.

"His majesty's government, therefore, requires that the Egyptian government shall:

1. Present ample apology for the crime;

2. Prosecute an inquiry into the authorship of the crime with the utmost energy and without respect for persons, and bring the criminals, whoever they are or whatever their age, to condign punishment;

Prohibit Free Speech.

3. Henceforth forbid and vigorously suppress all popular political demonstrations;

4. Pay forthwith to his majesty's govenment £500,000 ($2,300,000);

5. Order within twenty-four hours the withdrawal from the Sudan of all Egyptian officers and purely Egyptian units of the Egyptian army, with such resulting changes as shall hereafter be specified;

6. Notify the competent department that the Sudan government will increase the area to be irrigated at Gezira from 300,000 feddans to an unlimited figure as the need may arise;

Threatens Force.

7. Withdraw all opposition in respect, hereafter specified, to the wishes of his majesty's government concerning protection of foreign interests in Egypt.

"Failure to comply with these demands, his majesty's government will at once take appropriate action to safeguard their interests in Egypt and the Sudan."

How Egypt can comply with these demands without completely losing its national identity is impossible to imagine. The Egyptians have claimed control over the head waters of the Nile as the very life of the country depends on the great river. To this claim the British have hitherto conceded, agreeing to accept a certain amount of water for irrigation purposes in the Sudan. The Stack incident is now seized on to ignore this agreement and claim unlimited use of the Nile waters for the Sudan cotton plantations.

* * *

French Government Disturbed.

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The slumbering imperialist duel that started between England and France with the firing of the last shot, on the battlefields of Europe was prodded into increased intensity when news of the sharp British note to Egypt reached Paris. The entire metropolitan press opened a heavy attack on the tory government.

Annexation Next Step.

Paris looks on the note as a pretext for fresh conquests and in view of French interests in the Near East and its friendly relations with Turkey, it is not likely that the Quai D'Orsay will allow the situation to develop without making France's position known to Downing Street. The French government has no illusions about the intention behind the latest British move. Annexation of the Sudan to the empire is clearly the next step.

SOVIET RUSSIA GETS BACK FLEET AND NOW RULES IN BLACK SEA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 23.—The Russian fleet used by Baron Wrangel will be returned to the Soviet government, making Russia undisputed ruler of the Black Sea, it was learned here today. Premier Herriot admitted that France's ambitions to secure oil and grain from Russia will conflict with America's interest in oil, but said, "This cannot prevent us from recognizing Russia and protecting our interests there."

Herriot admitted that the reason France recognized Soviet Russia was to get ahead of the other nations in commercial dealings with the Soviet country.

ITALIAN CONSUL PRAISES REIGN OF MUSSOLINI

Calls it Peaceful Despite Murder of Workers

In a speech at a banquet of the Italian chamber of Commerce, where Samuel Insull was decorated by the Mussolini government, Leopoldo Zunini, Italian consul, praised the murderous reign of Mussolini. Zunini is noted for praising the government which happens to be paying him his salary. During the government of Giolitti, Zunini was a rabid liberal. Now he condemns Giolitti as a traitor.

9,000 Workers Murdered.

In spite of the fact that 9,000 workers have been murdered by the Mussolini government, and that there are at the present time over 8,000 prisoners in Italian jails serving terms of 20 to 30 years for opposing Mussolini Zunini claimed that Mussolini has been a peaceable ruler.

Savior for Whom?

The Italian consul described Mussolini as the "savior of Italy" and called him a "new Ceasar." Zunini heaped praise on Mussolini for crushing the power of the workers and farmers under the banner of Communism. Zunini, the American advertising agent for his boss, said that the economic condition of the country is good. As a matter of fact, 100,000 more workers emmigrated from Italy this year than in 1922. In addition to almost a million who have fled the country to escape widespread unemployment and the white terror of Mussolini.

MEXICAN LABOR FAKER ALMOST BULLET PROOF

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 23—President-elect Calles gave his promise to the republic today that he had no intention of transforming himself into a dictator.

In a statement that probably is the first of its kind ever to be made by a Mexican president, Calles said that he would not interfere with the legislature when he took office on Dec. 1. Nor would he seek to impose his will upon it.

Louis Morones, chamber deputy and labor leader who was wounded recently in a pistol fight on the chamber floor, has so far recovered that he can walk about in the hospital.

700 Teachers to be Dropped and Classes to be Made Larger

Classes in the public schools are to be made larger and 700 teachers are to be discharged by the board of education, if the report of Nelson B. Henry, made to the secretary of the finance committee of the board of education, is adopted. Henry advises organization of larger classes to average 48 pupils, "in view of the present shortage of classroom space and the deficit in the educational fund."

May Lose Their Pensions.

It is admitted that the Strickler report, recommending the discharge of teachers above the age of 59 will probably be followed out. This will discard, without compensation, teachers who have for years clung to the public school system in order to fill out the time required to secure their pensions. Hundreds of teachers are to be dropped, who will lose their pensions.

Class rooms will be increased in size far above the 48 advised, as most of the class rooms are near or above that size already. As soon as teachers are dropped, the average size of the class room will be nearer to 60 than 48 pupils.

Water Goes to Los Angeles.

ALABAMA HILLS SPILLWAY, Inyo county, Cal., Nov. 23.—The massive iron gates of the Los Angeles aqueduct were closed here today and $10,000 worth of water which since Sunday had daily been diverted from the canal by Owens valley raiders again began its rush to Los Angeles.

British Empire Looks Like Tender Eggshell Under Baldwin's Rule

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, Baldwin's British government takes upon itself the offensive against Soviet Russia. But it is a weak attack when analyzed.

Baldwin's tory rule rejects the trade agreements signed after negotiations between MacDonald's labor government and Russian Soviet rule. But it is not opposed to renewing these negotiations on its own account. It wants to draw up its own trade agreement.

* * *

In launching its new offensive for trade relations with Russia, which it hopes to make more beneficial to itself than the terms agreed on by MacDonald, the Baldwin government uses all the tricks of lying diplomacy.

After all the world has been made acquainted with the forgery used by the tories in the recent election campaign, the Baldwin government now brazenly proclaims that the so-called "Zinoviev letter" is genuine. But it makes its claim in such a half-hearted manner as to confess to the lie in its own throat.

* * *

It isn't so much the alleged "Zinoviev letter" that is troubling Premier Baldwin and his friends. It is the "Communist propaganda" of the future that bothers them the most. And they pretend to believe that all of this comes from Moscow. The Communist International is responsible for all the unrest in Great Britain, is the self-confessed tory hallucination.

* * *

In India a "prince of the blood" is in trouble. He was not discreet while in London and faced blackmail amounting to $750,000 to hush the matter. The Baldwin tory government tried to use its influence with the go-between, the Midland Bank, to keep the name of the Hindu prince a secret; because the revelations resulting would inflame the growing unrest in India. Up to the present time this development has not been charged up to Moscow.

* * *

In Egypt the natives take different methods of voicing their protest against British imperialism. Baldwin rule is now pouring more troops into Egypt, in order to cow the Egyptians into degrading submission, using the attack on one of its war lords, sent to Egypt to carry out its imperialist purposes, as the excuse, as in many others. But there has been no charge of Moscow propaganda, as yet.

In fact in India, Egypt, and in all its other subject colonies, dependencies and mandates, British rule faced resistance, long before Soviet Rule rose to power in Russia. As far back in 1776 developing British imperialism went down before a successful revolution in the United States.

* * *

In the coal fields of Great Britain there are 100,000 unemployed miners. This is one of the big causes of unrest affecting the whole British working class. But Baldwin rule has failed to charge that Moscow is responsible for unemployment among British workers.

* * *

Baldwin knows that the Russian Communists do not need to propagate their cause in England from Moscow. The forces for the overthrow of British imperialism are at work within the British Empire itself. British capitalism will fall, but because British labor itself will successfully struggle towards this end.

British capitalism, like American capitalism, meets the cry of the millions for bread with stories about faked "vodka riots" in Moscow. In reply to the workers' growing demand for a better life comes a flood of cheap anti-Soviet propaganda from the pen of Emma Goldman, the anarchist ally of the yellow press. She repeats the lies once more, in the British press, that she sold several years ago to the New York World and other "red-baiting" American dailies.

* * *

British imperialism, under Baldwin rule, offers a woe-begone countenance to the growing social-revolution at home and to national revolutions in her colonies.

If Baldwin's imperialist rule attempts any serious offensive against Soviet Rule, its empire will break like the shell of an egg underneath the heel of the growing proletarian giant.

FRENCH SENTENCE GERMAN GENERAL AS COMMON THIEF

BERLIN, Nov. 23— The German press howled with indignation today over the sentence passed by a French court martial at Lille yesterday on General Von Nathusius. The former German commanding officer was sent to prison for a year and ordered to pay the costs of trial on a charge of confiscating and shipping to Germany valuable property from the chateau he occupied as headquarters in northern France during the war.

The sentence was denounced as a "scandal" dictated by "vindictive French militarism," and a move likely to arouse a world-wide storm.

Soldiers Leave Williamson County.

MARION, Ill., Nov. 23— The dove of peace has settled once more in Williamson county torn by many months of fighting between Klansmen and anti-Klansmen. The last of the national guardsmen, under command of Captain William Butler of Springfield, left for home today, with the exception of three soldiers suffering from mumps at the Herrin hospital.

Second Call for Wage Cut.

WEBSTER, Mass., Nov. 23.— "Another attempt to put thru a 12½ per cent wage cut for its 650 employes is announced by the North Village textile mill of the Slater company. Workers stopped a similar attempt last month.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

Has No Mourners.

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—"There will be few to mourn its passage," says Equity, organ of the Actors' Equity Association, in an obituary of the anti-union Producing Managers' Association which formally dissolved this autumn.

Kings go Visiting.

BELGRADE, Nov. 23.—King Alexander and Queen Marie, accompanied by Prime Minister Nikola Pasbitch, will go to Rome in January on an official visit to the Italian royal family. The visit is expected to have an important effect on Italian-Jugo-Slav relations.

FASCISTI BEG SUBMISSION IN NOTE TO PEOPLE

Appeal Shows Mussolini in New Role

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ROME, Nov. 23.—An appeal to the Italian people to "remain quiet and not obstruct the course of Fascist rule," has been launched by the Federazoni, minister of the interior in the Mussolini cabinet, as the result of a special conference of Fascist leaders held here last night.

Beg For Another Chance.

Beneath the wording of this appeal there is audible the note of desperate terror and hopelessness which Fascist leaders, despite all their bravado, are unable to keep out of their every word today. No longer able to pretend that there is satisfaction with their rule, they have resorted to appeals to allow the Mussolini government to show what it can do to better conditions.

The determined boycott applied by parties of the opposition to the Fascist chamber of deputies resulted in the absence from the house yesterday of nearly half of the parliamentary deputies, only 354 out of the 630 deputies being present. Of those who attended, 327 went thru the formality of expressing their confidence in the government. So empty was the chamber that a group of Fascist deputies found it necessary to occupy seats on the left in an attempt to disguise the true state of affairs.

Control Voting Thru Gunmen.

The situation in the house is of even more significance than would appear from a citation of the figures. The tactics applied at the last national election made voting physically impossible for anyone not in favor of the Mussolini dictatorship. Workers were threatened and terrorized and those who dared to appear on the streets on the day of the elections were ruthlessly beaten up by gangs of gunmen.

As soon as the elections were over, at the polls, Mussolini proceeded to put into force a rule under which any party which receives a plurality of the popular vote is automatically given two-thirds of the seats in the Italian chamber of deputies. That the vote of confidence taken yesterday included only half of the deputies is a reflection of the revolt brewing within the Fascist ranks. Large numbers of prominent Fascist leaders have resigned from the party within the past few months.

* * *

Rather than return to Italy, where other members of his family lived, John Calandriello, 21 years old, 4141 Federal street, killed himself yesterday by shooting himself thru the head.

British Devise New Method to Protect Their Hold on Irak

PLYMOUTH, Eng.—British judicial atrocities against prisoners of native race in Irak (Mesopotamia) were made public in a Plymouth lecture by Capt. Pollard, a British army officer. There have been so many murders of British officers by natives in the port of Basra, Irak, that ordinary hanging did not seem to act as a deterrent. The old British practice of outraging religious beliefs of the Mohammedans was therefore revived in Irak. Murderers of Mohammedan faith are not only hanged but hanged in the skins of pigs. This to a Mohammedan means not only bodily but spiritual death since the pig is regarded as unclean. The British practice in India had been to shoot prisoners to pieces from the mouth of a cannon, with similar violence to religious beliefs regarding the hereafter.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

NABISCO

WHO OWNS THE PLANTS AND PROFITS MAKING NABISCO?

WHAT ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE YOUNG SLAVES?

Read

Who Owns—Who Makes NABISCO

A pamphlet describing the horrible conditions of the young workers in the plants of the National Biscuit Company all over the country. Read of the campaign of the Young Workers League to organize the young slaves all over the land.

5 cents a Copy 25 copies for $1.00 $3.50 per hundred

Order from the
YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

Labor Dukes Keep On Attacking Communists

OFFICIALS OF MINERS SILENT ON RELIEF PLEA

But Many Talk for the "Wilson Memorial"

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 23.—It was a dreary day in the American Federation of Labor convention outside of the significance given it by the speakers from Mexico as told in my dispatch from Juarez where the Mexican Federation of Labor is meeting.

The resolution offered by Soderberg of the Journeymen Tailors' Union condemning the Amalgamated Clothing Workers' label was softened by amending it so as not to mention the Amalgamated by name.

Alton Lewis, Walker, Farrington and Green were all present when the resolution asking relief for the striking miners' families was introduced, none of them arose to plead for the relief of the miners. But many officials spoke up for the American Legion endowment fund and the "Woodrow Wilson Memorial." All passed unanimously.

The Crocodile Weeps.

When the report of the executive council upon child labor was taken up, Green, Walker, Woll and Duncan tried to put some semblance of life in the convention by an exhibition of glycerine tears over the "poor child." Duncan and Woll staged a fake disagreement. Duncan claimed that Massachusetts was a "progressive" state and the reason that it defeated the child labor amendment was because it "interfered with state's rights," and—besides—the New England textile mills would not be able to compete with the black belt of the south.

Pretending Something Important.

Woll disagreed viciously, saying that it was state versus national patriotism. He almost told Duncan he was wrong! Johnny Walker came in by saying that some people actually imagined that the passing of the child labor amendment to the constitution meant stopping child labor. Fem it said Johnny. The amendment only meant to "regulate" child labor. If a child was below average educationally, it meant that the child would go to school certain hours—while working. The need for extending this "blessing" to labor fakers is apparent from the make-up of the delegate body.

Lewis and Stone Compromise.

On the resolution condemning Warren S. Stone for running scab coal mines, a compromise was reached by leaving the quarrel in the hands of the executive council to reach an adjustment. Lewis himself spoke for the substitute resolution.

Fraternal Delegates Hailed and Hit.

The fraternal delegates received presents and were made to understand that they were to remember who gave them. A. B. Swales of Britain drew a gold watch. T. Cramp of England received a diamond ring for the unemployed in the East End of London to look at when he gets back 'ome. Grassman was given a watch and chain and Gompers' hand.

A Touching Scene for Grassman.

While Gompers held on to Grassman's hand, Sam spoke up and said that American workers entered the war under "selective service" quite voluntarily, but the German workers were forced into it. Now that they have a "democratic republic" they could take their place with "other peace loving people" like us, who go to war voluntarily.

In reply, Grassman almost kissed Gompers' hand, and to rub it in, Gompers added a short speech in favor of restricted immigration, saying that "We must safeguard ourselves by keeping these hordes of underpaid and undeveloped workers out, we cannot allow them to break our living standards." The watch and chain given Grassman was probably to make up for the loss of the eight-hour day for German workers, due to the treachery of Grassman and the other social democrats.

Unemployed Seek Redress.

COBLENZ, Germany, Nov. 23—Unemployed and needy workmen of Cobienz have petitioned the government demanding redress in the matter of inadequate relief, favoritism shown to government employes, high rents, and furniture forfeitures. They demanded full pay while unemployed.

DAILY WORKER SENDS MORE CLOTHING TO DESTITUTE MINERS

Another large crate of clothing will be sent thru the DAILY WORKER to the destitute miners of Southern Illinois who have been out of employment for many months. This clothing is being shipped from the DAILY WORKER office to Ross White, Sesser, Illinois, for distribution among the miners.

Most of the clothing was collected by Comrade Evelyn Mack, of 6523 S. Talman St. Any other persons wishing to send food, clothing or money to the Southern Illinois miners should communicate with the DAILY WORKER.

FOREIGNERS VISIT RUSSIAN PRISONS

By ANISE.
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—In view of the many comments being made in the worker's press abroad concerning prisoners in Russia, there has been this past autumn almost an epidemic of visits to Russian jails, especially in and around Moscow. The latest was the tour of inspection made by the delegates to the Sport International. Workers from Norway, Sweden, France, England, Germany and Austria were among the visitors.

French and Swede Visitors Praise Jails.

The French visitor wrote in the book at the jail: "We would be glad if we would occupy such comfortable jails with such a free regime in France." The Swedish delegate wrote: "One cannot use the name jail for these places; it would be laughable to compare the houses with the jails of free democratic Sweden. Here is a humane regime and respect for personality."

Russian Prisoners Look Better Than German Workers.

The German delegate wrote; "These are not jails but rather houses of supervision. In the regime we have in Germany it would be impossible to find such extensive libraries and sport grounds in connection with a prison. The prisoners look in better condition than German workers."

As opposed to these comments, there are many tales still extant of horrible conditions in Russian jails. Most of these date from the time of revolution and famine, when the Russians even outside their jails were starving.

BOLSHEPHOBIA AT A. F. OF L. MEET CAN ONLY VENT ITSELF IN PRINT

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Nov. 23.—The convention of the American Federation of Labor without a demonstration against the Communist movement would be like . . . like . . ., well, like any other impossible thing. As there are no Bill Dunne's to throw out, the Bolshephobia must vent itself in print.

Among the many charts in the lobby of the convention—which is, bear in mind, held in "Liberty Hall," are three showing all the alleged "connections" supposed to show Russia's "propaganda system."

Gopher Prairie in Danger!

Chart number one has a title—"From Moscow to Main Street." It shows everything is dominated from the "political bureau" in Moscow as a beginning. Next comes the Russian Communist Party on equal line with the Communist International and the Red International. Then comes the Workers Party and something called the "United States Communist Party." From the Red International the line runs to Wm. Z. Foster and the Trade Union Educational League.

The rather amazing assertion is made that the "political bureau" controls the "world's spy organization," the "American section" of which is the "Friends of Soviet Russia." That would probably be, in the minds of the astute Bolsheviks, the best name to use for a disguise of "Moscow spies."

"Communists Control Workers' Party!"

The second chart is circular. In the center is the Communist Party. This directs everything. The title over it reads—"How the Net is Spread." The Communists are good fishermen according to this chart. They control the Labor Defense Council, the Trade Union Educational League, the federated farmer-labor party, the Civil Liberties Union, the Garland foundation, the Federated Press and—who would think it?—the Communists are said even to control the Workers' Party. Wm. Z. Foster is the link between all these organizations.

The third chart is a kind of chain showing all the "important" links of the Communist movement. Among them the League for Industrial Democracy, the Civil Liberties Union, the Garland foundation, the Federated Press, the general defense committee of the I. W. W. and nine Communist papers as the last link. So we see that Jim Rowan, of the I. W. W., and Sam Gompers, of the A. F. of L., are in agreement about the "Communist influence."

Lies Old Enuf to Vote.

In addition to these, all visitors at the convention are presented with the pamphlet on "Soviet Russia and Bolshevism" which was printed as a fourteen page editorial in the American Federationist of February of 1920.

This pamphlet is a very editing mess of gabble and garble about Soviet Russia. It starts off by accusing which accusation has its amusing angle, the "Nation," the "Dial" and the "New Republic" of masquerading as "journals of opinion" when, really and truly, they are not detached "from Russian influence and Russian payrolls."

This pamphlet is the first—and the last—great "intellectual effort" of Sam Gompers to speak coherently about Soviet Russia. In it he quotes many mensheviks and other counter-revolutionists, and proves—actually proves! in Lenin's own words, that Lenin did not believe in the humbug called "democracy."

Shot Bourgeoisie for Arson!

As an illustration of the awful way the bourgeoisie was treated by the Bolsheviks when the civil war was hot, is the quotation alleged to be taken from "Izevestia" of August 16, 1919, which reads: "I warn all that in the event of repeated cases of arson, I will not hesitate to adopt extreme measures, including the shooting of the bourgeoisie hostages, in view of the fact that all the White Guard's plots directed against the proletarian state must be regarded not as the crime of individuals but as the offense of the entire enemy class."

This was supposedly signed by an "acting commandant of the fortified district of Petrograd, B. Kozlovsky." And surely the Russians allow no democracy at all when the bourgeoisie can't be permitted to enjoy their "republican" cases of arson" without getting shot for it. The case against the Soviets is pretty strong. Sam Gompers says so.

Concert and Mass Meeting by Council Of Working Women

(Special to the Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.— The working class women of this city will celebrate the first anniversary of their organization on Tuesday, Nov. 25, at 8 p. m., with a children's concert and mass meeting at the Stuyvesant Casino, 140 Second avenue near 9th St. In addition to the entertainment there will be addresses by Moissaye J. Olgin, William Weinstone and Margaret Undjus of the Women's Committee of the United Council of Workingclass Women.

Have Done Good Work.

The United Council of Workingclass Women has been organized for one year and during this short period, has been a real active force in the struggles confronting working women. Recently it has devoted itself to collecting funds for the Paterson strikers' families, even conducting a tag day for that purpose.

This meeting will review the work done during the past year and outline the future activities of the organization. It is an excellent meeting to attend to get better acquanted with the aims and purposes of the council. All working class women are invited to attend, bring their men folks and children and friends. Tickets 10 cents. Tickets sold for Beethoven Hall will be accepted.

Unemployment in West Indies.

TRINIDAD, British West Indies, Nov. 23.—Unemployment is widespread thruout the entire colony of the British West Indies with at least 20,000 persons out of work and thousands of others able to obtain only part time employment.

Car Shops on Fire.

MIDDLETOWN, Pa., Nov. 23.— A fire at the Middletown car shops was reported beyond control at noon today. Fire companies in every surrounding town have been summoned. The company is one of the largest builders of railroad cars in the east.

White Terror?

You will learn a good deal about it from the article

"White Terror in Europe—Can America Be Far Behind?"

By ROSE KARSNER.

Be sure to read it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY—and you will get other splendid contributions if you SUBSCRIBE!

BRITAIN'S TORIES JOIN MORGAN IN PLANS FOR WAR

Signal to Hughes for Anglo-American Unity

By LAURENCE TODD
(Federated Press Staff Correspondent)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23.—Britain's tory government, working in perfect accord with the plans of the Morgan banking group, has called a halt on the disarmament program agreed upon at Geneva and is talking vaguely of offering a substitute plan which will hold the British empire together.

In political circles in Washington this is held to mean that Morgan & Co. have decided to have Coolidge and Hughes call disarmament conference early in the spring—preferably in March, when congress is not in session—and relegate the league disarmament conference to a merely European significance.

English-Speaking Powers' Pact.

This British tory move may be the signal for Hughes to proclaim his desire for closer Anglo-American unity —virtually an alliance of the two English-speaking powers—or it may simply be a warning to continental Europe and Asia that the league of nations cannot hope to exercise real power in international affairs so long as it does not ask for instructions from Anglo-American financiers. In either case the authority of Morgan & Co. has been asserted; France and Italy and the rest of the continent can protest as they please, but they must obey if they want credits in future. And France needs another loan. So do her satellite states—Poland, Roumania, Jugoslavia, Czecho-Slovakia.

Another arms conference at Washington would be held under tory auspices, and under the eyes of the all-powerful international bankers. It would ignore the league of nations, and would presumably set up a new series of barriers to discussion of so-called domestic questions such as the issue of immigration. Only a miracle of foreign world interest it from using the basis for a war on the Pacific, since it would seek to dictate to the Chinese and Russians and Japanese without giving them an equal voice in the discussion. Nobody in Washington thinks that an invitation to Russia to take part in a disarmament conference in America would be issued by Hughes or Coolidge.

Won't Admit Conference.

To date, the administration has refused to admit that it plans to call an arms conference prior to the one which the league plans to hold next June. British politicians are trying to smooth out their own disputes as to how such a gathering shall be arranged, and the bankers have not spoken the decisive word. The most that is known is that the two governments are expected by the bankers to stop the Geneva disarmament movement and discredit the league, while building up what appears to be a definite alliance of the Anglo-Saxon empires for control of the Pacific.

Because the appropriation committees of the house are now preparing the army and navy budgets, the administration will not talk of disarmament in precise terms that would restrict the expenditures for warships and munitions and staffs for the coming year. Army and navy lobbies are busy, propaganda for a bigger navy and stronger army is being hammered home in the administration press, and the usual rake-offs are in sight. When this little matter is settled Mr. Hughes will get the floor for his appeal to the selected powers to come and talk about reduction of armaments.

The Amalgamationist Appears.

The Amalgamationist, published once a month by the national committee for amalgamation in the printing trades is off the press with its initial issue. The committee intends to reach the printing trades workers "with the proposal to amalgamate present-day obsolete craft unions into one departmentalized union." The Amalgamationist is an 8-page monthly, magazine size, printed attractively on glazed paper. It sells at 50c a year and is published at 3116 S. Halsted street, Chicago.

Take Care of Unemployed Bakers.

SEATTLE.—The 56 union bakers unable to find jobs in Seattle are being guaranteed two days pay or two days work a week by their union brothers who have jobs. The working bakers either give up their job one day a month or donate one day's pay. In 1921 the local distributed $20,000 in this way.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

RADIO MESSAGE REVEALS 50,000 IMMIGRANTS STRANDED IN EUROPE

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Confirming information already given out by the Central Bureau for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia, Louis Marshall, emergency committee on Jewish refugees, broadcasted by radio a graphic story of the sufferings of 50,000 prospective immigrants to the United States who are held up in European and Cuban ports by the quota.

Marshall's committee is raising money to assist these immigrants and is endeavoring to get the U. S. government to act on behalf of the 5,000 in European ports and 5,000 in Cuban who have already secured visas from American consuls. The visas were properly secured before the quota law took effect but the immigrants were unable to leave until after the new law began operating and then found their visas of no value.

The barracks in which the immigrants in Cuba live can be compared only to the Black Hole of Calcutta, says Marshall. The steamship companies lured the immigrants to Cuba and now the people are stranded there in an alien land, strange climate, with no friends or advisers and no way of earning their living. Conditions in Southampton, Cherbourg, Antwerp, Hamburg, Danzig, Libau, Reval, and other European ports is equally bad and in many cases the aliens are harried to leave the country altho they have spent all their savings to reach the port and await transportation.

"Congress has the power to enact a joint resolution by which the sign manual of our government, as exemplified in the visas which have been placed upon the passports held by the 5,000 (in European ports) may become effective," Marshall asserts. His organization is attempting to have the immigrants taken to friendly countries where they will be able to make a living if the United States will not honor its own agents' rightfully made visas.

Managers, national council of Jewish women, resolved to petition congress for action enabling these immigrants possessing visas to enter the United States.

Rich Farmers for Child Labor.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Information that American farms are burdened by a total indebtedness of $14,000,000,000 is contained in a statement issued by the officers of the National Grange, holding its annual meeting here. The grange, which is dominated by the richer farmers, has declared against ratification of the child labor amendment to the U. S. constitution.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

HERE'S THE LOWDOWN ON LUMBER CAMP IN BRITISH COLUMBIA

(Special to The Daily Worker)

VANCOUVER, B. C.—Here is the spotlight thrown on camp conditions in British Columbia in the parlance of a Canadian lumberjack:

"E. L. Kinman, Jarvis Inlet. This is a haywire, skyline outfit, at the head of Jarvis Inlet, run by a typical jippo with a 50 per cent scalsorbill crew. The yarder crew have their dinner in the woods. Chokermen, hook-on, and un-hook men $4.75 per day, maybe two bits more if you have a pull. Firemen and wood-buckers $4 a day. Work on Sundays. No gasboat at the camp. Board and blankets $1.35."

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from page 1)

flourishes a letter from mayor-elect Smith, in which he states that the support given him by Batt, will be an inspiration to him while in office. Batt was a member of the executive committee of the proletarian party and the severance of his relations with that little group was not made public until publicity in the DAILY WORKER smoked out the P. P.'s. Batt was one of the three "Proletarians" who appeared at the first convention of the Workers Party to hurl scorn at it because its program was "reformistic."

* * *

THE usual recriminations that follow defeat are now endangering the unity of what is left of the socialist party in New York. Norman Thomas is angry because he was knifed, in his run for governor. The New Leader, socialist party organ, is scheduled for an early demise. The promises made by O'Neal and Figenbaum to the Jewish Daily Forward, have not materialized and Cahan intends to withdraw his subsidy. The paper has no paid circulation to speak of and the few advertising contracts it took over from the daily Leader, will not be renewed. The theatre advertising does not pay, except in complimentary tickets.

MILITANT COAL DIGGERS APPEAL TO MEMBERSHIP

Official Gangsters in War on Progressives

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 23.—The progressives of district No. 5 are out to inform the miners of the conditions within the district. Matters of vital importance will be discussed in all of the mining sections. Mass meetings are so far arranged for in Daisytown on Sunday, Nov. 23, at 2 p. m. in the Finnish Hall, Walkertown, Pa., where William Guiler, candidate for president and Pat. H. Toohey, candidate for district teller will be speakers. The following Sunday, Nov. 30, meetings will be held in Canonsburg, Meadowlands, Marianna and Bentleyville, on Dec. 7 in Springdale, W. Brownsville, Avella and Vestaburg.

Threats of Violence.

Fagan and company are trying their utmost to keep off the ballot or expel all of the progressive candidates that dare to challenge the officialdom. These pay-roll artists, in place of adjusting grievances that are piling up, travel in gangs from local to local threatening to beat up or expel members who dare to uphold the rights of the coal diggers.

Every possible opportunity is used by the officialdom to co-operate with the employers against the rank and file not only in the affairs of miners but also those effecting the entire labor movement of western Pennsylvania. One of them, Robertson publicly said: "I have the utmost confidence in Beattie," a labor spy and stoolpigeon tried and expelled by the Pittsburgh central labor union as being in the employ of a detective agency for 12 years, and on top of this they bitterly attack those that helped to expose and convict Beattie.

The miners should know of these betrayals of the officialdom. Only after the rank and file learn of the actions of their officials and in whose interest they are working will they throw these leeches out of their soft jobs.

Bosses to Lobby Against Amendment.

ST. LOUIS.—The openshoppers' union of this state, known as the Associated Industries of Missouri, will turn its heaviest guns against ratification by the legislatures of the child labor amendment. A powerful lobby will invade the legislature which opens Jan. 7 it is announced.

READY THIS WEEK!

The December Issue of the

WORKERS MONTHLY

Combining the Liberator, Labor Herald, and Soviet Russia Pictorial

Edited by Earl R. Browder.

This issue of the greater Labor journal includes

"Three Stages of Our Labor Party Policy"

By WM. Z. FOSTER.

An important analysis of a question before the workers today.

"The Struggle for Unity in the World Labor Movement"

By A LOSOVSKY,
General secretary of the Red Trade Union International.

"A Visit with Sun Yat Sen"

By A. WAGENKNECHT.

An interesting account with additional sidelights on the struggle in China.

Other Contributors

in interesting and important articles on the Labor movement

C. E. Ruthenberg
Alexander Bittelman
Jay Lovestone
Tom Mann
Tim Buck
Harry Pollitt
Harrison George
Bertram D. Wolfe
Jack Lee
Rose Karsner

Including Splendid Labor Cartoons

BY

Fred Ellis — Hay Bales — Wm. S. Fanning

On News Stands 25 Cents a Single Copy

Subscription: $2.00 a Year, $1.25 Six Months

Official Organ of THE WORKERS PARTY and THE TRADE UNION EDUCATIONAL LEAGUE.

THE WORKERS MONTHLY
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

For the enclosed $..... send me THE WORKERS MONTHLY for.....months.

NAME .....

ADDRESS .....

CITY ..... STATE .....

RED RELIEF OF GERMANY SENDS ITS GREETINGS AND CALLS FOR UNITED FIGHT ON DAWES PLAN

(Special to The Daily Worker)

BERLIN, Nov. 23.—The conference of the Red Relief of Germany, which has recently taken place in Berlin, sends its revolutionary greetings to the American working class and calls on all American workers to unite with the German workers in a fight on the Dawes plan.

The letter, which denounces the enslavement of the German workers by J. P. Morgan, and calls on the workers of both Germany and America to fight the Wall Street bankers and the Dawes plan, follows:

To the Red Aid in America.

Dear Comrades:—The conference of the Red Relief of Germany which took place in Berlin on October 26, conveys to you, the revolutionary workers of America, its fraternal greetings. The conference takes place at a time when German reaction prepares itself for new attacks against the revolutionary vanguard of the German working class. Tens of thousands of trials against revolutionary workers, 7000 political prisoners with thousands of years of hard labor and last are the result of the struggle of German class justice against the revolutionary working class.

The German bourgeoisie, in co-operation with the German social-democracy, does all in its power to break the growing resistance of the German proletariat against the slave agreement of Dawes. It attempts at present, by brutal persecutions during the election campaign, to suppress the voice of the revolutionary working class in the Morgan parliament. With regard to these facts the American workers must bear in mind that a defeat of the German working class in its struggle against the Dawes' plan will lead to the oppression and the pauperization of the American, the international working class. The misery in which the best fighters of the German working class find themselves thru the attacks of the German bourgeoisie, is indescribable. However, the German bourgeoisie has not succeeded in destroying the militant spirit which inspires ever larger masses of the German working class. They have realized the significance of the struggle for the liberation of the victims of bourgeois class justice and have joined in great masses the organization of the Red Relief of Germany, which is growing continuously. The German workers have made great and sacrificial efforts for Red Relief. However, the support of the victims of class justice and their families was only possible by the active assistance of the International Red Relief.

Appeal to American Workers.

The conference appeals to the American workers whose bourgeoisie has become the master of the enslaved German working class, to prove their international solidarity with the German workers. The American revolutionary workers have experienced on their own bodies the brutal and systematic blows of American class justice and Fascism and of the American Legion and the Ku Klux Klan. At present the German and the American workers are confronted with the terrible danger that the brutality of the German white terror is united with the determination and strength of the American bourgeoisie. The German and the American proletariat are now confronted with a common enemy. We must resist in common to the blows of our common enemy. Support our great struggle and we will support yours!

Follow the example of the comrades in the Soviet Union and form a large and firm mass organization of the Red Relief. Our experiences have taught us that only by such an organization can a continuous and systematic support of the class war prisoners and their families be guaranteed. In the struggle against your own class justice and against international white terror, such a membership organization of the broadest masses of the workers and farmers is imperatively necessary. You must begin immediately the establishment of the American Red Relief and win for it the masses of the American workers and farmers and their organizations (party and youth organizations, co-operative societies, farmer organizations, sport clubs, etc.)

Long live the solidarity of the German and the American working class.

Long live the Red Relief of America!

Dr. S. ZIMMERMAN
DENTIST
SURGEON-DENTIST Since ALEM-TAGE 1866
MY NEW LOCATION

Special Prices to Workers
X-Ray — Gas Given
ESTABLISHED 12 YEARS.
My Examination is Free
My Prices Are Reasonable
My Work Is Guaranteed
Extracting Specialist
DELAY MEANS DECAY

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Monday, Nov. 24.

N. W. Jewish, 3642 LeMoyne Ave.
19th Ward Italian, 1102 S. Loomis St.
Cicero Italian, 1402 S. 50th Ct.
Czecho-Slovak membership meeting, 35th and Homan Sts., Novak's Place.

Tuesday, Nov. 25.

Roumanian Branch, 2250 Cirbourn Ave.
Ukrainian No. 1, 1522 W. Chicago Ave.
N. W. English, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.
Irving Park English, 4021 Drake Ave.

Thursday, Nov. 27.

Labor Defense Bazaar, Workers Lyceum.
South Slavic No. 1, 1806 S. Racine Ave.
Finnish Branch, Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted street.
South Side English, 3201 S. Wabash avenue.
Karl Marx Scandinavian, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard.
Russian No. 1, 1902 W. Division St.
11th Ward Italian, 2439 S. Oakley Blvd.
21st Ward Italian, 511 N. Sangamon St.
Mid-City English, Emmet Memorial Hall.
Scandinavian West Side, Zeich's Hall, corner Cicero and Superior St.

Friday, Nov. 28.

Scandinavian So. Chicago, 641 E. 61st street.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.

Monday, Nov. 24.

City Executive Committee meeting, 8 p. m., 166 W. Washington St.
Literature agents' meeting, 8 p. m., 166 W. Washington St.

Tuesday, Nov. 25.

City Central Committee meeting, 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Wednesday, Nov. 26.

Browder's Class in Elementary Economics, 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Thursday, Nov. 27.

Bazaar, Workers Lyceum.

Friday, Nov. 28.

Subject for discussion: "Seasonal Employment and Low Wages in the Mail Order Houses."
Area Branch No. 1—166 W. Washington St. Peter Herd, speaker.
Area Branch No. 2—722 Blue Island avenue.
Area Branch No. 3—3142 S. Halsted St. John Edwards, speaker.
Area Branch No. 4—3322 Douglas Blvd. Oliver Carlson, speaker.
Area Branch No. 5—520 N. Clark St.
Area Branch No. 6—2613 Hirsch Blvd. John Williamson, speaker.

Birthday Gifts to Politicals Prisoners Should Be Sent Now

Birthdays in December of political prisoners confined in various state institutions in America are announced by the Workers' National Prison Comfort Club, 2923 Chestnut street, Milwaukee, Wis., as follows:

At San Quentin Prison, San Quentin, Cal.:

December 2, Roy Carter, Reg. No. 38533; December 7, Jim Roe, No. 35785; December 9, Tom Mooney; December 5, Chas. Andrew, No. 38107; December 16, C. F. McGrath, No. 37702; December 20, Henry Matlin, No. 35717.

At Box No. 32, Huntsville, Texas:

December 5, J. M. Rangel.

At Box No. 568, Boise, Idaho:

December 15, A. S. Embree.

At Represa, Cal., Folsom Prison:

December 15, John Hiza, No. 12556.

How to Send Gifts.

Cora Meyer, national secretary, invites friends and sympathizers to send birthday cards and letters (money is advisable for gifts) to these political prisoners. Books and publications to be sent directly from the publishers.

G. J. Terrell writes from San Quentin, "I would not change places with a good many people I know on the outside. If the price isn't too high, it's worth the price of admission. One hasn't lived unless he has spent some part of his time in prison."

Ben Whitling writes, "December 11 I shall be out. No longer in the scope of your splendid work; as one of the beneficiaries permit me to thank you for the time and interest you have given in all these long years in behalf of the working class prisoners. Without the knowledge of the good will of the large groups and the comfort derived from their remembrances, 'life' here would have been drab indeed."

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

NEW LIGHTS ON CHINA!

A most interesting interview with a great figure in the affairs of this country in

"A Visit with Sun Yat Sen"

By Alfred Wagenknecht.

You can enjoy it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

ANNA LERNER AT LAST GETS PERMISSION TO RETURN TO THE U. S.

WASHINGTON.—Director Doughton of the visa office in the state department has been compelled to cable instructions to the American consul at Riga to issue a visa to Mrs. Anna Lerner, who has been held up in Russia for the past 15 months at the whim of this arrogant official and with the complaisant approval of Secy. Hughes.

Mrs. Lerner came to America from Russia as a little child, and returned there when 19 years old as an office worker for the Kuzbas colony. She married an American-born war veteran who was in Russia on a trip, and she attempted to return home. She was informed by the consul at Riga that she could not get an American visa, tho she could speak no language but English and had no home except in the United States. Her crime was that of being considered radical.

GERMAN PRISONS HORROR CELLS FOR POLITICALS

Families Suffer Poverty and Persecution

The brutalities committed by the police of Germany in the name of law and order read like a list of barbarities perpetrated in the medieval chamber of torture.

The Modern Inquisition.

In the city of Muenster the police beat into insanity a worker, Helmburg by name. He had to be transferred to an insane asylum.

In Ulm, Christian Reich, laborer, was brutally treated to the point of death. A request to have him transferred to the hospital was answered by the prison doctor with the accusation that the prisoner was only simulating. Two days after, Reich died in terrible agony.

Fritz Neubacher, a machinist in Schwerin, was held in prison without any specific indictment. He was mistreated until deathly sick. Transfer to a hospital was denied. Neubacher was driven to suicide. In the same city of Schwerin, the lawyer Kummerfeld was imprisoned, accused of attempt to murder. Cruelties brought Kummerfeld to the point of death. Transfer to a hospital was not permitted and suicide ended his sufferings. After his death the district attorney declared that no evidence existed against Kummerfeld, but that he was kept in prison for his unwelcome political beliefs.

Thousands Imprisoned Daily.

These are only a few of the thousands of cases which occur under the guise of law and order in Germany. Thousands of workers are imprisoned and each day more are added.

Law and order in Germany could be regarded as a joke were it not such a grim reality for those unfortunates who fall into its clutches. First the ruling classes pushed the workers into the slaughter of the world war. Objection to the war was a major crime. Now oppositions to misery which resulted from the war becomes a major crime.

Women and Children Starve.

Mothers, wives and children of the imprisoned are starving, hounded by the police and refused work. Concern for their beloved ones outside of prison increases the sufferings of those workers inside of prison. These workers buried in the hellholes of Eberlin prisons, their starving and suffering wives, children and mothers appeal for help to the workers of the world. International Red Aid organizes this help. SEND YOUR CONTRIBUTIONS to the American section —International Workers Aid, 19 S. Lincoln street, Chicago, Ill.

Report of Fifth Congress of C. I.

Joint meeting, North Side English and Finnish branches, Monday, December 1, 8 p. m., to hear report on the Fifth Congress of the Communist International by William F. Dunne. The meeting will be open to everyone and all workers are invited. It will be held at Imperial Hall, 2409 North Halsted street.

Swabeck Speaks Tuesday.

District Organizer Arne Swabeck, will speak on the tactics of the Communist International at the educational meeting of North West English branch, on Tuesday, Nov. 25, at 8 p. m. All branch members and sympathizers are urged to attend. The meeting will be held at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

S. P. LEADER IS NOW MEMBER OF WORKERS PARTY

Was Member of N. E. C. of Socialist Party

Comrade Albert Weisbord, former member of the national executive committee of the socialist party, secretary-organizer of the New England district, national secretary of the young people's socialist league, and national director of the young people's department of the socialist party, has been extended the right hand of Communist fellowship by the New England Workers Party members.

"I am convinced that Comrade Welsbord is in thoro agreement with the principle, policies and statutes of the Communist International and its American section, the Workers' Party," says John J. Ballam, organizer of district 1, Boston, of the Workers' Party. "I have a high regard for his personal integrity and revolutionary purpose and I am convinced that Comrade Welsbord can be of the greatest service to our party and the American working class.

"In the name of the Workers' Party I extended to Comrade Welsbord the right hand of Communist fellowship and have assured him of a comradely welcome to our ranks."

Welsbord States His Position.

Boston, Mass., Nov. 20, 1924.

To Whom It May Concern:

This is to inform you that I have resigned from the socialist party.

The members of a revolutionary party must be clear in their own minds, regardless of what may be told the workers, as to the means by which the socialist revolution will be brot about. The theoretical position of the socialist party, essentially legalistic and pacifist, prevents those who join from following the foremost principle of the revolution, namely the principle which recognizes the probability, nay the inevitability of the use of force or the threat of force as the sole political method of the masses in bringing about the revolution. The members cannot see, consequently, the great meaning of democratic centralization and discipline within the party and the great strength of the slogan: All Power to the Soviets.

Further, even were the theoretical position of the socialist party essentially sound, the rank opportunism of the leaders and the milch-cow-inactivity of the members demonstrate that the socialist party does not put its theories into practice. It is impossible for the socialist party actually to live up to revolutionary theories for its general membership and leadership, when analyzed, belong ideologically and economically to the petite bourgeoisie.

In this connection it gives me pleasure to note how few young or active members, generally, the socialist party has acquired. Sooner or later the few militant ones who do remain must see the futility of their work within the socialist party. I am convinced that at present there is but one revolutionary party here and that is the Workers' (Communist) Party of America.

To those who have been so kind to me in the movement a further word is due. It is very difficult to break old ties. My full activity in the socialist party began in 1920 after the Communist split had occurred. Consequently it was not my privilege to hear the arguments or to take part in the fight. It is not my fault that I was not enlightened as to the true principles of the Communist International and of Lenin, its leader. It is not my fault that I had to dig out for myself, in a painfully slow and laborious way, the conclusions that I have now reached. The socialist party failed here in education, as elsewhere in politics. I can but say that, disillusioned and determined, I hasten now to rectify my mistake.

Long live the Workers' (Communist) Party of America!

Albert Weisbord.

Former secretary-organizer, socialist party, New England district; former national secretary young peoples' socialist league and national director young peoples' dept. socialist party.

DELHI, India—The Indian national congress, around which the fight of British Indians for dominion status in the British empire has been focusing, meets late in December.

POLISH PEASANTS IN RUSSIA

MOSCOW, Oct. 25.—(By Mail.)—In spite of the fact that the Russian-Polish border was so drawn as to give Poland large sections of Russian population, there are also a few Polish villages in Russia. These have their own national conferences in their own language. At a recent meeting of delegates from several villages they adopted resolutions condemning the execution in Lodz of the Communist boy Engel, and the murder in Warsaw of the worker Vialy.

SOCIALIST PARTY PINS LAURELS ON WEISBORD; MAY ROAST HIM NOW

The Milwaukee Leader of Nov. 21, published the following item sent out over the press service of the national office of the socialist party:

"Albert Weisbord has been elected district secretary of the New England states to succeed Helena Turitz, resigned. Welsborg, Turitz and Lewis were the amazingly industrious trio that was responsible for a splendidly efficient and effective campaign in the five states under their jurisdiction—National Office Press Service."

RUSSIAN CHURCH CLASH CARRIED TO N. Y. COURT

Hibben and McCullagh Opposing Witnesses

NEW YORK, Nov. 23.—Captain Paxton Hibben of the U. S. army reserve gave a set back to the anti-Russian propaganda of Captain Francis McCullagh in the court room of Justice Ford where both appeared at witnesses in litigation brot by Bishop Kedrovsky, claiming to represent the "Living Church" of Russia and suing for the possession of the entire Russian Greek catholic church property of America. "Consience was never so free in Russia as today," said Hibben answering McCullagh.

Replying to McCullagh's testimony which talked luridly of executions of priests and bishops in Russia, Hibben declared that the only priest put to death there was Mgr. Butkevitz, for high treason and the use of money for counter-revolutionary purposes when Russian and Poland were at war.

Captain Hibben studied Russian conditions while representing the American committee for the relief of Russia, of which Cardinal O'Connell, Rabbi Wise and leading protestants were members.

An attempt was recently made by reactionary army elements to oust him for his liberal opinions but no action has yet been taken as the result of an official inquiry. Captain McCullagh, formerly a British secret service agent in Russia, later served out anti-Russian stories to the readers of the New York Herald from his offices in Warsaw. He is visiting America on a lecture trip.

Bishop Kedrovsky charges the metropolitan and other representatives of the Russian church here illegally used church resources for Denliken and other military invaders of the homeland and declares that the present American church officials are no longer authorized by the home church.

Amalgamation for Employers.

HARTFORD, Conn., Nov. 23.—"Business must be brought together in consolidations and trusts," says Edward A. Filene's message to the convention of New England district associated advertising clubs. "People must re-organize their ideas of big business," Filene believes. "Mass production and mass distribution are coming in every country." Filene wants advertising to "educate the public to the vital principle" of mass production.

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
Street:
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
445 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 5th Ave.
1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

How to Be Healthy

For many years people have been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial. After several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.
MEN AND WOMEN
ing from any ailments, come to my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or
DR. TAFT
1555 West Roosevelt Road
Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—4 to 8 p. m.
Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.
TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

RENT RAISE SEES TENANT STRIKE IN CAPITOL CITY

Landlord Calls Strikers "Plain Bolsheviks"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 23.—The tenants of Clifton Terrace, an apartment house of several hundred rooms, who have been holding meetings in the lobby of the apartment house, still refuse to pay the exhorbitant increase in rent demanded by Joseph Low, owner of the building. Low has issued a statement, calling the protest meetings in the lobby "bolshevik mobs with conduct tending to mob violence, disregard of property rights and Communism." Low advised the tenants to buy the building, altho he refused to divulge the owner's name.

Demand New Rent Law.

The Tenants' League is demanding a new rent law. They have posted notices in the lobby of the apartment which declare:

"1. We propose to draft a rent law based upon the necessity of protecting government employes and other tenants who are victims of financial exploitation.

"2. We propose to call upon congress to pass this law at its session in December.

"3. We propose to continue to fight this insidious rent inflation which has begun since the war and which will continue in an ever rising tide thruout the entire land unless it is uncrowned in the hotbed of its birth, the District of Columbia.

"Stick and We'll Win."

"4. It was reported that tenants would be 'bought off with a small reduction of the advanced rental' and that many tenants were signing leases at the advanced rate.

"Let us hope that all tenants will stand back of their committee and move out rather than sign the lease move out rather than sign the lease your letter demanding the increase to any member of your committee. Stand by your guns. The battle is on. Let none desert. We are bound to win."

More Than 7,000 in Textile Industry to Be Hit by Wage Cut

BOSTON, Nov. 23.— Maine cotton mill manufacturers are rubbing it into the workers since the election of Coolidge and Dawes. Ten per cent wage cuts are posted in the Pepperell, York, Bates, Edwards, Androscoggin, Cabot, Hill, Continental, Lewiston Bleachery and Dana warp mills, says news reaching here. More than 7,000 operatives are affected. The mills posting the reduction represent a capitalization of nearly $25,000,000 and operate nearly a million spindles.

New England textile unionists are following the news of the American Federation of Labor in El Paso, where the United Textile Workers are expected to be promised aid in combating the lower wage scales now going into effect in New England states.

DEFECTIVE EQUIPMENT ON SCAB RAILROAD WAS CAUSE OF FATAL WRECK

ST. LOUIS.—Engineer William J. Ogan, Missouri Pacific, denies responsibility for the headon collision of two passenger trains at Syracuse, Mo., when 44 passengers were injured and an engineer killed. Ogan maintains the wreck was due to faulty air-brakes. After the collision Ogan inspected his train and found the angle-cock on the first car partly closed by vibration of the air pipes. With this cock closed the brakes could not be applied. This adds another fatility to the Missouri Pacific, whose repair shops are still manned by strikebreakers. The shopmen's strike of 1922 has never been settled. The railroad faces a multitude of damage suits for injuries to passengers in wrecks. In most cases experienced railroaders give as their opinion that the disasters were the fruits of defective equipment.

CANADIAN BANKS MERGED SINCE THE WORLD WAR

Bankers Spent $100,000 to Protect "Rights"

(By The Federated Press)

VANCOUVER, B. C., Nov. 23.—The concentration of Canadian wealth since the war has been astounding and today nearly three-quarters of the money on deposit in Canadian banks is held by four banking houses. Ten years ago there were 34 chartered banks in Canada; one year ago 17 were in existence and today this number has been reduced to 13." These facts concerning the control of Canada's money power were made public by J. S. Woodworth, leader of the labor party in the Canadian house of commons while on a speaking tour of the Pacific coast.

Woodsworth declared that $100,000 was spent by the Canadian Bankers' Assn. to prevent the introduction of federal legislation interfering with their pilfering perogatives. Attempt was made by the labor group in the federal house to secure government inspection of banking books, but the government was completely subservient to the big business interests of Canada and refused to countenance any change.

One result of the government's attitude on the question of banking regulations was the alignment of a larger labor group in the dominion house of commons, Woodsworth stated. Several members of the house, who had been elected as progressives and had become disgusted with the way the progressive party truckled to the government, went over to the labor group and increased its number to 10.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

We Will Not Accept Advertising

Unless

It meets with the necessarily severe requirements of the DAILY WORKER:

Employment agencies, fake Labor organizations, patent medicines, books and periodicals opposing the workers' interests—anything that is not good for the mental or physical well-being of the person who works for a living—can find no place in our pages. . . .

BUT

We will accept—and to our mutual benefit—advertisements that every worker can secure from those whom he patronizes—

The doctor, dentist, book-shop and others. And we'll gladly accept ads for any meetings or socials of a Labor organization.

You can use your purchasing power to aid in building for working class power if you—

"Paste This in Your Bonnet"

Get an ad for THE DAILY WORKER

RATES:

Times printed.	1 in. single column	2 to 5 in. single column	Over 5 in. single column
Once only	$1.00	95c	90c
Less than 3 days a week—for 3 months	95c	90c	85c
Every day—3 months or more	90c	85c	80c

If you want a worker to see it—put it in the DAILY WORKER

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

LABOR REPORT SAYS OCTOBER BROT NO JOBS

Outlook is Worse Than in Same Month of 1923

October failed to bring the expected increase in the general level of operations in Illinois factories, according to the monthly review of employment issued by the Illinois department of labor.

"The increase in factory employment of August and September," says the statement, "did not continue into October.

"Altho there were some significant advances in the metal industries there were somewhat more than compensating declines in the other groups so that the total number of factory employes in Illinois in October was 1 per cent less than in September."

Jobs Fewer Now.

"The precipitate declines of early 1924 with only slight swells in August and September and a renewed decline in October leave the factories with 13 per cent fewer persons than were at work at the peak of operations in 1923 and 12 per cent fewer than one year ago.

"The survey shows that the factories of Illinois had fewer workers than they had in any October in the past four years. We face the beginning of winter, a time when out-of-door industries are generally closed, with a large number of people out of work."

Plenty of Labor Surplus.

How this impersonal statement that there are many out of work looks to the employing class in Illinois is reflected in a Wall Street Journal, Chicago bureau story, written after interviews with such bankers as Geo. M. Reynolds, chairman Continental & Commercial National bank. The journal says: "In view of this labor surplus and the fact that the beginning of winter will release men from outdoor work manufacturers will have little difficulty in securing workers for increased production schedules."

Merely Seasonal Gain.

Factory employment in New York state went up 1 per cent from September to October, according to the monthly statement of the industrial commissioner of that state. He notes, however, that this represents a seasonal gain. It brings the index of employment to 98 as compared with 110 in the same month of 1923. This means that one-ninth of the workers who had jobs in New York factories a year ago are out of work today.

PRAVDA NOW SEES RAILROAD BUILT AS HIGHWAY OF IMPERIALISM AS ROAD AGAINST IMPERIALISM

(By Rosta News Agency.)

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—The Chinese Eastern railway was built as a highway of imperialism, writes the Pravda in an editorial article.

It is, therefore, not to be wondered at that this line soon became an artery thru which the Chinese people were bled by the action of Russian capital, with all the czarist clique at its service, this blood being transformed into capitalistic profits.

Today, however, we are all aware these relations are completely reversed. We see with our own eyes how in spite of fierce opposition on the part of foreign imperialists, a railroad of imperialism is becoming a road against imperialism and the trunk line of the growing influence of revolution on all the front of politic, social, economic and political relations.

For such a transformation are responsible, in the first place, the proletariat and the red diplomacy of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics. The broad layers of the Chinese people are also responsible for it, those masses which are strengthening their backs amidst such terrible hardships, are tearing the imperialistic bonds and stretching out their hands to us.

Indeed, without the present tide of national revolutionary spirit in China, without the existing sympathy for the Soviet Union, it was not possible to wrest from the claws of imperialist depredators the property of revolutionary workers and peasants.

Chamberlain Begins To Hedge on Trade Agreements with Russ

LONDON, Nov. 23.—The commercial treaties made by the recent MacDonald government with Christian Rakovsky and his Russian Soviet delegation, will not be put into effect, the Exchange Telegram this evening quoted Austin Chamberlain as saying.

"After due deliberation," said the communication attributed to Chamberlain, "His majesty's government find themselves unable to recommend the treaties for consideration by parliament or to submit them to the king."

Montana County Goes Farmer-Labor.

PLENTYWOOD, Mont., Nov. 23.—All the farmer-labor candidates of Sheridan county, Mont., were elected, according to the official count. From sheriff down to coroner and superintendent of schools, the party took every office. In the presidential race farmer-labor electors pledged to La-Follette received 1,166 votes, the LaFollette independent electors 292, republican 887, democratic 143, Workers Party 18, socialists 3 votes.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

Gompers' Move in Minneapolis Is Aid To Open Shoppers

(Continued from page 1)

scandal-scavenger sheet, "The Minnesota," made its appearance on the streets of the Twin Cities attacking the Communists in bold, flaring headlines.

Its editor stooped to the lowest level conceivable to man, and in one particular instance dragged the private affairs of a member of the Young Workers League thru the muck and mire of slanderous scandal.

Ignorant of Communism.

The columns of the "Minnesota" are filled from week to week with the most vicious of lies and misrepresentations directed against those whose opinions and honesty of purpose have carried them into the ranks of the Communists. If the enemies of the Workers Party had any semblance of knowledge as to what the Communists stand for there would be no kick registered. But for the most part the opposition is composed of misinformed men and women who neither have nor seek knowledge about the vital problems of the labor movement.

This is the element from whom Samuel Gompers and the reactionary officialdom of the A. F. of L. gets its information against the members of the Workers Party. This is the faction that has been sending the mysterious "secret" messages to Gompers' executive council. Yes, this is the conglomeration of fakers and dishonest trade unionists who seek the permanent destruction of the labor movement of Minneapolis.

Yellows Show Servility.

Paul W. Smith soundly whipped the Trades and Labor Assembly of this city Wednesday night. More than that, Smith made the members of the labor movement like the licking he had given them. The cowardly conservatives did not dare to call their bulls were their own. On the other hand, there were some who talk and write in brave, revolutionary terms who willingly danced while the Gompers' lieutenant cracked the lash. The whole affair served to show just how servile men can become when their "pie cards" are officially threatened. But the Communists, together with a few other sincere trade unionists, stood up and fought like the men that they are. These militants refused to be intimidated or cajoled into submission by the reactionary agent of conservative labor officialdom.

Bradon Speaks for Communists.

Jack Bradon, who took the floor last night to defend the rights of the Communists as members of the trade union movement, pointed out that Smith was far too vague and broad in his threats to assembly delegates.

Bradon said, in part: "Brother Smith has neglected one or two of the most important phases of this situation, either intentionally or unintentionally. He has neglected to tell us that the editor of labor's official organ here can be yanked out of his job, and business agents "fired" whenever they refuse to sing to the tune of the A. F. of L. officials, according to the terms of this agreement they ask and demand of us to enter into." The job holders seemed anxious to go along the line of least resistance since the majority of them rose to the defense of the Gompers' agent.

Carefully Planned Onslaught.

This attack by Smith on the Communists within the trade union movement has been characterized as but the beginning of a carefully and well-planned onslaught on the militants of labor in America. The American Federation of Labor officialdom is evidently determined that no symptoms of progress shall be exhibited by members of the labor movement. If men and women of organized labor are to lay aside their courage and refuse to fight back against such treacherous assaults upon their rights, then the future of the American organized labor movement looks very dark indeed.

SIX COMMUNISTS FROM REICHSTAG ARE ARRESTED

Morgan's Influence Is Becoming Evident

(Continued from page 1)

with the active assistance of the International Red Relief, and particularly of the Russian comrades. A further intensification of the relief activity in Germany is an imperative necessity. The German elections are called by the German workers "hard labor elections". A new wave of persecutions has come over Germany. Six members of parliament have been already arrested and the remaining 56 Communists are persecuted and compelled to remain in hiding. Searches in the houses of comrades and arrests are the order of the day. At the same time white terror intensifies in the other countries of the bourgeoisie. Thus the next aim of the Red Relief of Germany must be, apart from the support of the victims of the class struggle in Germany, the support of the comrades in other countries.

Do Good Work

"The national conference of the Red Relief of Germany has achieved good work in this direction. In all districts, locals and big shops firmly organized committees and membership organizations of the Red Relief will be formed. Detailed instructions were issued for the construction and the activity of these committees. In all labor organizations representatives of the Red Relief must work in order to win them for the collective affiliation to the Red Relief and to induce all members of affiliated organizations to co-operate continuously in the relief work.

"The next task of the Red Relief of Germany will be the organization of a broad and systematic campaign for amnesty and for a winter relief action for the families of the prisoners. In order to strengthen the propaganda for the Red Relief, regular Red Relief supplements shall be issued in the various party papers, according to the example of the "Klassenkampf", Halle etc.

"In connection with the various accusations on the part of the social democrats and with the persecutions of the Red Relief by the authorities, it was stressed, that the Red Relief is no party organization. It is no Communist organization and supports all class fighters without consideration of party membership, who are victims of bourgeois class "justice". This naturally does not mean that the Red Relief is non-partisan or non-political, for it must accuse class "justice" from a political point of view and expose its character.

Hear About Russian Red Relief

The most impressive moment of the conference was the appearance of the Russian representative who was enthusiastically welcomed by the German delegates. He described the activity of the Russian Red Relief, which has already over three million members, who sacrifice much for the Red Relief, who work on Sundays and donate the wages for the Red Relief, who provide the Red Relief with grain, etc. The Russian workers want to establish a continuous contact with the victims of class justice and want to be thoroughly informed of the work of the Red Relief in the other countries. The representative of the executive committee of the Red Relief of Germany emphasized the gratitude of the prisoners for the solidarity of the Russian workers and peasants and promised that the German workers would follow their wonderful example and build up a strong Red Relief organization.

"The conference decided to address greetings to the Russian, American and French working class and to the victims of white terror in Poland. The result of the conference will certainly be that in all locals and districts a strong and firmly built membership organization of the Red Relief will be formed which will be able to lead the struggle for the political prisoners to a successful end".

MEXICAN LABOR MARCHING FORWARD WITH FLAG OF COMMUNIST PARTY; PEASANTS HOLD CONGRESS NOV. 28

By C. DEHESA.

(Special Correspondence to The DAILY WORKER)

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, Nov. 23.—An American superintendent of the light, power and traction company of this Mexican city says that he knows the price of everybody, from a gendarme up to the president of the republic.

Well, this individual speaks the truth, because the various governments of Mexico, from the monarchial regime of Diaz until the "laborista" government of Calles have always been subject to the imperialism and whims of the capitalists of the north.

Practically, the white army of Mexico, gives guarantees at all times to the capitalists of the United States, as we recently have seen in the assassination of several workers of the Mexican Light Company, in the strike who were on strike, and the additional protection of scabs with Obregon bayonets. Hundreds of such cases occur in the country in the suppression and murder of humble peasants.

A Peasant Congress.

On the 28th of November, there will be celebrated in the city of Jalapa, capitol of the state of Vera Cruz, the second congress of the league of agrarian communes of the state. This congress will be of great importance as there have been invited more than a thousand peasants' groups of the republic. At the same time invitations have been made to stronger groups of labor, such as the railwaymen, the chamber of labor of Orizaba, the Workers' Federation of Tampico, and the Workers' Federation of Coahuila.

"Our Comrade Ambassador."

Besides, our comrade, the Ambassador Petkowski, will be invited to attend the congress.

Our comrades, Ursulo Galvan and Manuel D. Ramirez, president and secretary of the league of agrarian communes of the state, and old members of the Communist Party of Mexico are the prime movers behind this congress. The former was at the International Conference of Peasants at Moscow in October a year ago, and the latter was delegate of the Communist Party of Mexico to the Third International.

A United Front From Below.

At present, Comrade Galvan is lieutenant-colonel in the army and at the head of a battalion composed of peasants fought the de la Huerta movement. Newly arrived from Russia, he formed the united front of peasants. All workers must be pleased to see the success of our congress.

The Mexican proletariat feels great joy and pleasure at having in our midst the representative plenipotentiary of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. The workers received him triumphantly, as much here as in the metropolis, having our stupid bourgeoisie astounded at the sight. Bolshevism advances with giant strides among workers despite the tremendous campaign that develops with great whirls against the Communists. In all sections of the republic we commemorated the seventh anniversary of the Russian revolution. In Mexico City our comrade ambassador attended a ceremony that the party organised together with the workers' groups in the preparatory school.

Anarchists Help Capitalists.

The anarchist leaders of the syndicalist Confederacion General de Trabajadores (General Confederation of Workers—not the larger Confederacion Regional Obrera Mexican) tried to organize an demonstration against our comrade, but they failed in their intention, and only succeeded in making declarations to the press favorable to the bourgeoisie.

I used to bear the title of "Champion of Socialism," then, from 1917 to 1920 I belonged to the I. W. W. But from 1923 I belong body and soul to the Communist Party of Mexico, it being the only party that fights for the conquest of power by the exploited class. We need very much pamphlets of printed propaganda, thus also reviews that may be useful such as the Workers' Monthly and the Young Worker.

One Kind of Communist Politics.

I must tell you that our section is very weakened from the last French movement of Adolfo de la Huerta, some of our best comrades dying on the battlefield. Others are still in the army. It is only a few months since I myself left the army to begin our work of reorganization.

Your Union Meeting

FOURTH MONDAY, NOV. 24, 1924

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting
99	Bartenders, 123 No. Clark St., 8.30 p. m.
	Boiler Makers' District Council, Cor. and Halsted Sts.
626	Boiler Makers, 626 and Halsted Sts.
94	Boot and Shoe, 1938 Milwaukee Ave.
1	Bridge and Structural Iron Workers, 910 W. Monroe St.
896	Butchers, Hebrew, 3420 W. Roosevelt Rd.
638	Butchers, Bohemian, 1870 Blue Island Ave.
2905	Carpenters, 740 W. Washington St.
70	Carpenters, 2705 W. 36th St.
80	Carpenters, 4039 W. Madison St.
181	Carpenters, 2040 W. North Ave.
190	Carpenters, S. C., 3159 Commercial Ave.
416	Carpenters, S. C., 50 SS. State St.
419	Carpenters, S. C., 1457 Clybourn Ave.
448	Carpenters, 222 N. West St., Waukegan.
1307	Carpenters, 1850 Sherman, Evanston.
1367	Carpenters, 2040 W. North Ave.
	Cap Makers, 4003 W. Roosevelt Rd.
14	Cloak Makers, Executive Board, 166 W. Washington St., 7:30 p. m.
713	Electricians, 119 S. Throop St.
394	Engineers, (Loc.), 7832 S. Union Ave., 7:30 p. m.
400	Engineers, 4643 S. Halsted St.
401	Engineers, 311 S. Ashland Ave.
846	Engineers, 192 W. Washington St.
	Federated Crafts, 32 E. 111th St.
196	Firemen and Engineers, 2431 Roosevelt Road, 9:30 a. m. Last meeting 7:30 p. m.
237	Firemen and Enginemen, 4123 W. Lake St.
535	Firemen and Enginemen, 5436 S. Halsted St.
686	Firemen and Enginemen, Madison and Sacramento.
331	Firemen and Enginemen, 64th and Ashland Ave.
10615	Gardeners and Florists, North and Western Aves.
18	Glove Operators, 1710 N. Winchester.
76	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
59	Ladies' Garment, 328 W. Van Buren
58	Ladies' Tailors, 25 S. Wells St.
274	Longshoremen, Tug, 355 N. Clark
265	Machinists, 75th and Dobson Blvd.
337	Machinists, 1638 N. Halsted St.
273	Metal Polishers, 1 W. 19th St.
723	Maint. of Way, 202 W. 47th St.
536	Musicians, 1679 Blue Island Ave.
15016	Nurses (County), Sacramento and Ogden Aves.
27	Painters, 175 W. Washington St.
157	Painters, 3314 W. North Ave.
194	Painters, Madison and 5th Ave.
258	Painters, 111th and Michigan Ave.
275	Painters, 2032 S. Halsted St.
41	Park Attendants, Halsted and Harrison Sts.
822	Plumbers, 555 N. Cicero Ave.
503	Railway Clerks, 1626 W. Wash.
	Railway Clerks, 6236 Princeton Ave.
2064	Railway Clerks, 198 N. State St.
241	Railway Employes of America (Surface Lines), Van Buren and Ashland.
	Sailors' Union of Great Lakes, 355 N. Clark St.
70	Seamen, 901 E. 79th St.
81	Sheet Metal Workers, 1638 N. Halsted St.
4	Steel and Copper Engravers, Morrison Hotel.
5	Tailors, 180 W. Washington, 7:30 p. m.
721	Teamsters, 11326 Michigan Ave.
753	Teamsters, 2500 S. Halsted St.
754	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd., 2 p. m.
772	Teamsters, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
9	Typographical (German), 1457 Clybourn Ave., 8 p. m.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

All Is Peaceful at Liquor Trials Held In Williamson County

EAST ST. LOUIS, Ill., Nov. 23.—Despite many rumors that a clash was impending between Williamson county Klansmen and their opponents, and reports that S. Glenn Young, Klan raider, was on his way here, no untoward incident marked today's trials of liquor cases in the federal court here.

Police reinforcements were sent to the federal building when it was reported that strong forces of armed Klansmen and anti-Klansmen were gathering at two hotels near the court room. The men, however, dispersed without any demonstrations.

Dohony Suit Nears End.

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 23.— With open arguments in the Dohony suit instituted by the United States government for the cancellation of naval oil reserve contracts completed, attorneys for the government and the defense today started work on written briefs of the case which are necessary before formal commitment for Judge Paul McCormick's decision can be made. Attorneys said it would take almost a month to prepare the briefs.

CHARGE GROSS FRAUDS IN POLL OF CARPENTERS

Wholesale Juggling of Votes, Is Claim

(Continued from page 1)

president indicated the proposition carried by about 2,700 more than the necessary two-thirds majority; but the investigators uncovered proof that it had been defeated by 196 votes.

Readers of the DAILY WORKER have been informed by its correspondent who was at the Indianapolis convention as to activities of the "grand duke" and his piecarders and strongarm men in preventing the subject from receiving consideration there, which activities included two brutal assaults upon Delegate Mulcahey of Providence, spokesman for the protesting delegations, but the correspondent, like a majority of the delegates, was prevented from being given first hand and official information about the frauds and causes which led up to the insurrection.

Makes Arithmetic Do Tricks.

Details were not made public here until an Everett delegate who attended the convention submitted a report to the Central Labor Council Wednesday evening. The report stated that the vote of scores of locals had been juggled in somewhat the same manner as that of Everett. Among the more conspicious cases were the following:

A Chicago local cast 137 votes against the proposition and none for it, yet Hutcheson's credentialing committee entered 437 in the "yes" column and 137 "no"—an "error" of 300 in favor of it.

Hanford, Cal., voted 19 "no" and not one "yes," but is officially recorded as 196 "yes" and 19 "no."

Redlands, Cal., Stillwater, Minn., and Edmonton, Canada, did not vote, but were recorded by Hutcheson's accomodating compilers as having voted a total of "57 yes" and none "no."

Returns from five other locals whose votes were "thrown out" because of alleged defects, were recorded as 115 for and five against the proposition.

"Errors" All On One Side.

The investigators were unable to find a single "error" that they failed to go uncorrected, would have reduced the majority desired by the International officers.

Spurred into action by reports received from Everett, the local at Providence, R. I., also conducted an investigation, which not only proved the western local's charges, but widely extended the area of "errors" made by the Hutchesonites. More than 900 locals with membership totaling 70,000 endorsed the movement to secure reconsideration of the subject and to authorize another referendum providing for a pension system only.

"Union Brothers."

When the protesting delegations, who went on strike and walked out of the convention following Hutcheson's autocratic expulsion of Mulcahey, their spokesman, they were accompanied by shouted threats of the strongarm gang, which included this one: "We'll attend to you later." The assaults on Mulcahey, which occurred two or three days before, were the only ones reported, however. He was confined to his room under a doctor's care, after being picked up and assisted to his hotel by some unknown person.

"Pass By On Other Side."

Delegates who passed after he had been left helpless and almost unconscious by the thugs, and to whom he appealed for help in reaching the hotel, refused for the alleged reason they didn't want to get mixed up in the affair. Apparently the piecarders had convinced a large number of delegates outside the ranks of the insurrectionists that it was safer to follow that ancient edict: "Servants, obey your masters."

Open Forum, Sunday Night, Lodge Room, Ashland Auditorium.

OUR DAILY PATTERNS

SOMETHING NEW.

4926. Figured silk and satin are here combined. This is also a good model for charmeen with braid trimming or embrodery for decoration. In faille silk and broadcloth it is very attractive. The "tunic" may be worn over any slip or sleeveless under dress.

The Pattern is cut in 7 Sizes: 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48 inches bust measure. A 38 inch size requires 6½ yards of one material 40 inches wide. If made as illustrated it will require 3⅛ yards of figured material for the underslip and cuff facings, and 3¼ yards of plain material for the tunic." The width of the skirt at the foot is 1¾ yards.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

A SCHOOL DRESS.

4939. Plaid woolen was chosen for this model, with binding and facings of wool crepe, in a matched shade. Pockets are inserted at the cross-slashes in the front.

The pattern is cut in 4 sizes: 6, 8, 10 and 12 years. A 10-year size requires 2⅞ yards of one material 54 inches wide. If made as illustrated, ¼-yard of contrasting material will be required for collar, revers facings and vestee.

Pattern mailed to any address on receipt of 12c in silver or stamps.

IN ORDERING YOUR PATTERN BE SURE TO MENTION THE SIZE YOU WANT IT IN.

Send 12c in silver or stamps for our UP-TO-DATE FALL AND WINTER 1924-1925 BOOK OF FASHIONS.

Address: The DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

NOTICE TO PATTERN BUYERS—The patterns being sold thru the DAILY WORKER pattern department are furnished by a New York firm of pattern manufacturers. Orders are forwarded by the DAILY WORKER every day as received and they are mailed by the manufacturer direct to the customer. The DAILY WORKER does not keep a stock of patterns on hand. Delivery of patterns ordinarily will take at least 10 days from the date of mailing the order. Do not become impatient if your pattern is delayed.

Our Canadian Neighbors!

"The Trades Union Congress in Canada and Our Future Tasks"

By TIM BUCK.

In the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY is an article that will contribute to a clear understanding of the problems of Labor in our neighboring country. BE SURE TO READ IT!

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50—6 months $2.00—3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$6.00 per year $4.50—6 months $2.50—3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, ... Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE,
MORITZ J. LOEB ..... Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

Advertising rates on application

The United Front of Labor's Enemies

That the last convention of the American Legion glorified the Fascist open shopper, Brigadier General Dawes, seemed to be no bar to the welcome extended to James A. Drain, national commander of the Legion, by the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor now meeting at El Paso, Texas.

Neither was the fact that the last convention of the Legion invited Mussolini to attend, any bar to the effusive greeting given Drain by the labor bureaucrats at El Paso. Fascism recognizes its own, whether in black shirt or a bolled one.

Nor was the fact that the American Legion thruout its existence has shown its anti-labor character by heaping up a mountain of evidence against itself as an organization of strikebreakers, disrupters of peaceful labor meetings, and lynchers and terrorizers of union men and union organizers any bar to the A. F. of L. convention giving the floor to the Legion commander.

Indeed it seems that this record constitutes a special recommendation for anyone approaching the camp of Gompers. There is Major Berry, for instance, whose claim to strikebreaking is won right in his own union, along with a reputation for taking the treasury for his own uses.

These are symbols of the time in the ranks of labor. It would seem that rottenness would stop for lack of something to feed upon. In fact, the percentage of the American working class which is organized in the A. F. of L. is about the minimum. These cannot be driven away from the union by any ordinary corruption of the officials. As long as they "get by" many are content to let the officials "get theirs."

But these workers are due to realize soon or late, probably soon, that the "normal" conditions of the pre-war days are never to return, nor the war and post-war economic boom and civil peace to last forever. Union labor is like a runaway train headed downhill for a washout. Those who went with Harding to keep from wobbling, and with Coolidge to dodge "chaos," are going to find themselves, not immediately, perhaps, but soon, wobbling amid chaos of the worst kind.

The Trade Union Educational League, has frequently warned the members of the unions against permitting their officials to fraternize with the American Legion which exists largely to fight unionism. The resolution of the T. U. E. L. urging the A. F. of L. definitely to condemn the Legion and combat it everywhere, may be ignored by the officials at El Paso, but there comes a time when the rank and file of the unions will know that not mere corruption but class treachery accounts for this fraternizations with the enemy.

When that time comes, there will be a new deal and new faces in the leadership of the A. F. of L.

Insuring the Daily Worker

The campaign to insure The DAILY WORKER for 1925 is on. Every member of the Workers Party will put his shoulder to the wheel and make this campaign a huge success.

Since it was founded The DAILY WORKER has given an excellent account of itself. It has been a tower of strength for the working class movement and a bulwark against the attacks of labor's enemies. No industrial or political struggle which had an interest for the workers, took place without the first Communist daily in the English language participating actively on the side of the workers.

Where strikers were on the picket line, there could be found the DAILY WORKER, inspiring them to greater efforts, seeking support for them, raising funds with which to carry on their fight until victory was secured.

On the political field, The DAILY WORKER has led the first Communist election campaign in the United States. It is a two-fisted fighter making battle on all fronts. It is a powerful national force. It is growing in influence and in circulation. It must continue to grow.

The DAILY WORKER has enemies. From the big capitalist to the labor faker, there is a powerful army that would like to see it pass out of existence. Because these enemies know that The DAILY WORKER is out to abolish the system on which they feed and grow fat at the expense of the working class.

But The DAILY WORKER has friends, hard working, self-sacrificing friends. We now call on those friends for assistance in insuring the workers' daily for 1925.

We have no doubt as to what the result of this campaign will be. It will be a bigger and better DAILY WORKER for 1925.

Blood and Cotton in Egypt

Increased military and economic pressure is the answer of British imperialism to the growing Egyptian nationalist movement. The wholesale flogging by British authorities of Egyptian workers who demonstrated for national independence and expressed their solidarity with the Sudan nationalist movement, was the reason for the attack on General Sir Lee Stack, which resulted in his death.

Great Britain now orders the Egyptian government to withdraw all its troops from the Sudan and announces that it will use the entire water supply of the Nile, if it sees fit, to expand the irrigation project of British capitalists at Gezira in Sudan. This is tantamount to serving notice upon the Egyptians that they must either submit or be starved to death. The Nile furnishes the lifeblood of Egypt. Its headwaters are controlled by British bayonets.

Here is imperialism in full flower, flourishing on the rotting bodies of the Egyptian workers it has murdered and the ill-nourished bodies of those it proposes in the most cold-blooded manner possible to make into more fertilizer for its cotton fields in Sudan. Red blood makes white cotton.

The French imperialists, who have their own schemes in Africa, are indignant over the demands made by Great Britain upon Egypt. They shed great floods of journalistic tears in their press, enough to water all of Egypt, over the plight of the exploited Egyptians. The clash of imperialistic interests is obvious, another evidence that the Dawes plan has strengthened rather than softened the underlying basis of the capitalist contradictions which force the European powers to arm against one another.

The aid for the Egyptian masses that really counts comes from the Communists in France and Great Britain, who are already arousing the workers of these countries against the bloody slavery forced upon colonial peoples by the rulers of both nations.

Capitalism in France, England and largely in America exists today by virtue of the exploitation of millions of colonial workers. Encouragement and aid in every possible form of the colonial independence movements is therefore one of the major tasks of every labor movement in imperialist nations and particularly is it the major task of all Communists Parties.

Betraying Mexican Workers

The spectacle of alleged representatives of Mexican and Santo Domingoan workers, thanking Samuel Gompers, the head of the "labor wing" of American imperialism, for his acts of kindness to the enslaved workers of these nations, is a sight for the gods. It shows that the American ruling class has learned a valuable lesson from the more skilled rulers of Great Britain.

Whenever bombs and bayonets fail the British imperialists have always resorted to purchase of leaders of the oppressed who promptly discovered that Anglo-Saxon capitalist democracy had a beneficient aspect they had hitherto failed to notice. Ireland and India are shining examples of the use of this method.

Armed conquest of Mexico has proved too costly. The workers and peasants have shown their ability to defend themselves with arms in their hands. Now they are to be cajoled and betrayed by their own leaders, who shake hands with the representatives of American imperialism.

Unity of the revolutionary workers of both countries is more than ever necessary.

The Communist Parties of Mexico and the United States, of Canada and the other Latin American nations also must and will unite against this new plot against the liberties of the Mexican masses which at the same time threatens the masses of every country on the western hemisphere with the dangers of the new and inspired interpretation of the Monroe doctrine made by Matthew Woll at El Paso—that the labor movement of the United States is the safeguard against rival foreign imperialism, but the promoter of the identity of interest between the American imperialists and their subject workers in Latin America.

Class collaboration at home has developed logically into smoothing the path for American imperialism abroad.

Treason to the working class can go no farther.

One hundred automobiles were needed to carry the delegates at the A. F. of L. convention from El Paso to Fort Bliss last Wednesday, where they were entertained by Major General Howze, who had previously spoken to the labor fakers and told them he had "an efficient army at the Fort." The entertainment proved it by showing off a "rough riding troop of the 7th cavalry," and a whole series of military exhibitions illustrating the methods to be used in shooting the appetites out of A. F. of L. and other strikers.

Mayor Dudley, of El Paso, in his address of welcome to the labor fakers at the A. F. of L. convention, voiced the expectation of American imperialism in the mission of the A. F. of L. in the Pan-American Federation of labor when he said that the people of Mexico "are like children, they need the steadying, guiding hand that will keep them from extremes of all kinds. It is your hand that must guide them."

Calvin Coolidge talked tartly to several lumber barons in Washington. They liked it. Their general business manager was talking. The keynote of his speech was thrift. When he left they applauded vociferously. He smiled—sparingly. Thrifty even with his smiles.

The Best Reading Hut in Russia

By ANISE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 1. (By Mail).—There have been newspaper contests for the best factory manager and the best teacher and the best sanitation committee, during the past year and a half in the pages of Pravda. Now there is a contest for the best "Reading Hut." By following these contests you can see just where the center of interest lies in the country's activities. Just now it is "books to the peasants," which is the order of the day.

The contesting letters come from the mountainous villages of the Caucasus, from the vineyard districts of the Crimea, from the wheat belt near Kiev and Kharkov, from the industrial regions, from the Volga. Today's newspaper gives an inspiring account of a "Reading Hut" in a small village of the Tartar Republic, with only 900 inhabitants. It illustrates the ferment of life which is going on in the most scattered districts of peasant Russia.

"They have given many names to our political-educational organization," writes the breezy author. "Culture circle, library, people's house, and finally reading hut. They have given plenty of names but not any money. In three years we got from the township just one hair comb! We are carefully preserving it as a souvenir, and we often raise the question, just how to use it for our political-educational work. This question has not yet been decided by us.

"The war, the revolution, the famine, woke our young people into life. They turned their thoughts to our old, unheated, desolate reading hut. They brought in wood, log by log. They started the fire and it began to be comfortable there. Thru the young people, the reading hut began to be connected with the life of the people, with their needs and difficulties.

Better Farming and Co-operation.

"In the reading hut we considered and discussed and fought over and at last adopted the four-field system of agriculture. There grew among the peasants an interest in agricultural literature; the books on these subjects were read to tatters. We made a connection with an agricultural expert. In the spring of 1922 we went to the field, with the young folks ahead, and divided our earth in the four field manner, sorted out the seed, and put in lots of potatoes. (The reference here it to the division of common fields which make it necessary for a whole village to move together; and also to the beginning of potatoes in place of exclusive grain culture). By 1924, the condition of the peasants had greatly improved. Our live stock is 40 per cent higher than it was.

"Now, all this would have been good, but we were working and the kulak (rich lending peasant), was putting the proceeds in his pocket. Against the kulak we began organizing our co-operative. In one little corner of our reading hut we had the office for it. The co-operative caught on, and grew; now we are even organizing a creamery.

The Books—How to Get Them?

"There was lots of work, but by working we learned to do more work. We worked over the library. Around it were clubs for self-instruction, civics, agriculture, dramatics. We drew in the teachers from the neighborhood. Books, alas were few. We took up collections, held entertainments, and so we got money to bring in books for self-education on many questions. We made an agreement with the government publishing house about credit for books. Now our reading hut acts as middleman, without profit, between the government publishing house and all the Communist organizations in the township, getting their educational literature for them.

"At the same time the reading hut guides the selection of books and leads in all kinds of agitation. The growth of political knowledge has increased the number of Communist youth. We have now 12 members of the League of Communist Youth and seven in the Communist Party. The boys from our village began to lead in the work of the township. One of the boys trained in our reading hut, became president of the township Comsomol, and another is on the educational committee.

An Information Center.

"Our reading hut carries on all sorts of information work. The peasants come to us for the greatest variety of questions. A man and his wife have a fight—see, they think the reading hut will settle their difficulty. A girl is betrayed—she is waiting to whisper to the librarian to find out what organizations will secure redress from the culprit. The peasants sort over their oats, and bring the best to the reading hut to brag about. A kulak cheats a poor fellow, or hides his grain returns from the tax collector. To whom make complaint? Why, to the reading hut. When will the civil war end in China? What are the British trade unions doing? Work out, please, what my taxes should be. . . To all these the reading hut makes answer. Its work ends at 11 or 12 at night.

"Our librarian got no wages at all the first year, four roubles and a half per month the second year, and nine roubles the third year. Now he is getting 17 roubles ($8.50) a month. He is a former red soldier, who took a four months' course in the Red Army on out-of-school activities. The agricultural teacher helps him. In spite of difficulties, the work grows. It kept on growing, the lack of means hindered its expansion. There are few books in the library. The room is small. In the winter you have to throw people out to let in the ones who are standing in line and waiting.

Wall Newspaper and Exhibition.

"In summer we move the work out of doors. We fenced in and cleaned an old park that belonged to the former lord. We made there a people's promenade. Our circles work well in summer; they get out a wall newspaper called the 'Awakener.' The paper is hung up in the park on its own standard. There is always a crowd around. The ones who can read, read aloud to the illiterate. Here in this park we carried on the agitation for the peasant's loan. Of other newspapers we get one copy of Pravda, one of the Red Tartar, one of the Voice of the Young Communist, and three of the New Village.

"Our reading hut has held two agricultural exhibitions, which gave further results in propaganda for the four-field system.

"Here is our summary of work from 1922 to 1924. We have altogether 1,664 books, but we gave out to readers 10,667. This means that every book was read on an average ten times. We had two motion picture meetings, 89 reading lectures, 107 evenings of recitations, 44 theatrical performances, 2 excursions, 4 open air celebrations, 23 political study circles, 75 general meetings, and 2 exhibitions. We have had an attendance of 15,536 from a population of 900!"

While the Yellow Press Lies About Vodka Riots

The workers and peasants of Russia are building new libraries, reading huts, etc. This is a village reading hut.

MUSIC.

By ALFRED V. FRANKENSTEIN.

"The Pearl Fishers," Georges Bizet's other opera, was presented by the Chicago Civic Opera company last Tuesday evening. "Pearl Fishers" is as different, both in subject and treatment, from the composer's famous "Carmen" that it sounds like the work of a different man.

So far as setting is concerned the plot is rather unusual. The action takes place on the island of Ceylon. Zurga, chief of a tribe of Cinghalese, and his friend, Nadir, are both in love with Lelia, a priestess of Brahma. Nadir and Lelia are discovered by a priest making love in the temple. They are condemned to be burned together, but Zurga saves them. He sets fire to the villages, causing the chorus to rush away and so Nadir and Lelia escape. The chorus comes back and forces the chief to take the place of his friend on the funeral pyre.

Bizet made a fine musical setting to the story. Where "Carmen" is a series of brilliant but rather disconnected pieces, "Pearl Fishers" is a continuous whole. While the melody is not particularly gripping, not nearly so tuneful and florid as that of "Carmen," it fits the dramatic situation very well. It reminds one much of the popular suite of Bizet known as "L'Arlesienne." The best music of the whole is in the first act, which centers around a peculiarly affecting duet for Zurga and Nadir given on concert platforms under the title "In the Depths of the Temple." There is a lot of ineffective storm music in the second and third acts. Bizet tries to get the effect of a storm by giving us the whole works in the way of power cymbals, drums, and so on, but does not get half the effect of storm that Wagner could out of a string orchestra.

There are only three principal parts, Zurga, Nadir and Leila. Gladys Rimini as Zurga, in addition to a high baritone voice of fine quality is one of the best actors of the company. Charles Hackett's Nadir was impressive so far as costume and personal appearance go. Hackett possesses an unusually powerful and pleasing tenor voice, for which we are to give thanks, for in previous seasons the tenors of the Civic Opera on the whole have not been so good. The voice of Graziella Pareto, who played the priestess, is not so big as it might be. But she knows how to handle it.

Tho the work was not brilliantly staged, the scenery was adequate. The costumes were not at all true to type. The chorus and pricipals were attired something like Arabians. In Ceylon they don't dress as they do in Arabia. But if the company were to costume the chorus in true Cinghalese fashion Mr. Morgan Collins might not allow the performance to go on.

ART COLLECTIONS TO BE MOVED TO MOSCOW; WORKING CLASS CENTER

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 23.—One hundred and forty-one paintings by Rembrandt, Rubens and Van Dyke, are being moved from the Hermitage museum of Leningrad, the finest art gallery in the world, to Moscow. The reason for this action, the Soviets declare, is that Moscow, not Leningrad, is the center of the working class of Russia.

All of the Hermitage museum's billion dollars' worth of paintings will eventually be housed in Moscow, it is said. Besides this, 15,000 china pieces formerly belonging to the czars, from Peter the Great down, and the Pushkin and other galleries are to be kept here.

This action is consistent with the policy of the Soviet government in regard to works of art. Art exhibits are placed, not in galleries far from the factory section, but in the very heart of the working center of the cities. Many of them are placed at street corners, protected only by an ordinary showcase.

All of the art treasurers of czarist Russia have been preserved intact, and have been added to as fast as possible.

Sign Up Denver Bakeries.

DENVER.—The Malden electric bakery, operating in the Denver public market, has signed an agreement with Bakers' Local 26 for the first time.

THE GREAT ALLIANCE BETWEEN WORKERS AND PEASANTS

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The tenth chapter is entitled, "The Great Alliance Between Workers and Peasants."

* * *

LENIN'S sense for reality has manifested itself also in the fact that long before the revolution he was able to estimate correctly the significance of the peasantry. Most of the Marxians had a very poor conception of the role of the peasants in the approaching revolution. From the fact that agriculture was subservient to city industry and that small-scale production was gradually disappearing, many Marxians drew the conclusion that the peasants will not play in the revolution any active part at all or else will play a reactionary part.

As far back as 1905, Lenin already perceived the insufficiency of the agrarian program of the Social-Democratic Party. Immediately upon the beginning of the wide revolutionary movement among the peasants in 1905, he formulated the demand for the nationalization of the land. Lenin's slogan at that time was: "The dictatorship of the proletariat and the peasantry." He saw the necessity for an alliance of these two classes in order to remove the power of the large landowners. As the February revolution was developing, making clear the extent of the changes that was to come, and as he noticed that Russia would not satisfy itself with a bourgeois democracy, he commenced propounding in a practical fashion the problem of the dictatorship of the proletariat in the Russian Soviet State.

As an expert in the agrarian problems, and as one well versed in the applied phases of political economy, Lenin had been well aware of the fact that the peasantry cannot play any independent role. But for this very reason, he said, it is our duty to win the peasantry over to the side of the proletariat. He had been writing and saying: "The peasantry will support either the bourgeoisie or the proletariat. The peasantry stands to gain from the proletariat much more than from the bourgeoisie. Particularly if we pursue such a policy as to disabuse the peasantry of its prejudices against the dictatorship of the proletariat." Hence his slogan: "An alliance between the proletariat and the peasantry," and the policy of winning the masses of the villages for the support of the political and economic policies of the working class.

* * *

Tomorrow — "Learning from Events."

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

FACTS FOR WORKERS

-:- -:- -:-

Prepared by JAY LOVESTONE

THE CONDITION OF AMERICAN AGRICULTURE

	1919-20	1923-24	DIFFERENCE Amount	Per cent
Current value of all capital invested	$79,607,000,000	$59,409,000,000	—$20,208,000,000	25 Loss
Net income on total capital	4,954,000,000	1,863,000,000	—3,091,000,000	62 Loss
Rate earned on net capital investment by farmers	5.8 Per cent	1.4 Per cent	—4.4 Per cent	76 Loss
Net cash income available for living expenses, etc.	4,727,000,000	1,370,000,000	—2,848,000,000	60 Loss
Per cent of farmers' gross income available for living expenses, etc.	29.9 Per cent	16.1 Per cent	—13.8 Per cent	46 Loss
Net reward per year of farm operator for management and labor, inclusive of all family labor	932	520	412	44 Loss
Total farm debt, mortgages, etc.	13,400,000,000	14,000,000,000	600,000,000	4.4 Increase
Interest paid on total farm debt	897,000,000	952,000,000	55,000,000	6 Increase
Rate of interest farmer paid on mortgages, etc.	6.7 Per cent	6.8 Per cent	0.1 Per cent	1½ Increase

Net change in population from farms to towns in 1922 was 1,200,000. Actually about 2,000,000 left the farms for the cities in 1922.

Twenty-three per cent American farmers in 15 wheat and corn growing states were reported to be virtually bankrupt on Jan. 1, 1924, by department of agriculture.

The percentage of tenants who lost their property is much higher than that of the owners.

Based on Crops and Markets August, 1924, and The Agricultural Year Book, 1923—published by the United States Department of Agriculture.

The DAILY WORKER Raises the Standard for a Workers' and Farmers' Government

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Help Insure THE DAILY WORKER for 1925!

Vol. II. No. 212. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 25, 1924 290 Published daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

YALE UNIVERSITY LIBRARY NOV 1924

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY

THE Fascist government and the Vatican have signed an agreement which gives priests the right to teach religion in the public schools. The agreement is given the standing of a treaty between two powers and recognizes the right of the Vatican to pass laws within its church jurisdiction, which laws are binding on its subjects. Other articles of the treaty make religious education in accordance with doctrines of the catholic church compulsory, provide for church supervision of Bavarian education and payment by the government to clerical teachers and six bishops whose dioceses are in Bavaria. Those who believe that the Vatican has changed its spots need attention from an occulist.

• • •

AN enterprising firm of undertakers in an advertisement in a Chicago daily, calls attention to what it considers the unfair custom among police officers in turning over bodies of accident victims to the nearest undertaker, who takes advantage of this windfall by charging an exorbitant price for his services. Evidently this work shop of the protesting undertakers is not located in a good business section or where the cops reap their heaviest harvest of dead bodies. It would also appear that accidents do not figure so largely in the police officers' sideline as one not acquainted with Chicago might believe.

• • •

THE advertisement reads; "If you find one of your friends about to be victimized under such circumstances, warn him! Suggest to him that he visit either of the two . . . establishments . . . ." The prospective corpse, on receiving the intimation that he is a candidate for the attentions of a gunman's fist is plainly told that it is his duty as a good citizen, to strike a blow at extortion by becoming a client of a firm which specializes in decent funerals at low costs. Gunmen are growing so loquacious nowadays that no citizen has an excuse to neglect his funeral arrangements.

• • •

MORGAN'S new $100,000,000 loan to France will pay that worthy seven per cent. It has twenty-five years to go. Morgan is betting against the social revolution, but whether he is over optimistic or not, will not make so much difference to him personally. It is not likely that he will be encumbering the earth with his presence twenty-five years from now. And it is not at all likely, that capitalism will be on top in France, when the loan term expires.

• • •

THE hubbub in the Chicago police department continues. So does the mystery of Dean O'Banion's death. Hughes, the banqueting companion of O'Banion is out. Hughes is also a relative of State's Attorney Crowe, republican. Those who fired Hughes are democrats. Glaring evidence of Crowe's carelessness in dealing with gunmen is coming to light. Crowe was a fearless enforcer of the law against—striking garment workers' pickets. The gunmen were immune because they make good sluggers, in strikes, on the side of the bosses and good ballot box thieves. The plan for murder, despite all efforts to keep it in the grave, is a disagreeable nightmare to the capitalist lackeys who rule Chicago.

• • •

WHEN the Workers Party was planning to get out a Communist daily, the New Leader, successor to the New York Call, passed out of the picture. "This is a bad omen" said some comrades who feared The DAILY WORKER would have a short life. But the reason for the demise of the yellow socialist sheets is their betrayal of the workers. The reason for the flourishing condition of The DAILY WORKER, is its vigorous and uncompromising fight for the interests of the workers. And the workers will show their appreciation of The DAILY WORKER by insuring it for 1925. Every militant reader of our daily should have an insurance policy in his possession to demonstrate his interest in labor's fighting organ. Take out your insurance policy now!

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

BALDWIN TO WAR ON EGYPTIANS

A. F. of L. Convention Nears End

AMSTERDAMERS READY TO MEET GOMPERS' TERMS

To Drop 'Objectionable Features'

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 24.—In my interviews with the fraternal delegates from the British and German trade union movements concerning the dispatch sent out on Nov. 18, by Kenneth Clark, Hearst correspondent at the American Federation of Labor convention, to the effect that private conferences had been held between the federation leaders and these fraternal delegates from Britain, Germany, Canada and Mexico, out of which a call was expected for a world labor gathering looking to a definite union of world labor organizations under the guidance of the A. F. of L., such conferences were denied, but A. B. Swales of the Trade Union Congress of Great Britain and leader of the Amsterdam International, admitted that if the American Federation wished to join Amsterdam, the latter would drop some of its "objectionable features."

Grassman Is Evasive.

Peter Grassman, vice-president of the German Federation of Trade Unions and member of the unity committee of the Amsterdam International, denied positively that there had been any attempt to start a new international. He expressed surprise that Hearst had sent out such a story and had no idea where the rumor originated.

Grassman was very evasive when asked as to the policy of the Amsterdam International toward revolutionary class unity and said he was not optimistic of unity between Amsterdam and the Red International of Labor Unions, saying that they disagreed on the numerical representation. The unity meeting called for December had been postponed, he said, on account of his visit to America and the German elections.

Gets Tangled on Dawes Plan.

Grassman's apology for acceptance of the Dawes plan was that it gave Germany "a breathing spell." But he admitted to me that the Dawes plan only complicated matters in the long run. When I asked him if, by paying two and a half billion marks per year in reparations the conditions in Germany for the workers would not get worse instead of better and lead to either war or revolution, he said he hoped it would not.

Swales Ready to Weaken Amsterdam.

A. B. Swales, chairman of the English Trade Union Congress and most influential in the Amsterdam International, denied other knowledge of the alleged plan to form a new international under the hegemony of the American Federation of Labor, than what he had read in the Hearst news dispatch referred to above. He asserted he knew of no conferences called for discussion of this subject.

As to the possibility of the Amsterdam International being forced to a

(Continued on page 3)

Communist Vote in Presidential Election Is Not Counted

Statement by the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party

ACCORDING to the estimates of the Central Executive Commitee of the Workers Party of America the national Communist ticket received not less than 100,000 votes. This estimate is based on reports from our local organizations which show in addition that the servants of the old parties, Ku Kluxers, Knight of Columbus and Fascisti reactionaries generally, have brazenly robbed our party of the votes cast for its candidates in the last elections. A special letter from the Central Executive Committee has gone out to every branch of the party to conduct a thoro investigation in their localities to establish as far as it is possible the true vote cast for our party. We must utilize the election methods of the capitalist government to expose in a concrete manner the sham and camouflage of capitalist democracy.

At the same time it must be borne in mind that even the correct Communist vote in the elections—approximately 100,000 does not reflect the true strength and influence of the Workers Party of America. It must be remembered that there are in the United States hundreds of thousands of workers and poor farmers who are totally disfranchised and therefore have no means of expressing their opinions in elections. These masses of disfranchised toilers, the unorganized, unskilled workers and poorest sections of the farmers are the most oppressed and persecuted part of the American working class. It is from among these proletarians and semi-proletarians that our party derives its main strength. Consequently the influence of Communism and of the Workers Party should be measured not alone by the 100,000 votes cast for our presidential candidates but also by the support and confidence given to the Workers Party on numerous occasions by large masses of the disfranchised toilers in America.

However, it is very important that the American workers get a true idea of the so-called "fairness" and "democracy" of the capitalist government—and for this reason the party branches are urged once more to expose and bring to light every single instance of failure to count our vote and immediately transmit the information to the Central Executive Committee.

Central Executive Committee,
Workers Party of America.
William Z. Foster, Chairman.
C. E. Ruthenberg, Executive Secretary.

4,000 VOTES FOR COMMUNISM IN WISCONSIN POLL

Party in Good Showing in LaFollette's State

By G. S. SHKLAR.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

MILWAUKEE, Wisc., Nov. 24.—The Workers Party went over the top in Wisconsin with flying colors!

The latest report published by the secretary of state showed that the Workers Party candidate for governor, Comrade Severi Alaane received 4,069 votes, and William Z. Foster, Workers Party candidate for president, received 3,760 votes.

The apparent discrepancy between the presidential and gubernatorial vote is due to the fact that many voters did not vote the party ticket correctly by placing a cross opposite each name and consequently their vote was lost.

All Power to the Workers!

The demonstration of Communist strength in this state is very significant in view of the fact that the fight was carried on against the capitalist front from Davis and Coolidge to the opportunists and reformists from Debs to Gompers and LaFollette.

The fight was carried on a straight Communist program and under the slogan of "All Power to the Workers."

Bankruptcy of Socialist Party.

The socialist party of Wisconsin paid a dear price for its stupidity and betrayal. At a crucial moment in the election campaign, LaFollette gave his endorsement to Blaine, candidate for governor on the republican party

(Continued on Page 2.)

Will Beg From All Three Capitalist Parties

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Tex., Nov. 24.—The American Federation of Labor decided definitely today that it would take no share whatever in forming any new political party in the United States.

Swabeck Speaks Tonight.

District Organizer Arne Swabeck, will speak on the tactics of the Communist International at the educational meeting of North West English branch, tonight at 8 p. m. All branch members and sympathizers are urged to attend. The meeting will be held at the Workers' Lyceum, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

U. S. GOVERNMENT SHARES IN LOOT FROM GERMANY

Billions Will Be Paid Thru Workers' Toil

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Germany's debt to the United States, amounting to approximately half a billion dollars, will be paid thru the same agency that German debts to France and her allies will be discharged—the Dawes plan—it was confirmed here today.

U. S. Gets German Dough.

The United States will share in the payments Germany makes on a prorata basis with other governments. Official admission that this agreement had been worked out was made in the French chamber by M. Clementel, the minister of finance, and officials here confirmed it.

This government has contended from the beginning of the reparations problem that it should be entitled to its share of the moneys extracted from Germany—not for reparations—but to discharge German obligations to the United States among them the cost of maintaining American forces in the Rhineland.

New Italian Cable in February.

ROME, Nov. 24.—The new Italian cable to New York will be ready for service early in February, Minister Ciano informed the senate.

MILITANT BLOC SHOWS STRENGTH IN STEEL UNION

Tighe Machine Is Badly Shaken, Vote Shows

(Special to the Daily Worker)

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Nov. 24.—The progressive bloc in the Amalgamated Iron, Steel and Tin Workers' Union have shown remarkable strength in this key organization of the steel industry in the election just concluded.

The Tighe machine is still in office but it has been badly shaken by the militant campaign of the left wing organized around the Workers Party and the Trade Union Educational League.

Even the official count gives the left

(Continued on Page 2.)

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

ROSEN, PROGRESSIVE CARPENTER BEATS HUTCHESON IN DETROIT

By A. OVERGAARD
(Special to The Daily Worker)

DETROIT, Nov. 24.—Mike Rosen, progressive candidate for international president of the International Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners, against William Hutcheson, the reactionary incumbent, carried Detroit by a majority of 23 votes, despite a campaign of villification and slander led by General Organizer Botterill and his local satellites.

These attacks were instrumental in many wavering carpenters voting for Hutcheson. The campaign which succeeded in putting Rosen over in Detroit, was carried on under the banner of the Trade Union Educational League and it is the first attempt made in this city to challenge the reactionary leadership of the present officialdom of the Carpenters' Union.

GOMPERS WEARS NO-PARTY CLOAK AS WALL ST. AID

Nonpartisanship Means Backing Old Parties

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 24.—Somewhat on a par with Gompers' assertion that he did not endorse "a third party movement" in the past election, is the statement in the last paragraph of the report of the executive council on the recent campaign and the question of political activity where it is advocated that, "The American labor movement must be as free from political party domination now as at any time in the history of our movement." Actually this means subordination to capitalist parties.

Permanent Campaign Committee.

To accomplish this, a program is proposed which is devised effectually to defeat any movement to bring the labor unions into a real labor party, by giving them something "just as good" in the form of non-partisan campaign committees to be maintained permanently.

This is called "extending the political activity of the American labor movement." Actually this means to go along with discontented groups of labor and steer them back to capitalist parties as promptly as possible.

This shown also by the proposal that labor should in future participate in primary elections, as well as in the final elections, thus making the "rewarding of friends and punishment of enemies" begin earlier and become more nearly connected with capitalist political parties.

Recommendations of A. F. of L.

The following is a summary of these future political activities as put out by the publicity service of the A. F. of L. convention:

"In the direction of extending the political activity of the American labor movement it is recommended:

"That all non-partisan political campaign committees be maintained on a permanent basis;

"That particular attention be paid to the political organization of women in the trade union movement and in trade union families;

"That the present cumbersome ballot be so changed as to make independent voting easier;

"That changes in laws be advocated where necessary, to make the functioning of independent political movements more readily effective;

"That labor participate more generally than heretofore in primary elections;

"That a plan be devised whereby forward-looking groups composed of persons who are not trade unionists may be enlisted in labor's non-partisan political campaigns.

Hurrican Sweeps Norway.

CHRISTIANA, Nov. 24.—Norway was swept by a hurrican today which destroyed many houses, levelled whole forests and sent many fishing craft to destruction, several large trawlers were sunk.

BRITISH FLEET ORDERED READY TO SHELL CAIRO

British Cabinet Breaks 1922 Agreement

(Special to the Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 24.—Strong detachments of British troops have been ordered into the Sudan to replace the ousted Egyptians, the war office announced today. Artillery corps under mobilization left Aldershot today under orders to sail to India.

The British Mediterranean fleet, stationed at Malta, has been ordered to be in readiness to proceed to Cairo at short notice. The British tory government is getting ready to gobble up Egypt completely.

As pointed out in previous dispatches, the death of General Lee Stack was picked upon as a favorable opportunity to take back all the concessions granted to Egypt in 1922, when the empire was in sore straits.

Hypocritical British Rulers.

The tory press agents now announce that Egypt is unable to govern herself, therefore the benevolent British ruling class in the interests of Egypt as well as in the general interests of civilization must step in and restore order.

That Britain had such an eventuality as this in mind when it issued its proclamation in 1922, conceding a fake independence to Egypt was evident from the wording of that declaration which read that any interference by another power between Egypt and Britain would be considered an unfriendly act.

League Kicked in Slats.

Great Britain will not even tolerate an appeal by Egypt to the league of nations. The league has its weak spots, one of them being the provision that before a decision can be considered on the signatory powers, it must be unanimous. It is possible that Japan might endanger the unanimity

As usual the yellow socialists and labor bureaucrats in England are indulging in their stock platitudes against the action of the tory government. The Communists alone urge the British workers to take action and prevent the ruling class from carrying out its brutal intentions against the exploited people of Egypt.

Ruthless British Policy.

The British are expected to take steps today toward the expulsion of Egyptian forces from the Sudan, forcing compliance with this demand in the British note. It still is problematical whether the native Sudanese forces, under British officers, will be used for this purpose.

The government has been given full use of the police to preserve order. The steel helmeted officers are parading the streets on the watch for any signs of outbreak.

The students' strike in protest to the British demands continued today despite orders of the minister of education to return to their studies. Police have been called on frequently to break up minor disturbances.

A squadron of airplanes has been sent from Cairo to Tanta. Agitation there already reported may break out into violence.

British Order Flogging.

The British governor of Ansura ordered the flogging of students who started an anti-British demonstration.

General Allenby made a trip to the hospital today and presented 1,000

(Continued on Page 2.)

"BIG BIZ" EXTENDED THE PLATOON IDEA FOR THE SCHOOLS DURING "WEEK"

(Special to The Daily Worker)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—The platoon schools are rapidly being extended, it was learned from the bureau of education during "education week." Of the large cities of the country Detroit has 80 platoon schools, Philadelphia has 43, Pittsburgh 38, Dallas 27, Birmingham 23, St. Paul 18, Newark and Akron 17 each, Sacramento 13 and Dayton 8.

The platoon schools are urged by the manufacturers associations because they turn out manually trained workers who have not been taught to think.

COAL BARONS ARREST MINERS ON FRAMED-UP DYNAMITE CHARGE

(Special to The Daily Worker)

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 24.—Sixteen miners were arrested at Grant Town, near here early today on trumped up charges of attempting to dynamite the Grant Town mines of the New England Fuel and Transportation company.

Heavy guards are being maintained by Sheriff J. N. Charlton at Grant Town to prevent trouble threatening there since the company opened on an open shop basis.

MOVE WOOLEN PLANT AND EMPLOYES FROM INDIANA AND ILLINOIS

LA PORTE, Ind., Nov. 24.—Announcement has been made at Mexico, Ind., that the large woolen plant in that town will be dismantled and the machinery moved to Rochelle, Ill., where the industry will be re-established. About fifty families will move to Rochelle from the Indiana town. Indiana stockholders in the plant at Mexico are protesting the removal.

Insure The Daily Worker for 1925

4,000 VOTES FOR COMMUNISM IN WISCONSIN POLL

Party in Good Showing in LaFollette's State

(Continued from page 1)

ticket, while the socialist party threw its entire support to LaFollette and had his picture prominently displayed on all of its campaign posters.

The socialists miscalculated assuming that the LaFollette vote will go to the socialists who have meekly submitted to his dictatorship. But Berger is now wailing that he has been betrayed by the LaFollette supporters.

The results of elections indicate that while LaFollette received 453,678 votes, the LaFollette republican candidate for governor, Blaine received the lion's share of LaFollette's votes, 412,355 votes, which LaFollette-socialists received only 45,257 votes.

In the face of this betrayal, confusion and demoralization, the Workers Party carried thru with meager resources a class fight and registered over 4,000 votes for its candidates.

Berger Almost Loses Scalp.

"Comrade" Berger almost lost his seat in congress, winning by a very small margin. In the previous elections Berger carried by a large majority altho he was opposed by a candidate representing the combined forces of republican and democratic parties.

In this election it was a three-cornered fight and even under these circumstances Berger was almost defeated. The general vote shows that the socialist party received a much smaller percentage of total votes.

While this year a very heavy vote was cast approximately 20 per cent higher than in previous elections, the socialist party records a very small increase. It may be expected that Berger will continue to masquerade under the "socialist" banner, since the betrayal did not pay. He will still retain support of the socialist party until such time that he can land on the rocks of the so-called independent movement. However he is very careful lest his erstwhile friends should get away with his watch while he is licking their boots.

Lost Without a Trace.

The socialist party machinery and membership is badly disorganized and soon the fatal report of "lost without a trace" will record the true status of the socialist party. It is interesting of note that the socialist party lost its place on he ballot thru its failure to place its own candidate for president as the law of Wisconsin provides that the status of a party is determined by the number of votes it receives for its presidential electors.

Minor Parties Absorbed by LaFollette.

The prohibition party also lost its place on the ballot, receiving only 2,526 votes for its electors while on the state ticket this party received 11,423 votes. The margin of 8,500 votes going apparently to LaFollette. It appears that the followers of the socialist labor party also voted for LaFollette since their candidate for president received only 413 votes while their state candidate polled 1,487 votes. The Workers' Party was the only party that received consistent support both on state and national tickets.

Rebel Socialists Support Communists.

The survey of election reports indicate that the Workers' Party received votes in the strong socialist wards and even in such places where very little propaganda was carried on by the Workers' Party. It is reported that several members were expelled from the S. P. for opposition to Berger's LaFollette betrayal.

Communism Haunts Berger.

The results of elections clearly indicate that the Workers' Party stands on the eve of real growth and development. From now on the history of American labor movement will witness the decline of reformistic parties and the growth in strength and influence of the Workers' (Communist) Party. The future belongs to Communism!

Police Protect Strikebreakers.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Pa., Nov. 24.—State police have been called here to protect strikebreakers of the Unrivaled Hosiery Mills. Two hundred girls walked out last June against a ten per cent cut. Burgess Shadel has banned parading by strikers.

These Militant Miners!

A splendid article on one section of these workers you will find in

"THE ROCKY MOUNTAIN MINERS"

By JACK LEE.

In the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

OUT NOW!

BROOKHART WINS BY NARROW MARGIN, THE OFFICIAL COUNT SHOWS

DES MOINES, Ia., Nov. 24.—Senator Smith W. Brookhart was officially declared winner in Iowa's senatorial race by the executive council of the state this afternoon, with 447,708 votes against 446,951 cast for Dan F. Steck, democrat, and 1,124 for Luther Brewer, independent republican.

STOLE THOUSAND FOSTER VOTES IN ALLEGHENY

Ballots Not Counted in Many Places

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 24.—At least 1,000 votes were stolen in Allegheny county alone from Wm. Z. Foster, Workers Party candidate in the election, according to the calculations of local Communists as reckoned from the returns given by the election commissioners.

Foster was, according to the returns, given only 648 votes in Allegheny county, altho John S. Otis, Workers Party candidate for state treasurer was given 1,677 votes and Edward Horvach, candidate for auditor general got 1,496.

In the congressional field, Otto Yeager of the Workers Party got 494 votes, in the 33rd district, Anton Horvat, 218 in the 32nd district and Max Davidson 160 in the 34th district.

In the state legislative districts the Workers Party had candidates in five out of thirteen districts. The vote ran as follows: First district, Louis Cohen, 80 votes and Samuel Moskovitz, 67 votes. Two offices were to be filled in some districts accounting for two party candidates. In the seventh district, Peter Manas got 77 votes and Fred Randa 54. In the eighth district, Andrew Borich received 143 votes and Susie Kendra 141. In the ninth district, Wm. P. Mikades got 189 votes, running alone. The tenth district had four candidates, Theodore Mower getting 353 votes; Morris Schlinder, 289; Milan Wijnovic, 249; and Hazel Yeager, 279 votes.

From McKeesport, Pennsylvania, it is reported that the Workers Party polled 189 votes.

Sioux City Vote.

The DAILY WORKER has received from Sioux City, Iowa, a copy of the Sioux City Daily Tribune, showing the "official totals" of Woodbury county, Iowa, in the election.

The town of Sioux City is given first, precinct by precinct, showing 65 votes for Foster in the city. Then the country vote is shown, by townships, with eight votes—making 73 in all.

But the explanation of the figures came along with the clipping in the form of a letter concerning the precinct vote in Sioux City. It says: "Kindly note that in the 9th precinct of Sioux City, where I, and two more men, I am sure, voted for Foster, there is no record of it at all in the figures given—the ninth precinct, it shows cast no votes for Foster. This will give you an idea how the votes are stolen. I am not a Communist but I can see the reason for being one."

Vote in Elmira, N. Y.

ELMIRA, N. Y.—The board of election commissioners of Chemung county were not overly inclined to count Communist votes, according to the county tabulation. Foster got only 14 votes on the presidential ticket for governor, James P. Cannon got 28 votes; for lieutenant-governor, Franklin P. Brill, 59; secretary of state, Lilly Lore, Communist candidate, got 39 votes; Abraham Epstein for comptroller, 115; Edward Lindgren, treasurer, 52; for attorney-general, Arthur S. Leads received 63 votes; and for state engineer, Richard J. Verhagen received 45 votes.

Eighteen Communist Farmers

HARLAN, Iowa. — To the DAILY WORKER: Gentlemen:—Enclosed recent vote of this county, Shelby county, Iowa. Foster got 18 votes in this a farming community. Respectfully, A. W. Barton.

* * *

Vote in Rice County, Minn.

FARIBAULT, Minn., Nov. 24.— I have been furnished the official count on the Workers' Party for this (Rice) county, which shows that Foster and Gitlow for president and vice-president received 35 votes; the socialist labor party, 33. In the town of Wells—a farming district exclusively—5 votes were cast for Foster-Gitlow. In the town of Erin, another farming district, 4 votes were cast for us.

We put out 1,000 copies of the national platform and 150 DAILY WORKERS in Rice county.

Supreme Court Drops Minimum Wage Test Case.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—The United States supreme court today dismissed for want of jurisdiction a case testing the validity of the Milwaukee minimum wage scale on public works.

A city ordinance requires this scale to be paid by contractors and subcontractors on city works to all their employes. Validity of the law was challenged by Herman A. Wagner, as a tax payer.

JUNIOR GROUPS BACK ANTI-RED WEEK FIGHTERS

Children Tell How They Fought Cal's Dope

Resolutions pledging support to Comrade Rose Plotkin, who was persecuted by her teacher for fighting education week, and thanking the Young Workers League members who co-operated to fight anti-Communist education week, were unanimously passed at the last mass meeting of the junior groups.

Thelma Kahn talked on education week, and the children from the various schools reported on how they fought.

Tell of Ousting.

Comrade Kahn told how the teachers from the Crieger school, and the owner of Emmet Memorial Hall, threw the children of Minnie Lurye's group out in the street and refused to allow Comrade Lurye into the hall. Comrade Kahn then told how Comrade Lurye addressed the children on the street, while the dicks from the Crieger school looked on.

When Comrade Lurye went to meet her group in an empty lot at the corner of Armitage and Taylor streets, Sunday, to take them to the junior mass meeting, she found a truant officer from the Crieger school there. The truant officer sent a prospective junior home, and scared some of the others away from the meeting. Some older pupils were watching in a butcher shop nearby. They were sent by Miss Tobin, browbeating principal of the Crieger school.

One of the children who came to find out about the juniors, told Comrade Lurye, their teacher in the Crieger school had told them, "You will be sent to federal court if you attend the junior meeting. The federal court is a place where children are punished if they don't believe in the American flag."

Pass Resolution of Protest.

The resolution protesting against the persecution of Rose Plotkin declared, "It has come to the attention of the juniors that one of the most active members of the Chicago section —Rose Plotkin—has been made the victim of capitalist persecution during national education week. Her teacher, who successfully does whatever the big bosses order, found out about the junior mass meeting in her district and she wanted to prevent all the working class children from going to the meeting.

"She gave all the children who might go to the meeting extra long and hard home work to do. Poor Comrade Rosie couldn't go to the meeting, and had to stay home. She worked so hard that she got sick and could not even go to school the next day. And when she finally appeared at school the teacher accused her of missing school because of the junior group. Not only did she not believe our comrade, but she put Rose—the brightest in the class—at the very foot of the class and then even sent her home.

"We, the juniors of Chicago, in mass meeting assembled, pledge our co-operation to Comrade Rose and pledge our support to any comrade who gets in trouble because of trying to learn the truth about our class and give our pledge to do our part in the working class struggle for freedom."

Both resolutions were unanimously passed by the 150 children present.

Leo Koretz, Swindler De Luxe, Is Caught At Halifax, N. S.

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 24.—Canada's legal machinery moved swiftly today to complete arrangements for the extradition of Leo Koretz, swindler de luxe.

The suave Chicagoan who took millions from his friends and eluded arrest for nearly a year, spending the last seven months and many thousands of his plunder in ostentatious splendor here, was arrested quietly at a Halifax hotel by Chicago and provincial officers.

NOTICE CLEVELAND!

A big let's get acquanted "Penny Social" sponsored by the newly organized East Side English Branch, Young Workers' League, will take place Friday, Nov. 28, at the Workers Party headquarters, 5927 Euclid Ave., Room 13. In addition to a fine musical program, added attractions have been arranged, including dancing, refreshments, novelties, prizes, and many surprises. Come and bring your friends. Fun starts at 8 p. m.

Police Get Busy Again.

Wholesale indictments of police chiefs, precinct captains and lieutenants and patrolmen was threatened here today as Coroner Oscar Wolff invoked a new method of application of the Volstead act in connection with the inquest into the death of Eddie Tancl, ex-pugilist and gangland's "square-shooter," shot and killed in his Hawthorne Park inn yesterday.

REPUBLICAN PARTY GRAFTER WHO ROBBED VETS GOES ON TRIAL

An effort of government attorneys to consolidate the indictments against Col. Charles R. Forbes, former head of the United States Veterans' Bureau and John W. Thompson, St. Louis and Chicago contractor, failed here today as the two went on trial on charges of bribery and conspiracy. The charges grew out of defrauding of the government in connection with the erection of Veterans' Bureau hospitals.

The trial is expected to consume about a week.

CONVENTION OF C. R. O. M. ENDS AT JUAREZ, MEX.

Supports Calles' Bow to Wall Street

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

(Special to The Daily Worker)

JUAREZ, Mexico, Nov. 24.—The sixth convention of the Mexican Federation of Labor (Confederacion Regional Obrera Mexicana) ended here Sunday night after a week's sessions largely devoted to making plain, thru its homage to Gompers, its support of the submission of the Mexican government to American imperialism.

Class Collaboration to Pay.

The convention received a message from the Mexican government stating that all its financial transactions with the United States would hereafter be thru the labor banks set up by union officials.

Another influence exercised by the Mexican government is its promise to buy only union-made locomotives and machinery, and to compel all Mexicans who return from a foreign land to join a union in the nearest town. No mention of the method of compulsion is made.

"Just Like Debs."

A resolution was passed demanding the release of Rangel and Cline from the Texas penitentiary, but making no demand upon the A. F. of L. for its forces to be summoned into action for this purpose.

Nellie Nearing, wife of Scott Nearing, liberal economist, presented a bust of Eugene V. Debs to the Mexican Federation and referred to Debs as the "greatest socialist in the world." Presumably Mrs. Nearing had never heard of Lenin. Salcedo, personal representative of the Mexican government of Calles, replied that Mexico, like Debs, was "following the path of socialism." Indeed, they do seem to be following the same path—but not of socialism.

Grooming Morones for Job

Edurado Moneda is elected the new secretary of the Mexican federation, to hold office one year. Ricardo Trevino, in a final speech, glorified Luis N. Morones, the labor faker who, in a fight in the chamber of deputies, was wounded a few days before the convention. Morones was hailed as the great chief of Mexican labor, and it is current gossip that he is being prepared to succeed Calles as president of Mexico.

Militant Bloc Shows Its Strength in Steel Union

(Continued from Page 1.)

wing candidates almost 50 per cent of the vote.

There is a real left wing movement gaining headway in this union and it will be given added vigor by the obvious election manipulation of the Tighe machine.

Lose By Narrow Margin.

Reports from the headquarters of the Amalgamated Association of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers indicate that by a boldfaced theft of votes the progressive candidates were counted out, by a narrow margin, by the machine of M. F. Tighe, and his gang has been "returned" to office by the "tabulation of ballots" of the International Canvassing Board.

This board, composed of Edward Miller, John A. Lowell, H. D. Hollis, James J. Phillips, Herbert H. Lapp and Robert Beeside, met in the office of the international last week and fixed up the election results to suit the old guard of Tighe and company.

Tighe's Gang Makes Arithmetic.

Not one of the progressives was allowed to win by this "canvassing board" which counted out some of the progressive candidates by as close a margin as 200 or 300 votes, while giving Tighe 1,000 votes more than Wedell, the progressive candidate. Out of the 5,000 votes cast, Jennings was beaten, according to count, by 700 votes by D. J. Davis for secretary-treasurer, while Frank Marshall of Warren, Ohio, lost the vice-presidency to Walter Larkin by only 500 votes.

This stealing of the election which clearly was going in favor of the progressives is one of the rankest outrages of the union bureaucrats in years and the rank and file of steel workers are indignantly protesting that the reactionaries will not be allowed to get away with this stealing of their union.

Tighe Helps Blacklist on Dolla.

Jacob Dolla, the militant steel worker who served several years in prison for his activity in the 1919 strike, and whose release was secured this year thru the movement set on foot for him by the Trade Union Educational League, is blacklisted everywhere, and in spite of Dolla's loyal sacrifice for the union Tighe is doing nothing to help Dolla get work. He has been in both the Pittsburgh and the Detroit district and is refused work by every company. Apparently it is understood between Tighe and the steel trust that Dolla is to be driven out of the industry.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

Coolidge Crowd Invites LaFollette Group Into the Republican Caucus

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, the members of Morgan's congress, senators and representatives, are packing their grips and returning to Washington for the session opening Monday. This is not the meeting of the new congress elected early this month. It is the same congress that went on a vacation six months ago; so that its members could enter the election campaign and propagandize the masses for the maintaining of dollar rule in power.

The so-called "wise forefathers," who framed the "sacred American constitution" thought that the hot temper of the masses, stirred to white heat, might on some occasion not have time to cool during the month from the November elections to the early days of December. So the congress just elected will not go into office until March 4, 1924, when Coolidge is inaugurated, and it cannot be regularly called into session until next December.

* * *

Perhaps Coolidge will call a special session in the spring. Wall Street has nothing to fear from the new congress. It has 100 per cent control. No Communist will have a place there. The St. Paul machinist, J. F. Emme, was defeated by a small margin. He would have been a power for the cause of the workers. His defeat was due in great part to the betrayal of labor's cause by the Magnus Johnson-Hendrik Shipstead elements in the Minnesota Farmer-Labor Party. Altho a Communist, Emme was nominated on the Farmer-Labor ticket.

But the pussyfooting reactionaries in the Minnesota Farmer-Labor movement would rather see the democratic spokesman of the landlords, the railroads, the banks and grain gamblers elected, than the Communist champion of the working class.

* * *

Shipstead is already back in Washington awaiting his reward. Magnus Johnson, who originally claimed he lost because of the handicap of the LaFollette campaign, is going to put up a fight for the seat he lost, charging the bootleg vote took it from him.

Shipstead complains that the workers and farmers went to Coolidge because of distrust in their own ability to run their affairs better than the bankers are running them. But it is the Shipsteads and the Johnsons who have fought every effort of the workers and farmers to build up their own class power so that they would have a weapon with which they could confidently enter the struggle against their capitalist oppressors.

It is very significant that invitations have been sent to Senators LaFollette, Ladd, Frazier and Brookhart to attend the conference of republican senators to be held Friday. This quartet fought the Coolidge ticket in the campaign. LaFollette promised "the new party after the elections." He said, "No new party was ever organized before the elections." But he has now received an invitation to join with the other republican supporters of the strikebreaker president just as if he had been "regular" all during the campaign. Up to the present writing none of these invitations has been rejected.

* * *

All indications are that the LaFollette group in the house and senate will accept every crumb that is thrown to them. All threats of reading the LaFollites out of the G. O. P. have died down. Instead there is the weaker threat that some of their committee assignments will be hit. But Representative John M. Nelson, LaFollette's campaign manager, confidently proclaims from Washington, where he has also arrived early, that the republicans will be "too wise for that."

* * *

This is Nelson's confession that the republican managers in congress know that they can use the LaFollette group for their own purposes; that they can safely hamstring them when occasion demands.

Gompers, in the American Federation of Labor convention, at El Paso, Texas, declares he never deserted his nonpartisan policy of boring within the old parties. Under his direction the convention takes a stand against any "new party."

So the LaFollette elements in congress, with hat in hand, will return to the republican fold, claiming they had never had any serious intentions of leaving it. They will be received with joy according to the reception given all penitent, home-returning prodigals. Ladd and Frazier will take another week-end trip down the Potomac River, with the "Strikebreaker" Coolidge as their host on the presidential yacht, "Mayflower".

* * *

All this must be revealing to the great masses of workers and farmers who thought they were being led into a real struggle against big business under the LaFollette standards. These masses now find themselves betrayed and deserted. The overwhelming majority, the class conscious workers and farmers among them will not return to the Wall Street parties. They must turn to the Communist leadership of the Workers Party. They must and will organize their class power for real victories in the future under the standards of the Workers (Communist) Party.

East Pittsburgh Dance Tomorrow.

EAST PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 24.—The East Pittsburgh City Central Committee will hold a dance on Wednesday, Nov. 26, at 8 p. m. at Workers' Home, corner of Electric and North Aves.

All party members should make it a point to be there. Bring your friends with you as there will be enjoyment and fun for all.

Wood Helps Out Bank.

MANILA, Nov. 24.—Gov. Gen. Leonard Wood today signed the bill providing for the absorption by the government of the $30,000,000 losses sustained by the Philippine National Bank. The bank was closed over a year ago as a government institution. The bill also provides for the reimbursement of losses incurred by private stockholders in the bank.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

BRITISH FLEET ORDERED READY TO SHELL CAIRO

British Cabinet Breaks 1922 Agreement

(Continued from Page 1.)

pounds sterling to the native police men who chased attackers attempting to disrupt a parade in Alexandria.

It is reported that martial law has been declared in Egypt and that British troops have seized the customs office in Alexandria. Both moves are within the province of Lord Allenby, British high commissioner in Egypt without consultation with London.

The cabinet's stern action over the death of Sir Lee Stack was applauded in the capitalist press today but there were whisperings of dissatisfaction in some circles.

Like Serbian Note.

The Daily Herald likens the British note to the demands made upon Serbia in 1914 and says. "We may pursue our policy of crushing a small nation without fear of incurring armed opposition from a state of our own size yet the consequences may be in the long run, disastrous enuf."

The Herald says the cabinet has struck a severe blow at the league of nations, ignoring Geneva and resorting to old style methods.

Compared to Mussolini.

On the other hand the London Daily Sketch says Premier Baldwin has taken the honors for stern action from Mussolini. The Times and Telegraph applaud the action as necessary to protect British interests.

The Morning Post raises the bogey of Bolshevism saying that Moscow is behind the Egyptian agitation.

* * *

Thieves Make Compact.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—France will keep an attitude of "hands off" in the British-Egyptian dispute, the foreign office announced today.

England promised to hold aloof from French administration in Morocco and France, in return, promised a similar attitude towards England in Egypt, in the Anglo-French treaty of 1904, the foreign office pointed out.

* * *

Robbers' League Impotent.

GENEVA, Nov. 24.—Doctor Mohamed el Guindy, Egyptian delegate to the opium conference here was waiting today for his government to instruct him to appeal to the league of nations' council in Egypt's conference with London over the assassination of Sir Lee Stack.

"I have not heard from my government," the doctor said, "but I am expecting instructions to appeal to the council for intervention if the British carry out their threatened extreme measures."

If Egypt Appeals.

The league secretaries are of the opinion that altho the league cannot take the initiative, because Egypt is not a member the council must take up the matter if Egypt appeals for intervention.

Dispatches received here are indications that Britain is opposed to the league intervening in what London regards as a matter to be adjusted between it and its colonies.

MARSHAL TUAN IS PROVISIONAL HEAD OF CHINA

PEKING, Nov. 24.—Marshal Tuan Chi Jui, for years famous as the leader of the powerful Anfu party in Chinese politics, was today formally installed as chief executive of the provisional government of China. The inaugural ceremonies were held in the buildings of the ministry of war and not in the presidential palace.

Chang Tso Lin, the Manchurian war lord who played an important part in ousting the Chihli party from control of the former Peking government headed by Marshal Tsao Kun, will arrive in the capital this afternoon. In spite of his absence several detachments of Chang's Fengtien troops participated in the inaugural ceremonies today.

The third member of the triumvirate now ruling China, Feng Yu Hsian, the christian general, is in Peking.

IN MEXICO

there is a stir in the ranks of Labor.

"LATIN-AMERICA PREPARES FOR GOMPERS"

By BERTRAM WOLFE

explains a great deal and connects the problems of Latin-American Labor with those of American workers for a better understanding.

Read it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

MINERS FIGHT REACTIONARIES IN OHIO FIELD

Sub-Dis. 5, of District 6, Enters Election

By DANIEL SPEHAR.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

YORKVILLE, O., Nov. 24.—The coal diggers of Sub-District 5, District 6, United Mine Workers of America, have a genuine live-wire progressive miners' committee.

They have endorsed the progressive miners' election program, are supporting the progressive slate for international officers and are entering the fight in their own sub-district with a complete progressive slate of their own.

For Sub-District Office.

The progressives in this field have entered the following candidates: For sub-district president, J. J. Hoge, Local 1840, Bellaire, Ohio; for sub-district vice-president, Frank Blahovec, Local 2069, Hopersville, Ohio; for sub-district secretary-treasurer, John Gross, Local 2262, Dilles Bottom, Ohio; for board members, Frank Sepich, Local 8562, Neffs, Ohio, and Con O'Kraska, Local 2526, Neffs, Ohio; for auditor committee, Joe Kobylak, Jr., Local 2069; Hopersville, Ohio; Jack Kostel, Local 971, Yorkville, Ohio, and Daniel Spehar, Local 1696, Yorkville, Ohio; for trustee committee, John Bukza, Local 971, Yorkville, Ohio, and Dominic Sambuco, Local 430, Bellaire, Ohio.

In a call which rings with working class resolution, the progressive miners' committee follow their slate with these words:

"Attention! Miners of Sub-District No. 5, of District No. 6, U. M. W. of A. Dear Sirs and Brothers: All the names on this list have faithfully accepted and endorse every word of the progressive miners' election program, and the candidacy on the international slate of George Voyzey, Arley Staples and Joseph Nearing, for president, vice-president and secretary-treasurer.

For Alliance With Railroaders.

"Would you like to see an alliance between the miners and our brothers, the railroad workers? Would you like to see the nationalization of the mines? Would you like to see every miner in the United States and Canada belong to our organization?

"Do you want to see our brother, Dominic Venturatto, and the other brothers in the state penitentiary at Moundsville, West Virginia, be properly supported?

"These things are our campaign program. If you agree with us, if you want to help us in this program, then vote for the above slate in our sub-district on December 12, 1924."

From England!

Most interesting news of the latest developments in the article

"THE LABOR PARTY CONFERENCE—AN UNREAL ASSEMBLY"

By HARRY POLLITT

You will find it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY—OUT NOW!

FOOD PRICES TOOK ANOTHER JUMP DURING MONTH OF OCTOBER

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Food prices thruout the country for the month of October increased 1.34 per cent over food prices for September, according to the report of bureau of labor statistics of the United States department of labor.

Twenty-three articles increased in price, as follows: fresh eggs, 15 per cent; lard, 7 per cent; pork chops and oranges, 5 per cent; flour, cornmeal, cornflakes and coffee, 4 per cent; bacon, navy beans, canned corn and granulated suger, 2 per cent; salmon, oleomargarine, cheese, wheat cereal, rice, canned tomatoes and tea, 1 per cent.

Pittsburgh Starts Educational Work For Party Members

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Nov. 24.—The election campaign in district five has shown that the party membership can be mobilized for intensive organization and propaganda work. On the other hand it proved that we are greatly in need of trained party workers.

With the view of supplying this need of the party, the district committee is considering plans for intensive educational work among the party members. Classes will be organized thruout the district and a lecture forum will be conducted in Pittsburgh and probably in one or two other cities.

Lovestone Launches Classes.

The lecture season will be started by Comrade Jay Lovestone. On Wednesday, November 26, 8 p. m., he will lecture on "Who Owns the United States Government?" at the Labor Lyceum, 35 Miller St., Pittsburgh. On Thursday, Nov. 27, 8 p. m. he will lecture on the N. S. at the International Lyceum, 805 James St., on "Workers! Your America—What Are You Going to Do With It?" Tuesday, December 2, 8 p. m. he will lecture in East Pittsburgh, at the Workers' Home, Electric and North Aves., on "Who Owns the United States Government?"

Comrade Lovestone's experience as a journalist and as the head of the research department is a guarantee that his lectures will be interesting and will contain a good deal of information that should be of interest to every class conscious worker. No reader of this paper should fail to attend.

Renounce American Citizenship.

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 24—Samuel Daniels and his brother Fred, have applied for passports to return to England and have renounced their American citizenship because their aged and sick mother was refused permission to enter the United States. The Daniels brothers were naturalized citizens born in England. They fought under the American flag during the world war.

A Correction

On Nov. 19 we carried an item regarding the improper usage by capitalist concerns the old name Petrograd for the city of Leningrad. The last sentence in this item contained an error. It should read "Now, however, due to the protest of many Russians, the city is rightfully named Leningrad."

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

Broadcasting a Message To Every Red Worker

By ALFRED WAGENKNECHT

CLEAR decks! Muscles tense for action! And then one united surge forward of every party member and DAILY WORKER friend in this new campaign!

It will be a novel campaign. Novel first, because ALL OF US are going to take part in it. This is a Central Executive Committee decision. Nothing will be on the boards but this. Your full time and energy must be given to it.

And the campaign will be unusual also in that it will be a one-two-three-go campaign. There will be no standing around, contemplating. You'll not sit down in a rocker and wonder whether you shall or shall not.

Everyone shall! All of us MUST! The work is before us. We'll do it! We'll do it QUICK! That is the kind of campaign we are going to make it.

* * * *

The other day a radio signal girdled the globe in five seconds. From New York to France. From France across the Balkan states, Persia, India to French Indo-China. From Indo-China to California. Then back again to New York. Five seconds! Stupendous achievement!

Today we are broadcasting. Our message must reach every comrade in double-quick time. Every comrade must give instantaneous response. And if every comrade does respond, the results of our call will be marvelous.

INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925! That is the message broadcast.

* * * *

This call must radiate into the heart and brain of every party member, of every reader of our press. Every district organizer, every language federation secretary, every editor of our 24 papers, every party official from the members of the Central Executive Committee to the branch secretaries will take position in the forefront of this immense project to write an endowment insurance policy for $50,000 for the DAILY WORKER, to mature at once.

Without subsidy or a single call for funds the DAILY WORKER has now for nearly a year been holding the fort in a battle against three thousand capitalist dailies. A year ago we were electrified with the announcement that the party had decided to publish an English Communist daily. By the end of 1923 we had $75,000 in hand.

A few months later and the DAILY WORKER was housed in its own building, was being printed by its own linotypes and press. For the many months we have behind us, the power that made the wheels of this big, red literature producing machine go 'round and 'round was the loyal support of the thousands of comrades, BUILDERS, who industriously gathered subscriptions and knew no rest.

* * * *

NOW WE CALL FOR HELP! This call is made because we show the wisdom you expect of us. It is made because we know that you understand the trials of a revolutionary labor daily. Our wisdom is shown in that we PLAN AHEAD. We have given the daily problem days of sound thought. A thoro survey of our financial responsibilities has been made. We know exactly where the DAILY WORKER is weak, where it is strong. We know to a dollar just what the needs are.

Understanding full well what is necessary to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925; understanding just how to proceed to make the daily bigger, better, brighter for the year to come, we are ACTING. Our call for help must produce activity in you. Together we will put this job over.

* * * *

Here is the program:

Insurance policies in $1, $5 and $10 denominations have been issued. Books of these policies have been sent to every branch secretary. If you are a party member, then buy your policy at your next branch meeting.

Friends of the DAILY WORKER, who are not Workers Party members, should buy their policy direct from the daily.

Organizations sympathetic to the daily and our movement and Workers Party branches should purchase one or more $10 policies out of the funds in their treasuries.

If there are any, who on account of unemployment, cannot buy a policy, well—these are not exempted from taking part in this campaign. All such comrades must undertake to sell a policy to some other worker. Policies should be sold to every worker who is willing to give the daily a lift. Policies should be sold at all meetings we hold.

* * * *

We intend covering their yellow with a coat of red. This is a big undertaking. There is lots of ground to cover. It means a world to win. And the world is not such a small place. And the United States is not such a small part of it.

A beginning has been made. We have a party. We have a daily. With these we go forth to build a revolutionary labor movement, to triumph over Wall Street and its bootblacks.

We progress, we advance, task by task.

Your next step is to BUY A POLICY!
Make the DAILY WORKER safe!
We've got it!
Let's keep it!
AND BUILD!!

Insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925!

You understand the need of a labor press. You know that this daily paper has the habit of landing stiff blows upon the beaks of all the buzzards of capitalism. You like that. What you like you should have plenty of. Therefore, pen in hand and fill out this blank:

THE DAILY WORKER, 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.

What I believe in is worth GIVING for. I want to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925. Send me a

(Check which denomination)

$10 $5 $1

INSURANCE POLICY

for which I enclose remittance herewith.

Name .....

Street .....

City..... State.....

AMSTERDAMERS READY TO MEET GOMPERS' TERMS

To Drop 'Objectionable Features'

(Continued from page 1)

more reactionary position to obtain the affiliation of the American Federation, Swales frankly admitted that Amsterdam would drop some of its "objectionable features." He said would join. However, Swales would not admit that the affiliation of the Russian trade unions was one of these "objectionable features." He said Amsterdam wanted the Russian unions. But he would not commit himself when pressed as to what his position would be if one of Gompers' conditions for his affiliation with Amsterdam was that the Russian unions must be kept out. He dodged discussion of unity with the Profintern (Red International of Labor Unions) by pleading ignorance.

Has No Policy on Dawes Plan.

In spite of his admission that the Dawes plan has already increased unemployment in England and that the English workers might have to give up more and more, and that it would probably lengthen the workday of British toilers, Swales said he "felt optimistic" because Grassman had assured him that the retreat of the German workers had stopped.

Swales himself had no policy for the English movement to take its share of the struggle against the Dawes plan, outside of electing another "labor" government. He appeared willing to leave all the fighting to the German workers, nor did he explain how the election of a new "labor" government would ameloriate the results of the Dawes plan when it was the past "labor" government which put it into effect.

ARMY OF LABOR FAKERS AT EL PASO GET SHIVERS OVER MEXICAN TRIP; MAY CALL OFF JAUNT OVER BORDER

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 24.—The labor fakers of the American Federation of Labor now in convention are becoming alarmed at the prospect of facing bullets in case they go on to Mexico City on the junket planned for them at the expense of the Mexican government to attend the inauguration of Elias Plutarco Calles.

This violent eventuality arises from the news, officially proclaimed by Enrique Salcedo, representative of Calles, who appeared before the closing day's session of the Mexican Federation of Labor (C. R. O. M.) at Juarez, and gave alarming reports of the new counter revolutionary movement, backed by British oil interests, now on foot to overthrow Calles, who is supported by Doheny and other American capitalists.

Gompers Guarded by Detectives.

The pleasant fiction that Gompers has helped Mexico and her labor movement in the election of Calles, has spread about so much that old Sam goes about with a bodyguard of city detectives. These are boon companions of the old faker who, no doubt, has become accustomed to fraternization with cops and dicks since at the Portland convention he was constantly attended by a lieutenant of police who drove his car for him and beat up a couple of by-standers who looked like workingmen and were therefore to be suspected.

This extraordinary precaution to guard the labor agent of American imperialism is to be extended to Mexico City, where Mexican officials promise that Gompers will be given a special guard.

Labor Fakers Crawfish.

The choice collection of overfed fakers in attendance at the convention are losing interest in going to Mexico City. The report of Salcedo, mentioned above, claims that General Angel Flores and Adolfo de la Huerta were concentrating forces along the border, especially at El Paso, Tucson, Douglas, Bisbee, Laredo and Las Cruces, and were ready to attack Mexico from the north about December 1. This is being countered by strong bodies of Mexican troops being sent north, expected any day in Juarez and operating from Chihuahua City.

In spite of Salcedo's assurance that the American delegates would be in no danger, they are not over enthused at the trip's possibilities. The fact that they are assured protection alone seems to make them nervous. They are promised two special pullman trains with diners, with a pilot train ahead and an armored car to be attached both front and rear of each train. But even at this, the trip to witness the inauguration of Calles at government expense is losing its charm for the fat boys.

Protest the Expense.

Reports are that some Mexican working-class papers are protesting at the government paying out an enormous sum of money to entertain Gompers and the other labor agents of northern imperialists, and are insisting that such money be devoted to aiding impoverished workers instead of wining and dining $$16,000$ a year labor fakers who can afford to go at their own expense if they feel any especial interest in the ceremony at Mexico City.

Problems of the Workers in

THE UNITED STATES
CANADA MEXICO
ENGLAND CHINA
ALL EUROPE AND AMERICA

In special features in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY—GET IT!

Are You Coming?

BAZAAR and DANCE

NOVEMBER 26, 27, 28, 29, 30

GRAND OPENING Wed. 8 P.M.
Admission Free

FOLKETS HUS, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.

First chance at most choice articles.

TALK BAZAAR ALL THIS WEEK!

Watch front page for announcements every day.

Can You Come?

Men and women comrades wanted to help. Carpenters for Wednesday morning.

Decorating of hall and booths, display of goods, etc. in afternoon.

Bring in articles donated in afternoon, otherwise as early in evening as possible.

SECOND PHILADELPHIA SHOWING
Of the New Russian Art Film

THE BEAUTY AND THE BOLSHEVIK

"A Romance of the Russian Red Army"
will be held

FRIDAY EVENING, NOV 28, 1924

TYRIAN HALL, N. W. Cor. Broad and Oxford Streets
TWO SHOWS—6:30 and 8:45 P. M.

TICKETS, 35 CENTS—On sale at Workers Party Office, 521 York Ave., Freiheit Office, 349 S. 5th St., Litvakoff's Drug Store, 1609 N. 43rd Street. Auspices, Workers Party.

Soviet Feature Is Anniversary Aid

The feature of the most successful meeting ever held in Milwaukee, in addition to four speakers, five singing societies and a group of young Russian dancers, was a one-reel movie picture of the "Life of Lenin." The last departed leader of the world's workers is shown in the prime of his life addressing hundreds of thousands of workers, at congresses laying down the fundamental policies thru which the proletariat can win its goal, in private life with his wife and friends, and finally in sickness and death, when the splendid Russian youth, "The Young Pioneers," change their name to his and forever perpetuate his work and spirit. Organizations that want to book this film for their Lenin meetings in January should put in application at once, to International Workers' Aid, 19 S. Lincoln St., Chicago, Ill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.— Senator William M. Butler of Massachusetts who takes his seat Dec. 1, succeeding the late Henry Cabot Lodge, will retain the chairmanship of the republican national committee, it was reported here today in administration circles.

NEW LIGHTS ON CHINA!

A most interesting interview with a great figure in the affairs of this country in

"A Visit with Sun Yat Sen"

By
Alfred Wagenknecht.

You can enjoy it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

That Sense of Satisfaction!

It comes of having real pleasure and information—and you will have both when you

"Heave This Brick Back"
to
THE DAILY WORKER

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Ill.

RATES
$6.00 a year $3.50-6 months $2.00 3 months
In CHICAGO—$8.00 a year $4.50 6 months $2.50 3 months

THE NEW SUBSCRIPTION TO BUILD
THE DAILY WORKER

NAME _____

STREET _____

CITY _____ STATE _____

SEND IT

BALDWIN AWAITS SOVIET REPLY TO BRITISH ATTACK

Cling Desperately to Charge About Letter

(Special to The Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 24.—The Baldwin government is awaiting a reply from the Russian Soviet government to the British note backing out of the Anglo-Russian treaties. Rakovsky has declined to discuss the Baldwin note which again brings up the alleged "Zinoviev forgery." The Baldwin government seems to be the only party to believe in the letter's authenticity.

Lie in Name of "His Majesty."

The foreign office has declared the belief that the "Zinoviev" letter is genuine, but is of course, unable to furnish any proof to satisfy the demand of the Soviet government. Even the London correspondent of the Chicago Tribune admits the letter to be a forgery.

Austen Chamberlain, Baldwin's minister of foreign affairs, in a note to Rakovsky, declares, despite utter lack of proof, that "information in the possession of his majesty's government leaves no doubt whatsoever in their mind of the authenticity of the Zinoviev letter, and his majesty's government are therefore not prepared to discuss the matter."

Threat Against Recognition.

Rakovsky, the Soviet representative in London, wrote to the British foreign office, declaring the Zinoviev letter to be an "impudent forgery," and stated the Soviet government "will insist on an adequate apology and punishment of both private and official persons involved in the forgery."

The conservative press upholding the Baldwin government is praising Baldwin's antagonistic attitude toward the Soviet government, which is looked on as an attempt to break off the de jure recognition established by the labor government with as good grace as possible.

Fear All Propaganda.

The Baldwin government has formally renounced the two treaties concluded with the Soviet government by Ramsay MacDonald and Arthur Ponsonby, the prime minister and foreign secretary in the labor government. The note on the Zinoviev forgery also took the Communists to task for "failure to check propaganda activities of the Communist International."

Thus treaties which the two governments had already signed, and which the MacDonald government had agreed to submit to parliament, are cancelled by the Baldwin government. It was the MacDonald government which refused to receive the Soviet note on the Zinoviev forgery, and "diplomatically" the Baldwin minister of foreign affairs has no knowledge of the Soviet note.

MacDonald Gave "Helping Hand."

It was, in fact, the MacDonald government which objected to the "activity of the Communist International" and it was Ponsonby and MacDonald who laid the basis for the present attack on Soviet Russia by the Baldwin government.

In his note of October 24, MacDonald observed that, "No one who understands the constitution and relationships of the Communist International will doubt its intimate connection and contact with the Soviet government.

Unity Against Soviet Rule.

"No government will tolerate an arrangement with a foreign government by which the latter is in formal diplomatic relations of a correct kind with it while at the same time a propaganist body organically connected with that foreign government, encourages and even orders the subjects of the former to plot and plan revolutions for its overthrow."

Thus MacDonald, whose secretary of foreign affairs dispatched the above note to Soviet Russia, and the Baldwin government, took similar attitudes toward the Soviet government.

NATIONAL COMMITTEE MEMBERS OF LABOR DEFENSE COUNCIL MEET TO PREPARE FOR GREATER ACTIVITY

At a special meeting of the national committee members of the Labor Defense Council held in Chicago the following agreement between the council and the Workers Party was entered into.

Agreement.

1. The Labor Defense Council will undertake to raise bail, conduct the legal defense and secure publicity in the cases of Workers Party members prosecuted anywhere in the United States or held for deportation, when charges in such cases involve the political or industrial opinions of these members. The Labor Defense Council reserves the right not to handle any particular case when, in the judgment of its executive committee, the case should be otherwise handled and the Workers Party reserves the right not to refer to the Labor Defense Council any case which it prefers to have handled otherwise.

2. The Workers Party will aid the Labor Defense Council in raising money for the defense of these cases by such means as are agreed upon between the two organizations, and agrees to set up no other legal defense machinery without the concurrence of the Labor Defense Council.

3. Altho the activities of the Labor Defense Council are free from control by the Workers Party, the council agrees to discontinue its activities for Workers Party members at any time, when in the judgment of the Workers Party they are no longer necessary or desirable.

Case of John Lassen.

The case of John Lassen, editor of the New York Hungarian Communist daily, came up for consideration. John Lassen is charged under federal postal laws with sending unmailable literature thru the mail. He had written and published in the paper a poem entitled "To Arms, To Arms," in which Coolidge, Horthy, the Hungarian tyrant, and other rulers were cited as objectives of proletarian attack. The New York branch of the Labor Defense Council has engaged Attorney Joseph Brodsky to defend Lassen. The defense declares that the language used in the poem is symbolic, Coolidge's name having been used to typify the system for which he stands. Lassen is out of $3,500 bail. Under the postal law, the maximum sentence is five years, and $5,000 fine.

The financial report disclosed that since June, 1924, nearly $4,000 has been paid out for legal and defense expenses and printing of briefs in the Ruthenberg, Kovakovich, Kush, Halonen and Vajtaurer cases. In July, August, September and October only $5,000 (approximately) was raised, at a cost of about 30 per cent. The funds came in mainly from Workers Party sources and worker's fraternal organizations, but responses to appeals to the working class are not as good as previously. This is due to the increasing shortage of money and the pressure of other appeals. In the face of such a condition, greater efforts will be made to reach out into the progressive and liberal field for funds, as well as moral support. Local branches of the Labor Defense Council, especially in the larger cities, raise funds by running affairs, etc., but in many instances they take care of local cases, engaging legal aid, paying necessary costs, etc. In this they are encouraged.

The meeting was attended by Edward C. Wentworth, Roger N. Baldwin, George Maurer, Moritz J. Loeb and Mary T. Ferguson.

New Committee Chosen.

Seven Chicago resident members were selected for the national executive committee. They are Edward C. Wentworth, Wm. H. Holly, Mary T. Ferguson, Moritz J. Loeb, George Maurer, David Rhys Williams and C. E. Ruthenberg. In addition George E. Hooker, Robert Morss Lovett, Edwin J. Kuh, Jr., and Miss Catherine Lille were approved as executive committee members. It was decided that an effort be made to get one or two trade unionists on, also.

It was decided to set up a legal advisory committee. Samuel H. Holland and Ernest R. Reichmann were approved as members thereof.

The secretary was asked to keep in close touch with executive committee members for advice on such matters as appeals, printed matter, etc., which must not of necessity wait for decisions of the executive committee.

The Labor Defense Council has benefitted considerably in the past by the advice and assistance of the American Civil Liberties Union and Roger Baldwin, and will continue to keep in close touch with them.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

Party Activities Of Local Chicago

Tuesday, Nov. 25.

Roumanian Branch, 2250 Cirbourn Ave.
Ukrainian No. 1, 1542 W. Chicago Ave.
N. W. English, 2733 Hirsch Blvd.
Irving Park English, 4021 Drake Ave.

Thursday, Nov. 27.

Labor Defense Bazaar, Workers Lyceum.
South Slavic No. 1, 1806 S. Racine Ave.
Finnish Branch, Imperial Hall, 2409 N. Halsted street.
South Side English, 3201 S. Wabash avenue.
Karl Marx Scandinavian, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard.
Russian No. 1, 1902 W. Division St.
11th Ward Italian, 2420 S. Oakley Blvd.
31st Ward Italian, 511 N. Sangamon St.
Mid-City English, Emmet Memorial Hall.
Scandinavian West Side, Zeich's Hall, corner Cicero and Superior St.

Friday, Nov. 28.

Scandinavian So. Chicago, 641 E. 61st street.

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE, LOCAL CHICAGO.

Tuesday, Nov. 25.

City Central Committee meeting, 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Wednesday, Nov. 26.

Browder's Class in Elementary Economics, 2613 Hirsch Blvd.

Thursday, Nov. 27.

Bazaar, Workers Lyceum.

Friday, Nov. 28.

Subject for discussion: "Seasonal Employment and Low Wages in the Mail Order Houses."
Area Branch No. 1—166 W. Washington St. Peter Herd, speaker.
Area Branch No. 2—722 Blue Island avenue.
Area Branch No. 3—3142 S. Halsted St. John Edwards, speaker.
Area Branch No. 4—3222 Douglas Blvd. Oliver Carlson, speaker.
Area Branch No. 5—820 N. Clark St.
Area Branch No. 6—2613 Hirsch Blvd. John Williamson, speaker.

PARTY ACTIVITIES NEW YORK CITY

The lower Bronx branches of the Workers' Party of New York will hold a dance and entertainment on Thanksgiving Eve, Nov. 26, at 8 p. m. in the Workmen's Circle Hall at 542 East 145th St. near St. Anns avenue. Admission is 35 cents.

Workers' School in New York Celebrates This Saturday Night

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Workers' School of New York will celebrate the opening of the season with a vetcherinka next Saturday night, Nov. 29, at the headquarters of the school, 208 East 12th street.

Surprises are being planned which will make this vetcherinka different. Music, magic, fun galore—and a chance to get together with the instructors of the school, to hear what the courses are all about.

You cannot afford to miss the celebration. Come and bring your friends. The Workers' School is your school. Boost it!

Workers' School in New York Invites You To An O'Neill Play

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Workers' School of New York has taken the Greenwich Village theater for a performance of Eugene O'Neill's latest play, "Desire Under the Elms," on Christmas Eve, Wednesday, Dec. 24.

All Workers' Party branches, T. U. E. L. groups, and fraternal organizations are urged not to arrange any other affairs for that night.

The play has received very favorable criticism from leading New York critics, and all who join the theater party can be assured of a real treat.

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

NABISCO

WHO OWNS THE PLANTS AND PROFITS MAKING NABISCO?

WHAT ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE YOUNG SLAVES?

Read

Who Owns–Who Makes NABISCO

A pamphlet describing the horrible conditions of the young workers in the plants of the National Biscuit Company all over the country. Read of the campaign of the Young Workers League to organize the young slaves all over the land.

5 cents a Copy 25 copies for $1.00 $3.50 per hundred

Order from the
YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

TEXTILE BARONS CHIEF FRIENDS OF CHILD LABOR

Led Unscrupulous Fight on Amendment in Mass.

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 24.—Belief by a deliberately misled electorate that 17-year-old boys and girls would not be allowed to wash dishes and make beds or do any other work if the child labor amendment were ratified is blamed by the national child labor committee for the failure of Massachusetts to approve the 20th amendment.

Secretary Owen Lovejoy found that propaganda against the amendment had been so unscrupulous and dishonest that an entirely erroneous idea of the proposed change in the constitution influenced the voters.

Like Southern Mill Owners.

New England manufacturers, particularly textile mill owners, are chiefly responsible as the mill owners in southern textile states have been for defeating ratification in their states.

A national drive is being launched by the national child labor committee to give the facts on the 18-year provision of the proposed amendment. Lovejoy states that congress is given only the power now possessed by states of prohibiting work of persons under 18 so that children may be safeguarded as far as legislation goes against occupations morally and physically unfit for them. "Twenty states allow children of 14 and 15 to risk their lives daily at certain dangerous machines," says Lovejoy. "In 39 states children under 18 are allowed to oil, wipe or clean machinery in motion, and 19 states allow children under 16 to perform this extra hazardous job."

Children Work Everywhere

Children under 16 may work on railroads in 36 states, Lovejoy asserts; 29 states allow them to run elevators. Work in or around dangerous acids, poisons, gases, dyes, red or white lead, dust, etc. should be prohibited to children under 18 but 22 states have no laws on this subject and 14 merely prohibit work of children under 16 in one or two of these occupations.

Prohibition of child labor in the particularly dangerous occupations is the first and best method of preventing occupational diseases and accidents, declares Lovejoy for the committee, which has been working for child labor legislation for 20 years.

Bar Good Teacher From Y. W. C. A. for Color of Her Skin

(By Federated Press.)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Y. W. C. A. statement defining its policy on Negro participation in its activities vaguely dodges the test put to it by the National Association for Advancement of Colored People in fighting for Lydia Gardiner's admission to the school of physical culture. The activities of the colored branch, Y. W. C. A., are enumerated "and where more intimate contacts are involved," according to the statement, "white and colored members of the association are working together toward a better understanding and a Christian consideration which shall insure equal opportunity for all girls without regard to race, creed or color." This is interpreted as a denial of Miss Gardine's application for entry to the school.

Application Called For "Whites."

A few months ago Miss Gardine qualified for the teaching of physical culture in the schools of the Y. W. C. A. Passing her examinations with high marks she was notified by the head of the department to call for final arrangements for the position. When Miss Gardine called she was greeted with "Why didn't you say in your application that you are a Negress." She was told that that would make a difference and she would have to wait until they found an opening for her in a colored branch.

READ THE DAILY WORKER.

BILLS OF EXCEPTION ARE FILED IN FIGHT FOR SACCO AND VANZETTI

(Special to The Daily Worker)

DEDHAM, Mass., Nov. 24.—Two bills of exceptions based on the procedure during the hearings on a motion for a new trial for Niccola Sacco and Bartolomeo Vanzetti, were filed in Norfolk county superior court today.

Sacco and Vanzetti were found guilty of murder, altho they have established their innocence. They have not yet been sentenced.

Judge Webster Thayer, who denied motion for a new trial, extended until December 1 the time for filing three other motions which are being prepared by the defense. Attorney William G. Thompson, of Boston, has been retained as chief counsel for the defense of the two labor leaders who are being persecuted because of their trade union activity.

Vatican Condemned by Popular Party

TURIN, Nov. 24.—The convention of the popular party here passed resolutions condemning the Vatican for its sympathetic acts in behalf of the Fascisti movement. An ovation occurred at the mention of the name of Father Sturzo, priest who was formerly general secretary of the party, now exiled to London.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

Proportion of eligible voting population participating in the 1924 elections:

State	Eligible Voters 1924	Total Votes Cast 1924	Percentage of Votes Cast 1924
Alabama	1,176,310	206,500	17.5
Arizona	162,859	60,166	36.9
Arkansas	897,119	180,000	20.0
California	2,164,020	1,271,241	58.7
Colorado	551,637	331,615	60.1
Connecticut	679,749	370,744	54.5
Delaware	130,716	90,504	69.1
Florida	552,424	38,681	7.0
Georgia	1,471,962	149,043	10.1
Idaho	242,005	129,338	53.4
Illinois	3,638,323	2,342,065	64.3
Indiana	1,772,596	1,376,569	83.2
Iowa	1,407,702	951,319	67.5
Kansas	1,000,277	803,849	80.3
Kentucky	1,304,520	796,391	61.0
Louisiana	924,735	126,000	12.5
Maine	426,605	198,649	46.5
Maryland	853,387	355,705	41.6
Massachusetts	1,949,093	1,142,369	58.7
Michigan	2,053,509	1,200,682	58.3
Minnesota	1,301,177	952,865	73.2
Mississippi	872,094	572,761	66.8
Missouri	1,993,752	1,280,846	64.2
Montana	326,451	175,247	53.7
Nebraska	707,287	454,264	64.2
Nevada	43,419	126,230	60.4
New Hampshire	237,457	167,674	70.6
New Jersey	1,645,608	1,077,699	65.5
New Mexico	175,062	102,509	58.0
New York	5,355,624	3,243,583	60.5
North Carolina	1,274,209	474,000	37.2
North Dakota	305,854	220,360	72.1
Ohio	3,451,738	1,968,613	57.0
Oklahoma	1,078,150	512,037	47.5
Oregon	476,594	275,978	57.9
Pennsylvania	4,540,030	2,481,721	54.6
Rhode Island	300,692	211,851	70.4
South Carolina	806,880	65,000	8.0
South Dakota	332,461	215,236	61.7
Tennessee	1,328,146	280,000	22.6
Texas	2,383,836	706,000	29.6
Utah	220,998	131,000	59.3
Vermont	199,122	102,777	51.6
Virginia	1,243,482	167,500	13.4
Washington	795,034	440,574	55.3
West Virginia	758,125	578,733	76.3
Wisconsin	1,401,767	817,686	58.3
Wyoming	113,197	70,000	61.9
Totals	56,941,584	30,254,263	53.1
New England States			58.7
Solid South			27.2
Industrial			63.0
Agricultural			67.7
Mountain Section			55.5
Pacific Coast			57.3

U. S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE REPORTS BACK COMMUNIST CLAIMS

WASHINGTON, D. C., Nov. 24.—Verification of the analysis made by Communists as to the contradictory factors in capitalist society preventing any permanent recovery of capitalism on a world scale, is revealed by the statement made by the department of commerce.

How a "favorable" trade balance may pile up into a most "unfavorable" concentration of credit is shown by the following figures:

The last ten months, ending Nov. 1, shows a trade balance of $671,740,000 in favor of the United States. The same period last year gave only $126,915,000 excess of exports over imports.

Great Fall in Imports.

How these compare with the previous year is shown by the amounts. Imports for the ten months amounted to $2,979,000,000 against $3,212,000,000 in 1923, while the exports were $3,651,000,000 compared to $3,339,000,000 last year.

"A Million a Day."

How the world's gold supply is piling up to suffocate American trade is shown by the imports of gold in the ten months reaching a figure of $289,584,000, against $250,317,000 in 1923; while exports were $15,284,000 and $27,185,000 respectively.

Report Potteries at East Liverpool, O., Completely Closed

EAST LIVERPOOL, Nov. 24.—The potteries here, the chief industries of the town, are almost completely shut down. The celebration of the anniversary of the Russian Soviet government was a great success, nevertheless. Greeks, Germans, and many Negroes attended.

The social meeting was held in the afternoon, followed by an informal and jolly supper party. In the evening the business meeting was held at which 100 DAILY WORKERS were sold, in addition to many pamphlets. Of the twenty short numbers on the entertainment program, seven were rendered by Negroes.

A Greek comrade gave a Russian dance in fine style. Revolutionary posters and large pictures of Lenin adorned the walls. "The face of our great teacher seemed to look down upon us with sympathy and approval," said one Communist who was present.

Churches Discuss Strikes.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The right of jury trial in contempt cases arising out of injunctions against labor organizations is the leading subject discussed in this week's issue of the information service of the Federal Council of Churches. Affirmation of this right by the U. S. supreme court is emphasized.

ALL PARTY MEMBERS AND ORGANIZATIONS JOT DOWN THIS DATE

Fourth international bazaar for political prisoner of Europe, India, and America will be held jointly by International Workers' Aid and Labor Defense Council, Feb. 11, 12, 13 and 14. All organizations are requested to avoid conflicting affairs.

Rail Men Do More Work, Still Company Will Reduce Wages

OTTAWA, Can., Nov. 24.—In 10 years the number of railway employes in Canada has been reduced by 13,017, while in the same period the mileage of Canadian railways has been increased by 10,469. Attention is called to this fact by a memorandum to the Dominion railway board by the railway unions who are opposing a reduction in freight rates, asked for certain manufacturing interests on the ground that railway workers are overpaid. The memorandum draws the inference from the figures given that the railway workers in Canada, as in the United States, are giving proportionately greater service than before the war.

The railway unions further deny that railway wages are unduly high, and assert that on the average they are not sufficient to maintain a fair standard of living. Before the war wages were 63.5 per cent of operating expenses. In 1923 wages formed only 60 per cent of operating costs.

Protest Deporting of Strikers.

NEW YORK.—"Such utter disregard of law and order by an officer of the law is direct incitation to mob violence," the American Civil Liberties Union wires Sheriff Conn of Skagit county, Wash., protesting against his deportation of 125 I. W. W. strikers. The victims are construction workers in a hydro-electric plant near Concrete, Wash.

MORGAN FLOATS NEW BIG LOAN TO STABILIZE FRANC

It's Just One Loan After Another for France

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The Morgan interests are ready to float the loan of one hundred million dollars to the French government, which was approved last week by the French parliament over the opposition of the Communists.

The purpose of the loan was said to be to keep the French exchange stable.

Substitute for March Loan

The loan is a substitute for a loan of the same amount credited to France by the Morgan banks last March when the condition of the franc made the aid of Morgan necessary to the French government.

This credit was for three months, and put Morgan is a strategic position to enforce the Dawes plan. A statement was circulated by the government that the loan had been paid, but this turned out to be a lie. The loan has not been repaid, but renewed at the end of each three months from March until the present date. Morgan's interest has been piling up and his grip on the French government growing continually stronger.

The present operation converts the short term credit, which the French government admits had many conditions attached to it, into a twenty five year loan at seven per cent.

Can't Make Better Terms

Finance Minister Clemental declared in the French parliament that Poincare had done the best he could with the short term note. Clemental said that he had asked J. P. Morgan if better terms were possible and Morgan said:

'No. We wouldn't have been able to place a longer term loan. It was essential that the Dawes plan and the re-establishment of German finances should first be put on the road."

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

HARVEY WOULD HITCH FARMERS TO CALVIN'S STAR

(By Federated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.—Colonel George Harvey, who is hopeful of becoming secretary of state in the new administration, proposes in an editorial that the farmers can again be lined up for Coolidge if the administration will force a reduction of rail wages, thereby enabling the roads to reduce freight rates. He admits that this wage-slashing program will be unpleasant business, but it "must not be blinked."

Harvey agrees with Coolidge that no special session of the new congress is desirable. If the president and cabinet have things their own way, from March until December, Coolidge can name a great many safe people to federal commissions and other posts where they will help to run the country regardless of the fact that congress may be hostile to them and the senate may reject their appointment. The interstate commerce commission is one to which Coolidge can make recess appointments that will be of the utmost importance in forcing railroad wage reductions next spring.

Want High Schools in Jail.

SAN QUENTIN, Cal.—Prisoners at San Quentin have petitioned the board of prison directors for permission to establish a high school in the prison. College-bred convicts will constitute the faculty. The course of study would be identical with that provided by the California board of public instruction. The prisoners point out that their teachers would be much better equipped than most high school faculties. Classes would be held in the evening. The prison board has appointed two members to investigate the project.

Moscow Coins Silver Roubles.

MOSCOW—The new silver rouble (50c) has made its appearance, following the smaller coins in Russia. It is a beautiful coin, almost as large as a dollar, bearing a worker and a peasant pointing to the rising sun.

GREAT LABOR CARTOONS

by such noted artists in the ranks of Labor as

FRED ELLIS
HAY BALES
WM. S. FANNING

in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

GET IT!

The World of Labor - Industry & Agriculture

FIGURES REVEAL GROWTH IN PRODUCTION, IN PROFITS; AND IN MISERY FOR THE WORKERS

Before you fall for Secretary Hoover's siren song about the economic progress of the country, stop and figure what it means to you. Do you realize that as long as the country's productive plant is operated for the benefit of private profit takers this progress will mean insecurity and more unemployment for the real workers? Hoover's figures prove it.

Profits Grow; Payrolls Shrink.

The country, according to Hoover's review of the year ended June 30, 1924, is producing and selling more goods with materially reduced working forces. He doesn't say so, but his statistics show it. This means more profits on smaller payrolls. It explains why industry can appear to pay slightly higher percapita wages while maintaining an army of unemployed. This army is an insurance against labor's capturing its real share of this economic progress in shorter hours and a higher living standard.

"The outstanding features of the fiscal year," says Hoover, "were first, the advance in agricultural prices; second, the beginnings of sound policies in German reparations leading to successful measure of economic recovery in Europe; and third, the complete recovery of our own industry and commerce, great stability of prices, high production, full employment, expanding foreign trade and prosperity thruout the business world."

Breadline Grows Too.

He gives the following major economic indexes to show the domestic situation. With the exception of employment these numbers represent the percent of activity in a given year with the year 1919 as 100 per cent. The employment figures, however, for some unexplained reason, show the percent of employment in a given year with the calendar year (not fiscal year) 1923 as 100 per cent.

Hoover's Figures.

Volume of	Years ended June 30: 1922 Pct.	1923 Pct.	1924 Pct.
Manufacturing production	88	116	115
Mineral production	90	118	116
Forest production	101	111	117
Freight, railroad ton miles	89	116	110
Electric power production	112	136	148
Building contracts let, sq. ft.	93	108	105
Unfilled orders (U.S. Steel)	77	113	77
Factory employment	87	96	95
Value of sales:
Department store	109	120	128
Five and ten cent stores	129	152	173
Mail order houses	71	90	100
Wholesale trade	77	80	82

Such figures are calculated to give capital a sense of confidence. But how will labor interpret them? They show manufacturing production stabilized during 1923 and 1924 at a level between 15 per cent and 16 per cent above 1919. They show mineral production mounting to even greater heights. They show the volume of freight shipments 10 per cent above 1919 and the volume of wholesale trade 12 per cent above that level if allowances for price changes are made. In other words they show the owners of industry producing and distributing more goods on which they realize their profit.

But there is no similar increase in employment. Referring Hoover's employment figures to 1919 instead of 1924, we find a drop of more than 12 per cent. In other words in the fiscal year 1924, the country was manufacturing about 15 per cent more goods with 12 per cent fewer workers than in 1919. The number of unemployed miners will bear witness to the same situation in mineral production. Expansion of plant capacity, modernized labor saving machinery, efficiency management are producing a situation where a large margin of jobless workers will be chronic.

Revolution Reported in Athens.

LONDON, Nov. 24. — Despatches reaching here state an attempt was made in Athens to start a revolution. The movement was said to be headed by General Lougas, who has been arrested.

Post Cards in Colors

Something New and Different.

Use them for your regular correspondence. Have a set for your album.

No. 1—Lenin, directing the revolution
No. 2—Lenin, when 16 years old
No. 3—The Red Flag of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics
No. 4—The Russian state seal and emblem
No. 5—Trotsky, commander of the Soviet Red Army

ONE CARD 5 CENTS

In lots of 10 or more, 2c per card.
1½ in lots of 100 or more.
Send money order, check or postage to

Literature Department
WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA
1113 W. Washington Blvd.,
Chicago, Ill.

Your Union Meeting

FOURTH TUESDAY, NOV. 25, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
144	Amalgamated Clothing Workers, 1569 No. Robey St.
133	Boot and Shoe Workers, 1939 Milwaukee Ave.
21	Bricklayers, 512 W. Monroe St.
278	Brick and Clay Workers, Inspectors, 166 W. Washington St.
	Calumet Joint Council, 314 W. 170th Street.
58	Carpenters, Diversey and Sheffield.
141	Carpenters, 1023 E. 79th St.
272	Carpenters, Moose Hall, Chicago Heights.
461	Carpenters, Witten's Hall, Highland Park.
1786	Carpenters, Springfield and 26th.
	Clerks, Grocery, 59 W. Van Buren Street.
15	Conductors (Sleeping Car), Capitol Bldg., 10 a. m.
281	Electricians, 505 S. State St.
1030	Electricians, 741 S. Western Ave.
302	Engineers (Loc.), 5058 Wentworth Avenue.
402	Engineers, 180 W. Washington St.
845	Engineers (Loc.), 2433 W. Roosevelt Road.
826	Engineers (Loc.), 2647 W. 35th St.
8705	Egg Inspectors, 419 N. Clark St.
27	Federal Employes, 64 W. Randolph St.
15441	Federal Union, 3046 W. 26th St.
715	Firemen and Enginemen, Ogden and Taylor.
20	Hatters (Trimmers), 166 W. Washington Blvd.
5	Hod Carriers, 225 E. 15th St., Chicago Heights, Ill.
6	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
27	Hod Carriers, 62nd and La Vergne Avenue.
715	Hod Carriers, 814 W. Harrison St.
81	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren.
12	Leather Workers, 777 W. Adams St.
17	Leather Workers, 777 W. Adams St.
84	Machinists, 2548 S. Homan Ave.
918	Machinists, 4706 W. Lake St.
1494	Machinists, 6234 Princeton Ave.
546	Meat Cutters, 175 W. Washington Street.
571	Meat Cutters, 9206 Houston Ave.
	Marine Fire and Oilers, 357 N. Clark.
10	Musicians, 175 W. Washington St., 2 p. m.
17358	Nurses, Funk's Hall, Oak Park.
1427	Painters, 20 W. Randolph St.
180	Painters, N. E. cor. California and Madison.
184	Painters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
191	Painters, N. W. cor. State and 55th.
275	Painters, 2417 W. 47th St.
521	Painters, Trumbull and Ogden Ave.
502	Plasterers, Monroe and Davis Sts.
130	Plumbers, 1507 Ogden Ave.
250	Plumbers, 180 W. Washington St.
402	Plumbers, 4111 W. Madison St.
415	Railway Carmen, Odd Fellows' Hall, Blue Island, Ill., 7:30 p. m.
170	Railway Carmen, 11037 Michigan Avenue.
1257	Railway Carmen, 5324 S. Halsted Street.
352	Railway Clerks, 549 W. Washington Street.
739	Railway Clerks, Moose Hall, Chicago Heights.
906	Railway Clerks, 5438 S. Halsted St.
2219	Railway Clerks, 509 W. Washington St.
375	Railroad Trainmen, 3359 W. Madison.
	Teamsters' District Council, 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
727	Teamsters (Auto), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
67	Tile Layers, 180 W. Washington St.
7	Waiters, 234 W. Randolph St.

(Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
445 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave. 1427 CENTER AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

Our Canadian Neighbors!

"The Trades Union Congress in Canada and Our Future Tasks"

By TIM BUCK.

In the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY is an article that will contribute to a clear understanding of the problems of Labor in our neighboring country. BE SURE TO READ IT!

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

INTERNATIONAL AID DELEGATES' MEETING SUNDAY, NOV. 30

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—All delegates elected by their branches to conduct the work of the International Workers Aid in behalf of political prisoners in Europe and India, will meet Sunday afternoon 2 p. m., Nov. 30 at the Workers' House, 208 East 12th St. All branches that have not yet elected their delegates must do so immediately.

Workers' Party District 2, Chas. Krumbein, Organizer.

GREEK AND TURK WORKERS DYING OF STARVATION

Graft and Corruption Continues as Before

(Special to The Daily Worker)

ATHENS, Nov. 24.—Turkish workers and peasants returning to Turkey and Greek workers and peasants returning to Greece are dying by the thousands. They are actarving and treatin to death because almost every penny of the money set aside by the Angora government and by the Greek government has gone into the hands of national politicians.

The exchange of refugees is taking place on the basis of the agreement reached at Lausanne between Turkey and Greece for the return of their respective nationals living in Thrace and Anatolia.

Graft Continues as Before.

Before the advent of the present liberal-republican government, headed by Michalapoulis, the practices of the officials in the refugees' bureau here were the subject of bitter attacks against Premier Sofoulis, a republican. The refugees have been unable to notice any difference in their personal incomes within the last few months.

The pretenses of the Greek government to put a stop to the wide-spread graft and corruption are a standing joke in government circles. Two army officers, convicted of stealing several thousands of drachmas from army funds, were released from prison on the day after they had received sentences of 18 years each.

Besides all of their other burdens the Greek workers are now bearing the load of a foreign debt of over 200 million drachmas, imposed on Greece when that country took possession of Turkish lands in Smyrna. Great Britain, France and Italy forced Greece to agree to pay the debts of whatever territory she got. The territory in question has since been lost to Greece, but the debt is still claimed by the European powers.

N. Y. Workers' School Announces Course in Trade Union Training

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—The Workers' School of New York has sent out a call to all local groups of the Trade Union Educational League urging them to designate active members to take the trade union training course to be given by the school.

This course is intended for a selected group of trade union militants chosen from the various league sections and trade unions. It aims to train these workers for more effective service in the T. U. E. L. and the labor movement in the United States, and the principles and tactics of the Red International of Labor Unions in the international field and in the various countries.

Classes will be given in the History of the American Labor Movement and the World Trade Union Movement. The practical problems facing the militants in their trade union activities will be dealt with in two courses on the problems of various industries, and on organization. The first of these will be conducted as a symposium by active militants familiar with the struggle in their particular industry. The second, on organization, will take up such questions as parliamentary procedure, conduct of militants in trade unions, public speaking, etc.

An enthusiastic response is expected from the league members. Already there are indications that the number of applicants will far exceed expectations. League groups that wish to be represented are urged to act immediately as classes will be limited.

Information and registration at the office of the Workers' School, 208 E 12th street, Room 1. Telephone, Stuyvesant 4634.

New York Capitalists Want Canadian Road That Begins to Pay

VANCOUVER, B. C.—The Pacific Great Eastern railway, built to afford politicians and contractors wholesale graft, has long been a white elephant to the people of British Columbia. Millions of dollars have been sunk in this enterprise. Both liberal and conservative parties participated in the graft.

In recent years, however, in opening up the north country and the Caribou district the Pacific Great Eastern railway promises some returns, and straightway the government makes overtures to sell the railway. A group of New York capitalists is seeking to purchase it for a song plus vast areas of agricultural land to be given them by the government. Two big English syndicates are also considering buying the railway.

BIG BAKE TRUST GIANT THREAT TO THE UNIONS

Expect Drive Against Organized Labor

(By The Federated Press)

Higher prices for bread eaters and more miserable conditions for bread bakers are predicted by the Bakery and Confectionery Workers' International Union as the outcome of the recently formed Continental Bakeries Corp., the half billion dollar bread trust. Bread factories in 32 large cities are included.

See Higher Prices.

"The consequences for the bread consuming public will be drastic upward manipulations in the price dictated by this monopoly," declares Secy. Charles F. Hohman of the Bakery Workers' International.

"For the workers themselves this octopus has become their worst and most dangerous enemy. The experience of the men employed in the large New York bread factories which for many years have been operated under exclusive trust control reflect the utterly brutal and unbridled exploitation perpetrated upon the slaves employed there."

Hohman indorses the finding of New York investigators who reported that "With the exception of a few foremen who are being paid comparatively well, the workers in the employ of this trust of millions receive veritable starvation wages, far below the union scale. And in addition the workers in these trust bakeries are completely at the mercy of the employer."

Workers Unorganized.

Vigorous defensives by the union are in part impaired, Hohman indicates, because "the masses of the workers directly affected are suffering from a really deplorable indifference and a still more regrettable division of their forces."

Quebec Labor Party Condemns Dawes Plan As Enslaving Workers

(By The Federated Press)

MONTREAL.—A resolution condemning the Dawes reparations plan was passed at the annual convention in Montreal of the Quebec section, Canadian labor party. The resolution described the Dawes plan as a new method of enriching the bankers and enslaving the workers, of lengthening the hours of labor of the German working class and degrading them to a coolie standard of living. The resolution carried by 40 to 29.

Another resolution adopted by the convention protested against U. S. immigration regulations, which do not give to naturalized Canadians the same rights of admission to the United States as enjoyed by native Canadians.

A third resolution carried recommended work for the unemployed at union wages, and that in default of work the unemployed should receive full maintenance from the government.

French to Send Troops to Morocco.

PARIS, Nov. 24.—The French government is considering sending troops to take control of the Spanish zone of Morocco as soon as the Spaniards evacuate, it is learned here. The French are anxious to acquire new territory in Morocco and to put down insurrections of the Riffan tribes which have been continuously breaking out.

Gould Crooked Deal Shown Up.

NEW YORK, Nov. 24. — William Wallace, attorney for George Gould, admitted in court that Gould secretly disposed of 210,028 Western Union shares, and kept $900,000 of the transaction as "commission." Wallace admitted that he could not defend this hold up of the Gould estate which is now being fought for in the courts.

Limerick to an Open Shopper

There was an old duffer named Dawes
Who boosted the open shop cause,
But he felt rather rummy
When a lump on his tummy
Was opened with scissors and saws.

When Coolidge was told of the lump
On the visceral wall of the chump,
His great reputation
For no conversation
Was upheld by the single word—"Umph!"
—Harrison George.

THE HUMBUG OF HIGH WAGES

By LELAND OLDS.
(Federated Press Industrial Editor)

For every $100 the working class in New York state could spend in 1920 it can spend only $82 today. That's what the September payroll data gathered from manufacturing establishments by the state industrial commissioner show. It means that all the employers' propaganda about the highest real wages in history is bunk so far as the general run of workers' families is concerned.

Average weekly pay, the commissioner's report shows, amounted to $28.05 in September. This is 10c a week under the 1920 average when the cost of living was about 19 per cent higher than today. From this employers argue that wages now buy nearly 18 per cent more than in 1920.

But the actual spending power of the workers is measured by total wage payments, not by average weekly earnings. And a glance at the figures will show that while average earnings have remained high, factory payrolls have been heavily reduced. The figures show how much wage earners employed in the manufacturing establishments of New York state had to spend for each $100 available to them in 1920.

New York	Percapita wages	Total wages
1920	$100	$100
1921	91	71
1922	89	74
1923	96	89
1924 Jan.	99	88
Feb.	98	89
Mar.	100	91
Apr.	98	86
May	98	82
June	96	79
July	96	76
Aug.	97	77
Sept.	100	82

The hardship suffered by workers' families over the extended period of so-called republican prosperity is reflected in the figures. In 1921 and 1922 they were receiving less than three-quarters as much in wages as in 1920. During the summer months of 1924 payrolls again fell to a point very nearly as low.

But there are now more mouths to feed in the working class than in 1920. Population has increased about 6½ per cent since that year. If there had been no drop in the cost of living payrolls should have been increased by about that amount or to $106.50 for each $100 in 1920 to enable the workers as a whole to hold their own.

Taking full account of a 16 per cent drop in the cost of living industry should be disbursing $89.50 for every $100 paid in wages in 1920 to enable the working class as a whole to maintain its 1920 living standards. The table shows only $82 actually paid for each $100 paid in 1920. The purchasing power of the average member of the wage-earning class is thus considerably lower than it was in 1920 in spite of increased percapita wages.

Labor saving machinery and mass production methods are affording the employing class a means of cutting wages without touching percapita earnings. The average wage earner will simply find himself unemployed to a greater extent than formerly. Until labor blames the present function of all productive machinery to make profits rather than lighten the average burden, the boss's little joke about the highest wages in history will continue to breed confusion.

Negroes Barred from New York Hospitals Because of Color

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK, Nov. 24.—That New York, which many persons believed gave equal rights to Negroes, is discriminating against the Negro race is shown by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People which is conducting a campaign against the practice New York hospitals have of segregating and even barring Negro patients. The association has secured the co-operation of the National Medical Association, a Negro organization in an investigation of discrimination against patients with dark skins. The North Harlem Medical Association, a Negro organization of doctors in New York's great Negro district, has been invited by the association to join the campaign and test cases in the courts are expected if the discrimination continues.

At the same time the association is taking up the case of Miss Lydia Gardine, a Negro girl of 20, who was barred from a physical training class by the Young Women's Christian Association at its Central School of Hygiene and Physical Culture. The Y. W. C. A., on the defensive, admits the discrimination and says it is taking the case under advisement.

Cut Wages of Wood And Metal Finishing Workers at Lamp Plant

Wood and metal finishing workers are having their wages reduced now that Coolidge has been elected, the DAILY WORKER is informed. Gold leaf gilders who were working for eighty cents an hour are now being asked to work for 45 cents.

At the Wellington and Stone Lamp factory, 1222 Wabash avenue, employing 150 men, the new employes are being taken on at 45 cents an hour. One worker, who has been getting 80 cents an hour for gilding, offered to work for 60 cents, but the manager of the plant said he is going to lay off his 80-cent gilders and hire sixteen year old workers for 45 cents.

Those who are expected to have wages reduced unless they use their organized protest, are leaf gilders, polychromers, shellacers, sanders and sprayers.

Use Movie Actress to Pose as Ideal Slave for Bosses

SACRAMENTO, Cal., Nov. 24.—The discovery that Helen Gainer, in whose name the action to overthrow the women's minimum wage law of California was instituted, is a motion picture actress, employed for this purpose by a group of wealthy manufacturers, has aroused labor as few recent moves against the workers have done.

"It is the most flagrant example on record of an attempt to keep women in industry without legal protection," says Mary Anderson, of the federal department of labor. Miss Gainer in her suit posed as a factory employe who "desired the liberty" of working for less than the minimum wage. The case is still before the state supreme court.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

CALL POLICE IN WAR ON WINDOW CLEANERS' UNION

Brutal Methods Used in Effort to Break Strike

(By The Federated Press)

NEW YORK CITY, Nov. 24.—In spite of extreme police intimidation methods directed by Louis Frankel and his National Window Cleaning company officials, the strike of the Window Cleaners' Protective Union continues, says secretary Peter Darck, with union men fighting for organization in this extremely hazardous work.

These human flies cling to the window ledges of New York skyscrapers to keep the windows shining clean and half of them are not even provided with hooks in which to fasten safety belts.

Detectives invade the union office, Darck declares, with a so-called complaining witness who picks out union men and charges them with assault. The police detectives even went into the rooms of Housewreckers' Union, local 95, which adjoin the Window Cleaners' Union offices, and beat up union workers who were in no way connected with the strike at National Window Cleaning company.

One housewrecker was falsely arrested and is now held under $1000 bond for general sessions. An old man visiting in the office was beaten unconscious and is still in the hospital recovering from the assault by detectives and company representatives.

Sixteen policemen and six police detectives are kept on duty for National Window Cleaning company to enforce its injunction against the union, Darck says.

Dovgalevsky Goes to Sweden.

MOSCOW (By Mail.) — Comrade Dovgalevsky, assistant people's commissar of posts and telegraphs, has been appointed plenipotentiary representative and, concurrently, trade representative of the Union of Soviet Socialist Republics to Sweden.

Dovgalevsky headed the Soviet delegation to the world postal conference recently held at Stockholm, and upon which Soviet Russia was represented for the first time since the last war.

betrayed

Their first conversation betrayed the fact that she was not fastidious

AT a distance she had appeared an unusually neat, immaculate. But upon their first face-to-face meeting he discovered that her teeth were not clean. And he soon lost interest.

So many people overlook this one matter of fastidiousness. And do so in spite of the fact that in conversation the teeth are the one most noticeable thing about you.

Notice today how you, yourself, watch another person's teeth when he or she is talking. If the teeth are not well kept they at once become a liability.

Listerine Tooth Paste cleans teeth a new way. At last our chemists have discovered a polishing ingredient that really polishes without scratching the enamel—a different problem finally solved.

You will notice the improvement even in the first few days. And you know it is cleaning safely.

So the makers of Listerine, the safe antiseptic, have given for you also the really safe dentifrice.

What are your teeth saying about you today?—LAMBERT PHARMACAL CO., Saint Louis, U. S. A.

LISTERINE TOOTH PASTE

Large Tube—25 cents

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN

THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:

$6.00 per year	$3.50....6 months	$2.00....3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):

$8.00 per year	$4.50....6 months	$2.50....3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, WILLIAM F. DUNNE, MORITZ J. LOEB.....Editors, Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

290 Advertising rates on application

Free from Working Class Influence

The political policy of the American Federation of Labor as enunciated at El Paso is very simple. It consists of the advocacy of election reforms planned to make it easier for the workers to vote for the candidates of the capitalist parties.

As an appendage of this policy there is a clause designed to extend the alliance with the middle class.

The high lights of the document in which these proposals are made are:

1. That the present cumbersome ballot be changed to make voting easier.

2. That labor participate more generally in primary elections.

3. That all non-partisan campaign committees be maintained on a permanent basis.

4. That a plan be devised whereby forward looking groups composed of persons who are not trade unionists may be enlisted in labor's non-partisan political campaigns.

5. That changes in laws be advocated where necessary to make the functioning of independent political movements more effective.

The recommendations end with the warning that the American Federation of Labor "must be as free from political party domination now as at any time in the history of our movement."

The Industrial Workers of the World and Samuel Gompers have at least one point of agreement in this last doctrine. Of course the A. F. of L. has never been free from political party domination nor is it now but it is probably as free from working-class political party influence as it ever was. Never at least has it stooped as low as it has at El Paso in the service of American imperialism unless it was during the time it was under the influence of Woodrow Wilson.

Bad News for Landlords

"Cold weather, means a raise in wages for the janitors," William Quesse, head of the Janitors' Union in Chicago, and real boss of the Chicago labor movement, confided to the delegates at the El Paso convention of the American Federation of Labor.

This declaration brings a loud squawk from the Chicago Tribune but we are of the opinion that its protest will have but little effect on William who is even more hardboiled than the landlords and whose union is composed of equally hardboiled workers who can watch a furnace in a million dollar apartment expire without the slightest sign of sympathy for its death agony.

William's methods have been a little crude in the past and his record from our standpoint is as reactionary as it could well be. He is part of the Gompers' machine and he hates the Communists but as against the landlords we choose William altho strenuously denying that we are influenced by the fact that in this controversy the odds are about 100 to 1, that the janitors will win. In little matters of this kind, William's methods, as we have already remarked, are a little crude—but effective.

In our opinion, about the only thing the landlords can do is to pray for warm weather.

Hiding the Loot

Senator Pat Harrison, democrat from the tall woods of Mississippi, who was one of those who demanded and obtained a law which made a bluff of giving public access to income tax reports, has become convinced (after the election) that as the report says, "publicity of private tax information is injurious."

"Private" tax information!

"The constant prying inquiry . . . has disheartened in large measure honest business effort thruout the country."

It appears that the thirst of the little business men to know the incomes of the big business lords, is a dangerous thirst to appease in too wholesale a manner. Why let the damned working class know the rewards of those who most successfully fleece them? Should income tax reports of our upper and middle classes be allowed, for instance to appear in THE DAILY WORKER? The little business failures might gain some satisfaction from the right to look over the incomes of their more successful rivals, but the law is to be at least modified, with their consent, so as not to permit publication in the press where the working class might have access to the information.

Is not the matter of what tax they pay, or don't pay, a private matter between the upper classes and their private government?

Major George L. Berry, president of the Pressmen's Union, owns 6,000 acres of farm land in Kentucky and Tennessee and raises blooded cattle. The major is opposed to the Communists. Funny, isn't it?

A Threatened Eviction

The democratic party has requested its landlord to cancel the lease to its newly acquired national headquarters in Washington, so that it can move into more modest quarters costing less rent. The amusing incident is not to be accounted for on the ground that this noble party of practically unbroken history from the time of Jefferson to Jefferson Davis and on down to John W. Davis cannot get enough money to pay rent on a whole city of offices if need be. But the fiction of its financial poverty has brought out a lot of talk which shows its peculiar political embarrassment. There are tales of its repentance from "flirtation with radicalism" (Ye gods! Mr. Davis) and its reorganization on "a firmer foundation" freed from "class and sectional policies," and purged of any co-operation with the insurgent balancers of power for petty spoils.

The currents of history have so cruelly exposed the democratic party as having the same class basis as the republican party, that its usefulness to Wall Street finance-capital is seriously doubted by some. There is some inclination to grant to the LaFollette "third party" movement the job which it covets of being the second party of capitalism. It was not entirely comfortable for the larger powers of Wall Street to have their political support divided between two national tickets in the last election. The role of "flirting with radicalism" so as to absorb even this also into support of capitalism was performed much better by the LaFöllette movement than by Davis' ticket. Therefore, to concentrate all of its frank support under one national ticket, obviating for the time such annoyances as the possibility of throwing an election into congress, is a tempting suggestion for big capital. The democratic party practically ceased to exist in a large part of the West, and the democratic politicians flooded into and took charge of the LaFollette movement in many places. But the Solid South remained an unbreakable block, with even the fast-growing forces of big capital in the Southern states unable to marshall the vote for a republican party known traditionally as the "Nigger party." Even since the republican party was threatened by the petty-bourgeois wave of Bryanism in 1896, when the debtor elements were able automatically to swing Southern states with the mere name of the "white man's" democratic party, there have been intermittent movements to break up this condition and to extend the two-party system in the South. Roosevelt tried it, Taft tried it and Hughes tried it. Harding tried it in his rise to power, by promising that the republican party would be a "white man's" capitalist party in the South. Again Coolidge attempted it when he chose "Lily-White" Slemp as a southern political fixer. And Davis' clumsy hypocrisies about the Negro in the last campaign were not unrelated to the same problem in its Northern phase.

The sharper class antagonisms have cast serious doubt upon the policy of big capital running in national elections two tickets, one of which carried Morgan's bank-messenger Dawes and the other of which was headed by Morgan's lawyer Davis.

We suggest that the democratic national headquarters save all of its rent by moving into the republican national headquarters.

Every day get a "sub" for the DAILY WORKER and a member for the Workers Party.

Pink Emma

Sweet little Emma Goldman, so long the red terror of the tea-room, is reported to be on the warpath against the tyranny of the Russian workers' state power. She is said to be stirring vast masses of downtrodden lawyers and department store keepers to revolt against the Bolsheviki, not because the Bolsheviki are too revolutionary, but because they have betrayed the real soul of the revolution. Emma is quoted as saying:

"I found Russia in wreck and ruin, presided over by a bureaucratic state, incompetent and inefficient to reconstruct the country and to help the people to restore their high hopes and great morals."

On the same day this was published, we pick up the organ of a Chicago stock-brokers' clique which in rejoicing over the election of Coolidge and Maria, repeats some of Emma's sentiments about "government"—this time referring of course to manifestations of government in the U. S. The financiers' organ complains that "under the slow strangulation process of the last two decades, the government has been encroaching upon private rights until it appeared that the individual simply existed for the benefit of the government and the aggrandizement of politicians."

When you don't ask what class government it is, but think, as Emma does, of the state in general, the logic is as good in one place as in another.

Thus it is. The anarchist "philosophy" despite the fact that many sincere proletarians have fallen for it as a reaction from social-democratic parliamentarism, is but the reduction to absurdity of the bourgeois ideology of free trade. Thus the anarchist position under the test of revolution became untenable for any section of the working class, and it is in the nature of things that Emma's present career as the hero of the capitalist press should show so many "distinguished" personages of the lap-dog type of bourgeois intellectuals as her sponsors in London.

A capitalist newspaper says that the "labor unrest" at the Natron Cutoff in Oregon is "caused by the I. W. W." From what we can gather, the "unrest," far from being caused by the I. W. W., was caused by an oversupply of pediculous, otherwise "lousy" bunks. If you don't think these cause "unrest"—try 'em once.

How We Live and Why

By Louis Reguera

It is the break of dawn. Slowly the sun begins to rise casting its warmth —live-giving glow—all over its great sphere. In the fields, the dew drops become absorbed by the sun's friendly rays, giving to the plants a joyful greeting by awakening them from slumber, thus giving life to the vegetable kingdom.

The sun continues to rise and now the rays become mightier, penetrating thru the thickly foliaged woods. The friendly rays giving warmth and glow to the mighty kingdom that inhabits the forest. The birds and insects and their heads joyfully in harmony with the playing sun rays. Such is nature's gift. It gives bubbling healthful, vitality to the animal and vegetable kingdom alike, as the sun plays over the meadows and thru the dense forests.

* * *

While this has been taking place, quietly, unnoticed, unconcerned—simultaneously in the city, the wage slave's kitchen is rattling with pots and pans, and in the bed chamber (if the wage slave has one)—ahem—and a grunt from the wage slave is heard and he himself, half doped from the previous day's work, rises and prepares rushingly for another day's work.

The younger members of the family —the youth—too, is put under the same commotion to bustle to his job. This youth, vital youth and ripened age, will soon be hustling, half asleep, whether by foot or by car, to their respective slave jobs, unaware of the vitality and comfort that is being robbed from them. Thus, also being deprived of the richness and beauty of the glowing sun.

This seething mass has reached the factory doors or pits in the mine fields, and immediately work begins. The sweat and labor is turned into profit for the bourgeoisie while they in turn get a pittance from what they produce, enough to exist upon and to perpetuate their enslaved bodies. The master enjoys all that workers produce, while the workers, unorganized, keep their nose to the grindstone.

* * *

In the same break of dawn, here and there from different odious quarters of the city, come out another mass of people. Wrecked from liquor, morphine or religion. Youth, aged and deformed or crippled, all victims of either of the three opiates just stated. No doubt, too, some of them have just risen from an alley or doorstep from their foul slumber. Here and there they meet together in twos, threes or groups, brushing their clothes, rubbing their eyes to brighten them from stupor slumber and so prepare rushingly for another day's work.

The younger members of the family —the youth—too, is put under the same commotion to bustle to his job. This youth, vital youth and ripened age, will soon be hustling, half asleep, whether by foot or by car, to their respective slave jobs, unaware of the vitality and comfort that is being robbed from them. Thus, also being deprived of the richness and beauty of the glowing sun.

This seething mass has reached the factory doors or pits in the mine fields, and immediately work begins. The sweat and labor is turned into profit for the bourgeoisie while they in turn get a pittance from what they produce, enough to exist upon and to perpetuate their enslaved bodies. The master enjoys all that workers produce, while the workers, unorganized, keep their nose to the grindstone.

* * *

In the same break of dawn, here and there from different odious quarters of the city, come out another mass of people. Wrecked from liquor, morphine or religion. Youth, aged and deformed or crippled, all victims of either of the three opiates just stated. No doubt, too, some of them have just risen from an alley or doorstep from their foul slumber. Here and there they meet together in twos, threes or groups, brushing their clothes, rubbing their eyes to brighten them from stupor slumber and so prepares rushingly for another day's work, or a shot of dope. Soon, too, these localities become a seething mass of these doped men and all within the shadow of the church steeples that number quite a few. These very churches of all denominations support and hold in a vise these sordid men by the worse opiate of the three opiates—religion.

As aforesaid, all this vileness and degeneracy of these men, is at a stone's throw of the viper's lair (the church) where the holy of holies by their hypocrisy sit richly enthroned, giving out their opiate, so as to give these men strength to carry their dastardly duty against the workers. They are men upon whom the churches (of all denominations) can be called upon to be used as leaches to prey unconcealed upon the life of the revolutionist.

* * *

The fact or secret of the religious power as being the mightiest prop for the international banker to exist, lies in that religion encourages either by force or intimidations to do the following: Keep men doped. Create religious antagonisms. Fear of God —any god. Create nationalism. Create race hatred. Must go to church—any church. Believe in an unknown power.

Expose the above structure and the church will crumble to ruins bringing the international banker to ruin also in its wake. Religion is politics and politics is religion. Religion has ensnared itself into every fibre of the individual and into the very marrow of the government. Thus, thru the main entrance sitting at the right hand of the international banker, by its cunning hypocrisy down thru the ages, religion has become the internationally organized espionage agency against the workers.

Only when workers will unite and solidify their interest into the Workers (Communist) Party will the producers gain in power and voice. The only hope of the masses, politically and economically, is the Workers (Communist) Party. Around that nucleus must workers rally.

* * *

The Workers (Communist) Party is the embryo that will strike at the opportune time and with a triumphant revolution led by the Communists against these exploiters and hangers-on, will the workers then finally attain their powers, controlling all the means of production and distribution and so enjoy what they produce and build. Thus gaining in return the ability to enjoy the "luxuries" of comfortable modern housing—shorter hours, music, art, health and bubbling vitality, leading their minds and bodies to the true ideals of nature and her laws.

This reality of life will be turned from a brutal abject slave condition, a comfortable loyal class-conscious one, by all nations uniting into a Union of Socialist Soviet Republics. This will be the worker's real break of dawn with the sun shining brilliantly down upon them.

Capitalism and the Tax Publicity

By "SMAXIKO"

THAT capitalism is gradually losing its power to rule and control itself is especially evident by the publicity of the 1923 income taxes paid. The capitalists know that they do not want the workers to know what remains in their pockets, as a result of the exploitation of the workers. And yet, having become so mad with surfeit of their economic and political power, they have lost their heads and "let their own cat out of their own bag." And like children, who cannot take care of themselves, they cry . . . after they have "lost the cat."

Just listen to the lamenting of the steel king, Judge Elbert H. Gary, the denouncement of the publicity by bought-and-paid-for Professor Nicholas Murray Butler, and the bitted resentment on the part of the world-known Wall Street!

Will the Workers Learn?

But this lamentation, denouncement and resentment will not do the capitalists any good. The deed is done. The figures and their interpretations are open before the public. And, how that the workers have access to the amounts paid by their millionaire bosses, will this "publicity" teach them anything? Will the workers open their eyes and see—that they who mine the coal, they who manufacture the steel, they who draw the oil from the oil-fields, they who paste the "tin-can-lizzies" together, they who manufacture and otherwise produce all that is needed in this world we live in, in this country we live in—that they, the workers, do not find their names published among the large income-tax payers? And if they see the names of their bosses, who never even see the places of toil, who never step into the mines or factories—they are the ones who have all the income and have all the income tax to pay to the government!

Why Bosses Pay Enormous Taxes.

Let us look into this tax-publicity a little further. What do we find? We find that the average worker does not earn what the smallest capitalist pays as his tax for the year.

We find that where there are the largest number of workers, in the factories, mines and mills, there concurrently are the largest profits. The larger a number of workers a capitalist exploits, the larger are his profits. As evidence take the Ford family, who paid close to $19,000,000 (nineteen million dollars) income taxes for the 1923 income. Or, take the United States Steel corporation, which paid close to $16,000,000 (sixteen million dollars) as its 1923 income tax. Or, look at the pious hypocrite, John D. Rockefeller, Jr., whose income tax was close to $7,000,000 (seven million dollars). John D. Jr.'s tax could serve as the exemption for 3,000 married couples, should they each earn the minimum exempted by the government. As for Ford's family and company's tax it would serve to exempt 47,500 married couples.

Workers, can you grasp the enormous amounts the capitalists are "earning" at your expense? What you, workers, ought to get in wages is kept by the bosses, and certified by their (the bosses') executive committee—the government! The working class will have to take, thru their organized strength, the living that is humanly due the working class!

Views of Our Readers on Many Subjects

Workers Help Yourselves.

To the DAILY WORKER: Like all politicians who speak of "the people" —without telling us whom they have in mind—so the Detroit leaders of the progressives and reformists do. No matter under what masks La Follette or D. E. Batt appear, and promise to be fair to the working class, they always fail to realize that to accomplish the reorganization of workers it is necessary to have class conscious workers with the revolutionary spirit, who will consider its own worth and refuse to accept the slavish conditions of capitalism.

"The Lord helps those who help themselves" (and when one is able to help himself, I don't think he is apt to trouble the Lord much for his assistance.) So long as the working people fold their hands and pray the gods in Washington to give them work, so long will they not get it.

System Makes Producers Beggars.

So long as they tramp the streets, whose stones they lay, whose filth they clean, whose sewers they dig, so long as they go from factory to factory, begging for the opportunity to be a slave, receiving the insults of bosses, so long as they consent to herd like cattle in the cities, driven year after year, starving in the midst of food they produce but cannot have; so long as workers continue to do these things vaguely relying upon some power outside of themselves, be it god or priest or politicians, or any progressive or the reformist's society . . . . to remedy matters, so long deliverance will be delayed. No change ever was, or ever can be worked out in any society, except by the mass of people.

Theories may be propounded by educated people and set down in books and discussed in lecture halls; but they will remain barren, unless the people en masse work them out. If the change proposed is such that it is not adaptable to the minds of the people for the life it is supposed to remedy, it will remain a barren theory. These uneducated but determined people must be dealt with now; there is no such thing as "waiting till they are educated up to it." The people never can be educated, under the conditions they live at the present time. The only education is the Communist revolutionary education and such knowledge workers receive in the Communist Party.

DAILY WORKER Is Right.

They understand in Russia. They understand they have a right to the soil, a right to use it for themselves. And however primitive the agricultural methods they had or still have one thing is sure, that they are more economical than any system which heaps up fortunes by destroying men.

Land workers and those engaged in manufacturing learn that there is one common struggle against those who have appropriated the earth. So the workers of America must learn that even then (when they have a complete organization) they can win nothing permanent unless they strike for everything, not for a wage not for a minor improvement, but for the whole natural wealth of the earth.

In conclusion I wish to state that this fight which the DAILY WORKER undertakes against the demoralizing activity of reformism in this country, is a necessary and important fight.

For the last few years reformism in Europe became the most powerful weapon in the hands of the bourgeoisie to reformism the working class movement has failed to overthrow the capitalists in Germany and Italy; reformism is one of the greatest enemies of the labor movement.

Eva Hill.

Anti-Intermarriage Laws.

To the DAILY WORKER.—The intermarriage between Negroes and whites in the United States, which is prohibited by the laws of many states, is usually objected to by Negroes as an invasion of their personal liberty. Many whites interpret this to mean that Negroes want to marry white women. Thereupon all the devils of "race integrity" invade rostrum and press, to prove the utter shame of Negroes in having such desires. No attention is paid to the fact that in states where Negroes are free to marry white people, the cases of intermarriage are so few as to be negligible.

An Aid to Lust.

The real effect of the existing laws banning intermarriage between Negroes and whites, is not to stop the fruition of legitimate love across the race lines, but to furnish immunity for offenders against the virtue of Negro women. Take it any way you choose, such laws serve no other purpose. The effects of anti-intermarriage laws are felt only where unlawful love is concerned. Common sense and everyday experience show that the Negro man is not legally punished who wrongs a white woman. No intermarriage prohibition is needed to insure that.

Negro men cannot deceive white women by assurances of love and promises of marriage, and find a jury which will acquit them. But what of the white men who violate the virtue of Negro women? The little concern felt over the Negro women thus wronged, a custom handed down from slavery, makes them victims a hundred times to the one whore their white sisters suffer at the hands of Negro men, even despite the relative smallness of the Negro population.

If the white man is prohibited by law from marriage with a Negro woman, he escapes the penalty of his army in suppressing the first revolution, the role played by the same army during the second revolution, the revolt of the peasantry towards the Soviet power during the first year after the October revolution—all these facts served Lenin as material base his decisions on tactics with regard to the peasantry. He was a realistic statesman in the best sense of the word. A defeat would never cause him to folds his hands in passivity, but on the contrary would just arouse his energy and obstinacy, in a desire to study and arrive at the causes which had led to defeat. He used to say: "We are defeated. We must learn the causes of our defeat, we must throw light upon every wrong step that we have made, so that we become more practical and more far-sighted."

* * *

Tomorrow — "A World Outlook".

lust by showing that the woman could not have been deceived because she knew all the time that he was lying. The white man is thus free to desert the Negro woman and her child, because the law says he cannot be made to care for her as her husband. In short, anti-intermarriage laws styled "race integrity" measures, are solely means of safeguarding the lust of white men in having relations sexually with Negro women.

Millions of Mulattos in South.

In the south, where every single state has upon its statutes, laws prohibiting intermarriage between Negroes and whites, millions of mulatto children have been produced in this section of the country. In fact, Negroes, who at the time of their introduction into the United States from Africa were all black, are today of every shade and color from a fast black to a lily white, and many Negroes may and can pass for white. This proves concretely that despite all such laws, Negroes and whites continue to mix very intimately in this country. In fact, the southern white gentleman of the south, who so ferociously objects to "nigger men" mixing with or marrying white women, lives in open concubinage with Negro women and are the real ones who are doing their utmost to amalgamate the Negro race.

The writer, a Negro, is a descendant from a Scotch-Irish southern white slave owner. Negroes will never be free, in the true sense of the word, until every single one of these vicious, iniquitous and lust producing laws, prohibiting Negroes and whites from marrying, are declared null and void. To that end, every sane, sensible and intelligent Negro should zealously work.

Gordon W. Owens.

Difference of Opinion.

To the DAILY WORKER.—The comrade who reviewed "Conscience" which is now playing at the Belmont Theatre in New York, was wrong in her criticism of the play. "Conscience" is almost a perfect play from the radical's point of view. It is as revolutionary as the preamble to the I. W. W. and as realistic as a page from the great steel strike. There has never been a play on Broadway before with such a radical theme so wonderfully acted by professionals who presumably are not themselves "enlightened."

Comrade Pollack tells the story of the play up to the part where the wobbly chokes his scissorbill wife and then runs away. Of course, that summary omitted entirely the parts in the prologue and epilogue where the wobbly, a fugitive from the law, snowed in his Alaskan cabin, vents his hatred of the capitalist system and its monstrous slavery to which it subjects the people. He assails craft unionism as a remedy to be applied locally to the sore of capitalism to keep it from spreading, whereas what is necessary is to wipe out the sore by killing its roots.

Names Parrot Gompers.

He tells these things to a parrot named "Gompers," which he bought to keep him company in the shack. He is haunted by memories of his wife whom he killed unintentionally while in a rage at his helplessness in saving her from the life of a prostitute which the system demanded of her as the price of a little enjoyment. The wobbly dies; a figure of another worker whose life was wrecked because he chose to remain true to his class.

Yours sincerely,
Samson Krieger.

LEARNING FROM EVENTS

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The eleventh chapter is entitled, "Learning from Events."

* * *

HOW did Lenin succeed in arriving at such a realistic conception of the role of the peasantry in the revolution? It was due to his ability to estimate correctly the social forces in modern society. He knew how to learn from events. The peasant uprisings of 1902-3, which had assumed very large proportions before the revolution of 1905, the role played by the

The DAILY WORKER Raises the Standard for a Workers' and Farmers' Government

THE DAILY WORKER

Entered as Second-class matter September 21, 1923, at the Post Office at Chicago, Illinois under the Act of March 3, 1879.

Help Insure THE DAILY WORKER for 1925!

Vol. II. No. 213. SUBSCRIPTION RATES: In Chicago, by mail, $8.00 per year. Outside Chicago, by mail, $6.00 per year. WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 26, 1924 Published daily except Sunday by THE DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO., 1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill. Price 3 Cents

E. DAY UNIVERSITY LIBRARY NEW HAVEN CONN 12-17-24

WORLD WAR THREATENS

Anglo-French Clash Over Egypt Rocks Europe

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

ANOTHER gangster is killed and State's Attorney Crowe has found his voice. "You will hear from this office now" or words to that effect, said Crowe. The antics of the police, judges, newspapers and the horde of capitalist politicians who make their living in the sewers of capitalist society are of interest to Communists. If you follow the history of such "clean-up campaigns" as take place after every major murder wave, you will notice that nothing ever happens to those who violate the law on a scale sufficiently large, to enable them to put the law-enforcers on the payroll.

* * *

ROBERT E. CROWE, the favorite son of the Chicago chamber of commerce has not opened his trap about the Dean O'Banion murder. Neither has he made any explanation of the fact that the honorable O'Banion, who is credited with a mortuary record of from nine to twenty-five, was one of his chief political backers in the election fight. It is safe to say that if a strikebreaker lost a finger during a struggle between the workers and the bosses, that Crowe would be on the job immediately with all his allies.

* * *

AN Indian prince and a lady of easy virtue plus attractive personality are now the star actors in one of the greatest court sensations in recent London history. The prince started with $450,000 of his money, in order to keep his relations with this [illegible] but the Midland Bank, where he deposited the money for the benefit of the "outraged" husband, did not take the necessary precautions to protect the prince's money for said husband, therefore the latter is suing the bank for negligence. It happens that the prince is an officer in the Indian army, so the British government ordered the court to keep his highness's name out of the record. This has not kept the gentleman's name out of the press, but he can ignore that, on the ground that it is out of order.

* * *

THE London papers report that Ramsay MacDonald has abandoned his plan to visit South America and will visit Jamaica and Panama instead. MacDonald may travel far but he will have some difficulty in leaving memories of the "Zinoviev" letter behind him. As was to be expected, the tories who framed the plot now conclude that the letter is genuine, but that it does not amount to a row of sugar stalks compared to other things. Which is quite true. The tories are more worried about Soviet influence in India and Egypt than they are about forged documents, forged by the tories.

* * *

ANOTHER socialist paper has given up the ghost. Outside of the New Leader of New York, most of the existing socialist papers are printed in a printing "factory" in Reading, Pa., where papers are turned out in mass. Even with this form of production, the socialists are so demoralised that they cannot raise the funds to keep their weekly sheets alive. But while the socialist papers are sinking the DAILY WORKER is forging ahead.

* * *

A MILITANT revolutionary membership is the best guarantee that the great American Communist daily is going to live and live vigorously. The campaign now being conducted for the DAILY WORKER will insure it for 1925 and until the rule of capitalism in America is overthrown. Every reader of this paper who wants to strike an effective blow at the

(Continued on Page 2.)

Communist International In Appeal for Aid to Egypt

(Special to The Daily Worker)

MOSCOW, Nov. 25.—The Communist International today sent a message to the toiling masses of Egypt encouraging them in their struggle against the bloody imperialism of England. The manifesto also urges the workers of the world and particularly those of Britain and countries more directly involved in the Egyptian situation to take action against this latest attack on the rights of subject peoples.

"In this struggle," declares the Communist International, "you will have the world's proletariat with you."

NO-PARTY STAND IS ADOPTED BY A. F. OF L. MEET

Stone Cutter Joins in Plea for Class Action

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 25.—The 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor yesterday adopted with only two opposing votes the report of the executive council on the program of "non-partisan political action."

This at the same time killed resolutions number 1 and 2, as introduced by the Brotherhood of Potters and by the Molders' Union.

Victory for No-Party Action.

Woll claimed that a victory for "non-partisan" action had been won at the last election and said that the proposal was to use all parties, but be used by none.

Delegate Basky, of the Stone Cutters' Union, told the leaders that if they listened to the demand of the rank and file, their duty would be to indorse an independent working class political party.

He agreed with the hope expressed by Fraternal Delegate Swales of the British unions, that labor must apply political power. Basky asserted that working class politicel power had upset crowned heads, and that "sending Lewis to the republican party and Berry to the democratic party to plead for favors was a crime."

Basky said that the election showed more clearly than ever that both parties were and are controlled by capital. "We should not need to suffer such misery as has Russia or Germany to see the need of overthrowing autocracy, said Basky, with some show of militancy. "Leaders should lead," he declared, "and not be compelled to advance an inch at a time." He asserted that the recommendation of the executive council to form permanent "non-partisan" campaign committees, was a concession and done to obscure the demands for a political party.

Hayes Wants Third Party.

Delegate Max Hayes, of Typographical Union, said that the executive council played with words about independent political movements, but meant the same old gage "rewarding friends," etc., that Gompers spoke of absolute autocracy in America like in Russia, but did nothing to counteract it. He declared that the council's recommendations were the same as in the past, only using different terms.

(Continued on Page 2.)

A. F. OF L. CONVENTION ADJOURNS RE-ELECTING THE GOMPERS' REGIME

(Special to The Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 25.—The 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor adjourned yesterday afternoon, after re-electing Samuel Gompers president and re-electing the entire executive council.

The executive council as it now stands is composed of the following: James Duncan, 1st vice-president; Frank Duffy, 2nd vice-president; William Green, 3rd vice-president; T. A. Rickert, 4th vice-president; Jacob Fischer, 5th vice-president; Matthew Woll, 6th vice-president; Martin F. Ryan, 7th vice-president; James Wilson, 8th vice-president; Daniel F. Tobin, treasurer and Frank Morrison, secretary.

It is [illegible] ed its stand urging the United States to join the league of nations and defeated Furuseth's resolution against such action.

Liebknecht Day!

TO All Nuclei Branches of the Y. W. L.:

Arrangements have been completed whereby Liebknecht Day will be commemorated on January 11, 1925. Every unit of the organization must make immediate preparations to hold mass demonstrations on this day which is dedicated to the young Communists of all lands. A special bulletin is being issued to all league units, but each league should proceed at once to elect its committee which will insure a greater Liebknecht Day in America than ever before.

Special literature will be issued and preparations are being made for a special edition of THE YOUNG WORKER to be dated Jan. 15 which will be printed Jan. 1. Every branch should send in their extra orders at once.

A special arrangement has been made with the Workers' Party that the Lenin Memorial meetings will be held from Jan. 21 to 25. The C. E. C. of the Workers Party has specifically ordered that Liebknecht meetings must be supported by the Workers Party and held separate from the Lenin meetings.

Make preparations at once for a monster Liebknecht meeting.

JOHN WILLIAMSON,
National Secretary.

EXTRA! A. F. OF L. SHOWS SIGN OF CLASS LOYALTY

But It Was a Sign Only; Defeat Russ Recognition

By J. W. JOHNSTONE.
(Special to the Daily Worker)

EL PASO, Texas, Nov. 25.—The one sign of a working class character in the 44th annual convention of the American Federation of Labor came yesterday when Resolution No. 6, advocating recognition of Soviet Russia, introduced by the Molders' Union came before the convention.

It developed that the resolution had been sabotaged somewhere between the Molders' convention and the A. F. of L. convention, the two essential "resolves" being left out entirely as it was presented to the A. F. of L. convention.

Two Resolves Are Omitted.

In between the "whereas"—which stated the strength and permanence of the Soviet government, the fact that most European governments had already recognized the Soviet power and that the American government had not, the two "resolves" were omitted which read as follows:

"Resolved, that the convention (the last Molders' convention) urge the United States government that barriers tending to prevent intercourse and ultimate recognition of Russia be removed, and be it further

"Resolved, that the delegates to the American Federation of Labor convention be instructed to present a resolution calling for recognition of Russia by the United States government.

All the remnant of the resolution left for consideration was in reference to a commercial treaty, stating that if such a treaty was negotiated, "Under no circumstances shall the United States use any form of coercion or force to collect any bills due to American merchants, manufacturers or banks."

Sillinsky for Recognition.

Upon this resolution, Max J. Sillinsky of the Journeymen Tailors' Union arose to speak in favor of its passage. He stated that the reason why recognition with Russia was yet withheld was because Soviet Russia had repudiated the loans made by the bankers to the czar.

In spite of this fact, he said, nearly every country is dealing with Russia including England and France. He asserted that the Soviet government was growing stronger every day and had stood like a rock for seven years. He declared that Soviet Russia was now the biggest buyer of cotton from America and that it had to pay more because it was buying thru agents and not directly. It is the duty of American labor to help build Russia, said Sillinsky, because Russia was bled white by war and its aftermath, and the Russian workers had a right to choose the form of government they wanted whether we liked it or not.

McCullough Agrees with Dead.

Delegate McCullough, of the Typographical Union, stated that he agreed with William Gamaliel Harding, famous exponent of "normalcy" in saying that the United States should recognize Russia when she "paid her debts." He claimed that the Third International and not the peo-

(Continued on Page 2.)

Four C. E. C. Decisions That Take First Place

THE Workers Party membership is now entering a period of discussion. Between comrades as they meet, in branch meetings, in general membership meetings, thru the party press, the question of future party policy will be the burning question. For SIXTY DAYS this discussion will proceed, and then an eventual decision.

"Hand in hand with this discussion, probably the most there and far-reaching the party has ever had, is to go unanimous obedience to a decision already made. United, as one whole, without a single difference of opinion, the entire party membership is to enter the campaign to INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925.

We must make the DAILY WORKER secure for the coming year. To so insure it INSURANCE POLICIES have been issued. The policy of every party member must be to BUY A POLICY. And so that the discussions over party policy in our party will not interfere with the campaign to make our daily safe and build it, the Central Executive Committee of the party has unanimously decided:

1. That the immediate task of the party, of every member in it, is to campaign and give so that we may liquidate obligations which are impending the growth and threaten the future existence of the DAILY WORKER.

2. The first order of business at every branch meeting, at every membership meeting is to be—SALE OF INSURANCE POLICIES TO INSURE THE DAILY WORKER FOR 1925.

3. Every party paper must give wide publicity to this campaign.

4. Every party paper is to preface the discussions upon future party policy carried in its columns with this announcement or a similar announcement sent by the Central Executive Committee.

Fraternally,

C. E. RUTHENBERG,
Executive Secretary.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER,
Workers Party Chairman.

FARRINGTON IN MOVE TO STEAL THE ELECTION

Has Dummy Candidates Against Hindmarsh

(Special to The Daily Worker)

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., Nov. 25.—The regular bi-ennial election of the United Mine Workers will be held on Tuesday, Dec. 9. At this time officials will be elected in the various states, sub-districts and for positions in the international organization as well as for officers of the State Federation of Labor in Illinois.

Already the machinery is in motion to corrupt the election in Illinois where Farrington has held sway for many years. In not a single instance has he ever been elected in accordance with the laws of the union.

One strange feature found in the coming election is that John L. Lewis is a candidate for re-election and is also classed as a candidate for a position in the cabinet of the strike-breaking president of the U. S.

Of course, it is understood that in the event of his election to the presidency of the miners again, he would be safe even tho the cabinet position did not materialize. In event of Lewis' elevation to the cabinet position it is stated that Murray, the international vice-president, will be moved up to the position of president and that Farrington is slated for Murray's position as vice-president. This will leave a

(Continued on page 5)

EMPLOYES OF S. P. RAILWAY IN STRIKE VOTE

Rail Labor Board Claims Jurisdiction

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 25.—The decision of the 8,000 engineers, firemen, hostelers and helpers of the Pacific System of the Southern Pacific Railroad on strike vote now being taken, will not be known until December 5, it was learned today at the headquarters of the brotherhoods involved here.

Members of the Brotherhood of Engineers and the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen will return their ballots by mail and they will be counted on that date.

Roads Refuse to Confer.

According to L. G. Griffing, grand chief engineer of the Engineers' Brotherhood, and D. B. Robertson, president of the Firemen's Brotherhood, the strike vote is a result of the failure to obtain conferences with Southern Pacific officials on wage demands which have been pending for some time. Southern Pacific officials are understood to take the position that the wage question is in the hands of the United States railroad labor board.

POWERS CLASH OVER BRITISH WAR ON EGYPT

Tories Ditch League of Nations

BULLETIN.

CAIRO, Nov. 25.—The political atmosphere became extremely tense here today when the Egyptian parliament was adjourned by royal decree.

* * *

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PARIS, Nov. 25.—The imminent possibility of war between England and France over the Anglo-Egyptian question loomed ominously today as Premier Herriot and his cabinet met to consider France's attitude towards England in the present crisis.

The entire French press with one voice denounced the action of England in its brutal assault on the national independence of the Egyptian people. Not that the imperialists of France have any more concern for the rights of small nations than England has, but the interests of the two great powers clash in the Near East, hence the threatened hostilities.

The scrapping of the league of nations by the tory government came simultaneously with the announcement that Egypt would submit its side of the question to the league. France would back up the Egyptian claim. Practically every nation of consequence on the continent of Europe has no friendly feeling for England and may follow the lead of France in blocking Britain's efforts to increase its empire.

It is reported here that Herriot is considerably influenced by Russian representations in behalf of Egypt. Germany is also said to have signified its intention to put up a united front with France against England. The return of Caillaux and Malvy, leaders of the anti-British and pro-German pre-war opposition, to political activity renders the French internal situation more conducive to a bold move, such as outspoken opposition on the part of France to the British grab in Egypt would mean.

The Bagdad Railway.

The French have recently secured a concession from Turkey giving them possession of the Bagdad railway, which was one of the bones of contention between Germany and England, the two main contestants in the world war. England considers the possession of this trade artery by another power a threat to India and to her practical ownership of Egypt.

The French press compares the British note to Egypt to that sent to Serbia in 1914. This comparison angers the virtuous British ruling

(Continued on Page 2.)

THERE'LL BE NO THURSDAY ISSUE

THERE will be no issue of the DAILY WORKER on Thursday, Thanksgiving Day. The next issue will be dated Friday, Nov. 28. The members of the staff of the DAILY WORKER, mechanical, business and editorial, plan to use this holiday to push the drive to "Insure the DAILY WORKER for 1925." Only in this way do they feel that they are doing something worth while this year; something they can be thankful for on Thanksgiving Day, 1925. Are you with us?

Come to the Bazaar TONIGHT. Admission Free

HOLIDAY PROGRAM Tomorrow Afternoon
Doors Open Thursday at 2 o'clock
Fine Entertainment Dancing at 3 p. m.

GRAND OPENING 8 P. M.
FOLKETS HUS, 2733 Hirsch Boulevard
Benefit DAILY WORKER and Labor Defense. Auspices, Local Chicago, Workers Party

FIRST CHANCE AT MOST CHOICE THINGS
Quantities of Useful and Beautiful Articles
Donations Received
Help Wanted Wednesday Afternoon

TORY CABINET SIGNS LEAGUE'S DEATH WARRANT

British Rulers Out for More Plunder

(Special to the Daily Worker)

LONDON, Nov. 25.—Whatever else may be said for the present British government, it cannot be accused of contributing to political somnolence. The tories are acting up to their traditions. Truculent notes fly in all directions.

Armies and navies are dispatched to Egypt, the annexation of the Sudan is planned, Egypt is to be denuded of all its independence, and at the same time the foreign minister, Austin Chamberlain, has stowed the league of nations away in a closet.

The threat of Egypt to take the question of its badly battered independence before the league hastened the tory cabinet's determination to junk this piece of excess furniture. The famous "peace protocol" on which Ramsay MacDonald the pseudo pacifist figured to uphold his pacifist democratic was too much for the old tories to swallow. It is now on the historical dump heap.

Britain feels much healthier today than when her rulers allowed Ramsay MacDonald to keep house while the old leaders were recuperating. They no longer want to be fettered by a league to which every Tom, Dick and Harry can refer their grievances. It has become a confounded nuisance.

Chamberlain to Hold Caucus.

At the present time the empire is not a unit at league conferences. The colonies have been known to act independently. Before Chamberlain goes to Rome to the next meeting of the league council, he plans to call a meeting of the dominions, with a view to establishing the unit rule, which means that the "mother country" is to speak for her goslings.

Chamberlain took a wicked wallop at the league, which is practically the only one of Wilson's fourteen points to maintain a balance of animation at this date. The tory foreign minister points out that the league, far from being a world league is not even a European affair and shows a complete lack of a sense of reality in assuming to run the world without the cooperation of the United States. The tories figure on arranging their affairs so that Britain and the United States can run the world to their own advantage and satisfaction, for the time being at any rate.

League Can Do Odd Jobs.

The league is not to be assassinated immediately however. Things are not done so obviously in the diplomatic world. Chamberlain leaves sundry odds and ends to be looked after by the league, such as the holding of conferences to regulate the white slave traffic, the alcoholic content of moonshine and other such harmless studies.

On the heels of Chamberlain's decision comes the information that Admiral Jellicoe, commander of the royal navy during the world war is or his way from New Zealand with a bag of information and suggestions as to imperial naval requirements in the Pacific.

Apportioning the Expenses.

The admiral claims that $100,000,000 worth of steel flotilla is required by the empire to protect her interests in the Pacific. He has evolved a scheme to apportion this sum among the colonies, including Canada, New Zealand, Australia and India. India alone is to furnish $10,000,000 annually.

The practical demise of the league of nations removes the last vestige of camouflage from the faces of the warring imperialist powers. England is again on the war path, brazenly announcing her right to rule as much of the world as she can grab, allowing no obstacles in her path that can be removed by diplomacy or force of arms.

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

GRAND OPENING NIGHT CHICAGO FIVE-DAY BAZAAR AND DANCE WEDNESDAY; BIG DAY THURSDAY

A fine program of entertainment has been arranged and a wealth of goods and articles collected for the booths at the five-day bazaar and dance to be held Nov. 26, 27, 28, 29 and 30 at Worker's Lyceum, 2732 Hirsch Blvd.

A special committee of Local Chicago, Workers Party, is in charge and promises all who come more than their money's worth in bargains and a good time.

They also point out that those who attend and patronize the affair will help to forge dollar-weapons against American Czardom, because the proceeds go to the DAILY WORKER, official organ of the Workers' Party, and the Labor Defence Council which is engaged in defending many important cases of Workers Party members under prosecution.

Wednesday, Nov. 26. Grand Opening. Admission free. Donations received. First chance at most choice ware.

Thursday, Nov. 27. (Thanksgiving Day) afternoon and evening. Dancing begins at 3 p. m. Lettish Orchestra, Ukrainian chorus in costume, Polish Singers, Junior Interpretive Dancers, Banquet at 6 p. m. Russian "Balalaika" Orchestra, National Dances by Emma Blechschmidt and Elsie Newman, Lithuanion Children's chorus.

Friday, No. 28. Dancing, South Slavic Orchestra, Czecho-Slovak "Market," Testa Bellandi, well-known Italian Baritone and mandolin soloist, N. Giovanaini, guitarist, Finnish Gymnastic Stunts. Special night, also for German and Hungarian workers.

Saturday, Nov. 29. "BIG DANCE." Freiheit Singing Society, Danish Workmen's Orchestra, Games and Contests, Special night also for Scandinavian, Greek, Spanish, Bulgarian, Armenian and Rumanians.

Sunday, Nov. 30. — Afternoon and Evening — Swedish National Dance in Costume at 4 p. m. Musical Program, Y. W. L. Orchestra, Dancing, Vocal selections, Auction, Prize Awards.

AS WE SEE IT

By T. J. O'FLAHERTY.

(Continued from Page 1.)

capitalist system could not do it in a better way than to purchase a five or ten dollar insurance policy in the DAILY WORKER. This is the kind of Christmas shopping that should be done now.

* * *

CHARLES R. FORBES, former director of the veteran's bureau, is now on trial. The campaign strategists of the G. O. P. took good care to hold off the trial of the grafting Harding appointee until after the election. Now that Silent Cal is safe in the White House for the next four years, justice can do its darndest.

* * *

ONE of the unconsciously funny men who sends over anti-Russian propaganda to the Chicago Tribune relates a yarn about the British spy system in Russia. A high official of the Russian government is supposed to be on the British payroll for a number of years. He was trapped over the "Zinoviev" note, but the funny thing is that nothing happened to him, not even the loss of his job. What about all the heads that are chopped off in Russia for the mere fun of it? It looks as if the liars have gone to the other extreme.

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

WILLIAM Z. FOSTER TO DISCUSS EL PASO CONVENTION AT NEXT MASS MEETING OF THE T. U. E. L.

The next public meeting of the Chicago section of the Trade Union Educational League will take place on Tuesday evening, Dec. 2, 8 p. m., in North West Hall, corner North and Western avenues. These meetings are one of the activities of the left wing movement in the local trade unions and are held for the purpose of unifying the struggle against the labor fakers.

The forthcoming meeting of the Trade Union Educational League promises to be of unusual interest as it will be addressed by William Z. Foster, national chairman of the Workers Party and leader of the revolutionary forces in the American labor movement. He will speak on the result of the A. F. of L. convention at El Paso. Workers Party members and left wing trade unionists are urged to attend and bring as many as possible to the meeting.

INJUNCTIONITES CANNOT USE ANY OF I. W. W. FUNDS

Judge Sullivan's Ruling Has Rowan Worried

The Rowan-Bowerman faction in the I. W. W. suffered a humiliating setback in their injunction case yesterday in Judge Sullivan's court. The judge ruled that one group of officers in any organization could not sue another group for organization funds and that therefore the general executive board had no right to the funds of the I. W. W. treasury. The money belongs to the organization.

The injunctionites, who have been persistently pressing their case thru hearings in Master in Chancery Bernstein's office, were presented with a bill for court expenses. Rowan asked for a hearing in Judge Sullivan's court from which the injunction was procured and the hearing brought the above ruling.

Judge Sullivan's ruling makes it necessary for the Rowan group to either procure the money independently or drop the case. They now owe for three sessions and the stipulation made by Bernstein is that future hearings must be paid in advance. In all probability when the case comes before the master in chancery again it will be thrown out of court.

Rowan went west. The story goes that when he reached Spokane and tried to speak before the lumber workers of No. 120, he was thrown out of the hall bodily.

JAPAN REGARDS COOLIDGE PEACE MEET CYNICALLY

Points to the Naval War Games in the Pacific

TOKYO, Nov. 25.—Japan looks with a cold eye on the proposal for another disarmament conference, emanating from Washington. The foreign office expresses a willingness to send delegates to such a conference if summoned by President Coolidge, but makes it quite clear that any attempt to muzzle the guns of the Japanese navy would be met with stern opposition.

The proposed conference is looked upon as another act in the anti-Japanese game now being played.

Japan's confidence in the sincerity of the United States' peaceful pretensions is not increased by the fact that the United States is arranging for gigantic naval maneuvers in the Pacific and that Admiral Jellicoe of Britain has just finished a four year study of British naval problems in the Orient.

Tokio newspapers mirror the gov ernment's view that a plot against Japan is in the making. They point to the proposed United States war maneuvers next summer and the dispatch of America's most powerful battle armada to New Zealand and Australia on a visit simultaneously with the naval exercises as an open challenge to Japan's sea power in the Pacific.

Under the circumstances, it is not surprising that Japan should regard the suggested disarmament in Washington in much the same light as a pedestrian would look on an invitation from a sabre highwayman to park his artillery in a gooseberry bush and step inside the ditch for a crap game. Japan is not biting.

Oliver Carlson to Speak in Wilmington, Del., Friday Night

WILMINGTON, Del., Nov. 25.—Oliver Carlson of the Young Workers' League of Chicago, recently returned from an extensive trip to Europe during which time he lived in Germany, France, England and Russia, to study the revolutionary movements there will be the principal speaker here Friday night. The meeting which has been arranged by the local branch of the Workers' Party will be held at German Hall on East 6th street between French and Walnut at 8 p. m. No charge for admission.

EXTRA! A. F. OF L. SHOWS SIGNS OF CLASS LOYALTY

But It Was a Sign Only; Defeat Russ Recognition

(Continued from Page 1.)

ple of Russia are in control. As a climax he arose to oratorical heights and prevaricative depths and shouted "Russia has all the necessary resources; why in hell don't they work!"

Andy Furuseth said he would speak but neither for or against the resolution. But speak he would. It was a stupid resolution Andy said. He pointed out that the czar borrowed money for aggressive warfare and was overthrown. Kerensky borrowed money for war and the Soviets overthrew him also. Then they repudiated the debts of both the czar and Kerensky. America, England and France had sent troops to collect these debts, he said, but it was too big a job. Some nations are now trying to collect by using diplomacy. But this resolution, it was too stupid to vote upon intelligently.

Woll Uses Sammy's Tricks.

Matthew Woll, crown prince to King Samuel the First, pointed out that the resolution did not ask recognition. But he was against it any how. The committee, he said, had not considered recognition. He "reminded the delegates" that Grassman said that recognition of Russia bro on an attempt to destroy the "democratic republic" of Noske and Ebert; that the English delegation said Russia used recognition to put poison in the British labor movement and had succeeded in defeating the "labor" government.

This statement referring to some supposed attack on Russia by the fraternal delegates Woll made up out of whole cloth, as the British and German delegations had said no such things as Woll stated. But Woll is a good understudy for Gompers and he proceeded with more of the same talk.

"Until a government of the people and by the people and for the people is established in Russia," he declared "instead of a government based on murder, we will fight any kind of relationship," echoing Lord Curzon.

Frey Offers an Apology.

Delegate Frey, of the Molders' Union, arose to apologize for the disturbance in the labor faker's dove cote. He said that the resolution was 'pushed thru the Molders' convention during a turmoil." He added that "Since the virus of Communism had come into my union by the borers from within, it had adopted a rule to expel all Communists and members of the Trade Union Educational League if caught preaching their doctrines."

He asserted that the "contradictions and stupidity of the resolution was the work of incompetent creatures who rushed it thru the Molders' convention and that the membership was opposed to it."

Silent on Sabotage.

The fact of the sabotage of the resolution, probably to make it sound "contradictory and stupid" by the omission of the two sections quoted above, was not admitted by Frey. That it was deliberately done is the consensus of opinion of newspaper reporters at the convention.

Sam Gompers, smelling a chance to show his servility to the anti-Soviet policy of the American government said that he was in "full accord" with Sillinsky's statement that we should not interfere with the kind of government the Russian people want. But he claimed that they have a government they did not choose. The Kerensky government was "a choice of the people." Sam asserted, "the first and only suffrage enjoyed by the Russians." This proper parliamentary procedure was rudely interrupted by the dispersal of the Kerensky government by working class bayonets and Sam rose to a point of order against such action.

"If You Knew What I Knew."

Continuing, Gompers said that "If Sillinsky only had seen the documents shown to the senate committee on this question, he would know that there was indisputable evidence that the Soviets took advantage of English recognition to destroy the labor government, that the Bolsheviks were trying to destroy democracies and labor movements of the whole world, and if it was an advantage to recognize Russia, why did the labor party condemn Russia in the last election."

Who Forged Letter Immaterial.

"It did not matter whether the so-called Zinoviev letter was forged or not," according to Sam, "it was couched in the language of the Soviets. All circulars sent out by them are the same." He added that when John Ross Campbell, Communist editor in England wrote, he wrote just like this letter. And when charged "he did not deny or modify his language." Therefore, the English labor party was "compelled to expell Communists." From Gompers' wandering utterance one gathers that he thinks Campbell wrote the supposed "letter" to Zinoviev.

"This country has always been a friend to Russia," continued Gompers "It sent a friendly committee to congratulate Kerensky and give Russia a message of good will. It went on a warship with a labor man aboard." Sam's slogan in foreign relations is "Hands off America."

He did not mention that the unspeakable yellow socialist, C. E. Russell, was the "labor man" sent to Russia, and that the "message of good will" he bore was an insistence that Russia continue the war, sacrificing countless lives on the fronts for the secret treaties of the Czar and Poincare regarding forcible annexation of conquered territory. Nor did Gompers say that when the Russian workers turned the war into revolution that American sent many "committees" over, but they were military committees with troops and ammunition to try to overthrow the Soviet power.

The adverse report of the resolution committee was adopted unanimously by a viva voce vote.

When Rebellion Against Capitalism Stirs You, Turn to Communism

By J. LOUIS ENGDAHL.

TODAY, writers for the yellow capitalist press are writing long editorial sermons on "the enemies of society."

Communists have been forgotten, for a few moments, as the kept editors try to hide with printers' ink some of the festering sores of their decadent social system.

* * *

The Hearst press, that sold its opiates to millions last year at a profit of $10,000,000, not only calls Leo Koretz, master swindler, who took $3,000,000 from his dupes, "an enemy of society" but a "Benedict Arnold in his own group."

* * *

Then there is William J. Fahy, ace of postal inspectors, picked for his ability to protect the wealth of the profiteers as it passed thru the mails, but now himself convicted as "the brains" of the nation's greatest mail robbery. A jury has declared that it was he who led the bandits who stole $2,000,000 worth of registered mail shipments of currency from a Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railroad train at Roundout, Ill., just at the edge of Chicago.

* * *

This front page grist of the day's news is paralleled by State's Attorney Crowe's promise of indictments in the shooting of Eddie Tancl, underworld czar of Cicero. It was noticed that Crowe's election poster alone graced the front of Hawthorne Inn, the Tancl resort.

* * *

What horrors for respectable business! If the Leo Koretz kind are given free reign, the business of the New York Stock Exchange, the Chicago Board of Trade, or the Minneapolis Chamber of Commerce will be sorely hurt. Koretz did not cover up his deals with the proper finesse. The result will be that he will probably go to prison. He should have taken out a license as a "stock gambler," or a "food speculator." Then he could donate a little to charity, hold a few church memberships, and get his name in "Who's Who in America." But he failed to live up to the accepted rules and now he is dubbed a "Benedict Arnold."

* * *

No doubt one of the greatest weaknesses of the American capitalist government is its inability to protect its mails. Nowhere in the whole capitalist world are there so many and successful mail robberies as in this country. The Fahy trial and conviction is only an incident. It reveals that the men hired to protect the mails are themselves the plunderers of the mails. Every mail robbery is immediately hailed as "an inside job." Big business arms its employes in the mail service with guns to protect its treasures in transport. It exercises the same precautions taken within its banks and other great financial institutions. But this does not stop mail robberies any more than it ends bank robberies or the defalcation of "trusted employes."

* * *

Low wages help produce this condition. Fahy was well paid. But there were treasures at his fingers' tips, ready to be taken. He no doubt found many aids among the great masses of underpaid postal workers.

At this moment the letter carriers are trying to exert pressure on the next congress, seeking an increase in wages. They set forth that they have not received an increase in the last 12 years. The increase granted postal clerks by the last congress was quickly vetoed by the strikebreaker president.

There are many who, if they can't win the daily needs of life in one way, will find other ways to do it. They don't always follow in the footsteps of the poorly paid department store girl, who returned the jewelled bag of a rich patron, containing $6,000, that she could just as easily have kept, and then had to steal a little, valueless trinket, in order to bedeck herself as she thought best. Others strike higher. Especially those who have the assistance of the "big bosses" of the old political parties. Along with "Bill" Fahy we find that James Murray, one of Chicago's west side democratic bosses, was also convicted.

* * *

The shooting of Eddie Tancl also lifts the underworld into capitalist politics. State's Attorney Crowe will do nothing. His political machine has as some of its most prominent mainstays such as Dean O'Banion and Eddie Tancl. Such as these co-operate side by side with the spokesmen of big business. When it comes to old party politics, it isn't a far cry from the czars of "LaSalle Street," Chicago's great financial district, to the czars of the "river wards" and of Cicero's underworld.

* * *

All these conditions are inherent in the diseased capitalist social system. There is no cure for capitalism except extermination. The big robbers at the top, whether Rockefellers or Morgans, stealing billions, beget the little robbers all the way down the capitalist social ladder, to the very bottom. The yellow press can only veneer this repulsive social system with an ugly gloss.

The task of destroying it and building a new social order is the lot of labor; that suffers most, that has all to gain by the change.

But the change can only be made, the victory can only be won under the inspiration of Communist principles and with Communist leadership. When rebellion against the capitalist social order stirs within you, turn to the Communist movement; turn to its organized expression in the United States, the Workers (Communist) Party.

Non-Partisan Stand Is Readopted by A. F. of L. Convention

(Continued from page 1)

The last election, Hayes stated, proved that the workers want a party.

Hayes declared labor has no leaders on the political field and that the lethargy shown by the international officers was a crime. He said that the 170 congressmen claimed by the executive council was a joke. Few were union men and none could stand the acid test between the capitalists and the workers. Cleveland, he declared, had held an after-election convention to form a state party. This would be national. Hayes made a strong plea for a third party, but did not mention a labor party. Only Basky of the Stone Cutters, spoke from the T. U. E. L. standpoint.

"Labor Party Not Wanted."

Matthew Woll, in a passionate reply said that Hayes was mistaken, that the recommendation was for independent political expression by extending the non-partisan committees to include other elements than labor. He proved, to his own satisfaction, that America was more democratic than England where they had a king ruling by divine right.

Woll declared that the last election was a national referendum vote and showed that labor did not want a labor party. Anyhow, almost every demand had been realized thru "non-partisan" action. With only two votes in opposition resolution 49, offered by the Railroad Telegraphers and the report of the executive council was adopted.

TOKIO, Nov. 25.—Major Zanni, Argentine aviator who was forced to abandon his trans-Pacific flight because of approaching winter storms, will start his attempt again in May or June, he said today.

POWERS CLASH OVER BRITISH WAR ON EGYYPT

Tories Ditch League of Nations

(Continued from page 1)

class, who claim that they have not abolished Egyptian independence, but simply insist on running it, owing to the failure of the Egyptians to run it to the satisfaction of the British. They have not abolished the "condominium" in the Sudan, but have only removed disaffected troops.

* * *

Warships on the Way.

LONDON, Nov. 25.—The superdreadnaught Iron Duke and several other warships are on their way to Egypt. Premier Zaghoul Pasha has resigned. Ziwar Pasha has succeeded him.

The Egyptian chamber of deputies has decided to send protests against the British ultimatums which followed the assassination of Sir Lee Stack, to all countries of the world and to the league of nations.

The indemnity of $2,800,000 was paid to the British by Zaglou before he left office.

British marines took over the customs in Alexandria. The opposition to Zaglou's government accused him of weakness and of failing to protect the country's dignity against British insults.

Capitalist Press Disturbed.

The London capitalist press is practically unanimous in supporting the brutal action of the government against Egypt. The editorial comment in the great dailies show extreme irritation over the suggestion in continental journals to refer the matter to the league of nations.

The Daily Mail declares the suggestion to refer the question to the league "audacious and absurd." The Daily Telegraph remarks that the relations between Egypt and England were similar to those between the United States and Cuba.

SECRET SESSIONS HELD TO DISCUSS MC ANDREW PLOTS

Superintendent of Schools McAndrew, has been holding secret meetings with the board of education members, is the charge made by the Chicago Teachers' Federation. The federation held a special meeting yesterday at the Studebaker Theater at which these underground tactics were discussed by McAndrew.

They Bring Forth.

The after effect of these closed door conferences have manifested themselves in two reports submitted to the school board recently. One is the report of Robert E. Schuler, recommending the ousting of teachers over 57 years of age. This would throw 600 teachers out of work with no chance whatever of getting anything else to do, since they spent most of their lives in the schools.

Another feature of this report is that teachers' salaries are to be governed by merit rather than by seniority. With a boss controlled school board the teachers say they understand what the "merits" required will be. This proposal will save the board $75,000.

Real Issue Avoided.

The other recommendation made in the report by Nelson B. Henry, secretary of the finance committee, recommends increasing the size of the classes which are already packed to bursting. This will save the board $1,000,000 annually. No suggestion is made in either recommendation how to retrieve the large sums of money stolen from the school treasury by the large property owners in Chicago.

The meeting at the Studebaker Theater will be reported in Thursday's issue as the meeting was still going on when we went to press.

Next Sunday Night and Every Sunday Night, the Open Forum.

A WORLD OUTLOOK

Editor's Note.—Every day until publication has been completed, the DAILY WORKER will publish a new chapter from the book, "Lenin: The Great Strategist of the Class War," by A. Losovsky, secretary of the Red International of Labor Unions. The twelfth chapter is entitled, "A World Outlook."

* * *

LENIN never limited himself to the study of the labor movement of Russia alone but studied with the same vigor all social conflicts in Europe during which the working class suffered defeat. The great French Revolution, the conspiracy of Baboeuf the Chartist movement, the June days in Paris, the Paris Commune, the great economic strikes during the end of the 19th, and the beginning of the 20th century—all these served as the basis for determining the causes of the weakness of the working class movement. Furthermore he studied with the same care the mechanism of modern society and the forces at the disposal of our enemy classes. As the result of his study of capitalist society its forms and method of organization, the unity of the bourgeois classes against the disunity of the working masses, he had found the prime reason for our defeats, for the victories of the bourgeoisie, and had arrived at a correct appreciation of the methods of struggle of the working class.

* * *

Tomorrow—"True Proletarian Internationalism."

Open Discussion on Immediate Party Tasks

Thesis on the Political Situation and the Immediate Tasks of the Workers Party.

Submitted by Foster, Cannon, Bittelman, Browder, Dunne, Berman, Abern

THE ECONOMIC SITUATION.

1. The Dawes plan and the victory of reaction in the elections, with the election of Coolidge and Dawes, have raised the morale of the capitalist class in the United States but have not reversed any of the fundamental factors characterizing the present period of decline of world capitalism. The conflicts already appearing between the United States, Great Britain, and France, over the application of the Dawes plan, demonstrate the inability of capitalism to restore the world market. The process of disintegration continues and is bound to produce further crises with further sharpening of the class struggle.

2. A year ago the United States had entered upon a period of economic depression, which our party foresaw (Sept. 1923—resolution on economic situation for the Trade Union Educational League conference) and which we correctly judged to mark a crisis in American economic life (third convention, Workers Party and March 1924 thesis of C. E. C.) The development of this crisis followed the expected course up until June, 1924, except for a short period of slight recovery in the first quarter of 1924. In the month of August more than 2,000,000 workers were unemployed as the result of this crisis.

3. The expected low point in the crisis has not been reached. The sudden halt to the downward trend that occured in September, and the slight but continuous recovery since that time (up to November 15) was the result in the first place of seasonal variations based upon the marketing of the grain crops, and in the second place, of manipulations designed to artificially stimulate industry for the purpose of influencing the election ($100,000,000 rail and equipment orders of the railroad corporations, etc.), carried over after the election in the hectic boom caused by the reactionary victory.

4. The normal operation of the capitalist system may be expected to overcome this halt in the development of crisis, so that 1925 holds the prospect of repeating the experiences of 1910-11 when 4,000,000 workers were unemployed. The war-time shortage of building operations has been overcome. Experts have been increasing, but not in the volume sufficient to affect the general course of events. There are, however, conflicting tendencies, the exact force of which cannot yet be measured.

A factor that now shows possibility of alleviating the crisis is the tendency to start great building projects of public and semi-public nature, not based upon immediately profitable investment. It is impossible to gauge exactly the possible effects of this building program and other artificial stimulants. The known and predictable forces at work all point to a renewed development of the crisis.

5. The immediate pressure of the agrarian crisis upon the agrarian masses has been tremendously lightened by the large grain crops of the United States in the face of a world shortage, resulting in a sharp increase of prices. While it is estimated that a very high percentage of the increased prices of grain will go directly into the hands of bankers and merchants, who hold first claim to the crop returns because of credit extended to the bankrupt and near-bankrupt poor farmers, yet it is a fact that the purchasing power of the agricultural population has been raised to a degree above what seemed possible a few months ago. The fundamental situation in agriculture remains, however, unchanged and presents the likelihood of another acute agrarian crisis in 1925, which will, in turn, intensify the industrial depression.

6. The overwhelming weight of economic tendencies now operative point to an intensification of the class struggle, resulting in renewed efforts of the employing class to cut wages, lengthen hours, and to destroy the unions. In the absence of effective leadership of organized labor, this will result in unorganized mass movements, "outlaw" strikes, rank and file movements, and intensification of struggle within the labor unions between the revolutionary forces and the bureaucracy, together with a tendency of the lower strata of the organized workers, the unorganized, and the unemployed, to look to the revolutionary elements for practical political leadership.

THE POLITICAL SITUATION.

1. The victory of reaction in the presidential elections, which resulted in the election of Coolidge and Dawes by a tremendous majority after a campaign in which they stood openly as the candidates of big business, strengthens big capital in the seat of power in the United States. It demonstrated the tremendous power of the ruling class in this country, exercised through its machinery for molding opinion ((the press, the radio, etc.), combined with the ability to manipulate the economic factors of society, to compel the masses still to follow its lead. The economic basis for the victory of reaction was, to a considerable extent, the slight revival in agriculture and industry, enlarged and magnified by capitalist manipulation and publicity. The election demonstrated also the cowardice and the political weakness of the middle classes, which, although dissatisfied with the hegemony of big capital, and in spite of their grievances produced by the agrarian and industrial crises for which the republican party offered no remedy, refused to follow even such a mild course of protest as the one expressed by the LaFollette movement. It further exposed the complete inability of the official leadership of the labor movement to enthuse the working class for any kind of action. Big capital has thereby completed its task of mobilizing its forces for continued oppression and destruction of the working masses. It is now the duty of the workers and poor farmers to awaken to the real state of affairs and to begin the mobilization of their own forces for the struggle against their oppressors. The comparative strength of the various political parties cannot be gauged correctly by the election figures. The capitalist politicians controlling the election machinery have robbed the LaFollette movement of probably a million votes, and have cut down the vote of the Workers Party to a fraction of what we really cast.

2. The LaFollette movement, although supported in this election mainly by industrial workers and poor farmers, is a political alliance of five distinct social groups. These are; (a) small and medium bankers, merchants, and manufacturers; (b) rich and well-to-do farmers; (c) professional groups; (d) certain sections of the labor aristocracy; and (e) the trade-union bureaucracy.

These five groups are moving together politically, at present in rather a loose fashion, for the purpose of securing for themselves a measure of political power which they will use against the political aspirations of the proletarian masses and the poorest sections of the farmers. In other words, the LaFollette combination is socially and politically a bourgeois movement, hostile to and antagonistic to the proletarian class struggle and to the political independence of the oppressed and toiling masses.

3. Gompers and the Old Guard of A. F. of L. Bureaucracy.

The endorsement of the LaFollette campaign by the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. was dictated primarily by a desire to preserve their leadership in the American labor movement, which was endangered by the following four facts: (a) the complete bankruptcy of the Gompersian trade union policies which resulted in weakening the unions to such an extent as to reduce their fighting ability almost to nothing; (b) the deep unrest within the rank and file that the coming attacks by the capitalists could not be resisted by the unions with their old tactics, policies, and forms of organization; (c) the demand from the rank and file for some measure of political influence for the unions in the hope that this may forestall or weaken the impact of these coming capitalist attacks; and (d) the brazen anti-labor attitude assumed by the national conventions of the two old parties which completed the disillusionment of the rank and file and made it impossible for Gompers to endorse either Coolidge or Davis without seriously endangering his leadership. The above facts prompted the bureaucracy of the A. F. of L. to enter into an alliance with the petty-bourgeoisie for common political action. Because of the comparative weakness of the LaFollette movement, as demonstrated in the elections, the reactionary officialdom of the A. F. of L. may now be expected to try to convince the workers that even the middle-class revolt and its organization into an independent third party is hopeless, and that they must return to the old non-partisan tactics, which means to go to the back door of the old party councils, there to beg for crumbs in the time-honored Gompersian manner.

4. The C. P. P. A. and the Socialist Party.

In endorsing the candidacy of LaFollette the C. P. P. A. has merely continued its old policy of political collaboration with the so-called "progressive group" in congress. The C. P. P. A. has been functioning as the labor wing of the LaFollette movement. It remains the dominant labor wing of the LaFollette movement, which is also subject to pressure by the Gompers machine. The C. P. P. A. was humbled by the results of the election, which fall below its expectations, yet it will continue the alliance with LaFollette and will remain one of the forces pushing the movement in the direction of a third, petty-bourgeois, party.

The socialist party, which up to July, 1924, was trying to retain a certain measure of independence as a political party, has since then almost completely merged with the C. P. P. A. in the LaFollette movement. The socialist party has practically ceased to exist as an independent political party. It will support the formation of the petty-bourgeois party under the phraseology of a "labor party."

5. The Bourgeois Wing of the LaFollette Combination.

For the bourgeois wing of the LaFollette combination, the alliance with the labor bureaucrats and with certain sections of the labor aristocracy is a perfectly profitable proposition, since this alliance in no way conflicts with the capitalist basis of the movement, while it secures for itself the support of large masses of workers and poor farmers. The professional-liberal group of this bourgeois wing, as represented by the Nation and the New Republic, demands the formation of a bourgeois third party which they often call a "labor party." These practical politicians of the movement, who represent the well-to-do farmers, small bankers, and merchants, such as LaFollette, Wheeler, Brookhart, etc., whose fortunes are more closely bound up with the old capitalist parties, will hesitate with the immediate formation of the third party but will surely continue this political combination.

6. The Future Development of the LaFollette Movement.

Because of the pressure of capitalist development and exploitation, and in spite of the comparative weakness of the LaFollette movement, as demonstrated in the elections, this movement, comprising an alliance between petty-bourgeoisie and the labor aristocracy, is bound to grow in volume and in power. Even though the LaFollette movement may continue in its present loose form, sooner or later it will be forced to overcome, partially at least, the contradictions of group and sectional interests within its rank, sufficiently to crystallize into a new political party. As a party it will be based upon the petty and middle sections of the bourgeoisie, the rich farmers, the professional groups, certain sections of the labor aristocracy, and the labor bureaucracy.

This party will represent a political alliance between the left wing of the bourgeoisie on the one hand, and the reactionary social-patriotic, class collaborationists wing of the labor movement on the other hand. It will function as the extreme left party of the American bourgeoisie and will continue to face its appeal mainly on two grounds: To the bourgeois middle classes this LaFollette movement will present the capitalist half of its phylosophy, that is, it will maintain that it alone is able to save American capitalism from destruction as a result of a violent revolution by the masses; while to the masses the LaFollette movement will present the so-called labor half of its physiognomy, claiming that it stands for the "just" demands of labor and against its being unfairly treated by capital. The masses of the workers and poor farmers, inasmuch as they reject the leadership of the old capitalist parties and are not yet ready to accept the leadership of and to give their support to the Workers Party, follow the lead of the LaFollette movement. This was emphatically demonstrated by the absorbtion of the farmer-labor party movement by the LaFollette movement, and by the vote of the industrial workers and poor farmers for LaFollette in the election.

In a sense this developing LaFollette party will marx the completion of a process which is taking place in almost every highly-developed capitalist country. It is the development towards an organizational merger between the political expression of the petty bourgeoisie and the political expression of the trade union bureaucracy and certain sections of the labor aristocracy.

In England this development is manifesting itself in the studied policy of the MacDonald group to transform the labor party from a political party of the trade unions into a combination between the bourgeois middle classes and the upper sections of labor, that is, by converting the labor party more completely into a bourgeois third party.

In France the same development is taking place in the form of a parliamentary alliance between the socialist party and the liberal parties of the bourgeoisie, the so-called "left bloc" which form the basis of the Herriot government. Socially and politically this left bloc is of the same nature as the LaFollette movement.

In Germany the social-democracy, which is objectively the party of the trade union reactionaries and the labor aristocracy, is working hand in hand with the liberal bourgeoisie and jointly they present the main support of the present German government.

In all these countries the working masses which are not following this petty-bourgeois combination, are either so politically immature that they still follow the parties of big capital and the land-holding aristocracy, or they are ideologically advanced enough to follow the Communist parties.

Like the late MacDonald government in England, which carried out the policies of British imperialism in India, Egypt, China, etc., like the Herriot government in France, which carried out the policies of the Comite des Forges and continues French imperialist policies in Morocco, Madagascar, French Indo-China, etc., like the German social-democracy continues the policies of German capitalism, the LaFollette movement, being of the same social composition, will inevitably continue the policies of American imperialism, despite its pacifistic phraseology.

Therefore, the LaFollette movement in America and the future LaFollette party, should be considered the American expression of democratic pacifism, the objective meaning of which is, in the words of the Fifth Congress of the Communist International, as follows:

"That the bourgeoisie can no longer rule according to its old methods, that this period reflects the instability of the capitalist structure, its decline, which is beginning to develop in a descending curve.

"The present democratic-pacifist governments, like governments of an analogical type which may still be formed, not only are incapable of carrying on a really democratic and peaceful policy, but on the copitrary, will themselves become Fascist very quickly. The class struggle will by no means be stifled, but will burn all the more brightly in the bounds of these 'democratic' and 'pacifist' forms. The change of regimes (democracy—fascism—democracy) will all the more certainly undermine the foundations of tottering capitalism. From each such change the masses of the people and, especially, the proletarian masses, will emerge all the richer in political experience, and seasoned with a greater readiness for the struggle, while the bourgeoisie and its servants, the social democratic leaders, will emerge with weakened forces, demoralized, and with no confidence left in themsleves or in their policies. And thus the forces of the proletarian revolution will grow until its decisive victory."

7. The LaFollette Movement and the Labor Party.

The movement towards a farmer-labor party, that is, a political mass party based upon the economic mass organizations of the workers and the poorest sections of the farmers, and pursuing a policy independent of bourgeois parties, and more particularly the movement for a farmer-labor ticket in the presidential elections of 1924, these movements have been defeated by the going-over of the C. P. P. A. and the Gompers' machine into the LaFollette camp carrying with them the great mass of organized workers. In fact one of the reasons why the C. P. P. A. and the Gompers' machine so readily accepted the candidacy of LaFollette and entered into the alliance with the petty bourgeoisie was to block and to frustrate the further development of such a farmer-labor party by giving the masses a class-collaborationist substitute which the latter accept as their own movement.

From now on it will be the policy of LaFollette's labor lieutenants to represent the LaFollette movement as the political movement of the American workers. It will be claimed by the socialists, the C. P. P. A., and all the other labor lieutenants of LaFollette, that the LaFollette movement is representing labor on the political field. And for some time to come, that is until the LaFollette movement will begin showing concrete and practical signs of its antagonism to the working class, the great bulk of the laboring masses of this country will progressively accept the LaFollette movement as their political expression. This means, that the question of trying to build a farmer-labor party, which shall base itself on the mass organizations of the workers and poorest sections of the farmers, is definitely out of the range of practical politics for the immediate future.

8. The United Front and Our Labor Party Tactics.

We accept the conception of the united front tactics as outlined and interpreted by the Fifth Congress of the Communist International. We look upon the tactics of the united front as a means of exposing the treachery of the trade union reactionaries, the class collaborationists, and social patriots, and as a means of winning over the masses for the struggle against capitalism under the leadership of the Communist Party, in short, as the central means of building the Workers Party into the mass Communist Party of America.

Three years ago our party adopted the position that a labor party policy was the only way of applying the tactics of the united front to the political conditions of America. To this decision our party was moved by the following considerations: The existence of the strong mass movement in the direction of a farmer-labor party as expressed by the hundreds of local and state farmer-labor parties, and, also by the formation of the C. P. P. A., which we interpreted as the result of this same mass pressure towards independent political action. We also realized that, unlike the Communist Party, which at that time was not to win away the masses from reformist mass political parties speaking in the name of labor, because there were none at that time in the United States, but to compel the reactionary trade union leaders to break with their own partners, politically and to lead the unions into the political struggle as labor organizations; that is, to promote among the masses the growing movement in favor of independent political action, and thus compel the trade union bureaucracy to either form a labor party or expose themselves before the masses as enemies of the working class.

Our conception of a labor party was that of a political party based upon the trade unions of America, with the Workers Party functioning within it as its most conscious and militant section, striving to win the mass movement to the revolutionary class struggle and to the leadership of the Workers Party. We held to the correct idea that the formation of a labor party becomes possible and inevitable only inasmuch as the economic mass organizations of the workers are compelled to join hands for independent political action. Because of the existence of such a movement, and because of the glaring bankruptcy and total ineffectiveness of the non-partisan tactics of Gompers and the C. P. P. A., our labor party slogan soon became a real fighting issue in the labor movement, appealing to wide circles of workers and poor farmers, and thus aiding us in our task of exposing the labor reactionaries and strengthening the influence of the Workers Party.

The first serious departure from the policy was made when the former majority of the Central Executive Committee abandoned the idea of a labor party based upon broad masses of organized workers, and adopted instead the policy of a labor party comprising only the Workers Party and such forms of sympathizing organizations. This policy was later crystallized in the Federated Farmer-Labor Party and developed into a theory by the "August thesis," adopted at a C. E. C. meeting in August, 1923. This theory of a labor party based upon the Workers Party with its immediate circle of sympathising organizations contained the menacing tendency of liquidating the Workers (Communist) party and substituting for it a non-Communist organization. It further carried with it the liquidation of the labor party from the mass movement for a farmer-labor party. For these reasons it was relentlessly combatted by the former minority, now majority, of the Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party.

The liquidation of labor party developed the LaFollette third-party movement developed simultaneously and threatened to absorb it. This raised before our party the problem of how to save the ideological and organizational independence of the farmer-labor movement. To solve this problem the C. E. C. adopted the policy of the "third party alliance," which, however, was not put into effect, by advice of the Communist International. The decision of the Communist International was correct. Experience has shown that the farmer-labor movement could not have been saved from absorbtion by the LaFollette movement even by the dangerous expedient of a "third party alliance." In the months preceding the election the LaFollette movement swept like a tidal wave over the farmer-labor movement, submerging it and drowning it out.

The defection to LaFollette of the former supporters of the farmer-labor party movement reduced the June 17 convention to a mere fraction of its anticipated size. By the time of the Cleveland conference of the C. P. P. A. those organizations not closely sympathetic to the Workers' Party and

(Continued on next page.)

SUMMARY OF THE C. E. C. THESIS ON THE ECONOMIC AND THE POLITICAL SITUATION AND THE TASKS OF THE WORKERS PARTY OF AMERICA

1. Sharpening of the Class Struggle. This is the period of the decline of capitalism. The chaos of the capitalist system in Europe is gradually extending itself to America. But in the United States capitalism is still strong, and is struggling desperately against the forces of dissolution. All predictable factors point, however, to an immediate downward plunge of American industry, overcoming the present slight upward tendency. It is not possible to predict how much capitalism can overcome the crisis with its present artificial program of great building operations, because, not being based upon normal investment for profit, it is not measurable. All known and predictable factors indicate renewed crisis, unemployment, and sharpening of the class struggle.

2. Farmer-Labor Party Movement Merges in LaFollette "third party." The outstanding change in the political situation is the appearance of the LaFollette petty bourgeois alliance and the merging with it of the farmer-labor party movement. This is the American expression of the "democratic-pacifist" period, of illusion on the part of the rebelling workers and a conflict can be remedied by petty bourgeois reformism under the leadership of the middle class. It is the same political fact that was expressed in England by the MacDonald government, in France by the "left bloc" and the Herriot government, in Germany by the subordination of the social-democrats to the "center parties."

3. Struggle Against LaFollettism. The principal task of the Workers Party is to break away the workers and poor farmers from LaFollettism, and to win them for the class struggle. When a strong and independent movement for a farmer-labor party existed, an effective weapon for this work was found in the slogan "For a Farmer-Labor Party." Now that this movement has lost its independence and is merged in the LaFollette movement, the slogan has become ineffective. Now as before the united front is the principal tactic, but today it must be the united front to fight for specific demands, on burning issues, from below in the shop or "council of action," unemployment councils, shop committees, etc., and not the united front from the top in the shape of farmer-labor parties.

4. The Comintern and the F.-L. P. The Communist International approved of our past farmer-labor party policy because it meant struggle within a mass movement for its penetration with Communism. But the facts have changed, the farmer-labor movement is no longer an independent mass movement, a change which the Comintern foresaw when it warned of the possible necessity of the Workers Party running its own candidates, on its own platform, under its own name, in the elections. To penetrate the C. P. P. A. (labor wing of the LaFollette movement) means participation in the "third party," which is absolutely unallowable.

5. Bolshevization of the Workers Party. In the difficult period of class struggle just ahead, the first necessity is a real Bolshevik party. The Workers Party must be made into such a party. It must be the leading figure in every struggle of workers. It must train and weld into its members in Marxism and Leninism; it must completely reorganize itself on the basis of shop nuclei; it must be a monolithic party, hewn of one piece, prohibiting fractions, groups, and tendencies; it must make relentless struggle against opportunism in all its forms within the Workers Party, against the 2½ International tendency, represented in the group around the Volkszeitung, as well as against the more insidious and menacing danger of farmer-laborism in our ranks.

6. No Substitutes for the Workers Party. Nothing can replace the Workers Party either as the leader of the proletarian revolution or as the practical leader in the everyday struggle. The idea that a "farmer-labor party" is the natural and only possible leader of the practical struggles of the workers, and that it is the duty of the Workers Party to create such a farmer-labor party, is a petty bourgeois deviation, it is opportunism, it is a revision of the fundamental theories of Leninism, and it leads directly to the liquidation of the Workers Party.

7. The Workers Party is the Only Class Party of the Workers. There is only one party that fights always and everywhere for the interests of the working class, that has no interests apart from those of the working class, and that party is the party of Communism, the Workers Party. The Workers Party must claim and fight for its position of leadership. No false modesty can be allowed to stand in the way. The Workers Party must tell the working class that only by following a revolutionary policy, only by accepting the leadership of the Communist International and its section, the Workers Party, either by joining the Workers Party or entering into a united front with it, can the working class fight for immediate betterment and final emancipation. The Workers Party, under its own name, its own banner, its own program of practical struggle, must enter into every battle of the workers against their oppressors, calling for and forming where possible all sorts of united fronts upon specific issues, and using every such struggle, whether alone or in a united front, as instruments for directly recruiting the workers into the Workers Party and building it into the mass Communist Party that will lead the proletarian revolution in America.

ISSUE LETTER ON ORGANIZATION AND CONDUCT OF THE PARTY DISCUSSION

Federation Secretaries and City Central Committees on the organization and conduct of, the party discussion. To be read at the next regular meetings of these committees thruout the party.

DEAR COMRADES:—It is the intention of the Central Executive Committee that in this pre-convention period the party membership be given the widest possible opportunity to study and discuss all phases of the central problem at present confronting the Workers Party, in order that the whole party membership may be able to arrive at a mature and well considered judgment before passing final decision.

To this end, for the most thoro and widespread discussion in the history of the party, the Central Executive Committee is making ample provisions to give the membership full opportunity to familiarize themselves with the points of view of the minority as well as that of the Central Executive Committee.

As a guarantee that the discussion will be carried on in a constructive manner, the Central Executive Committee considers it necessary to lay down some general principles regarding the conduct of the discussion for the advice and guidance of all party committees, which will be responsible to the Central Executive Committee for putting them into effect in all sections of the party under their supervision.

A fundamental condition for such a thoro and constructive discussion is that no attempt be made in any section of the party to force the membership to snap judgment or premature decision on the vital problems confronting the party. Such attempts are bound to produce destructive results and to militate against the party arriving at a sober and well-considered decision.

An example of what may result from any such attempts occurred at a general membership meeting in Chicago held on Nov. 19. At this meeting, which was held on the eve of the full C. E. C. meeting where theses were to be considered and the discussion officially opened, an attempt was made to force the meeting to an immediate decision on our central political problem. This attempt was bitterly resented by another section of the meeting which insisted upon a study of the theses and a more thoro discussion before coming to a decision. The result was to completely demoralize the meeting, to divert attention from the main questions of policy to questions of parliamentary procedure and technic, and to finally break up the meeting in disorder.

Similar attempts will inevitably produce similar results. The Central Executive Committee therefore calls upon all party committees to so organize and conduct the discussion as to prevent the occurrence anywhere in the party of incidents of this kind.

We are enclosing herewith a copy of a C. E. C. resolution on the party discussion. This resolution, together with this letter, must be the guide of all responsible party committees during the party discussion. The discussion must be as thoro and complete as possible. All party members must be given full opportunity to hear and discuss all points of view and to freely express their own opinions. There must be no limitation or restriction of these rights in any section of the party. It is only by strictly adhering to these principles that we shall be able to mobilize the collective experience and intelligence of the party for a correct solution of our immediate problems, and to proceed from this to the strengthening of our party and its development towards a mass Communist Party capable of leading the toiling masses of America to a victory over the bourgeoisie.

Fraternally,

The Central Executive Committee of the Workers Party of America.

Wm. Z. Foster, Chairman,
C. E. Ruthenberg, Secretary.

GREAT LABOR CARTOONS

by such noted artists in the ranks of Labor as

FRED ELLIS
HAY BALES
WM. S. FANNING

in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

GET IT!

Open Discussion on Immediate Party Tasks

(Continued from Page 3)

which had participated in the June 17 convention, also deserted to La-Follette. The whole labor party movement thus lost its mass character, and the organization formed at St. Paul soon found itself reduced to little more than the Workers Party and a comparatively small circle of sympathizing organizations. It was a recognition of the fact that the farmer-labor movement had been absorbed by the LaFollette movement, and that the former no longer had the proportions of a mass movement, that dictated the action of the Workers Party on July 8 in withdrawing its support from the farmer-labor presidential candidates and nominating candidates of its own.

The events of the campaign have abundantly proved the correctness of our analysis of the situation and the policy we adopted for the campaign. It has strengthened the revolutionary morale of our membership. It has won for our party the sympathies and support of every class-conscious worker in America, and it has established the Workers Party as the only working class political party in the United States.

The fundamental conditions determining the attitude of our party toward the farmer-labor movement are the same now as at the beginning of our experience in this field on the basis of the united front tactics of the Communist International. At the time when the farmer-labor movement was developing a mass character, moving in the direction of an independent party, it was correct for our party itself to raise the slogan of "a farmer-labor party" and participate actively in the movement for it. When, as became apparent in July, 1924, and as it is apparent now, the idea of a farmer-labor party lacks mass support and appeal among industrial workers and poor farmers, the basic reasons for our support of this movement are not in existence. The Workers Party, therefore, cannot advantageously promulgate the slogan of a "farmer-labor party" at the present time. The further development of the class struggle may eventually again create a mass sentiment for the formation of a farmer-labor party. In such case the Workers Party may find it advantageous to again raise the slogan, adopting a labor party policy, it was mainly on the strength of the information supplied to the Comintern by our delegates, that there was in existence a strong mass movement towards a farmer-labor party.

Now the situation is totally changed. There are no longer present the basic conditions which moved our own party and the Comintern to adopt a farmer labor party policy. The coming of this charge was foreseen by the Communist international when the American question was last discussed in the Comintern, when the theses proposed for passed on the proposed "third party alliance." In the theses then adopted by the Comintern jointly with the C. E. C. of our own party, in that section of it which deals with the June 17 convention, we find the following very significant words: "In case of a split (in the farmer-labor convention) the question of whether or not the Workers Party shall act altogether independently in its own name, in the election campaign, or whether it shall launch a campaign under the name of the farmer-labor party, will depend largely upon whether or not it (the Workers Party) is successful in the split and will depend on how far it maintains contact with the working masses at the June 17 conference."

With its usual far-sightedness, the Comintern distinctly foresaw the possibility of the farmer-labor movement being swallowed up by the petty-bourgeois LaFollette movement, and in such case provided that our party enter into the election campaign and take the political field under its own name, on its own program, and with its own candidates. This is conclusive proof of the fact that the Comintern's main guide in the question of a farmer-labor party is the existence of a mass movement taking the form of such a party, and that in the absence of such a movement the Workers Party cannot continue the use of the farmer-labor slogan and must look for other slogans and tactical means to mobilize the masses for the class struggle under its leadership.

The policy outlined in this thesis is based precisely upon the principle of the Comintern. Our approach to the question, our method of handling it, and our solution of it, which is that the present conditions no longer justify the use of the farmer-labor party slogan, is in complete accord with the position taken by the Communist International. The Communist International, proceeding upon its established principles for the labor party policy, will support the position of the C. E. C. as expressed in this thesis.

The United Front and Our Present Objective.

The united front policy remains the central tactical means for the mobilization of the masses for the class struggle and for the building of the Workers Party into a mass Communist Party. We accept the united front tactics as elucidated and explained by the Fifth Congress of the Communist International. This means that it is the duty of our party first of all to establish contact with the rank and file of the working class for immediate struggles against the capitalists and their government. As all these united front campaigns it will be the duty of the Workers Party to bring forward its Communist position on all problems confronting the working class, frankly and severely attacking all the betrayals of the workers and utilizing these campaigns for the strengthening and upbuilding of the Workers Party.

At present the main objective of our united front policy is to start a movement from below to compel the so-called labor wing in the LaFollette movement to break its alliance with the petty-bourgeoisie and to win the masses to the class struggle and to the leadership of the Workers Party. While powerful labor bureaucrats, such as Lewis, Hutcheson, and Berry are openly allied with the parties of the big bourgeoisie, we must realize that the main obstacle to the further development of the class struggle in America is the social pacifist illusion spread and cultivated by the LaFollette movement among the working masses. At present the main strength of LaFolletteism and consequently the main danger to the class struggle, comes from the ideological hegemony of LaFolletteism over the minds of large sections of workers and poor farmers. We must therefore concentrate our energy to expose and defeat the petty-bourgeois influence of LaFolletteism in the labor movement. The only way in which this can be done effectively is by putting up against the LaFollette movement the program of consistent class political action, that is, to propagate the revolutionary class struggle as against social pacifism and social reformism, which means putting up against the LaFollette party the Workers Party.

This presents to us the problem of developing a series of campaigns designed to expose the bourgeois nature of LaFolletteism which can be accomplished in no other way than by raising concrete issues and by assisting and encouraging the rank and file in the formation of direct organs of mass struggle. The working masses will need organization and leadership in the shops, consequently we must organize and lead in the formation of shop committees. The growing army of unemployed will need leadership and organization, consequently, it will be the duty of the Workers Party by means of the united front tactics to initiate and lead in the formation of councils of unemployed. As the working masses gain militancy and aggressiveness the situation will become ripe and the necessity urgent for a general mobilization of all the forces of labor for a concerted struggle against the triumphant capitalist reaction. The working masses in America will then feel the need of a unifying center for leadership and direction and a general labor congress elected by the rank and file of labor in the trade unions and in the shops and amongst the unemployed will become the best means for the unification of the struggles of labor. It is the duty of the Workers Party to immediately begin to popularize the idea of such a labor congress, thus preparing the minds of the workers for the coming tasks. The guiding tactical principle in all these activities must be the following: That it is chiefly on the basis of the immediate needs of the workers and their immediate struggles that all these organs of the rank and file will be brought into existence.

As the class struggle develops and our campaign against LaFolletteism progresses there will be found in a number of localities organized labor bodies ready to break their alliance with the petty bourgeoisie and to enter election campaigns as labor organizations. In such cases, it will be the duty of the Workers Party to secure the political support of these labor bodies for the Workers Party. Wherever this is impossible because of the immaturity of the masses, the Workers Party will propose united labor fronts for election purposes. In proposing whether such united fronts will be carried on under the auspices of labor congresses, councils of action, labor parties, etc., the Workers Party will be guided by one principle only, namely, whether they will promote the class struggle and enable the Workers Party to build itself into a mass Communist Party.

IMMEDIATE TASKS OF THE PARTY

1. Exposure of the Bourgeois Nature of LaFolletteism.

This becomes the central problem of our agitation and propaganda. It must be carried on along the following lines: (a) Formulate concrete political demands based on immediate burning needs of the masses; (b) popularize these demands among the masses; (c) call upon the rank and file in the shops, unions, among the unemployed, to address resolutions, petitions, and to hold mass meetings demanding that the "labor" wing in the LaFollette combination and the LaFollette group in congress propose legislation along the lines of the demands of the masses, at the same time creating the necessary united front rank and file organization for the struggle; (d) by these campaigns unmask the bourgeois nature of LaFolletteism and of the labor lieutenants of the LaFollette movement, expose the futility of democratic-pacifist parliamentarism and demonstrate the necessity of following the leadership of the only class political party, the Workers Party; (e) the economic and political slogans that will be employed in these campaigns should be grouped around the following central slogans: (a) break the alliance with the middle, and petty bourgeoisie; (b) form the united front from below of the workers and poor farmers with the Workers Party; (c) as against the LaFollette party, the Workers Party; (d) as against the futility of LaFollette's parliamentary reformism, the use of the organized mass power of the workers for political ends under the leadership of the revolutionary working class political party, the Workers Party.

2. Work Amongst the Agricultural Laborers and Poor Farmers.

With regard to the agricultural proletariat our party has practically the same duties to perform as with regard to the city proletariat. We must encourage and assist the organization and strengthening of unions of agricultural workers, giving full support to the I. W. W. where it is functioning as a mass union in this field. These agricultural unions to be linked up to the unions of the industrial workers for common action against the capitalists and rich farmers. Hand in hand with this must go the building up of the Workers Party branches. The class conscious elements among the agricultural workers must be organized into Communists and become part of the Workers Party.

While keeping in mind that the basis of our party is the industrial proletariat, we must also pay close attention to the semi-proletarian elements and to the poorer sections of the farmers. These can be brought over politically very close to our party and eventually a considerable proportion of them may be assimilated into our party organization. It is the duty of our party, about, our task will be to separate the semi-proletarian elements from the well-to-do farmers and the urban petty bourgeoisie on the basis of the specific economic and political needs of the poorer farmers and other groups of exploited farmers against the landholding corporations, grain speculators, the banks, and the rich farmers. It will be the duty of the Workers Party, after it has established a Communist organizational base among the agricultural workers, to assist the semi-proletarian elements of the farms to form their own economic organizations and to link up their struggle with the general class struggle of the American working class. It is of supreme importance that the Central Executive Committee of the party establish an agrarian department with a responsible national head. The special nature of our agrarian work demands special means of agitation and organization, also a special agrarian press, which can best be taken care of by an agrarian department of the party.

The party must realize the supreme importance for the success of the proletarian revolution that it is absolutely necessary to secure for our party and for the proletarian class struggle the sympathy and support of the agricultural workers and poor farmers.

3. Work Amongst the Negroes.

The Negro masses of America, mostly workers and poor farmers, are the most oppressed and persecuted section of the toiling masses of America. The cause of the oppressed Negro masses is the cause of the Workers Party. We must extend our activities among the Negro workers and poor farmers, leading their struggles against all forms of race discrimination, for complete equality in industry, in the trade unions, and all other phases of social intercourse, and against capitalist exploitation. We must emphasize in our agitation that the Negro masses can see no only salvation as a persecuted race and also as a part of the working class, lies in the revolutionary class struggle under the leadership of the Workers (Communist) Party.

4. Industrial Work.

The task, as in the past, the task of securing the leadership of the workers in the industries and mobilizing them for the struggle remains the basic task of our party. To accomplish this task our party must hasten the reorganization on the shop nuclei basis, which will give us direct contact with the workers and an organizational basis in the shops. Thru the shop nuclei we shall be able to actively participate and win the leadership in the daily struggles of the workers, and thereby extend organized Communist influence in the trade unions. The organization of the militant left wing in the trade unions, as one of the main means of revolutionizing the trade unions, must be carried forward with renewed vigor and intensity. The organization of the unorganized masses must occupy an ever larger share of the attention of the Workers Party. We must realize once for all that only the organized efforts of the Communists, leading a militant left wing, will succeed in bringing the unorganized into the labor movement and in transforming labor's economic organizations into organs of revolutionary struggle, industrial in form, and based upon shop committees.

5. Imperialism and the Dawes Plan.

Driven by the development of the capitalist economy of the United States, American finance class is fast assuming the position of the foremost imperialist power in the world. American imperialism has already subdued and brought under its domination in various forms almost the entire continent of America, North and South. Now, thru the Dawes plan, American imperialism has made a bid for world domination. In consequence of this, militarism and navalism are rapidly coming to the foreground in the United States. This means more oppression for the working class and the danger of new imperialist wars.

It will be the duty of the Workers Party to open the eyes of the American masses to the menace of American imperialism, to the treacherous role of Gompers and the labor bureaucracy generally in their support of the imperialist policies of American capitalism. The immediate task of the party is to mobilize the American working masses against the Dawes plan and all the imperialist and militaristic adventures of American capitalism in Central and South America. It will be the duty of our party to initiate a movement of the entire working class on the American continent for a defense of the struggles of the treacherous native small nations and for a united struggle against domination of American capital.

6. Struggle Against Unemployment.

As unemployment develops upon a mass scale, which is a definite and inevitable result of the irreconcilable contradictions of American capitalism, the party must take the lead immediately in stimulating, initiating, and organizing councils of the unemployed in co-operation with shop councils, trade unions and other workers' organizations, upon a local, regional, and national basis.

The following general principles shall guide our participation in this campaign which must be closely linked up with the general program of the party in all its phases; (a) unemployment is the inevitable phenomenon of capitalism and can be abolished only by the abolition of the system that produces it; (b) the struggle against unemployment must acquaint the workers with this fact without dampening their ardor for the immediate struggle but rather intensifying it; (c) to this end practical sets of demands must be formulated, slogans raised, and a program of action established designed to weld all protest and actions against unemployment into a national movement. This program must in turn be adjusted to each local and industrial situation in a practical manner; (d) the slogans and practical actions of the struggle will follow two general lines—political and economic. They will be directed against the government as the representative of the capitalist system and against the employing capitalists as the immediate exploiter. These two aspects will be intertwined and interchangeable; (e) we reaffirm our unemployment program which outlines the slogans and forms of organization for the struggle against unemployment.

THE BOLSHEVIZATION OF THE PARTY.

We subscribe fully to the decision of the Fifth Congress of the Communist International that, "The most important task in the present period of activity of the Comintern is to Bolshevize the sections of the Communist International." In accordance with the principles laid down by the Fifth Congress, the Workers' Party must become a real mass party. It must have the ability to maneuver, it must be able to resort to every strategic maneuver against the enemy. Its tactics must be neither dogmatic nor sectarian. The Workers' Party must be essentially a revolutionary and Marxist party, a centralized party, prohibiting factions, tendencies, and groups. It must be a monolithic party of one piece. It must also carry on regular concrete propaganda in the capitalist army. It is only by Bolshevizing the Workers' Party, by instilling into it the true spirit of the teachings of Leninism, that we can succeed in our historic mission to lead the masses to the overthrow of capitalism in the United States.

1. Communist Education.

One of the most effective means of Bolshevizing our party is the education of our membership in the principles and tactics of Leninism. The previous experiences of our party demonstrate the great need for such systematic education. A beginning has already been made by the educational department of the party in establishing party study classes throut the country, by the organization of party schools in New York, Chicago, and Boston, by commencing the publication of a number of important theoretical books and pamphlets, and by the organization in a number of districts of circuit study classes. This must be followed up with a more extensive net of study classes and by the further development of a comprehensive library of Marxism and Leninism. The central executive committee realizes the great importance of this work and has instructed the educational department to prepare a special thesis on Communist educational work.

2. Shop Nuclei.

Our party membership is gradually becoming convinced that the shop nuclei form of organization is the most effective means of transferring the Workers' Party into a mass Communist party. Only a small beginning has been made as yet in the actual work of reorganization. However, since the main difficulty of convincing our party membership of the necessity of such reorganization is being overcome, the process of reorganization will from now on proceed more rapidly. It will take the concerted effort of the entire general party organization, the support of the federation bureaus, and the guidance of the Communist International to complete the process of putting our party upon the basis of shop nuclei organization. The central executive committee will submit to the convention a special thesis on shop nuclei.

3. War Against Opportunism in the Party.

The greatest danger which may befall a Communist Party is to become infected with opportunism and opportunistic tendencies. The first step toward the real Bolshevization of our party must be the stamping out completely of every vestige and sign of such opportunistic tendencies.

A. The Second and a Half International Tendencies. As pointed out by the Communist International there are present within our party certain tendencies manifesting some remnants of the ideology of the Second and a Half International. These menacing tendencies were particularly noticeable in a number of articles which appeared in the New York Volkszeitung, edited by Comrade Lore. The spirit of these articles and their general trend are totally foreign to the spirit of Lenin ism and cannot be tolerated in a Communist Party.

We need only refer to the sympathetic attitude assumed by the Volkszeitung toward Paul Levi and toward Serrati when the latter opposed the Communist International. Also the super-critical attitude towards the Communist International and the tactics of the party that manifested itself in the Volkzeitung on various occasions. These are merely surface indications of menacing leanings which, if allowed to spread among the party members, will drive a wedge between our party and the Communist International and the lasting detriment of our party.

Other tendencies leaning toward opportunism are the hesitation and weakness exhibited by some of our comrades in the trades unions in various industries and localities in their struggle against the right wing. The party must realize that one of our principal fighting fronts is in the trade unions. Here our comrades have to meet daily the ferocious attacks of the lieutenants of capitalism in the labor movement. Here, more than anywhere else, must our comrades exhibit militancy, aggressiveness, ability to maneuver against the enemy constantly keeping before their eyes the main objectives of our movement. The least deviation on this field of battle from the revolutionary lines of Leninism weakens and endangers our whole party. The way to guard against these weaknesses is strict adherence to the letter and spirit of the tactics of the Communist International and the Red International of Labor Unions, of which the representative in the United States is the Trade Union Educational League.

B. The Right Deviation of Farmer-Laborism in our Party. The Communist International has repeatedly pointed out that the united front tactics, altho the most effective means in mobilizing the masses for the class struggle and for the upbuilding of a mass Communist Party, also carried with it serious dangers which Communist Parties must constantly guard against.

The application of the united front tactics in America, thru our fight to establish a farmer-labor party, has on the whole strengthened our party and extended its influence among the masses. But, at the same time, it gave rise within our party to a menacing tendency to make the farmer-labor party an end in itself and to relegate the Workers' Party to the background.

The position taken by the comrades of this tendency is that the only way to crystallize independent political action of workers and poor farmers is thru a farmer-labor party, forgetting the existence of the Workers' Party as the political class party of the workers and poor farmers. These comrades also take the position that the only way to build a Communist Party in America is thru a farmer-labor party, thus enunciating a new principle that the Workers' Party can never become a mass Communist Party except thru organizing and working within a farmer-labor party.

Notwithstanding the declaration of these comrades that they conceive the farmer-labor party merely as an instrument for the building up of the Workers' Party, the effect of this theory is to tend to liquidate the Workers (Communist) Party in favor of a non-Communist farmer-labor party. These comrades underestimate the delusion that the Workers' Party as such and under its own name cannot successfully appeal to and absorb into its ranks large masses of workers. Their theory is that the Workers' Party can at present appeal only to a small section of theoretically convinced Communists and that in order to approach with Communist propaganda larger masses of workers our party must form new special political organizations, such as women's councils and a farmer-labor party. This non-Communist conception of the role of the party manifests itself particularly in the tendency to resort to all kinds of new political organizations, substitutes for the Workers' Party, whenever an opportunity presents itself to appeal to large masses of workers on concrete issues of everyday life.

The protagonists of this theory attempt to justify their false conceptions on the basis of the united front tactics of the Communist International. This is totally wrong. The fundamental idea of the united front tactics is to bring the Workers' Party itself into direct contact with the rank and file of the working class in their everyday struggles against the capitalists, and to popularize it as the leader of the fight for their daily needs. The attempt to set up a farmer-labor party in the absence of a powerful mass movement in favor of such a party is nothing else than the setting up a semi-Communist substitute for the Workers' Party.

A fundamental principle of the united front tactics is that a Communist Party must absorb into its own ranks every section and group of the working class that accepts in the struggle the policies and slogans of the Communist Party. Therefore, every attempt by the Workers' Party to set up middle-of-the-way political bodies to take the place of the Workers' Party in the eyes of the masses is in direct violation of Communist principles, and if carried to any length will spell the liquidation of the Workers' (Communist) Party. This farmer-laborism opportunistic tendency with in the Workers' Party means death and destruction to the Communist movement in America. It manifests a lack of faith in the appealing power of a Communist organization and in its ability to become the practical leader of the struggles of the workers. It is a right wing deviation which, in quest of imaginary immediate results, sacrifices the future of the Workers' Party. This tendency must be relentlessly combatted and stamped out.

The Workers' Party is still a small party, but it is on the right road to great influence in the labor movement. By applying the tactics of the united front from below on the basis of the economic and political struggles of the masses, we shall build the Workers' Party into a mass Communist Party, and thereby hasten the day of victory of the American proletariat.

RESOLUTIONS OF CENTRAL EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE ON PARTY DISCUSSION

1. The theses of the Central Executive Committee in its entirety shall be printed at once in single issues in all party papers. The theses of the minority in its entirety shall be printed in the following issue of each paper.

2. Discussion of the theses in the party press shall commence immediately after their publication. Articles contributed to the discussion shall be printed in the DAILY WORKER in a special department under the heading "Party Discussion."

3. All party papers are obligated, as a matter of party discipline, to print all articles relating to the party discussion sent to them thru the party press service.

4. Preliminary discussion of the theses shall begin at once in the party branches.

5. After the preliminary discussion in the party press and in the party branches has continued for the period of four weeks, general membership meetings shall be called to discuss the theses. The Central Executive Committee will send representatives of both the Central Executive Committee and of the minority to open and sum up the discussion at the membership meetings in the following cities: New York, Chicago, Boston, Detroit, Cleveland, Philadelphia, New Haven, Buffalo, Pittsburgh, Minneapolis-St. Paul.

6. The Central Executive Committee will set the dates for the membership meetings in all the cities as listed above, to which it will send representatives.

7. All general membership meetings now scheduled shall be postponed to comply with the provisions of this resolution.

8. The convention date will be set by the Central Executive Committee as soon as approval has been secured from the Communist International. At least sixty days from the date of the publication of the Central Executive Committee political theses shall be allowed for discussion before the convention.

9. This resolution is to be published immediately in the party press.

10. All articles in all party papers must carry the signatures of their authors and no party paper shall carry unsigned editorial articles pertaining to the discussion.

White Terror?

You will learn a good deal about it from the article

"White Terror in Europe—Can America Be Far Behind?"

By ROSE KARSNER.

Be sure to read it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY—and you will get other splendid contributions if you SUBSCRIBE!

The World of Labor • Industry & Agriculture

RULING CLASSES EVERYWHERE USE REIGN OF TERROR

Workers Must Come to Aid of Victims

The world war has left most of the European countries bankrupt. It has undermined the political power of the ruling class. Ever present hunger and misery have created a never ending source of incentive for the working masses to struggle against the rule of the bankrupts.

White Terror Reigns.

But the ruling classes hold onto power by the point of their teeth. Instruments of government are used by them more than ever as instruments of suppression and oppression. Everywhere capitalists have created a united front against danger of rebellion of the suffering masses. Under the guise of justice, white terror is arming itself, trying to arrest the onward march of the proletariat. Monarchists and socialists appear arm in arm as defenders of capitalism in most of the European states.

This campaign is designed to wear out the enemies of capitalism. It wants to rob the hosts of the proletarians of their most aggressive fighters and leaders. It wants to rob the advance guard of the workers of its spirit. It desires to strike terror into the hearts of the dependents of such fighters, so they may prevail on their breadwinners to submit.

Demand Release of Political Prisoners.

There is only one way to counteract that campaign. Actions of international solidarity of the workers of the world must assure the victims in the fortresses and penitentiaries of capitalist white terror that they have not suffered in vain. It must assure these victims that their loved ones at home are adopted by the workers of the world. It must prove to them that their suffering finds an echo in the hearts of millions of exploited. This echo must thunder back into the ears of reactionary capitalism everywhere the demand: Release political prisoners!

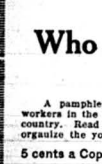
The Committee for International Red Aid was created for the purpose of organizing this international action of solidarity. The International Red Aid appeals to the workers of the world for support in this work.

Send Aid to Victims of White Terror

Red Aid awaits a generous response. It is sure of political action of the masses to meet the onslaught of the enemy. It expects many contributions to relieve the sufferings of all the victims of white terror, as far as possible. Send yours to the American section—Committee for International Workers' Aid, 19 South Lincoln street, Chicago, Illinois.

Subscribe for "Your Daily," the DAILY WORKER.

How to Be Healthy



For many years people have been suffering from many sicknesses. Many have gone to doctors who gave them medicines for a trial after several trials and operations they failed to regain their health.

MEN AND WOMEN

If you are suffering from any ailments, come to my office and I will try to help you without the use of medicine or an operation.

DR. TAFT

1555 West Roosevelt Road

Daily 9 to 12 a. m.—2 to 5—6 to 8 p. m. Sundays and Holidays 9 to 12 a. m.

TELEPHONE CANAL 3459

COMMUNIST THEORY AND TACTICS TAUGHT AT WORKERS' EDUCATIONAL CENTERS ORGANIZED IN NEW YORK

(Special to The Daily Worker)

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—The organization of classes in Communist theory and tactics is going ahead with full speed in the Workers' Educational Centers of New York. These centers were opened by the Workers' School so as to give workers all over the city the opportunity of obtaining Communist instruction, and thus equipping themselves for a more militant struggle in the labor movement.

The opening of classes is being greeted with enthusiasm everywhere. The Brownsville Educational Center, with headquarters at 1544 Pitin Avenue, Brooklyn, has already started a program of educational activities which promises well for the building up of a strong Communist educational institution in the section. Classes meet as follows:

1. A. B. C. of Communism; instructor, George Siskind. Every Monday.

2. Historical Background of the International Communist Movement; instructor, Mark Rosenberg. Every Tuesday.

3. English, Elementary and Advanced; instructor, Ray Bennet. Every Friday.

Considerable interest is being shown in the extensive course of study outlined by the Harlem Educational Center, with headquarters at 64 E. 104th St. The comrades in the Harlem section, which is the splendid work in the recent election campaign carried on by the Workers Party, are determined to make their educational center the best in the city. Classes begin Monday, November 24th, and will be held as follows:

1. A.B.C. of Communism; instructor, Rebecca Grecht; every Tuesday.

2. Economic Science; instructor, George Siskind; every Friday.

3. American Economic and Social History; instructor, Beatrice Carlin; every Wednesday.

4. English, Elementary; instructor, Sophie Mesnil; Every Monday.

5. English, Advanced; instructor, S. Ginsburg; every Monday.

The Williamsburg Educational Center, with headquarters at 61 Graham Ave., Brooklyn, is organizing a class in the A.B.C of Communism, with Albert Miller as instructor. The class in American Economic and Social Development, given by Comrade William Kohn, will meet every Sunday morning.

In the Bronx Educational Center, 1347 Boston Road, Comrade Stamler will lead a class in the A. B. C. of Communism. Classes in English meet as follows:

1. Elementary English; instructor, S. Feishin; every Monday.

2. Advanced English; instructor, E. Jacobson, every Friday.

In response to the demand for a class in Lower Manhattan, a course in the elements of communism will be given at the headquarters of the school, 208 East 12th Street. In Coney Island, also, Comrade Ray Bennet conducts a class in the A. B. C. of Communism every Sunday morning at 3109 Surf Ave.

Registration for all these classes is still open. Workers are urged to enroll now so as to get the full benefit of the courses.

Information and registration at 208 East 12th Street, Room 1; Workers Educational Centers, or thru party branches.

NEW LIGHTS ON CHINA!

A most interesting interview with a great figure in the affairs of this country in

"A Visit with Sun Yat Sen"

By

Alfred Wagenknecht.

You can enjoy it in the December issue of the WORKERS MONTHLY.

NABISCO

WHO OWNS THE PLANTS AND PROFITS MAKING NABISCO?

WHAT ARE THE CONDITIONS OF THE YOUNG SLAVES?

Read

Who Owns–Who Makes NABISCO

A pamphlet describing the horrible conditions of the young workers in the plants of the National Biscuit Company all over the country. Read of the campaign of the Young Workers League to orgauize the young slaves all over the land.

5 cents a Copy 25 copies for $1.00 $3.50 per hundred

Order from the

YOUNG WORKERS LEAGUE OF AMERICA

1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

Your Union Meeting

Fourth Wednesday, Nov. 26, 1924.

No.	Name of Local and Place of Meeting.
	Blacksmither District Council, 119 S. Throop St.
1	Miller Makers, Monroe and Racine.
10	Carpenters, 17 Garfield Blvd.
21	Carpenters, Western and Lexington.
242	Carpenters, 5448 S. Ashland Ave.
181	Carpenters, 4656 S. Robey St.
1784	Carpenters, 1838 N. Halsted St. H. Fehling, Rec. Sec'y., 2253 W. Grace St. Irving 7587.
1922	Carpenters, 6414 S. Halsted St.
2907	Carpenters, 1561 Maple Ave., Evanston, Ill.
181	Cooper, 1500 Kenosha Ave.
3	Hod Carriers, 1305 W. Division St.
642	Hod Carriers, 810 W. Harrison St.
4	Jewelry Workers, 19 S. Adams St.
104	Ladies' Garment Workers, 328 W. Van Buren Street.
	Marine Cooks, 357 N. Clark St.
126	Machinists, 113 S. Ashland Blvd.
524	Machinists, 735 N. Cicero Ave.
375	Maintenance of Way, 428 W. 63rd Street.
64	Painters, Sherman & Main Sts., Evanston, Ill.
5	Plasterers, 910 W. Monroe St.
	Railway Carmen, Dist. Council, 5448 S. Ashland Ave.
667	Railway Carmen, 5444 Wentworth Ave.
1340	Railway Carmen, 5448 Ashland Ave.
219	Railway Trainmen, 426 W. 63rd St., 7:30 P. M.
11	Roofers, 777 W. Adams St.
73	Sheet Metal, 714 W. Harrison St.
465	Sheet Metal, 5324 S. Halsted St.
753	Teamsters, 173 W. Washington St.
787	Teamsters, (Meats), 220 S. Ashland Blvd.
789	Teamsters (Bone), 4900 S. Halsted Street.
13046	Tunnelmen, 810 W. Harrison St.
924	Tunnel and Subway Workers, 810 W. Harrison St.

Note—Unless otherwise stated all meetings are at 8 p. m.)

RUSSIAN ISSUES TO COST HUGHES HIS CABINET JOB

Expect to Take Up His Bed and Walk

(By The Federated Press)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 25.—Hughes will leave the cabinet, after final attack on Russia, and Hoover will stay, according to the latest information from persons intimately in touch with their plans. Hughes' departure will be explained to the public as being occasioned by his need for making some money by the practice of corporation law. To his friends the truth will be told—he is outraged at the manner in which Sen. Borah, slated for chairman of the senate foreign relations committee, is "driving" him.

Hughes will retreat from the department, where he has been bombarded on issues of international conference, revision of the Versailles treaties, recognition of Russia and world disarmament. Before going, he will probably cause the publication of a great mass of propaganda material of the W. J. Burns type, to prejudice the public against Russian recognition. If the forecasts are borne out, this material will assert that the Soviet Union is now the scene of wholesale persecution, imprisonment and execution of political liberals. The recent trouble in the Georgian Republic will be represented as a savage massacre of patriots, etc.

Hoover is expected to stay in the cabinet for at least two more years with the hope of exerting more influence on cabinet decisions than has been the case during Hughes' presence there.

Hold Up Meet - Steal Books of N. Y. Candy Workers' Union

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.—Union candy workers in Astoria, a section of New York, were holding an enthusiastic organization meeting when suddenly the lights went out and five young men were seen rushing up on the stage and stealing the union's books. Union members suspect the foreman of a large candy company which is bitterly fighting the union's efforts to organize its workers of leading the raid and have asked police to investigate. The workers continued their union meeting with more determination than ever to fight for decent conditions.

Gary Talks of Big Army Plans.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Nov. 25.—Judge Elbert Gary, chairman U. S. Steel corporation, inspecting West Point military academy, stated that with plans formulated by the advisory board, man power can be mobilized and trained in eight months for an army of 5,500,000 men.

LILLIN RELEASED ON $300 BOND TO KEEP PEACE

Literature Not Seditious Says Dist. Attorney

(Special to The Daily Worker)

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Joseph Lillin, member of the Hungarian Branch of the Workers' Party here, arrested the day before election for "distributing seditious literature," has been released under $300.00 bond "to keep the peace." The district attorney testified at Lillin's hearing that he found nothing seditious in the literature, which Lillin was arrested for distributing.

Attorney Wallerstein, defending Comrade Lillin, told the judge hearing the case that the action of the police was outrageous, un-American, and tended to create the impression that the United States government did not take the constitution seriously when it arrested a man who distributed leaflets asking people to vote for his candidate.

The officer who arrested Comrade Lillin then declared that he had arrested Lillin for "running away." It was admitted that if Lillin had sought the protection of the police he probably would not have received it.

Beaten in Restaurant.

Comrade Lillin was sitting in a restaurant on the day before election, and gave copies of the leaflet "The Workers' Rule or Capitalist Dictatorship" to two men sitting at the same table. They were loyal to their boss, and started to beat Lillin, who was over-powered and started out the door. The two "robots" started yelling for help and the police, instead of protecting Comrade Lillin, arrested him. He was placed under $1,000.00 bond. The policemen said they arrested Lillin because "there were many pickpockets in the neighborhood."

Philadelphia Again To See Russian Red Army Film, Friday

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 25.—Philadelphia comrades and sympathizers will again have the opportunity of seeing the Red Army maneuvering on the plains of Russia and putting into practice the Soviet decree of dividing the land among the peasants, and the splendid love story running thru the new Russian film "The Beauty and the Bolshevik."

Bucharin's famous book The A. B. C. of Communism, which plays a role in this picture will be on sale at the literature table in the Tyrian Hall, corr. Broad and Oxford Streets on Friday evening Nov. 28, the date of the picture showing.

Preceding the Beauty and the Bolshevik, another new film, "Russia in Overalls" will show some examples of the great strides our Russian comrades have made in rebuilding their industries, especially Kushas, the Pittsburgh of Siberia, will be shown in action, producing coal, iron, steel and locomotives for the Russian Workers' Republic.

Our friends are again requested to purchase their tickets in advance; Tickets are 35c. and can be bought at: DAILY WORKER Office 521 York Ave. Freiheit Office, 340 S. 5th St., Litvackoff's Drug Store, 10000 N. 43rd St.

GET READY FOR THE GRAND COSTUME BALL ON NEW YEAR'S EVE

December 31, 1924, New Year's Eve, the Jewish branch of the Workers Party will give a grand prize costume ball in the Labor Lyceum Auditorium.

Six valuable prizes will be divided for the six best costumes; two for beauty; two for ideas and two for originality. In addition to these prizes, three prizes for the best dancers; waltz, fox trot, and Russian cake walk will be given.

Spread this news among your friends and comrades, but above all begin to make your costume now. Good time assured to everybody.

Facts For Workers

By JAY LOVESTONE.

Growth of U. S. Military and Naval Expenditures:

Year	Army	Navy
1893	$ 49,641,773	$ 30,136,084
1898	91,922,000	58,823,104
1903	118,619,520	82,618,034
1908	137,746,524	118,037,097
1913	160,387,453	133,262,862
1917	440,276,880	257,166,437
1918	5,684,346,624	1,368,642,794
1919	9,253,059,384	2,009,272,389
1921	557,168,810	644,278,809
1923	355,722,850	322,532,908

The above indicated sharp decline in military and naval expenditures for the last two cited years is to be accounted for primarily by the fact that there is considerable war material left over for the navy and army from the years in which the budget was on an active belligerent basis. We should also judge on the basis of peace and not war years. If such supplies were not at hand in huge quantities, the army and navy budgets would appear to their true extent—much higher than the present figures.

From 1903-1922, inclusive, the United States spent $19,707,309,170 for army purposes and $7,380,948,970 for the navy—or a total of $27,088,258,140.

FARRINGTON PLANS ELECTION STEAL

(Continued from page 1)

vacancy in Illinois and the vice-president, Fishwick, will be moved up to the position of president and therefore make room for Senator Sneed as vice-president of the Illinois division.

Votes Were Stolen.

If Farrington had to depend on an honest election in Illinois he would never be elected. The very first time he was declared elected the vote was stolen and the same situation has obtained ever since. This time in order to confuse the issue as much as possible he has resorted to an old political trick by getting out a number of "dummies" whose names will appear on the ballot with the idea of confusing the voters and pulling votes away from John Hindmarch, the opposition candidate.

It is generally conceded that Farrington cannot carry the Springfield district or central Illinois so in order to muddy the water, the machine has placed on the ballot the name of Tom Londrigan whose son is on the payroll as attorney for the miners. Tom is an old timer at this game, having been used as a stalking horse on other occasions. Two years ago he ran claiming to hail from Staunton, but on investigation it was found that he had not been certified from Staunton and was on the ballot illegally. Some of the members thinking they were voting against Farrington, voted for Londrigan only to find he was placed there as a blind.

Stools On Ballot.

In the present election they have gone one farther by placing the names of two other dummies on the ballot. Matt Hutchinson of Kincaid, and Lance Walker of Springfield. This, it is supposed will confuse the issue and split the strength of Hindmarch and no doubt, it will have that effect with those uninformed on the situation. It is noticeable that all of these candidates are from the central part of the state where Farrington gets the most of his opposition. In the southern field where the payrollers are in large force no candidate is listed for Farrington as it is considered they can get enough crooked election tellers to control the situation.

The rather significant feature of the contest is the fact that one can comb Illinois with a fine tooth comb and not find a member who will admit he ever voted for Farrington, but he is always declared elected. Farrington openly boasts that if no one votes for him he will be the next president anyway. In his campaign four years ago, two years ago and again now makes the bold declaration that "I don't give a God damn whether you fellows vote for me or not. I'll be your next president anyway." He further stated recently in Christopher that "after awhile you fellows will get to like me and when I come here as your district president, eight or ten years from now you will have a good crowd to hear me" or words to that effect.

Farrington, Mine Owner.

This is an admission, that so long as he can control the election machinery he will still be the president. The job is well-worth going after now as it pays almost five hundred dollars per month and then Farrington knocks down enough in padded expense accounts to make the job pay him around a thousand dollars a month.

Farrington was never heard of in the miners' union like some others until it paid a good salary and the pickings on the side were good. He is also said to have gotten fifty thousand dollars' worth of stock in a certain coal company as it pays them to keep control of the official family in the miners' union. In addition to donating the stock the coal companies usually direct their agents to work for the re-election of Farrington and use their influence with the workers in their mines in his behalf.

New England Textiles Promises to Start Up With Wage Reduction

CLINTON, Mass., Nov. 25.—Following the precent of other large New England textile mills set upon the election of Coolidge and Dawes, the Lancaster Mills informed their workers that a 10 per cent wage-cut must be accepted. If the reduction is taken by the operatives on suggestion of employes' council, the manager ment claims it will resume full time, full force operation Dec. 1.

Discuss Amalgamation in France.

NEW YORK, Nov. 25—The amalgamation of unions in the textile and garment industries of France is the central problem of the coming congress of the Federation d'industrie des Industries du Vetement and de la Chapelleries de France and des Colonies, to which the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union of America has been invited to send representatives. Trade union solidarity, strike tactics, and other subjects not so frequently considered by American unions are on the agenda in addition to wage and hour questions.

Tel. 1632 S. Trumbull Ave.
Phone Rockwell 5050

MORDECAI SHULMAN
ATTORNEY-AT-LAW
701 Association Building
19 S. La Salle Street CHICAGO
Dearborn 8857 Central 4945-4947

FIRED BECAUSE HAD OPINIONS AGAINST WARS

Conversations with Shopmates Overheard

Because he ventured the opinion, in the hearing of the boss, that a war is brewing with Japan, and that the only interests at stake in this war, as in any other, are the interests of the capitalists of both countries, D. J. Spiegel, member of the of the Workers' Party in Chicago, was sworn at, threatened and finally fired from his job in the factory of the Western Garment company at 1301 Van Buren street.

Comrade Spiegel a few days ago took part in a discussion which arose among the workers in the shop during the short half-hour which the company allows for lunch. Since there is no time for the workers to go out they take their lunch inside the shop, and their conversations receive the careful attention of straw bosses and dicks. When the question of Japanese immigration arose Comrade Spiegel, without mentioning party affiliation, tried to suggest to the workers that they would have nothing to gain from a foreign war, even were that war victorious.

Fired By Yellow Socialist.

Comrade Spiegel was approached at work next morning by the straw boss Sam Minsky, popularly known among the Western garment workers as "the slave-driver." Minsky was formerly a member of the socialist party who has gone the way of hundreds of other "socialists" before him.

"You filthy Communist! You beastly anarchist!" shrieked Minsky in a voice that could be heard to the furthest corner of the room. "I heard what you said about Japan. You're fired."

Sweat Shop Wages.

And Comrade Spiegel was forthwith fired. True, it was not much of a job. The pay was $16 a week. The hours were from 9:30 in the morning to 5:30 at night with but half an hour for lunch. The shop is filthy in the extreme as dust of years. And the bosses have consistently crushed every attempt at organization among the workers.

Philippine Sugar Slaves Revolt.

MANILA, Nov. 25.—The sugar magnates called out the constabulary to shoot down striking Filipino workers from the American Sugar Central on the island of Mindoro, according to reports that reached here late today. The workers of the sugar refineries are the poorest paid and most exploited.

New York Workers' School. Register Now—208 E. 12th St.

PITTSBURGH, PA.
DR. RASNICK
DENTIST
Rendering Expert Dental Service for 20 Years.
645 SMITHFIELD ST., Near 7th Ave.
1437 CENTRE AVE., Cor. Arthur St.

RUBBER STAMPS AND SEALS
IN ENGLISH AND IN ALL FOREIGN LANGUAGES
INK, PADS, DATERS, RUBBER TYPE, Etc.
NOBLER STAMP & SEAL CO.
524 So. Dearborn Street
Phone Wabash 6680
CHICAGO
MAIL ORDERS PROMPTLY ATTENDED TO

SECOND PHILADELPHIA SHOWING
Of the New Russian Art Film

THE BEAUTY AND THE BOLSHEVIK

"A Romance of the Russian Red Army"

will be held

FRIDAY EVENING, NOV 28, 1924

TYRIAN HALL, N. W. Cor. Broad and Oxford Streets

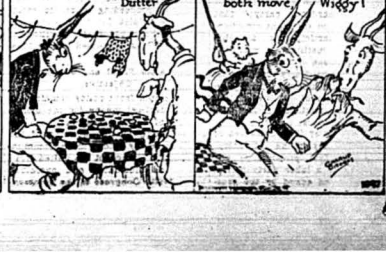
TWO SHOWS—6:30 and 8:45 P. M.

TICKETS, 35 CENTS—On sale at Workers Party Office, 521 York Ave., Freiheit Office, 340 S. 5th St., Litvakoff's Drug Store, 1000 N. 43rd Street.

Auspices, Workers Party.

UNCLE WIGGILY'S TRICKS

A LAUGH FOR THE CHILDREN



THE DAILY WORKER

Published by the DAILY WORKER PUBLISHING CO.
1113 W. Washington Blvd., Chicago, Ill.
(Phone: Monroe 4712)

SUBSCRIPTION RATES

By mail:
$6.00 per year $3.50 6 months $2.00 3 months

By mail (in Chicago only):
$8.00 per year $4.50 6 months $2.50 3 months

Address all mail and make out checks to
THE DAILY WORKER
1113 W. Washington Blvd. Chicago, Illinois

J. LOUIS ENGDAHL, Editors
WILLIAM F. DUNNE,
MORTIE J. LOEB, Business Manager

Entered as second-class mail Sept. 21, 1923, at the Post-Office at Chicago, Ill., under the act of March 3, 1879.

190 Advertising rates on application

The Men Who Make Bread

Bread!

Everyone eats it, but only bakers make it. The work is done in a hot and unhealthy atmosphere and the wages of unorganized bakers are unbelievably low.

The profits of the industry are extremely high because bread is a necessity, the market is inexhaustible and labor is cheap. There has just been organized a continental bread trust that controls production in 33 of the largest cities, but the Bakers' Union is extremely weak and its organization campaigns have not been successful although it is a semi-industrial organization taking in all workers in the bakery and confectionary trades. Once it was a militant organization but of late years it has succumbed to Gomperism and lost most of its fighting spirit.

The fighting spirit of the bosses is on the increase and their power is immensely greater than it was a few years ago so that organization is more than ever necessary.

What is wrong with the bakers? In a light industry of this kind, producing a necessity whose scarcity is felt at once, why is there so little organization?

Because the Bakers' Union by entering upon a policy of "getting along with the boss," killed off the initiative of the membership, corrupted the leadership and ruined the organization. It is only one example of the fate that overtakes any section of the workers that listen to the siren song of identity of interest between robber and robbed.

The bakers will discover, as the trustification of the industry proceeds, that instead of class collaboration they must adopt the Communist policy and tactics—constant struggle and industrial unionism based on shop committees.

Little But Important

A window cleaners' strike probably seems more like something for the forge of the funnysmiths than a part of the class struggle. Maybe it was at one time.

But in New York City where the great structures that house toiling millions tower skyward and constitute one of the world's wonders, the window cleaners are on strike. In miniature this strike duplicates the whole struggle of the American working class. The employers who once competed are now organized in an association. They have their private detectives and their gunmen. In the strike the city police take the side of the employers. The offices of the union are raided and its active workers arrested.

The union gets little support because it is separated from the rest of the workers as are most of the American unions. It fights its own battle well, its members exhibiting the courage that is shown in every strike, but it faces not only its own bosses but the whole employing class.

This is one of the unfailing symptoms of the growing intensity of the class struggle—that every strike, no matter how small, becomes a struggle, not only with the individual capitalist but first with associations of capitalists and then with the physical force instruments of the capitalist state whose role is that of a savior of capitalism as against the working class which is forced to fight it.

We hope the window cleaners clean the bosses and that they learn the real lessons of the struggle. Strikes in which these lessons are neglected, are never won no matter what the immediate concessions to the workers are.

The Hopeful Hoover

Herbert Hoover, the archangel of the American babbittry, has just sent out a report compiled by his personally conducted department of commerce. The report is rather optimistic and might even be described as a glowing forecast of the opportunities for plundering the workers of this nation.

It is not this phase of the report that interests us just now although we take issue with Herbert on his estimate of the chances for increasing prosperity. His figures point out an important fact altho he does not mention it. It is that in 1924 there was a 15 per cent greater production in all lines of industry than in 1919 altho THERE WAS A REDUCTION IN WORKING FORCES OF 12 PER CENT.

In other words, due to increased efficiency thru speeding up the workers and the introduction of improved machinery unemployment increased in the greatest boom period this country has ever witnessed.

Here is some food for thought by those deluded beings who contend that the salvation of the working class depends upon the stabilization of capitalism and increased production.

Unrest in Egypt

It appears extremely likely that the smoldering revolt in Egypt will soon burst into a flame that will threaten the whole British colonial empire. British imperialism, at the cheap cost of the life of one "sirdar," repudiates its agreement to the "independence" of Egypt, a promise which of course was never intended to be kept, and openly throws the hangman's noose again around the neck of Egypt. And Egypt flames into rebellion.

Most persons are too naive to believe that Britain's agents instigated the assassination of this fellow whose ordinary carcass is covered with the awe-inspiring title of "Major General Sir Lee Stack,"—but it is strange that always at the precise moment when an excuse is needed to seize an empire, a convenient agent is "assassinated" and the assassination always results in the seizure of what is wanted. In China an immense field was coveted by world-capital—and the necessary missionaries were conveniently violated, and the armies entered and conquered in the "Boxer war" economic advantages for those who had sent the missionaries to China. American oil companies found "Christian Armenians" suffering precisely along the line of the Batum-to-Baku petroleum pipeline. More recently Persian oil became tempting, and the American diplomatic agent Imbrie was killed, strangely in company with an agent of Standard Oil. Again China becomes the center of capitalist covetousness, and "disorder" calls for battleships.

And now it is Egypt.

One is inclined to wonder whether the recent change in the British government had anything to do by way of preparation for the immediately following assassination of Stack, so completely coincident with the growing need of an excuse to take Egypt into a stronger strangulation. Surely the MacDonald "labor" government would have been willing humbly to serve in the strangling of Egypt, as it was in the case of India. Maybe its doing so would have spoiled MacDonald's democratic pose—thus injuring a mask that British capitalism will need more urgently at a future time.

But the murderous assault upon a nation which is now about to begin in Egypt will not be a simple affair. Remember Turkey! Her strangulation was not a success. Remember the present-day up-surging in China! Remember India—oh, British imperialists! Light the match in Egypt, then watch the results. Far more than half the population of the world is in Asia and Africa—"inferior" peoples suffering under the iron heel of European and American capitalist imperialism. And everywhere they have a new hope, and some tendency to arm themselves.

You must have many armies, imperialist England! Are you sure you can afford several wars at once that may involve more than a half billion of "inferior" peoples"—such as the Turks were?

Communists should watch closely the events in the colonies. Many are inclined to underrate the importance of these affairs as a major factor in relation to the world proletarian revolution. But the Communist International does not. Did Britain's re-discovered irritation with the Communist International's activities have anything to do with the impending assault on Egypt?

Where is the "stabilization of capitalism"? Is the proletarian revolution so far away, after all? Will its development be unaffected by these fast-developing colonial upheavals? No.

Cossacks Against Girl Strikers

State constabulary, the skillfully trained specialists in the murder of workers, have been ordered out to break the strike of girl textile workers in Williamstown, Pennsylvania.

This is the state in which the labor bureaucrats aided Gifford Pinchot to become governor and in the campaign which elected him the state constabulary and their strikebreaking role, was a major issue. Pinchot is still there, so are the cossacks, and so are the labor fakirs.

The class struggle is also present in a more intense form as shown by the callous brutality of a state power that mobilizes its degenerates to prevent underpaid girls obtaining a slight advance in wages.

What price liberalism in an era of imperialism?

Several years have passed since Len Small, governor of this sovereign state got away with between one and two million dollars of state funds. The courts have now politely requested him to give an accounting of the funds in his charge while he was state treasurer. Len may be entitled to an old age pension by the time this case gets to the supreme court.

Lots of exitment at the opium conference in Geneva, Switzerland. There is profit in manufacturing and selling the drug. But the business has a bad name so the christian powers are trying to get around it, without eliminating the profit. Britain forced the drug curse on India at the point of the sword. Yet England is a virtuous nation.

Mr. Gompers, sad to relate, had to leave the convention hall at El Paso temporarily, in order to attend a banquet in his honor by the Chamber of Commerce, at which he delivered a speech. This is an old habit with Sam, he will leave the union and its interests, too, behind, to banquet with the bosses.

A British officer is killed in Egypt and the British government threatens reprisals. This may provide a good excuse to take back whatever concession the empire was obliged to make to the Egyptians

The Golden Geyser -

By Robert Minor

"A new era of prosperity that promises to surpass anything that this country has ever seen is actually dawning," cries the Chicago "Investment News" across the prairies of the West. And the Chicago Tribune prints headlines of $110,000,000 Profit for John D. Jr., in Wall Street Boom." The Chicago "Economist" raises its Western he-man voice to say that "Whatever degree or dissatisfaction there may be in the existing business situation:

"Possibly not in the last twenty-five years has the horizon appeared so free of even the suggestion of dark clouds, especially of a political or financial tint, as at the present moment." Brokers of the big financial houses are adding tens and scores of millions to the rewards of their labor at the work of owning stocks.

The "Golden Geyser," it is being called by the Wall Street denizens.

The Golden Geyser spouts warm, yellow, molten gold. It began to sprout at the moment of the announcement of the election of Coolidge. Business confidence, they say, caused it to begin—confidence in the safeguarding of profits at home and the stabilization of European conditions with the grant on fist of Morgan clothed in the silken glove of Dawes. "We are out of danger!" shout the average men of Wall Street.

But geysers are of volcanic nature.

Hot burning lava is in the bowels of that volcano.

From the depths of Wall Street itself, to which Chicago's State Street is as the main thorofare of Gopher Prairie—sounds the dignified and awful voice of the "Annalist."

"In attempting to judge the prospect for business in the near future, it is necessary to a just appraisal of the situation to choose soundly between the obvious and superficial 'hurrah boys' attitude which is just now largely prevalent, and the less exciting and spectacular alternative of consulting things as they are." The Annalist refers sarcastically to "the confidence party."

The Magazine of Wall Street says: "The fact that these interests (large operators) have been unloading in a wholesale way indicates to us that the stock market outlook is not as favorable as the public is leading itself to believe." It also says:

"Since President Coolidge's election there has been a widespread attempt to make it appear that a business boom is in prospect. As much as this is to be desired, it is nevertheless true that examination of current conditions with an eye toward a reasonable view of the future indicates that no such thing as a boom is in sight. It is well for business men and investors to take a calm view of the situation, lest in being unduly influenced by the extravagant optimism of the hour they forget that many problems have yet to be solved before a period of general prosperity can set in."

The optimistic school of thought, says the Annalist, believes "that the present level of stock prices reflects an industrial condition which does not, in fact, exist. This school points to the high operating costs in industry at present, to the irregularities of the general situation, to the measure of unemployment now evident in this country and to the fact that forward buying, at least in the immediate past, has not been of the sustained character calculated greatly to improve the ratios of operation."

Overbought Railroad Stocks.

It seems to be agreed that the boom got its start among railroad stocks. The Annalist gave a political account of this in its issue of Nov. 17:

"Trading in railroad stocks in the last eight days has represented about 40 per cent of the business transacted on the New York stock exchange; under ordinary circumstances this percentage is less than 20 per cent . . ." Continuing later "in other words Wall Street believes that the socialists, the 'reds' and the 'Pinks' as well as the obstructionists, have been dealt a blow by the conservative landslide here and in England from which they will not recover for many years. This has been the main incentive to big markets, and particularly to big railway markets. The opinion is widely expressed in our financial districts and in railroad circles that now the railroads will be left entirely alone to work out their own salvation without being obliged to defend themselves from hostile and sometimes detrimental legislation."

Steel a Basis?

The almost illiterate "investment News" of Chicago, which likes to oppose what it calls "nationalism of the railroads" (meaning nationalization), as not least of the indications of the "new era of prosperity" mentions "the larger output in the steel industry," etc., naming also copper and construction and "general optimistic sentiment."

But the Annalist remarks that the increase in the unfilled orders of the steel corporation "was distinctly not a boom element. It was not merely only half of the increase in September, but it was the smallest upward movement since September, 1921. If the Iron Age is to be credited, this comparatively small gain reflects the failure of steel buying to perform the post-election leap which had been expected of it." And the magazine of Wall Street remarks: "Conditions in the steel trade are extremely erratic, with an entire lack of mixed conditions thruout the country."

Cheap Money—"Unemployed Capital."

Another basis of the cry of capitalist optimism is "cheap money." The New York Journal of Commerce says in a warning spirit that "There is a large surplus of unused gold in the country and money rates are very low."

In Barron's Financial Weekly of New York, the "trader" writes that "There is hardly an important voice in the Street that dares to contradict the universal view of a new and magical era . . . The first and most important factor that has been at work since last spring is cheap money. Putting it another way, it is low-cost capital. . ."

The Annalist cuts into the "cheap money" optimism with the staggering suggestion that the existence of abundant low rate funds which made speculation profitable was somehow related to "the absence of large opportunities for profitable employment of more funds in trade and industry." "The sounder view," it says, "of the business significance of active and rising stock markets is pretty certainly not that they are forecasters of better business but that they are the evidence of preceding declines in business."

Capitalist Restoration.

And when it all boils down, we find at the bottom a fundamental tenet of the faith of capitalism—that World Capitalism can be restored. Everywhere and all times, any estimate of coming American conditions is an estimated of world conditions. For instance, Barron's Weekly says:

"The second fundamental factor is the real financial habilitation of Europe. The reparations problem has been solved, the English debt funded and the remaining big step to be accomplished was the adjustment of the inter-allied war debts . . ."

The Annalist emphasizes that:

"Another factor of importance, not unconsidered by the stock market, is the fact that the Dawes' plan has gone into effect abroad; that a $200,000,000 loan to Germany has been successfully floated, and that Europe appears on its way to political pacification." Later it refers to the optimists' theory being based partly on the belief "that our international trade will increase rapidly with the next year or so, thus taking up the surplus of goods not now sold abroad."

The "Financial World" of New York, claiming to feel "that there is a real basis for general business improvement," adds that "there is the feeling that at last we are about to emerge from the conditions traceable to the world war and its effects. The title has turned in the affairs of Europe. The Dawes' plan is functioning, and the recent triumphs of the conservative party in England tends to encourage confidence."

Any theory to the effect that the rise in stocks forecasts a reaching of "normalcy"—a period of development of capitalism of the pre-war type—is a theory of international restoration of capitalism. It is a theory basic to the social-democratic parties of Europe, who have united for the first time cohesively in what might be called the "Dawes' International"—a veritable socialist salvation army of faith in the restoration of world capitalism thru the plan of Mr. Morgan's Mr. Dawes. The faith is faith in capitalism itself, and where it is not hypocrisy hiding treason, it is idiocy. The best possible face is being put onto the situation by the organs of Wall Street. The estimates of these organs can to some extent be taken seriously when they make confessions and deem it necessary to issue warnings. The more "responsible" of these organs make no further claim than that, as the Annalist says: "The course of trade and industry is upward, but with a slow and very uneven progress." The "slow and very uneven progress" is really the favored fiction of a general process of decline.

The "many problems . . . yet to be solved," mentioned by the Magazine of Wall Street—well, that means that between us and the will-o'-the-wisp of "normalcy" lies the war with China—the real world war—and revolution.

The Annalist says: "It ought to be well-known to every business man, and is known to many, that our industrial producing plant is in nearly every direction very much larger than is needed for the steady supply of our domestic needs . . . With every allowance for confidence and optimism, the hard fact remains that we cannot absorb our own maximum output, and cannot market abroad the surplus over home consumption that spells real prosperity."

The New York Journal of Commerce is quoted:

"Such a condition existed shortly after the world war and culminated in the panic and depression of 1920-1921. At the present moment we have abundant material for bringing on a like state of affairs."

Those who are not doped with illusion know that the contradictions of capitalism have not been solved but tremendously sharpened by the world war—that the breakdown of capitalism was not repaired but its hopelessness was made doubly sure by the "peace" treaty, and that the invasion of Europe with the Dawes' plan is but the preparation for a vaster world war with a final, blood-letting drive of imperialism to solve a problem which cannot be solved by capitalist-imperialism.

Gather your stock profits, men of Wall Street! In fact you are speculating in the purely gambling phase for the very reason that industrial investment does not promise an attractive return.

Underneath the Golden Geyser lies the searing, burning lava of the volcano.

Five Years of Chicago Society for Tech. Aid to Soviet Russia

By M. A. SKROMNY.

The Chicago Society for Technical Aid to Soviet Russia was organized in November, 1919, at the suggestion of Comrade L. M. Martens, representative of the Soviet government to this country. Russia at that time was isolated, blockaded and invaded by almost every "civilized" country that claimed they were fighting "to make the world safe for democracy." The press of these "civilized" countries, including the United States, kept up and to a great extent is still keeping up a barrage of lies about the revolution and Russia. By this time most of the readers have learned the truth and are not so easy fooled by such yarns as the "nationalization of women and children" etc.

In the meantime within the borders of Russia a death and life struggle was going on between the Communists on one side and the czarists, white guards, social-democrats, social-revolutionists, anarchists and plain bandits on the other. The enemies of the revolution sabotaged all attempts to revive production. There wasn't much time to do it any way as all the energy of the government was taken up by the production of ammunition for defense. Even before the war Russia was not a developed country. One could find machinery imported from every country in any city. With the blockade most of the factories were forced to shut down as they were unable to procure parts which were worn out. The technicians, the "intelligentsia," as a rule deserted the factories as they considered it an insult to be the employes of plain workers who took over the factories.

These were the conditions under which the society was organized. At that time Russia needed most of all technicians, mechanics who could be depended upon to serve the country, the workers and the peasants and their government, the Soviet government.

The Russian colony in this country was also split up into many factions. With the organization of the society most of these factions disappeared. The mass of the workers and peasants joined it. It was a question of helping Russia not only because it was "our country," but because it was the country of the social revolution. The second revolution since the Paris Commune which attempted to destroy the system of exploitation, which took away the land from the "pomieschik," the rich land owner and turned it over to the peasants, which took over the factories and turned them over to the workers for the benefit of the nation. Besides that the country, the revolution was being attacked from all sides by "peaceful" and "civilized" murderers, as no war was declared against it by the so-called civilized countries.

Members of different factions and parties joined the society, as it has been and still is a non-party organization. The aims of the organization as stated in the by-laws, are:

Aims of the Organization.

a. Registration and organization of all technical, industrial and professional forces in America who are willing to go to Soviet Russia for the purpose of helping the Russian Socialist Federal Soviet Republic in the work of reconstruction on the basis of Communist Socialism.

b. Preparation of the forces with the aim of utilizing them to the best advantage in Soviet Russia.

c. Anyone engaged in industrial technical or professional work who recognizes the constitution of the Russian Socialist Federal Republic and is willing to go to Soviet Ru sia may be accepted as a member of the society.

